BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

By RODNEY DUTCHER
Reporter-Telegram Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 10. — Chairman John Hamilton of the Republican National Committee has gone abroad to study European political methods.

Possibly that sounds rather peculiar to anyone who remembers all that was said in the last campaign, and none too quietly either, about the "American way," and the New Deal's importation of foreign ideas.

In fact it sounds so peculiar that national committee headquarters here won't admit anything of the sort. The official explanation is that Hamilton hasn't had a vacation in a long time, needs one and is going to have one. And that's true as far as it goes.

Hamilton, however, is just being smart. He is going to study the methods and setup of the Conservative party in England and, as far as your correspondent can learn, that's all. The British Conservatives were out of power for about 20 years before they outsmarted the Liberals and Laborites and regained control. In the meantime, their workers infiltrated in the trades union field, and the party took over many labor ideas, platform planks and leaders.

So it's no particular wonder if Hamilton would like to know how the job was done. He may not borrow any ideas from Stanley Baldwin. But don't be surprised if he does.

To Woo Back the Votes THERE have been indications that the party management has been making some effort to liberalize the party from within. This movement, of course, has no connection with the demands of Borah, Nye and Ham Fish that the party be liberalized, and that the process be begun by dumping overboard the present leadership. It is an attempt to steer the G. O. P. on a path of intelligent conservatism which will have enough liberal aspects to woo back a few million votes. There are still plenty of wealthy Republicans, however, who don't get the point.

The recent series of four Republican half hours on the radio, with Hamilton and members of Congress delivering speeches refreshingly free from vituperation against the administration, suggested the presence of some new ghost writers.

It's worth nothing that two able and keen-minded newspapermen, Leo J. Casey and William Hard, are now attached to the committee, one as publicity director and the other as assistant to Hamilton in charge of radio.

The Right to Bargain HERE are a few quotations from the official party speeches: Congressman Robert L. Bacon of New York: "Wage workers have the right to bargain with their employers not only through their representatives, but also through any units that they themselves prefer. . . If legislation becomes necessary, and it can be competently contrived, to help American business to give a year's work and a year's pay to every American worker every year, I will be for it. . . Some business men complain about the anti-trust laws. I do not, and the bulk of business men do not. . . Now, and some of the credit for the change goes to the New Deal, our corporations give detailed information to their stockholders every year. . . but. . . little or nothing about the working conditions of the men and women employed. Let me tell the stockholders of America here and now that they should demand from our corporations labor reports as well as the customary financial reports." Congressman Charles A. Halleck of Indiana: "The honest man who cannot get a job is not asking charity. He has a right to relief. When the story of these years is told on the pages of history, it will not be a story of criticism of the men and women who honestly obtained aid, but one of tribute to them for enduring these years so bravely." Congressman Francis Case of South Dakota: "At this point I want to commend the people who are administering the Social Security Act. They, probably more than anyone else, realize the shortcomings of the act as it now stands." Senator H. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire: "Employers must not hire labor spies and conduct an espionage system against workers. . ."

Answer: Employees are credited with wages received after the year 1936 and prior to age 65 in included occupations, and likewise are not credited for wages received in excluded occupations. Miss Annie Lee King Becomes Bride Of B. A. Rogers in Church Ceremony

Large Crowd Attends Impressive Wedding

Miss Annie Lee King became the bride of B. A. Rogers in a single ring ceremony at 9 p. m. Wednesday evening at the First Baptist church, with the Rev. Winston F. Borum officiating. The bride wore a gown of navy blue silk lace with pink accessories. Her flowers were a corsage of pink rose buds.

Mrs. John Collins of Fort Stockton, sister of the bride, attended her as matron of honor. She wore a gown of pink lace and a pink picture hat, with white accessories. Her flowers were a corsage of pink roses.

Lad Craible of Big Spring, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, was best man and John Collins was groomsmen.

The vows were read before an altar which was banked with ferns and baskets of roses and elder blossoms. Mrs. Winston F. Borum gave a fifteen minute organ recital preceding the service and as the procession played the Wedding March from Lohengrin (Wagner) and as the recessional, The Wedding March by Mendelssohn. I Love You Truly and Annie Laurie were played softly during the ceremony.

