Ask The Historical Society

This picture of Mrs. Jewell Lee Choate Shurley was taken during the summer of 1919.

by Jo-Ann E. Palmer, Secretary Sutton County Historical Society

Q. Do you have any information on the hurricane that hit Galveston in 1900? What was it named?

A. According to National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration reports from the U.S. Department of Sommerce hurricanes did not have names until the 1950's. Until then they were called storms and identified by the year they occurred. NOAA records indicate that the 1900 miles per hour and flood tides of 20 to 50 feet.

The Devil's River News, September 15, 1900 had the Ilowing report:

"The most distressing and deplorable disaster in the history of storms, tossed Texas' coast Saturday, Saturday night and Sunday. The greatest loss is at Galveston where almost all the small residences have been washed away. Churches, hospitals, schools and large brick and stone buildings were wrecked. The beach swept clean and shipping, ships, wharves, bridges, etc., were a total ruin. The greatest calamity, however, is the loss of probably 3,000 lives. The separation of families and the fact that it is almost impossible to give proper burial to the dead. The survivors are in a pitiable state, particularly the women and children having lost all their clothing except what they wore at the time of the storm. Water was blown over the island by the storm made landfall on hurricane, flooding the entire September 8th. There were city. The wind blew a steady reported winds of 135 plus gale for many hours at a velocity of 84 miles an hour. Soldiers have been called out to protect the people and the dead bodies from robbery and mutilation by vandals, black and white, who are numerous in the city. The soldiers have been compelled to shoot about 25 of these vultures. Owing to the large population of Galveston, the distress was worst there. All along the coast country, the damage to property and loss of life cannot be estimated. Many small towns are wiped out and it will be some days before the full facts will be known."

We found that W.L. Aldwell of the First National Bank, The Devil's Camp of Woodsmen of the World and the Dee Ora Masonic Lodge all took up collections to aide the storm victims.

The storm caused a lot of rain inland. It took Jesse Laxon, the Rocksprings mail carrier, from one o'clock Friday until Sunday night to get from Sonora to Rocksprings, due to heavy rainfall.

According to NOAA records of hurricanes hitting the Texas coast, this one in 1900 had the highest fatality rate. August 17, 1915 a storm hit causing 275 deaths. This storm had 135 plus mile per hour winds and 15-20 foot tides also. August 14, 1919 a storm caused 287 deaths. It was severe in both Texas and Florida. On August 13, 1932 a storm caused 40 deaths and on August 4, 1933 another storm caused 40 deaths. October 3, 1949 a storm with 135 miles per hour plus winds only caused 2 deaths. On June 27, 1957 Audrey made landfall and caused 381 deaths. She packed winds of 100 miles per hour and had tides of 12 plus feet. September 11, 1961 Carla made land packing winds of 135 plus miles per hour and tides of 15 to 22 feet, she caused 46 deaths. On September 20, 1967 Beulah hit near Brownsville with a record number of tornadoes and major flooding. She packed 109 plus mile per hour winds and caused 15 deaths. August 3, 1970 Celia came ashore near Matagorda with 130 to 170 mile per hour winds and caused 11 deaths. On August 9, 1980 Allen came ashore with 90 to 100 mile per hour winds and 8-12 feet tides causing 2 deaths.

A tropical storm becomes a hurricane when it has a distinct rotary circulation at the surface, constant wind speed of 74 miles per hour or more. Gale warnings are issued when winds of 39 to 54 miles per hour are expected. A tropical storm is one with a distinct rotary circulation, constant wind speed ranges from 39 to 73 miles per hour and a tropical depression has rotary circulation at surface and highest constant wind speed of 38 miles per hour. A tropical disturbance is a moving area of thunderstorms in the tropics that maintains it's identity for 24 hours or more and is a common phenomenon in the tropics. Storm warnings are miles an hour are expected.

young people that when you are at the beach and they tell you to evacuate it is a good idea to leave. Trying to sit it out and watch the storm can be very, very dangerous.

After the disaster in San Angelo recently we thought it might help to warn our readers that hurricane season is here. There has already been one storm formed in the Gulf, and remind them of some of the hurricane terminology.

Many people that come out here don't realize the dangers of tornadoes and dry washes that turn into wild rivers after storms. A lot of our young people know nothing about hurricanes and their side effects, like tidal waves, storm surges, salt and fresh water flooding, high winds and tornadoes.

