BRITISH INQUIRE INTO SHIPMENTS OF POISONOUS GAS

Cargo Alleged Sent To Insurgents From Germany

PATROL STARTS

Guarding of Borders Of Spain to Start At Midnight

LONDON, April 18 (P).—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden told the House of Commons today that the British government is inquiring into reports that poison gas had been shipped to Spanish insurgents from Hamburg, Germany.

Meanwhile, naval and land staffs of 27 cooperating nations are ready to put the Spanish non-intervention patrol into effect at midnight.

About 60 warships from the navies of Great Britain, France, Germany and Italy will begin a check of the entire coast line of Spain. The land observers, to be stationed at the French, Portuguese and Gibraltar Spanish borders, will total about 500.

Governors Oppose Any Slash in Relief

CHICAGO, April 19 (P).—An Associated Press survey completed before the Roosevelt relief message this week today showed the state governors representing almost a solid front were against reduction of the federal program.

QUOTA FOR GOLD IMPORTS BEING STUDIED BY U. S.

Practicability of Scheme Doubt By Several

WASHINGTON, April 19 (P).—Congressmen heard today that governmental financial experts are studying the possibility of placing a quota on gold imports to help check the inflow of foreign capital.

Several legislators said they doubted the practicability of the scheme. Rep. Dies of Texas proposed instead that the president call an international monetary conference which would work out the ratio of exchange and a program for the redistribution of gold accumulated in the United States.

MOVING FROM ANGELO

Mrs. Tom R. Newberry will come to Midland this week to join Mr. Newberry who recently took charge of the shoe department at Addison Wadley Co. Their daughter, Miss Frances, will remain in San Angelo, until the close of school when she will be graduated from San Angelo College.

MIDLAND TYPISTS ASSERT SUPREMACY IN DISTRICT CONTESTS OVER 8 TEAMS

The Midland typing team again came out in front in district competition when they defeated McCamey, second place team, by 13.44 points for the cup given by the First National bank.

Seventeen students, representing nine high schools, entered the event, which was directed by Mrs. R. D. Scruggs, head of the commercial department of Midland high school. Velma Johnson, of Midland, won the gold medal for first place and Christine Pate, a teammate, the silver medal for second place. The third place bronze medal went to R. Stafford of McCamey. The high score for the Midland team was 137.24, the McCamey score 123.80.

A Queenly Aquatic Quartet? Quite!

Four girls who would make quite a splash in any aquatic meet are those swimming and diving stars at the A. A. U. meet in Chicago. Left to right, ready to take to the water, are: Marion Mansfield, Chicago star; Marjorie Gestring, Los Angeles, Olympic champion; Arlita Smith, another Chicago ace, and Claudia Eckert, also of Chicago, who set a new meet record in the 100-yard free style.

HITLER SUGGESTS ECONOMIC MEET

Says Germany 'Willing' To Attend if FDR Calls It

BERLIN, April 19 (P).—Adolf Hitler today told the visiting British Laborite George Lansbury, as the Reich celebrated its leader's forty-eighth birthday, that Germany would be "very willing" to attend an international economic conference if President Roosevelt or some other major statesman called it.

THREAT NOTES ARE SENT DR. MATTSO

Capture of Kidnap and Slayer of His Son Is Predicted

TACOMA, Wash., April 19 (P).—Dr. W. W. Mattson revealed today new threats had been made against members of his family, but expressed confidence the kidnap-slayer of his small son would be captured soon.

FORT WORTH VISITOR

Mrs. Frank L. Jack of Fort Worth is spending two weeks with her sister, Mrs. M. C. Osborne, on North Marienfeld.

Many Cities Naming 'Sweetheart' No. 1 For Frontier Fiesta

Every mail is bringing in letters of acceptance from cities invited to participate in the Texas Sweetheart No. 1 contest, according to a letter just received from the Fort Worth Fiesta by Bill Collins, manager of the chamber of commerce.

One hundred cities were invited to select their representative to take part in the final contest in Fort Worth on Saturday, May 22. The winner last year, Miss Faye Cotton of Borger, is now in Hollywood with Universal Pictures.

The new Texas Sweetheart No. 1 will be given a featured role in Billy Rose's Casa Manana Revue of 1937 and afterward she will have an opportunity in motion pictures. Each girl chosen to represent a city will be paid her fare, by train or bus, from her home city to Fort Worth and return, and if she lives a distance that would make it necessary for her to spend a night in Fort Worth, her hotel room will be provided by the Frontier Fiesta. Each contestant will be given an audition by Rose and, even if she does not win the Texas Sweetheart title, each girl will have a chance to gain a part in the Casa Manana Revue.

Although the invitations went out only a few days ago, more than 30 cities already have notified the Frontier Fiesta that they will choose a representative.

Polo Pony Trade Active Last Week

George Miller of San Antonio, veteran dealer in polo ponies, bought three horses here late last week, reportedly paying a top price of $500 for a chestnut horse purchased from Elliott F. Cowden. The horse was raised by the Scharbauer Cattle Co. and was of the same crop as "Tommy," "Chigger" and others seen on race track and in rodeo arena here.

Holt Jowell sold one horse to Miller, a brown four-year-old, full brother to one he sold Miller and Cecil Smith last year. Bill Wyche and Homer Ingham also sold a horse to Miller, Ingham having supplied him with two others a few months ago. Miller received two horses here from Snyder, trucking the five to San Antonio Saturday afternoon.

Holt Jowell also brought two horses here from the Spence Jowell ranch at Quay, N. M., having bought them for his personal use in the polo club to be started at Midland soon.

SLAUGHTER WELL FLOWS 333 BBL. ON 24-HOUR TEST

Hockley Discovery To Re-Treat With Acid

By FRANK GARDNER

Official 24-hour gauge on the Texas Company No. 1 Slaughter southwest Hockley county was 333 barrels of pipe line oil, accompanied by 450,000 cubic feet of gas. The flow, which varied from eight to 24 barrels hourly, came through 2 1/2 inch tubing, with swab on from her home city to Fort Worth at bottom. Operators are now reported pulling tubing to recover swab preparatory to re-acidizing the discovery well with 5,000 gallons. No. 1 Slaughter was treated with 2,000 gallons late last week, and flowed 265 barrels in nine hours and 15 minutes prior to starting the production test. The well is bottomed at 5,023, plugged back from 5,030 to shut off water. It is located in labour 83, league 38, Zavalla county school land.

Magnolia No. 1 Taylor, northeast Yoakum wildcat in section 201, block D, J. H. Gibson survey, this morning was drilling red rock at 2,280 feet. Farther southwest in Yoakum, Baban & Rhodes and Fitzpatrick No. 1 L. B. Shook Estate, section 420, Block D had reached 2,250 feet, still in red shale.

Carter-Conoco No. 1 Wasson, wildcat in northern Gaines 16 miles west of Seagraves, is cleaning out 400 feet of bottom preparatory to running 7-inch casing. Now bottomed at 3,093 in anhydrite, the well has been blowing out, which has delayed running pipe. It encountered oil from 2,944-50 and gas from 2,979 to 3,002. Location is 2,310 feet from the north and 330 feet from the west line of section 48, block AX, public school land.

Shell No. 1 S. F. Mann, east offset to the first oil well at Seminole in Gaines, twisted off drillpipe at 4,526, but finished it out and is drilling ahead at 4,556 in lime and anhydrite.

