Public officials hit for $3.6 million in civil rights suit

By Griffin B. Cole
DRN Editor

MIDLAND - A verdict returned by a U.S. District Court jury awarded Mary Turner $3.6 million dollars as a result of violations of her constitutional rights.

Included in the judgement for Turner is $1.5 million from 112th Judicial District Attorney J.W. Johnson Jr., $1.5 million from former Upton County Sheriff Glenn Willeford, $500,000 from Upton County and $100,000 from Walter Woolf Jr.

Former Upton County Deputy Larry Jackson was dismissed from the suit.

The civil rights case is the result of a 1987 trial that followed her arrest on drug charges in August of 1985.

Ray McKim, attorney for Turner, said he was pleased with the verdict which wrapped up 2 1/2 to 3 years of work on the case.

McKim said they, he and attorney John Gunter, proved to the jury Johnson and Willeford conspired to get Woolf to plant the drugs in Turner's store. They also claimed Upton County did not provide adequate safeguards for insuring Willeford did not abuse the system.

Upton County Judge Peggy Garner said, "We are appealing..."

"In the first place we don't feel we are guilty of conspiring to plant drugs," said Garner. "We also don't believe Mr. Johnson or Mr. Willeford are guilty either."

Garner said Upton County would pursue an appeal even if the cost of such action exceeds the

The awarding of $3.6 million in U.S. District Court to a former Upton County resident could put other county governments on the alert. Upton County, one of four defendants in the Civil Rights lawsuit of Mary Turner, would have to make good on $500,000 in judgements against them should an appeal fail.

That does not mean Upton County has not yet felt the effects. County Judge Peggy Garner said, "Already the cost is in excess of $70,000. That's before we get to the trial."

Garner added that their attorney's fees have yet to be included. Then there are the damages which were awarded which included Turner's attorney fees and court costs among others.

Sutton County Judge Carla Fields contends the deep pockets theory kicks in during lawsuits where public entities are involved.

"Everybody knows they (counties) are the ones with the money," said Fields. "We carry liability insurance for things (lawsuits) like that."

But, Fields said coverage is various amounts in different departments. When a judgement is reached for more than what insurance may cover the difference is going to be levelled on the public in the form of increased property tax.

"There is still a question as to whether Upton County is part of (the lawsuit)," said Fields.

An original ruling stated Upton County could not be sued for damages in the Turner lawsuit. That ruling was overturned about a year ago.

damages awarded.

"(Upton County) doesn't want the reputation of settling when we aren't guilty. It would invite lawsuits at a drop of the hat," said Garner.

According to Garner Upton County damages to Turner include $200,000 for loss of income, and $150,000 each for mental anguish and public ridicule and embarrassment.

Johnson said an appeal can be expected on his part as well. Johnson said he is still determining whether his appeal would be joined with the other defendants or separate.

The appeal would be before the 5th Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans.

PEACE MARCH - Members of Saint Ann's Catholic Church march for peace on the night of the United Nation's deadline for Iraq to leave Kuwait or face military action. Little did the marchers know that the next day (Jan. 16) war would begin in the Middle East as coalition forces began bombing of Iraq and Kuwait.

Drug trials scheduled to resume

Time continues to be the biggest factor as the drug trials, shelved since late last summer, are expected to start up in the next week.

Eriberto "Beto" Bernal, Ernesto Ramirez and Pete Don Lopez are scheduled to stand trial on drug-related charges in the 112th Judicial District court.

All three were arrested in March of 1989 during a drug raid which netted 14 arrests all on drug charges.

District court in Sonora was stalled Monday as bad weather prevented attorneys not from town to make it. A further delay occurred Tuesday when conflicting scheduling prevented 112th Judicial District Judge Brock Jones from making it to Sonora.

Potential jurors were called to the courthouse Tuesday morning where roll was called by Sutton County Clerk Bobbie Smith. The jurors were then informed they should return Thursday at 10 a.m.

