Say Attacks Upon 2 Towns Feared From The Nations

(By Associated Press)
Warships of Britain, France, Italy and Germany took "beats" in the patrol of the coasts of Spain Saturday.

The Spanish government, in a note to the League of Nations, charged Italian and German warships will attack Barcelona and Valencia on the pretext of guarding the coast.

The government also said that German and Italian troops are supporting the insurgent attack on Madrid.

GERMANY JOINS IN PROTEST OF PACT
LONDON, Mar. 13 (P)—Germany joined Italy today in objecting to the British proposed European security pact to replace the Locarno pact, nullified by the reoccupation of the Rhineland.

The French-Soviet mutual assistance pact was believed to be a stumbling pact as it was cited in both the German and Italian notes.

FORMER ROOMER MURDERED WOMAN QUIZZED BY COPS

Says Note Received By Woman Would Show Killer

DALLAS, Mar. 13. (P)—Joe Minton, former roomer of Mrs. Mary Knox, 91, slugged to death here last night, said today that three months ago she received a letter from out of town which, if found, would give positive clue as to the slayer.

Investigators informed that Mrs. Knox had given away most of her $1,000,000 estate.

Mrs. Knox feared violent death such as her son Hiram suffered when shot at Hempstead in 1921 and W. H. Knox, a grandson, who was stabbed to death at Livingston several years later.

Police believed robbery was the motive for the slaying. Mrs. Knox, neighbors said, kept large sums of money about the house. Officers found more than $11,000 worth of bond and securities hidden in a grip together with a cashier's check for $1,000.

The aged woman probably was killed early today, police said.

A life-long friend, Mrs. Frank Rutherford, discovered Mrs. Knox's body, sprawled on the front room floor of her home, Mrs. Rutherford and Mrs. Hugo Boedecker, another neighbor, investigated when they noted no sign of life about Mrs. Knox's home.

Doctors said they had not determined whether the victim died from strangulation or a fractured skull.

The only clue police found was a half-burned cigarette, hand rolled, which had been tossed into a fireplace. The killer calmly locked the front door after him in his flight, police said.

Neighbors said Mrs. Knox was the owner of "25 or 30" houses and other property in Dallas and was considered wealthy. She lived alone and employed no domestics.

C OF C DIRECTORS TO MEET MONDAY
Important Matters Will Be Discussed At The Meeting
Directors of the Midland chamber of commerce will meet at the chamber of commerce office in Hotel Sharbauer Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock, the regular monthly meeting having been postponed from last Monday night. President Marion Flynn announced yesterday that although several matters of importance are scheduled for discussion, the meeting will be brief and will not last over an hour. Directors are urged to be present.

Cold Wave Is Forecast for West, North Texas

Hotel Guests Wait on Selves

When the Early Birds, Washington, D. C., organization, appeared at Hotel Willard for their regular get-together, they found it difficult to worm a meal out of the place. With Manager Harry Sommerville's assistance, they help themselves above to coffee, rolls and a concoction whipped up despite the kitchen force's strike.

While Waiters Loaf Around--

The service employees of the Hotel Willard in Washington, D. C., gave the national capital its first sample of the sit-down strike, with waiters (see above) just waiting around for union recognition, and the chefs putting the management, but nothing edible, on the pan. The strike was called when two veteran employees were dismissed.

Good Friday Sermon Will Be Broadcast

On Good Friday, March 26, from 2 to 3 p. m. over Radio Station, KRLH Midland, Texas, a Holy Hour will be conducted by Rev. Edw. P. Harrison, O. M. I., on the "Drama of Salvation." Father Harrison will dramatize the last few hours of Christ's earthly life, His Last Supper, His Agony in the Garden, His trial before Pilate, His Sorrowful Way of the cross on Calvary, commenting on His last will and testimony, "The Seven Last Words."

New Lea County Lime Pool Opener Holds Interest

BY FRANK GARDNER
Attention at the week's close was held by Brown & Reynolds No. 1 C. M. Parcell, opener of a new lime pool in eastern Lea county, New Mexico, 12 miles southeast of the Hobbs field and 6 miles northeast of the Hardy pool. Plug was drilled early this week from 5 3/16-inch casing set at 4,200 and the well made several heads. It was deepened five feet from old total depth of 4,373, and Halliburton steel-line run, with 4,378 being corrected to 4,373.

Livestock Warnings Are Issued In The North

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS
A cold wave, bringing sleet and snow was bearing down on North and West Texas today (Saturday) after scattered rains had fallen during Friday night and Saturday morning.

Fruit growers were warned to expect damage to their crops unless emergency measures were adopted. The rains helped grain crops and delayed farm work in areas already wet.

Livestock warnings were issued in the north.

Temperatures in Midland started a downward plunge at noon yesterday, the maximum figure of the day being registered at that time. At 12 o'clock the temperature was 74 degrees, at 3 in the afternoon the mercury had fallen to 52 degrees and was rapidly dropping lower.

At 11 o'clock last night the mercury had fallen to 36 degrees and even lower temperatures were forecast.

Although the rainfall registered here was only .18 of an inch Friday night, heavier showers fell in the eastern part of the county, it was reported. S. O. Golladay said his area received approximately an inch of precipitation.

On the Rankin highway, the fall was heavier from the T. E. Bizzell farm, three miles south of Midland, to the Buck Bryant place, about nine miles out, traveling in an easterly direction from there. The showers were lighter to the south.

John Dublin Filly Breaks Into List Of Houston Winners

John Dublin's two-year old filly, Hilda May, broke into the list of winners Friday afternoon at Epsom Downs, Houston, taking a four and a half furlong event for juveniles in the time of 0:55 seconds. Jockey Pierson was up. The race was for a $500 purse.

It was the filly's fourth start and her second time in the money. She is sired by Republic, out of Zedora, and has been called by sports writers one of the outstanding two-year olds in training in Texas this year.

THANKS VOICED TO LEGION POST HERE

Aid Rendered to Flood Victims of Mid-West Elicits Thanks

American Legion officials of Woods W. Lynch post here Saturday announced receipt of a letter from Wm. M. Baxter, manager of the national Red Cross, thanking them for the donations made by residents of Midland for flood victims of the mid-west during the recent disastrous floods in that section.

The letter from Baxter follows: "I am indeed pleased to acknowledge receipt of a shipment of supplies donated by the American Legion of Midland for distribution by the Red Cross for flood relief purposes. This contribution of two boxes of clothing is being promptly distributed to disaster victims at points in the flood area. I hope you will convey our appreciation to all who made the shipment possible."

CCC Enrollments Are Being Accepted Now

Applications are now being accepted for C. C. C. Enrollment at the Welfare Office, 319 E. Texas. Applicants must be between the ages of 17 and 28, and must allot a substantial portion of their salary to needy dependents of blood or obligation. They must be unemployed, unmarried and physically fit. The "Four Month" rule of previous service has been rescinded.

As Borah And Cummings Clashed Over Change in Supreme Court

A slam-bang verbal clash ensued when Senator William Borah began to question Attorney General Homer S. Cummings, who had just read a prepared statement advocating reorganization of the Supreme Court at the Senate's public hearing on President Roosevelt's proposal. Borah (seated at far left) insisted the proposal "very nearly abolishes the Supreme Court." Cummings (standing in center) leans over the table at which Borah's colleagues are seated, to emphasize his contention that the change is not only "proper, but legal and highly desirable."

Judge Hears Chrysler Plea To Oust Sit-Down Strikers

VON NEURATH HAS ANSWER TO DODD'S GERMAN PROTEST

Explains Items Not Intended As An Insult to U. S.

BERLIN, Mar. 13. (P)—Sources close to foreign minister Knostant von Neurath said today that he had answered Ambassador William Dodd's protest of press attacks with the explanation they were not intended as insults to the United States.

The reports said that Von Neurath had pointed out the excitement at the LaGuardia statements against Hitler had caused papers to exceed the proper bounds.

The Dodd protest called for no formal reply.

distributed to disaster victims at points in the flood area. I hope you will convey our appreciation to all who made the shipment possible. "Wm. M. Baxter, Jr., "Manager."

Picket Line Thrown About Court House During Hearing

DETROIT, Mar. 13 (P)—Unionists threw a moving picket line about the court house here today as a circuit judge heard the Chrysler corporation's petition of injunction evicting 5,000 sit-down strikers in its plants.

The judge denied a motion of the union to postpone the case as a hearing opened.

Judge Allen Campbell deferred until Monday a decision on the Chrysler injunction evicting strikers in the company plants.

Another meeting in Detroit today was called to complete the union's assent to the General Motors agreement which had been the subject of conferences for nearly a month. President Homer Martin of the UAW summoned about 200 delegates of local bodies.

Wynndham Mortimer, UAW vice-president, said the uniform national minimum wage rate asked by the union had been found "impossible" due to the variety of businesses and conditions.

The agreement was without time limit, termination to be by 60-day written notice. It provided for "grievance procedure," prohibiting "suspensions or stoppages of work until every effort to adjust them has been exhausted in the grievance procedure, and in no case without the approval of the international officers of the union."

Martin announced he had called a meeting of the UAW national executive board at Cleveland Monday to discuss a "national campaign and consolidate and extend the gains made during and since the General Motors strike." He also announced opening of new or additional union offices in seven cities.

TRIO ANNOUNCES FOR POSITIONS AS SCHOOL TRUSTEES

Election Scheduled For April 3 In City

Acting upon requests of many Midland friends, J. L. (Jimmy) Greene, Chas. D. Vertrees, and J. R. Martin have filed for the three positions on the board of trustees, Midland Independent School District.

Trustees whose terms expire are R. V. Lawrence, Dr. John B. Thomas and Fred S. Wright. The election has been called for Saturday, April 3rd.

Greene was scout for the Shell Petroleum Corporation in West Texas until five years ago, at which time he resigned to become an independent operator. He has lived in Midland for eight years, and at present has two children in the public schools.

Vertrees has been a resident of this city since 1929, during which time he has served as district geologist for the Continental Oil Company. He has two children attending school.

Martin moved here seven years ago and has previously served one term on the school board, during which time he was given credit for working out a considerable saving in principal and interest in the refunding of a bond issue. He is cashier of the Midland National Bank and has one child in school.

No statement has been issued by the three candidates other than that they all feel that a member of the board should have children in school in order to really have his finger on the pulse of school life and conditions.

300 MILLION TO BE PAID TO TREASURY

Stiffer Income Taxes Are Expected to Aid In Mounting Totals

WASHINGTON, Mar. 13 (P)—Treasury officials said today that stiffer levies on corporations and the upper bracket of individual incomes should bring more than $300,000,000 additional revenue to the government by July 1. They said that the last half revenue increase should flow in by the deadline for returns Monday.

RUSSELL AND CODY BELL EXPECTED TO BE CHARGED TODAY

District Attorney Will Press Suit Against Pair

NO STATEMENT

Cody Bell Refuses To Shed Light On Slayings

Sheriff Bill Fowler of Rankin announced Saturday afternoon that both Russell and Cody Bell, sons of Mrs. Mary Bell and brothers of Wiley Bell, both slain in an affray at the Bell ranch house in the early hours of Friday morning, would be formally charged with murder by district attorney Alan Fraser of Alpine this morning.

Cody Bell lies seriously injured in a Texon hospital in a serious condition with a bullet wound in his hip while Russell Bell is given no better than an even chance for life as he is undergoing treatment in a San Angelo hospital for a bullet wound in his shoulder and head and face wounds.

Jim Horton, a cowboy on the Bell ranch who took Cody Bell to a hospital in Texon following the shooting affray, was released Saturday by sheriff Fowler and cleared of all blame in the shooting after making a statement.

Cody Bell has defied efforts of officers to obtain a confession from him, consistently refusing to make any statement that might shed light on the case.

