Midland, Wink Split Two Games

The league leading Midland Cardinals and the second place Wink Spudders divided a couple of drab holiday games here yesterday before one of the largest crowds of the season, the Cardinals finally winning out by a score of 11-7 in the first game, the Spudders coping the second by 6-3.

The lead in the first game changed hands four times before the Cards ever managed to get it safely in the win column. The Spudders were the first to score when Hood Wink right fielder, blasted one of Brewer's curves over the right field fence. They picked up another in the third when Atkinson singled, advanced on an infield out and came home on Fullenwider's single.

After four of the Cards struck out in the first two innings, they finally got the range on Atkinson in the third, making four runs on five singles and a passed ball.

The two run lead, however did not hold up as Wink when one in the fifth on consecutive errors by Orr and Stein mixed in with a walk, one in the sixth on a walk, single and another error and then went three runs ahead in the seventh when they got to Brewer for two singles, a double and a home run. Atkinson led off the inning with a four base lick.

The Cards pulled up within one run in their half of the seventh when Randall walked and Nook hit a long home run over the left field wall and went four runs ahead in the eighth when Brewer, first up, was hit by a pitched ball, went to second on a sacrifice by Murphy, Orr walked, Randall singled to score Brewer, Nook was intentionally walked to fill the bases, Orr scored when Ward led off of Atkinson's wide ones get past him and roll to the stand, Serafine walked to load the bases again, Stein singled, scoring Randall and Nook, Schiffer flew out deep in center to send Serafine across with the final tally. Brewer shut out the Spudders in order in the ninth, pitching only five balls to retire Fullenwider, Hood and Guynes.

The Spudders started out like they intended to make a runaway of the second game, Barnhill doubling and scoring on a double by Wano, the latter scoring on a single by Fullenwider.

The Cards made one in their half of the first on an infield error and three hits, but Wink again increased their lead two runs in the third when they put together a double, infield error and single for a tally.

The home club got one in the third on consecutive hits by Nook, Serafine and Stein and finally tied up the score in the fifth when Nook led off with a double and came home on a single by Serafine.

The game was lost in the seventh when Barnhill singled, advanced to second on a sacrifice by Wano, Fullenwider got on base on Stein's error, Hood hit what appeared to be a perfect double play to Davis but he muffed it, finally picking it up and throwing wild to Frost at home to let Barnhill score, Fullenwider scored while Serafine was throwing out Guynes at first and Hood came home on a single by Ward.

Hay retired three Cards in order in the last half of the seventh, causing Orr and Randall to ground weakly to second and making Nook hoist a high fly to the same spot.

Good and bad baseball was mixed throughout both games, fielders coming through with catches to rob batters of seeming base hits, then missing set-ups. The best catch of the day was turned in by Randall in the first game when he raced almost to the centerfield fence, leaped high into the air and caught over his shoulder a ball hit by Reeves.

Brewer did not have his usual amount of stuff in the first game, allowing the Spudders 10 hits and five earned runs, more in both departments than he had allowed in his previous four wins.

CASUALTIES OVER NATION ARE HELD LOW FOR HOLIDAY

Order Prevails Here As Crowds Spend Week-End Away

Order prevailed and no casualties or accidents were reported here on the first half of the July fourth holidays, a check-up this morning revealed.

Hospitals reported no accident victims. Officers said the streets were free of drunkenness or disorder.

The only violence reported locally was a fight in Mexican town in which one participant received minor knife wounds. Officers expected this morning to make one or two arrests in connection with the affray.

AUTO ACCIDENTS LEAD FATALITIES

(By the Associated Press)

America counted at least 213 dead yesterday (Sunday) from Fourth of July accidents, but fireworkers were not blamed for a single fatality.

Automobile accidents were responsible for 138 of the deaths as the nation took to the highways to celebrate the double holiday.

Drownings took 43 lives and sundry other accidents—explosions, airplane crashes, mine mishaps, grade crossing collisions—accounted for 32 more deaths.

The day's toll fell far below last year's total of 346, but soared above that of 1935, 1934 and 1933.

America's celebration yesterday of its 161st birthday cost the lives of at least 143 persons—but not one death was attributed to the use of fireworks.

The figure was the smallest in the last decade and a tremendous drop from a total of 346 posted last year.

The total of 143 deaths, however, was based on reports received up to 7 p. m. (CST) last night, and there was a possibility it would be considerably increased by tonight because of the double holiday.

The heaviest loss of life in a single accident was reported near Valparaiso, Fla., where five persons were drowned when a motorboat with 42 persons aboard capsized. Fishing boats rescued survivors who clung to the overturned craft.

