Prepare for Unionist Rally Sunday in Johnstown

MASSILON, O., July 2. (AP)—The work movement was under way along all the strike front today as the Republic steel division opened. The company normally employs 3,700 men but on opening this morning called for only 800, company officials announced.

At Johnstown, Pa., police prepared to meet whatever emergency may arise Sunday when the CIO holds a strike rally, but were skeptical that 40,000 unionists would come to the town, as the CIO claimed.

John Riffe, strike leader, told the senate investigating committee in Washington that marchers in the South Chicago Memorial Day battle did not intend to enter the Republic plant.

Smoke of Battle in Air

Smoking out the enemy used to mean forcing them into the open, but with the use of smoke screens behind which troops and planes may maneuver undetected the phrase takes on a modern meaning. Zooming toward the clouds, five planes of the Royal Air Force show how they will lay a protective smoke screen in battle during a demonstration at Duxford, England.

JAPAN EXPECTS KONOYE TO BE A MAN OF ACTION; NEW CABINET FACES JOB

TOKYO, July 2. (U.P.)—Prince Fumimaro Kono, Japan's tall and handsome new premier, is prepared to face a specially convoked Diet with a pledge to use action instead of words in attacking the nation's critical problems.

The session, to be held in July or August, was made necessary by the sudden dissolution of the regular Diet in April.

Kono was brought to the leadership of Japan's national affairs when it appeared that only a man beloved by the people could calm the popular unrest.

He had been held in reserve for such an emergency. His advent as premier indicated the seriousness of the situation. And it gave notice that if by some chance he should fall Japan's position would be desperate indeed.

But failure was not even considered as the new premier, under an additional handicap of insomnia and indigestion, rallied about him a cabinet which, while at first glance appeared not to be one of great strength, showed definite possibilities.

Kono announced as his first move that he would attempt to dispel the controversies which had flamed during the unhappy days of Sanjuro Hayashi's premiership. Next, he promised action instead of words.

The nation had grown weary of words when the affable Hayashi had used obsolete phrases and expressions which, he readily admitted, he could not understand clearly himself.

The contrast between Hayashi and Kono is clear cut and applies to physical appearance as well as performance in the past and promises for the future.

Kono is 45, the youngest premier save one in Japanese history. He has a small Hitler-ish mustache instead of the Hayashi handle-bar type. He is tall and slight, while Hayashi was elderly and bent. Hayashi was an army man; the influence of Kono's family has been more in civilian pursuits.

Prin. Kono is from the Fujiwara line, famed in Japanese history as close advisors to the throne and referred to by some as despo during the early days when the capital was at Kyoto. It touches the imperial family by marriage.

While opposition by the political parties was given as the reason for Hayashi's resignation, the real reason apparently went deeper than that. The army, represented in the Hayashi cabinet by Gen. Sen Sugiyama, never has been overruled particularly by the political parties.

But the signs of popular unrest were too clear to be disregarded. Prices had been shooting upward, taxes were proving burdensome, the outstanding result of the April 30 elections was the increased strength of the proletarians. So a new leader was in order and the Emperor summoned Kono to a task which more elderly statesmen had found beyond them.

Kono is a protégé of Prince Kimochi Satonji, who was a close friend of the Prince's father. It is said here that Satonji, nearing 90 and in poor health at his Okitsu villa, is content to let Prince Kono carry on for him in Japanese politics.

Sugiyama stayed on as Minister of War in the Kono cabinet and Admiral Mitsumasa Yonai remained as navy minister. They are the ones who will carry on the fighting services' demands for the large appropriations considered essential for national defense.

The weak spot in the Kono cabinet from the standpoint of popular support seems to be Eiichi Baba, home minister. Baba was finance minister in the Hirota cabinet, which resigned in January, and the people blamed his policies for the increased cost of living.

Baba is favored by the army, which wanted him as head of the official planning board, a "brain-trust" agency charged with directing economic improvements.

There was a popular outcry against that move, with the result that Foreign Minister Koki Hirota was called upon to take the position.

The post of finance minister went to Okinobu Kaya, $150-per-month finance department official who was delighted at being able to move from his tiny home in an alley to the imposing official residence of the finance minister.

Others in the cabinet include the stern Liji Yasui as minister of education and Count Yoriyasu Arima, friend of farming, as minister of agriculture. The chief secretary to the cabinet is a cheerful man, Akira Kazami, who had about $3 to his name and no place to live when the appointment arrived.

FEAR OF LYNCHERS GETTING TO NEGRO YOUTH DISSIPATED

Athens Officials Are Confident Trouble Is Over

ATTEMPT FAILS
Crowd Disperses as Sheriff Offers to "Get Rough"

ATHENS, July 2. (AP)—Henderson county officials said today that it appeared certain there would be no further trouble in the case of a young negro threatened with lynching after a white woman was beaten and subjected to an attempted criminal attack.

A crowd of 100 persons swarmed the jail last night, declaring they were after the 16-year-old prisoner, but Sheriff Jess Sweeten warned that he would "get rough" if an attempt was made and the crowd dispersed.

Sheriff Sweeten said the negro admitted the attack in addition to several recent similar attempts on women of this section. The suspect was returned to jail here late yesterday a few hours after he was rushed to Tyler to keep him from the hands of a small mob which threatened him.

Mrs. Swinney, wife of a truck driver, was in a hospital. She had been beaten in her struggles to fight off her attacker, Sweeten said. Her exact physical condition had not been determined, however, he said.

