YOUNG CONVICT AMPUTATES FOOT AT PRISON FARM

Cuts Appendage Off With Ax, Tells Captain

TO START PROBE
Investigation Will Be Started By Ellison

HOUSTON, May 13. (P)—Captain A. N. Owen, Harlem Prison farm, reported to police here today that a young convict from Dallas county had mutilated himself by having his right foot chopped off with an ax. Owen brought the blood-stained ax here to be finger-printed. He said that the prisoner insisted he cut off his foot himself but Owen said he believed another prisoner swung the ax. The prisoner lost a great deal of blood but is expected to recover. In Huntsville, General Manager Ellison said that he would conduct an immediate investigation into the mutilation episode at Harlem prison farm to determine why William H. Shoemaker, 19, had cut off his foot.

First Outpost Rotarian Gets Induction Here

Induction of the first "outpost member" of a Rotary club in the United States was observed today, when E. A. Crites, production engineer for the Gulf Oil Corporation, with headquarters at Crane, became a member of the Midland club. Under an experiment adopted at last summer's convention of Rotary International, only two clubs have qualified for taking in outpost members. One is in Canada and the other is the Midland Rotary club. Crites is the first member under that category. An outpost member is one living in the territory of a certain club, but where there is no club in existence, and represents a given classification just as regular members do. However, his attendance obligations are not as rigid, and the plan was adopted for the purpose of extending the benefits of Rotary into fields not now served. Barney E. Rushing, former Plainview Rotarian and a new member here, made the induction speech outlining the duties and obligations of a man who becomes a member of a Rotary club. Ellis Boyd of Fort Worth, who was district governor in 1928-29 and who conferred the charter to the club here nine years ago, was a visitor today and made a brief talk, especially praising the work of District Governor Fred Wemple in his present administration. Violin numbers were played by Mrs. Roy Hazeltine, talented musician who recently moved to Midland. The piano accompaniments were played by Mrs. Lee Cornelius. They played a negro spiritual, "Nobody Knows the Trouble I've Seen," and "Indian Snake Dance."

Marshall Barrier, local mechanic, injured in the crash, was reported to be improving in a local hospital today. He is reported to be suffering from head injuries, bruises and slight lacerations.

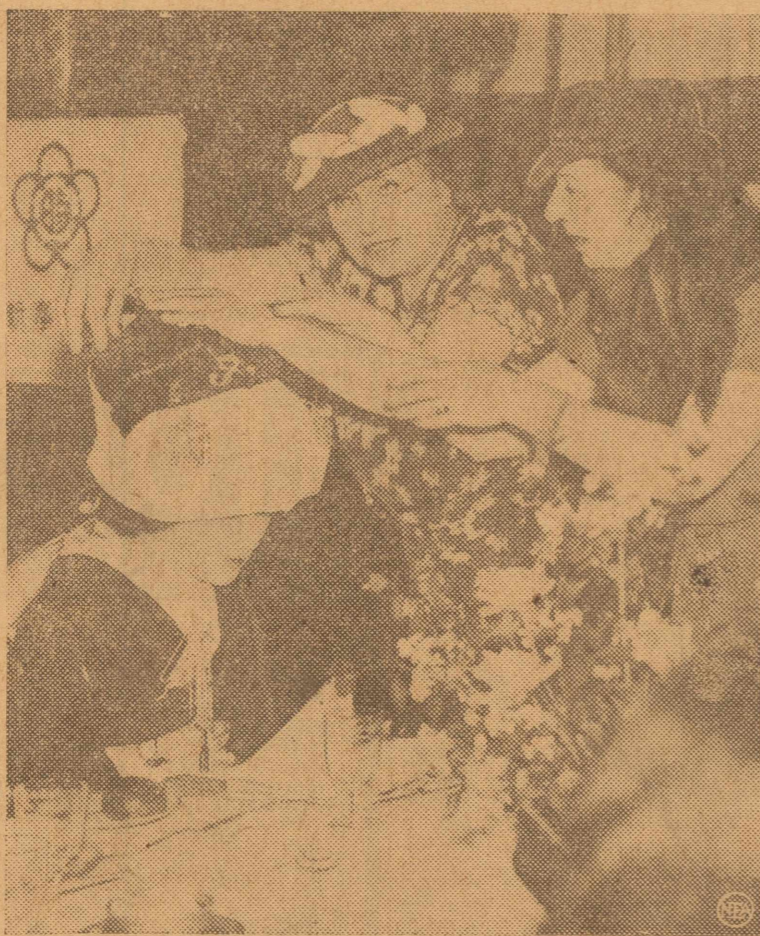

Many Motorists Fill Out Cards

Intense interest in the future of the road system on the part of the average motorist is reflected in returns from post card questionnaires distributed during the motor vehicle registration period by the State-Federal Highway Planning Survey, J. T. Barton, director of the financial unit of the survey, said today the returns covered 31.7 per cent of the motor vehicles registered, an unusually high percentage. The returns from Texas motorists, he said, are greatly in excess of the questionnaires returned by motorists in other states. Information given on the cards is being tabulated and will play an important part in determining the future road program. The data included the residence of the owner, whether rural or urban, the mileage traveled during the past year, the gallons of gasoline consumed, and the number of miles per gallon. Starr county led in percentage of returns with 89.1 per cent. Lamar county was second with 73 per cent. Jefferson county, third, with 72 per cent. Shackelford county, fourth, with 69.2, and Andrews county, fifth with 67.6 per cent. Several counties reported returns in excess of 60 per cent while nearly a score exceeded 50 per cent.