Texas Accidents

Jo Ann McCoy, 5, of Escobas Field, was fatally injured late last night in an automobile collision while en route to Mirando City.

Miss Leo Coffee, 29, of Borger, was fatally injured today in an automobile-combine collision northeast of Amarillo. The car in which she was riding overturned several times after the crash with the combine, which was attached to a tractor.

Yesterday Forest Moseley, 30, of Grand Saline, died from injuries in an automobile-truck crash at Mineola, and at Corsicana two negroes, Vanilla Cross and E. L. Motton, were fatally injured when the automobile in which they were riding struck a bridge railing.

Mrs. Minnie Morano, 55, was fatally injured at Houston when a train struck her stalled car.

McCraw Injured

MALLEN, July 5 (AP)—Attorney General William McCraw of Texas and eleven other persons, including Mrs. McCraw, were injured in an automobile collision about 25 miles west of McAllen yesterday afternoon.

The accident occurred when the automobile bearing the McCraw party, en route from Rio Grande City to McAllen, collided with a pick-up truck in which eight persons were riding.

Dr. S. Joe McKinney at a McAllen hospital where the injured were taken said the attorney general's injuries consisted of minor lacerations and a scalp wound.

The physician said Mrs. McCraw suffered lacerations and a possible fractured left arm. He said an X-ray would be taken to determine whether the arm was broken.

District Attorney Rogers Kelly and Sheriff R. T. Daniel of Hidalgo County, driving a short distance behind the McCraw car, said the accident occurred when the truck drove on the main highway from a side road. Kelly said it was his opinion the accident was unavoidable.

Fred Guerra and Horace Guerra, Sr., prominent Rio Grande Valley residents, were riding with the McCraws. They were slightly injured.

Body of Small Boy Taken to Oklahoma

The body of Gerald Wayne Carter, seven year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill F. Carter, who died Saturday morning was taken to Tallahassee, Okla., for burial Sunday.

The child died Saturday morning from an acute attack of appendicitis, before an operation could be performed, it was reported.

The Carters live at the Atlantic tank farm where Mr. Carter is an employe of the company.

Escape Alcatraz? Only Release Order or Lily Lets You Out, 'Bigfoot' Finds

This is the last of four stories on life "Inside Alcatraz," related by the first convict ever to be paroled from the federal prison for incorrigibles.

BY A. W. "BIGFOOT" DAVIS
(As told to Douglas Hicks)

THERE are just two ways to leave Alcatraz. One is the way I left Jan. 13, a free man, conditional release papers in my pocket I had earned by good conduct.

The other is feet first, with a lily in your hand.

Escape?

A carrier pigeon couldn't escape from "The Rock."

Rip tides slip past the jagged slopes. You wouldn't have one in 100 chances—if you could get to the water.

You can't get to the water. The deadshot guards, the iron discipline and lockstep, no-slip rules; the never-sleeping, never-falling snitch machine; the precipices all make the bay unreachable.

Joe Bowers was accused of trying to reach the water. He wasn't trying to, the way I heard it.

But he reached it, or the rocks near it dead.

Joe Was Stir Crazy

IT happened before I came, but the boys told me Joe was going crazy and used to dive on his face into jagged rocks in the yard seeming to think it was a pool.

He was put on the incinerator detail. A guard caught Joe on the fence just outside the incinerator and just three feet inside a 70-foot drop to the rocks.

They told me Joe, nutty, had gone outside to get a piece of paper which had blown over. Maybe he was trying to break, I don't know.

The guard's first shot missed, the second caught him in the hip, the third through the chest side-wise. He fell outside, rolled off the edge and fell 70 feet.

The guards take no chances. One day a man stuck his head out of the laundry building and was looking out across the rock.

He couldn't have got out of that window and gone any place without a pair of wings. But —

Bloom!

A guard's gun spoke up, and a piece of cement as big as my fist flew out of the wall not so far from the prisoner's head. He lost interest in things outside the room quick.

Afraid of a Trap

THAT gives you an idea how it is.

You can't pick up a guard's cigarette butt and smoke it.

You can't have any money on you. I used to find it when I was cleaning up the Officers' Club, look at it and pass by.

It might be a trap.

After each meal every knife, every fork, every spoon is checked.

You shave three times per week.

When you want to shave, you put a match box on your door grill.

An inmate orderly puts a blade on the matchbox.

When he comes around again, the blade had better be back on the matchbox.

