Pickets Issue "Strike or Starve" Ultimatum to Workers

As Violence Flared in U. A. W. Drive on Ford

Fists flew with a vengeance, as pictured here, when members of the United Automobile Workers' Union attempted to distribute handbills urging "Unionism, Not Fordism" to Ford workers at the company's River Rouge plant, Detroit. At left, one of the green-bereted members of the U. A. W.'s "emergency brigade" fights back at workers who forced the women to board a street car. At right, a Ford worker appears to be getting the better of a pugilistic argument with a U. A. W. propagandist.

DELIVERIES OF CATTLE NEARLY COMPLETE HERE

Purchase of More Is Attempted By Dealers

Cattle deliveries had been nearly completed late in the week, most of them being the wind-up of spring yearling contracts made some time ago.

In some instances, however, buyers were seeking more cattle, due to copious rains on their own ranges. Conkright and Guseman of Hereford received the balance of approximately 2,000 head of steer yearlings bought from Foy Proctor, buying 400 additional this trip. They report fine rains in their section.

O. G. Hill, also of Hereford, was here Saturday looking for cattle to supplement earlier purchases. He bought the 350 head of yearlings which J. R. Hedrick recently bought from Foster Bros., off their Odessa and Kent ranches.

Arthur Judkins recently "topped" the steer sales when he sold 100 head at eight cents and they weighed 625 pounds. He also sold a load of 605 pound heifer yearlings at seven cents. They went to an Arizona buyer who bought in all about 2,000 head, from the Frank Cowden, George Glass, Scharbauer Cattle Co., Judkins, J. H. Floyd, Julie Driver, K. S. Boone, Houston Bros. and Tom Cross ranches. Judkins also sold to Debenport of Oklahoma City 100 head of cows and calves at $100 around.

"Hamburgers, soda pop," "Balloon mister?" "Step right up and play the horses for valuable awards," "Knock the cats over for a cupie doll."

ORGANIZATION OF CUBBING PROGRAM IS SLATED HERE

Meeting Wednesday To Perfect New Scout 'Dens'

Parents of boys aged 9, 10 and 11 are invited to attend a meeting Wednesday night for the purpose of making definite organization of a "pack" of Cubs at Midland, under direction of the Boy Scouts of America and with sponsorship of the Midland Lions club.

Field Executive Darold F. Wilson, who outlined the organization at a meeting of interested parents last week, expects to formulate a definite organization at the Wednesday meeting. Committees have been at work during the past week listing parents of boys within the age limits, in the various sections of town.

It is planned to have at least four dens of about eight boys each, to form the first pack. It was believed likely that enough would be registered for two dens, at least in the next week or two.

The staff necessary for each pack of four dens is as follows: one cubmaster, one assistant cubmaster, four den dads, four den mothers, four den chiefs, four denners and one committee chairman.

Ever-Normal Granary Program Expected To Be Passed

WASHINGTON, May 29. (P)—Congressional leaders expressed doubt today that the proposed "agricultural amendment act of 1937" would be enacted this session, but predicted passage of the "ever normal granary" program.

Chairman Jones of Texas suggested retention of the present soil conservation program under which $500,000,000 annually is paid to farmers using soil building practices, adding it to the granary proposal.

SCORE INJURED

Strike-Breakers And Unionists Clash In Chicago

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, May 29. (P)—Striking steel workers today adopted a "quit work or starve" policy against men remaining in besieged mills, and the Republic Steel Corp. answered with a protest to United States postoffice authorities.

In the wage of Chicago fighting that left more than a score injured, pickets stopped mail trucks and trains, saying they were delivering food to mills still operating.

The Republic corporation protested, asking postmasters at Warren and Niles for "suitable escorts of such trucks delivering mail for the offices." The corporation also employed airplanes to drop food to men in the mills.

FLOOD VICTIMS IN MEXICO ARE GIVEN BURIAL

53 Bodies Are Hauled From Wreckage Of 300 Homes

TLALPUJAJUA, Mex. May 29. (P)—This stunned community buried its dead today while miners dug into a mountain of mud and sand seeking other victims of Thursday's avalanche.

Fifty three bodies were hauled from the wreckage of 300 houses and authorities said that the deaths might exceed the estimated 168. Conception Rodrigo related how she and her father saved before the torrent, seeking safety in a church standing on a knoll.

Hours later those trapped there were rescued by men bridging the mud to the doors with planks. Many in another church on lower ground perished within when its walls collapsed.