SUMMER RANGE PROSPECTS CONTINUE FAVORABLE FOR MOST OF THE STATE

Summer range prospects continued favorable for the greater portion of Texas during April, but moisture was generally needed on May 1. According to the monthly Livestock and Range Report of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics issued through the office of V. C. Childs, senior agricultural statistician, all ranges made good growth during the month with the exception of drought sections in south Texas and the drought area of northwest Texas. Light rains, which were almost general during the latter part of April, were very helpful, but the precipitation was not sufficient to furnish subsoil moisture in the dry areas. In South Texas, conditions are becoming serious, and range prospects are very poor. The extreme northwestern counties were benefited by light rains during April, but moisture is still insufficient to improve grazing conditions materially. Elsewhere in the state subsoil moisture conditions are favorable, but surface moisture is generally needed. The condition of cattle ranges on May 1, 1937, at 10 per cent of normal, was 1 point below the 10-year average condition, but was 6 points above the condition on May 1 a year ago. Grazing conditions through the sheep area are generally favorable, and the condition of sheep ranges on May 1, 1937, at 83 per cent of normal, was about 5 points above the 10-year average and 10 points above a year ago. Subsoil moisture is adequate in most counties but surface moisture would be helpful. The condition of cattle improved 2 points during April and was reported at 82 per cent of normal on May 1, compared with 80 per cent a month ago, 80 per cent a year ago, and 82 per cent the 10-year average condition on May 1. Feeding has been general through the dry areas, and cattle have held up well. Shipments to grass outside of Texas have been very heavy during April, and the movement will greatly exceed that of 1936. The calf crop prospects are very favorable, and a larger than usual crop is expected. New born calves are making good growth and losses have been light. There is, generally, a good demand for stocker cattle. The condition of sheep on May 1, 1937, was the highest on May 1 since 1931, and is now rated at 87 per cent of normal, compared with 66 per cent a month ago, 81 per cent a year ago, and 84 per cent the 10-year average. Lambing is about over, and the crop this year will probably exceed last year's record crop. Marketings of shorn yearlings were very heavy during the latter half of the month, and shipments will continue heavy through May and June. The condition of goats on May 1, 1937, was 85 per cent of normal, compared with 84 per cent a month ago, 83 per cent a year ago, and 85 per cent the 10-year average on May 1. Ranges in the 17 western range states are late, except in the southwest, and cold weather during April retarded growth of new feed. Ranges and pastures are poor to fair in more favored sections. Soil moisture is short over much of the western Dakotas, eastern Montana, northeastern Wyoming, western Nebraska and Kansas, western Oklahoma, southeastern Colorado, and northeastern New Mexico. Much rain is needed in this area to overcome the effects of the 1936 drought and make feed. Feed is late but moisture is ample in Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Utah, and Nevada. Southern California has good feed, but northern sections are below average. Feed is late but moisture supplies good in western Montana, most of Wyoming, the western and mountain sections of Colorado, and the high sections of New Mexico. Moisture is generally ample, but pastures late in the eastern Dakotas, eastern Nebraska and Kansas, and eastern Oklahoma. Long feeding and the short crops of feed where it was dry in 1936 has resulted in a very small carryover of hay.

POPE DECLARES RAILROADS TRY TO RULE STATE

Hot House Debate On Measure Passed In Senate

PLEA REFUSED
Right to Operate In Trucks, Planes Is To Be Denied

AUSTIN, May 13. (P)—Charges that railroads are trying to control Texas rang in the house today as Representative W. E. Pope of Corpus Christi attacked rails during a debate on the senate bill which would permit them to own truck lines, pipe lines, airplanes and other forms of transportation. The house virtually killed the bill by refusing to instruct the committee to make a report on it. The senate passed a bill requiring examinations to obtain drivers' licenses. The house had passed a different bill, so an adjustment of the differences must be made.

ECONOMY BLOCK OVERRIDDEN ON RELIEF MEASURE

Appropriation of One And Half Billions Is Suggested

WASHINGTON, May 13. (P)—The house appropriations committee today overrode economy demands and recommended $1,500,000,000 appropriation for work-relief for the fiscal year beginning July 1. Administration leaders expressed confidence the house would approve in full the measure when it comes up next week.

PACKER FAILS IN TERRY WILDCAT

By FRANK GARDNER
Failure of packer set at 5,010 prevented swabbing test today in Hugh Corrigan et al. No. 1 Lewright, and 2 1/2 inch tubing is being pulled. Operators will rerun it and attempt another test if second packer holds. There is 4,400 feet of sulphur water standing in the hole, now bottomed at 5,134 feet in lime. It had shown signs of oil in samples at several intervals over the last 100 or so feet, and some gas bubbled up through the water. The well is in southeast Terry county, 660 feet from the north and east lines of section 1, block C-37 public school land.

