HOUSE YIELDS TO PRESIDENT OVER RELIEF BILL ROW

Revolt Is Crushed By Leaders Of Party

WORK OVERTIME

Session Lasts Until Midnight Before Settlement

WASHINGTON, June 2. (P) — Embattled administration leaders crushed a house revolt aimed at earmarking more than one-third of the $1,500,000,000 work-relief bill last night and passed the measure along to the senate.

Acting Speaker Vinson (D-Ky) announced shortly before midnight that tabulation of the roll call showed 323 for the huge bill and 44 against.

Working many hours overtime — most of them dinnerless and weary — house members stripped from the bill amendments which would have set aside $505,000,000 of the total for PWA construction, flood control and kindred projects.

These amendments, previously voted, would have tied the president's hands, restricting his freedom to allot the money to such work relief projects as he deemed advisable. The house also defeated an amendment previously approved which would have cut $2,000 from the $12,000 salary of Harry L. Hopkins, works progress administrator. The vote to restore the $12,000 figure was 272 to 96.

Fighting for reversal of the votes on the earmarking amendments, Majority Leader Rayburn (D-Tex) contended they would force more than 630,000 workers off the WPA rolls. The administration's argument was that if the funds were earmarked for projects requiring much material, there would not be enough to pay for the jobs.

The Texan staved off the final action on the measure last Thursday and spent the interim in conferences with President Roosevelt and leaders of the coalition which had forced adoption of the amendments. He succeeded in effecting a compromise with the factions which had earmarked $300,000,000 for PWA and $55,000,000 for flood control and construction of small lakes and ponds in the "dust bowl."

Under the compromise, the chief executive gave assurances that probably much more than $45,000,000, the sum earmarked for flood control, would be spent for that purpose on projects with or without congressional authorization.

PARENTS OF 'CUB' AGE BOYS ASKED TO ATTEND MEETING

First Steps Toward Organization Of Pack Tonight

Parents of "Cub-age" boys are invited to attend the meeting tonight at which definite steps are to be taken toward starting the first pack of cubs under direction of the Boy Scouts of America. The meeting will be held at the county court room, second floor of the court house, at 8 o'clock.

Sponsored by the Midland Lions club, the Cubs organization is composed of boys aged 9 to 11 years. The activities are different from those of the Boy Scouts in that the program is under supervision of the parents, with much of it done in the homes.

However, the boys are divided in dens of approximately eight Cubs each, four dens comprising a pack. The meeting of parents tonight will be to formulate the program fully before boys are enrolled. However, the names of such boys will be taken at the meeting tonight if possible.

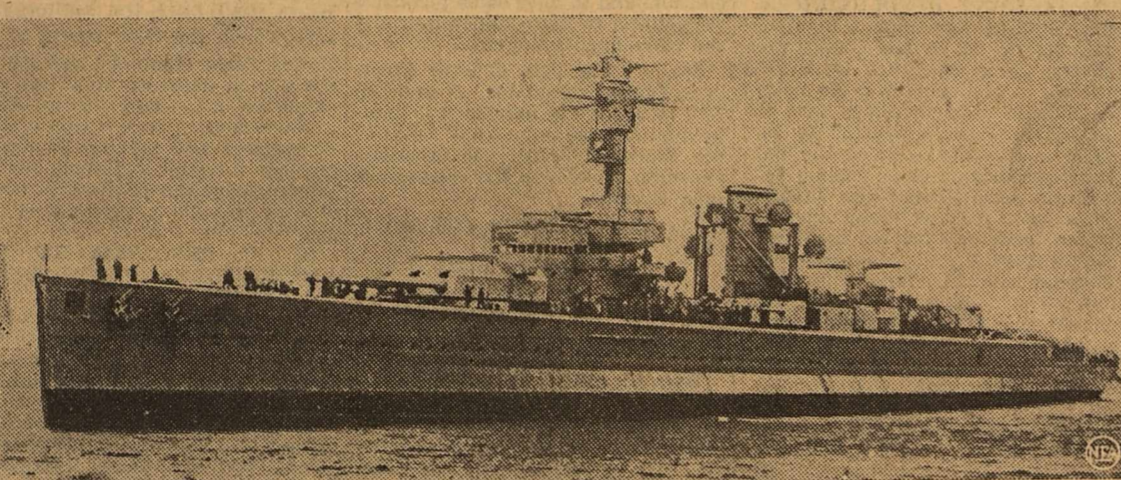

Without the cooperation and full support of the parents, the Cubs organization will not be successful, according to Field Executive Darold F. Wilson who outlined the project at a meeting last week.