Horton told officers that he had gone with Cody Bell to spend the night at the ranch house as Cody arrived for a visit at his home in Christoval.

He stated that he and Cody had gone to bed in a room adjoining that of Mrs. Bell, and that he believed he saved Cody's life in a fight with Russell Bell.

"I hit Russell several times with the shotgun which he had," Horton told a newspaper reporter. Outside of that and a few other chance remarks he refused to make any statement that might clear up the case. Officers refused to make public the statement given them by Horton.

Russell Bell told the officers, they reported, that as he was talking to his mother his brother Wiley appeared in the room with the shotgun and shot his mother. As he sufficed with Wiley for possession of the gun, officers reported, as saying, his brother Cody appeared from another room with Horton and opened fire on him with a pistol. According to him, he succeeded in wrestling the shotgun from the possession of Wiley and shot Cody as he received a wound from a pistol used by Cody. He told officers he was unable to account for the death of Wiley, they reported.

Officers went to the ranch seeking Russell after Cody had appeared at a Texon hospital and announced his mother and brother were dead. Russell was found lying wounded across the bed on which his mother lay dead.

Wiley Bell had only one wound, a clean-cut hole under the left arm that officers said had been caused by a charge from a shotgun. Mrs. Bell was shot just under the chin, the shot evidently ranging upward and causing instant death, officers surmised.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR MRS. MARY WILEY BELL HERE

Funeral services were held here Saturday afternoon at four o'clock at the Ellis Funeral Home for Mrs. Mary Bell and her son, Wiley Bell, both slain early Friday morning. Interment services were held at Fairview cemetery.

The deceased were former residents of Midland, having moved to Upton county some 25 years ago. Rev. McAllister of Crane officiated at the ceremonies, assisted by Rev. Anderson of Rankin and Rev. McGrew of Monahans.

Mrs. Bell is survived by one daughter, Mrs. E. W. Windom of Weed, New Mexico, and two sons, Russell of Fort Worth, and Cody of Christoval and five grandchildren. Mrs. Windom is a sister of Wiley Bell, Cody and Russell are brothers.

Fall bearers at the funerals were: O. Midkiff, J. C. Roberts, C. L. Klapproth, Percy Mims, Ben Driver, T. R. Wilson, Luther Tidwell, Harve Mayfield, T. A. Pannin, Roy Priest, Rankin.

HOME FROM SOUTH
Fred Wemple, Rotary district governor, has returned from a visit with clubs at San Angelo and Brownwood. He was accompanied by Bill Griffin and Bert Brooks.

Killing Talented Men-- Is That Efficiency?

Another "treason trial" seems to be in the making at Moscow.

Alexis L. Rykov and Nikolai Bukharin, until recently two of the most prominent men in the Russian scheme of things, have been expelled from the Communist party; if things go according to schedule, they will presently be facing the grim Soviet courts just as other equally distinguished Russians have done before them.

During the French revolution, someone remarked that "the revolution is devouring its own children." Never was the truth of this aphorism brought out more terribly than during the past year in Russia. Sixteen prominent revolutionists were tried, convicted of treason, and executed, last July; last January, 17 more were tried and convicted, 13 of them being shot. Now, apparently, the process is to be repeated once more.

One's first reaction to this sort of thing is to shudder with horror and conclude that Russia is at the mercy of a conscienceless band of assassins. And yet—ruthless as the Stalin clique undoubtedly is—we would miss the point of the whole thing if we dismissed it in that fashion.

What is significant about it all is that these outbursts of cold, calculated violence are part of the price that must be paid for a dictatorship. It was so in Germany, where Roehm and his followers were killed in the famous "blood purge." It has been so in Italy. That it is so in Russia, the treason trials bear eloquent witness.

For a dictatorship has no room for an opposition. The state must be completely responsive to a single will; as a logical corollary, no one may question that will, or do anything which in any way weakens it or distracts it from its purpose.

So a dictatorial machine must be completely ruthless. The men in charge of it are not dictators because they are bloodthirsty and unscrupulous; they are dictators because they lacked those traits, they would very soon cease to be dictators.

And this leads us to a point worth bearing in mind. The Fascist and the Communist share the notion that democracy is too inefficient and cumbersome to cope with the diverse problems of this modern world. They differ as to the remedy, but they do agree that only a dictator can "get things done" neatly and with dispatch. Whatever its fruits, it is at least efficient.

But—is it? Is its efficiency, to live by a system which compels you to kill all the prominent men who do not agree with you? Does democracy, which is able to use the talents of the public men who happen to be in the minority, commit itself to any such outlandish and costly inefficiency as that?

Is not a dictatorship, with its spies, its blood purges, and its subterranean treasons, actually the most inefficient form of government that could possibly be devised?

AN OBJECT LESSON

The seizure of the munitions-laden freighter Mar Cantabrico by a Spanish rebel cruiser ought to help us to understand the value of a strong neutrality law.

The Mar Cantabrico cleared from an American port, laden with American-made munitions, just before our munitions embargo law went into effect. There will be no more such shipments; the Mar Cantabrico did not fly the American flag; title to the goods she carried had passed to foreign purchasers before she left our shores. Because of these facts, the steamer's loss does not affect us.

But suppose that there were no embargo law. Suppose that rebel cruisers were seizing two or three munitions carriers a week—American-flag ships, bearing goods whose loss would hit the pockets of American shippers. Is it not easy to see how very apt we would be to become involved in the Spanish war? And is not the case of the Mar Cantabrico excellent proof that our munitions embargo is a good law?

PASSING OF AN ORACLE

People who have been acclaiming Postmaster General James A. Farley's uncanny skill as a political prophet might give a thought to the coming resignation of Emil Hurja, for years Farley's right-hand man.

Mr. Hurja has announced that he will presently leave politics to return to private business, and it is quite possible that this may have an effect on Mr. Farley's gifts as a prognosticator.

For it was Hurja, by all accounts, who collected the statistics and erected the graphs on which the postmaster general based his forecasts. Hurja knew politics as few men know it. For years, Washington correspondents have marked him down as a man who had an uncanny way of telling just how the cat was going to jump, come election day.

It will be interesting to see how the rare Farley gift survives the loss of this talented lieutenant.

"General Goering guarded carefully on his trip to Poland." At that, there must be a fortune in those medals.

Joe Louis seems to have lived up to his title, "Brown Bomber," in bombing Native Brown.

Those auto union leaders, under surveillance by Pinkerton men, evidently passed up a pretty good theme song—"Me and My Shadow."

The three St. Louis wives who shot their husbands are going to be sorry when carpet-beating time comes around.

Danger From Behind

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

By RODNEY DUTCHER
Reporter-Telegram Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Mar. 13—The startling pace of organized labor's rush to political and economic power has astonished many leaders in the movement as much as it has most outsiders.

Now the C. I. O. group, under John L. Lewis and Sidney Hillman, plans to sweep right along towards new goals, both industrial and political.

Large scale unionization gains are reported in the wake of the steel settlement. The C. I. O. will move at once into the huge textile industry. Even more consequential, perhaps, is the campaign by Labor's Non-Partisan League to put over Roosevelt's bill to expand the Supreme Court. After causing big industry to revolutionize its labor policy, the C. I. O. unions and others affiliated with them in the league will undertake to be the deciding force behind a sweeping change in federal government.

It must be borne in mind that the Supreme Court fight is close. If Roosevelt's forces win, it is likely that the support of labor may subsequently stand out as the deciding factor for victory. After November's election, certain leaders of Labor's Non-Partisan League sought to take almost full credit for labor. The boast wasn't taken very seriously because Roosevelt's margin was so wide it precluded the theory that he over re-election to any one group. But now the President is in "the big fight of my life," and the fact that time the Lewis labor group's support may be the decisive factor cannot be ignored.

"Defeat for the President's plan will mean a blow to labor as well as to Roosevelt, affecting prestige in each case, and probably ending any early hopes for wage and hour legislation.

Victory, on the other hand, means more power, more prestige and more progress for both the President and John L. Lewis.

Almost Labor Party
So far, the partnership has worked effectively. Roosevelt aided the militant labor group when he backed the Wagner labor relations bill, the Walsh-Healy bill, the Guffey coal bill, and other measures. The unions organized a far-flung, extremely effective political organization to help him—the nearest thing to a genuine labor party in American history. Roosevelt then became for more influential in helping the C. I. O. win the General Motors strike, and in getting immense concessions from the steel industry than anyone will admit officially.

Now labor comes to bat for Roosevelt again by organizing pressure for the Supreme Court plan. And if the team wins now, the President surely will be inclined toward insisting on wage-hour and perhaps other labor legislation at this session of Congress.

Privately, leaders of Labor's Non-Partisan League will give you the names of certain senators who have declared against the President's plan and assured you these senators will be persuaded to change their minds. If this comes true, and the President wins by only three or four votes, his debt to labor will be obvious.

"We've Only Started"
The league claims to represent 2,500,000 organized workers in the C. I. O. unions, other international unions, state federations and local bodies.

The league began its campaign with a public statement. It followed up with letters to all state chairmen, international unions and members of state committees. It sent letters to all senators and congressmen. It sent a letter to each of 32,000 persons listed as active league workers in the last campaign. It called for mass meetings and asked officials it had supported to address them. It took special action in individual states, getting local members of the league to build special fires under certain members of Congress. It has begun a campaign to get out mail to congressmen, using "Let your congressman know how you feel" as a slogan, rather than distributing form letters for signature.

Delegates to the league's national convention here have been button-holding their representatives on Capitol Hill. Now there will be more mass meetings, especially in big cities. The league's officials say: "We've only started."

Washington has seen many strong lobbies. This one may prove to be the most-powerful of them all.

Farmers Toil 365 8-Hour Days in Yr.

ITHACA, N. Y. (U.P.)—A farm worker in New York State averages eight hours a day for every day in the year, including Sundays and holidays.

That is the finding of a survey conducted by the New York State College of Agriculture. Ninety-five farmers in 34 counties were consulted.

The cost of repairs, insurance, taxes, depreciation and interest on the farm house averages $309 a year, or $29 a month.

School, county, and town taxes average $236 a farm, or $20 a month, which is one and three-tenths per cent of the value of the farm.

The cost of operating small trucks was below 5 cents a mile only on farms where trucks had been driven at least 5,000 miles. Returns for an hour of labor on dairy farms averaged 33 cents. The average cost of producing milk on 60 farms was $1.81 a hundred-weight.

Raising a pullet for 20 weeks cost $1.04, figures showed, which means that it costs farmers about 27 cents to produce a dozen eggs. A hen lays about 146 eggs during the year.

Potato yields averaged 155 bushels and acre. Even with relatively high prices for potatoes in 1936, no farm with fewer than 100 bushels to the acre made any profit. Apple growers lost money, despite heavy yields, because the price dropped from 75 to 50 cents a bushel.

HAWAIIAN COFFEE SLUMPS
HONOLULU, (U.P.)—The only coffee plantations in the United States may be abandoned unless federal subsidies are available. A minimum of 8 cents a pound is necessary for survival of the industry, according to Louis J. Macfarlane, president of the Kona civic club.

Explorer Says "Keep Cool" If

DEVILS LAKE, N. D. (U.P.)—Here is a veteran northern explorer's advice on blizzards.

If you're caught out in one, he cautions, of all things: "Keep cool."

Vilhjalmur Stefansson, noted explorer gave the advice to Judge G. Grimson, of Rugby, in a letter, after Grimson had written of several victims of this winter's storms.

Stefansson said he believes many deaths from freezing result from the mistaken belief that the victim under no circumstances must go to sleep when in danger of freezing.

"The blizzard's victim will keep himself in violent motion so as not to fall asleep," Stefansson said. "In this manner he uses up the 'fuel' reserve in his digestive tract and tissues which might otherwise keep him warm for many hours. Furthermore, he perspires, getting his clothes wet so that they no longer protect him from the cold."