The sheriff reported the negro came to the Swinney home when she was alone. When Mrs. Swinney went to give him a requested drink of water, the sheriff said, the negro grabbed her.

THREE KILLED AS FIREWORKS BURN
Fifteen Others Are Injured When Explosion Occurs

NAMPA, Idaho, July 2. (AP)—A drugstore fireworks window display exploded late yesterday, killing a woman and two children, and injuring 14 others, some critically.

Mrs. T. C. Daniels, 29-year-old barber's wife, was almost instantly killed. Katherine Miller 6, and Ardivce Pevok, 9, died of their injuries a short time later.

Seriously injured was Mrs. George LeDelle of nearby Marsing. Hospital attendants said she had a "fair chance" for recovery.

The entire front of the store, owned by E. L. Drake, was blown out. Sky rockets, Roman candles, cannon crackers and thousands of packages of firecrackers were set off.

Screaming women and children dashed through the fireworks fusillade of the explosion.

Police were unable to explain cause of the explosion.

GERMANY, ITALY IN NEW PROPOSAL ON SPANISH FUSS

Want to Recognize Both the Sides as Belligerents

LONDON, July 2. (AP)—Italy and Germany proposed at the non-intervention sub-committee meeting today that both sides in the Spanish civil war be recognized as belligerents.

The plan, offered as a counter to the Anglo-French proposal to patrol Spanish coasts, was regarded as firmly opposed by Britain and France.

Foreign Secretary Eden told the house of commons there could be no agreement on belligerent rights at the moment.

POLICE BELIEVE MORE THAN 1 HAD PART IN MURDERS

All Suspects Freed After Questioning By Officers

INGLEWOOD, Calif., July 2. (AP)—The possibility that more than one person attacked and slew three young Inglewood girls whose garroted bodies were found in a ravine Monday came back into prominence Thursday as investigators mulled over several curiously baffling aspects of the case.

There was a mordant hint also of a theory that older children may have been the killers.

These developments came as authorities announced that all suspects arrested had been cleared—with the killer or killers still at large. Those cleared, Sheriff Eugene Biscailuz said, included two men previously regarded as hot suspects. They were an ex-convict and the son of a prominent Los Angeles family.

Another man, James Summit, 37, former sailor, was brought here later for questioning.

He was described as similar in appearance to the man sought in the case from the first, Eddie the Sailor, who several witnesses have said lured the victims, Madeline Everett, 7, her sister, Belba, 9 and Jeanette Stephens, 8, from a park Saturday to go on a rabbit hunt.

Ira Driver, association secretary, predicted a field of 75 cowboys would be here for the three days.

BOATS AND PLANES REPORTED MOVED TO AMUR ISLANDS

Deny Any Jap Troops At Scene of the Quarrel

CONSIDER FORCE
Anxiety Is Felt for Manchu Steamer In Battle

By Associated Press
Japan today charged a new invasion of Manchoukuo territory by gunboats and airplanes, and said there are no Japanese troops on the disputed Amur river islands, and insisted the Soviet had withdrawn its forces and left the Japanese troops' disposition there up to the army command.

Hsingking, Manchoukuo capital, considered forceful means against the Soviets as anxiety was felt for the safety of a Manchoukuo steamer unreported since Wednesday in a border clash.

Usually competent Moscow observers declared the immediate question was whether the Japanese-Manchoukuo army would respond to a Soviet proposal for simultaneous demilitarization of the danger zone, northeast of the border of Manchoukuo and Siberia.

The influential Radical Seisanto, or National Production, party demanded the Japanese cabinet break off all diplomatic relations with Russia because of the alleged Soviet invasion of Manchoukuo territory.

SATURDAY CLOSURE EIGHT DAY MEET AT LOCAL TRACK

"Grass" Ponies in Quarter Mile Heat Today

Saturday, closing day of the race meet at Midland, will be Midland day, featuring the Midland Fair event for three year olds and up.

Eight horses from "off the grass" was indicated at noon today, with prospects for substantial attendance from over a wide area. Smaller crowds Wednesday and Thursday gave indication of growing this afternoon as fans began arriving early.

Eight horses from "of the grass" were in the paddock for the opening event this afternoon, a quarter mile heat for cow ponies only, barring all horses which have competed for purses previously in the meet.

The ponies were ridden by cowboys, using stock saddles. Clifford Whaley's Steak, Walter Coody's Button, Uley Barber, Flaxey, Jerry Cotters, Curley, Hub Gaskin's Powder Puff, Dick, Hub Castleberry's Shorty and George Phillips' Miss Dar were entered.

Today was Pecos day, with races named for Sheriff Robinson, Police Chief O'Neill, Hotel Brandon and other individuals and institutions. Six races were on the program, ranging from the quarter mile event to five furlongs. Longer distance animals were entering Saturday's program for the final day of Texas racing with pari-mutuel privileges.

Survey Shows Midland County Crops Need Rains Immediately

BY BILL COLLINS
Viewing some of the best and most fertile farm land in all of this vast expanse of territory commonly known as West Texas and visiting some of the finest, largest and most modern and up-to-date farms in Midland county, the writer, with County Agent S. A. Debnam, toured various agricultural communities of the county yesterday afternoon, our limited knowledge of agriculture, on a diversified and systematic scale, being brushed up considerably by instruction No. 1 from the affable county agent, who, although he asked not to be quoted, predicts rain by July 5.