ROSWELL IS AGAIN INUNDATED AFTER HONDO OVERFLOWS

2 Are Known Dead, Many Rescued From Low Land Homes

ROSWELL, June 2. (P) — Roswell residents dug into mud and flood debris today after last night's inundation of the city for the second time in a week. During the past seven days deluging rains have left 10 dead and done more than $1,000,000 worth of damage in this section.

ROSWELL, N. M., June 2. (P) — Relentless flood waters swept over Roswell today, broke into the city by the Hondo River from rain-battered mountains to the west.

At least two persons were dead. Dozens were rescued from precarious refuges in the inundated area north of the city. Hundreds fled their homes in advance of the approaching crest.

It was Roswell's second major flood in four days. Today's waters were even higher than those which washed in depths up to five feet through most of the city last Saturday.

National guardsmen, commanded by Adjutant General R. C. Charlton, patrolled the streets as "auxiliary police." The city was not under martial law.

The Hondo broke its banks in the city late yesterday afternoon, despite the fact that a diversion west of the city split the waters and sent much of the approaching flood crest harmlessly to the south and east.

The two known dead were Ysidro Llanas, Spanish-American shepherd, and his wife.

Death came at 3:15 p. m.

Funeral services have been set for 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon, at the First Baptist church, with the Rev. Winston F. Borum, pastor, officiating.

Mr. Brunson had been in hospitals and at health resorts much of the time for the past few years but had shown some improvement during recent weeks.

In extreme southwestern Gaines, Blevins & Sloan No. 1 Barber, wildcat in section 19, block B-28, public school land, is drilling salt at 1,960 feet. It topped the salt at 1,660, 90 feet higher than Landreth No. 1 A. L. A. well in the area which showed some oil.

SLAYER OF G-MAN IS CAPTURED NEAR NEW MEXICO TOWN

Agent Succumbs To Wound Inflicted By Ex-Convict

ONE SHOT FIRED

Prisoner Was Being Given Chance To Get Clothes

GALLUP, N. M., June 2. (P) — Guy E. Osborne, 24 year old fugitive wanted for the slaying of Truett E. Rowe, department of justice agent, was captured without resistance last night a few hours after the agent was shot and killed.

Kelsey Presley, Gallup chief of police, and Leslie Mahoney, Gallup policeman, made the arrest as Osborne attempted to ride a horse past them, masquerading as a cowboy. The arrest was made not far from the scene of the shooting.

The fugitive was taken to the McKinley county jail and held under heavy guard.

The officers were leaving the home of John Wesley Osborne, brother of the fugitive, Presley said, when they noticed a rider driving a small bunch of cattle toward the Osborne home.

"That wouldn't be him coming this way," Presley said he told his companions, and started to drive away. As the rider drew nearer, Presley said he noticed the rider's stirrups were unusually short.

The police chief, a cattleman, said the short stirrups made it appear that the rider was using the saddle in an emergency. Presley and Mahoney waited for the rider to come up and ordered him to dismount. Osborne submitted to arrest without resistance.

Presley said Osborne, wanted in Eufaula, Okla., for automobile theft, returned to the home of his brother for a horse after fleeing afoot after shooting Rowe. Three Navajo trailers picked up the trail of the rider and a posse was following the trackers when Presley and Mahoney made the arrest.

"He was a good husband," she wept. "I never knew of his being in trouble except for stealing a motorcycle in Eufaula."

Officers here said Osborne was also wanted for transportation of a stolen automobile from Oklahoma to Fort Smith, Ark.

Rowe was fatally shot through the right side as he stood by Osborne late yesterday afternoon, waiting for him to pack his clothes.