Meanwhile, 112th Judicial District Attorney J.W. Johnson Jr. was expected to be in San Antonio Wednesday for the appeal of Jose Galindo.

Galindo was found guilty of delivery of a controlled substance Oct. 27, 1989 and sentenced to 99 years.

Galindo's attorney, Domingo Garcia of Dallas, said the appeal is based on three points of error: jury selection, failure to release evidence to the defense counsel and improper mention of a second charge.

Oral arguments before the 4th Court of Appeals in San Antonio was scheduled to begin Wednesday afternoon.

The trials of Bernal, Ramirez and Lopez are scheduled to take place following the appeal. Carl Harris, found guilty on one count of delivery of a controlled substance in August 1990, is also scheduled to be sentenced.

GETTING ARMED - This Sonora youngster took advantage of the snow shower Monday to have a snowball fight downtown with a friend. The Devil's River News caught him in the act of building a snowball from snow still left in the potted plant. While the snow built up to about a 1/4-inch during the morning, by late afternoon most of it was gone. Sonora has had two measurable snowfalls this winter, with the first coming in December.

A sight to behold

Riva's timing was impeccable. I was a little down due to war breaking out in the Middle East last week, but my dog Riva saved the day.

Returning home from work Thursday evening a funny noise reached my ears before the door could be opened. Once inside the sound was explained.

There, behind a chair, were eight puppies yelling for more milk from Riva.

Later that night, while sitting in a chair listening to the latest news from the war in the Middle East, a strange feeling dawned on me.

There I was sitting and listening to a war and right behind me were some newborn puppies. The contradiction of the moment was very difficult to comprehend. In a way I was saddened, while at the same time I really wanted to be very happy and just enjoy looking at the puppies.

I didn't feel I should be happy because of the war and yet it couldn't be helped. The enjoyment received from the puppies was able to lift many problems plaguing me at that particular moment.

After following the war so closely for a good 24 hours it was kind of nice to catch a break and watch the puppies grow.

As has been said, timing is everything and fortunately Riva had perfect timing.

Can you be seen?

If you are involved in jogging, walking, or bicycling, think about the clothing you wear, not for looks but safety.

Accidents can happen because you cannot be easily seen by drivers of automobiles. It is especially critical for you to be seen at dusk or when it is dark. Also, remember foggy days limit a motorist's visibility.

Whether or not you can be seen depends on how much the colors in your clothing contrast and if you are wearing light colors. In addition, adding a small piece of reflective tape will make you more visible to others. Wear colors that contrast with the background you will be seen against.

During the day the color you wear is most important. Be sure to wear light colors, also these reflect light so you will feel cooler. Think about the colors that fire fighters and traffic control people wear--bright, bright yellow-green, bright orange or bright yellow. These colors can easily be seen, which is important in their line of work.

At night, wear colors that contrast with the dark of night. Never wear dark colors. Select something light such as white.

Also, think about having retroreflective material on your shoes and garments, especially the arm or leg areas. These retroreflective materials capture the light and direct it back, so it will be easier for someone to see you when you are jogging, walking or bicycling.

If you don't have light or reflective color garments, buy some reflective tape to add to your "fitness" garments. You want to stay fit, but you can also want to be safe. Wear highly visible clothing so you can be easily seen.

A Christmas Calorie: Say 'Bah Humbug' to Fat of Christmas Past

There is nothing festive about fat. Too bad, because fat never misses a holiday. Starting with the leftover Halloween treats and building momentum toward Thanksgiving and Christmas, nothing surpasses the abundance of the holidays.

Except, maybe, our weight at the end of it.

Temptation is everywhere. From the workplace to family get-togethers, including the rush of obligatory business and social cocktail parties and dinners, food is most often the center of activity. And not just "normal" food, but rich food...fattening food. Cheeses, nuts, dips, honey-baked ham, candied yams, turkey, cornbread stuffing and gravy, egg nog, and dessert liqueurs. And let's not forget the pumpkin pies and whipped cream. "It's all right," your tummy asserts, "you can wash it down with a diet Coke."