VOLUNTEERS TO HOST REST STOPS

by Sharon Key

Sonora will host four rest stops during the weekend Ride From The Border Tour '95 on July 1st and 2nd. Three on Saturday afternoon and one early Sunday morning.

The Rest Stop Committee with co-chairmen, Jack Smith and Melett Rowland, has designated areas approximately 15 miles apart and offer a unique challenge to the local volunteers.

According to the Organizers Handbook, the Rest stops are a very important part of a tour. "Making rest stops into roadside attractions serves the dual purpose of reinforcing the 'ride rather than a race' philosophy and providing creative involvement for the volunteers manning the stops. Contests can be held to determine the best, friendliest, most creative, etc. rest station. The imagination shouldn't be limited. Volunteers can dress-up or set up games. With more interesting rest stops, riders will be less inclined to feel they are in a competition."

Donna Keese and the Sonora EMS will provide a mini-clinic for rest stop volunteers especially covering heat exhaustion and heat related medical emergencies. According the coordinator Don Ickles of the San Angelo Bicycling Association, heat related problems will be a major concern for riders because of the distance involved and the time of year of the event.

WRIGHT SPEAKS ABOUT OBE

by Stephanie Campbell

Pat Wright, a research analyst on education and family issues, spoke to a group of citizens of Sonora Wednesday, June 7, 1995. She discussed the implementation of Outcome-Based Education in Texas schools and other topics regarding the restructuring of the educational system. Mrs. Wright made available for parents, present at the meeting, information regarding OBE. The following is an article from The Link Letter, Vol. III, No. 5.

What is Outcome-Based Education?

The major recognizable elements associated with OBE are mastery learning, cooperative learning, non graded classrooms, portfolio assessments for writing and other subjects, subjective performance tests, real-life problem solving, higher order thinking skills, and affective assessments related to attitudes, values, and behavior.

Mastery Learning, was developed from Skinnerian psychology and proposes that students should be taught until they have learned a subject no matter how long it takes. One element of OBE is all students can learn all things if given unlimited time to do so.

Competition is de-emphasized. Students compete only against standards which are low enough to ensure success of all students in the class. The more capable students in a class are used as peer tutors for the slower ones. In essence, the capable students are held back until all master a concept.

OBE replaces the traditional Carnegie units with nebulous standards or outcomes. Carnegie units are numbers of courses required to graduate from high school, i.e., number of years of math, science, English... OBE replaces the Carnegie units with vague learning outcomes that are very often subjective not

The majority, sometimes as high as 80%, of OBE learning outcomes are comprised of affective measures. To achieve mastery of a particular outcome, the student must demonstrate the desired attitude, value or behavior identified in the outcome. As an example: "Appreciating and understanding others." How do you measure appreciation and understanding others?

Happy Father's Day! Be sure that you treat your dad to something special for Father's Day. Several people have asked if I would write about advice from father's as I did about mother's advice. I was surprised at how quickly everyone answered the question about advice from their mother's It seemed that many people had to think a bit more to remember their father's most memorable or frequent advice, but once they thought of it, it really was something that they still tried to follow.

It seems that the advice most often given by many father's was, "Go ask your mother." Some people said, "I never talked to him, I just tried to stay out of his way." One person said that no matter how bad she felt, her dad said, "Take an aspirin, get a good night's sleep, and you'll feel fine in the morning. David Prather's dad told him on his wedding day, "Remember, boy, this is for life. There's no way out." He still believes that his dad was right. Zane Powers' dad always told him, "Be yourself and don't let anyone get you down." Pete Samaniego's father's advice was, "Respect, respect, respect." He still believes it is good advice. All three Savell boys remember their dad's most memorable and most frequent advice was, "Shut the door." Quite often, he added adjectives to it for emphasis. Checking advice by generations, Lee Roy Valliant remembers Roy Valliant always saying, "Mind your own business. You have enough business of your own to take care of without worrying about what other people are doing." Tom E. Valliant remembers his dad giving him good advice. His dad, Lee Roy, always advised, "Make your first show count." Tom E.'s son, Trapper Valliant, age 10, says that his dad keeps saying, "Be quiet and pay attention." His brother, Travis Valliant, age 6, believes that the advice he gets the most is, "Watch for snakes." That is probably advice that will help throughout life; there are lots of snakes around. Brooke Tiffee said her father tells her, "You can't win the All-Around unless you rope!" Myrtle Armentrout's father was usually out working, but often said something funny and teased. She said that all of his advice sounded like advice that her brother Herb McKee still gives. Their advice was always given in fun. Kelley Martin's dad always said, "Be responsible for your actions now. You'll pay for them in the future." Ronnie Cox's father always said, "If anything was worthwhile, you had to work for it." Cecil Westerman's advice to many people was always, "If you always tell the truth, you don't have to try to remember what you said." One Sonora resident, from years past, advised his son to select a wife carefully. He always said, "Remember, son, there are pretty girls who don't have any money, and there are pretty girls who have a lot of money. Now, I don't think that a man ought to marry for money, but if you fall in love with a rich girl, don't hold her money against her."