MIDLAND STREETS SWOLLEN AFTER 2 HARD SHOWERS

Fields and Farms Are Further Benefitted By Precipitation

.81 OF INCH HERE

All Counties in This Area Report Some Rainfall

Although the weather man's gauge could record only .81 of an inch, two hard showers Tuesday evening and this morning caused Midland streets to run like swollen creeks and the recently soaked fields and pastures were further benefited.

The rain late Tuesday registered .51 and that of this morning .30 of an inch, but the drainage facilities of the downtown streets were taxed for more than half an hour to carry off the water as it fell and washed down from the western part of the city.

From all sections of West Texas and New Mexico came reports of continued good rains. The town of Van Horn, 185 miles west, was reported to have received a hard rain yesterday afternoon. Water Valley, near San Angelo, reported a six inch rain, causing residents along the North Concho to watch for high water such as flooded San Angelo last summer. Dalhart, in the north Panhandle, was cut off from highway and some train traffic as bridges were washed out.

Oil fields west of here were reported to be muddy, with traffic temporarily halted during the showers. Farmers, who had been planting crops for the past week, again were held up temporarily but were jubilant over prospects. Ranchmen, whose grass already was growing rapidly, had visions of abundant lake water. Midland merchants laid plans for heavier fall buying as result of the good season.

The scheduled Midland-Monahans baseball game in Monahans this afternoon was called off when the Monahans playing field was reported to be under an estimated 18 inches of water following a virtual cloudburst there last night.

Chapter Six

Chilled by forebodings the nature of which she hardly knew herself, Carol made a valiant effort to keep her self-possession. After dinner Lovell looked up at the clock. A quarter of nine. Fifteen minutes more. 'It always gives me a strange sort of thrill to see the minutes slipping by, one by one,' observed Lovell. 'I can remember so well standing in the headmaster's study at school, waiting for a beating, watching the hands of the clock move on — with a strange mixture of sensations — terror — yes, a strange sort of delight. You can't find the key to the door dear, I have it' — as Carol went out to the kitchen. 'I was fetching your coffee,' said Carol, returning with the beverage. 'Don't you think you'd better lie down after dinner?' she suggested while he drank it. 'No, I've worked to do. I've made my plans. Carol gave him another cup of coffee, but declined any for herself, though her husband remarked that she was shivering. He insisted on her donning the beautiful white scarf. Then he returned to the subject of Fletcher, the murderer.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

By RODNEY DUTCHER Reporter-Telegram Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 2. — The question whether the Securities Exchange Commission should emphasize a desire to "be fair to the brokers and bankers" or a determination to "protect the investor" has again become an issue, following resignation of Chairman James M. Landis.

Crusaders for adequate regulation and for enforcement of the securities act, claiming that the New Deal has provided neither, insist that Roosevelt's decision will tell whether the administration really means it frequently reiterated promises to protect security holder.

Commissioner William O. Douglas is out in front as the most likely successor to Landis. But if the professional manipulators of what Justice Brandeis used to call "other people's money" have anything to do with it, Douglas won't get the job.

DOUGLAS is an able lawyer and an expert on corporation law. When he was at Yale he was said to be one of the highest paid law professors in the United States. He has had experience in the securities business.

He handled one of the SEC's outstanding jobs—an investigation of corporate reorganizations and the work of protective committees, with a report and a legislative plan submitted to Congress. He demonstrated his fearlessness in a speech to the Bond Club during which he told New York bankers that investors were being gyped by financial concerns which reaped commissions on stock and bond flotations far in excess of the value of their services.

Douglas boldly declared in favor of competitive bidding for the privilege of handling new issues, as being at his throat, his heart. "You can't move, can you," she shrieked. "You can't move."

George Edward Fletcher slumped down to the floor and lay there—dead. Carol ran to the doors and windows, almost beside herself with horror, beating at the walls that imprisoned here with the body of a horrible fiend. Suddenly the front door crashed open and in rushed Ronnie, followed by Kate and a constable. Unable to quiet their fears for her, they had turned back. "Oh, Ronnie, Ronnie!" Carol sobbed on his breast. "It was horrible! I made him think I poisoned him."

"It's all right now darling," soothed Ronnie. And he held her close — held her as if he would never again let her go.

