BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

By RODNEY DUTCHER
Reporter-Telegram Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 30. — The $174,000,000 Aluminum Company of America, sued for dissolution in an anti-trust suit by the Department of Justice, is "at a loss to understand" why it is being prosecuted.

All, however, eventually will be made clear. Perhaps no one will ever quite explain why Roosevelt waited for years before having his attorney general take some action against the "aluminum trust." But here is a bit of confidential tipoff for the Mellons and their associates:

1—The suit is a vital test case for the anti-trust laws. The government isn't certain that the Supreme Court hasn't so devitalized those laws as to make them ineffective. But it believes that if there is any business group which can be successfully prosecuted under the monopoly laws, it is the Aluminum Company's organization.

2—The administration, as previously reported in these dispatches, is worried about price inflation. It thinks the threat of a crash resulting from price inflation comes chiefly from industries in which prices are controlled. It says that after Aluminum Company profits increased from $9,571,000 in 1935 to $20,866,000 in 1936, and looked certain to increase in 1937, the corporation still went ahead and raised prices a few weeks ago.

3—Most important of all, for the first time since anyone can remember, the assistant attorney general in charge of the department's anti-trust law division is a man who means business. Assist. Atty. Gen. Robert H. Jackson will be no stranger to the owners of Aluminum Company. He prosecuted the Mellon tax case.

Politicians of both parties have howled about monopoly for decades. This isn't the first time something has been done about it, but for present-day purposes, it's much the most important.

Anti-Trust Shake Up

In time past, during that long period when Andrew W. Mellon was secretary of the treasury, the Aluminum Company received various concessions for its practices from the Department of Justice. And there were no prosecutions. Surprising as it may seem, a certain amount of shaking up and cleaning up of personnel in the anti-trust division has been considered necessary since the new assistant attorney general took charge.

There was an embarrassing moment more than 10 years ago when Atty. Gen. Harlan Fiske Stone, a newcomer here, decided the Aluminum Company should be prosecuted. Andrew Mellon showed enthusiasm over Stone's availability for the Supreme Court and President Coolidge appointed Stone to a seat on that bench, where he still functions vigorously. After attempting to appoint a lawyer whose connection with another trust led to public outcry, Coolidge named to succeed Stone an old friend from Vermont. He developed the sitdown technique in official position to a new high point and regaled newspaper correspondents with fishing stories.

Senator Tom Walsh was named attorney general by Roosevelt. He promised one of his first acts would be to bring suit against the aluminum trust. But he died before he had the chance. Atty. Gen. Homer S. Cummings has always been politically-minded and completely loyal to the White House, so it is fair to assume that the President never pushed him on it very hard. It is also fair to assume that one big reason the Aluminum Company hasn't heard from the Department of Justice before is that Roosevelt favored instead the NRA idea and its provisions for suspension of anti-trust laws. And it does take a lot of time to prepare an anti-trust case.

See It As Monopoly Now
But now Cummings and Jackson take the position that there is a law against monopoly on the federal statutes which has been there for many years, that the aluminum business is a perfect and complete monopoly and that it has been built up by illegal steps. The Sherman Act penalizes any person or combination of persons monopolizing or attempting to monopolize "any part of the trade or commerce among the several states or with foreign nations."

The government charges that the corporation is the sole producer of pig aluminum in the United States and that its recent advance in the price of virgin ingot was an "act of oppressive and unreasonable price fixing" and in restraint of trade.

The petition says the company has protected itself from foreign competition through a series of devices, including purchases and competition in foreign countries, which enabled it to make agreements with foreign producers to restrict production and allocate markets.

Medical Picture Comes to The Ritz

"Internes Can't Take Money," a tense story of a young physician who risked death, forfeited love for ten bucks a month and a shot at glory, which comes to the Ritz theater on Sunday, was written by Max Brand while a hospital patient as a tribute to "America's minute-men in white," the hospital internes. The cast is headed by Barbara Stanwyck, Joel McCrea and Lloyd Nolan and includes Stanley Ridges, Anthony Nace, Jack Mulhall and others.

Three Comedy Stars Head Cast in Film

Three comedy stars who hail from widely separated fields find featured roles in the cast of "Love Is News," sparkling new romantic hit starring Tyrone Power, Loretta Young and Don Ameche, coming Sunday to the Yucca theater.

The three are Slim Summerville, who gained his stardom on the screen and has never appeared on the stage; Walter Catlett, who starred for years in the Ziegfeld Follies; and Sepin Fetchit, who launched his career in Southern minstrel and medicine shows—all united for hilarity in the Twentieth Century-Fox riotous romance.

with 500 sacks at 3.093 was tested, and drop in pressure revealed a slight leak, probably at one of the joints.

On the Seminole structure, Shell No. 1 S. F. Mann, which blew out at 4,901 with 5,000,000 cubic feet of gas, has re-installed connections blown off and is preparing to kill with heavy mud. It will set casing through the gas-oil contact and core into the pay section. The well is 660 feet out of the northwest corner of section 22, block G, W. T. R. R. survey and offsets the No. 1-A Averitt discovery to the east.

Bill Blevins and Tom Sloan No. 1 Phillips-Barber, extreme southwestern Gaines wildcat, is preparing to drill plug from 131 feet of surface casing. It is 330 feet from the north and 990 feet from the east line of section 19, block A-28, public school land.

Test Deepening
Hugh Corrigan et al (formerly Pickens et al) No. 1 Lewright, southeast Terry test deepening below the sulphur water horizon, this morning had reached 5,023 feet in hard lime, unchanged. Magnolia No. 1-55 Sealey, northern Ward test a mile and a half south of the Finley & Cherry discovery, is standing plugged back to 2,960 from 3,010 with 12 sacks of cement. It had headed as much as 79 barrels of 22-gravity oil in a day from pay between 2,994 and 3,010, but 2,000 feet of water was found standing in the hole when bailer was run yesterday. The prospect is in section 55, block F, G. & M. M. B. & A. survey.

Congressman Morgan G. Sanders were the first to wire their acceptance of places on the National Advisory Council. The Texas governor wired other governors in the United States asking them to declare the month of May a memorial month for New Lodon and to make and send their contributions to Mr. Sam Warren, treasurer of the New London Memorial Association, Overton, Texas.

Leaders signing the charter for the educational memorial are M. H. Marwill, mayor of Henderson, Texas, president; John Lumpkins, London, vice president; Mrs. Fay Beidleman, London, secretary; Sam Warren, Overton, treasurer; Mrs. Claude Jacobs, Mrs. Polk Childress, Mrs. H. R. Whittington, W. C. Shaw.

and Claude Jacobs, all of London. Headquarters for the memorial have been established in Henderson, Texas, Rusk county seat, in the high school building. Supt. W. S. Shaw of London school requested Dr. L. A. Woods, state superintendent of public instruction in Texas, to write other state superintendents through the United States asking that they cooperate in this project, which is a living memorial to those who died in the world's worst school disaster.