BENEFICIAL RAIN FALLS IN COUNTY ON FRIDAY NIGHT

Half to 3 Inches of Precipitation In Area

Rainfall varying from half an inch to three inches fell over the Midland ranch and farm areas early Saturday morning, adding moisture to the already well soaked soil as result of precipitation earlier in the week. Farmers had made good headway with planting during the latter part of the week and were jubilant over prospects for a crop.

Although the gauge at Midland was only .52 of an inch, the airport registered .70 and reports from ranches to the north indicated from two to three inches. The C ranch had a good rain, Tom Nance reported two and a quarter inches and the Five Wells ranch of Scharbauer Cattle Co. had lake water almost to the front door. Farms and ranches south and west of town also reported good rains and growers.

Following the rain early in the week which recorded 1.32 inches at Midland, cloudy and drizzling weather had prevailed for two days, preventing evaporation and aiding the planting of crops.

The ranch territory about twenty to thirty miles north of Midland, over a long strip, received one big rain two weeks ago, the three heavy downpours assuring the best grass of recent years.

Fears Aroused Over Bombardments By Insurgents

WASHINGTON, May 29. (P)—Statesman Welles, acting secretary of state, announced today that the state department was concerned for the safety of its representatives in Valencia on account of insurgent bombardments and are considering the possibility of removing them from Spain.

He said, for the moment, there is no consideration being given to withdrawing American diplomatic and consular agents entirely from Spain.

Merchants Warned On New Ad Scheme

Local merchants Saturday were warned by the chamber of commerce to check with that organization before purchasing advertising with doubtful out of town solicitors who request payment in advance. The warning was issued after several local merchants had called the chamber of commerce in regard to solicitors who have been working the town during the last week. Bill Colyns, chamber of commerce manager, said yesterday that no endorsement has been given out of town solicitors of advertising recently.

HOMES STANDING 3 TO 5 FEET DEEP IN MUDDY WATERS

All Except 2 High Areas of City Inundated

RELIEF SIGHTED

Hondo Is Reported Dropping Above Stricken Zone

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. May 29. (P)—Muddy waters of the Hondo river rushed through Roswell from three to five feet deep today as additional heavy rains fell in northern New Mexico. All of the town except two high areas were inundated.

Police ordered all automobiles off the streets and instructed residents to save drinking water as the flood was entering the city's water supply pumping plant.

Quick relief was promised as upstream reports said that the river is dropping.

Motor traffic in the northern part of the state is almost paralyzed, sudden floods sweeping away a dozen bridges.

The state was virtually cut in two by the storm, which halted travel on three main highways connecting the north and south sections. Railroad tracks were washed out at Socorro, stopping traffic on the main line between Albuquerque and El Paso.

An entire family was drowned in an arroyo flood near Forrest. Searchers recovered the bodies of Silas Miller, 45, his wife, 35, and their daughters, Norene 9, and Joy, 5. They were caught in their stalled automobile when a wall of water roared down through the gulch.

Charles Polich, 28 year old welder at the Conchas dam, near Tucuman, was found drowned in an arroyo not far from the dam site, and a searching party late in the afternoon located the body of Calvin Wright, another worker who was caught in the "flash" flood there.

RAYBURN TO TALK WITH ROOSEVELT ABOUT RELIEF ACT

Possible Compromise Admitted By Him Before Session

WASHINGTON, May 29. (P)—Representative Rayburn of Texas arranged to discuss with President Roosevelt late today the possibilities of a compromise on the converted relief bill.

The Texan said no definite agreement had been reached at a conference this morning with leadership of a bloc that had tentatively marked for public works projects, flood control and highway construction $500,000,000 of the $1,500,000,000 carried in the bill introduced by the president.

Influential house members indicated that there might be a compromise. This might involve, they said, a change in administration regulations, which would make $131,000,000 now in the hands of FWA available for FWA projects desired by certain congressmen.

Fines for Those Who Violate The New Traffic Laws

City officials yesterday announced they would start fining Monday all persons found guilty of traffic violations, particularly those tagged for violation of the 2-hour parking ordinance.

Mayor Ulmer announced that persons had had two weeks in which to get acquainted with the new regulations without penalty, and that hereafter all would be enforced. For the past two weeks patrolmen Koons has been marking cars and stressing the importance of observance of the laws in talks to persons guilty of traffic violations.