You can go no place without a guard. You and the guard cannot pass a tower without a signal.

But They Do Fight

HOW does a man have a fist fight in a place like that, you wonder? It has to be managed.

Maybe in some corner of a building something is occupying a guard at the moment. Away down at the other corner of the building men are grouped during smoke period.

A quick swapping of licks—it has to be plenty quick—and it's over.

There are books and magazines to read, but there's censorship which would burn up the devil himself.

Get the "Don't Cares"

A LOT of the guys get the don't cares, and no wonder.

So it's no wonder either that there is a good deal of cutting up and foolishness in the place. Some of the men couldn't make it if there wasn't.

One guy had a habit of singing at night. He claimed he sang in his sleep, but I think he was awake.

The guard would come to his cell. There he would be with his eyes closed. They suspected him but they never caught him.

One thing about The Rock, they don't suspect you and then beat it out of you until you tell. Not even mumm time I had to do 72 days of good time I had lost in the transfer to Alcatraz. Then there was 30 days to serve of investigative time for the $1000 fine I couldn't pay.

It's hard to say how you feel as you get short. You just get scared. You don't know how your friends will take you. You know you will run into police and maybe have trouble.

One day you feel like talking and singing, next day you get all dummed up.

I was notified when I made out my conditional release papers, same as for parole except I didn't have to have a job, that the date would be Jan. 14.

I thought it was to be Jan. 12 and went to Warden Johnston. We decided it was Jan. 13.

The other inmates asked me 1001 questions as I got shorter and shorter. I got lots of advice.

The Old Alcatraz Jealousy

ABOUT one-third, I guess, told me to go and get even. I think a lot of them were sore and wanted me to get in trouble and come back—the old jealousy.

Two-thirds told me to get out and stay out.