Pecos Failure

Walter Abell No. 1 White & Baker, Pecos wildcat between the Yates and Taylor-Link pools, is being plugged and abandoned at total depth of 2,062 feet. It encountered sulphur water from 2020-55. Location of the failure is 830 feet from the south and 210 feet from the east line of section 2, block 179, T. C. R. R. survey.

Five miles to the north, Pine-rock and Downey No. 1 White & Baker, southeast corner of section 5, block 207, T. C. R. R. survey, is drilling shallow at 1,150 feet.

A. H. Flaherty & Son No. 1 Cunninghamham, recent strike northwest of the Rowan-Tong area in Pecos, is running tubing to re-acidize. Operators decided not to shoot the well with nitro, as originally reported. Last week, after initial treatment with 1,000 gallons, it pumped 74 barrels net oil in 10 hours, then pumped off. A second treatment failed to better production. Total depth is 2,249, with pay topped at 2,244.

Humble No. 1 Gray, Delawares test in extreme western Pecos, lost tools at 3,616 feet in lime and is preparing to pull casing to facilitate their recovery.

Running Tubing

Gulf No. 4 Waddell, Ordovician flush producer in western Crane county, is reported running tubing today. No test has been made since the well flowed 283 barrels in three (See OIL NEWS, page 6)

G-MAN SUCCUMBS. BANK ROBBERS TO FACE INDICTMENT

Murder Charges Will Be Preferred In Topeka

WOUNDS FATAL

Agent Lived for Two Days After Being Shot 4 Times

KANSAS CITY, April 19 (P).—Dwight Brantley, head of the Kansas City federal bureau of investigation office, said today that two New York gunmen, Alfred Power and Robert Suhay, would be arraigned and murder warrants sought for the fatal shooting Friday of W. W. Baker, agent, in Topeka Friday.

"The parole board made a mistake, and Baker paid for it with his life," said Brantley.

TOPEKA, Kas., Apr. 19 (P).—The bullets of two New York gunmen he sought to trap Friday in a Topeka post office claimed the life of a young federal agent just as his fellow G-Men were clamping an $11,000 web of evidence about the spectacular gangsters Sunday.

W. W. Baker, 27, the agent, died in a hospital of four bullet wounds he suffered in his first major assignment. An emergency operation and at least two blood transfusions were futile.

The death of the agent was shielded in such secrecy by the federal bureau of investigation that it did not become publicly known until the body was removed to a funeral home. Baker's father, a resident of Yuma, Ariz., was understood to be in seclusion here.

In Kansas City, federal agents Alfred Power and Robert Suhay, both N. Y. bank robbers, were indicted Saturday by U. S. Attorney S. S. Alexander said to be a prompt indictment for murder.

The prosecutor indicated the indictment would be sought before a June grand jury although there was a possibility of a special grand jury being called earlier. Alexander said the death penalty would be demanded.

Warrants charging first degree murder will be issued for Suhay and Power tomorrow, Alexander said. He indicated they might be taken before a U. S. Commissioner in either Kansas City, Kas., or Leavenworth, location of a federal prison.

Baker was the tenth federal agent killed in the line of duty since 1925. George Barrett, Kentucky moonshiner, was the first man executed under a new law providing the death penalty for the slaying of federal agents. He was hanged in Indianapolis, March 24, 1936, for the slaying of Agent Nelson B. Klein in August, 1935.

In Ontario Cabinet Strike Purge

Because they indicated unwillingness to join the Ontario premier's stern opposition to the strike of General Motors employees at Oshawa, Minister of Labor David A. Croft, right, and Attorney General Arthur W. Roebuck, above, were asked to resign from the Ontario provincial government. Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn requested them to leave so his cabinet would be solidly behind him in his fight "against the forces of John L. Lewis and communism." The Oshawa strike was sponsored by the U. A. W. A., affiliated with the Lewis Committee for Industrial Organization.

'WILL FIGHT ALL SUMMER IF IT IS NECESSARY,' SAYS

Impetus is Given To Special Session Statements

UP TO SENATORS

Desires Measure Be Pushed Through Immediately

AUSTIN, April 19 (P).—Governor Alfred said today that he was "prepared for an all-summer fight if necessary for the repeal of the horse race betting law," giving weight to previous indications he will call a special session to repeal the measure unless the senate reaches a vote at the present legislative session.

Meanwhile, the house debated a bill providing a new liquor control act, voted overwhelmingly to print on a minority report a bill dividing the state into public health districts, requested the state department heads to furnish detailed information concerning public relations of employees on the state payroll.

Prospects for action on important appropriation bills were brighter as subcommittees worked toward completing the house measures, and the senate considered proposals of an increased tax on oil, gas and sulphur offered in connection with a constitutional amendment for the sales tax.

The house killed an amendment to the new liquor control bill legalizing the sale of hard liquor by drink.

Crippled Children To Benefit by Seal Sale in City Monday

Announcement was made today that the Easter Seal sale for the benefit of crippled children would be conducted here Monday, April 26.

The campaign is to be conducted and sponsored by the Midland Rotary club, assisted in the ticket sales by members of the Junior Wednesday club.

Members of the Junior Wednesday club Monday will be located in various buildings of the town selling the seals.

Rev. Edw. P. Harrison, O. M. I. chairman of the Rotary club seal sale committee, expressed hope to purchase the sale would respond as it is one of the outstanding charitable events held annually. "You can rest assured you are doing a charitable act by the purchase of the seals," he stated.

WTCC Convention Program Outlined

BROWNWOOD, April 19.—Program for the 19th annual convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce to be held in Brownwood May 10, 11 and 12 has been outlined and include business discussions and entertainment features of interest to every West Texan.

Brownwood and the WTCC convention office here are making plans to entertain at least 10,000 people.

Speakers of national prominence will appear on programs of the convention business sessions. "West Texas Follies of 1937" in which West Texas' most beautiful girl will be crowned Queen will be staged Monday and Tuesday nights, May 10 and 11. Dances also will be held Monday and Tuesday nights and other entertainment features are being arranged.

Registration for the convention will begin at 9 a. m. Monday. First meeting of the convention work committee, with Houston Harte, San Angelo publisher, as chairman, will be held at the same time. Meeting of the elections committee, with A. B. Crump, Wheeler, as chairman, will be held at 11 a. m.

WTCC directors will meet at a luncheon at noon with Van Zandt Jarvis, Fort Worth, president, and Mr. Harte in charge. Directors nominated by the almost 200 towns affiliated with the WTCC will be elected.

First group conference of the convention will be held Monday afternoon on "Farm Tenancy and Unemployment." H. G. Lucas, Brownwood, will be chairman.

Preliminaries in the My Home Town speaking contest will be held Monday afternoon, Monday night and Tuesday afternoon in the First Presbyterian church. The finals will be held at the final general assembly of the convention Wednesday morning, C. M. Caldwell, Abilene, is chairman of the contest.

First show of the "West Texas Follies of 1937" will be staged at 8 p. m. Monday, featuring high-class artists from various West Texas towns, as well as West Texas beauties. Second edition of the Follies will be presented Tuesday night.

MINERS HAIL NEW AGREEMENT WITH AFL IN OKLAHOMA

CIO to Continue Its Efforts to Line Up Members

MIAMI, Okla., April 19 (P).—Shouts of 5,000 miners cheering their affiliation with the American Federation of Labor contrasted strangely Sunday with the shouting, hoggings and battle cries which turned the mining region into a bedlam only last week.