To Live in Midland For traveling the bride chose a tailored suit of gray crepe with navy accessories. After a wedding trip to Carlsbad and Ruidoso, New Mexico, the couple will be at home at 510 South Colorado in Midland. Mrs. Rogers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. King, pioneer ranchmen, attended Texas University, Baylor College at Belton and received her B. A. degree from Hardin-Simmons University. Last summer she did work on her Master's degree at the University of Southern California. For several years she has been a teacher in the Midland public schools.

Mrs. Wallace Irwin Reads Popular Play

The Play Readers Club met Wednesday morning at 10 a. m. at the home of Mrs. Fred Wilcox, 705 A West Kansas. Mrs. Wallace Irwin read Mark Reed's popular comedy, "Yes, My Darling Daughter." The play is a comic blast on our conventional society. The very idea of a daughter using her mother's history (supposed to be buried in a forgotten past) as research material for a thesis on "The Effect of Greenwich Village life on American Manners and Morals" has its own wit, apart from the family snapshots, as Mr. Reed has caught them, and the story of the daughter's week-end escapade and its reverberations as he lets it run brightly along from nothing to nothing, yet always seeming to be going somewhere.

According to Edith J. Isaacs, "It is on in the last five minutes of 'Yes, My Darling Daughter' that the comedy steps over the border into farce" when the boy in love with Ellen Murray is so shocked at her family's acquiescence in their social bolt that he insists upon marrying Ellen at once. But that small moment of farce is like the period at the end of a good paragraph—it does not disturb the paragraph itself."

The Playhouse Daddy Built

Warm weather brings out anew that urge to build something, and if properly approached Dad can undoubtedly be induced to take out that urge in building a playhouse for the children of the family. Even older Brother may be induced to participate if Dad allows him to use the family tools, with supervision, of course.

The amateur carpenter will find that the lighter building materials will serve the purpose for such a little house. Both walls and roof may be of cane fibre board with windows cut out on the sides. Mother may take her part in the enterprise by making an awning of some inexpensive, tough cloth to hang across the entrance. This will save the cost of hanging doors.

On hot midsummer days, this little house will be cooler than out of doors due to the insulating qualities of the building material. It will form a gay spot of color in among the bushes of the backyard, for it may be painted with any good oil paint. Let Daughter exercise her color sense in selecting the combinations to be used. Perhaps she will like white with bright green trim if she is of conservative bent. Or the trim may be a favorite red or blue.

In case Dad and Brother find their job continuously interesting they may add the finishing touches of flower boxes and even a chimney to lend beauty and reality. If Dad has no taste for tinkering with tools it will cost little enough to entrust the job to a carpenter.

MODERN LANGUAGE OF FLOWERS

When a friend returns home after being away for some time, possibly after being confined to a hospital, a bouquet of cheery flowers or a potted plant will breathe the message, "Welcome home." Even if the house or apartment has been closed for a long while the fresh flowers will immediately make it alive and home-like, and your friend will appreciate your thoughtfulness expressed in such a novel way.

THESE MOPS DO DOUBLE DUTY

Sponge rubber brushes and mops do double household duty. Use them dry and they make efficient dusters for walls, woodwork, and furniture. Lather them with soap and they do a good job of routing the soil that can't be whisked away.

It takes only a moment to wash these handy tools. Squeeze them through a heavy lather of soapsuds when one piece of work is done and they are ready for tackling the next item on the cleaning schedule.

Rats are Barometer Of Safety in Mine

ZORTMAN, Mont., June 10 (U.P.)—The Piper of Hamelin with his magic flute may be welcome in most cities and towns to drive out rats, but there is one spot in the United States where he would be totally unwanted.

Under strict orders from the management, the employees in the mines near this small north central Montana mining community protect the hundreds of rats that scurry from tunnel to tunnel and regard them as their friends.

The rodents have saved many miners from injury and possible death because of their uncanny sense to detect a cavein. Due to the sandy nature of the

Only Chumps at Yesterday's Game Were Ones Who Gave 14 Points (Some of The Cash Customers Might Think They Were)

The boys who were giving 14 points and taking Wink over Midland yesterday were the only chumps and they only missed a draw by one point as Atkinson failed to kick goal for the extra point, the Spudgers coming out on top 20-7. Cash customers may think they were the chumps.

The struggle out at City Park yesterday will go into the books as a baseball game, but it had little resemblance to one. Particularly did the Wink boys try to ruin the game by hammering two Midland pitchers offering all over the infield and outfield. All this did was get 24 hits good for 34 bases. Dais and Smith also chipped in with five walks and a couple of hit batsmen just to make the margin of victory for the Spudgers greater.