Joplin Child Hurt When Hit by Auto

Betty Jo Joplin, seven year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Joplin, sustained a severe gash on her face Saturday afternoon when struck by an automobile on a downtown street. She was in a hospital and reported resting easily late Saturday.

The accident, apparently, was unavoidable. Her father was waiting for her across Loraine street from Hotel Scharbauer where the child had been to an orchestra practice. Carrying her violin, she dashed across the street and was hidden from view by other cars, being struck by an automobile driven by Carl Covington before he saw her.

STEERING MIDLAND BOYS RIGHT

In recent years, Midland has had a comparatively small per cent of delinquency among the boys who have been reared here. A high class citizenship, strong cultural and religious advantages probably have combined to reduce the number of boys who have gone wrong.

Yet, regardless of environment, boys have the gang spirit. Undirected, their gangs run in the wrong direction. To answer this yearning for gang action, the Boy Scouts of America have filled the gap for boys of scout ages.

Each year, the age of delinquency among boys becomes lower. The Boy Scouts still meet the issue, this time with the Cubbing movement. There is now being organized in Midland the first pack of Cubs. Sponsored by the Lions club and directed under auspices of the Boy Scouts of America, this body will have its membership of boys aged 9, 10 and 11, too young to become Boy Scouts. Much of the work of the Cubs is done at home, under direction of parents. But, through the den and pack meetings, the Wolf, Bear and Lion Cubs find the answer to their "gang" desire. Constructive, interesting and appealing programs of work and play are taken up. If you have a boy in that age limit, investigate the worthwhile Cubbing movement.

ANN Harding LOVE FROM A STRANGER

BASIL RATHBONE

Chapter Three

Whether it was because she really felt Gerald's attraction, or because she thought she was obstructing their romance, Kate returned to London. Amid this new gaiety, subtly infected by the charm and freedom of Paris, Carol felt herself exultantly becoming a new, alive, vital person. And through the bright new life ran the subtle undercurrent of the force that was drawing herself and Gerald irrevocably closer together.

They decided to be married quietly. On the day after the wedding, Ronnie stormed into her sumptuous apartment, his eyes full of beseeching and loneliness. Carol knew before he talked what she would say, but she could not halt the flow of his words.

"Carol, Carol," he pleaded, "don't be carried away by a foolish whim. Then he whirled and railed against the luxurious fittings of her apartment. So much unaccustomed wealth weighed him down with the sense of his own impotence.

"It's not like you. This gilded nonsense. Come back with me to England before you are disillusioned by this fortune hunter."

"Ronnie!" she spoke in startled amazement. "I won't hear another word."

"You must," he stormed. "I've checked up on all the yarns he told you about the South American oil company. There's no such company. There's no Lovell..."

The door behind her opened and Lovell entered, cutting Ronnie's speech short. "Hello, Ronnie," he spoke shortly.

Carol extended her hand to him. "Darling," her voice had a tone of hysteria. "Ronnie came here to rescue me from you. He had so much to say he really didn't give me a chance to tell him we were married."

Then, with a slight break in her voice, "Oh, Ronnie, I'm terribly sorry, I wanted to tell you quite differently..." With a mumbled apology, Ronnie extricated himself from the embarrassing situation and left. Carol would not see him again for some months, and then under totally different circumstances.

When Carol and Gerald had had their fill of new pleasures, new places, new resorts they returned to London, to live for a time in the decorously expensive Hyde Park district while they planned for their permanent home.

Kate brought Aunt Lou to visit, then one day shortly after their return. Aunt Lou was complaining of a pain in her side, and Kate maliciously asked her which side every few minutes, for the pleasure of watching her become confused.

Kate had not been able to dismiss her doubts about Gerald, and she was pleased to see how Carol glowed with happiness. She was gloriously happy, she exclaimed, but for one thing. "I'm worried about Gerald," she explained. "He had a heart attack in Venice. You see, he was rather badly hurt in the war. Sometimes he gets the most dreadful pressure in the head."

"So that's why your buying a house in the country," Kate surmised. "Yes, Gerald must have quiet. Besides, he has a lot of important work he must do. Gerald has selected the house. In Kent, and she says it's a duck of a place. Ten acres and no prying neighbors."

Carol had ordered tea for her guests and when it arrived, she went to ask Gerald to join them. He was seated at his desk, his head pillowed on his arms, looking the very picture of dejection.

"Gerald, Gerald, darling!" she said as she came to his side. "What's the matter, are you ill?"