Crops, although needing rain fairly badly, are average and are doing fine throughout the area visited, prospects for a bumper crop in Midland county this year being excellent, providing, of course, that a general rain falls within the near future. Although the farmers would like a good rain immediately, they were informed that crops will not be seriously hampered by lack of moisture for another two weeks.

Cotton and feed crops are in excellent condition, some of the cotton beginning to square. Exceptionally hot weather does not bother the cotton, the plant doing even better under such conditions. Farmers are cultivating their fields, most of the fields visited being clear of weeds, ample help being available for farm work. Optimism was voiced by practically all of the farmers contacted on the tour. We were pleasantly surprised by the agricultural outlook for the county.

The dreaded grasshopper, which can wipe out an entire crop almost overnight, has not made its appearance in Midland county fields as yet, the farmers joyously reporting that they had seen no hoppers to date. If the hoppers do make their appearance, which, it is thought not likely if rain falls shortly, immediate steps will be taken to curb them. There was some complaint of cotton flea hoppers, but it is hoped that damage from these will be kept to a minimum, the process of controlling them being rather costly. Flea hoppers damage has been very light up to date.

Leaving Midland shortly after noon, the crops being viewed in the heat of the day by the way, Debnam and the writer took out Highway No. 158, viewing the C Ranch Farms and on by the attractive and modern farm home of Cap Wallace who continues to improve his home, some concrete walks being laid yesterday afternoon. Numerous trees around the Wallace home make it all the more attractive. The sheep proof fence recently erected by Wallace is one of the best in the section. On through the Pleasant Valley community, we stopped at the A. L. Stewart farm to see the 4-H club calf being raised by A. L. Stewart, Jr. Young Stewart showed the second prize calf at the Midland calf show last year and if we are any judge of calves, he is in a good way to carry off first honors at the show this fall. The calf, donated by Hilary Bedford is from the C Ranch herd.

Back to the city and on out the Rankin road, we viewed some excellent crops. T. Elmer Bizzell, one of the most successful farmers in the county, has excellent prospects for another fine crop this year, his crops at present appearing to be in the best of condition. We stopped in at the Bizzell place to look over the club calves being fed by T. E. Bizzell, Jr., and Delma Ray Bizzell and it is likely that both calves will be in the money at the fall show.

On out past the vast J. C. Miles farm which is one of the best and largest farms in the county, we saw more excellent crops, cotton and feed on the Miles farm showing up exceptionally well. It is said that Mr. Miles always raises a crop even when others fail, and it looks as though this progressive plantation owner will have a banner yield this year.

Continuing on through the Valley View community, we passed the fine farms of J. D. Bartlett and Mrs. Mary Proctor, the home of Mrs. Proctor being one of the most beautiful in the sector. From the road the corn appears to be doing exceptionally well and roasting ears should be available within the very near future.

Arriving at the O. C. Collins place, one of the finest and best equipped in the community, we stopped in for a brief chat, finding Mr. Collins ready to go fishing, the fishing expedition being planned for sometime next week. Collins, an ardent fisherman, takes two or three such trips each year. He plans on attending the Big Spring rodeo Monday. After a cool and refreshing drink of water from his fine well, we discussed farm prospects, etc., under the big trees surrounding his place, Mr. Collins informing us that he put his farm there under cultivation.

IF JOSEF STALIN SAT IN THE WHITE HOUSE

If you have ever wondered what it would be like to have a dictatorship in America, you can get a rough idea by imagining that Franklin Roosevelt was replaced, at this moment in history, by Josef Stalin.

It wouldn't take a very great stretch of the imagination, because these two statesmen are facing the same sort of difficulties these days. They are being troubled by political party revolts. In Moscow as in Washington, a growing reluctance to go along with the big chief is evident.

Suppose, then, that we had a dictatorship in this country and that Stalin sat in the White House. What would be happening?

First of all, we would be seeing a ruthless "purge" in the Democratic party. Such people as Senators Carter Glass, Jimmy Byrnes, and Royal S. Copeland—to name only a few—would be shot forthwith as saboteurs and counter-revolutionists. Senator Vandenberg would have been shot long ago, of course, along with Alf Landon, John Hamilton, and Senator Borah.

The court revision plan, the relief bill, the reorganization plan, and all other administration measures would be passed without the changing of a comma or the dotting of an "i."

The Republican party, obviously, would have ceased to exist, and any fragments of the Democratic party which failed to play ball with the White House likewise would cease to exist. And there would not be in all the country a newspaper editor, a radio commentator, a politician or a magazine editor who would dare utter one word of objection.

And while we're on the subject—the labor unrest in the middle west would be settled very speedily; Tom Girdler and John L. Lewis would face the same firing squad for interrupting steel production in the latest five-year plan.

Now compare that picture with what is actually happening in this country.

Instead of shooting his brother Democrats, Mr. Roosevelt is obliged to take them to an island in Chesapeake Bay, throw a big dinner into them and try the gentle art of persuasion. That persuasion, coupled with compromises on his own part, represents his only chance to get his legislative program through Congress. Persuasion, likewise, is his only recourse in the steel strike.

These two days—the way of dictatorship and the way of democracy—are in striking contrast, and the contrast is worth bearing in mind. For it is easy to grow weary of the seeming inefficiency of a democracy—the unending wrangling, compromise, argument, and stalling.