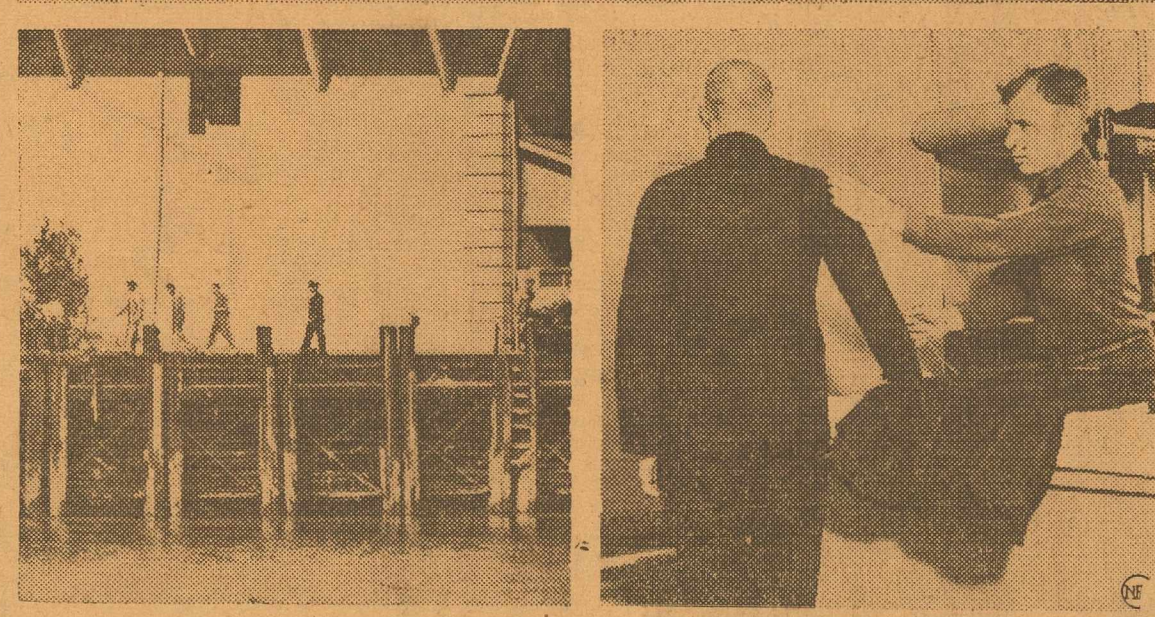

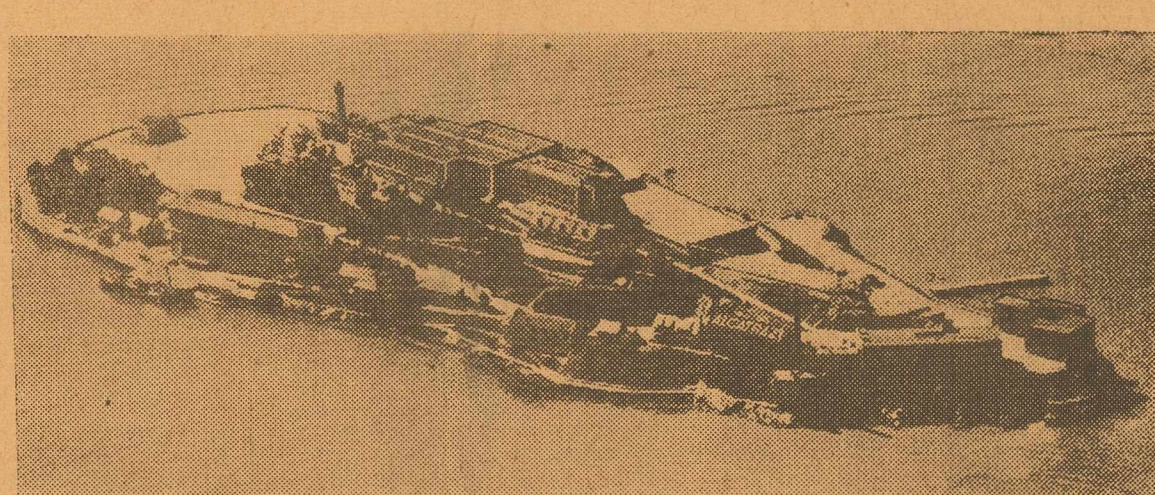

"I've been in your shoes once," said "Machine Gun" Kelly. "That was when I got out of Leavenworth and had a chance to keep my nose clean."

"Hell I wish I had known then

Jittery the Last Few Weeks

AND now I'll tell about how I left.

I was nervous and jittery my last few weeks.

An air view of Alcatraz, upper photo, shows it gaunt and lonely and formidable. At the left below, prisoners work on the docks. Barbed wire is strung between the piling. Leaving Alcatraz, lower right, the prisoner gets his "main line" blue suit, black shoes, cap and overcoat.

As soon as I had done my minimum time I had to do 72 days of good time I had lost in the transfer to Alcatraz. Then there was 30 days to serve of investigative time for the $1000 fine I couldn't pay.

what I know now.

"Get out, Dave. Scratch with the chickens if you have to, but keep away from here."

Harvey Bailey said: "If you ever come back while I'm here I'll beat hell out of you. I hope to be out shortly myself, and I'll help you stay out if I get out."

"Take me with you," a lot of guys said for a joke.

They grinned, but their eyes meant it.

I worked all day Jan. 12, but could hardly sleep that night, I kept saying.

Sent Back to Cell

THAT 20 minutes for breakfast the morning of Jan. 13 seemed for the first time to be about twice too long. Why couldn't a man eat in 10 minutes?

I had to be on my way! I had places to go.

But when I started out after breakfast to get a haircut the guard made me go back and put me in my cell.

I walked up and down, up and down. I lay down. I tried to read. I jumped up again. What could have gone wrong?

I thought of 1001 things. Maybe somebody framed me! Maybe—

Dinnertime, and no word from the warden. I didn't take much on my tray, had a hard time getting it down.

The giant United States aircraft carrier Lexington and four destroyers pushed westward from San Diego, taking 57 fighting planes and 3,900 men.

Southward, from Honolulu, steamed the first line battleship Colorado, with three more naval planes and 1,200 men, seeking the world girdling aviatrix, Amelia Earhart, and her navigator, Frederick J. Noonan, last heard from at 2:25 (CST) Friday afternoon as their plane neared the end of a 2,750 mile hop from New Guinea.

I was taken down to get the haircut. I was in the barber's chair when Al Capone came in.

"Be sure and give Big Dave a good haircut," he grinned to the barber. "It's his last one in Alcatraz."

After the haircut Al followed me into the bathroom. We talked about 40 minutes.

We finished about 3:30 p. m., and I was taken back to my cell.

Then out to the front office to be dressed out.

And-Out at Last

I PUT on a regular "main line" blue suit, a 10-cent rainbow-colored tie. Instead of the black navy officers' oxford I was supposed to get, I got a pair of tan shoes blacked over, the blacking getting on my white cotton socks quick.

But my overcoat was a good one, regular navy issue. They made me take a cap, brown blanket material, which I put in my pocket and didn't try on until I got to Texas—and found it was too small.

I got on the McDowell, the speedboat, and we chugged away across the bay. I stayed down in the cabin until we were half way over.