The indulgence of Christmas Past comes spilling out of our new clothes to haunt Christmas Present. With all that temptation, it's tough to keep from becoming fatter than Scrooge's gift goose.

The trek to prominent cheekbones

There's good reason to worry about your weight during the holidays: the average weight gain is five to seven pounds. For people with weight problems, gaining six to 12 pounds is not uncommon. There is a lot of stress involved in the holidays, and a very common way for people to try to cope with it is to overeat. Family traditions revolve around eating a lot of high-fat food throughout the holidays: eating together has become an expression of love and family closeness.

Overeating is socially acceptable during the holidays and, in fact, is almost expected. Even people who have had weight problems in the past are usually encouraged to over-eat during the holidays. It's a sign of caring and loving (and being part of the group).

There are several other factors that conspire against us to make gaining weight a "piece of cake." Shorter daylight hours and colder weather rob us of precious after-work time to walk, jog or bicycle. Inside, the social climate heats up, offering us a virtual smorgasbord of office parties, family gatherings, bowl games, and New Year's festivities, each of which taunt us with rich food and alcohol aimed squarely at melting our resolve.

To compound the problem, the classic holiday fare is loaded with fat. Because fat is so well...fattening (an ounce of oil or butter has twice the calories contained in an ounce of protein or carbohydrates), it's easy to overload on this concentrated source of calories. And once you've exceeded the calories your body needs for the day, the excess pounds start adding up.

In addition to traditional fat-laden feasts, the sugary treats that characterize holiday snacking are also foods most likely to trigger overindulgence. Sweets increase your blood sugar, which causes your pancreas to produce insulin to bring it back to normal. But insulin also stimulates your appetite...so it's a vicious cycle.

But by no means are you doomed to put on extra weight.

From maxies to missiles

Have you ever wondered why a guy would rather be whipped, dragged through hot coals and hung by the toes, rather than go into a market and purchase female hygienic products? It's true. Few men will nonchalantly walk up to a check-out stand with a box of feminine napkins in hand.

Most will imagine the worst. They quake in mortal fear at the thought of the clerk looking in astonishment at the package and staring at them with questionable concern. Then, she lifts the package high above her head and yells, "Hey Mabel, I need a price on a package of ten Maxi Pads!" Instantly, they are reduced to a lump of jelly and look around for a crack in which to crawl.

Come on, guys! In the first place, if check-out clerks think such items are for you, they've got a problem. In the second, they would come unwrapped in plain brown paper if there was good reason for embarrassment.

Though the subject is highly personal and I've just handled it rather brazenly, they are a very reputable line of products for a very natural biological condition. There is absolutely no need to be embarrassed the next time you find yourself in the situation.

I don't know how many times the subject has popped up in discussions with male friends. Inevitably, the majority of those present have quickly offered their objections with nervous laughs and reddening faces. Though most accept this as a normal reaction, it is an excellent example of how we are controlled by our emotions while completely disregarding good common sense.

The emotion of embarrassment is powerful and can instantly strip us of confidence and motivation, and deter our ability to achieve any given objective. It can even cause us to ignore the rights of others. Such is the case when one might contract some "unmentionable" disease and not seek professional help because of his disgrace. More serious results occur when those who have some life threatening disorder and will not inform those they have unwittingly infected. This is the folly of allowing such an emotion to out-weigh rational thinking.

Now, we find ourselves involved in a war with Iraq because Saddam Hussein, driven partly by emotions and the need to save face, would not compromise with the United Nations and Arab neighbors. Dissenters would have us believe this conflict emerged from a lust of oil. Maybe, on Hussein's part, when he first invaded Kuwait. Not so, as far as the United States and the Allied Coalition is concerned. Human rights violations and the threat to the world economy as a result of his imperialistic tendency must be addressed. War seems the only recourse in which to halt his blatant disregard and gain his attention.