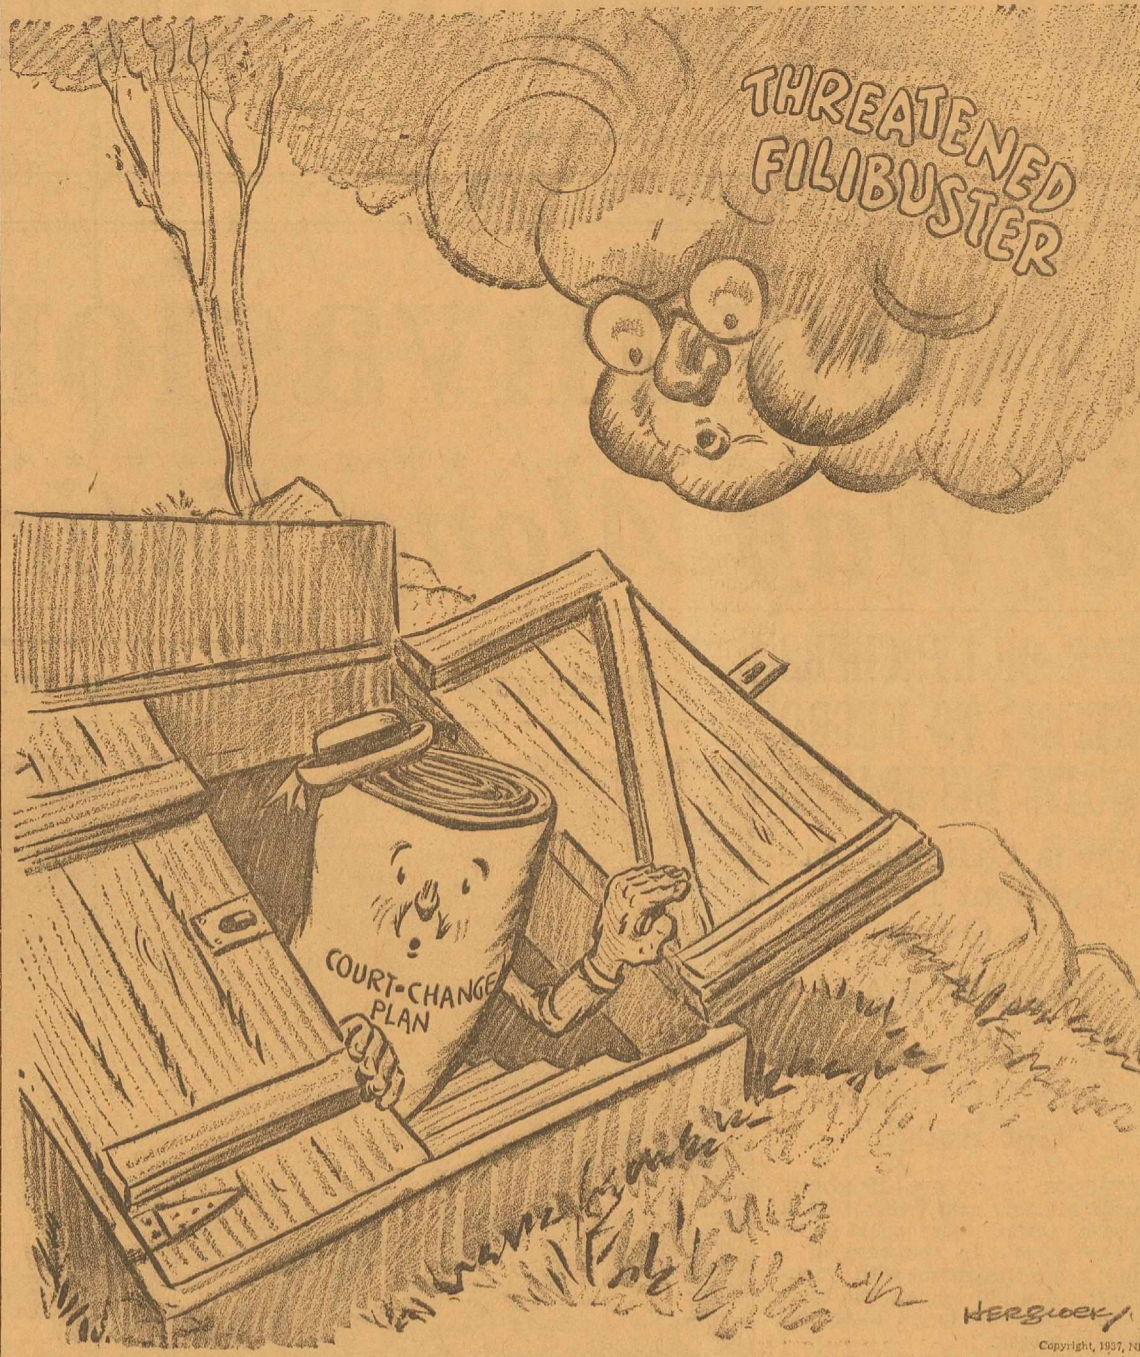

Yet those things are the alternative to the sort of thing that has been happening in Russia. And in the end they are infinitely more "efficient" than the rule of the most closely knit dictatorship that ever existed.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

By RODNEY DUTCHER
Reporter-Telegram Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 2.—A nice, soft cushion is being prepared for Mr. Roosevelt by some of the milder opponents of the court plan and some of its milder friends. It's for use when and if F. D. R. decides to abandon attempts to get a court-packing bill through Congress, the idea being to soften the blow for all concerned.