The scorekeeper, very, very generously marked up only three errors for the Cardinals—nut sed!

The Spudgers took a three run lead in the first inning when Nook let a couple get away from him in the sun and go for doubles after Dais had walked one and Orr had let another get on base when he dropped a high pop fly.

The Cards managed to tie up the score in the second with a couple of runs after getting one in the first. But the Spudgers got five more in the third and three in the fourth to take a lead that was more than enough to win. They started the fifth like they had every inning against Dais, with a couple of base hits, but Smith went in and retired them without any runs. Wink bats remained dormant until the ninth when they suddenly started hitting everything Smith threw to them. When it was all over 13 men had gone to the plate and 9 of them had scored.

The best Midland could do was make two in the fourth and two in the seventh for the remainder of their tallies.

'LADIES DAY' AT CITY PARK FRIDAY

President Wray Query of the Midland Cardinals today announced that Friday would be "Ladies Day" at City Park, all females to be admitted free.

This will be the first Ladies Day of the year here but Query said that for the rest of the season one game each week will be so designated when the club is at home.

Ladies Day here will be something new for the league, none of the other clubs yet having tried it, but in many other leagues it is as well established as holiday double headers and feminine fans look forward anxiously toward them.

Query stressed the importance of all women coming in through the gates absolutely free. There will be no obligations, such as being accompanied by a paid admission, etc. They will all be admitted—regardless. All that is necessary is just to ask at the window for ticket (in order that an accurate count on the number attending may be had) and go on in.

The Cardinals will be playing the final of a three-games series with Wink tomorrow afternoon.

'WPA Poker' Introduced; Here's How It's Played

BRAINERD, Minn., June 10 (U.P.)—The boys at the Lions Club here have a new kind of poker game they believe will soon become popular.

They call it WPA poker and here's how they play it:

Each player buys $4 worth of chips. They play. If a man goes broke, he's allowed to play and bet just the same, until he wins a pot. Then he has chips and is back in the game. They keep this up until a prearranged time is reached. Then they quit and pay off.

No player, by this method, can lose more than $4—no matter how tough his luck.

Incubation was known to the ancient Egyptians. Piny says that they thus matched 100,000,000 chickens in a year.

planting. At a depth of a foot or less they uncovered one human skeleton intact and neat by a number of bones and ornaments which indicated at least five or six other bodies had been buried here.

Scientists were asked to examine the complete skeleton. It was indicated that the body had been well over 6 feet in height. The teeth were almost perfect.

The find again aroused interest in the huge earthen structures which dot the bottom land in this region. The largest mound, still unopened, stands in a state park near Collinsville, Ill. It is known as Mound 16 and was constructed in a series of plateaus. On its top very indications that an "eternal fire" of sun worshippers had burned there until extinction of the race.

No. 1 Woman 'Chute Jumper Worries; But It's Mostly About Her Age (28)

ST. LOUIS, (U.P.) — Faye Lucille Cox, foremost woman delayed parachute jumper, says it isn't the jumping or the waiting to pull the ripcord that she fears, but the landing.

"I've landed in some queer places," she said. "On tops of buildings, in water, and between high tension electric wires. Once I landed astride a cow, and another time the pistol-like report of my chute opening just above his head frightened a horse so much he ran until he burst a blood vessel."

Mrs. Cox has made 319 delayed parachute jumps. She is rated No. 1 woman parachute jumper by the American Aeronautic Association and holds four world's records, among them, altitude, jumping from 18,256 feet; low opening at 200 feet; and the Irvin airchute trophy for spot landing at Buffalo in 1936.

"I worry about my age more than anything," Mrs. Cox said. "I'm only 28, but I dread those birthdays! Nobody wants to see an old woman making a parachute leap."

Her husband, Merlyn Cox, is also an air stuntman, doing car-to-plane changes and wing walking as well as parachute jumping.

Mrs. Cox's narrow escapes have been numerous. The time she fell between high tension wires in Texas the chute caught on the wires and she dangled helplessly in the air until the power was turned off and a lineman let her down with a rope.

The lineman's name was Cox. "Howdy, Mrs. Cox," he said when he had climbed up to her, "I'm Mr. Cox."

Her feet becoming entangled in the electric shrouds has resulted four times in broken bones. Once she jumped with a foot in a plaster cast.