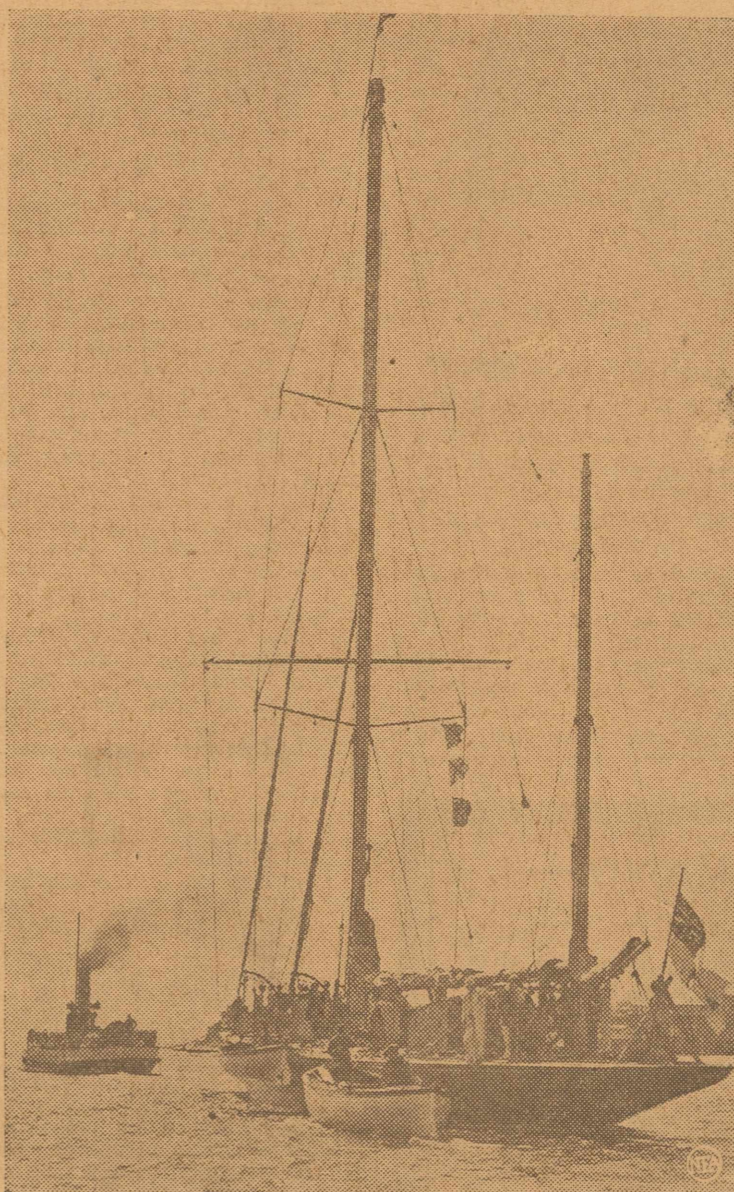

Ten miles to the southeast, Ray Albaugh et al. No. 1 Robinson, northwest Dawson discovery, is being pumped for several hours each day, but representative gauge is not available. Bottomed at 5,938, it is reported to have pumped 37 barrels of oil in four and one-half hours after acidizing with 2,000 gallons. Location is the center of the northwest quarter of section 46, block M, E. L. & R. R. survey.

E. L. Wilson et al. No. 1 Texas Land and Mortgage Company, wildcat a mile and a half southeast of the Albaugh well, is drilling anhydrite at 4,060 feet. It is 1,980 feet from the south and east lines of section 45, block M, E. L. & R. R. survey.

Delaware Producer
Michigan Gas & Oil Company (Mason Oil Company) No. 3 Kyle, second producer in the Mason Delaware pool of northwest Loving and west offset to the discovery, flowed 468.74 barrels of oil through tubing and casing on official Railroad Commission gauge. Total depth is 3,902, and was topped at 3,890 was shot with 205 quarts. The well is 2-310 feet from the north and west lines of section 20, block 55, township 1 T. & P. survey.

Stanford Oil & Gas Company No. 1 Kyle, south offset to the discovery, encountered showing of salt water from 3,906-07. Bailer was run four times, and four bailers of salt water were recovered. The well was allowed to stand for three hours, then bailed a half-bailer of fluid, 25 percent oil. At hourly intervals last night it was bailed, and showed from two to four gallons of fluid per run, averaging 15 to 25 percent oil. Preparations are being made to drill ahead, with elevation of 5,969, the well topped Delaware black lime at 3,845 and sand at 3,870. First oil test. (OIL NEWS) Page 6

CROPS GENERALLY HELPED BY FALL OVER WEST TEXAS

Insect Damage Likely To Increase From The Rains

.04 OF INCH HERE
Only Light Shower In Midland; Benefits Are Light

By Associated Press
Soaking rains fell over most of Texas yesterday and today, helping crops generally but increasing the menace of insect damage. In Dallas county, where a quarter to two inches fell, the progress of army worms was watched in alfalfa, cotton and corn fields. West Texas rains were general except at Amarillo and Lubbock. San Angelo reported nine-tenths, Sterling City and inch, Water Valley one and one-half inches, Palestine, Corsicana, Coleman county, San Antonio, Austin and others reported rain.