But the cushion—and you can chalk this up for future reference—wasn't stuffed by the White House. This group of court reform opponents who would just as soon have the court plan dropped, is spreading the word around that Roosevelt never expected or intended to have his court bill passed, but was only trying to scare the conservative justices so they would not dare kill any more New Deal legislation. The yarn is either told or hinted with a merry ha ha ha and an admission that the alleged trick worked perfectly, considering the way the court subsequently okayed New Deal laws as fast as they came up.

No matter how much credence this story may receive, it just isn't true. Roosevelt supposed the court bill would pass long ago, virtually as written. He did believe that as soon as it passed at least three justices, and possibly five, would resign and that he probably wouldn't be called upon to appoint six and make a 15-man court.

There Was Such a Plan

WHAT makes the April Fool version of the President's court plan rather interesting, if not plausible, is the fact that last January Roosevelt and some of his advisers very definitely did cook up a plan to scare the court by threatening to pack it and otherwise curb the conservative majority.

It was also hoped that enough hollering and threatening might lead two or three of the older justices to resign and that in any event, popular sentiment might be roused.

New Dealers had been talking about packing the court from the start, and as early as May, 1936, it was evident to insiders that action was likely. But the idea of curing the situation by making a specter of the idea was cooked up at a meeting of the American Political Science Association at Chicago late last December, when nearly 300 leading professors of political science and government gathered to chew over current problems. Prof. Arthur N. Holcombe of Harvard, was president. One vice president was Under Secretary of the Interior Charles West, former congressman, former professor of government at Harvard and now chief liaison man between the White house and Congress.

There was a round table conference on the subject of judicial review at which Holcombe, West, Prof. W. Y. Elliott of Harvard and Dr. Charles Merriam of Chicago, were especially active and vocal. All four are relatively close to Roosevelt. They agreed that the way to deal with the court was not necessarily to have an act of Congress or constitutional amendment, but to make definite moves to show that the court had gone beyond its proper sphere of jurisdiction by usurping legislative power and that this was widely resented. Specifically, it was agreed that the administration and members of Congress should use the court-packing plan as a definite threat in order, as one professor said, "to scare the hell out of 'em." At the same meeting Donald

It's funny how boyhood impressions stay with you. When I was a brat, I remember one July Fourth when there was quite a town-wide celebration—barbecue on the court house lawn, street parade of decorated buggies and floats, rodeo, baseball, fireworks and everything. Before the parade was over, a big rain came up, with plenty of hail, and the flags, streamers, crepe paper and other decorations began to fade and run all over the Richberg, who had frequently discussed the court problem with Roosevelt, cited words of William Howard Taft that judges should be "made to pause and deliberate by hostile public criticism" in order that they might be kept "alive to the reasonable demands of those they serve."

West and Richberg rode back to Washington on the train together, discussing the problem. West promptly reported to Roosevelt and the campaign to "scare the court" was soon evolved.

Point Is: He Meant It

ROOSEVELT definitely had decided to try to do something about the court when the justices, on Dec. 15, had sent the Duke power case back to lower courts without ruling on validity of about $50,000,000 of PWA loans for public power developments. Secretary Ickes told him the effect was further to delay about 50 projects.

The point at which Roosevelt decided to try to pack the court instead of threatening to pack it or taking other measures, apparently came late in January after the General Motors strike had made

Here's one I just read: Here's another old one that Bob Burns should add to his list of old stories:

An old country girl came to town and she secured a job in a florist shop. A fashionably-dressed woman came in and asked for a dozen roses. After she made the purchase, she inquired:

"Will you be here next Wednesday, young lady?"

"Yes mam, yes mam." "I shall want some flowers for my daughter; she's coming out on that day."

"She'll have the best in the shop," the old country girl replied. "And may I ask please mam, what's she in for?"

validation of the Wagner act a New Deal necessity, and after receiving reports that Wall Street opponents were prepared to raise a slush fund to block any constitutional amendment in the states.

Attorney General Cummings, close friend of Richberg, had more to do with helping him reach his decision than anyone else. Roosevelt's fondness for a daring, spectacular moves did the rest. The point is that he meant it and don't let anyone tell you different.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICES
"God" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist on Sunday, July 4.
The Golden Text is: "To the only wise God our Saviour, be glory and majesty, dominion and power, both now and ever" (Jude 1:25).
Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Thine, O Lord, is the greatness, and the power, and the glory, and the victory, and the majesty; for all that is in the heaven and in the earth is thine; thine is the kingdom, O Lord, and thou art exalted as head above all" (I Chronicles 29:11).
The Lesson-Sermon includes also the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The Scriptures imply that God is All-in-all. From this it follows that nothing possesses reality nor existence except the divine Mind and His ideas. Allness is the measure of the infinite, and nothing less can express God" (pages 331 and 336).

Ethel du Pont in Bridal Gown

Her slim, blond beauty framed in a setting of peonies, lilies and woodwardia fern, Ethel du Pont wore this charmingly lovely wedding dress as she walked down a satin-covered aisle in Wilmington, Del., to become the bride of Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., son of the President and Mrs. Roosevelt. The scene was the little Christ Church, Christiana Hundred, built by the du Pont family in 1856. The bride, daughter of the Eugene du Ponts, did not divulge any description of her wedding gown until she appeared at the church, as pictured here.