This war has more to do with emotions than it does oil. With a little logical deduction, we can see how a basic emotion has evolved into a situation that even the Badman of Baghdad cannot handle. From the first night when millions felt elation at the pounding received by the Iraqi capital to the depression we felt while listening to the POW's, all of our feelings have been stimulated. In one way or another, we have felt the brunt of armed conflict.

Unlike previous wars, the war in the Middle East finds its way into our living spaces, as it happens. The emotions conveyed by those reporting have told a profound story that we will long remember. Actual accounts and objective reporting is lacking in accuracy but they seem secondary to the real message, "War is hell!"

We cannot live our lives and endure our struggles without feeling something. The human being is engineered with a wide range of emotional devices that are responsible for the highs and lows, and the ups and downs of living. Nevertheless, if we allow them to dictate our actions and control the manner in which we relate with one another, they will literally destroy us. Like money, oil, missiles and bombs, if we do not control them, they will control us.

So, the next time one of you guys is in the store and feeling hesitant about purchasing women's hygienic products; remember the mess that Saddam Hussein got himself into.

Focus on education

Final payment - high school

On October 27, 1983 the community of Sonora passed a bond issue for the purpose of constructing a new high school. The amount of the bond was 6 million dollars with a 7 year payoff period. The President of the Board of Trustees was Jimmy Condra, Secretary was Scott Shurley, and other members were Kenneth Cayce, Dr. Johnny Fields, Sam Perez, Sammie Stewart, and Carl Teaff.

The final payment of $1,187,000 will be made on February 1, 1991 and the Sonora I. S. D. will become debt free. The high school facility is certainly one of the most outstanding high schools of its size in Texas and has proven to be a very usable facility.

The members of the 1983 School Board as well as the entire community deserve special recognition for providing our students with such an outstanding facility. The board members' foresight and their willingness to stand firm in their commitment to our young people will always be remembered and admired.

Honoring a friend or loved one has never been easier.

We invite you to . . .

GIVE US A

We're not asking for applause. We're asking you to help us spot anything that looks amiss along our many miles of electric lines and poles. Weather conditions or accidents — and unfortunately sometimes vandals — can dislodge or break a pole or cause wires to sag or break. Since we can't check every mile of line every day, you can be a big help by contacting us immediately if you see anything that needs our attention. Our linemen will soon be on the way to make the necessary repairs to keep our system safe and dependable. And you can be sure that when you give us a hand your help and cooperation will win our grateful applause.

News from Saudi

The following letter was sent to Mr. and Mrs. Gene Shurley from Drake Shurley who is stationed in Saudi Arabia.

Dear Gene & Midge,

Greetings from Saudi Arabia! How are ya'll doing? I'm doing fine, tired, but fine. Today I received the quarter horse journal you sent, and I greatly appreciate it. Reading material and food seem to be in shortage around here, but that is ordinary in a Infantry base camp! Right now we are presently, 30 miles south of Kuwait on the major pipeline that runs from Kuwait. We are living pretty much on the ground, and out of water jug's. I dream of the ranch and family it seems nightly, the old brush country is alot more homey than this old dried up beach!

But as we stand here today, we realize we have a job to do, and we are ready to do it! But in the word's of General Omar Bradley "No one prays for peace, more than the soldier does!" I'm scared to think that I could die here, but you try to think as if you were getting on the plane tomorrow. I know my job better, than I have ever known it, and I take it much more seriously than before!

I have no doubts that we are going to kick the Iraqi's Ass all over Kuwait and back to Iraq. We are all hard and tough, the desert has away of doing that to a person!

General Colin Powell stopped and talked to us Christmas Eve, and said "No slack for Iraq, show them what American Boy's are known for!" We plan too!

How was Christmas, I'm sure it was a nice one! I hated to miss it, oh well I'll definitely make it next year!

I hear Sonora had a terrific football season this year, that's great!

Well I will close for now, but I will be sure to stay in touch!

No Slack!