The Tri-State District of Oklahoma, Missouri and Kansas remained tense as a majority of the Tri-state metal mine and smelters workers, 8,300 members rallied here to cheer President F. W. (Mike) Evans' explanation of why they suddenly had affiliated with the AFL. Only a week ago, armed with their "embellish" pick handles, Tri-state miners had sacked headquarters in nearby Picher, Okla., and Tressie, Kan., of a rival, the CIO-Affiliated International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers.

As they paraded to the Galena, Kan., CIO hall in what they termed a "peaceful parade," one of their number smashed a window. Barricaded CIO members replied with shotguns and rifles, wounded nine paraders. Evans surveyed the situation, reiterated his determination to "prevent the CIO from unionizing this territory."

Reid Robinson, international president, who asserted the CIO fired in defense of life and property, countered with the assertion his organization would continue its organization efforts.

"These men need to be unionized for their own protection," Robinson declared. President Joe Nolan of the Picher local of the Tri-state, told the mass mine and smelter workers:

"I think we have the CIO licked in this territory. I think it no longer is a factor in this mining district."

A CIO meeting tentatively scheduled today was canceled pending developments, said Tony McTeer of Picher, member of the executive board of the international.

Winkler, Andrews Land Deal is Made

Guy Cowden and R. M. Evans were reported today to have closed a deal with the Aetna Life Insurance Co. for approximately fourteen sections of land in Winkler and Andrews county. The land has been under lease by Guy Cowden and joins his other range.

All mineral rights were included in the fee deal. The land is six or seven miles from the Cummins oil pool.

Bum Cowden and Allen Hargrave left Fort Worth yesterday where today they will take examinations for pilot's licenses. Each flew their own plane. They are expected back Tuesday.

SYMPATHY STRIKE OF CIO WORKERS IN THE U. S. PROPOSED

Hepburn Fails Again To Negotiate The Oshawa Fuss

WASHINGTON, April 19 (P).—Homer Martin, president of the United Automobile Workers of America, announced today his union had filed charges of "discrimination and intimidation" against Henry Ford with the national labor relations board at the board's Detroit office.

By Associated Press

Leaders of automobile CIO unions today reported they were considering a sympathy walkout in the United States after Premier Hepburn of Ontario had failed for the second time to negotiate a settlement of the Oshawa General Motors strike.

A showdown on the expulsion of Lewis' "rebel" unions is expected at the meeting of the American Federation of Labor executive council in Washington.

FOE SAYS COURT BILL CAN PASS WITH 2 ADDED

Modification Would Win Over Enough Votes, Said

WASHINGTON, April 19 (P).—A leader of senate opposition to the Roosevelt court bill said today that the measure would pass if the president would accept two instead of the proposed six additional judges.

The senator, who asked not to be quoted by name, said that modification would win over enough democrats who want to "get right" with party leaders and pass the bill.

Theft Charges Are Filed Against Pair

Charges of theft were filed against Jack and Charles Rowan, brothers, today for the alleged taking of money from a concession stand at the T. J. Tidwell show here Saturday night.

The pair are alleged to have taken approximately $5 from one of the stands. They were taken before escape with the money could be made.

RECORD FLIGHT

George McEntire, who not long ago flew from El Paso to Midland in one hour and a half, bettered that mark Friday when he covered the 260 miles in one hour, 19 minutes. His average was 187 1/2 miles per hour.

CHEMISTRY WILL PROVIDE MORE ABUNDANT LIFE

It is easy to think of more exciting things than a chemist making a speech on international trade. But when you stop to think how chemistry is remaking the world's future these days, and how the decline of international trade has us staggering around on the edge of the Dark Ages, you can see that such a talk might be worth listening to.

So it is worthwhile to have a look at remarks made recently by William J. Hale, research consultant of Washington, D. C., before a chemists' conference at Macon, Ga. Chemistry, says Dr. Hale, is going to reduce world trade permanently, because it is teaching men how to substitute homemade commodities for the things they once had to buy abroad.

Do we, then, face a steady decline in world prosperity due to this decline in the interchange of goods? Not at all, says Dr. Hale; for chemistry has found so many ways to use the things which men produce out of the ground and the air and the water that the race will never be able to raise more things than industry is able to use.

Now, what Dr. Hale is sketching out for us is nothing less than the picture of an era in which any kind of restriction on production will be looked upon as sheer insanity. Because mankind's wants are infinite, industry's markets are infinite also; and with such markets industry can never have an oversupply of raw materials.

You don't need to think very long to understand that a world organized on that basis would slough off most of the problems that are tormenting it today. Unemployment, poverty, want—they would simply disappear. Instead of dictatorships calling on their people to get along on less and less, we would have governments using every effort to increase production in every line.

It sounds like a fairy tale. But the point is that it is a fairy tale which is practically begging us to make it come true. The stage is all set. We are on the threshold of this miraculous new age, and all we need to do is step into it.

How long will it be, do you suppose, before we get intelligent enough to take that step?

SOUTH SEAS ROMANCE

Never say that the age of romantic adventure is dead. If you think it is, consider the case of handsome young Mr. R. M. Conley of Pan-American Airways.

Conley recently was transferred to the Pan-American clipper base on the Pacific island of Guam. Now Conley happens to stand 6 feet, 9 inches tall; and the natives of Guam, who run about 5 feet 2, have long had a legend that some day a tall white god would come out of the sea and carry of their most desirable maidens. So when Conley appeared, the natives took it for granted that the hour had struck.

To his intense surprise, therefore, Conley presently found himself guest of honor at a native fete—at which, after much dancing and music, he was presented with the most beautiful damsel on the island, on the theory that he might thus be dissuaded from carry off all the girls.

Naturally enough, Conley fled, leaving the sacrificial damsel behind. The sad sequel is that the natives, male and female alike, are all down on him now, because he let them down . . . but, anyhow, his case at least proves that romance may still be found in the South Seas.

VICTIM OF HIGH PRESSURE

Checking up on the estate left by a deceased Minnesota farmer, officials looked in his garage and stumbled upon an unused, 20-year-old automobile—and a pathetic little commentary on one of the features of modern life.

A friend disclosed that the farmer, Oscar Peterson, bought the car in 1917 just so he could tell pestering auto salesman that he had one, then jacked it up in his garage.

Those Americans who quiver in anguish whenever they a blatant, fast-talking salesman at the door can understand why a timid Swedish gentleman, who wanted only to be alone, would pay several hundred dollars for the privilege. And, as one, they will hope that Mr. Peterson now has somewhere a private little spot of his own, into whose pearly gates no high-pressure salesman can thrust his foot.

UNCOVERING TAXES

It would be a fine thing if state and federal legislators would devote a few minutes of earnest thought to the report recently published by the Twentieth Century Fund's committee on taxation.

This report urges that sales taxes and similar "hidden" taxes be repealed as far as possible and replaced by personal income taxes. In no other way, it declares, can the average taxpayer be made to realize the constant rise in state and federal expenditures.

Aside from the fact that income taxes are far more equitable than sales taxes, it is quite true that they are additionally useful as attention-callers. The income tax, to be blunt, hurts more than the sales tax.

Collect money directly instead of indirectly, and you force the taxpayer to take an interest in the way tax moneys are being spent. Once that interest is really aroused, it should be possible to do something about having such spendings diminished.

Don't Be Bashful--Step Up And Meet Dale Carnegie!