A light shower that totaled .04 of an inch of rain fell within the city limits this morning. In the southern part of the city the rain was not enough to register, most of the precipitation being in the central and north parts. Counties to the northeast, east and southeast of Midland have all received precipitation within the past week as has the northeast part of the county. Farmers to the south have not yet had enough for planting.

MAJOR STRIKE IN STEEL INDUSTRY CALLED BY LEWIS

27,000 Are Ordered Out Of Plant In Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, May 13. (P)—Police hurled tear gas into a crowd of shouting pickets at the strike-closed Alquippa, Pennsylvania, works of Jones and Laughlin steel corporation today. One man was injured in the disturbance on plant property. The strike threatened to spread to other major producers.

PITTSBURGH, May 13. (P)—The nation's first major steel strike since John L. Lewis set out to organize the mill workers of the country was declared last night against the Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation. Chairman Philip Murray of the steel workers' organizing committee ordered a walk out effective at 11 p. m. (E. D. T.) at the Pittsburgh and Alquippa, Pa., plants of the corporation. Twenty-seven thousand men were affected by the strike order. Murray called his men out after a two-hour conference with chairman H. E. Lewis of the corporation failed to bring agreement on his demand for a signed collective bargaining contract. He announced his decision despite efforts of federal department labor conciliator James F. Dewey to avert the walkout and to prevent it spreading to other major independent steel producers. The steel union leaders announced: "We had a two-hour conference with Mr. Lewis (of the company) and no agreement was arrived at."

CHAPTER THREE

In the library Kenneth handed Virginia a piece of paper. "We'll call this Item Number One," he said. Place it in the fire-place please."

Virginia did as she was told. The paper exploded with a mild flare. "Cost, twenty-five thousand plus a lawsuit settled out of court, five thousand, making a total of thirty thousand. Stop me if you've seen the next."

It was a strange complicated mechanism, a combination folding ruler, microscope and clock.

Kenneth laughed mirthlessly. "I don't exactly remember what you do with it," he said, "but it cost twenty-five thousand."

He showed her still another item, a desk with stickless drawers that stuck. B. J., he added, was stuck forty thousand for it. With one or two other gadgets, the grand total was one hundred and twenty thousand.

In demonstrating the stickless desk, the drawer flew open, hitting Virginia and pitching her backwards. Her neck was wrenched. Kenneth helped her up and insisted on massaging her neck. Meanwhile he continued:

"Your enthusiasm for Nolan Heights brought these items to my mind. To put it mildly, Miss Travis, my father — god bless him — is a bit of a screwball!"

"Screwball!" echoed Virginia incredulously.

"Now, I don't mean to imply that my father is goofy. People who are goofy should be locked up — people who are screwballs are nice to have around — as long as it doesn't cost $120,000. Now do you see why I can't invest in Nolan Heights?"

Virginia was silent. Kenneth continued to massage her neck and they remained in this intimate, almost lover-like posture. Virginia looked so crestfallen that Kenneth felt terribly sorry for her. His mother, he told her, had made him promise to keep Dad from wasting money on impractical gadgets.

"I need your help," he confided persuasively. "I want you to help me convince Dad that he doesn't have to go into any more foolish ventures. I hope he'll be home soon — Nina's so anxious to meet him. She's a lovely thing, isn't she? So sensible. I need sensible people around me, because—"

He paused, looking deeply into Virginia's eyes.

"—because every once in a while I get afraid that I could be like my father — only worse. And then I'd never be sensible again."

Suddenly the door opened and Nina appeared. She observed Virginia and Kenneth with patent suspicion. Virginia rose in embarrassment and made a hasty exit. In the kitchen she found Hank and Judy drying dishes. B. J. was fumbling with some sort of contraption she hadn't seen before.

"Would you kids mind if I talked to Mr. Nolan alone?" she said.

Observing Virginia's interest in his gadget B. J. explained: "This is a Writograph. It writes five checks at once."

Virginia asked bitterly, "How much did you lose on that?"

"Only eight thou—" he began. "Say, has my son been talking about me? I can explain about this, Virginia. The guy who invented it didn't know that another guy had invented it. I played it on the nose and it ran second."

"B. J.," said Virginia hopelessly, "You're a screwball!"

"Aha," said B. J. "He has been talking! 'What's happened to you?' he continued plaintively. 'Yesterday you were on my side. Now you're on his.'"

"I hadn't heard his side of the story then. No, B. J., I couldn't help you run through his money."

"His money!" B. J. was indignant. "And where do you think he got it? From his mother. And where did she get it? I'll tell you where. I made a million in Florida. And my wife dragged half a million for a rainy day. I made a million in Oklahoma and my wife dragged another for another rainy day. Two million! And now, when it's raining, my son has the only umbrella."

"All right. He has one million. What became of the other?"

B. J. looked unhappy and deflated. "I lost it," he admitted weakly.

"On gadgets!"

"Wait a minute, Virginia!" he said heatedly. "Are you saying that Nolan Heights is a gadget? Clean little homes instead of crowded tenements. Healthy little children playing in the country instead of on dirty streets. Sunshine, fresh air, happy families. . . Is that a gadget?"

Virginia's eyes were moist. "No, B. J. Nolan Heights is a fine noble thing and I believe in it."