He lifted his eyes to hers, and she saw that it was suffused with color and his eyes filled with distress.

The Town Quack

(Reserves the right to "quack" about everything without taking a stand on anything).

It's hard to tell which shows up the most, the fine rains or Bob Hill's grain.

The reason a certain young doctor here in town has never got married is because he is absent minded. Once he made three social calls on a young lady and then forgot and mailed her a bill.

A small boy said the other day he was feeling pretty low. "Papa called Mama a waddling goose and Mama called Papa a slimy worm, so what does that make me?"

A local couple finally got divorced. Among the events leading up to the tragedy was when a burglar broke into the house and was caught eating pies in the kitchen. The wife told her husband to call for help, so he yelled "Doctor, Doctor."

Gabriel is one musician who gets plenty of practice.

Mysterious Phone Calls Continue Two Years

ST. LOUIS, (U.P.) — For two years Dr. and Mrs. Glenn R. Northrup silently endured a series of mysterious telephone calls here. Finally their patience gave out and they complained to police.

For the first 16 months, when Mrs. Northrup answered one of the calls, she heard a torrent of abuse, sometimes from a man and others from a woman, ending suddenly without a revelation of identity. When Dr. Northrup answered, he was summoned to a vacant building or lot.

Eight months ago, the callers changed tactics. Dr. or Mrs. Northrup would answer the phone and wait in vain for a response until a click indicated the caller had hung up. When eight such calls came through in half an hour, the Northrups decided that enough was enough and notified police.

Social Security Made Simple

Question No. 1
QUESTION: How soon are benefits payable under the old-age benefits provisions of the Social Security Act?
ANSWER: Lump-sum benefits are payable now to an employee if he has reached the age of 65 since December 31, 1936, and has worked in a covered occupation since that date. In case an employee has died since December 31, 1936, and has worked in a covered occupation after that date, the estate of such an individual is eligible to file claim for a lump-sum payment. In either case, the lump-sum will amount to 3 1/2% of wages paid to the worker in covered occupations since December 31, 1936.

Monthly benefits will be paid after January 1, 1942, to qualified individuals. Qualified individuals are those who have attained the age of 65 and who, since December 31, 1936, and before attaining the age 65, have worked in covered occupations one day in each of five different calendar years, and have received during such period at least a total of $2,000. A person who reaches age 65 but does not become a "qualified" individual will receive a lump-sum payment equal to 3 1/2% of wages paid to him in covered occupations after December 31, 1936, and before he attains age 65.

American Women Study Japanese Self-Defense

KYOTO, (U.P.) — Two American women are engaged here in a serious study of Judo, the Japanese art of self-defense, formerly referred to as Ju-jitsu.

They are Mrs. Grace B. Logan and Miss Annabel Pritchett, both of Los Angeles. They came to Japan to learn Judo in the country of its origin and to study Buddhism. Taught by Prof. Teisaburo Fukushima, one of the leading exponents of the art, they devote each morning to their practice. Judo, developing from early feudal days in Japan, is the art of using an opponents strength to one's advantage. A literal translation means "ways of gentleness" or "first giving way in order ultimately to conquer."

More than one-fourth of the bearing lemon trees of North America are in Los Angeles county, California.

BOOK REVIEW

Hillman-Curl, Inc., New York has published a new type of mystery story called Photocrime. Each photocrime tells a story of crime in pictures with brief captions. All the evidence and clues are in the pictures. You are your own detective and solve the crimes from the pictures. The book contains twenty-six crimes.

Nights of an Old Child, by Heinz Liepmann was first published in Germany, where it sold twelve editions in ten weeks, and was then suppressed. The book is made up of the experiences of a boy born in a war-torn world—a child born old.

Writers are resurrecting old literary and historical mysteries and trying to solve them in new books: Swift's Marriage to Stella, by Maxwell B. Gold seems to solve at least the mystery about Stella. He has newly discovered evidence which tends to prove that Swift and Stella were really married though he never publicly acknowledged the relationship.

Was Lincoln's death an unsolved mystery? Otto Eisenschiml in Why Was Lincoln Murdered would have one believe that Edwin M. Stanton, Lincoln's secretary of war was an accomplice.

Did Woodrow Wilson keep us out of the War? Alex Matthew Arnett has tried to answer that question in his book Clatde Kitchin and The Wilson War Policies.

Some of the outstanding dramas published this spring are: Johnny Johnson a war-time drama by Paul Green French.