In a jump from 8,000 feet her parachute failed to open when she pulled the cord at 1,000. With only 700 feet between her and the ground, she reached around, grabbed a piece of silk that was sticking out, pulled it and the chute opened.

Another time her chute failed to withstand the shock of the 1,115-pound pull when it was opened and burst in midair. "I landed in a pond," she said. "That saved me, but I didn't like the water."

ing out, pulled it and the chute opened.

Ford V-8 Succeeds In First Crossing Of South America

Climbing far above the clouds to an elevation of 16,000 feet, penetrating forests heretofore believed impassable, and enduring climates ranging from the subtropical heat of the jungle to the arctic cold of the high Andes, the first automobile crossing of the South American continent recently was completed by Hubert Carton de Wiart, world-famous explorer and adventurer.

Despite mountain blizzards, torrential rains and intense heat, the expedition, covering more than 7700 miles, was completed in 67 days. The trip was made from Buenos Aires to Caracas in an 85-horsepower Ford V-8 station wagon.

The first leg of the journey took the party westward from Buenos Aires for 750 miles along the right bank of the Rio de la Plata and across the pampas. There heavy rains were encountered, but the station wagon, using chains, went through without difficulty. Then turning northward, the route left the plains and entered the dense undergrowth of the Chaco and the subtropical pre-Cordillera region.

After many days in the heat of the Chaco, the party climbed westward across the high tablelands of Bolivia and for two weeks was in the cold of elevations ranging from 10,000 to 16,000 feet. The rate atmosphere at the higher climates made breathing difficult. Using trails traced out in prehistoric times by the Indians and followed later by the Spanish and Portuguese con-quistadores, the route led through the ancient cities of Sucre, Potosi and La Paz, high in the Cordillera. Through Condor pass, at an altitude of 15,665 feet, the car crossed the continental divide and descended to Cuzco, "City of the Sun" and ancient capital of the Incas.

There the route turned toward the Pacific, and descending the Andean slope penetrated the tropical forests of Peru. Continuing westward the party passed through Colombia, the distance of 1,250 miles made its way northward along the Peruvian coast.

At a favorable season they crossed the equator, and then, to get away from the coastal lowlands, again scaled the Andes. The route now wound through the high valleys of Ecuador, overshadowed by volcanoes and snow peaks. There again

PROVIDE THE EXTRA MARGIN OF SAFETY ON THE SPEEDWAY OR THE HIGHWAY

THOUSANDS said that tires could not stand the terrific grind. They said cars had been built with much greater speed, turns in the track had been repaved with granite-like surface, yet Wilbur Shaw drove to victory on Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires setting a new record of 113.58 miles per hour on one of the hottest days in the history of the Indianapolis track.

Here is stamina — here is dependability — here is performance that is proof of safety. 500 miles over the blistering hot brick track, at temperatures of more than 100°. Speeds of 130, 140, and even 150 were attained on the straightaways. Think of the terrific impact on these tires as the cars roared into the treacherous turns and out again. Tons of force straining, pulling, and twisting inside the tire, yet not one cord loosened, not one tread separated from the cord body — all because Gum-Dipping, the Firestone patented process, successfully counteracted the internal friction and heat that ordinarily destroy tire life.

Tires? Race drivers make it their business to know how tires are made and they know that Firestone Tires are built with the Firestone patented construction features of Gum-Dipping and Two Extra Layers of Gum-Dipped Cords under the Tread. They know that because of these extra features Firestone Tires run up to 28° cooler and give greatest blowout protection. In fact, these men will not risk their lives or chances of victory on any other tire.

You will never drive your car at these record-breaking speeds, but for the safety of yourself and family you need the safest, strongest and most dependable tires. Come in today. Join the Firestone SAVE A LIFE Campaign by equipping your car with a set of new Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires — the safest tires that money can buy.

Why have Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires been on all the winning cars at Indianapolis for the past eighteen years? Why did every one of the thirty-three drivers in this greatest of all racing events choose and buy Firestone

DON'T RISK YOUR LIFE ON THIN WORN TIRES

No car owner is going to risk his life and the lives of his family knowingly on thin worn tires. Yet thousands of car owners are taking chances every day.

Do you know that last year highway accidents cost the lives of more than 38,000 men, women and children?

Choose the tires that champions buy. Race drivers know from experience that their lives depend on the safety of their tires. They will not drive at high speeds on any other than Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires. You, too, need the same protection. Come in today and equip your car with the safest tires ever built.