Love,
Drake

Anyone wishing to send greetings to Drake can do so by writing him at the following address: PFC Drake Shurley, 451-81-7220, D. co 3-15 Inf., Operation Desert Storm, APO New York 09315.

Seventh-grade splits contests

The Sonora Lady Colts seventh-grade basketball team picked up two wins in four outings last week.

The Lady Colts finished third in a tournament over the weekend at McCamey which featured teams from Rankin, Big Lake and Stanton, Ozona and Iraan along with Sonora and McCamey.

Balanced scoring and strong defense helped Sonora defeat Iraan 20-18 to take third place. Six Lady Bronccs scored with Betty Samanigo tallying six points to lead the team. Other scorers included Elaine Ortiz with five, Laura Purvis three and Lilly Trevino, Megan Mayer and Tonni Balas each with two.

Sonora made it to the consolation game after defeating Big Lake "A" team 33-17 in the opener and then falling to Ozona 26-25 in the second game.

The Lady Colts played very well as a team in the opener said coach Carol Sessom.

"(They) showed a lot of improvement from their first meeting with Big Lake," Sessom said.

Sonora jumped to a 15-8 halftime lead then held Big Lake scoreless in the third quarter to extend the lead to 21-8. The Lady Colts then unleashed the offense, scoring 12 points in the fourth quarter, to prevent any comeback.

Lilly Trevino hit double-figures with 11 points to lead the Lady Colts. Betty Samiengo and Lilly Ortiz scored eight each while Megan Mayer, Laura Purvis and Gayla Fredrickson each scored two points.

The Lady Colts lost a nip and tuck game in the second contest to Ozona.

After a 6-6 tie at the end of one quarter, Sonora fell behind 14-12 at halftime only to gain a 20-18 lead at the end of three quarters before losing 26-25.

"The team played with a lot of determination," said Sessom.

Lilly Trevino again led Sonora scorers with eight points while Elaine Ortiz added seven, Betty Samiengo six and Laura Purvis and Missy Hearn two points each.

Lady Colts win three of four

Three wins in four tries marked a successful week for the Sonora Lady Colts eighth-grade basketball team.

A 13-2 run in the fourth quarter brought the Lady Colts from behind to defeat Ozona 30-20 last Monday.

Heading into the fourth quarter Sonora trailed 18-17, but held Ozona to just two points in the final stanza while scoring 13 points, their largest amount in a quarter all year.

"The girls played a good game. We need to work on blocking out and rebounding though," said coach Martin.

Beth Covington exploded for 14 points to lead seven Lady Broncos who scored. Katie Burhe added five points, Vicki Richardson three and Candie Sessom, Sara Reston, Josie Cumpian and Jennifer Covey scored two points each.

A third-place finish in the Iraan Tournament ended a good week for the eighth-grade team. After failing to Big Lake "A" 33-26 in the opener Sonora knocked off Big Lake "B" and Stanton in the next two games to win the consolation round.

The entire team had a hand in the Lady Broncos' 32-9 victory over Stanton to win the consolation bracket. Nine members scored led by Beth Covington, Sara Reston and Mary Gail Galvan with five points. Vicki Richardson and Josie Cumpian scored four points, Jennifer Covey three and Candie Sessom, Katie Burge and Rosalba Gloria had two each.

The Lady Colts made it to the consolation game after a tight contest with Big Lake "B". The game was tied at the end of each of the first three quarters before Sonora finally won 20-18. Sara Reston and Katie Eurge scored six points, Rosalba Gloria four and Beth Covington and Sara Gonzales two.

Sutton County youth do well in Texas Open

April Spiller exhibited a registered buck kid produced by Dick Karnes to reserve grand champion honors at the Texas Open Angora goat show held in conjunction with the Hill District Junior Livestock Show at Kerrville. The buck kid won his class of 57 head and was then named reserve champion registered goat before competing with the champion commercial goat for the reserve grand championship honors.