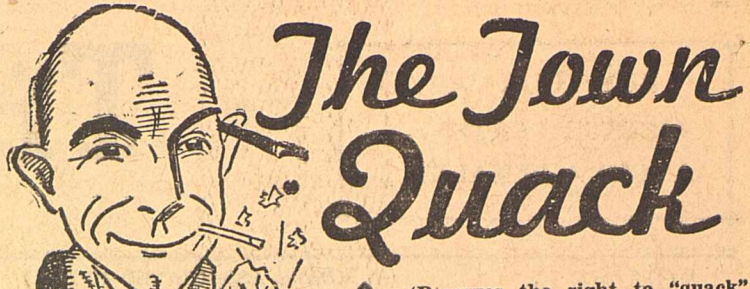

The sensible thing to do, Stefansson suggests is to sleep as much as possible and thereby save energy. "A chill," he said, will awaken one as quickly outdoors as in one's home.

"If one moves around just enough to get the blood in circulation before dozing off, one can sit out any blizzard," Stefansson believes.

The Town Quack

It's hard to create. Therefore, we have to put in some other regulators. Not being on the city council, I won't try to prescribe the remedy, but I still say we are doing pretty well considering the rapid growth.

One thing the citizens can do to help the parking situation is to STAY BETWEEN THE DIAGONAL PARKING LINES. When two cars get out of the lines, four parking spaces are ruined in that block. That's one offense which is inexcusable. I've seen early comers at church houses park parallel to the sidewalk, just like they might not expect anyone else to attend preaching. No matter how sanctified they may be, they haven't thought of their fellow man when they monopolize the parking space.

If you have not noticed the tremendous increase in number of automobiles on Midland streets, just drive down about 4:30 o'clock some morning and see those parked all around the business section. Where do all those people sleep?

We are in our new postoffice, but we have outgrown it before it was occupied. It's time to start asking for a second story and a flock of new postal clerks to help the present overtaxed crew.

All Set For That Spring Entertainment

A table for that informal gathering at breakfast or at supper time to the liking of Lily Pons, who set it for the recent China, Glass and Housewares Show in New York. On the maple saw-buck table little turquoise green doilies serve as base for the Italian pottery with splashy orange design. The Mexican glasses are deep blue and match some of the other deep blue accessories—the blue spots, for example, on that very china and the bucolic ornamental cow nibbling at the flowing ivy in the watering can. It's all very gay and friendly and right for impromptu spring entertaining.

BOOK REVIEW

By A. W.

"The Sea of Grass" by Conrad Richter; Alfred A. Knopf, New York.

Hal Brewton's earliest recollections were of his uncle's ranch house in its sea of grass. It was a massive building almost bare of furniture; its decorations were bridle ropes, and whang leathers; the parlor was piled high with cartons of canned goods and sacks of flour, sugar, and coffee. Then Lottie Cameron came to be the mistress of the Cross B's and everything changed. Hal was sent to an academy in Lexington; furniture, drapes, linen, silver and china appeared; and all ways there were lights, company, and music.

Lottie Cameron Brewton came to her new home on a morning when the cattlemen and the new settlers E. T. Perry, Sister Tucker and Sister Albert in charge.

Sunday morning—Sunday school conducted by the Superintendent, Elder Alexander of San Angelo will preach the anniversary sermon.

Sunday night—The service will be held by the congregation and friends.

38 Children Attended Story Hour Saturday

Money is Sequestered, But Mystery Lives

INDIANAPOLIS, (U.P.)—Nearly 17 years ago a man walked rapidly up to a city policeman in the Union railway station here, handed him a package with the request: "Hold this."

Curious, the patrolman took him to headquarters where the package was opened and found to contain $4,017 in small bills.

The stranger identified himself as John Janosh, real owner of the currency. Police placed him in a room and placed the money in trust in a local bank.

From time to time Janosh made small withdrawals for living expenses. Finally, in March, 1921, he withdrew $250 and disappeared.

Unable to find its wards, friends or relatives the bank had him declared legally dead by a probate court, turning over to the state treasury the estate with accrued interest. No one need go to the old plush albums to find tintype types; every proud, lovely, and gentle, yet in her own way strong and fulfilled, standing between.

"The Sea of Grass" is written with a rhythm, lilt, and melodiousness, that make it poetry. One keeps thinking of Willa Cather's The Lost Lady, but without lessening one's appreciation for Mr. Richter's book or his ability as a writer. The beauty and simplicity of The Sea of Grass lives in one's memory long after the last line has been read.

"Tintype Types" by Violet Short; Southwestern Press, Dallas, Texas.

Although "Tintype Types" has been off the press long enough to put it out of the class of recent books, it is the sort of book that never grows old, for its characters we always have with us.

Who has not known a Grandma Sloan, Savannah and Alabama Sneekle, Parzy Semple, Uncle Seltzer, Aunt Parzette, or an Aunt Mattie?

Grandma Sloan was on hand to gossip but she always managed to tell everything.

Savannah would have made an excellent wife; she could sew, mend, and make the best buttermilk pies in three counties; but she didn't get her man. Alabama was simply "half handed"; and she never cooked anything in her life, except a greasy dishrag, but it got her a husband.

Prazy Semple ran the church for years; because, when she was seven years old, her father got drunk and gave the church $500. But she tried to run everything once too often.

Uncle Seltzer landed in Texas just a jump ahead of the sheriff and his posse. He continued in shady transaction until he made his first $100,000. Then he joined the church, became a deacon, and endowed three colleges.

Aunt Parzetti McSapp admitted that she was the kindest and most unappreciated woman that ever lived.

Aunt Mattie didn't want to be buried by her husband because she had had to put up with him on earth, and she didn't want him hanging around, with his halo around his ankle or his wings upside down, humiliating her when she ought to be resting in peace. The children buried their father in the Baptist cemetery and their mother in the Methodist cemetery.

No, one needn't go to the old plush albums to find tintype types; every rural community has them. Violet Short, in her brief, spicy bits of gossip has given us pictures, a little more dated perhaps, of our uncles, cousins, neighbors, and perhaps ourselves—who grew up, or still live, in those out of the way, dirt-road places.

"Bright Destiny" by Grace Noll Crowell; Turner Publishing Company, Dallas, Texas.

In "Bright Destiny" Mrs. Crowell forsakes her usual themes of home, fire-side, and family for Texas, her past and future. This poet laureate of Texas weaves word pictures of scenes that are typical of her adopted state: negroes in a cotton field, red bud, bluebonnets, black blizzards, a darky singing over her wash tub, prairies, red earth, hot days, and cool Texas nights.

Perhaps one has become so used to Grace Noll Crowell's writings of "feminine" things that many of these new subjects seem strange to her pen; certainly most of them fall short of her best poems. But at no time has she written anything lovelier than "The Market" and "White Trees" which appear in this volume. These are the type of subjects to which her pen seems so happily fitted.

If Priscilla looked half so attractive as the befrilled young modern when John Alden came a-wooing for Miles Standish, it's no wonder John fell for her. The 1937 version of the transparent Swiss organdy Priscilla collar has a prim little over-collar topping the shoulderwide frill. Collar and cuffs are embroidered with a daisy design at the border and are finished with fine valenciennes lace ruffles around the scalloped edges.

At The Library

New Fiction:

"The Great White Gods" by Edward Stucken: The invasion of Mexico by the Spaniards under Cortez retold in story form, with great elaboration of detail and a host of characters. It is a vivid, romantic representation of the spectacular clash of two civilizations. (7 day book).

"The Balliols" by Alec Waugh: An English family chronicle novel in which, through the experiences and reactions of individual Balliols, an onlooker follows the changing fortunes, the varying philosophies of life, and contrasting attitudes toward morals of pre-war, wartime, and post-war generations. It is a story of real people, a tale full of action and drama. (7 day book).

"These White Hands" by Warwick Deeping: A young, 15th century, aristocratic Englishwoman suspects her mother and a titled male friend of complicity in her father's mysterious death. How chance makes her and the son of the suspected nobleman, the instruments of their parents' conviction, makes a thrilling romantic story. (Rent shelf).

"River Supreme" by Alice Tisdale Hobart: (Originally issued under the title: "Pledge Cargo"): Eben Hawley dreamed of a fleet of steamships that would carry world trade to the upper Yangtze, and for forty years he struggled to realize his dream, fighting the treacherous river and the opposition of the Chinese. The river shaped the lives of his family and conquered in the end. The author knows the interior of China and her books show Chinese life very different from that found in the usual picturesque romance. (14 day book).

"I Visit the Soviets" by E. M. Delafield: The "Provincial Lady" visited the Soviets and came back with tales of new and diverting Russia. Miss Delafield, with no axe to grind, no point to prove, has provided a sane and refreshing book on an important subject, pointed it with intelligent and amusing comment, enlightened it with diverting character sketches. (Rent shelf).

New Children's books: "The Isles of Colored Shells" by Frances Jenkins Olcott: For the latest of her many popular collections of stories and poems for children, Frances Jenkins Olcott has gathered parable, allegories, and fables from many sources, ancient and modern. There is enchanting diversity in theme and in treatment. (Ages 7 to 12).

"How a Little Girl Went to Africa" by Leona Mildred Bicknell: The story of a little girl's trip to Africa, and of the things which interested her most during her journey to and from the dark continent. The story is authentic and the illustrations true to life. (Ages 8 to 12).

"La Salle" by Ross F. Lockridge: La Salle, soldier, explorer, adventurer. With a handful of men he dared a whole savage continent. Unknowingly he laid the foundations for territorial greatness of our country. His story rings with adventure, daring and courage. Wherever he built a rude fort, wherever he made a recorded visit, there romance lingers even to this day. (Ages 11 up).

"Boys' Heroes" by Edward Everett Hale: Includes, among others: Alexander the Great; Richard the Lion Hearted; General Lafayette; Napoleon the first, etc. (Ages 10 to 15).

"George Rogers Clark" Pioneer hero of the old Northwest, by Ross F. Lockridge: Is a story of action, adventure, perseverance and courage that reads more like fiction than history.

"Our Little Mongolian Cousin" by Phyllis Ayer Sowers: Batu, the little hero of the story, proves himself to be a true child of his race. He is a brave shepherd. He rides his pony, Se Kang, better than all his companions. Unafraid he pursues horse thieves, and when deserted by horse and man his resourcefulness brings him safely home after thrilling adventures in a caravan. (Ages 8 to 12).

Non-Fiction "The Nine Old Men" by Drew Pearson and Robert S. Allen: The authors of Washington Merry-Go-Round in this new book do for the Supreme Court what they did in that best-seller on Washington officialdom, Congress, society, the diplomatic corps, lobbyists, and the army and navy. They throw a revealing spot light on the court, its unknown history and background, and the personalities and foibles of the present justices. They disclose how the court in the 147 years of its existence, through many vicissitudes, including forcible suppression, rose from a few dingy rooms and an insignificant status to a vast marble edifice and the role of the most powerful arm of the government.

"Don Fernando" by W. Somerset Maugham: This book belongs in a category somewhere between a travel book and a group of essays on sixteenth-century Spain. In his charming distinguished manner the author discusses, among other things Spanish literature, Spanish food, the picaresque novel, Lope de Vega, and El Greco.

"The Man on The Barge" by Max Miller: Reveries and conversations carried on by the captain of a stationary fishing barge anchored off the California coast while visitors come to fish from his boat, a newspaper columnist, looking for jokes, a movie manager, a would-be suicide, and others. Gently philosophical and detached.

"Slanting Lines of Steel" by E. Alexander Powell: In this book Colonel Powell tells of his adventures as a war correspondent and of his part in the war after the United States joined the allies. From his inimitable way of being in the thick of things, and his inimitable skill in telling of his experiences, he has made a book which is full of excitement.