One of my favorite stories about fatherly advice is often told by L.P. Bloodworth. He said that years ago, he was in the middle of a drought, working day and night trying to make a living, and he seemed to always be short of money. He went to his grandfather, Halbert, for some advice. What he really wanted was some cash, so that he could make ends meet. He explained to his grandfather how hard he was working and how difficult it was to meet the expenses of a young family. His grandfather did not write a check. Instead, he told him that he ought to get up an hour earlier every day.

Another story from our area concerns hunting. A local ranch man watched his son climb on his horse to go hunting. The son had decided that he could shoot his rifle while mounted on his horse. His father watched him climb on the horse. He was waiting for his dad to say that he didn't think that hunting on that horse was a good idea. He asked his dad if he had any advice. "Yes, I do," his father said. "I think that you ought to tie a knot in those reins. After you shoot, you sure won't have time to be gathering up bridle reins."

If you are lucky enough to still have your father with you on Father's Day, ask him for some advice. It might help you, and he will love being asked!

Little Pete (Pokey) Samaniego has been elected cheerleader next year by the 7th graders who know how much spirit he has. Some people have said that this is Sonora's first male cheerleader. Does anyone know of another boy who has been a yell leader in Sonora? I seem to think that there was one in the late 40's or early 50's. Does anyone remember? Let me know if you remember another one. It is great that he was brave enough to run. He ran as a dare from some of his friends, but since he has been elected, he rather likes the idea. He plans to do a great job. Congratulations, Words from Louise Fields tells us about the amazing improvement in her health when she is in Alaska. She returned to Texas this spring and spent most of her time ill with allergies and with arthritis. For some reason, she is amazingly well in North Pole, Alaska. She keeps up with the dog sled races and knows about the competing teams and problems in racing.

Fire burned the home of Mike and Michelle Anastasi in Smithville. They are the daughter and son-in-law of Deputy Sheriff Tommy Wooten of Sonora. The couple and their two children are now homeless after the fire. The family is staying briefly in Sonora. They have lost everything they had. A fire is a terrible thing as the destruction is usually so complete. They are fortunate that no one was hurt. It is very hard to start over. Our sympathies are with the family.

Next week, I will bring you details of Tracey Ferguson's trip to Washington, D.C. with some

Have you noticed the newest business in town? Tavia Valliant has opened a snow cone stand across the street from the swimming pool. Tavia will be a sophomore in Sonora High School next year, and she is working to raise money for college. Business has been good. Her best seller is a pickle snow cone (shaved ice with pickle juice). My favorite is the lemon-lime. Do you remember ordering "Stuff" at the drug store as a child? I think that it was crushed ice, lemon juice, and salt. Maybe, a pickle snow cone is no stronger than "stuff" that we used to like. Does anyone remember ever having an "800?" It was a favorite of mine.

I am on the road again. My daughter, Melinda, flew into San Antonio Saturday, and I am driving back to California with her. We saw the Grand Canyon this trip. I had always seemed to get close to the Canyon, but I had never been able to see it. We spent Monday at the Canyon, and it was fantastic. It is so spectacular that at times it almost looks like it is just a painted backdrop. I can't imagine any scenery in the world as beautiful. We saw it at sunset, and we also saw it with a very bright full moon. In the moonlight everything changed colors, and the eerie beauty is something that I will never forget.