Then I got up on deck and took a last look at The Rock.

It got dimmer and farther away, but not as quick as I would have liked.

I knew there were nearly 300 men on it, but it still reminded me of a big, squatly tombstone.

Radio Operator Gets Sound of Voice From Man

STEAMERS RUSH

"From Earhart" Said To Have Been in Air Message

HONOLULU, July 5 (AP)—Searchers were spurred to high speed early today as a radio message, presumably from Amelia Earhart in response to broadcasts from KGMB, Honolulu commercial station was heard.

A Pan-American radio station operator took a quadrant of radio signals and said the message, if it was authentic, was roughly in the vicinity of Gardner and McKean, in the Phoenix group of islands, and approximately 150 miles south of Howland.

If the signals were a hoax, the operator said, they were being broadcast from the coast of one of the islands in the Phoenix group. The coast guard messages probably came from the same locality where a "squeal" was heard last night.

The operator asserted that he heard a voice believed to be that of a man, saying: "FROM EARHART." It was followed by a series of undecipherable numbers.

As radio men swept the air lanes with every kind of modern communication at their command, to locate the source of the messages, American warships sped toward Howland from two directions.

Funeral at Stanton Today For Mrs. Crudup; Had Lengthy Illness

Funeral services for Mrs. Nore Mae Crudup, 37, who died at her home north of Germania late Sunday, will be held at Courtney at 4 p. m. today, at the First Methodist church. Her death followed a long illness.

The Rev. Mason, pastor of the Methodist church at Courtney, will officiate at the service. The body today was at the Ellis funeral home here. Survivors include Mrs. Crudup's mother, two small daughters, two sisters and a brother.

Manufactures Motor Boats on Land; They Work

Manufacturing boats on dry land is no object to Frank Waters.

Although "The Demonstrator," ten-horse powered motor boat was made at Frank's place on Dallas street, it performed nobly before Johnnie Pliska's camera when tried out on the well filled lake at Red Bluff.

And Frank has the photographs to show for it. Waters, who has been manufacturing motor boats all his life, has made them his hobby for several years. And now he foresees a thriving business in the manufacture of them in his own shop.

With Red Bluff and other West Texas waters bidding boatmen to come on, he is ready for the rush and is taking orders for boats. His "Demonstrator" is ready for exhibition to those interested in seeing the real thing.

Business Area of McCamey Suffers Heavy Damage in Sunday Blaze

MCCAMEY, July 5.—Fire which started in the Grand Theatre, a block south of Main street, swept northward and threatened the entire downtown section last night, but finally was brought under control by volunteer fighters. The flames, fanned by a south breeze, crept steadily toward the old two-story McCamey Hotel, a frame structure, but were whipped down before more than six business houses had been devastated.

Bob McKinney, fireman, and H. P. Priddy, manager of the theatre, sustained slight injuries, the former falling from a ladder and Priddy being slightly burned in early efforts to control the fire. Firemen from Crane and Fort Stockton rushed to the scene and assisted in combating the blaze.

Starting about 7:30 p. m., the fire raged for three hours, being then reduced to smouldering embers which continued to throw out smoke and intermittent flames throughout the night. No estimate had been made of the loss until a check up could be made today.

Six businesses were damaged by the fire, which originated between the ceiling and the roof of the Grand Theatre. No one affected would venture an estimate of the loss.

The Grand Theatre, with a seating capacity of 1,000 was declared a total loss. The show is owned by a Dallas circuit, H. P. Priddy, manager, said the structure would be cleared away and a new one built in its place.

He said the building, tile and stucco, was fully covered by insurance. Amount was not disclosed.

Equipment of five other places, which adjoined the theatre edifice, was saved, but all the quarters were badly damaged by fire, smoke, and water. The stores were Coney Island, Electric Service Co., Towler Radio Shop, Vogue Beauty Shop, West Texas Auto Parts Distributors.

A defective exhaust motor, part of the cooling system was believed responsible for the blaze. The fire started at 7:35 near the motor in the ceiling at the rear of the building and spread rapidly under the roof before it was noticed.

Occupants evacuated quickly. Only a tiny girl refused to leave.

Sally Rands Begin Early to Vex Directors of San Francisco Fair

SA FRANCISCO, (U.P.)—With the opening of the Golden Gate International Exposition already less than two years away, its directors are confronted with the problem of deciding whether a nude attraction will be necessary.

Fair authorities have been informed that, in the history of American expositions it has been usually the "nudity" aspect that has lingered longest in the memories of those who attended.