Social Security Made Simple

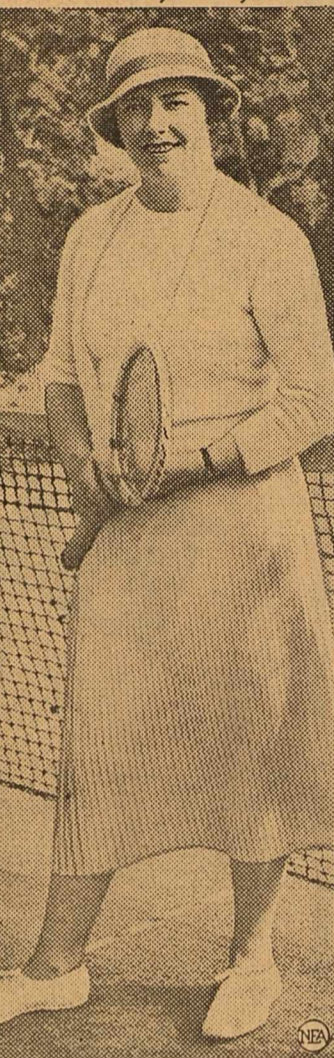

Question No. 4
QUESTION: What forms are required under the Social Security Act, and where and by whom should they be filed?
ANSWER: Every employee who is not over 65 years of age or more and who is in an occupation covered by the Act must file and application on Form SS-5 for an employee's account number and submit such application to the nearest postmaster. Also, every employer in a covered occupation who employs one or more individuals who are under 65 years of age, is required to fill out Form SS-14, Application for Employer's Identification Number.
 Such employer is also required to submit, monthly, to the Collector of Internal Revenue, Form SS-1, Employer's Return Under Title VIII of the Act, together with the remittance called for in this form.
 In addition, such employers must submit to the Bureau of Internal Revenue, by July 31, 1937, and quarterly thereafter, Forms SS-2 and SS-2a, which are informational returns. The first information return will cover the period January 1 to June 30, 1937, and will show the amount of taxable wages paid to each employee during the period. No remittance accompanies these returns. If an employee dies or attains the age of 65, his employer will file within fifteen days Form SS-3, which shows the amount of wages paid to the employee during the informational period.
 All employers of one or more, regardless of age, are also required to make one original report to the Texas Unemployment Compensation Commission, Austin, Texas, however, only those employers who employ eight or more, regardless of age, must make monthly reports and contributions on wages of their employees to the Texas Unemployment Compensation Commission.
 Employers of eight or more are required to make an annual report and pay a tax under Title IX of the Act, to the Collector of Internal Revenue, although employers may credit against this tax their contributions to the State unemployment fund, up to 90 per cent of the federal tax.

Sand Snores in Scientific Display; Dryness Causes The Grains to Squeak

JOHANNESBURG, June 2. (UP)—Snoring sands and fossilized lightning, both from a farm on the edge of the Malaharia desert, were shown to members of the South African Geographical Society by A. D. Lewis in his presidential address here.
 The sands come from a patch of whitish dunes about a mile wide and six miles long, which can be seen contrasting with the surrounding desert from a plane 80 miles away and 2,000 feet up. The farm is appropriately named Wit-sands.
 Push a finger into the sands and they snore. Pull it out again, and they snore once more, but an octave higher.
 A dog running across the sands, said Lewis, caused a noise like thunder. Sand pouring into a hole scraped in it hummed like a plane in flight.
 Members of the Geographical Society heard a hum like a trolley bus accelerating as a sample of the sand ran through an hour-glass, and felt the vibrations.
 Experiments by Lewis and his assistants at the department of irrigation showed that dryness was the cause of the sand's peculiarity.
 The roaring dunes are composed of quartz grains of equal size, which cannot retain the little moisture there is in the desert air. Taken to moister climes the sand loses its power but regains it if it is heated and retains it if kept in an airtight container.
 From the same sands, Lewis has taken samples of "fossil lightning," which he also showed and explained. Known as fulgurites, these are hollow tubes of fused silica, branching like the roots of a bush. One shown by Lewis was 8 feet long. Lightning, according to a theory suggested by Lewis, followed the roots into the sand and fused it around them, forming the tubes.