"Isles of Eden" by Loring Andrews: Mr. Andrews took his wife and two children and went to the South Seas. They lived as the natives did, dressed, or undressed, as the natives did, slept in a thatched hut, fished, swam, gained an investment of health which they draw on for years, and spent the most interesting months that they ever will have in their lives. They met friendship of the sort that we never know, they learned secrets of life

RACING AGAINST FIRE, SHIP ASKS AID ON PACIFIC

British Boat Speeds To Port to Save Passengers

SAN FRANCISCO, Mar. 13. (AP)—A race against fire at sea was started on the Pacific today as the burning British ship Silver Larch wireless for aid to remove eight passengers believed to be Americans on a world cruise.

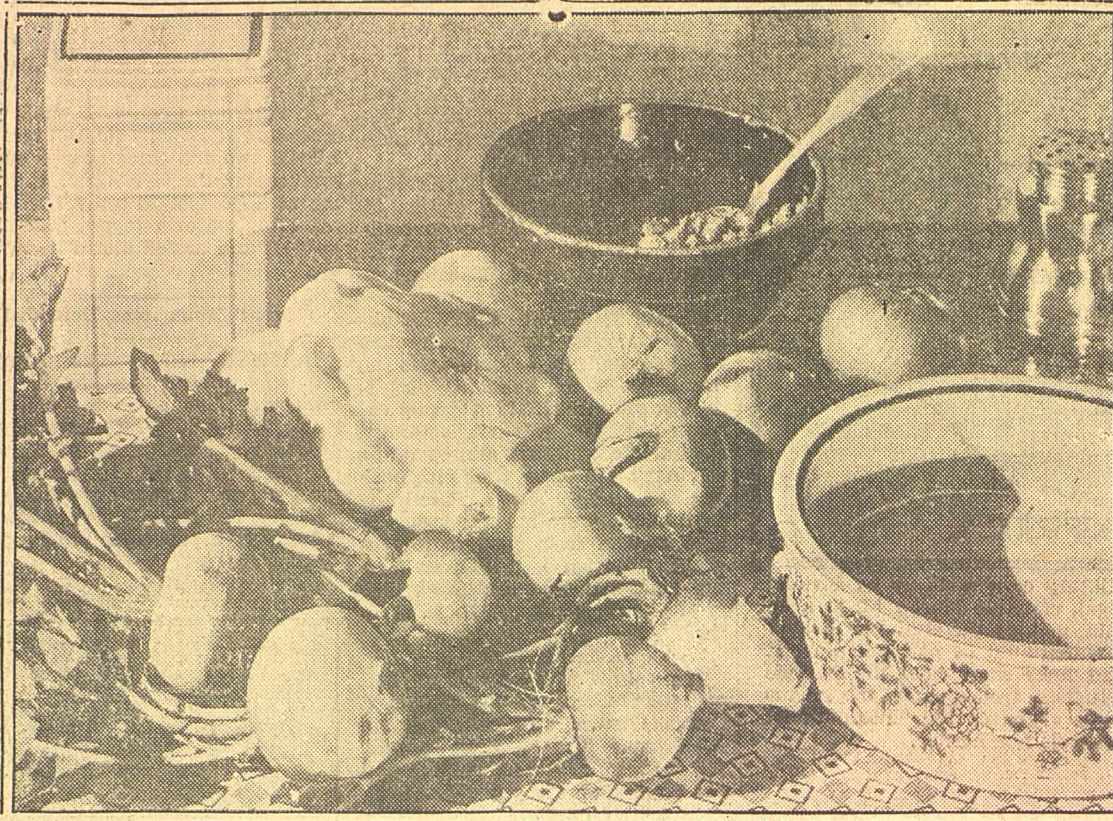

The ship was northeast of the Hawaiian islands enroute to the Orient as she messaged that she was racing toward the United States cruiser Louisville.

Planet Venus Visible In Late Afternoon

PHILADELPHIA. (AP)—According to the Franklin Institute here, the planet Venus can now be seen in daylight.

James Stokley, associate director in charge of astronomy at the institute, said the planet can be easily seen about 3 o'clock in the afternoon. It is located approximately 60 degrees above the horizon directly south.

Rose Tract Blossoms For Five Generations

EVENING SHADE, Ark. (AP)—Five generations of farmers have failed to convert the rich acres of "Rose Pond" from a tangle mass of flowers into farm land. The pond is a level tract of land comprising many acres and is composed of a black soil unlike any other in this section of the state. Geologists advance the theory that it is the crater of an extinct volcano. Large boulders are strewn about the outer edges of the pond as if thrown there by some unheavenly.

Earliest forms of Chinese fans consisted of dyed peacock or pheasant feathers, mounted on a handle.

Vegetables respond to friendship. An onion seems better for the society of squash, and even a turnip perks up when invited to join a baked casserole.

Casserole of Vegetables
(4 to 6 servings)
Six medium onions, 6 small turnips, 1 light summer (Florida) squash, 1 1/2 cups bread cubes, 1 egg, 1 tablespoon sugar, 2 table spoons butter, 1 tablespoon grated Italian cheese, seasoning.

Clean, pare squash, removing all seeds. Pare turnips and peel onion. Cut vegetables into wedge-shaped pieces. Beat egg slightly, mix with bread cubes and stir in seasoning and melted butter. Butter baking dish. Fill with prepared vegetables, season with salt, pepper and dust with sugar. Cover with bread dressing moistened with meatless stock. Dust top of bread dressing with grated cheese. Bake in moderately hot oven (375 degrees F.) for 1 1/2 hour. This makes an adequate main course for a meatless dinner.

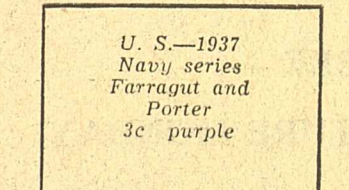

The trouble with most vegetable plates is not their lack of vegetables but their lack of character. Don't regard a vegetable plate as a substitute for something else. Look at it as a very definite something in itself. Use fresh cooked, sprightly vegetables and keep a weather eye out for rich color and alluring flavor. Try this combination and see how you like it: Blanched and steamed broccoli heads with golden Hollandaise sauce, an opened and buttered potato, 3 grilled fresh mushrooms, richly brown, exciting in flavor, a few lightly cooked carrots, cut in strips. That is a lively dish, diverting in its range of appetizing colors from the white of the mealy potato, through the golden tones of Hollandaise, the orange of carrot, the Van Dyke brown of grilled mushrooms right up to the bright green of broccoli.

Scalloped Tomatoes With Peppers and Onions
(4 to 6 servings)
One can tomatoes, 1 green pepper, 1 onion, 1 1/4 cup bread crumbs, 1/4 cup melted butter.
Drain tomatoes and chop pepper and onion. Combine melted butter with bread crumbs. Butter a round baking dish. Place half the butter-

FOR six days and nights the Union bombing squadron under Commander David Dixon Porter hurled shells into Forts Jackson and St. Philip at the mouth of the Mississippi, until Farragut, commanding the west coast blockading squadron, was able to run his ships up the river. Porter followed, passing New Orleans, venturing past the batteries of Vicksburg and reaching Mound City, Ill. There he converted more than 120 river steamers into gunboats. With these he sailed down the river, and helped General Grant capture Vicksburg. By this daring action, Porter opened the Mississippi for the Union.

He was commissioned rear admiral, and after the war became superintendent of the naval academy at Annapolis. Later he was appointed vice admiral, then admiral on the death of Farragut in 1870. He died in 1891, at 78. His portrait appears with that of Farragut on the new 3-cent navy stamp.

WOMAN ENTERS HER 35TH HOUR STUPOR

Physicians Believe Coma Self-Introduced By Prisoner

LOS ANGELES, Mar. 13. (AP)—Helen Willis Love, convicted of second degree murder in the shooting of her husband Harry A. Love, entered her thirty-fifth hour of a mysterious trance today that physicians said they believed was self-introduced.

The state is postponing her sentence, originally set for yesterday. The prisoner, according to a woman attendant in the jail, had announced she could put herself into a trance, thereby taking her own life.

SQUIRE TRAINS SPORTING DOGS AS INHERITANCE

WATERFORD, Conn., Mar. 13. (AP)—"Like father, like son," Frank W. Crumpstone, former British soldier, makes it like this: "Like grandfather, like father, like son."

For, after years in various lines of endeavor, the 64-year-old country gentlemen settled down to the work of his forebears—training sporting dogs.

Born at Wellington, Shropshire, England, Crumpstone watched his father train greyhounds for coursing hares and for entry in the Wellington cup stake races. But he learned the barker's trade "fooling around with terriers" in his spare time.

Then came the day he hung his white baker's hat on a peg and donned the uniform of the Shropshire Light Infantry of her Majesty, Queen Victoria. He "bought out" in Cork, Ireland only to re-enlist at the outbreak of the Boer War. This time he became a cavalryman and, in addition to participating in five engagements, he took care of the horses of General Dixon, aide to King Edward VII, who had ascended the throne after the death of Victoria.

After the war ended, Crumpstone was stricken with fever and made the trip back from Africa aboard the hospital ship, Nubia. Regaining health, he went to Canada and obtained a job as baker. He came to New London to visit 31 years ago. He liked it and remained, working at various occupations. Twenty-seven years ago he bought a pointer. Today he owns 25-acres of woodland at Gallows Lane. Here he trains prize winning pointers, famous in the east.

Crumpstone added red cockers to his kennels several years ago but his first love is pointers. He enjoys training dogs and likes to go afield with a brace of wide ranging pointers.

"There's always a thrill in seeing them range away, hesitate and finally snap into a point," he says and thoughtfully, "I hope I can follow them for many more seasons."

Divining Rod Used To Find Gold Ore

SYDNEY, Mar. 13 (U.P.)—How a piece of wattle stick in a man's hand was used as a divining rod and resulted in the discovery of a rich gold reef forms one of the romances of modern mining in Australia.

Men had prospected for gold near Maldon, Victoria, for 40 years with little success when there came to the district George Hansen, a Norwegian, who was born in the United States, and who had spent eight years prospecting in Queensland.

There he had seen the aborigines find water with divining rods and he himself had learned the trick, which he thought could be adapted to gold prospecting.

At Maldon he found that at three places his divining rod gave a strong pull. Where the pull was strongest he sank a shaft and struck gold at six feet, but it disappeared at 15 feet. However, trusting his stick, he continued to dig and at 45 feet came to a reef yielding two ounces of gold per ton of ore. The mine now has a market value of $150,000.

QUESTIONS THAT ARE ASKED ABOUT BANKING

"What do bankers consider a good Bank loan?"

MOST bankers consider a loan good if it possesses the following qualifications:

1. A borrower who has a good business reputation and credit standing.
2. A sound purpose for which the loan is to be used other than a fixed investment in a business, for this type of loan is not a proper field for a commercial bank.
3. A reasonably short term until repayment for commercial loans; adequate security in the case of collateral or real estate loans.
4. Reasonable proof of dependable income for repaying the loan when due, or a definite schedule for repayment.

This bank has many good loans on its books. We are making new ones constantly. In every loan our first consideration is to safeguard the deposits entrusted to our care.

To protect the salmon industry, which yields $3,500,000 and supports 25,000 persons annually, this concrete "ladder" has been built to route the salmon around Bonneville dam on the Columbia River. Although salmon have been known to clear 20-foot barriers, engineers are not certain the salmon will use this ladder, which requires jumps of less than a foot.

South Dakota Area Is Disputed for Centuries

PIERRE, S. D. (U.P.)—History reveals the area now embracing South Dakota was a subject of much dispute by nations of Europe before the United States acquired it, and then it was transferred from one political division to another innumerable times.