I will drive as far as Los Angeles with Melinda and fly home, but I plan to stop in Salt Lake City for two days at the Family Heritage Library. The library opens at 7 a.m. and closes at 10 p.m. I think that I will get a lot done in two days, Several people tell me that a 15 hour day in the library may not be considered fun in everyone's book. Just can't wait to see what they have. Please call by next Sunday if you have items you want in this column.

DPS Preparing For Concealed Handgun Licensing

submitted by the Texas Department of Public Safety

Texans interested in obtaining a license to carry a concealed handgun will be able to start the required firearms training program as soon as the law goes into effect on September 1st, DPS Director James R. Wilson stated.

"We have an internal task force up and running to do what needs to be done to make this new law work," Wilson said. "We anticipate that we will start training firearms instructors this summer and our goal is to have these instructors licensed and able to start training interested citizens after September 1st."

Wilson said the Department is currently developing forms, procedures, and rules in order to begin accepting applications for concealed handgun licenses on September 1st.

"Texans need to remember that the current weapons laws remain in effect until January 1, 1996," Wilson said.

"In the meantime, we ask the public's patience as we get this program set up," Wilson said. "We will make an announcement to the public when our training classes have been set, with instructions on how to enroll. But the Department is not currently accepting fees or application requests for instructors or licenses."

The Director cautioned that no firearms instructors or training facilities have been approved by the Department at this time. "When instructors and training facilities have been approved, this information will be released to the public. We will be issuing periodic updates to keep the public informed on policies and procedures as they are developed."

When application request cards for licenses are available, which is expected to be mid-August, they will be distributed to all areas of the state, Wilson said. Applicants who meet the basic ualification will be able to submit these request forms to the DPS at that time

"A complete application packet will be furnished to those who request it," Wilson said. "That application, with required forms and fees, may be submitted to the Department after September 1st. The validity of the information provided in the application will be verified by a background investigation conducted by the Department."

The Director also stressed that under the new concealed handgun law, a private or public employer has the right to prohibit those with concealed handgun licenses from carrying a concealed weapon on the premises of the business.

TGC DECLARED DISASTER AREA

American Red Cross Expands Relief Services

President Bill Clinton declared Tom Green County a disaster area on Tuesday, June 13, 1995. In doing so, this makes businesses and residents potentially eligible for disaster assistance from the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA).

A FEMA team is scheduled to set up a location in San Angelo next week, but area residents and business owners can begin applying for help by telephone. The phone numbers is 1-800-462-9029, or 1-800-462-7585 for the speech or hearing Disaster aid will be given in several forms, including a variety of grants and low interest loans. FEMA representatives will help residents and business owners determine which form they are eligible for.

FEMA's temporary housing assistance program seeks to put people in housing, either their own through emergency repairs, or rental housing through rental assistance. It is not based on income level. Other grant and loan programs are based on income levels or the ability of the applicant to pay back a loan.

The American Red Cross opened a disaster relief service center on Friday, June 2nd at the GTE Data Services Building, 2320 Sunset Drive, in San Angelo. Operating hours are Monday through Saturday, 9:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. and noon to 5 p.m. on Sunday until all disaster-caused needs have been met.

Red Cross disaster relief service centers are places where families can meet one-on-one with a Red Cross worker to discuss their specific disaster-caused needs. Individuals receive vouchers that they take to local merchants to obtain critically needed items that may include clothing, groceries, prescription medications, beds and other goods that will enable them to begin their recovery. effort. Any families with disaster-caused damage can come to the service center and should bring with them some form of identification that shows they live in the affected area.

Current locations for Red Cross assistance (fixed feeding sites), including hot lunches (noon to 2:00 p.m.) and dinner (5:00-7:00 p.m.): Harris Avenue Baptist Church, 1026 E. Harris Ave., Harris Ave. at Buchanan or Baze Streets; Belmore Baptist Church, 1214 S. Bell Street; Oriente Baptist Church, 28 E. G. Chadbourne at ... Ave. G one block east.

The American Red Cross Hotline phone number is (915) 658-4409 and (915) 947-5940.

All Red Cross disaster assistance is absolutely free, a gift from the American people to the American people. Those wishing to help the families affected by this and other disasters can do so by calling 1-800-HELP-NOW or 1-800-257-7575 (Spanish language) to charge a financial contribution to a credit card, or by sending a check to the American Red Cross Disaster Relief Fund at Box 3465, San Angelo, Texas 76902 or P.O. Box 37243, Washington, D.C. 20013.