"Yesterday," continued B. J., with a quaver in his voice, "I'd given you. Then you brought in a lot of youth and enthusiasm and I started living again. I thought there was a chance to do something, not so much for the sake of Nolan Heights, but for the good it would do. Kenneth — to save him, while he's still young, from turning into a colorless old voucher-clipper. I can't save him, but I thought you could. He'll marry some dull, safe, sensible girl. Is that what you want?"

The light of battle shown in Virginia's eyes. "No, that isn't what I want B. J.!"

"Then," cried B. J. warning to his argument, "save him from himself! If you could only get him started on Nolan Heights he'd be a different man. He'd have ideas—he'd have fun! He'd like different people—he'd even approve of me—and he'd probably fall in love with you!"

"Are you sure Nolan Heights is safe?"

"Honestly, Virginia, it can't miss. If we can get his name on a check for a hundred thousand, he'll have it back double in no time — and be a different, happy man. Now how are we going to get his name on a check?"

"I don't know." She paused thoughtfully. Suddenly she spied the Writograph. "Yes, I do know! not for you, not for me, but to save him from himself — we'll swindle him! Out of the old life into the new!"

"Yippee!" cried B. J. Ten years dropped from him in that moment.

Before retiring for the night, Henri cornered Kenneth. Nina, he explained, was a gentle, sensitive flower. Her feelings were easily bruised. She was, he told Kenneth nervously, sensitive about Miss Travis.

"The way she looks at you, Kenneth! She looks at you with very much lasciv — that is in English, I think, concupiscence. I will never forget the time a beautiful woman looked at me concupiscence in Algiers. She—"

"I see," interrupted Kenneth, not seeing at all but anxious to terminate the discussion. "Don't worry about it old man. Goodnight."

"Goodnight," said Henri and rushed upstairs to tell Nina.

"Did you warn him?" she demanded. "Did you put it to him strong?"

"Yes, but he cannot throw her out of the house in the middle of the night, Nina."

Nina made an impatient gesture. Henri was a dope. After breakfast tomorrow, she would have a long talk with Kenneth herself, she decided. At all costs, he must get rid of Virginia. Some way, any way. She didn't care. Below in the library, Kenneth was busy at the dictionary. He read:

"Concupiscence, n., an illicit, unlawful appetite for that which is agreeable."

With some alarm he walked to a mirror and examined his face thoughtfully. "Concupiscence," he muttered. "Whew!"

es to amount to something in his own house should wear his hat in the family circle. A barroom is not a man's home in the exact sense of the word, not even in New York, yet there seems to have been one gentleman in that town who took as much liberty in the drinkery as he would be entitled to take in his domestic domicile. While favorable to indoor hat-wearing, State Press cannot indorse the rude action of the trouble maker of Manhattan. The ladies about him were not of his own family, therefore he should have exhibited politeness. The fact that he probably was baldheaded and subject to colds is not an excuse. There is no excuse for discourtesy to ladies. One need not be extra formal, perhaps, in the presence of ladies who have quenched their thirst to the extent of bursting into song, or to the degree of hiccoughs and giggles, but until a lady exhibits unmistakable signs of intoxication every gentleman should deport himself toward her in a gentlemanly manner.

State Press, in The Dallas News, takes it up with us about our attitude toward lady thirst quenchers, referring to the recent editorial in this paper wherein a man was hailed into court for failure to remove his hat when a lady came into a bar. Our reaction was that if the woman objected to failure of men to remove their headgear, she could stay out of the bar.

But State Press recognizes the rights of women with reference to patronizing speak-easies and the like, as follows:

Why, Mr. Barron! Would you have the ladies perish of thirst just because some recalcitrant male customer might decline to remove his hat in the presence of lady thirst quenchers? This column has long maintained that any man who wish-

TEXAS UNIVERSITY REVIVES RADIO SCRIPT IN WHICH LIFE OF FORMER PRESIDENT WAS REVIVED OVER AIR

AUSTIN, Texas, May 13.—In a broadcast over Radio Station WSM, Nashville, Tenn., November 18, 1835, the University of Texas paid tribute to Dr. H. Y. Benedict, who until his death March 10, 1937, was president of that institution. The radio program, entitled "From Freshie to President," traced the life of the first "Texas-Ex" to become executive head of the institution, from his birth in Louisville, Ky., through his enrollment as a freshman, his regime as dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, and his presidency.

The script for this broadcast follows in part:

Roy Bedichek, Chief of the Intercollegiate League of Texas, tells of Dr. Benedict's early days as follows:

"Sometime between San Jacinto and Annexation, several leagues of and in Young, Stephens and adjoining counties were granted to one W. S. Peters of Louisville, Ky., and thereby hangs this tale. H. J. Peters, the son of W. S., arrived by wagon in 1877, to occupy this land, and with him, among others, he brought his daughter, Mrs. Adele Peters Benedict, and her two sons, Carl and Harry Yandell, ages 8 and 3 respectively.

"Between the rough ranch portion of the strip allotted to the Peters family and the river bottom, on an eminence overlooking a valley and looking up to the hills, H. J. Peters built his home, and here the president of the University of Texas spent twelve years of boyhood and youth. A subsequent survey determined that the line separating Young and Stephens counties exactly bisects this residence.