Roquefort Chees Ring With Fruit Salad
3 1/2 cups milk
2 tablespoons gelatine
1/4 cup cold water
1/4 lb. Roquefort cheese.
2 packages (6 oz.) cream cheese
Salt to suit taste.
Scald milk, remove from heat, and stir in gelatine which has been softened in the cold water. Combine Roquefort and cream cheese, add 2 tablespoons of the liquid mixture, and blend to smooth paste. When gelatine mixture begins to congeal, whip until light and beat in cheese. Season and pour into wet ring molds; chill until congealed. Unmold on chilled serving plate and heap in center a fruit salad made by combining orange and grapefruit sections with wedges of tomato. Serve with the following cream French dressing:
3 tablespoons lemon juice
3 tablespoons salad oil
2 tablespoons sugar
2 tablespoons cream
Salt to suit taste.
Beat all ingredients together and pour over fruit. The cream tends to prevent the dressing from separating. Yield: 8 to 10 servings.

MOTHER HELPED BY KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN

"I have suffered from terrible constipation since the birth of my first child. I tried everything. Very reluctantly, I tried your ALL-BRAN with no faith in it at all.

"Much to my surprise, I have not had to take any medicine since starting to use ALL-BRAN."—Mrs. Doris Eyre King, 16 Abbey Road, Oxford, England.

Common constipation is usually due to meals low in "bulk." Kellogg's ALL-BRAN supplies this needed "bulk."

Within the body, this cereal absorbs twice its weight in water, forms a soft mass, gently sponges out the system. ALL-BRAN also furnishes vitamin B to tone up the intestines, and iron for the blood.

Enjoy this food instead of taking weakening pills and drugs. Serve as a cereal with milk or fruits, or cook into recipes.

ALL-BRAN is sold by your grocer. Made and guaranteed by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

'Bigfoot' Meets Automatic Snitch, Finds Alcatraz Guards Aim Straight

This is the second of four stories on life "Inside Alcatraz," related by the first convict ever to be paroled from the federal prison for incorrigibles.

BY A. W. "BIGFOOT" DAVIS

(As told to Douglas Hicks)
I MET "Machine Gun" Kelly and the automatic snitch my fourth day in Alcatraz.

That was the day I took my place in the lockstep of the prison routine. It was the day I went to work in the laundry.

The man I had spotted in the dining room as Kelly was wrapping laundry a few feet from me.

He is gray at the temples, 42 years old, laughing and talking all the time he can.

When he turned I got a look at a canvas belt he was wearing. It had "George Kelly" written on it in pencil.

He was easy to get acquainted with, didn't make any bones about his past. He seemed to like to talk about some of the things he had done, particularly the kidnaping of Charles F. Urschel, Oklahoma oil millionaire.

"Urschel was nervous and scared when we were taking him out to the Shannon place," Kelly said. "He said to us:

"You ought to think about my wife and family."

"He said, 'I've got $2000 on me I'll give you. Why not take it and turn me loose?'"

Brings Back Memories

MACHINE GUN laughed when he told what he said in reply. "I told Urschel, 'Why, I've got more than that in my pockets for change right now.'"

But I guess the joke was sort of

on Machine Gun, for right then Urschel was noticing things which would put the finger on Kelly and finally cause his capture after Urschel was freed on payment of the ransom.

Kelly would say, "I like to talk about old times. It brings back sweet memories. I hope I get out some time. I will have some more good times." I think he is being cured of violating the law, however, if he isn't already.

Machine Gun once came over laughing about a letter his wife, Katherine Kelly, had written to him.

"She says, 'George, darling, you thought I was tough.'"

"You ought to see mama now. She's tough as a boot and twice as tall since she got in this place (prison)."

It Gives You Away

THE automatic snitch is quite a device.

Every time you leave the cell house you go through one of the things.

Every time you leave the recreation yard to go into the bigger enclosure where the work buildings are you go through another one.

If you have any metal on you, the snitch gives you away.

"Buzz, buzz," says the snitch, and the guards shake you down and find out what kind of metal you have.

Each snitch has two steel boxes about two and one-half feet apart. You walk between them.

A hookup of magnetism and electricity sets off the buzzer when any metal comes along.

I have seen them strip a man to his skin when a buzz sounds as he goes through. They keep searching him, working on the machine and sending him through until the buzzing stops.

It took them three days to get things lined up for me to go to work.

"Clean" Means Just That
THE first day of the three was my first dull day on "The Rock." It began at 6:30 a. m. when the bell rang.

It was 20 minutes until breakfast. In that time I washed up, dressed, made my bed, cleaned my cell.

And speaking of keeping up, Alcatraz is the cleanest prison I ever saw. They make you keep yourself and the cell clean, and when they say clean they mean without any spots.

Breakfast the first day was at 6:50 a. m. We were out at 7:10 a. m. and I returned to my cell.

I was there all day except for a trip to the hospital for a complete physical examination and blood tests. A guard brought around a questionnaire which I filled out.

The second day I got taken down to the issue room and I got my first real introduction to the warden.

"If any of your clothes don't fit, say so now," he said. "You are the one who must wear them."

"Your cell will be No. 355, and you will do laundry sorting work." And then came the fourth day, the one I went to work.

Kick Out of Talking
AFTER breakfast, instead of falling out of line and going back to my cell, I marched out through the snitch into the recreation yard with the others.

We were lined up in six main lines, but some of the lines had several divisions.

As soon as we stepped out of building, until the whistle blew, we could smoke and talk.

It had been four days since I had been able to talk to anybody but a guard or official; it seems nutty that a man would get a kick out of just talking, but I did.

One division takes in the dock workers. They load and unload cargo at the docks, search the laundry, haul the laundry to the laundry building.

A second is the garbage detail. It picks up all trash and garbage from the different residences and kitchen.