BY MORRIS GILBERT

NEA Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, April 14.—"Be a good listener. Encourage others to talk about themselves," says Rule 4 in Chapter Four, Part Two, of Dale Carnegie's famous handbook of charm, "How to Win Friends and Influence People," which its author was amazed the other day to learn had sold over 269,000 copies.

That put it up to Mr. Carnegie. Should Mr. Carnegie encourage the interviewer to talk about himself? That would be guaranteed to make the interviewer like him. Or, on the other hand, should Mr. Carnegie break the rule and talk about himself?

"I," said the interviewer, "like New York. I don't care much about baseball any more. The best kind of beer is—"

"Nobody," said Mr. Carnegie, "was more amazed than I was when the book began to sell up in those figures. I wrote the book for two reasons. First, to correct the mistakes, I used to make myself. Years ago I did practically everything wrong. I was always criticizing, arguing, talking too much."

"Now, Mr. Carnegie," said the interviewer, "I want to tell you about the time—"

"The second reason I wrote the book," Mr. Carnegie continued, "was to have a textbook for the classes

Relaxed and comfortable, Dale Carnegie takes his ease at his desk in New York and considers the astounding sales of his book on personality and friendship for which he modestly disclaims any spectacular personal part, emphasizing that it's the book's message which causes people to buy it.

Unaccustomed as she is to even semi-public speaking, the young pupil, above, succumbed to a violent attack of the giggles when required to address the class and felt obliged to call for Mr. Carnegie himself.

But the soothing influence of America's Number-One prophet of personality had an almost mesmerizing effect when he came to her rescue. In his presence, the nervous student calmed down and was able to face the mike.

Crumpled handkerchief nervously clutched in hand, this girl sits on the table (secret for calming jittery beginners) and awaits the ordeal of her first speech.

In my Institute of Effective Speaking and Human Relations here in New York, I thought at the most it would sell around fifteen or twenty thousand copies.

"Now, I think," said the interviewer—

"I," said Mr. Carnegie, "have written six books. One of them is much better written than this latest one. It is called 'Lincoln the Unknown.' That is the book I like best among those I've written. It sold less than 10,000 copies."

"As I was saying, Mr. Carnegie," the interviewer began—

"The reason," Mr. Carnegie said, "it didn't sell like 'How to Make Friends' was because the thing that interests people most in this world is their own human problems. Come right down to it, isn't the human relation practically YOUR only problem?" "Yes, Mr. Carnegie," said the interviewer.

Dale Carnegie has the congenial, evangelical expression of a pedago-gue untroubled by worry or guile. His greying hair, side-parted, curls in a lavish roll high above the brow. He has discarded those octagonal nose glasses of his previous and replaced them by silver-rimmed spectacles. He talks rapidly and easily.

It's hard to keep him from quoting himself because his book is peppered with epigrams, and an epigram once knocked together isn't easy to improve on. "Remember that a man's name is to him the sweetest and most important sound in the English language." That's a sample of the Carnegie line. "Make the other fellow feel important—and do it sincerely." Again: "You can't win an argument," he declares with earthy shrewdness. "You can't because if you lose it, you lose it; and if you win it, you lose it." A rule for making home life happier: "Why wait until your wife goes to the hospital to give her a few flowers?"

Carnegie was born in '88, "the year of the Great Blizzard," on a farm near Maysville, Mo. The family was mighty poor, but Dale Carnegie's father sent Dale and his brothers to school and college. "If I leave you money," Dale's father said, "somebody's liable to come along and beat you out of it. They can't take away an education."

Hard luck dogged the Carnegies on their Maysville farm, and pretty soon they trekked to Warrensburg, Mo. His parents' ambition kept Dale in State Teachers' College there. The farm was three miles out of town. Dale was too poor to spend the dollar a day it cost to live at the college, so he rode in on horseback every day.

"My clothes were awful," he said. "Hand-me-downs. I developed a terrible inferiority complex. That's the reason for the work I'm doing now. If I'd had good clothes and lots of money, I don't suppose I'd be interested in it. It's compensation."

He went in for debating at college. He was a flop at first, then he began to win. He was so good in local debates that he started a correspondence school. It failed. He became a salesman. A hard grinding period set in for him when he sold and traded and played poker and rode the range all up and down the West.

the impetus of the famous book, the school is rapidly expanding.

"The classes at the beginning of each term are as funny as a Broadway show," Carnegie says. "Everybody has to make a speech. They're so nervous the first night we let them sit on a table. Later they get better."

He listed his commuters, other than the famous ones who come from Havana to prepare to make one three-minute speech down there, after which he was labeled one of Cuba's most sterling orators. A Colgate has been a student. So has Mr. A. Lee Whiteside, President of Dunn & Bradstreet, says Carnegie; and Mr. Hildick of Hildick &

Don't you see my signature I just placed on your register? Clerk: Of course, sir, I do; but that's what aroused my curiosity. Boss: Al, can you love two girls at once? Al: Yes, sir, immediately. Mrs. Jabber: I can't for the life of me figure out why the new neighbor woman next door keeps poking that old broom in her small son's face every day. Mr. Jabber: Neither can I—unless it's to keep him used to being kissed by his bewhiskered old grandfather. Shadrack: Girls want a lot nowadays. Meshack: Yes, and they want a house on it, too. Judge: Have you ever been up before me? Culprit: I don't know, yer Honor—what time do you get up? Hojack: Have you ever done any public speaking? Cutajar: Only once, when I proposed to a girl over a telephone in my home town. Miss Pollotz: Tell me, Doctor, is skin grafting a very late discovery? Dr. Xeroon: Oh, no; it's only a branch of a very old art. All grafting is a skin game. In Oregon, you must be a property owner to be a voter. Mrs. Popplestone: Oh, did I tell you my husband bought me a new car? Mrs. Tyndale: But, my dear, I didn't know you could drive. Mrs. Popplestone: Well, I drove him into buying it. Dzudi: That new man Gus must have some very shady occupation. Wonder what his scheme is? Dinocan: I can't imagine. How does he act? Dzudi: Well, there's something mighty suspicious about the way he minds his own business. Wifey: Darling, you don't give me presents the way you did before we were married. B Jones: Well now, you never heard of a fisherman giving bait to a fish after he had caught it, did you? Minister: Mr. Ziegler, I never see you at my church. Don't you ever attend a place of worship? Ziegler: Yes, sir, I'm on my way to her house now.

Naomi Class to Have Party Tuesday Night

Mrs. S. M. Laughlin, president, had charge of the program Sunday morning at the Naomi class. After the song service, Miss Mary Miller read the lesson verses, which was followed by a prayer by Mrs. J. Howard Hodge.

Miss Jean Farnham played the offertory. A scientific approach to the liquor problem, "The Effects of Alcoholic Beverages," was presented by the class teacher, Mrs. Hodge.

Announcement was made of a class party Tuesday night at 8:00 o'clock at the Midland Country Club.

State President Attends Medical Auxiliary Here

Mrs. R. S. Hamon Is Luncheon Speaker

Members of the Medical Association Auxiliary met in the private dining room of Hotel Scharbauer Saturday, for a luncheon and business meeting. The centerpiece for the table was a bowl of snapdragons.

Officers elected were as follows: Mrs. W. G. Whitehouse, president; Mrs. Frank Boyles of Big Spring, vice-president; Mrs. James H. Chapple, 1st vice-president; Mrs. Everette Headlee of Odessa, secretary and treasurer; Mrs. Hall of Big Spring, parliamentary.

