Ask FR for Compromise on Relief Act Sentiment In Senate on Wagering Seen as Almost "Tie"

Gave Self Job

Arleen Whelan, above, Los Angeles manicurist, had a movie career right under someone else's thumb, but she didn't know it until her customer offered her a contract. It seems he was a film director who thought she was wasting her cuteness on cuticle. Of course, Miss Whelan filed her approval, but because she's only 20, the contract had to be authorized in court.

REPEALISTS SEEK TO HAVE MEASURE STUDIED BY HOUSE

Committee Change Is Demand of Antis In Fight

SOLONS ADJOURN

Senate and House To Resume Work Monday

AUSTIN, May 28 (P)—First votes in the senate on horse race betting controversy today showed a close division of sentiment.

Repealists sought to refer the bill repealing the statute to the committee as a whole, but antis sought to send it to the committee on state affairs instead of the criminal jurisdiction to which it had been referred. Both lost 13-13 with one pair.

Senate followed house action, adjourning until Monday after a short session.

The motion for repeal is sponsored by Representative Bradbury of Abilene, and it received approval by the state affairs committee overwhelmingly during the regular session. Other bills proposed local option on the issue or delay of the effective date of repeal until the summer of 1939.

Gaines Test Is Drilling Hard Lime At 4,615 Feet

BY FRANK GARDNER
With some definite change expected soon, A. G. Carter-Continental Oil Company No. 1 A. L. Wesson, "hot" wildcat 16 miles west of Seagraves in northern Gaines, this morning was drilling hard lime at 4,615 feet. Many look for the first porosity at around 4,650, while others do not expect it before 4,750. The well, which is running between 400 and 500 feet higher than the dry hole five miles to the southwest, is located 2,310 feet from the north and 330 feet from the west line of See (OIL NEWS) Page 6

'Glacier Priest' Off to Arctic

Off at last on the Arctic trip for which his last 10 expeditions have been merely preparations, Father Bernard R. Hubbard, famed "Glacier Priest," is pictured above with his sturdy aides just before sailing from Seattle on the Coast Guard cutter Northland. After spending five months in the Bering sea with the Coast Guard, the Hubbard party will set up a base at King Island and remain there until July, 1938. Accompanying the explorer-priest are, left to right, Edgar Levin, field manager; Magick and Wolf, canine veterans of previous Hubbard expeditions; Kenneth Chisholm, assistant field manager, and Bernard Stanley, 17, the priest's nephew, who is making his debut as an explorer.

190 JUNIOR AND SENIOR HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS ARE GIVEN DIPLOMAS HERE

Graduating exercises were held last night for both Junior and Senior high schools. At seven-thirty diplomas were awarded to one-hundred and thirty graduates of the Junior high school.

The program for the Senior high school was opened with an invocation by Rev. Winston F. Borum, and the Salutatory address was given by Dorothy Lou Speed.

Musical numbers included choruses by the entire student body, a solo by Mrs. Foy Proctor, and the Girls' Choral Club, the Boys' Glee Club, and a ladies' chorus. The valedictory speech was made by Adale Reiger, high ranking student of the class.

The principal speaker for the occasion was Dr. W. J. O'Banion, head of the department of education. In his address on "Education for 20th Century Problems," Dr. O'Banion justified his reputation as a forceful and eloquent speaker. The tests which he said an educated man should measure up to are:

1. A keen interest in world problems backed by a knowledge of the fundamentals of history.
2. A ready use of at least one language, preferably one's native tongue.
3. A knowledge of scientific progress of modern times.
4. The ability to make and keep friends.
5. Dr. O'Banion paid high compliments to the Midland Public School system and remarked that in the state department it was ranked as one of the leading school systems of the state. One reason for the excellence of the Midland schools, Dr. O'Banion stated, was the fact that the official personnel was stable. "A frequent change in school administration does not make for a progressive school," the educator said.

Supt. W. W. Lackey made an inspiring talk to the seniors before the diplomas were presented to the sixty graduates.

Mr. Foy Proctor, President of the School Board, presented the diplomas as Supt. Lackey announced the names.

MORE THAN 100 ARE DROWNED AS DAM IN MEXICO BREAKS

Avalanche of Mud, Rocks Pour Into Mining Town

CITY WIPED OUT

Many Are Buried As Waters Rush Off Mountain

MEXICO CITY, May 28 (P)—A bursting dam Thursday loosed a death-dealing avalanche of mud, sand and rock on the mining town of Tlalpujahua, Michoacan state, causing a loss of life which a mining company official said was "conservatively estimated at more than 100."