(Serves 6 Hungarians or 6 Irishmen, impartially.)

Six eggs, 6 tablespoons sugar, 6 tablespoons flour, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Separate yolks and whites. Add sugar to yolks and beat lightly. Beat whites vigorously. To yolk mixture add alternately 1 tablespoon flour and 1 tablespoon beaten whites. Continue adding flour and whites in this way until all are used. Pour into 2 buttered layer pans. Bake in slow oven (300 degrees F) until done. Cool. Cut each layer in half, crosswise, making 4 layers. Between each 2 layers insert filling.

Filling: 4 tablespoons grated sweet chocolate, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 teaspoon butter, 3 tablespoons sugar, 3 tablespoons cream. Heat all together.

Studebaker Pioneer In Safety Programs

During the past year the subject of motor car safety has attained prime consideration from nearly every manufacturer in the automobile industry. Each car builder has launched his particular ideas of promoting safety and a carefully considered program has been inaugurated by the Automobile Manufacturers' Association. In addition local car dealers, municipalities, civic associations and all sorts of interested people and companies have made innumerable contributions to safety.

That these efforts are being successful is not to be doubted. The American army of drivers has been made to think of the toll of life, limb and money unsafe driving has caused. Our streets and highways are becoming safer. Our drivers are becoming more adept at avoiding trouble.

A review of the history of automobile safety crusades reveals that the Studebaker Corporation was the industry's pioneer in this work. Long before the A. M. A. became active, long before any other car builder had given the subject recognition, Studebaker was engaging in an effort to make the motor car a safer thing to own.

The first definite gesture toward highway safety made by Studebaker came in 1925 when the Albert Ruseu Erskine Bureau of Street Traffic Research was founded at Harvard University through the interest of Paul G. Hoffman, then president of the Los Angeles Traffic Commission and now president of the Studebaker Corporation. At that time, Dr. Miller McClintock was consulting engineer of the Harvard bureau; Dr. McClintock is now director of the bureau and has been for several years. The bureau has accomplished a tremendous amount of safety work in all parts of the country.

The bureau was originally sponsored and financed at Mr. Hoffman's suggestion, by the board of directors of Studebaker. It is now maintained through the financial assistance of the traffic safety committee of A. M. A. This committee is the industry's official voice in the na-

STORIES IN STAMPS
BY I. S. KLEIN
MASTER ETCHER OF 400 YEARS AGO

THROUGH a hole in the floor above Albrecht Durer's workshop in Germany, the wife of this great artist kept vigil over him and saw that he did not lag in his work. And so, perhaps through the constant nagging of a shrewish wife, the world today can enjoy some of the finest masterpieces of printing and engraving in history. Durer, born in Nuremberg, in 1471, took so quickly to drawing that at the age of 13 he finished a portrait of himself. By the time he was 26, he made another self-portrait that today is almost priceless. So great a genius was he that even the Italian master, Giovanni Bellini, marveled at him.

He soon became unsurpassed in etching, one of his masterpieces being a wood engraving, in 92 blocks, of the triumphal arch of the Emperor Maximilian. To him is ascribed the invention of etching and printing wood cuts in two colors.

Thanks to his wife's urgings, Durer became moderately wealthy. But his health was poor. In 1528, at the age of 57, he died. His portrait appears on a stamp issued in Germany in 1926.

Austria's Oldest Man, 104, Advises Wine and 2 Pipes of Tobacco Daily

VIENNA. (U.P.)—Austria's Methusalem, Johann Postl, who expects to celebrate his 105th birthday soon, feels that he is beginning to get old.

"My eyes are not so good any more," he told a visitor at his farm at Puchberg, halfway up on the slopes of Schneeberg. "I am afraid, I will soon have to wear glasses. While a couple of years ago, it meant nothing to me to walk over to my son's house four hours hiking distance up high in the mountains, a walk of a quarter of an hour now wears me out, I distinctly feel the infirmities of old age approaching. But don't misunderstand me, young man; basically, I am sound enough."

The little, beardless, wiry old man got up from his bench at the stove and walked about the room chuckling to himself before he continued.

"My folks thought I would not live to be 100 and, therefore, I was given a great party at my 99th birthday, with a wreath around the door, a visit by the provincial governor and a telegram from President Miklas, accompanied by a gift of honor of 200 schillings.