Mrs. Robert B. Homan, state auxiliary president, was guest speaker for the luncheon. She discussed plans for the state meeting that is to be held soon. Mrs. Homan gave an interesting talk on the auxiliary work.

The next meeting will be at Hotel Scharbauer, May 25.

Those attending the luncheon were Mrs. W. E. Ryan, all of Midland; Mrs. Everette Headlee of Odessa; Mrs. Frank Boyles, Mrs. P. W. Malone, Mrs. Van Gieson, Mrs. Preston R. Sanders, all of Big Spring, and Mrs. Robert S. Hamon.

RURAL SCHOOLS

Prairie Lee: We will close a successful school year, but we will have had only 8 months this session.

Practice on closing programs has gone on regularly this week, as has preparations for final examinations. Attendance is practically 100 per cent. Among visitors this week were Mrs. Hollingsworth, Miss Wilson, Mrs. Blocker, Mrs. Ernest Livingston, Mrs. H. Wren and Mr. Ernest Livingston.

Miss Wilson, health nurse, taught the health class Tuesday and Thursday.

Mrs. Hollingsworth met with the 4-H Girls' Club Wednesday at 9:00 a. m.

Ruby Blansett, members of the Girls' 4-H Club taught by Mrs. Hollingsworth, took part in the Farm Home program over KRLH Thursday at noon. The school tuned in and heard the program and enjoyed it very much.

Rev. W. C. Williamson taught the book of Genesis to an enthusiastic class of Sunday school workers this past week at Greenwood. The members of the class took an examination on the course.

If Reuben Knows You You 'Belong' On Broadway

He's America's No. One Sandwich Man

By GEORGE ROSS

NEW YORK, April 19.—Being "Manhattan's Typical Broadwayite" is a business with Arnold Reuben, genial boniface and restaurateur whose dining room is the gathering place of New York's celebrities, from dusk to dawn.

The sign on the window reads "Reuben's—That's All." But Arnold Reuben has traveled a long way from the tiny delicatessen where he waited on the customers himself—attired in a long white apron, to the present $175,000 modernistic premises. And though he probably calls more world-famous theatrical folk by their first names than any other man in town, Reuben is proud of the lofty pinnacle to which he has elevated the lowly sandwich. He was the first delicatessen man to charge a dollar for a sandwich and get away with it.

It was Marjorie Rameau, one of his oldest customers, who urged Reuben to try Broadway. She was his first theatrical customer. But Reuben really rode to fame on two sets of legs—bread—and the gnawing appetite of Miss Annette Sello, a screen star of the old silent days. Miss Sello came into Reuben's one night and demanded a sandwich large enough to replace a table d'hôte dinner. More as a joke than self-recommendation, Reuben constructed one of ham, cheese, turkey, coleslaw and dressing. Miss Sello partook of this epicurean delight, and told her faithful friends about it. The glorification of the sandwich was under way.

Reuben christened his skyscraper concoction, "The Annette Sello Special." Miss Sello probably rode to a greater fame on his midnight meal than her celluloid exploits achieved for her.

folk.

S. Jay Kaufman, then a Broadway columnist, came every night and ceremoniously outlined recipes for his own sandwiches. One night Reuben offered to do it for him.

"Let your customers alone," Kaufman advised, "and maybe someday you'll go from a sandwich to an institution."

It was a phrase Arnold Reuben remembered. Today his rendezvous is known by it. He has publicized the idea from coast-to-coast. The table along Broadway is that no stage, screen or radio satellite has really "arrived" until he has christened a sandwich in his or her name. His menu reads like the who's who of the entertainment world. Reuben is not without a sense of humor. Sandwiches named after several actors and actresses are composed with good, thick ham.

Final Acolade

Reuben has moved his restaurant six times within the past twenty-five years, each time to a more luxurious location. There was a time when he considered it good business to attend all the first nights so that he would know all the celebrities on sight when they walked through his door. The tables have turned. If Arnold Reuben now knows you by sight—in Broadway jargon—"you belong."

He also makes it a practice to send congratulatory telegrams to his theatrical clients, actors, actresses, playwrights and producers before the premieres of their shows.

Cooking Up New Ones

When the Prince of Wales was visiting this country, he expressed a keen desire late one night to glimpse some celebrities and sample a Reuben sandwich. The mob that gathered outside the store broke the large window pane. Reuben apologized profusely to His Royal Highness, offering to name a sandwich after him as retribution. H. R. H. declined the honor.

The hurly-burly hasn't changed Reuben, the delicatessen keeper, however. He still is at home near the cookstove and the kitchen is his personal laboratory for new, strange sandwich experiments. No one in his midnight coterie is shunned to see Reuben, the proprietor, forsake a comfortable seat in his palatial salon, retire to the chef's quarters and work on a new sandwich invention, while Phil Baker, William Gaston, George White, Beatrice Lillie and Ethel Merman continue the conversation without him.

Slight colds which confine the sufferer to the house for a day or so are often a blessing in disguise, since they afford a much needed respite in these days of hustle and bustle.

STORIES IN STAMPS

HORNED HORSES OF AFRICA

STRANGE grunting barks that come from the veldt of South Africa no longer frighten the inhabitants, for now it is known that these eerie sounds are the cries of the nervous horned animals that live there. Known generally as gnus, these cud-chewing creatures were called "wildbeests" by the Transvaal Boers.

As time as they may be, they act wild or crazy whenever they are disturbed. Instead of running away in a straight line, they prance and cavort about, jumping from side to side and grunting their strange barking sounds. Nevertheless, the animals are quite fleet.

In dry plains and thin bush country, the gnus may be found in central eastern, and southern Africa. They can be distinguished by their broad muzzles, fringed with long bristles, long thick-haired tails prominent upright, manes and necks, and horns.

Two, in a wild mood, appear on a stamp of South Africa.

Writer is To Leave Tues. for New York

SAN ANGELO, April 19.—Miss Enid Griffis, short story writer who has been here since February visiting with her cousin, Mrs. W. E. Kinney, 1602 Webster, will leave Tuesday for Galveston to sail from there Wednesday for New York City, her home.

A school teacher for a brief period, Miss Griffis turned from that to the newspaper field and spent four years as a reporter, later becoming a feature story writer for New York Sunday papers. Five years ago she began writing fiction, finding it the most lucrative field. Even yet, she says, she can't depend on it entirely so she works several hours each morning at Columbia University.

Miss Griffis is editorial assistant to Professor J. W. Cunliffe, director emeritus of the School of Journalism at Columbia. She has had short stories published in "Delineator," "Good Housekeeping," "Pictorial Review," and "Redbook," and has had an article published in "Forum."

Judging from the "fan mail" received by publishers, most attention has been attracted by her humorous story, "Including Wings," which appeared in "Delineator," and "Bold

Poppy Fields Raided
CAIRO (U.P.)—A secret raid on some hundreds of acres of Egyptian poppy fields has been carried out under the direction of Russell Pascha, British director of the General Narcotic Intelligence Bureau and Commandant of the Cairo City Police. It is believed that this raid will be a deathblow to the illegal manufacture of opium in Egypt.

London's official regulations provide 400 questions, any or all of which a policeman may have to ask in case of a fatal road accident on his beat.

Bad Caballero," which was published in "Redbook."