MIDLAND, MONAHANS MEET HERE TOMORROW IN DOUBLEHEADER

GAMES TRANSFERRED HERE AFTER PARK AT MONAHANS FLOODED BY HEAVY RAIN

President Wray Query of the Midland Cardinals today announced that the Midland club and the Monahans Trojans would meet at City Park tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 in a double header, the Monahans park now being under water, thereby necessitating removal of the games to Midland.

It is believed the local field will be in good shape to play on unless more rain falls tonight or tomorrow. However, after the rains today, it won't take a great deal more to make a quagmire of the infield, particularly the third base area.

Query was notified this morning by Paul Trammell, proxy of the Monahans club, that the Trojans' playing field, the high school football field, was under 18 inches of water following a virtual cloudburst there last night.

The Cardinals are once more rounding into condition, only first baseman Schiffer, who has an injured leg, and Manager Davis, who has a sore arm, remaining on the ailing list. Serafine is still troubled slightly by a bad leg but it does not interfere greatly with his playing.

The pitching staff was given a couple of days of much needed rest when the recent Hobbs series was pitched by Nook and Frost. Sick and Thomas are due to get the starting call for the games tomorrow. Smith and Dais to split the Wink games. Sick to date has not lost a game but Thomas has seen luck against him in every game but one. He has pitched good ball each time but his mates generally have failed to play good ball behind him, kicking three of the games away despite his holding opponents to low hit totals.

CARDS TAG LIONS 10-6 TO GAIN EVEN SPLIT IN SERIES; FROST HURLS GAME

HOBBS, N. M. June 2. (SPL)—Piling up an early lead through timely hitting and by taking advantage of Hobbs misplays, the Midland Cardinals coasted to a 10-6 victory over the Lions here today.

Bobby Frost Cardinal 'handy-andy', went the route for the winners, setting the home team down with seven hits and striking out nine as his teammates pounded two Hobbs throwers for an even dozen bingles. Frost was wild, walking four and unworking a couple of wild throws, but was effective in the pinches.

Murphy led the Midland attack with four hits in six trips to the plate, and Serafine was on base four times on walks.

British Line to Run 'Lightweight Trains'

LONDON. (U.P.) — The London Midland and Scottish Railway has just completed the first of eleven "lightweight" trains, designed for long distance excursion traffic, in which the use of high tensile steel, welding, and of articulated bogies enables a reduction of 55 tons in weight to be obtained compared with a 10-coach train of standard vestibule stock.

Although seating 18 first-class and 511 third class passengers, the new trains are 40 feet shorter overall than a train of ordinary coaches.

28 Musicians Attend First Band Practice

By M. A. ARMSTRONG There were twenty-eight musicians at the first rehearsal of the Advanced Band Tuesday night. Everyone enjoyed the practice and much good work was done towards giving the first summer concert. More members are expected at the next rehearsal Thursday night at 7:30. Six of the musicians in the band this summer are graduates and business men.

Some of the selections we are working on are the following: "Princess of India", "In A Persian Market", "Indian Trail", "My Moonlight Madama", "The Footlifter", "March Gloria", "I'll Take You Home Again, Kathleen", "The World Is Waiting For The Sunrise", and "Indian March". Many more good numbers are in store for the band to start rehearsing as soon as the first concert is prepared.

The first public concert will be given next Tuesday evening at 7:00 in front of the high school building. In case of inclement weather the auditorium will be used.

A large number of young musicians have enrolled in the junior band for six weeks of training. This group will meet tonight at 7:30 for a rehearsal and for deciding on a definite schedule of classes and practice periods. The regular rehearsals will probably be from two until three o'clock each school day.

Yucca STARTING TODAY

Hollywood's boldest romance hurled to the screen in astounding scenes of electric excitement!

THURSDAY is the BIG day and night!

Those persons who are going in enrolling in this band should be present with their instruments Thursday at two o'clock if they cannot be at the rehearsal tonight.

There will be two divisions of the beginners' class. One starts at 10 o'clock each morning. This is the Saxette class. The Saxette is a small flute-like instrument which is easy to play and is extremely practical for use before taking up the standard instrument. It can be used for playing real music, is not complicated, is pleasant to listen to, enables the student to advance fast, and is a very cheap instrument. The instrument, music and music lyrics cost $3.00. It is not a toy in that it is well-made and stays in tune. It is not recommended for use in real bands and orchestras but is highly recommended as an instrument to be used preliminary to the standard instrument.