"Last winter when I had the flu I was given up entirely. The doctor came twice weekly and wore a serious face. I did not think much of the medicine-man and his concoctions and cured myself with tobacco. You know that smoke opens up the throat," Postl added, puffing hard at his pipe.

Austria's oldest man is still in full possession of his mental faculties, although his memory, as far as recent years are concerned, has somewhat suffered, while he recalls with astonishing exactness events dating back 80 and more years.

He particularly enjoys talking about the battle of Magenta, against the French, in 1859. This was the great event in his life. Postl, who was a corporal in the Austrian army, won a silver medal there for courage and circumspect behavior. A certificate of honor recalling the feat, presented to him by his old regiment at his 103rd birthday, adorns his room.

Postl had 12 children, three of whom died in their youth. His oldest son is 76. When he was told of the death of his second son, a tailor, who died at the age of 72, two years ago, the old man remarked:

"Well, I knew Aloys would go before me; he was always weak in the chest"; then he asked for his daily pint of wine and never again mentioned the death. Postl's living progeny now numbers 129.

Up to 96 years, he had worked in the fields himself. His prescription for longevity is; hard work and a frugal life, mitigated by a couple of pipes and a pint of wine daily and a double ration on Sundays.

found one. Every five years or so, it seems this country embraces a new type of music. Hawaiian songs in 1917, jazz as a national pastime in 1922, the tango in 1927, and the rumba in 1932 have been milestones in America's musical progress. Lopez believes the new vogue may be the music of Japan.

Japanese music is built on two five-tone scales, generally in minor, but not always. It is intensely melodic and is almost always built on a "swingable" rhythm. Old books of Japanese songs reveal that popular music across the Pacific employed all the tricks of syncopation before they had been used in the Western world in any form other than classical music, due probably to the fact that the banjo-like samisen is the most popular

Mr. Average Man One Up On Chan

Although Charlie Chan was responsible for the fame and good fortune of Warner Oland, his screen incarnation, whose latest adventure in the Twentieth Century-Fox series, "Charlie Chan at the Olympics" opens Friday at the Yucca Theatre, there is one thing for which Oland, will never forgive the philosophical Chinese sleuth.

Because he is infallible on the screen, the super-sleuth, the man who never forgets, Oland finds his friends unwilling to overlook those minor failings of memory in real life to which the best of men are prone. His habit of putting down a burning cigarette and then forgetting it, of mislaying an article of apparel, of forgetting an item on a shopping list—all of these things loom large in the private life of the screen's number one brain man.

His thoughtfulness in "Charlie Chan at the Olympics" enables

A Bit o' Scotch Back in America

Harry Lauder, famed humorist, demonstrated a real Scotch treat after he arrived, above, in Hollywood on his world tour. He explained he is making the trip on 10-cent pieces saved during his active career. Lauder, 67, continued his cruise to California after a visit in Australia.

"Rare Are These Hours," is a composition by Masao Koga, the most popular of all Japanese composers. Still played in Japan although introduced in 1931, this song sold more than 500,000 copies in phonograph records, thus becoming the outstanding hit of all time.

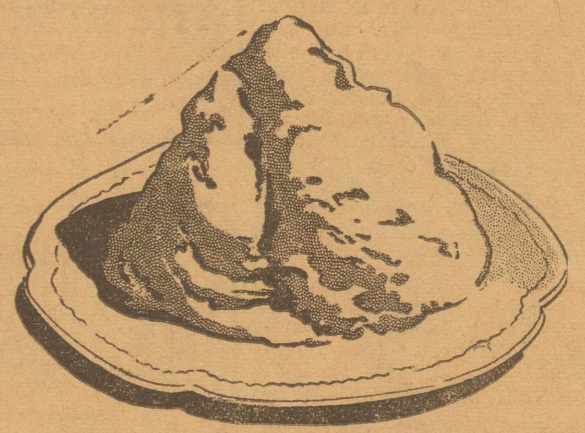

"In My Arm," by Kokka Sassa, preceded "Rare Are These Hours," as Japan's all-time hit tune. Exact figures on the sale of its records are not available, but it is understood to have gone beyond 400,000 copies.

Musical popularity in Japan is measured by record sales, since the sheet music industry is in its infancy and the government controlled radio plays little popular music, devoting most of its time to lectures intended to strengthen the people in their patriotism or to educate them.