"There was much riding and general ranch work to be done, and there was the still more grueling task of grubbing mesquite and building miles of rock fences out of boulders which strew the surface of the foothills. There was the endless chores of the pioneer home: Wood, water, milking, care of stock, etc., and there were the excitements of feuds, killings, cattle stealing, and terrible catastrophes, such as the long drought of 1886-87, in which nearly all the cattle of the country perished, and is remembered to this day by the old times as "The Great Die."

"It was a rough schooling for this sensitive lad of gentle and artistic parentage, but, physically, he was hardy and strong. He was mentally alert, he puzzled over a bed of crinoids in a ghastly gulch on the ranch which he called "Te Devil's Basin," picking up a smattering of geology and other sciences on the run.

"A library of a thousand well-selected volumes had been somehow transported from the old Kentucky home, and under the guidance of a highly educated mother, young Yandell browsed during the rainy days and at nights after the evening's chores were done. He made a prodigious collection of bird's eggs, and incidentally learned to identify all the birds of the region, an interest which he retained to this day. Such was his informal schooling; his mother and an erudite uncle, Carl Peters, as guides, the home library, and nature in the raw.

"The family moved into Graham for a short period in 1881 and Yandell attended public school for five months, and in 1882 he attended the Hendricks private school for a few months. A year out of school followed, and in the fall of 1884, he entered Cleveland College, Weatherford, where he remained three months, being expelled because he refused, under the brow-beating of the principal, to divulge the names of certain of his school-mates who had spread match-heads on the chapel floor. It is not of record that he ever, during his long career as Dean of the University of Texas, tried to make a student an informer upon another.

Jealous Judy Prefers Gentlemen

Her owner, a Mr. Gay of London, says "Judy," small Brazilian monkey, is a "perfect lady" when the men are around, but when the ladies appear, Judy turns ragingly jealous. Tests Produce Higher Quality Tobacco Crop

BY JACK ZAIMAN United Press Staff Correspondent

WINDSOR, Conn., May 12. (UP)—For years, Dr. F. J. Anderson, chief of the local tobacco sub-station, has been experimenting with irrigation methods designed to beat weather at droughts, which wreak havoc with the shade and sun-grown tobacco plants in the fertile Connecticut River Valley.

When this tobacco grows right, Dr. Anderson believed, there is none that can beat it in the country. So he determined to find some system whereby he could safeguard the crops from droughts usually experienced in July and August.

Today, Dr. Anderson announced he has succeeded in his quest. And, he hinted, perhaps other growers can experiment along similar lines with a probability of success. Season after season ever since the great 1929 hailstorm ruined the region — Anderson has been plugging away at some irrigation system.

Leaves Turned Yellow
One day, he said, he noticed that no matter how much water he hosed on to the low-lying sandy fields during dry periods, the tobacco leaves eventually turned yellow—ruined.

"When tobacco turns yellow," he said, "it is a sign of nitrogen starvation. A test of the soil corroborated his diagnosis. The nitrogen had been washed away by the water and the irrigated plants were worse off than those suffering from drought."

It was simple from then on. All that was needed was some nitrate of calcium.

So to every acre of irrigated tobacco-land, Dr. Anderson procured 100 pounds of nitrate of calcium and sprinkled it into the pools of water on his "test" farm. Other sections ment showed signs of nitrogen of this field he irrigated without shortage.

Two Plots Studied
"The leaves appeared paler in color and this difference increased until harvest. The leaves on the nitrate plot seemed larger and did not show signs of ripening so quickly as those on the plot that was irrigated only."

"In the fall of 1887 he made a wagon-camping trip of four months into Colorado. In the fall of 1888, he grubbed mesquite from land that has since proved entirely worthless for agricultural purposes. In January, 1889, he visited San Antonio with his mother and stopped at the University in Austin, quite by accident.

"Thus President Benedict became identified with Texas first through his great grandfather, an empresario in the days of the Republic. Next, with his father and maternal grandfather, he served his term as a genuine pioneer. He entered the University of Texas as a freshman, on examination, in the first decade of that institution's existence, and completed his work for the bachelor of science degree in three years."

Dr. Benedict is known for his many qualities as a humorist, as a philosopher, and as a scholar. His students, however, admired Dr. Benedict because of his humanness. When the newly endowed Ph.D. returned to his Alma Mater as a teacher, the student body generally expected to see a changed man. Surely two years at Harvard would cause a change in an individual—a change for the worst some feared.

As a dean, Dr. Benedict proved to be an outstanding success. His understanding, human nature made it possible to not only do the strenuous and often unpleasant task of the office satisfactorily, but to receive and retain the friendship of many boys whom he had dropped from the rolls of the University. As Dr. Benedict humorously pointed out "a Dean is elected for two years and serves for life." Another equally well known quotation by Dr. Benedict is "a dean is only a low grade truant officer."

Dr. Benedict was elected President of the University by the Board of Regents in the summer of 1927. He began his duties as President on September 1, 1927. Dr. Benedict brought into the presidency of the university the same quiet humanness that made him one of the most popular professors on the campus and the same meticulous care in dealing with business of the university that he exercised so successfully as dean. The University of Texas under his leadership has seen the greatest material growth of its existence.