The Chicago 1893 World's Fair started it off with "Little Egypt." In 1933 the Windy City had recourse to the gracious lines of Sally Rand. The 1915 San Francisco exposition left a lingering memory by its nude picture of "Stella," and the San Diego exposition of last year, with its nudist queen, Zorine, advanced the cause of nudism throughout the United States.

So far, directors of the Golden Gate exposition have fought shy of the question of nudity at applications from concessionaries are piling up and it is regarded as certain that the question must be finally faced.

In case the "nudist" members of the board of directors triumph one of the likeliest concessionaries to win out is one who wants to stage the "nudity" angle in the form of mermaids swimming in a glass tank. The mermaids would have a silver appendage fastened to their and would wear nothing. One mermaid would dive into the tank and swim around as long

Flaunting Blood of Slain Picket

As the body of a slain picket was carried away, these angry steel strikers at Beaver Falls, Pa., smeared his blood on the pavement on this sign and held it up for all to see. The picket, George Mike, was injured fatally when a deputy sheriff fired a gas gun into a crowd at close range. The deputy said the gun went off accidentally.

A Whole Shower of Disapproval

If the photographer was asking Judy Canova to register disapproval for this picture, it's almost a cinch the scene won't have to be made over. Judy is seen in character as a "rain-maker's" girl friend in a new movie, and she seems to think the idea is all wet. The film also calls on Judy for a bubbling bathtub scene, but of course she doesn't have to wear the new hat in that.

Motor Vehicles So Numerous Now Everyone In U. S. Can Ride at Once

WASHINGTON, (AP) — There are enough motor vehicles for everyone in the United States to take a ride at the same time, according to registration figures compiled by the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads.

Registrations during 1936 reached an all-time high of 28,221,291, of which 24,197,685 were passenger vehicles and 4,023,606 trucks and tractor trucks. These figures have been increasing at approximately 150,000 a month this year.

The bureau said registration in 1936 increased nearly 2,000,000 over 1935 and surpassed the former all-time high of 1930 by 1,700,000 vehicles. Total registrations are expected to reach the 30,000,000 mark some time next year.

Some idea of the number of automobiles and trucks can be gained by assuming that a highway wide enough to accommodate all could be built from New York to Los Angeles. It would take a 37-lane highway with an automobile for each 20 feet.

Every state showed an increase in registration over the previous year. Registrations in 16 states increased more than 10 per cent over 1935 figures. The average increase for the entire United States was 7.6 per cent.

Registration receipts amounted to $259,793,000. Trucks and tractor trucks composed less than 15 per cent of the registrations but accounted for nearly 24 per cent of the receipts.

New York state led both in the number of vehicles, 2,459,542, and in receipts, $46,291,000. California had almost as many vehicles, 2,327,984, but receipts were only $21,087,000, less than half those of New York.

Pennsylvania with 1,918,116 vehicles, was second in receipts with lum, a Midland man who doesn't much want the institution said he sure was afraid we will get it.

From what I can hear, Midland had got by the fourth of July very quietly, up to this morning. I hope the youngsters continue to be just a little bit careful until all the fireworks are shot up. And I hope the grownups will be careful enough to go where they are going and get back safely without motor mishaps.

The Stamford rodeo surely is to be commended. They never hold a show without a few celebrities to help draw the crowds. With Governor Allred, Paul Whiteman and a few others, they packed 'em in again this year. We ought to bring some of the big shots out to our Labor Day rodeo, even if one of them is Joe Louis.

I heard a prominent Midland man say Saturday that he predicts better horse races here in years to come than we have had under the pari-mutuel system. He said a lot of people don't like to sit there for thirty minutes between races watching people go crazy with betting, but that with rodeo and races going on all the time, there would be thousands on hand where we have been having hundreds.

Exploration for oil has been started on the east side of Ector county, with announcement of a test on the Gist ranch. First thing you know, we may be like Jim Kelly of Stanton, afraid we will get an oil field. I heard it unofficially that a lot of exploration may be started in a few months east of the Odessa-Andrews road, and not all of it in Ector county. We may have oil on all sides of us soon, further making our headquarters position valuable to the oil men.

I see by the papers where a citizens committee at Odessa has taken an option on a site, looking into the possibility of erecting a 12-story office building. Due to the fact that a twelve story building can't throw a shadow twenty miles I believe the idea is all right.

The other day when our committee started to Big Spring to meet the Board of Control members who are out looking over sites proposed for the new insane asy-

BOOK REVIEW

By A. W.