This is Miss Griffis' first trip to West Texas. Finding it teeming with material for stories, she hopes to return and spend time here at her profession.

Born in Ontario, Miss Griffis has been a New Yorker for more than 10 years. She began writing when she was 17 years old, having published at that time a book of nature stories for children. It is still on the market.

From New York, Miss Griffis will go to Canada to spend the summer with her family in Montreal and Ottawa.

Feeding Stars' Vanity
Shortly thereafter, Reuben found his little delicatessen jammed nightly with such current notables as Miss Rameau, Al Johnson, George Jessel, Charlie Chaplin, Peggy Joyce, Ina Claire, Ted Lewis, Fanny Brice, Texas Guinan and Fay Marbe. They sat around on the counter and boxes in the rear of the store and exchanged Broadway gossip of the day. Reuben learned to know their likes and dislikes; comedians tried out their latest gags on him; leading ladies whispered feminine confidences in his ear; and Reuben became a nocturnal father-confessor to Broadway's show

HONOR TO A GREAT ATHLETE
LARRUPING LOU GEHRIG
OF THE WORLD'S CHAMPION NEW YORK YANKEES

1. A DOUBLE YESTERDAY! I HOWER TODAY. YOU'RE DOING ALL RIGHT!
2. WOTTA MAN!
3. WHO SAID THIS GUY WAS ONLY A ROOKIE?
4. SMACK!
5. PACK OF CAMELS? YES, SIR!
6. SOCK IT, IRON MAN!
7. YES, MABEL, IT'S HIS 1800TH GAME WITHOUT A BREAK
8. UM-M-M! HERE'S THE BEST PART OF EATING
9. LOU HOLDS MORE RECORDS than any other man in the game today. Here are a few for any four-game World Series: most runs batted in (9); most home-runs (4); most bases on balls (6); He has scored 100 or more runs for 11 consecutive seasons—batted in 100 or more.

THIRTEEN YEARS in the big league. "Rookie" Gehrig signed with the Yankees in 1923. By 1927 he was the American League's MOST VALUABLE PLAYER. And won the same honor again in 1931, 1934, and 1936.

A GREAT FIRST BASEMAN. Lou's prowess as a slugger is matched by his brilliant play at first base. His record last year was only 6/1000ths short of PERFECT.

HERE'S LOU'S FAVORITE BAT and his favorite first baseman's mitt. His bat is especially made. It weighs 37 ounces—is 35 inches long. He wears out two mits a season.

X MARKS THE SPOT where once there was a thick juicy steak smothered in mushrooms—Lou's favorite dish. Gehrig is a big man—6 ft. 1 in. tall—weighs 210 pounds. And he has a big man's appetite. Lou eats what he wants and isn't bashful about coming back for "seconds." Read what he says below.

BASEBALL'S "IRON-MAN"! When Lou steps out on the field—he'll be playing his 1,809th consecutive game. Injuries never stopped "Iron-Man" Gehrig. Once he chipped a bone in his foot—yet knocked out a homer, two doubles, and a single next day. Another time, he was knocked out by a "bean ball," yet next day walloped 3 triples in 5 innings. Gehrig's record is proof of his splendid physical condition. As Lou says: "All the years I've been playing, I've been careful about my physical condition. Smoke? I smoke and enjoy it. My cigarette is Camel."

CLEAN-UP MAN for the most sensational slugging aggregation ever known. Pity the pitcher who faces the Yankees' starting lineup. Three heavy hitters to face—then Gehrig steps up to the plate! Lou holds the American League record for runs batted in. He's walked more than any other player today.

FOR A SENSE OF DEEP-DOWN CONTENTMENT—JUST GIVE ME CAMELS
AFTER A GOOD, MAN-SIZED MEAL, THAT LITTLE PHRASE "CAMELS SET YOU RIGHT" COVERS THE WAY I FEEL. CAMELS SET ME RIGHT, WHETHER I'M EATING, WORKING, OR ENJOYING LIFE.

WEST TEXAS - NEW MEXICO LEAGUE TO OPEN SEASON MAY 4

Grayson Picks Yanks to Win By As Far As Young Bob Feller Can Throw

By HARRY GRAYSON
Sports Editor, NEA Service

New York Yankees should win the American League pennant almost as far as they did last season, which was by 19 1/2 games, or almost as far as Bob Feller can throw a rock.

Get me right, neighbor. This is a guess, but it is your truly's cock-eyed prediction that the final 1937 standings of the good young American League will look something like what is printed below. How they finished in 1936 is portrayed on the right, and quit turning that way. You can go wrong.

1937	1936
1—New York	1—New York
2—Washington	2—Detroit
3—Chicago	3—Chicago
4—Detroit	4—Washington
5—Cleveland	5—Cleveland
6—Boston	6—Boston
7—St. Louis	7—St. Louis
8—Philadelphia	8—Philadelphia

Why I like the Yankees is obvious. They're the best ball club, and Red Ruffing can stick to his bowling alleys and they'll still be the best ball club. Ruffing no doubt will be "in" before these lines are published. He will be if he finally gets wise to how unimportant he is in the Yankee setup.

Ruffing is a splendid right-hand pitcher, but he's a negligible quantity now because a skinny left-hander is "hungry."

THE GREAT GOMEZ STRIKES BACK
Vernon Gomez, who "cured" Col. Jacob Ruppert of two-year contracts, is "shooting."

I may be wrong, but I have a sneaking hunch that my pet Castilian this trip will step right up there with the Hubbells and Deans. In shape and feeling like it, he's more formidable than either Hubbell or

MIDLAND TO HAVE FIRST TWO GAMES AT HOME WITH ODESSA AS OPPOSITION

Final organization plans of the West Texas-New Mexico league were completed in Hobbs Sunday when officials of the six clubs of the league adopted a constitution, schedule and laid plans for opening day, May 4.

Representatives from Midland, Odessa, Monahans, Wink, Hobbs and Roswell attended a meeting that was characterized by the smoothness in which all work was done.

The schedule as adopted by the officers calls for games at Midland, Roswell, Monahans on May 4-5. Midland will open at home with Odessa as the opposition.

Wink appears at Monahans and Hobbs journeys to Roswell. Only one difficulty faced President of the League Milton Price and this was ironed out with a minimum of work.

The Hobbs officials had contributed toward starting a club under the impression that a tie-up with a club of higher classification had been effected by Ned Pettigrew, manager of the Hobbs entry.

When notified that the tie-up did not exist, the Hobbs men chose to go ahead with a club independent of any others of bigger leagues.

Pettigrew, absent because he was in Oklahoma after men to make up the club roster, was notified by his associate in the venture, Pete Hardin, to take over the club and prepare it for the opening game.

Optimism pervaded the atmosphere at the meeting, all franchise holders declaring local conditions made the success of the league a certainty.

Managers of the six clubs were each called upon to give League President Price a report on conditions at present and all pronounced themselves as being on the verge of "ready" now with nothing to stand in their way between now and starting day.

Wink, Midland, Monahans and Odessa reported park construction going forward and many players already signed up. The Midland club was reported ready to move here just as soon as living accommodations could be arranged.

Manager Query said he would have the team here by next Monday, at the latest. Tentative exhibition games have been booked with Roswell Saturday and Sunday, making a break in the long trip from Albuquerque, where the boys are now stationed, to Midland.