Residents of El Oro, about 15 miles from the stricken town, in telephone talks to Mexico City said the death toll might reach 500.

The dam, high in the mountains of the Tlalpujahua Sierra of northeastern Michoacan, held back deposits gathered in the Cyanide metal processing operations of the Dos Estrellas Mining company, controlled by French capital.

Weakened by recent heavy rains the dam went out about 3 a. m. Most of Tlalpujahua, in a deep ravine below, was still asleep.

A mass estimated at 3,000,000 tons of mud, sand, gravel and rock thundered down on the town just before daylight.

Rafael Reyes, secretary to Hoken E. Niberg, general manager of the Dos Estrellas company, gave his estimate of more than 100 dead in a telephone call from El Oro, in Mexico state just across the state line from Tlalpujahua.

The stricken town is about 80 miles in a direct line northwest of Mexico City.

Reyes said the avalanche wiped out a section of the little town known as La Caudrilla. He asserted more than 100 houses were entirely buried and hundreds more partially buried or damaged.

He said it might be several days before excavators could recover all the bodies. Earlier company employees reported 29 bodies had been recovered and many more were believed to be still under the mass.

Earlier reports estimated 700 houses, about one-third of Tlalpujahua, had been destroyed.

The Red Cross dispatched all available ambulances with medical staffs from Mexico City to the scene of the disaster. Executives of the Dos Estrellas company, who had been attending a conference in Mexico City, and Agustin Guzman, general secretary of the mining syndicate, also hastened to Tlalpujahua.

LEGISLATION TO STOP EVASION OF INCOME TAX DUE

Roosevelt to Offer Measure to The Congress

WASHINGTON, May 28 (P)—President Roosevelt said today that he would ask for legislation this session to check what he termed both evasion and avoidance of the income tax, running into millions of dollars a year, by a small group of wealthy persons.

He told a press conference that the treasury had reported glaring evasions and avoidances, raising an important moral issue; and that there was no question additional legislation is needed. He said that every day new type cases are revealed.

HOUSE LEADERS APPEAL TO HIM FOR SETTLEMENT

Administration Is Loser in First Round Bout

RAYBURN TO ACT

Will Discuss the Act With President Tomorrow

WASHINGTON, May 28 (P)—House leaders, attempting to reverse a defeat on salient provisions of the $1,500,000,000 relief bill, today appealed to the president to help bring about a compromise.

House majority leader Rayburn whose efforts staved off a final vote in a turbulent session yesterday, said he would discuss the entire subject with Roosevelt during the week end.

Gleeful republicans watched democratic leaders struggle yesterday with a house revolt against Harry L. Hopkins' $12,000 salary and President Roosevelt's power to select relief projects.

The chamber, amid a tremendous hub-bub, voted tentatively to slash the salary to $10,000. At an early stage of the debate over next year's $1,500,000,000 relief appropriation, the house had voted to earmark $505,000,000 of the huge sum for such specific projects as flood control, public works and highway construction.

This would tie the president's hands and prevent him from allotting the money as he deemed advisable.

So uproarious was the rebellion, that administration leaders hastily acted to prevent the legislators from taking final action on the big bill in their present temper. They succeeded in getting the bill laid aside.

Majority Leader Rayburn (D-Tex.) disclosed he had talked with President Roosevelt "within the hour" and hinted of a possible compromise on the earmarking amendments.

Final passage of the measure probably will be deferred until Tuesday.

THE QUINS ARE 3 YEARS OLD

CALLANDER, Ontario, May 28 (P)—The Dionne quintuplets are three years old today but all the fuss and feathers of the celebration will mean only a later supper.

The five little girls—Marie, Cecile, Emilie, Yvonne and Annette—will be the stars in an international birthday broadcast, it's true, but that will mean just acting natural.

They will sing French-Canadian folk songs, including "En Rollant Ma Boule," over the air, while their nurses accompany them at the piano.

The only real change in the daily routine, due to the birthday program will be that they will have supper after 6 o'clock tonight instead of between 5:30 and 6 p. m. and that's only for a night.

There will be plenty of doing, of course, at their hospital home near the farm residence of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oliva Dionne, where they were born.

But mostly the grown-ups will carry on the show.

Dr. Allan Roy D'afce, their medical guardian, will be a leading figure. He will talk briefly during the broadcast.

Large crowds are expected to witness the regular public appearances of the quintuplets today.