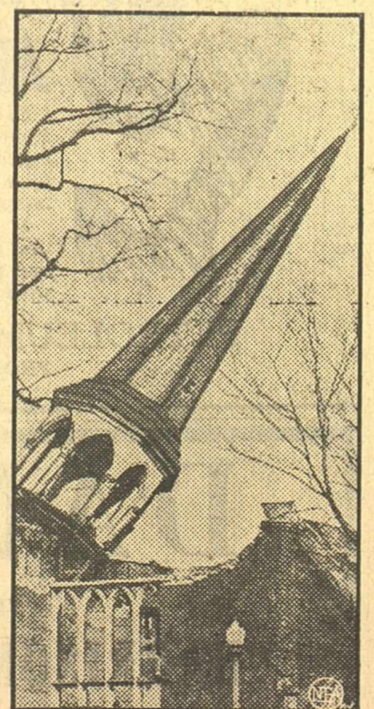

Twenty changes were made in claims and divisions of the land between the time that England claimed for the crown in 1609 and when it became a state in 1889. It was controlled respectively by England, France, and Spain between 1700 and 1803. In the latter year it was sold to the United States.

It was not until after Lewis and Clark returned from their famous expedition to the Northwest that a vague conception was obtained of the extent of the region.

At different times, South Dakota had been a part of Missouri, Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa, Minnesota, Nebraska and Dakota territory.

Immortal Poem Comes To Life

Tennessee's immortal poem, which every school boy in the land knows by heart, has taken life in the Warner Bros. picture "The Charge of the Light Brigade," now showing at the Ritz Theater. Errol Flynn (at right) Olivia DeHavilland, and Patric Knowles are seen above in a scene from the picture.

Annette, left, is pretty coy about it, but she invites you to join in the fun. Marie just contemplates, maybe yes, maybe no. Emilie is contentment personified. Yvonne, ah, a challenge to a race. And Cecile appears to be a little belligerent. Why isn't she being pulled back uphill?

Court Awards Auto Mechanic a Title

SAN JOSE, Cal. (U.P.)—Ernst Siber, 24-year-old auto mechanic, has demonstrated that while the Constitution prevents any foreign country from conferring a title of nobility on an American citizen, there is nothing to prevent an American court from doing so.

engineer at the San Jose hospital. His grandfather, however, who died in Germany a number of years ago, was authentically Baron von Schanenflugel.

However, as the latter name was entirely too much for the average American to pronounce, his father had his name changed to "Siber." The son, however, desirous of preserving his grandfather's name and title asked the court to restore him the family title name and all, regardless of the difficulties of pronunciation, and the court complied.

Oratory Urged To Help Police

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (U.P.)—The perfect policeman of the future will be an accomplished public speaker able and willing to harangue an audience on any subject.

The trouble with most of the city's police force is that they stammer and splutter and become embarrassed when called upon to deliver and impromptu lecture to a refractory motorist, Dougherty believes.

Moreover, untutored in the use of oratory, they often are unnecessarily blunt and rude in addressing persons who break the law, sometimes provoking a heated argument which results in bad feelings all around.

Oratorical Class Organized To remedy this, Dougherty has organized classes in public speaking and oratory for policemen and he is confident much of the ill feeling between the public and the police department will disappear speedily.

"After all, being a policeman is just like being in business," Dougherty said. "A business man has to sell himself to his patrons to be a success. The police officer must do likewise if he wishes to receive full co-operation from citizens."

"Poise and the knack of proper conversation will bring about a better understanding between the officer and the persons with whom he is brought in contact." The real reason why a policeman gets mad when bawling you out, is because he is unable to express himself adequately, Dougherty said.

Traffic Men Singled Out Traffic officers, more than most of the others, are in need of the benefits brought about through training in public speaking, according to Dougherty.

"The traffic officer often becomes irked when the motorist he has stopped questions his opinions and observations with more high flown language than he can command," Dougherty says.

"But take an officer who can express himself clearly and concisely, and the motorist will have little or no comeback. And the officer, being more sure of himself, will not be led so easily into revealing his anger."

Other advantages to the training, Dougherty believes are that officers will be able to write more intelligible reports and will become more adept in questioning suspects held for investigation.

Midget Plane Speeds Above 200-Mile Clip

SAN DIEGO, Cal. (U.P.)—The latest thing in vest-pocket airplanes—so small two men can pick it up and carry it, yet so powerful it zips across the sky at better than 200 miles an hour—is being groomed here for the National Air Races next fall.

H. G. Nicholson, who put the tiny, home-made monoplane through its paces on its first trial hop, said: "I don't think there's a thing in the country of her size that can touch its speed. We didn't have instruments on the test hop, but I know it did better than 200 miles an hour."

"Gosh," he said, as he pried himself out of the midget 600-pound ship, "it's so small the rudder felt like a collar button the back of my neck."

The tiny craft was designed by C. C. Flagg, an inspector in a San Diego aircraft plant, and built under his direction by six young air enthusiasts—Young McClure, Lionel Machado, Herbert Jewell, Joe

WOMAN URGES ALIMONY CURB AS LAWMAKER

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Mar 13 (U.P.)—Missouri's lone woman legislator has offered a bill for the "relief of alimony ridden" men, or those in danger of being classed in that state.

Mrs. Gladys B. Stewart, Republican member from Douglas county and a former assistant U. S. District attorney, has sponsored a measure which she believes will tend to curb "alimony grabbing tendencies" of some members of her sex.

If enacted, Mrs. Stewart's bill would prohibit the granting of alimony unless the marriage had existed more than five years, unless children of the divorced couple are living, or unless the wife has become physically disabled since her marriage.

Under the present Missouri divorce laws, trial judges may allow alimony with few restrictions.

Mrs. Stewart believes her proposal would reduce the number of divorces and make wives think twice before rushing to an attorney to file divorce proceedings.

"I feel that something should be done to discourage divorces," she said, "and I know of nothing which would tend to slow down marriage dissolutions so much as curtailment of alimony."

Opponents of the bill, however, insist her proposal would have the opposite effect of freedom seeking husbands. Men who have been married less than five years and have no children would take advantage of the law to sever marital bonds, knowing they would be free from paying alimony, according to male McCannon, J. Sturgis and L. MacDonald.

The little plane is only 14 feet long and its low wings spread but 12 feet. It is powered by a seven-cylinder, 90-horsepower rotary engine.

adversaries of the measure. Many lawyer members of the legislature are outspoken in their attempts to defeat the bill.

Legislators believe the bill may have some chance to pass the house, but doubt that it will survive the lawyer controlled senate.

Mrs. Stewart, holding no chivalrous ideas of male deference for any of her bills, thinks, however, the men at least should be grateful that a woman member sponsored a bill "definitely drawn for the relief of men."

"At least they can't say that all women are interested in seeking alimony," she said, "and I think the men should be grateful that a woman should fit to sponsor such a bill."

Mrs. Stewart, mother of one son, served as a special circuit judge and is the only woman in Missouri to sit on the bench. She is the only woman member of the state council of the Missouri Bar Association.

YELLOW BILLED CUCKOO

The yellow-billed cuckoo is of great value to the farmer as a destroyer of caterpillars, especially the hairy variety, which few other birds will eat. One cuckoo stomach was found to contain 250 tent caterpillars.

Baseball Remains Joe Jackson's First Love 17 Years After Ban

Fat and 50, Shoeless Still Yearns For Job

This is the third of a series about former sports stars.

BY RICHARD McCANN NEA Service Sports Writer

GREENVILLE, S. C. Mar. 13.—Fat as an alterman, Shoeless Joe Jackson is running a liquor store here and, says he, "doing a very nice business."

"I got two autos," says Joe, "and money in the bank. I'm happy." But he'd be happy here, Joe would, even if business were bad and he were broke. You see, this is home to him. It was here, 29 years ago, that Shoeless Joe, a gangling youth, came out of the backwoods and started so blithely down the baseball trail that was to have such an unholly and unhappy ending.

It was here that they gave him the picturesque nickname, Shoeless Joe. You don't have to coax the oldest inhabitants to tell you how it came about. Shoeless Joe, the story goes, was pitching one day—oh, sure pitching, 'cause Joe could do anything on the ball field, except, maybe, think—when his shoes (he wasn't much used to them) pinched him and raised blisters on his heels.

They burned with pain, but Joe wasn't one to quit. He just pulled off those ornery shoes, heaved them over to the sidelines and pitched the rest of the game in his bare feet.

From then on he was Shoeless Joe.

Thrown Out of Baseball For Making 12 Series Hits!

Joe is a respected citizen and a beloved neighbor here. They just can't believe that Joe did anything wrong. Not their Shoeless Joe.

They have all the spirit and none of the doubt which filled the heart of that little boy who trotted alongside Joe as he left the Cook county grand jury room during those disillusioning days of 1920 when the famous White Sox turned Black under the hot glare of investigation and clutched his sleeve and pleaded:

"Joe, Joe, say it ain't so! . . . Please."

The legend doesn't tell what Shoeless Joe said to the boy, but if that lad, grown to manhood now, is in the audience, it might please him to know that Joe says it ain't so. Joe feels no shame about the happening of 1919. On the other hand his proudest memory is of that sorry series. You see, he was asked what incident, or achievement did he like to recall now. It was expected that he would say "the .408 batting average I got in my first year in baseball back in 1911." It was a surprise when he said, quietly and with a bitter smile:

"The thing I like to think of most is my World Series record of learned how to read and to write and to run a business, but he has not learned how to reconcile himself to the bewildering things that happened to him, nor to forgive Judge Kenesaw M. Landis for expelling him from the game he loved.

"Sure," says Joe, "I'd love to be in the game—like to have something, anything to do with it. But I'd rather be out than to be in and bossed by a czar."

Jackson, who is either 48, 49 or 50 (nobody is quite sure which), played semi-pro baseball around these parts up until a few years ago. He tried to get reinstated three winters back so that he could manage the local minor league club, but Judge Landis, ignoring the pleas of the Greenville citizenry, kept the doors locked to Joe.

"I'd sort of like to be playing these days," says Joe, "cause I think, with this lively ball, I could give 'em a run for their money."

Series of 1917 Gave Joe Biggest Thrill

He likes to sit with the boys and talk about the old days. Invariably, when he gets to batting memories around he tells about the final game of the 1917 World Series between his White Sox and the New York Giants. "That gave me my biggest thrill, I guess," says Joe. "That was the game when Heinie Zimmerman chased Eddie Collins across the plate with the tying run and then, with me and Felsch on base, Gandil hit for two bases scoring us and we win the ball game."

Joe hasn't seen a big league game since 1932, when he dropped into the Yankee Stadium one afternoon while visiting New York City.

"Wish I coulda stepped up to the plate that day," says Joe. "I just know I coulda banged one out of the lot. My eyes are as good as ever."

But Joe would have a little trouble getting around the bases. He is almost batting 300 on the scales, tipping the beam, as the boys say, at 230 pounds—55 more than when he was the terror of the American League.

So you could hardly say Shoeless Joe is pining away in exile.

FINAL MEETING TO DECIDE WHETHER LEAGUE 'WILL GO'

Five Clubs Ready To Inaugurate New Circuit

It will be either "do or don't" for the West Texas League today when delegates from at least 7 towns meet here for the final organization meeting. The session is called for 2 p. m. in the private dining room on the mezzanine of the Hotel Scharbauer.

Two earlier meetings have failed to gain completion of the organization, but Joe Pate, representative of the National Baseball Association, sponsor of the league out here, is optimistic over prospects of all questions being settled today.

Since the last meeting held two weeks ago in Carlsbad Caverns, leagues of higher classification have taken an interest in the formation of the league, both Detroit and the St. Louis clubs of the American League having announced willingness to sponsor clubs. The Detroit sponsored club in the league will be Roswell. What club the Browns will back is not definitely known at present.