THE CRUSAIDING COMMONER. A close-up of William Jennings Bryan and his times, Dr. Charles McDaniel Rosser, Mathis, Van Nor and Company, Dallas.

The Crusading Commoner is written by Dr. Rosser of Dallas and published by a Dallas publishing house, which should make the book doubly interesting for Texans.

In 1895 young Dr. Rosser saw a picture of Bryan in "The Toledo Blade" with a characteristic Bryan statement about the president underneath it. He wanted to meet the man that would make such a statement; the opportunity came when Bryan made a visit to Dallas. They became friends and much of the book is made up of intimate anecdotes, conversations, and correspondence between these two.

Rosser played a role in the convention of 1896 by acting as intermediary between Ben Tillman and Bryan. The author said that Bryan expected the presidential nomination as early as 1895 and that if elected he planned to appoint Tillman to the treasury department and Senator Stone to the department of state.

We are informed that many of Bryan's friends, including Dr. Rosser, wanted Bryan to stand for the Democratic presidential nomination in Baltimore in 1912 against Wilson, but that Bryan was unwilling to do so. The author believes that Champ Clark deserted Bryan in stead of Bryan Clark.

We are given new details of Bryan's resignation from the cabinet over the crisis brought about by the sinking of the Lusitania. Dr. Rosser believes that Bryan was the one who remained faithful to his convictions, that it was Wilson who was disloyal.

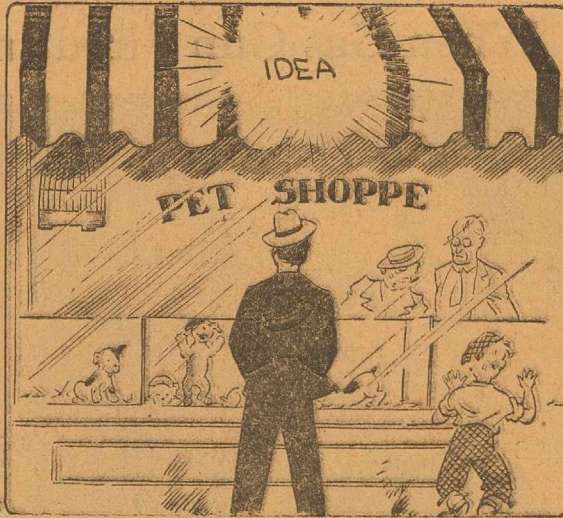

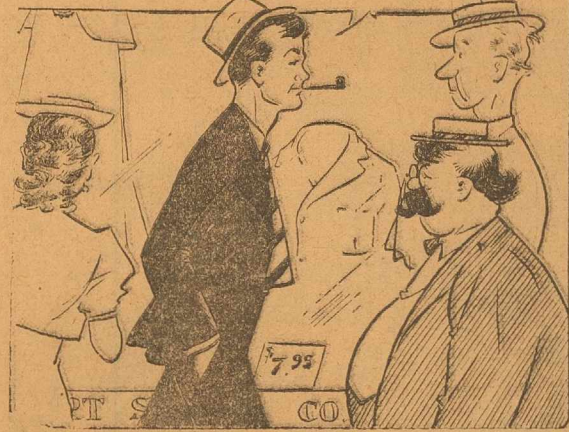

The book contains much interesting information on Texas politics and the opinions of outstanding Texans on Bryan. Bryan is shown as a warm-hearted, sympathetic, charming character. Mencken may not appreciate this biography, but the people of the South who knew Bryan, who heard him orate, or who were his warm followers because of the principles he advocated will read "The Crusading Commoner" with whole-hearted approval. Dr. Rosser feels that Bryan lived before his time, for then many of his ideas were thought impractical, visionary, and even unpatriotic. The author points out that Bryan would have approved both the New Freedom and the New Deal. Most of the domestic policies which he advocated have been adopted, and most of his foreign policies have been accepted. He is thoroughly convinced that Bryan was the truest representative of American democracy and the Democratic party during his time.

RUINS DISCLOSE INDIAN CRADLE IN SOUTHWEST; ARIZONA MESA IS OLDEST

HOPI INDIAN RESERVATION, Ariz., July 5 (UP)—The origin of the famous Hopi Indian ceremonials may be discovered this summer by a group of Harvard University scientists who have spent most of two years here seeking evidence to fill many unwritten chapters in the Southwest's 1,600-year history.