SCIENTISTS POINT WAY TOWARD IDEAL LIVING

That party of scientists who sailed from Honolulu the other day on a two-months trip to study a four-minute eclipse of the sun might very well be taken as a model for the rest of the world to copy.

Along with 11 tons of equipment, these scientists—there are 13 of them—are bound for one of the uninhabited Phoenix Islands, far out in the Pacific. They will set up their apparatus there and on the eighth of June they will have 240 seconds in which to study a completely eclipsed sun.

The party over, they will head for home again, having spent a good deal of money and a great deal of effort in the quest for a collection of facts which, from the dollars and cents viewpoint, will never do anyone the least good.

But the net result will be that the sum total of the race's knowledge about the infinitely mysterious world it inhabits will be increased, if only by a little.

The point is that it is still possible for a disinterested job of this kind to be done. We can still get some high-powered brains together, spend important money and make elaborate plans for an expedition whose fruits can't be turned into cash or reserved as the exclusive property of anyone.

The knowledge gained by this expedition will be available to Germans and Russians and Englishmen and Japanese as well as to Americans. It will not be patented and let out on a royalty basis by any man or corporation, or jealously guarded in the archives of any foreign office. It will be as free as the air to any human being who has the wit to use it.

That sort of thing isn't as common as it might be, these days. For the keynote to this 20th century world seems to be unrestrained rivalry—every man (or nation) for himself, and the devil take the hindmost, as he is quite likely to do. The idea that the race will be better off if it works together and stops trying to gain advantage for one group at the expense of some other has hardly so much as dawned on us.

Yet it ought to be obvious that we simply aren't going to be able to live by this devil-take-the-hindmost creed so very much longer. The devil is following altogether too closely on our heels. The world has grown too small. Like it or not, the human race is going to—wherever it is going—as a group.

So this little scientific expedition shines like a good deed in a naughty world. It is a hint that we aren't necessarily doomed to go on cutting one another's throats, after all. We can co-operate, we can make the gain of one the gain of all.

And if we ever do set out to live up to this example set by our scientists, what a world we can make for ourselves.

Newspapers Again Carry Large Blatz Advertising Space

MILWAUKEE, Wis. May 28. (Sp.)—At a series of meetings during the last two weeks, at the offices of the Blatz Brewing Company, Milwaukee, attended by many distributors, branch managers, salesmen, sales and advertising executives from all over the United States, the advertising and sales plans of that company for the spring and summer of 1937 were presented.

The announcement was made that newspapers had been selected as the principal advertising media for this year's advertising plans.

It is said that the Blatz schedule for 1937 is one of the largest releases of newspaper copy on beer that has ever appeared locally and throughout the country.

"We believe in newspaper advertising," says Hal Johnson, advertising manager of the Blatz Brewing Company. "Last year, 1936, Blatz enjoyed the largest sales volume on Blatz beer in all its 86 years of continuous production of beer and soft drinks."

"We attribute this success to two factors—first, of course, the very excellence of Blatz beer; and second,

ANN HARDING LOVE FROM A STRANGER

BASIL RATHBONE

Chapter Two

He stepped across the threshold, hat in hand, and Carol noticed that he was as pleasant and gentle as he sounded. A high, cultured forehead with carefully brushed wavy hair and deep-set, thoughtful eyes were the first things that met her glance. Then she noticed that his slender, well-knit figure was simply draped in clothing that was quietly eloquent of breeding and taste.

Without a surprisingly short time she was completely at ease with him. She liked his appreciation of the good things she had bought for the apartment. From his conversation she soon learned that he was wealthy, traveled, that he was seeking the apartment because the neighborhood brought back his boyhood. He told her that he was a chemical engineer, but that his principal interest was amateur photography.

Kate returned and went out again for their tickets to Paris. Then the bell rang again, and this time it was Ronnie. Carol noted with mixed feelings that he was unchanged, just a bit older. He stared for a moment at her visitor, who suddenly remembered that he had not been introduced. "Lovell, Gerald Lovell is the name," he said with a laugh. With a meaning glance at them, he said, "You must excuse me."

When he had gone, there was a moment's awkward pause. Before the conventional greetings were over, Carol launched into an excited account of her good fortune. Ronnie was singularly unmoved by her good fortune, evidently troubled by something.

"You're not including me in this, are you?" he asked.

"Why, of course, darling!"

"But I have to be at the office Monday to take over my new job."