From all indications the league will start as a six-club affair with Midland, Odessa, Monahans, Wink, Hobbs and Roswell making up the membership. All clubs are definitely ready to start with the exception of Midland.

Ray Query, veteran minor league manager, has announced an interest in the Midland franchise and is expected to make a deal within the next few hours that will assure Midland organized ball here this year. All that is holding him back in his plans to go ahead is the fact that there is no fence around the diamond. It is believed this detail can be worked out without a great deal of trouble.

Big Spring is showing concerted amount of interest in placing a club there but it is doubtful if they can be taken in unless an eighth club can be landed somewhere. Right now, this appears unlikely as Lubbock and Clovis, two of the places considered earlier as possible franchise holders, have not taken enthusiastically to the idea of organized ball this year.

At present the clubs mentioned above as being ready to go all have managers on the grounds. At Odessa John Holley is to be the chief, Charley Urso and Mark Trammell will divide office and field manager's duties at Monahans, Johnny Neal will be boss of the Hobbs entry and Neal Rabe will handle the reins at Roswell for the Detroit club. Query will undoubtedly boss the Midland club if it is entered in the league.

behind a swing but depends mostly on his wrist strength.

In his 11 years, Waner has played in 1,638 games, made 2,254 hits in 6,486 times at bat, scored 1,227 runs. He has hit 449 doubles, 164 triples and 96 home runs for a total of 3,319 base. Runs batted in total 957. His fielding average for 11 years is .976.

P. Waner Hits .348 Over 11-Season Span

PITTSBURGH, (U.P.)—Paul Glee Waner who has a major league batting average of .348 over an 11-year stretch, has been one of the best investments made by the Pittsburgh Pirates.

A spindly fellow when he joined the Pirates in 1926, Waner, for whom the Pirates paid a high price played in 144 games and batted an average of .336.

Never under 300 during the 11 years, Paul won the first of three national league batting championships in his second year, when he turned in the high mark of .380. In that year Paul had 237 hits and batted in 131 runs, the highest of his career.

Paul retained his batting championship in his third season, hitting at a .370 clip, scoring 142 runs. His poorest year was in 1933 when he hit only .309 in 154 games. He came back the following year, 1934 dropped to .321 in 1935 but won the National League batting championship in 1936 with an average of .373.

Paul will be 34 years old next April 16. He weighs around 160 pounds and is 5 feet 8 1/2 inches tall.

Waner attributes his hitting prowess to his strong flexible wrists and his keen eye sight. But he gives most of the credit to his wrists because he does not put his full weight

The PAYOFF

JESS RODGERS

Baseball "has-beens," "now-ares," and "will-bees" are to be here today and when they leave the West Texas League will be or will not be organized for the year. It will possibly be the last meeting for the purpose of organization. Unless at least six clubs can assure baseball officials of their readiness to get started plans will be dropped until next year.

The meeting today, the third one so far, will be the first one in which more than a couple of clubs will be ready to go. Five are definitely ready to go. They are: Monahans, Wink, Odessa, Hobbs, Roswell.

Regarding stories published in state papers a couple of days ago about Odessa intending to seek membership in the Permian Basin League, John Holley, backer and boss of the Odessa franchise, says Odessa positively does not want in the Permian Basin affair but that the town is building a park for the sole idea of having a club in organized ball. He emphatically declared the stories came from a source that was speaking without authority.

Whether or not the new president of the league, Milton Price, secretary to President Gardner of the Texas League, will be in attendance today has not been announced. If not, his place will be filled by Bill Collins, active vice-president of the new circuit.

Bill, somehow, all time seems to be mixed up in baseball. After three or four years as head of the Permian Basin set-up he finally got them to take his resignation this year, only to be given a job with the new circuit.

And with Bill's departure from the Permian Basin League difficulties for the clubs started popping up. The before its official announcement. Daley's death wasn't utterly futile, though; the scene had been shot.

Martial Magic

The battlefield is only about 400 feet square, but such is the magic of the designers' diminishing perspective that it looks like miles of desolation laced by trenches and riddled by explosives. On one night, shots are taken from, say, east to west; the next night, south to north. Thus a number of completely different scenes have been secured.

Frank Hunter, the studio's explosive, fog, and fire specialist, took me to his workroom and showed me his bombs. There were scores of them, sinister cylinders, weighing two pounds and variously made to produce flashes, noise, and smoke. He showed me his switchboards, too, from which he explodes the bombs in No Man's Land. These bombs must be carefully placed, and their detonations perfectly timed, because the appearance on the screen must be of heavy shell-fire striking among advancing soldiers.

SKIN IRRITANTS NAMED

ST. LOUIS, (U.P.)—Dresses, furs, leather handbags, and occasionally dyed lingerie in many instances are responsible for the wearer's skin becoming inflamed, Dr. Norman Tobias, instructor in dermatology at St. Louis University, declared at symposium of the St. Louis Medical Society.

MOVIE WARS CALLED TOO REALISTIC AFTER MACHINE GUNNER DIES IN ONE

BY PAUL HARRISON NEA Service Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Mar. 4.—There is just a shade too much realism about this war they're waging down at Universal—practically in my backyard. A man has been killed in one of the fierce bomb-torn engagements.

He died, anyway. One minute he was standing in a corner of a wrecked French farmhouse, operating a machine gun which sprayed wax pellets over the heads of advancing German troops. The next minute there was a terrific blast outside, in simulation of an exploding shell. The machine gunner slumped to the floor. It was a swell job of dying, but it was his last performance. George R. Daley was actually dead.

There were no wounds, it was said, so it might have been heart failure brought about by the heavy concussion. The cause is of no concern whatever to George R. Daley.

Quite a few people are killed making movies, although the fatalities have proven less numerous than in several industries of lesser magnitude. Screen players receive a good wage as compensation for the risks involved.

Knew Victim

The case of Sergeant Daley is close to me only because of its actual proximity. I have talked to him and have watched him work. Night after night, for two months, I have heard the chattering of his and other machine guns, and the blasts of black-powder bombs. Always after each take, clearly audible from the loudspeaker, came the voice of Director James Whale. "Anybody hurt?"

And always, until this night when Daley died, a reassuring hubbub of voices answered Whale's inquiry. I had developed quite a neighborly feeling for the war, which is destined to provide the opening sequences for "The Road Back," another of Erich Marie Remarque's powerful preachment for peace. An ironic thing about these sequences is that their whole portent in the story is grimmest irony—the fighting and death which they portray are supposed to have happened needlessly, after the actual signing of the Armistice, but

KNEE NEEDS KNEADING

This isn't a wrestler trying to tear it off and take it home—it's Bobby Johnson, San Francisco Seals' trainer, working on a player's stiff knee. You'll find scenes like this throughout baseball's training camps.

Two one-act plays will be given this year instead of the usual three-act play which has been customary in the preceding years. Miss Agatha Bruner stated in an interview. One of the plays selected is "Fourteen", an aristocratic comedy in one act, by Alice Gerstenberg. This play has been outstanding in Little Theatre productions and was played in The Hollywood Community Theater in California last summer.

The cast of characters is:
Mrs. Horace Pringle—a delightful young lady of fashion, Miss Mary Kennington.
Elaïne, her debutante daughter, Miss Ruth Anderson.
Janette, the French maid, Miss Mary Wilson.

Work has been started on both plays, and Miss Bruner states that she hopes to have them ready for the public the first week in April. Both are royalty plays.

How Can We Prove This?
"Would there be any sound when a tree fell in the wilderness if no human creature were there to hear it?" is a question J. P. Williams gave some of his journalism students to prove, but he does not seem to realize how impossible the proof to such a question would be.

If we should go out in the wilderness, and be near the tree when it fell, we should answer that there was sound, for we heard it. But Mr. Williams would not accept that for an answer for we are living creatures and would be there to hear it if we heard it.

The Gusher, Grandfalls, Texas.

When we listened to President Roosevelt's inaugural address, via the radio, we were intrigued by the two lines of poetry he quoted. We hurriedly transcribed them and have since found their original setting. They are taken from a comparatively little known poem written by a late Victorian, Arthur O'Shaughnessy, an Irish poet who lived and wrote in England. We also found that Mable Dodge Luhn's recently published autobiography has for its title, a phrase from the same poem—"Movers and Shakers."

The last two lines of the poem are the two that were quoted by the president.

"We are the music makers, And we are the dreamers of dreams, Wandering by lone sea-breakers, And sitting by desolate streams; World losers and world forsakers, On whom the pale moon gleams; Yet we are the movers and shakers, Of the world forever; it seems.

With wonderful deathless ditties We build up the world's great cities, And out of a fabulous story We fashion an empire's glory; One man with a dream, at pleasure, Shall go forth and conquer a crown; And there with a new song's measure Can trample a kingdom down.

Water Well Data Is Being Gathered By Texas WPA Workers

The state board of water engineers and the United States geological survey are sponsoring a statewide works progress administration project known as "Statewide Inventory of Water Wells." The purpose of this survey is to obtain information concerning existing wells and springs, and the quantity and quality of water they yield, to put down test holes in areas where there are no wells, or where the wells are few, and to compile and publish the information thus obtained.

The publications usually contain about 100 pages of records of wells and springs, typical drillers' logs, logs of the Works Progress Administration test wells, chemical analysis of wells and spring waters and maps showing the location of all wells and springs described.

The records have been released on the following: Cherokee county, 104 pages, 1 planographed map. Hardeman county, 60 pages, 1 planographed map. Hederson county, 103 pages, 10 mimeographed maps. Artesian water in Somervell county by A. G. Fielder. Geology and ground water resources of Uvalde and Medina counties by A. N. Sayre. Geology and ground water resources of Atascosa and Frio counties, by John T. Lonsdale.

'Goofy Goonies' Of Lonely Isle Boast Insignia

BERKELEY, Cal. (U.P.)—Mario Chianaretto, 36, potter by trade, has moulded an official insignia for the "Goofy Goonies" club of Midway Island, one of the unique organizations of the world.

The insignia is to be sent there by one of the Pacific Clippers. Chianaretto, who is one of the charter members of the "Goofy Goonies", explains that the club completed its organization on April 13, 1936. Qualifications for membership involves a residence of at least one month on Midway Island.

The club is composed largely of cable company employes, members of construction parties that were sent to the island by the Pan-Pacific Airways, and also colonists sent to maintain weather observation stations. The club started with an original membership of 76.

Chianaretto explained for the benefit of anyone who does not know what a real gooney is that it is a member of the albatross family and that until the Pan-American Airways invaded the island, it reigned almost supreme over the desolate region.

For the original initiation of the "Goofy Goonies" club, he said that the founders got together a lot of raw fish, mixed it with mustard, seaweed and other things and then fed it to the initiate in much the manner that the goony feeds its young.

The plaque which is being sent out to Midway Island as the official insignia of the club bears the image of a goony bird and also a Clipper ship.

Kansas City's Lesson Shows How Voting Frauds May be Uprooted

This is the first of two articles revealing the true significance of the Kansas City election fraud trials. The picture of ballot-stealing uncovered and punished by federal investigators and courts is of vital interest to every voter.

(By NEA Service)

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Mar. 12—The American citizen is not only entitled to a vote. He is entitled to have it counted—and counted right.

If that right is allowed to lapse by a crooked city government or is denied by a political machine, the federal government stands ready to do something about it.

This lesson is being driven home to Kansas Citizens as the most thorough city housecleaning of many a year continues to shake this city.

Seven people are already ticketed for jail, reformatory or prison terms of from six months to three years. Four more have been convicted and sentence suspended. Sixty more are under indictment. And a still-active federal grand jury has summoned 30 more who face possible indictment.

Kansas City, whose local and state politics have for years been dominated by "Boss" Thomas Jefferson Pendergast, has long been accustomed to election frauds. Ballot boxes have been stuffed, election judges and voters intimidated, voters allowed to "repeat" ballots not counted, or the count falsified.