Mrs. Avriett Is Guest Speaker at Tea Given by Woman's Wednesday Club

Mrs. James H. Goodman Presents First Vice-President of State Federation of Clubs

The Woman's Wednesday Club entertained members of local federated clubs with a Program-Tea Wednesday afternoon at the Midland Country Club. Large bouquets of roses and larkspur decorated the club room. Guests were greeted at the door by Mrs. W. G. Whitehouse and Mrs. Andrew Fasken, and were introduced to the outgoing president of the club, Mrs. John P. Butler, Mrs. W. P. Avriett and the president for the ensuing year, Mrs. W. T. Walsh.

Mrs. James H. Goodman, program chairman for the afternoon, presented her personal friend, the guest speaker, Mrs. W. P. Avriett, of Lamesa first vice president of the State Federation of Clubs, Mrs. Avriett spoke of the subject "Why Not Know Our Texas Federation?" She gave the rise of federated clubs and club women, beginning with the crusade in the nineteenth century for higher education for women. The first club for women in America was the Sorosis Club of New York which was organized in 1838 as the result of an indignation meeting of a few New York women. The club movement is purely American and Mrs. Avriett told of the steady growth and interest in clubs until the public had been educated to the fact of their importance and value. She gave numerous human interest stories and humorous incidents to illustrate the pioneering of the Federation and what it means to American womanhood. The first club in Texas was organized at Henderson, and received the disapproval of the entire town with the exception of those women who gave the first "afternoon party for women" ever to be given in the state.

The 40th birthday of the Texas

Federation will be held May 14, at Waco. Mrs. Avriett said. Following Mrs. Avriett's interesting talk, Miss Frances Gillette presented in a piano solo, "Tea-scumme" by Liszt. During the tea hour Mrs. Tom Sealy gave several violin selections, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Frank Miller.

Mrs. O. B. Holt and Mrs. C. M. Goldsmith presided at the punch bowl. Others in the house party were Mrs. W. E. Ryan, Mrs. H. C. Barnes, Mrs. Elliott Cowden, Mrs. Frank Cowden, Mrs. J. M. Here's Prize Laugh

BY GEORGE ROSS

NEW YORK, May 1. —Broadwayites with good memories are having their own, quiet haw-haw over the fact that the Pulitzer Prize went to "You Can't Take It With You," the only play on Broadway that takes a few hilarious pot-shots at Columbia University where the prizes are handed out.

One of the lines in "You Can't Take It With You" suggests that Father Divine might be called in to hand out diplomas at the next Columbia Commencement Exercises.

'Dinah' Kicks Her Way Into Film Fame

"Dinah," the mule that does some tall and uproariously-funny kicking with Laurel and Hardy the targets in the Hal Roach M-G-M feature comedy, "Way Out West," is a celebrity among the barnyard actors of Hollywood.

For fifteen years, starting in the days of silents, "Dinah" has been acting in the movies. She's what is known as a "Henkie," a cross between a Shetland pony and a burro and is seventeen years old. "Dinah" was obtained by the Roach studios when only two years old and has been expertly trained.

"Dinah," with all her kicking and cutting capers, is actually a gentle animal and quite a pet at the studios, particularly with the "little rascals" of "Our Gang," in which comedies she has appeared many times.

"Dinah" makes her home at the Raachero Rancho, which is located only a mile or so from the Roach studios in Culver City. There is a large array of trained animals there, in charge of "Tony" Campanaro, who has been handling animals for Hal Roach for over fifteen years.

"Way Out West" opening Sun. at the Ritz Theatre, is the first Western feature comedy Laurel and Hardy have appeared in as a team. "Dinah" figures prominently in the original story and adds to the hilarious fun that the stellar comedians provide.

There are 650 people per square mile in Belgium.

100 Children Have Picnic Wednesday

Over 100 children of the Junior Department of the First Baptist Sunday School met at the Baptist Annex at 4:30 yesterday and went on a picnic to Cloverdale. A number of outdoor games were played.

Teachers of the department who attended the picnic were Mrs. R. O. Walker, Mrs. S. T. Cole, Mrs. R. V. Lawrence, Mrs. Ray Hyatt, Miss Vivian Arnett, Miss Joan Arnett, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Denham, Leon Arnett, and Frank Adams, superintendent of the department.

Outdoor Living Room

For very little money it is possible to get enough outdoor furniture to transform the backyard into a pleasant place to spend summer afternoons and evenings. Deck chairs with foot rests and shade canopies, an iron table or two with chairs to match, pillows with waterproof covers and an inexpensive double chaise longue or a swing are adequate. Insist that swing and chaise be covered with one of the new modern fabrics that are water and mildew proof and which the sun will not fade.

Eldon Auker Given Credit for Revival Of Semi-Pro Success

MANHATTAN, Kan., (Special.)—This is the story why a small invitation Kansas state semi-pro baseball tournament grew into a national organization simply because a ball player became a star almost over night in the major leagues.

The principal character of this story is Eldon Auker, now a leading pitcher of the Detroit Tigers, who attended Kansas State College here.

In 1931 Auker was a pitcher here during the summer months for a semi-pro club known as the Manhattan Travelers. His team entered the first Kansas State tournament at Wichita.

That year the Kansas tournament was only a small invitation affair. There happened to be a scout from the Detroit Tigers—Steve O'Rourke—in attendance. He liked the looks of Auker and signed him with the Tigers. Two years later Auker became the leading pitcher in the American league.