The great thing about the final round of competition was that both goats competing for the reserve champion award were exhibited by Sutton County 4-H members. Bonner Walsh exhibited the first place commercial aged doe which was named the champion commercial goat of the show. Bonner's doe was produced by Margaret Galbreath.

Other 4-H and FFA members who placed were Lewis Baker, Shane Keller, Graham Bloodworth, Russell Crenwelge, T. J. Thorp, Scott Garrett, Joni Thorp, Thomas Schenkel, Cody Schenkel, Mack Wardlaw and Chase Wardlaw.

The quality of goats was excellent with just under 300 goats exhibited. Exhibitors were present from the Edwards Plateau area and also from Pecos County to Burnet County in what is normally the largest junior Angora goat show in the world.

USDA expands twenty-four resource conservation and development areas

Twenty-four Resource Conservation and Development (RC&D) areas have been expanded as part of the U. S. Department of Agriculture's rural development thrust.

"We're looking forward to working with more communities to help local people improve their economy and conserve natural resources," said Wes Oneth, State Conservationist for Texas.

"We're proud of the accomplishments of RC&D areas, which get their strength from local leaders, and we're proud to be part of this effort to make things happen in rural development.

Texas expects to add two new RC&D areas in the future," says Oneth.

Established 25 years ago, the Resource Conservation and Development program works through local RC&D councils and their committees. The program assists RC&D councils set their own goals and then identify local agencies, groups and foundations to fund and carry out these actions. USDA provides a coordinator for each area.

Council members represent sponsoring organizations, including city governments, soil and water conservation districts, towns, water districts, and other non profit groups. Today, 4,000 council members and 11,000 resource committee members volunteer their time in 194 RC&D areas nationwide. Texas has nine operational areas covering 80 counties. We also have approximately 250 council members and 2,000 resource committee members. Texas also has three application areas (pending approval) covering 31 counties.

"Through their efforts, they have improved local water supplies, marketed local products, and improved needed community facilities, including hospitals, schools, and water and sewage treatment plants," explained Oneth. "They've also accelerated efforts to control erosion, improve recreation facilities, and provide flood prevention."

Councils have broad authority to seek help from the sources they feel are best qualified to provide the needed assistance. The help may be technical assistance from other federal agencies, state and local governments, local soil and water conservation districts, or private industry.

Company matches students with funds

Over a $100 million in scholarship funds went unclaimed last year because students and parents did not know how to tap into these resources.

A National Company, using computer matching is now making this possible.

Scholarship Research Group has more than 200,000 sources of aid representing $14 billion in financial aid. Begin in 1981, Scholarship Research Group helped over 35,000 students last year by supplying them with financial aid information. With college costs ranging from $35,000 to $60,000 and cutbacks on educational funds, more students and their parents are finding college is out of sight.

Virtually all families, regardless of income, can qualify for scholarships and other forms of financial aid. Although grades count in some areas, many grants and awards do not consider a student's GPA when awarding funding.

Using the information supplied by a student, SRG will send a printout listing the awards that match the students qualifications and needs. The printout will list the name of the award, it's value, whether it is renewable, address of the provider, and why the student was matched to this source.

For information write Scholarship Research Group, 3220 "N" Street, NW, Executive Suite 318, Washington, DC, 20007. Or call toll-free at 1-800-334-3881.

ASCS News

Ranchers are urged to come into the ASCS office and file for their 1990 Wool, Mohair, and Unshorn Lamb incentive. The deadline to file is January 31, 1991. We salute the leaders and the members of 4-H

The 4-H program is a partnership between leaders who volunteer to teach and members who volunteer to learn. With community betterment as the common goal, the youth group has made an important contribution to living standards.

For the youngsters, membership offers a goldmine of opportunity. It gives them a chance to become involved in a worthwhile learning project while offering them a chance to achieve excellence through their own efforts.

For the leaders, it is an opportunity to see the rewards of their long hours as the youth in their programs grow toward becoming responsible young adults.

First National Bank of Sonora is proud to be a part of the annual 4-H Livestock Show and congratulate all the participants