Then Carol understood that Ronnie was hurt that all his efforts seemed to him to have dwindled to nothing beside her crazy stroke of fortune. She could not keep the irritation from edging into her voice and very soon they were quarreling openly. Ronnie was determined not to be a rich woman's husband, was intent on staying with his job. She was exasperated at his adamant attitude.

"The money has gone to your head," he shouted.

"Oh, stop it Ronnie!" she answered. "You've spoiled everything. But I'm glad I found out about it in time."

Ronnie became cold and grave. "If you feel that way about it," he said slowly, "I'm glad too." And donning his hat, he walked rapidly from the apartment.

Carol sat stunned for an instant, then raced after him. As she opened the door, Lovell confronted her again. "Shall I call him back?" he inquired blandly.

"No, it's nothing important," she said with sudden decision. "Won't you come in?"

It seemed now that Lovell was very much taken with the flat. But when Carol told him that she would only be gone for six weeks, he demurred. "It's hardly worth my trouble," he said. "But I'll think it over and telephone you."

"The number is Baywater 6093," Carol said.

He whipped a small book from his pocket and extracted a pencil from the back of its binding. "The name is Howard," he inquired, looking into her eyes.

Carol felt, with a curious sense of fright, that she was being drawn toward this stranger. There was a mixed quality of hurt gentleness and some unblinded depth in his eyes. "Miss Carol Howard," she spoke.

"I hope you don't mind if I make a note of it," he said. "I make a complete record of everything I do in this book."

"What are you putting down now?"

"Dinner with Miss Carol Howard tonight," he said as he wrote.

"But really," she protested, "I'm to the extensive newspaper advertising campaigns that appeared throughout the county, in hundreds of markets.

"The result has been a decision to still further increase our newspaper schedules, and sales records so far this year have already indicated that Blatz is repeating, and will hit a new high in consumer preference and sales volume."

"Last fall Blatz started a building program, making additions to the enormous Milwaukee brewery, and much new and most modern equipment was installed, so as to insure an increased volume for 1937 over 300,000 barrels. The increased demand for Blatz beer indicates that even these increased production facilities will be taxed to capacity."

"This year leading newspapers throughout the country are carrying more Blatz advertisements, larger in size, than ever before, and we look to set new sales records in every territory."

"Of course," he apologized. "You'll be dining with your fiancé."

Even after he had gone, Carol could not get his eyes out of her mind. It was with a sense of pleasant surprise, then, that she glanced up from the gangplank of the channel steamer the following morning to see him tipping his hat to her from the deck. Kate was curious about Lovell's being on the boat, inclined to read something into it. But Carol dismissed it as a simple coincidence.

On the crossing, Lovell cleverly engineered Kate out of the way and became most persistent in his attentions to Carol. She liked him for his savvy, his gentle manner and his knowledge of the world. And she was, more than all, flattered by his attentions. So, when he asked for the privilege of showing her Paris, his Paris, she readily consented.

Even Kate became sharply aware of the attractiveness of this strange man, when they started out on their gay tour of the cabaret life of Paris. He was their constant companion. On their second evening in Paris together, Carol turned gleefully to Kate and asked her, "Do you like him?"

"I'm just crazy about him," Kate spoke with enthusiasm. "Do you know, I'd better be trotting back to London before this affair turns into a triangle."

They laughed at Kate's quip.

The day after the couple appeared in the colorful costumes seen above, formal invitations were issued to their wedding on June 30.

Texas Lads Place Culture Last In Qualities of Wife

AUSTIN, May 28. (P) — Culture is the least essential quality a young woman seeking marriage should possess, say male students of Dr. C. W. Hall's "marriage" class at the University of Texas.

They ranked character first, and other qualities in order of importance were: Desire for home and children, health, intelligence, fidelity, congeniality, personality, consideration and understanding and culture.

Women students ranked qualities of prospective husbands in this order: Honesty and sincerity, ambition, congeniality, attractive personal appearance, desire for home and children, sense of humor, intelligence, fidelity, personality, and understanding.

The course, listed prosaically as Bible 317 and called "the family as a moral and religious agency in religious education," offers a frank discussion of marriage problems before and after the couple heads altarward.

Introduced in 1934, it was viewed as a "crip" course, but it has grown to 125 students whose free classroom discussions supplement Dr. Hall's lectures.

Once or twice a semester Dr. Hall lectures separately to men and women, not because he does not feel free to discuss certain subjects in mixed classes. He does it "because the girls and boys feel more free to ask questions and to discuss their problems in separate groups."