Monahans reported a baseball school in full swing with approximately 50 players seeking better in the roster. Odessa is being delayed in starting training because of lack of places for the boys to stay, but Manager Bryan intimated he would station the boys at San Angelo or some other site for preliminary training. The Odessa club house is expected to be completed by the middle of next week.

Only one change was made in the tentative constitution adopted at an earlier meeting here, each franchise agreeing to pay a guarantee of $50 to each club at every game. The first agreement called for each home club to keep all gate receipts.

Dean. He's a ball player's pitcher. I saw him choose Hubbell in an all-star game when he couldn't lift his arm above his shoulder, and, two years ago, when he was having an abominable year, he was the unanimous choice of the noble athletes to oppose the National League's in Cleveland. Those who saw it are still laughing. That's how funny Gomez made the pick of the National League look while he was playing straight.

As good as Gomez is—and ring up about 25 games for him—Yankee hopes rest on two Italians who hail from a few blocks of each other in San Francisco. The Yankees can lose Gomez and still win. They can get along without the phenomenal Joe DiMaggio. But they can't win a pennant without either Frankie Crosetti, shortstop, or Tony Lazzeri, second baseman, the smartest of all active combatants, and that goes for either major league.

WASHINGTON SECOND THIS TRIP
Having informed you to what you already knew, I now really am ready to divulge something. Washington's chance to finish second is as fat as Shanty Hogan. Al Simmons will have a terrific season in left field, where he belongs at this stage of his career.

Chicago will be third, if for no other reason than that the White Sox are managed by Jimmy Dykes. How are you going to beat a guy like Dykes? You can't tell me that there is a bloke in baseball as old as Dykes, unless it is Connie Mack, but here he is willing to pitch, catch, infield, or outfield better than any prospect for whom Louis Comiskey gladly would pay $50,000. Dykes has broken-down coaches doing more for him than 340 hitters are doing for some big league outfits.

The Detroit outfit comes closer to being an infirmity than a ball club, but I suspect that the Tigers will keep the Cleveland Indians out of the first division. Mickey Cochrane won't catch 40 games. Tommy Bridges right now is in a hospital. There's something wrong with Schoolboy Rowe, but there is vast power at Navin Field, unless Hank Greenberg definitely turns out to be brittle.

RED SOX GARTERS KEEP THEM DOWN
Cleveland traded Joe Vosmik, Bill Knickerbocker and Oral Hildebrand to St. Louis for Julius Solters, Lyn Lary, and Ivy Paul Andrews.

You don't have to be a clairvoyant to know who got the better of that one.

Rogers Hornsby isn't tabbed Trader Hornsby for nothing. Cleveland shipped Vosmik, Knickerbocker, and Hildebrand because they were "compliant," but I doubt that those Cy Slapnicka obtained are any less satisfied with themselves and major league berths. Personally I would not have swapped either Vosmik or Knickerbocker for the other four players involved.

I'm putting the second division clubs just where they finished last year. Boston has no outfield and the Red Sox garters are keeping them down—Bob Grove and Wesley Ferrell. It would take a Bill McKechnie or a Joe McCarthy to manage them, and then both would have to be on the defense.

Hornsby never would miss a pennant with a club which he could build and keep, but he's in St. Louis. Connie Mack will settle for a Mexican standoff.

Local Golfers Beat Colorado Eight 24-8

The Midland Sand Belt golfers yesterday won their second match of the season when they defeated the Colorado team, 24-8, making a clean sweep and winning low ball in all eight matches. Their previous victory was scored over Stanton, in a match delayed by rain. Midland defeated Stanton 22-10.

Cards are not available on yesterday's matches, but will be printed Tuesday.

Tanning of Hides in Texas is Advocated

AUSTIN, April 19.—If Texas hides were to be tanned in Texas a new cash crop for Texas farmers would result, Maj. E. A. Wood, director of the Texas Planning Board, said today.

The new crop would be Canaigre, the roots of which yield tannin, one of the essential ingredients used in processing hides into leather. The Canaigre plant can be grown easily in Texas and the average farmer can prepare the roots for tannin extraction with little difficulty, Major Wood said.

The planning board has been studying the feasibility of tanning Texas hides in Texas and preliminary results of the study indicate that leather can be tanned as cheaply and as efficiently as in any other part of the country.

Canaigre is not a new plant, Major Wood pointed out. The tanning power of the root has been known to the Mexicans for the last century, and the Indians in Mexico have used the root for a medicine.

The roots of the Canaigre consist of a mass of tubers that grow in clusters. The roots resemble sweet potatoes both inside and outside. The cultivated roots are smooth on the surface and light yellow to dark brownish red in color.

The planning board believes Canaigre can be raised for about $3 a ton and sold for about $5 a ton if a market for the tannin is created. An acre should yield about 10 tons and on the basis of the board's figures a farmer could net about $20 per acre on Canaigre.

Oil News--

hours last week. It is bottomed at 6,014, in Ellenburger dolomite, lower Ordovician. Most of the oil is believed coming from near the Simpson-Ellenburger contact, placed at 6,004 feet. The No. 4 Waddell, located in section 4, block B-27, public school land, is probably the forerunner of much deep-drilling activity in the area.

In the Tubb pool, which produces from 2,000 feet in the Permian lime, American Liberty No. 4 Tubb rated daily potential of 2,177 barrels, based upon the last four hours of a six-hour test. It topped pay at 4,116, is bottomed at 4,427, and was treated with 6,000 gallons of acid.

Humble No. 9 Tubb, also in the Tubb pool, swabbed to within 800 feet of bottom, then lost swab. Tubing was pulled to recover swab, and had been re-run. Total depth of the well is 4,437 feet.

TOMBS UNSEALED IN MEXICO REVEAL RARE INDIAN ART 10 CENTURIES AGO

OAXACA, Mexico (U.P.)—Mexico, already rich in archaeological treasures, is even wealthier today through the important discoveries made during the 1937 exploration season at Monte Alban, eight miles from Oaxaca.

The archaeologists, Alfonso Caso, chief of the expedition; Martin Bazan, Juan Valenzuela and Jorge Acosta—aided by about 100 peons—uncovered three Zapotec tombs of incalculable archaeological interest. All of this was achieved in one season, which makes 1937 more successful than that of several previous years.

Having discovered the tombs, archaeologists now are busy studying their finds and seeking clues to its identity. The work will halt some time in April or May, when the rainy season sets in.

The correspondent was lucky enough to be able to visit the tombs a few minutes after President Lazaro Cardenas had—through a system of ropes and pulleys—pulled the stones away from their entrances.

Road Leads to Tombs
To get to Monte Alban nowadays is easy. Once in Oaxaca after a long and hard journey from Mexico City, it is only an eight-mile automobile drive on a beautiful dirt mountain road to the summit where is the citadel, temples—and beneath them the famous tombs of the old Zapotec warriors and priests.

Only a few years ago it was necessary to hike or go on horseback to Monte Alban, and many tourists did not feel inclined to that much exertion under the hot tropical sun.

The archaeologists now at work know a good deal about Mixtec and Zapotec Indians and their habits. They know, for example, that the high priests were buried deep under the temples, and the tombs purposely covered completely.

So they see a mound, or some other unusual indication of the top of a hill. They then proceed to dig a big hole, just like any well-digger on an American farm might do. Sometimes they go down deep and find nothing. At other times they find treasures.

Discoveries Are Numbered
The three tombs found this year are named 103, 104 and 105. Of these, No. 104 is the outstanding one—and was the hardest to find. The other two were cruciform in shape, deep down under big mounds. No. 104, however, was at a place where the layman would least expect it to be.