The Women, a comedy of feminine characters by Clara Boothe.

The Avon Flows, by George Jean Nathan, is a speculation on what might have happened to the Romeo-Juliet marriage had they lived.

Tovarich by Jacques Deval is a current success in London and New York.

The Silent Partner is a new strike

At The Library

The third installment of books for the International Mind Alcove, just received at the Midland County Library:

Moslem Women, by Ruth F. Woodsmall: The breaking down of social barriers and the lifting of the veil from the eager faces of modern Moslem women makes a tale of fascinating interest. We in America have hardly a faint conception of the restraints and limitations from which these women are emerging. In contrast to the back-to-the-home policy for women advocated in Germany, what Turkey has done in a brief decade in educating and training her women for public life, all of whom were formerly veiled, seems a miracle. But Turkey is not the only country discussed. The Moslem women of the Near East—Egypt, Palestine, Syria, Transjordan, Iraq, Iran, and India, all move across these pages. The whole absorbing study is rounded out by the author with conclusions set forth in the last chapter which can leave none of us in doubt as to the importance of the "new relationship" between Eastern women and the women of the West. The book is illustrated with many photographs.

Daughter of the Nohu, by E. I. Sugimoto: In this book we again find the conflict—this time in Japan—between new and modern ideas and beloved traditions and ancient beliefs. The author, who is heretofore unknown, is a gem.

self a Japanese and knows whereof she writes, sets before us a charming picture of the old customs and loyalties of the past, and against this background shows us the impetuous younger generation eagerly looking toward the future. The book deals especially with farm life in Japan. A slight thread of story runs through the pages, but it is easy to see that the real purpose is to bring home to us the beauty and dignity of the old Japan while at the same time showing the inevitable transition to a new order. It is a simple, quiet book in startling contrast to the accounts of militaristic Japan with which we are familiar through the newspapers. The pictures in the text were drawn by Tekisui Ishii, one of Japan's leading artists.

Guatemala, by Erna Fergusson: Interest in our Latin American neighbors so obviously intensified by the good feeling resulting from the recent Buenos Aires conference, assure this book a hearty welcome from Alove readers. In these pages we are offered a delightful trip through a little known country. The author reminds us of Guatemala's long history and gives us glimpses of its ancient ruins. We are shown the beauties of its high mountains and volcanoes, of its lowlands and jungles. We are introduced to the Guatemalans in their cities, their villages and mountain homes and are taken through great cities, their villages and mountain homes and are taken through great coffee of the hand of the terrible" (Jeremiah 15:20, 21).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "O Lord, how great are thy works; and thy thoughts are very deep. . . . When the wicked spring as the grass, and when all the workers of iniquity do flourish; it is that they shall be destroyed for ever" (Psalms 92:5, 7).

The Lesson-Sermon includes also the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Animal magnetism has no scientific foundation, for God governs all that is real, harmonious, and eternal, and His power is neither animal nor human" (page 102).

plantations. It is far more than a guide book. The New York Times reviewer wrote: "It is a careful and convincing study of the country and its people as a whole. It is well observed, well thought out, well written." The New York Herald-Tribune review closed with these words: "Guatemala" is a book which takes into account the diverse facts of a country at our very doors which is surprisingly unknown to most Americans. For those who have begun to be interested in our neighbors of Middle America, it is a must book."

Democracy in Denmark: by Goldmark and Hollman: In this time of bitter controversy as to the respective merits of fascism, communism and democracy, any country which can present so convincing a picture of the practical working success of a democratic government may well be studied by those who still believe in political freedom and social justice. This little book is recommended for such study. It will explain how a flat, low country only half the size of Indiana, not particularly fertile, with no large rivers, no hills over 600 feet high, no valuable minerals, with but 3 1/2 million inhabitants has learned so to govern itself that over 85 per cent of its farmers own their own land, that there is electricity and a telephone in nearly every farm house, that there are no slums in Copenhagen, its capital, and its people are rated among the best read and best educated people in the world. Surely every Alove reader will want to read so timely a book as this and study it as well.

The American As He Is, by Nicholas Murray Butler: Miss Amy Hemingway Jones, Division Assistant, International Mind Alove, writes: "We have added to the usual installment for the Alove a fifth book which is a collection of lectures delivered by Nicholas Murray Butler at the University of Copenhagen many years before an endowment for international peace had even been dreamed of by Andrew Carnegie. The distance between these lectures delivered before a foreign audience so long ago and the present day can easily be bridged by the true American who will find the fundamentals of citizenship unchanged in this portrayal of the American as he is."