Such celebrities as Jack Benny and Mary Livingstone, Rudy Vallee, Benny Goodman, Ted Fio-Rito, Lanny Ross and Phil Harris are but a few who headline the musical revue presented twice each evening in the million-dollar restaurant-theatre. They will be supported by such stellar acts as Georges and Jaina, Borrah Minnevit and his Harmonica band, The Three Sailors, Stan Kavanagh, Jack Arthur, Lyn Murray's 24 singing "Gauchos," Chester Hale's thirty-two Texas Comets and a ballet of sixteen.

The opening edition of the Casino will feature Fio-Rito and his orchestra with the dance team of Georges and Jaina from New York's Rainbow Roof; The Three Sailors, comedy team recently seen in the motion picture "Top of the Town"; Stan Kavanagh, juggler-comedian of Ziegfeld Follies fame; Jack Arthur, radio baritone, and Borrah Minnevit and his Harmonica Rascals, lately starred in Sonja Henie's picture, "One in a Million." Art Jarrett and his band will play for dancing, alternating with Ted Fio-Rito's orchestra.

A 25-piece pit orchestra is under the baton of Ray Kavanagh, conductor for ten years for Earl Carroll, producer of the famed "Vaalities."

America's No. 1 comedy pair, Jack Benny and Mary Livingstone, cancelled a European sailing to play a three-day stand at the Southwest's International fair on July 3, 4 and 5.

Rudy Vallee and company will replace Fio-Rito on July 10, to be followed by the singing star of the air-lanes, Lanny Ross, with Phil Harris and his band, long a particular favorite of Southwesterners. Harris is being featured in the forthcoming motion picture, "Turn off the Moon."

Benny Goodman and his Swing masters, currently the most popular dance band in America, signed recently for an engagement in the Casino to open September 6.

Chester Hale, ensemble director of New York and Hollywood, is staging the mammoth Casino revue, long noted for his intricate assemblies at Major Edward Bowes' Capitol Theatre in New York. Hale has more recently been associated with major motion picture studios on the West Coast, and has produced dance ensembles for the larger and more pretentious productions, including "Rose Marie" and "Anna Karenina."

The interior of the Casino and its sets for the revue were designed and constructed under the personal supervision of Jo Mielziner, younger of the Broadway scenewrights and noted for fourteen successes in New York during the past two years, including the current "Wingless Victory," "The Women" and "High Top."

Costumes were designed by Con-ton, Francis Ellen Link, Bobby Wood, Betty Jo Greene, Betty Kimbrough and a visitor, Betty Willis.

Mrs. R. V. Lawrence and Mrs. M. R. Hill, counselors, were also present.

DEMONSTRATION CLUB NEWS

At a meeting of the Reporter's Association in Mrs. Lura Hollingsworth, county home demonstration agent's office, Miss Marguerite Hester spoke to Mesdames Lura Hollingsworth, Carl Smith, Roy Clark, and J. D. Bartlett.

The main points in her talk were on books, mounted clippings, and magazines that are at the disposal of the members of all the clubs for reference on most any line of work which they may want to make a study. She gave each club a list of books catalogued in such a manner that there should be no difficulty in getting any book needed, and especially stressed the facts that a book was of no value unless it was used regardless of its cost and that the public were not using the non-fiction books as much as they should.

RECIPES TO END CONSTIPATION

Every woman can protect her family from common constipation by careful menu planning. Often the cause of illness from constipation is lack of "bulk" in the diet.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN supplies this "bulk" in generous quantity. You can use ALL-BRAN in so many delightful ways. As a ready-to-eat cereal with milk or cream, fruits or honey added. Or make delicious bran muffins and breads—put it into griddle cakes, salads or soups, or over other cereals.

Just be sure each member of your family gets two tablespoonsful every day — and forget the illness caused by constipation. Serve three times daily, in severe cases.

You can also forget pills and drugs that nobody likes to take — and that so often fail unless the dose is constantly increased.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN also supplies vitamin B to help tone the intestines, and iron for the blood. Sold by all grocers. Made and guaranteed by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

CARDS LOSE TO HOBBS AGAIN; GO TO ODESSA TODAY, SATURDAY

11 FREE PASSES BY FROST DONATE BATTLE TO LIONS

The Hobbs Lions stepped out of their cellar berth yesterday and they used the league leading Midland Cardinals as a stepping stone for the second day in a row, thereby sweeping a series from the Cardinals on their home field, the first club this season to do so.

Manager Davis decided to experiment yesterday by using Bobby Frost, general utility man, on the mound, and the decision was a long way from being the right one as the Lions took game easily, 8-2.