John O. Brew of the Peabody Museum has announced a long-term program of excavation of "hundreds of Hopi ruins scattered along the windswept mesa of the Jeddito valley. Additionally, he reported the findings of the scientists' two years of intensive research. He summarized them thusly: 1. This region is part of the oldest continuously inhabited area in the U. S. and holds an archeological record of the rise and fall of a great people. 2. Test diggings have revealed the progressive record of the people about 300 A. D. Gay Paintings Preserved 3. Fifty gaily-colored, well-preserved wall paintings were found buried in kivas and showed the development of Indian art from pure geometric design to the first elementary attempts at realism. He said they will be significant for tracing origins of the spectacular Hopi religious festivals and the intricate Hopi social system. 4. A clear picture has been drawn of the true effects of the first impact of invading white civilization on a highly developed aboriginal people. Brew said the long program now planned will uncover "as far as possible every aspect of Indian life in this valley from its earliest occupation."

Hundreds of dwelling sites will be examined. Ruins, large and small, will be excavated, and tested to reach sources of important supplies of pottery, clay, stone and miners. Ancient methods of fuel handling and firing pottery also will be sought.

Test Made at 61 Sites The discovery of the Hopi murals, Brew reported, was the most important achievement of last year's expedition. Awatovi was selected for first elaborate testing from 61 archeological sites. He described the murals of Awatovi as "running for a quarter mile along the south rim of Antelope mesa, and extending back over the mesa top about 300 yards." Awatovi was the scene of one of the most notorious massacres of the Southwest, still discussed in hushed voices by descendants of its participants. The tiny village was one of the first Hopi centers encountered by Coronado's men in their march of 1540. The Hopi and the white men were close friends until 1680 when the Indians joined their pueblo neighbors and ejected the Spaniards. The massacre was detonated, most authorities agree, when the people of Awatovi welcomed the Spaniards back several years later in defiance of their red brothers. 300 Victims of Massacre In 1799 the neighboring villagers attacked the Awatovi people and slaughtered the 800 adults and razed the town. Thus, after 1,600 years, one of primitive Arizona's most important communities was only a ruined city. Brew's report disclosed the scientists have gathered and listed more than 150,000 potsherds (fragments) which give detailed pic-

When Gas Gun Fired Into Crowd Killed Picket

Tear gas drifts over the two men and trickling blood forms a darkening pool on the sidewalk as a fellow picket stoops to pick up the body of striking George Mike, 39, outside the gates of the Moltrup Steel Products Co. at Beaver Falls, Pa. Mike was fatally injured when a deputy sheriff fired a gas gun, accidentally, he said, into a crowd of strikers at close range. The projectile struck Mike in the head and he went down on his face. Notice the flags flying in the background, and the buildings of the Moltrup plant. Mike's death was the 13th of the seven-state steel strike.

Casino Sets New High in The Show World at Present

DALLAS, July 5.—The Pan American Exposition at Dallas has taken the top names in show business—designers, lighting experts, costumers, composers, singers, dancers, comedians—and produced the "perfect" revue. The show is presented in a 2000-seat, air-conditioned Casino, built in blue and chromium beauty into municipal auditorium in Exposition Park. There's a reason it's a hit; it's costing a million dollars. It's the kind of a show that a preview crowd paid a sawbuck to see, and thousands nightly are seeing its regular run for one-tenth of that admission. It has eleven smash hits, and you see them for one thin dime apiece, at the dollar-and-tax cost. Stars that make the show are Then, before, between and after shows, dancing is to the tune of Ted Fiorito and his orchestra, with the featured entertainers the Three Debutantes, Muzzy Marcellino and Stanley Hickman. Pio-Rito's engagement will be followed by Rudy Vallee and company, then Phil Harris' orchestra and, in September, the swing king, Benny Goodman. That show would have to be a hit, but the making of it started many weeks ahead of its opening. When the exposition paid $100,000 to George Preston Marshall for a few months of directing its program of entertainment and sports, that sportsman-producer turned on all force. For the Casino itself he employed Jo Mielziner, 36-year-old Paris-born artist who has designed the settings and scenes for a large share of the Broadway successes of the last fifteen years. Mielziner brought George Gebhardt to set up startling effects in lighting. For costumes, to be spotlighted in the cool, blue and chromium setting created to the Mielziner design, the director commissioned the famed Constance DePinna, who worked under supervision of Charles LeMaire. Chester Hale, long-famed producer, was brought in to stage the production, and music for it all is under conductor Ray Kavanaugh, musical director of Earl Carroll hits on Broadway for ten years. For music the show drew on compositions by Sammy Fain and Irving Kahal, who have given the show the stirring "El Gauch," and lilting