International Mind Alove books previously received are: Portuguese Somersault, by Jan and Cora Gordon.

CRIPPLED CARDINALS MEET MONAHANS IN 2 GAMES HERE TODAY

DETERMINED TO AVENGE DEFEATS BY THE TROJANS

With their league leadership at stake, the crippled Midland Cardinals today will clash with the Monahans Trojans in two games at City Park, the first to start at 2:30. The Cardinals are determined to turn the tables on the Trojans and partly avenge two defeats handed them last week end by the Monahans cellar occupants.

With Manager Davis and Smith, pitchers, suffering sore arms, Serafine and Schiffler, infielders, suffering from injured legs that is cutting down their fielding efficiency approximately 50 per cent and outfielder Murphy out of the game because of a lacerated foot, the Cardinals will probably need all the support they can get to come out ahead

The PAYOFF

JESS RODGERS

Something that puzzles us is why the attendance at the home games of the Cardinals is not increasing. If we had a team that was in the cellar or near the cellar lack of large crowds could be explained, but the Cardinals are still on top of the league and admittedly the best games of the season have been played here. Seldom have the Cardinals made a "runaway" of any of the games here, and never have they let the opposing clubs. More low score games have been played out at City Park than at any other field in the league.

Wink is already playing night ball, Monahans is to start just as soon as transformers arrive, Wink has ordered and paid for a set, Roswell and Odessa have announced they will be under the lights by the middle of next month. And that brings to mind the question of lights here. Undeniably, the attendance could be almost doubled if they were installed, but who is to do it?

Wray Query, under the present set-up finds the idea altogether prohibitive. He has a lease on the park for only this year, therefore could not afford to install expensive equipment for only the balance of the season.

The Odessa, Hobbs and Monahans clubs are being run by a syndicate of business men of each town and they are the ones that are spending the money for the lights. Remember, earlier we advocated selling stock in the baseball franchise here similar to the system whereby the racing plant was built? Lights can be installed for one-fourth of the purchase price, the companies selling the equipment being willing to take the rest of the purchase price from attendance receipts. And the 25 percent down will approximate $750.

The decision should be placed in the hands of city officials. They should install the lights or make some kind of deal with Query mayor and other officials have done a lot already to make the field a place good enough to play on, but the lights are a necessity.

Figures compiled over a period of years in Class-D baseball prove that an average attendance of 350 is necessary to meet expenses. Attendance here has not been that heavy, neither is it apt to become that heavy unless some change in the attitude of residents takes place.

Many persons stay away from the games in the afternoon that would go at night because they are usually over so late in the day that they interfere with the evening meal hour. But if they were started earlier more people would stay away because they would be unable to leave their jobs to attend. Most of the persons seeing the games are working persons who are away from their jobs by 4:30 in the afternoon. It is a cinch the non-working element could not place the attendance figure where it should be.

Quite a bit of criticism has come over the recent defeats suffered by the Cardinals. Most of it by persons who little realize the condition of the team. Besides suffering from a batting slump that is likely to hit a team at any time, the pitchers have suddenly lost all semblance of control once they take the mound, and the club is well riddled by injuries.

Both Smith and Davis, the two leading hurlers, are suffering from sore arms, Serafine and Schiffler are literally playing on one leg, and Murphy has a foot that was badly cut in a peculiar accident the other night. While barefoot, Murphy stepped upon a razor blade that inflicted a painful though not serious cut. However, it was serious enough to keep him out of the line-up temporarily.

If the last six games (not including Saturday) the Cardinal hurlers had walked a total of 44 men, and each loss was directly attributable to the lack of control of the hurlers. True, the Red Birds didn't hit the size of their bats against Hobbs, but they got about as many hits as the Lions did. After today's double header against Monahans, the Cards will leave for nine days on foreign fields. What they do on the trip will determine whether or not the club will come back here with the same roster as at present. At least two members of the club can expect the "pink slip" soon unless their physical and mental ability shows a change.

Monday and Tuesday the club plays at Hobbs, June 2-3 in Monahans, June 4-5 in Wink, June 6-7-8 in Roswell, then return here for games with Wink June 9-10-11.