In 1934, there were five killings and 11 sluggings in and around election booths.

"Good citizens" gradually adopted an attitude of "Well, it's terrible, but nothing can be done about it. The state government, dominated by the Pendergast machine, offered no relief.

ACTED ON PROTEST But there happens to be a federal law called the Civil Rights Act. It says: "If two or more persons conspire to injure, oppress, threaten or intimidate any citizen in the free exercise or enjoyment of any right or privilege secured to him by the Constitution or laws of the United States, or because of his having so exercised the same they shall be fined not more than $5000 and imprisoned not more than 10 years, and shall, moreover, be thereafter ineligible to any office, or place of honor, profit, or trust created by the Constitution or laws of the United States."

Certain indignant citizens went to federal district judges Albert L. Reeves and Merrill E. Otis, and to U. S. district attorney Maurice M. Milligan, and laid the situation before them. The bare figures on the election of November, 1936, showed that there had been widespread crookedness.

A federal grand jury made up of Missourians from outside Kansas City was impaneled. Prosecutor Milligan obtained the voting records, checked tally sheets against ballots, checked registrations, carefully examined ballots, summoned witnesses who were certain their ballots had not been counted. Anonymous threats to judges and prosecutor failed to deter them.

Within 60 days, 75 indictments had been returned, 11 convictions had been obtained.

Because the federal grand jury has remained in session looking into ballot boxes, many other persons in Kansas City, both Republican and Democratic, who served at the general election Nov. 3, remain a bit jittery.

So thorough and convincing has the government's prosecution been, it is doubtful if either the Democratic or the Republican organization in Kansas City could muster tomorrow a full complement of men and women to man the polls.

ROUTINE TASKS The 75 indicted and the 11 convicted are ordinary men and women. They took their election chores as they would a daily habit. For years they had worked at the polls. And for years votes had been counted that had not been cast.

Most of the poll workers or members of their families, were office holders. Each election was an incentive to exhibit party zeal. It was a big moment for the precinct captain to report that he was turning in 600 odd votes for So-and-So and 48 votes for the opposing candidate.

Before the November election, Pendergast sent out word that "law and order" be observed at the polls. But some of the boys and some of the women, not realizing the government was giving a special look in at this presidential election, tried to see if they could report a majority that would attract the attention of the "big boss" and perhaps win a better job.

Judges Otis and Reeves, Republicans, and Prosecuting Attorney Milligan, a Democrat, are at odds with the Kansas City Democratic organization, but the very background of the election investigation and the resultant indictments and convictions of Republicans as well as Democrats, shears the investigation of partisanship.

AIDED BY F. B. I. As early as the registration in September, 1936, a group of Kansas City attorneys called on Judge Reeves, protesting against irregularities.

"Action as this time would be construed as political, but if you bring me evidence of fraud at the general election in the votes for president, vice president or representative in Congress, then I can summon a grand jury to take action," Judge Reeves said.

On the following Dec. 14, Judge Reeves moved for a complete and immediate federal investigation of alleged fraud at the Nov. 3 election.

"I understand witnesses will be before you to say there were men who cast ballots that were never certified," Judge Reeves said in his charge to the grand jury. "We can't surrender the ballot boxes to thugs, gangsters and plug-uglies."

Before the grand jury paraded voters testifying as to the ballots they cast and their experiences at the polls. Much of the evidence presented before the jury was supplied by federal bureau of investigation agents who had interviewed voters.

The result was 75 indictments and an early trial of seven of the defendants before a jury in the court of Judge Otis.

VOTE DISCREPANCIES First to go to trial were Edson M. Walker, Democratic judge; Lorretta McEntee, Democratic judge; Chloe Albright, Republican judge; Elijah Burke, Republican judge; Anna V. O'Laughlin, Democratic clerk; Tessie Mears, Republican clerk; and John H. Drummond, Democratic precinct captain, all from the 13th precinct, 12th ward.

All were indicted on charge they falsely, fraudulently and corruptly counted the ballots. It was alleged they certified the vote in the precinct was as follows for presidential elector: Roosevelt 688; Landon, 61.

The indictment claimed that votes in the precinct actually were cast as follows: Roosevelt 570; Landon, 170.

The second count in the indictment alleged the vote in the precinct was reported as follows for representative in Congress: C. Jasper Bell, 666; Paul R. Byrum, 0.

The actual and truthful count, it was claimed, was: C. Jasper, 572; Paul R. Byrum, 172.

It is apparent there was no necessity for fraud. The majority

Tribute Paid To Departed Pioneers

Tribute to departed pioneers of this section was made in a letter to Judge J. H. Knowles from "General" J. M. McKenzie of Big Spring, former Midland resident.

Judge Knowles said that he and General McKenzie, with the late Burwell Aycock formerly "held down" West Tom Green county from which Midland county was formed.

McKenzie's letter, addressed to "Dear Friend Joe," follows: "I was so sorry that I could not get to Midland, in time for Burwell's funeral. I never learned of his death until after 10 o'clock. I missed the article in the Big Spring, Herald, until Mrs. McKenzie asked me about it. It was nearly 11 o'clock before I learned about when the funeral would be held. I went to the Bus Station, and found that the next bus that went west left here after 4 p. m.

"I was so sorry that I could not look on the face of my friend once more, for he will doubtless go straight to Heaven, and I may not make the grade. However, that may be, the country lost a fine citizen, some of us lost a good friend, and the world is better off for Burwell Aycock having lived.

"I heard that Jim Flanagan died a short time ago. I will try to get up there as soon as I can for pretty soon there will not be many people there that I know. It is getting that way in this town. If I don't beat the undertaker this winter, I will certainly be disappointed. However, I am hoping all of you old boys that are left will be careful of your health and be there when the Spring Roundup is made. I tried to send you and Mrs. Aycock a message, but the telegraph offices were closed until 4 p. m.

"Kindest regards to Mrs. Knowles, and any of my old friends you happen to contact. With the very best regards, and all good wishes, I remain as ever, your friend,

Federal Home Loan Bank System Members Boast Credit Capacity of 937 Millions

WASHINGTON, Mar. 12 (Special)—The 3,770 savings and loan associations holding membership in the Federal Home Loan Bank System have a potential credit capacity of $973,000,000 from which resources can be drawn for home construction and financing throughout the United States this year according to a statement today by Preston Delano, governor of the system.

He cited a report showing how rapidly this great reserve credit system has grown since its organization by congress in July 1932 and the widespread use now being made of its facilities in providing loans for the building, repair, purchase and refinancing of homes.

"In December 1932 there were but 118 member institutions of the Federal Home Loan Bank System, with only $217,000,000 in assets," said Mr. Delano. "Today the 3,770 members, located in all parts of the country, have total assets of more than $3,300,000,000. These thrift and lending institutions form a huge national network to provide American citizens with funds to finance their homes through long term loans."

The largest number of members in one Home Loan Bank region are in the Pittsburgh district, there being 536 as of January 1, 1937. Cincinnati is second with 526; Chicago, third, 473; Winston-Salem, N. C. fourth, 427; New York fifth, 412; Little Rock sixth, 266; Des Moines, seventh, 227; Topeka, eighth, 224; Indianapolis, ninth, 189; Los Angeles, tenth, 173; Boston, eleventh, 172; Portland, twelfth, 135.

"These twelve banks constitute a national reservoir of funds from which member institutions can borrow in much the same way that commercial banks can draw on the Federal Reserve System," Mr. Delano explained.

"With home construction again on the upgrade, partly because credit is available, it should be emphasized that more liberal lending policies have been widely adopted over the country by such associations.

"The long term amortized loan, popularized by savings, building and loan associations, is becoming universal and families wishing to build, buy or retain homes can now do so under more advantageous circumstances as the result of the progress in reshaping the home mortgage structure of the nation. Membership in the Federal Home Loan Banks is open to the three classes of thrift institutions that finance a large percentage of urban homes, namely, savings, building and loan associations; savings banks, and insurance companies. So far, savings and loan associations have taken the greatest advantage of the protection and of the facilities offered by this new reserve system.

"To families which may desire to finance their homes on a long-term basis with a member institution, the Federal Home Loan Bank System means security against a sudden withdrawal of mortgage credit. It means also an increased volume of funds available for various types of home financing, and particularly a better distribution of such funds over the nation.

"The former isolation of home-financing institutions frequently caused many communities everywhere, and the west and south as a whole, to suffer from an under-supply of credit for home financing at the time when large financial centers had a surplus. The bank system acts now as a stabilizer, transferring surplus funds from one community to another where the demand exceeds the supply."

Mr. Delano also emphasized the necessity for safeguards that will assure the home builder more value for his money. The bank system is encouraging the use of better designs, materials and construction methods, he said.

"The experiences of the depression have brought home the fact that the average family cannot, unaided, assure itself housing of a necessary standard, and that too many homes are jerry-built, wasteful, and spiritually frustrating. The home financing institution has the power, because of its control of the purse strings, to protect the borrowing home owner against substandard housing.

"The system is attempting to encourage and aid its member institutions to use this power. With the collaboration of the architectural profession it is seeking to make available through member institutions expert technical advice and supervision to the purchaser of even the lowest cost home."

The bodies of fulmar petrels were used as lamps by early natives on St. Kilda Island. The carcass is so oily that it burns readily.

Today's Sunday School Lesson

By W. W. LACKEY

JESUS PRAYING FOR HIS DISCIPLES
John 16:1-17. Print: John 6: 5-7; 17:14-26. Read: John; Chapters 16 and 17; Heb. 7:19-25; Luke 10: 17-24; Gal. 3:20-29.

I. THE WORK OF THE HOLY SPIRIT:
1. "It is expedient for you that I go away." Power, holiness, loveliness.
2. Convict the world of sin, righteousness, and judgment. Yielded-witness.

3. Unity vs. union: "In in them... He will guide you into all truth" God's greatest gift; our petty requests. "Ask, my name, will give it."

II. CHRIST'S GREAT PRAYER:
1. "Nothing more dignified, holy, fruitful, pathetic;" "Sanctuary of universe."
2. "Not take them out of the world but keep them from the evil one."
3. Unity vs. union: "I in them... thou in me... they in us."
4. "For their sakes." Two theories of life: Self-development or self-giving.

III. MARKS OF CHRISTIAN BROTHERHOOD:
1. Witnessing group, oneness of purpose, in but not of, supreme values.
2. Filled with the Spirit: The Holy Spirit a personal possession.
3. Sent men; the complacent Christian, living in two worlds at the same time.
4. "Good tidings, deliverance, sight liberty." Not the righteous but sinners.

IV. THINGS OF SUPREME VALUE
1. Valued in life: Clothes, position, power, pleasure, spiritual attainment.
2. Emphasized in prayer: Eternal life, unity, purity, consecration to truth.
3. Suggestions: Think, read, meditate, and pray; be modest, humble, and tolerant.
4. The art of enjoying spiritual exercises; be earnest and energetic.

V. POINTS TO PONDER:
1. Things that please us or pain us as revelators of our character.
2. Not elected to privilege, but to service; not hoarding, but distribution.
3. Unity of faith by growth; Speaking the truth in love.
4. Jesus prayed; action versus words; not what but whom.

VI. SENTENCE SERMONS:
1. "He to his own a Comforter The promise of the Father, who will send, The promise of the Father, who shall dwell His Spirit within them, and the law of faith. Working through love, upon their hearts shall write Working through love, upon their hearts shall write

2. "Though beset and tempted by foes without, And tortured within by dark fears and doubt— Oft perplexed and troubled and tossed about, Yet kept! Though hindered or helped, relieved or tried, Today permitted, tomorrow denied, Yet by the strong Presence I walk beside Still kept!"—English Poet.
3. "I found that when I walked with men in simple brotherhood, I also walked in tune with God in joyous, filial moof." —D. L. Ritchie.