The visitor gets out of an automobile and sees a hole in the ground, and the first feeling is one of disappointment. Can this be a famous tomb? But a surprise awaits. A descent down a steep step-ladder into the well, and then a big flash-light affords a glimpse of the interior. The well was so built that it went down exactly in front of the entrance stone. It took four days to dig it. The stone weighed three tons.

This stone is down on its side now. A "petate" (straw coverlet) is over it. The visitor lies on this, and looks into the tomb.

The writer went down with the archaeologist Martin Bazan, a 44-year-old short and squat Mixtecan Indian, who has been working at Monte Alban since 1924. It was Bazan who actually discovered No. 104, while Caso, the leader of the expedition, was busy discovering No. 103. Mrs. Caso told me, as I went down with Bazan, that he was the man who knew most about it all.

Room Not Large
As my eyes got accustomed to the darkness I began to see things more clearly, and then Bazan played a powerful searchlight on the tomb.

It was rectangular, about 6 by 10 feet. The door seemed to be about 4 feet wide.

On the ground, in a peaceful position with his feet standing up a few feet from us, was the skeleton of the personage. Bazan said that he probably was some noted high priest. Around the wall were frescoes, just as fresh as if painted a year ago, and the fresco back of the head of the skeleton undoubtedly was that of the personage honored by so great a burial.

The roof of the tomb was made up of two massive stones. They have perfectly preserved the tomb from earthquakes, water and other elements.

"We don't know exactly when this tomb was built," Bazan said. "All we can say is that it is of the 'Third Epoch of Monte Alban'—probably somewhere between the 6th and 10th century."

Made for One Person
"The way the skeleton lies indicates that it was an individual tomb."

"As one can see, the Third Epoch was notable for its color and paintings. It is not notable for its gold and jewels as was the case in the epoch represented by Tomb No. 7. (Tomb No. 7 contained the famous "Monte Alban Jewels," which were exhibited at the Century of Progress Exposition in Chicago and are now in the National Museum at Mexico City.)

On the walls were seen blues, yellows, reds, turquoise green—all in perfect state of preservation. There was not a crack in the murals. There was the personage, birds, various animals, and geometrical designs.

In the side-walls were niches in which pots with food for the dead had been placed. There also were some urns, two of them with tiger-heads. Near the skeleton's left hand lay a big piece of turquoise. Bazan said that further exploration may reveal more jewelry.

The tomb probably will remain as it is for awhile. Above are two guards with shotguns to protect it. Monte Alban has other interesting sights—the huge pyramids, mosaics; the fortresses; the other tombs. It is built on a natural fortification, dominating the view of the valley of Oaxaca and for other mountain ranges around it.

Quaker Oats Begins Advertising Program
The Quaker Oats Company is coming back to small city newspapers for advertising their excellent product. To insure the success of this initial campaign, the dealers and newspapers are to make a special effort to cooperate.

Grocers appreciate the value of an established brand name—they know that their customers appreciate the privilege of calling for a nationally advertised brand of goods, knowing that it means they will receive the quality they expect.

When a large concern decides to use local newspapers for advertising service, it means increased sales for the local merchants.

When the Quaker Oats advertisement appears in The Reporter-Telegram on Thursday of this week, it will contain the names of all the dealers in the Midland trade territory.

In addition to this, The Reporter-Telegram will distribute the "Trick Book" to each person who brings the Quaker oat cut from a large package of oats, or two Quakers from the smaller packages. The Trick Book contains simple tricks which any boy or girl can perform for the entertainment of themselves and others. They will all want one.

The dealers will cooperate in the campaign by using special displays in their stores and by adding to their advertisements a section calling attention to Quaker Oats sold by them.

Personality Course Offered
BERKELEY, Cal. (U.P.)—Perhaps there is no longer any excuse for anyone in the United States not having a personality. The University of California will undertake in its Personality courses to show students how to get one.

STORIES IN STAMPS

BY I. S. KLEIN

FIRST ENGLISH COLONIST

ALL through his younger years Sir Humphrey Gilbert dreamed of plans that would enable him to find that mysterious "northwest passage" across the newly discovered America to "Cathay." A step-brother of Sir Walter Raleigh, he petitioned Queen Elizabeth for permission to make the trip, but it was not until 1578 that he gained his coveted charter. By that time he had reached fame as a public official.

His final voyage was a failure. Again in 1583, he set sail with five ships, and six weeks later arrived at what is now Newfoundland. On the site of St. Johns he set up the first English colony in North America. Returning to England with two of his ships, he boarded the 10-ton frigate, Sparrow, refusing safer voyage on the much larger Golden Hind. One night, the lights of the Sparrow suddenly went out and in a moment the ship and all its complement was devoured by the sea.

Sir Humphrey was only 44 when he died. In 1933 issued a set of stamps commemorating Sir Humphrey's colonization of that country 400 years earlier. One stamp shows the discoverer's portrait.

Convention--

Dr. Mollie Armstrong, Brownwood, is in charge of the shows. Two dances will be held Monday night with music furnished by well-known orchestras. A session of the work committee will be held at 9 p. m.

First general session of the convention will be held at 10 a. m. Tuesday. A speaker of national prominence will appear on the program. President Jarvis will speak. Cities bidding for the 1938 convention will extend their invitations.

WTCC directors will meet again at noon Tuesday to hear the annual treasurer's report and dispose of resolutions and proposals. West Texas newspapermen and chamber of commerce secretaries will be entertained at a luncheon.

A band parade and contest will be held under the direction of D. D. McInroe, Brownwood, Tuesday afternoon. From 30 to 40 bands are expected to enter.

Soil conservation, general theme of the entire convention, will be discussed at a group conference at 2 p. m. with Dr. Bradford Knapp, president of Texas Tech, Lubbock, in charge. Another group conference on oil development, will be held Tuesday afternoon with J. S. Bridwell, Wichita Falls, as chairman.

Other features of the second day's program include a football game between Brownwood high school Lions and some other West Texas team, entertainment for sponsors taking part in the West Texas Follies of 1937 and wives of visiting directors, and two dances.

Final report of the work committee will be made at a breakfast for directors Wednesday morning. New officers will be elected and the general manager will be named.

The last general session of the convention will be held at 9:30 a. m. Wednesday. A speaker of national note will address the meeting, finals in the Home Town contest will be held, awards will be presented and the next convention city will be selected.

Visitors wishing to play golf will be furnished courtesy cards to the Brownwood Country Club. Lake Brownwood will furnish recreation—fishing, boating and swimming—to visitors who wish to remain over for a few days.

Longer Lives Many Books Is Assured

SAN ANTONIO, April 19.—Longer lives of usefulness for 327,000 library books have been made possible by the efforts of WPA workers in 748 Texas schools and 42 public libraries, according to Mrs. M. K. Taylor, state director of WPA women's and professional projects. Jobless clerical workers have been put to work by the WPA at tasks which include the repairing, cleaning, indexing, and cataloging of books in the various schools and municipal libraries. These workers supplement inadequate library staffs, Mrs. Taylor said, and in no instance are regular employees supplanted by WPA workers.

The 42-story L. C. Smith building at Seattle, Wash., is said to be the tallest building west of the Mississippi river.

All visitors will be urged to attend the general sessions, preliminaries in the Home Town contest and other programs of the convention.