The cleanup gang takes care of the flowers, sweeps the streets, maintains, cleanliness, does the janitor work in the administration building.

The mat shop workers make rubber mats from old auto tires for government use.

The laundry detail employs as many men as all the other jobs put together. It does all the laundry work on the island, the work for the army posts in San Francisco, for army transport ships, some of which bring us about 5000 pieces of work each time.

The machine and blacksmith shop does iron work, remodels bars, repairs trucks. The model shop makes furniture, a good deal of it.

The tailor shop makes prison clothes, guard uniforms, release suits or prison clothes—you can tell they are prison-made as far as you can see them.

Check Off Each Man
THOSE are the main work divisions. When the whistle blew, the line nearest the gate went out first. Every man called his number as he went out, and it was checked against a list.

We went through a second snitch and marched into the building. We were turned over to a foreman, a man with the power of a guard but no uniform. Every 30 minutes the guards checked us.

The foreman put me to sorting laundry. At 9:30 we had a 10-minute smoke period. We got together in bunches, told jokes, scuffled, anything to relieve the monotony.

About 11, or a little before, we quit work, washed up, and at 11:15 began the march back.

We went into our cells and at 11:30 we marched in to dinner. It was over at 11:50, we rested until 12:30, were back on the job a few minutes later.

Firing, Firing, Firing
THE guards don't go around with their heavy artillery just for fun, I found out.

Some of the men can make a gun stand on its hind legs and beg.

A boat floated into the forbidden zone, and a guard put a cluster of bullets into the water ahead of it.

The men in the boat had engine trouble, probably, or they wouldn't have got in where they were. They broke out a pair of oars and really bent their back getting out.

Then I saw the gun range down on a level with the laundry building. And after we had had supper and were back in our cells we could hear the guards, that night and others, firing, firing, firing.

Sometimes the splutter and roll of the machine guns, the crackle of the rifles and the pistol fire like hands clapped together went on for

 After having been connected with a railroad for several years previous, we inspected his fine dairy herd which is composed of 56 or 60 head of fine milk cows, Mr. Collins supplying a local creamery with many gallons of milk each day.

Collins is planning a fine residence on his farm, 7,000 adobe bricks being stacked around the place. Collins also a fine flock of white Leghorn hens on his farm. Leaving the Collins farm, we passed by the farm owned by Bennie Bizzell, son of Elmer Bizzell, the crops looking fine.

The next stop was at the tree surrounded home of S. O. Golliday where we found Mr. Golliday listening to the Midland Downs races over KRLH. Mr. Golliday was interested in showing us his fine Hereford cattle, his fine Percheron colts and his good crops, so getting his hat he accompanied us through his pasture and farm land. Leaving his house, the writer had the pleasure of opening a typical West Texas wire gate, the first of its kind we had opened since leaving Coke county. A good portion of Mr. Golliday's pasture is covered in shiner oak, an exceptionally large crop of acorns being in evidence. His high grade cattle are in fine shape, the grass being high and still fairly green. The Percheron colts, as pretty as we have ever seen, came up to the car when we stopped. On through his fields, Golliday's cotton and feed crops are in excellent condition and he is looking forward to a banner yield. Golliday, who has been on the farm 12 years, being fairly certain of good rains in the near future, or in ample time to save the crops. He had not seen any grasshoppers. He is interested in staging a horse race from Midland to Dallas and has a good entry lined up. He thinks the chamber of commerce should sponsor the race. We continued on through the Prairie Lee community, the crops a-

SINGLE TAXES FOR MAN, WIFE ASKED

Magill Says Government Would Gain Near 200 Million Per Year

WASHINGTON, July 2 (AP).—Roosevelt Magill, treasury under-secretary, told the congressional committee today that the government's revenues would increase approximately $193,000,000 annually if husbands and wives were required to pay single tax joint incomes. He said that eight states, including Texas, permitted them each to report a half income.

SUBSTITUTE FOR COURT BILL MADE

Robinson Introduces New Measure to Senate For Argument

WASHINGTON, July 2 (AP).—A complete substitute for the original Roosevelt court bill was presented to the senate today with an explanation by Senator Fybinson, democratic leader, that it would permit three appointments to the supreme court during the next six months.

TAX COLLECTIONS ABOVE ESTIMATE

Spending Also Far More Than "Guess" Made By President

WASHINGTON, July 2 (AP).—The treasury reported today that tax collections had topped the president's revised estimates by $69,000,000 during the fiscal year ended Wednesday. Spending exceeded the forecast by $221,000,000. Total receipts are greater than the 1936 and the total spending has declined.

Spencer Tracy Heads Cast of New Picture At Yucca Three Days

Presented by an impressive cast, headed by Freddie Bartholomew, Spencer Tracy, Lionel Barrymore and Melvyn Douglas, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's screen version of Kipling's "Captain Courageous" opens Sunday at the Yucca Theatre. Coming from the studio that has given to the world such a powerful epic of the sea as "Mutiny on the Bounty," this Kipling masterpiece attains even greater heights in its visual and audible treatment. M-G-M acquired a sturdy Gloucester schooner off the Grand Banks, with her weather-beaten master and crew, sailed her down through the Panama Canal to the Pacific and there made the battered vessel a movie star. But first they shot tremendously impressive sequences on the Atlantic from Newfoundland down to the West Indies. Freddie Bartholomew crowns his brilliant young career in the role of the rich American boy who is swept from the deck of a liner in a gale off the Grand Banks, rescued by a fishing crew, and trained to the life of the hardy men of the sea. Spencer Tracy, as the Portuguese fisherman, is magnificent and Lionel Barrymore gives an extraordinary performance as Captain Disko, skipper of the schooner. "We're here."