Aerial Tape Around the World's Waistline Amelia Aims Plane's Nose at Equator to Take Measure of Globe

Freckled, leather-coated, boyish Amelia Earhart is pictured above at the controls of the Lockheed Electra in which she hopes to circle the world at its "waistline"—a 27,000-mile westward flight with Oakland, Calif., the start and end, crossing the equator four times. She hopes to make the trip in 15 days, elapsed time.

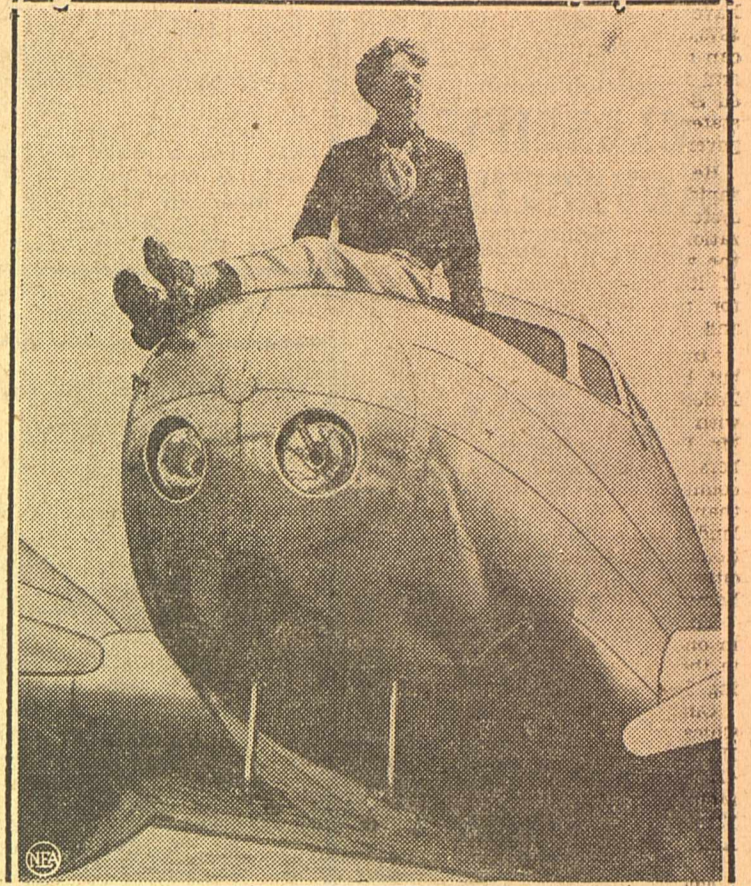

The heavy black line across the face of the two hemispheres shows the course of Amelia Earhart's world flight.

Large, impressive, efficient is the big Electra which Miss Earhart equipped especially for her flight. Besides being the first woman to attempt such a hop, she also is the first pilot of either sex to attempt it in a dual-motored ship without a relief pilot on the major portion of the trip. Literally a flying laboratory, the plane is furnished by the Purdue Research Foundation. It is powered by two Wasp motors, has a cruising range of 4000 miles, is equipped with the latest in modern radio apparatus.

Capt. Harry Manning, above, of the United States Lines, will accompany Miss Earhart just on the 7000-mile Pacific crossing and as navigator only.

Smilingly confident was the nation's foremost woman flyer in her own ability to make her flight alone, and in the mechanical perfection of the airplane on which she perched, above, to stand the enormous strain of such a trip. Months have been spent in the careful preparations which always have made her hops successful.

ADDED SAFETY IN COLLEGIATE BOXING URGED

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. (AP)—Recommending the adoption of heavier boxing gloves for collegiate fighters and elimination of hand bandages, Leo Houck, boxing coach at Penn State College defended collegiate boxing against the criticism which followed the death of a V. M. I. fighter.

brings forth widespread criticism of the sport whether it happens to be football, baseball or boxing. "Boxing is not necessarily a hazardous sport," Houck said. "Coaches and officials can remove needless dangers if they are alert and are sincere in their efforts to teach the code of college boxing—to outpoint by skill and speed is more credible than to win by knockout."

Houck, who never was knocked out in his 200 professional fights, made five suggestions which he believes would benefit college boxing if adopted by the National Collegiate Athletic Association. The suggestions are:

1. Adoption of 12 instead of 10 ounce gloves.
2. Prevention of amateur boxers from competing on college teams unless they enroll in college immediately after high school graduation.
3. Disbarment of any college boxer who participates in amateur bouts after college enrollment.
4. Continued attempt to obtain competent, fearless officials in the ring, who without exception, will stop a bout in which one contestant is hopelessly outclassed.
5. Elimination of all hand bandaging.

"Too many coaches take advantage of the rule which permits them to tape the hands with a soft material—not heavy enough to add to the force of the blow. Often a contestant whose hand is injured is prevented most of the minor accidents. Also, I am emphatically in favor of eliminating all bandaging—tape or gauze.

Heavy Bandaging Used
"When accidents occur in collegiate boxing, Houck said, the blame should be placed on referees and other officials who followed neither the spirit nor the letter of existing regulations.

The Nittany Lions have had a team in competition as long as any college in the country—19 years. Except for minor cuts and bruises, no serious injury has ever interfered with the boxing program. In practice all boxers wear mouth protectors and head guards.

Following his ring retirement in 1923, Houck began coaching at Penn State. Since then he has turned out 32 individual Eastern Collegiate boxing champions, three National Collegiate title-holders, and Penn State has won six Eastern Intercollegiate Boxing Association tournaments.

Stamp News

BY I. S. KLEIN

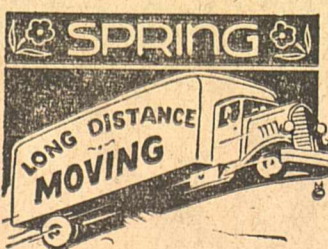

WHILE fighting proceeds, the opposing forces in Spain are issuing their own stamps. Following a long series of overprinted stamps, the nationalists have produced a set of pictorials under the name of "Espana," while the Madrid government has brought forth new stamps of "Republica Espana." The "Espana" stamps include pictures of "Le Cid," famous legendary hero of Spain, and noted Moorish scenes in that country. The republican stamps include portraits of Velasquez, famous painter; Queen Isabella, who backed Columbus; and Pablo Iglesias, noted labor leader.

Bills before Congress call for a special Puerto Rico stamp, another for Gen. Thaddeus Kosciuszko on the 150th anniversary of his naturalization as an American citizen, and a third for Horace Mann, great American educator. Officials in New Jersey, also, are seeking a stamp commemorating the 150th anniversary of ratification of the Constitution by that state.

Italy is issuing another set of stamps on Ethiopia, this time providing a definite type for each of the five provinces.

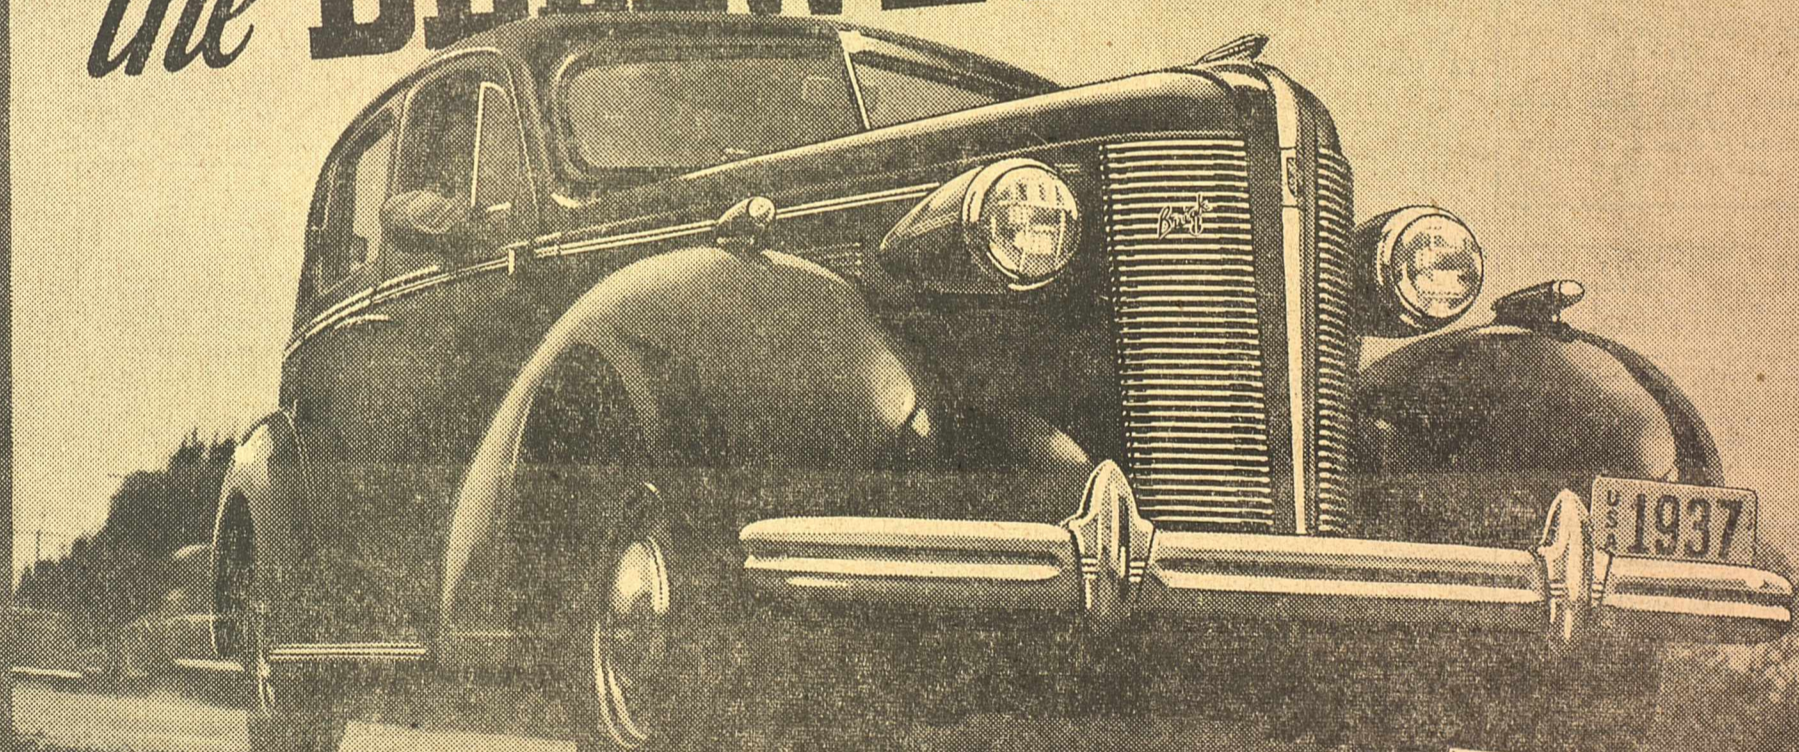

Mexico has created a philatelic agency similar to that of the United States, where stamps of that country may be had at face value, plus cost of postage and registration. A list of stamps available may be had by writing to the agency in Mexico City. (Copyright, 1937, NEA Service, Inc.)

All steps turn toward the Easter parade. All minds are set on a smart appearance. All hearts are set on being conquered by romance. The Easter Parade — formal acceptance of Spring. Play your role graciously, by being so splendidly dressed, that all eyes will turn to you. . .

There are no two ways about it: you're either very smart, or just plain silly to spend money for clothes. It's up to the shop you buy from to turn you out with the smartness you're aiming for; and we promise that, because the very way we present our clothes to you prevents shopping-confusion. And the clothes we have make a poor choice impossible: a flattering choice certain!