A quantity of Saxettes will be on hand Monday morning at 10 o'clock. Anyone wishing to receive more information concerning the Saxette see Director M. A. Armstrong at the high school, and be on hand Monday morning.

The beginners who are starting on the regular standard instruments have their class at 11:00 o'clock each morning. Students in this class should report at the high school at 11 o'clock Thursday morning even if they do not have instruments. Parents are invited to consult the director an hour of the day this week and at night from 7 until about 9 o'clock. Anyone wishing to see him at other hours may call at 401 North Colorado.

The band classes and rehearsals are free and a large per cent of the musically interested students in the Midland schools should take advantage of this special feature. The work will be made interesting and helpful to those taking part and the concerts prepared for the public will be entertaining as well as educational.

Paris Fair to Offer Summer Snowstorms

PARIS, June 2 (U.P.)—One of the outstanding features of the Paris Exposition is a specially constructed Ice Palace, with a 150-foot tower which will erupt at certain intervals and create a minor snowstorm for admiring spectators trying to keep cool in the summer heat.

Throughout the hot summer months the tower will be coated with a layer of ice. At night it will be illuminated by a new special method which employs gases used in refrigeration.

The bagpipe is of Egyptian origin.

Methods of Controlling Stock Parasites Described in New Booklet Lately Issued

Methods of controlling external parasites that attack cattle, sheep, goats, horses, mules, hogs, dogs and cats, are described in a copyrighted booklet by Dr. W. A. Simanton, well known entomologist, which has just been issued by the Gulf Research and Development Company. "Damage caused to livestock each year by external parasites is not known exactly but it is safe to assume that it runs into losses of hundreds of millions of dollars for the U. S. livestock industry," Dr. Simanton states in the booklet which is based on several years of intensive study and experimentation. "It is a well known fact that dairy cattle produce less milk when annoyed by flies, lice ticks, and other parasites. Some of these parasites are carriers of serious diseases among cattle which may result not only in reduced milk production but in loss of the stock." Every dairyman, farmer, rancher and breeder has before him constantly the problem of keeping his cattle healthy and productive. Larger dairies and stock farmers have their own veterinarians and husbandmen to conduct regular examinations and to maintain a constant warfare against flies and insects, but the owners of smaller herds are in need of reliable information and advice on this problem. It is to this latter group that Gull's new "Farm and Ranch Bulletin No. 1" is addressed. The booklet describes and illustrates each of the most common and destructive external parasites, tells where and how they breed, what kind of damage they do, and how to combat them; all in simple, easy to understand language. In addition, the new Gulf booklet gives valuable information about proper maintenance of barns and pens, as a means of discouraging the breeding of flies and insects. Any stockman or dairyman using the information given in this new booklet can easily and inexpensively control the parasite infestation of his herd and increase his daily milk production as a result. Free copies may be obtained by writing to the Gulf Oil Corporation, Gulf Building, Pittsburgh, Pa.

to early development of an important arms-building industry in Canada, it is believed here. The Canadian government has just placed orders for $10,000,000 worth of airplanes and other war equipment under its $35,000,000 defense program, and it is expected that they will be greatly augmented by orders for munitions from Great Britain. The Department of Defense, it is understood, believes that Canada has, or can develop, sufficient technicians and plant facilities to manufacture all types of armaments. It is even thought possible that guns up to 8-inch calibre soon will be manufactured in the Dominion. Toads cannot breathe air like most creatures, but must swallow it, hence the constant motion seen in their throats.

Hot Weather is Here— Beware of Biliousness!

Have you ever noticed that in very hot weather your organs of digestion and elimination seem to become torpid or lazy? Your food sours, forms gas, causes belching, heartburn, and a feeling of restlessness and irritability. Perhaps you may have sick headache, nausea and dizziness or blind spells on suddenly rising. Your tongue may be coated, your complexion bilious and your bowel actions sluggish or insufficient. These are some of the more common symptoms or warnings of biliousness or so-called "torpid liver," so prevalent in hot climates. Don't neglect them.