As Auker became more famous, the Kansas state tournament grew by leaps and bounds. Every young Kansas boy aspired to be picked out by the scouts at the annual Kansas state tournament. Consequently by 1934, more than 100 teams had applied for entrance in the Kansas tournament and prize money to teams reached the $6,000 mark.

Sporting goods manufacturers marveled at the success of the Kansas state tournament. Baseball sales had continued to gain in this state whereas they were falling off in all others during the depression years.

Raymond Dumont of Wichita, who had originated the first Kansas tournament and made a success of it, was persuaded to take the successful plan to other states.

This summer, as a result, 48 state tournaments will be sanctioned, culminating in the national finals at Wichita, Kan., with $5,000 being offered as a minimum guarantee to the national champions.

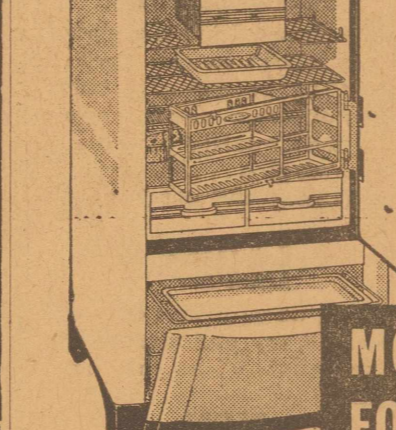

Recently, this organization, headed by high commissioner Honus Wagner, and Dumont, the president, inaugurated a national system of player contracts which will assure managers protection of players—similar to a plan in organized baseball.

Had it not been, however, that Eldon Auker, graduated from this first Kansas state tournament into a star in the American league, there may never had been the incentive to organize the National Semi-Pro Baseball Congress.

This year the congress expects to graduate no less than 50 players into organized baseball from its series of state tournaments. Major league scouts will attend all the state finals to find more Eldon Aukers.

vested, up to 50 votes.

Under the more liberal lending policies, the associations are enabled to perform a greater service in promoting home ownership in their communities. Although still required to have 85 per cent of their assets in amortized home loans, United States bonds or cash, they may now lend the remaining 15 per cent on mortgages secured by other real estate. These loans may be in the form of straight mortgages for periods not exceeding five years and may be made up to 50 per cent of the appraised value of the property. Amortized loans may be made up to 80 per cent of the appraised value of homes, if authorized by association memberships.

There are now 1,241 federal savings and loan associations, 32 of which have come into existence under the revised charter. Their combined assets are $848,094,108. The shares of their members are all insured up to $5,000 each by the federal saving and loan insurance corporation.

CCC Fight Against Twig Blight Grows

FORT SAM HOUSTON, Texas, May 13.—Eight Civilian Conservation Corps companies, located on summer work projects in the national forests of New Mexico and Arizona will continue a fight against twig blight which threatens the largest unbroken stand of ponderosa pine forest in the world—located in the states of New Mexico and Arizona.

The CCC work companies will wage their battle against this rare tree disease under the direction of the forestry service in the Prescott, Coconino, Tohono and Sitgreaves National forests in Arizona and the Gila National Forest in New Mexico. CCC work companies have aided in stemming the twig blight in national forests since the inception of the corps in 1933.

This little known disease made its first noticeable appearance in the Prescott forests as early as 1917. Plant pathologists making a study of its action on trees have described it as being similar to the "white plague" of tuberculosis on human beings. They say it is not known elsewhere in the world.

CCC workers are controlling the spread chiefly by cutting off and burning infected twigs.

Research has shown that the fungus enters the needle shed area of the twig leaving a resinous deposit. Numerous infections result in complete girdling of the twig with the final result—death of the twigs, limbs, and finally the tree.

As a result of the efforts made to stop the destruction of valuable timber and eradicate the disease more than 41,000 acres in the Prescott forest have been worked by the CCC. The known areas in the Gila, Coconino and Tohono forests have been completely covered by CCC workers. The Sitgreaves National forests lacks about 800 acres of being finished and the Prescott about 2000.

When an area has been covered the job is not completed, however, for workers must go over the same ground each year to locate any trees missed or discover new outbreaks.

CCC work companies in the Arizona district moved into the forests for the summer are:
Company 807, Globe, Arizona.

moved to Indian Gardens, Arizona, in the Tonto Forests.

Company 2861, Tucson, moved to Lynx Creeks in the Prescott Forest.

Company 822, Mayer, Arizona, moved to Prescott in the Prescott Forest.

Company 863, Beaver Creek, Arizona, moved to Pivot Rock, Arizona, in the Coconino Forest.

Company 2847, Desert View, Arizona, moved to North Rim, Grand Canyon, in the Prescott Forest.

Working in the side camps located away from the central camp, enrollees from company 3836, Glenwood, in the Silver City, New Mexico district are doing twig blight eradication in the Gila National Forest.

Company 862, located at Juan Miller, in the Silver City, New Mexico district, has been moved to McNary, Arizona to work in the Sitgreaves Forest.

Company 2841, from the Fort Bliss, Texas district, has been moved to Mimbres near Silver City, New Mexico to work in the Gila Forest.

The many deep waterways of the Port of New York lead in every direction from its 771 miles of waterfront.