Jamboree News
By BILLY NOBLE

Last night (Monday) there was a huge gathering of the scouts of Region 9 at an impressive campfire ceremony. There was a band from Iraan which furnished the music. David Morrison of Midland, a member of the Iraan band for two or three years, was one of the cornetists. As the huge group of about seven hundred scouts came together, "The Eyes of Texas" was played, inciting patriotic fervor and feeling. The entire congregation went wild with screams and yells, jumping around and shouting like wild Indians. James P. Pritch, chief executive of Region 9, made the first speech, one that aroused the deepest spark of patriotism in everybody (most of the boys were Texans). Near the end of his speech he said, "... and you, scout, with that Lone Star flag, come here—bring your flag!" A sudden funny feeling rose to the throats of every body. The band played "The Eyes of Texas," we sang, everyone whooped and hollered again with true, sincere patriotism. The future citizens of Texas, being molded into upright, honest patriotic men, felt this far-reaching wave of fervor and thrilled to its sacredness. There was a little more singing and then we were dismissed by the scoutmaster's benediction. Val Borum, an Eagle scout, member of Troop 54, was chosen Monday to serve as "orderly" for various headquarters. He served in the post office first. Tuesday afternoon he was promoted to orderly in the headquarters of the entire jamboree. Dr. James E. West and Walter W. Head's tent. Dr. West is the chief executive of the Boy Scouts of America while Head is president of the organization. Val has been a scout in Midland for only three years, recently attaining Eagle rank. The position of orderly in headquarters tent is quite an honor and he is to be commended for his work in scouting. We attended a ball game Tuesday between Washington and Boston. It ended in a tie.

Divergence of Events Offered Holiday Seekers

Holiday seekers from Midland will visit various attractions, before the resumption of business here Tuesday, it has been indicated.

Several rodeo fans and "old timers" among the ranchmen went to Stamford for the Texas Cowboy Reunion, ending a three-day engagement Saturday.

Big Spring, with its three-day rodeo Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, is expected to draw heavily from Midland at both afternoon and night shows.

Pecos, where rodeos originated in Texas more than fifty years ago, holds a two-day celebration Saturday and Sunday.

Ozona started its three-day rodeo and race meet Thursday, running through Saturday.

Brady begins Monday its twelfth annual race meet and rodeo, to run through Wednesday. Carlsbad, N. M., holds its annual July Fourth rodeo and rattlesnake derby.

Many will remain at Midland, witnessing the last of an eight-day race meet Saturday afternoon and welcoming the return of the league-leading Cardinal baseball team Sunday.

Pupils Get Free Meals
 BUENOS AIRES (AP).—The municipality of Buenos Aires has inaugurated three more free dining rooms for needy school children. These dining rooms, which are opened at the conclusion of the morning classes, provide a daily fare of macaroni soup, stew with meat, potatoes, beans and rice pudding, to several thousands of children.

University Honors Co-ed
 OXFORD, Miss. (AP).—Claire McAlpine, University of Mississippi co-ed from Stringer, Miss., has been awarded the first "M" ever received by a woman student in the school's history. The letter was presented Miss McAlpine by the Woman's Athletic Association for "outstanding participation in a campus sports activity."

Hay Salted for Safety
 ASHLAND, Ore. (AP).—Salting of hay as it is moved is believed to lessen danger of spontaneous combustion, caused by combustion. Rogue River Valley farmers said in using 250 tons of salt. The federal government regulates the salt provided for livestock pastured on public ranges to eight pounds per animal per annum.

Commerce in Alaska during 1936 was valued at $115,963,586, or about 108 times as much as the United States paid for the territory 69 years ago.

INSULATION CREW NOW IN MIDLAND

Mr. R. F. Currin, sales manager of the Modern Home Insulators, Dallas and Fort Worth, is registered at the Scharbauer. Mr. Currin is bringing his insulation truck and crew to Midland this week to insulate some homes. This Company is very popular in Midland, having the confidence of a large number of Midland people they insulated for last winter. They are state distributors for Eagle Home Insulation, having been the first insulation contractors in Texas and the third in the United States. They have done more than fifteen hundred jobs in Texas and have a large clientele of pleased customers. They insulated fifty four jobs in Midland on the last trip here and can give just that many references. Insulation seals the heat out of the house in summer, making it 10 to 15 degrees cooler and seals the heat in the house in winter, reducing fuel bills around forty per cent. Mr. Currin can be seen at the Scharbauer and will make estimates without obligation to buy. (Adv.)

Electricity has helped make him "Physically Strong"

Several hundred boys and young men from West Texas are attending the first National Boy Scout Jamboree which will continue for 10 thrill-packed days in the National Capital where 25,000 Boy Scouts from all sections of the country are representing the hundreds of thousands of Boy Scouts who could not go. In this temporary city of tents is the pick of America's young boyhood, "physically strong, mentally awake and morally straight," to quote a part of the Boy Scout Oath.

And electricity has helped make these boys "physically strong" for electricity has safeguarded the food of many of them from birth. This same electricity has provided light for safe seeing to protect young eyes from unnecessary strain.

Throughout life, these boys will find that electricity is adding to their happiness, comfort and is making life easier and more pleasant, all because it works quickly and cheaply at the snap of a switch.