Frost matched his foe, Dorsett, in the matter of hits, each giving up three, but his control must have been left in the club house before the game started, 11 of the Lions getting free tickets to first base. Three errors by his mates didn't help Frost any, but they weren't as costly as his wildness.

Hobbs made a couple of runs in the first innings on one hit, an error and three walks, four runs in the fourth on four walks, two hits and two more in the ninth on two walks and a two-base error by Nook in left field. Bates hit a long fly to Nook, and despite its curving rapidly away from him he managed to get his hands on it and then dropped it. From the fourth through the ninth Frost didn't give up a hit while striking out eight of the Lions but their early lead was more than enough as Dorsett had the Red Birds hitting one pop fly after another.

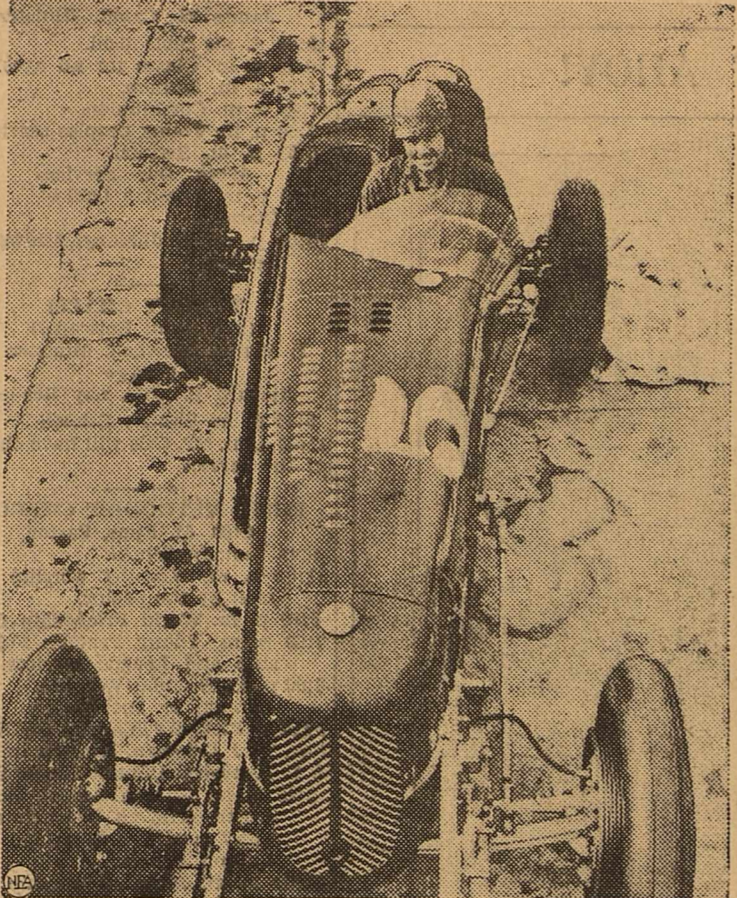

The Cards made their first run in the second on an error by the pitcher on Schiffer's grounder and a long double by Potocar, their final tally in the ninth when Nook reached first on an error, went to third on Stein's single, and came home when Davis, hitting for Schiffer, forced Stein at second.

The loss once more cut the Card's league lead to two games, Odessa hammering out a victory over Monahans. The Red Birds go to Odessa today and tomorrow to play the Oilers and must win at least one of the games to maintain their unshared position at the top.

Athletics to Feature Crime Prevention Drive

CLEVELAND (U.P.)—Mayor Harold H. Burton and Assistant Safety Director Robert Chamberlain have announced an elaborate recreational and athletic program for under-privileged boys. Their immediate aim is to form 25 neighborhood clubs, with more than 1,000 boy members. Policemen who can serve as instructors in athletics will be asked to volunteer as leaders of the clubs. The program is a new activity for the Crime Prevention Bureau headed by Police Captain Arthur Roth. Co-operation of the school board, with use of schools and gymnasiums assured, has already been promised.

A Rattling Good Snake Hunt

Snaking up on a snake looks easy the way Oklahomans did it in Blaine county's annual rattlesnake hunt recently. First, find a rattler and pin him down with a forked stick. Then, as Mark Garvey, champion hunter, demonstrates at right in top photo, grab the reptile just back of the head. Lifting the snake's neck, especially a nine-rattler, take a hint from John Garvey, lower left, and wear leather gloves. But, according to Maxine Bennett, lower right, Mr. Snake is still a public menace until he's in the bag.