Within the past week there has been two managerial changes in the league, unless we have been misinformed. Ned Pettigrew threw in the towel at Hobbs and the place was taken over by Fincher Winters. D. E. Perry was reported to have been given the gate by Wink directors and his job was taken over by Joe Tate, one of the league umpires. Pettigrew was then signed as the sixth arbiter.

CARDINALS LOSE FOURTH STRAIGHT AS ODESSA WINS

The Midland Cardinals lost their fourth straight Saturday when they fell before the Odessa Oilers by a score of 8-6. Thomas pitched the entire game for Midland and with perfect support would have won the game. Odessa earning but two of the eight runs they made.

The Cardinals made two runs in the first inning but saw the lead vanish in the Odessa half when the Oilers made a couple of tallies. The Cards made two more in the third but the Oilers came back with three to take a lead they never relinquished.

Six errors by the Cardinal infield spelled the ruin of Thomas despite his holding the Oilers to 7 hits, the same number the Cards made off Woodyard.

Cruiser in 1915 Tragedy Marked for Salvage

GLASGOW, (U.P.)—The mystery of the sinking of the 13,500-ton cruiser Natal as the result of an explosion in Cromarty Firth in 1915, drowning 400 men, women and children, may be solved when the Stockton-on-Tees Shipbreaking company begins salvage operations as soon as weather conditions permit.

An attempt to salvage the warship was made a few years ago, but work had to be abandoned owing to the strong current.

The sinking of the Natal was one of the great disasters of the war. Children and their parents attended a New Year's party on the ship and were watching a film when the explosion took place. Only a few people were saved.

The ship lies six miles from Invergordon in 60 feet of water.

QUESTIONS THAT ARE ASKED ABOUT BANKING

"Do Bank Examiners examine your Bank?"

YES, bank examiners visit our bank periodically and go over our records.

These government officials are representatives of the State or Federal banking authorities. Every incorporated bank in the United States chartered to conduct a banking business is examined. They are visited without advance warning and the examiners have immediate access to all of the bank's cash, securities, books and records. They report at considerable length on the bank's assets, liabilities, methods, policies, loans, investments and other factors which determine its soundness. On the basis of the reports of these examiners banking authorities are able to make any suggestions or recommendations they feel are necessary or desirable.

Bank examinations are an added safeguard for depositors' money—in addition to the competent management and sound banking practices of the bank.

Rotary club. The movement for the change in street names was started six years ago by Mrs. Kenneth E. Stewart of Baltimore, a descendant of an old Lewes family.

Renaming the streets is part of a civic program to restore the town, as has been done on Cape Cod and in parts of Virginia.

Some of the names to be changed are Park Avenue to Ship Carpenter Street, and Kings Street to Kings Highway. The only street whose name will not be altered is Pilot Town Road—for obvious reasons.

FREE BAND WORK
OPEN FOR SUMMER

Armstrong Will Conduct Instruction And Practices

Beginning Tuesday, June 1, rehearsals of the Midland high school band and other instrumental groups under the director of M. A. Armstrong will be held at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening in the high school auditorium the first rehearsal of the high school band will be held. All members, college students who are home from school, Midland business men who play and visitors are welcome and are urged to practice and play in concerts in this most advanced band. A group of very interesting selections is in readiness for the first rehearsal.

The junior band will meet Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock for a rehearsal and scheduling a definite time for future practices and classes. This band is for those not advanced enough to play in the higher organization. Short concerts are planned to be given by this junior band during the summer.

There will also be a class for beginners starting Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock in the high school auditorium. All parents who are interested in starting children in this organization and the beginners themselves are urged to meet the director at the above mentioned time.

From 10 until 11 o'clock each morning there will be a class for beginners who do not wish to purchase standard band instruments now. A small instrument called the Saxette will be used. It sounds much like a flute, is very easy to blow and play, and costs less than $3, including the first book with instructions and several real band selections, and the music lyre. It has been used in ward schools and junior high schools where the bands are now among the best in the United States. This instrument has been designed for the purpose of accelerating the development of public school music in the United States. It builds a better foundation for reading music and singing and assists in preparing children for the study of the regular band and orchestra instruments. It has proved to be an ideal method of learning the rudiments of music and offers parents a positive way of discovering whether their child has musical ability and whether he will take the interest in music that would warrant a later investment for some instrument suitable to his likes and needs.

Parents and children interested in receiving further information concerning the Saxette, the beginner's band, or any other phase of the summer band may consult the director from 7 until 9 o'clock. This school closes July 15. Immediate registration is urged. The school is free.
