WEST TEXAS: Partly cloudy tonight and Wednesday; possibly showers.

VOLUME IX [(P) MEANS ASSOCIATED PRESS] MIDLAND, TEXAS, TUESDAY, JULY 13, 1937 [(U.P) MEANS UNITED PRESS] Number 108

SHOWERS COVER MUCH OF COUNTY FIRST OF WEEK

Falling in the space of twenty minutes, rain amounting to .08 of an inch at Midland and .59 of an inch at the army airdrome further benefited grass and crops Monday afternoon.

Later in the evening, clouds indicated good showers to the northeast and east of Midland. The shower here fell between 3:40 and 4 p. m., as did the one at the airport.

The precipitation in the city of Midland approached the one inch mark, earlier showers having fallen over the week end.

Although rains were not general, grass had greened up considerably in some sections, ranchers reported. Growing crops also had been given impetus in the few days of showers and cooler temperatures.

Much of the county has been assured good crops, and, with additional showers in the next week or two, many other farms will make crops.

By The Associated Press

Showers and clouds partially cooled the nation today from week long scorching temperatures. More rain was predicted for today, probably dry and warm tomorrow.

An Associated Press survey showed that 357 persons had died from causes attributable to the heat wave.

Club Girl to Get Trip to A. & M. Short Course

Funds to assist a Midland county 4-H club girl to attend the annual summer short course at the A. & M. college were appropriated at a meeting of the chamber of commerce board of directors Monday night.

This year's winner of the trip is Pansy Lear, 13, of the Cotton Flat 4-H club. She won the award as wardrobe supervisor. Her project included an inventory of clothing, list of contemplated purchase, accounting of purchase actually made and improvement of storage space in her clothes closet. Actual wardrobe expenses for the year amounted to $49.

Others who will attend the short course will be Mrs. C. G. Carden, Mrs. J. D. Bartlett and Mrs. Henry Lockard who will be voting delegates for Midland county in the Texas Home Demonstration Association. If additional delegates are permitted from Midland, Mrs. S. L. Alexander and Mrs. Leonard Hallman will attend.

Mrs. Lura Hollingsworth, county home demonstration agent, and S. A. Debnam, county agricultural agent, will attend the course.

New Air Strength Bombarbs Rebels

MADRID, July 13. (P) — Spanish government offensives, bolstered by air power never before shown, hampered the insurgents on three fronts today. Observers said the fighting was on "world war" scale, a completely new phase of civil war in size and intensity.

Meanwhile at London Britain's Eden put a new non-intervention plan before the powers.

Rock Engraved by Early Day Cowboy Brought to Museum

Tom Grammer, deputy game warden, added to the Midland County Museum collection yesterday when he brought in an engraved rock which evidently was marked in the early days of the Midland cattle country.

The rock was found by Carl Westfall in the side of a hill at the Y ranch, in Crane county, and had "L O D 87" engraved with a knife. Grammer expressed the belief that it had been left there by the well known Led Callahan when he chanced to camp or rest with a day herd at the spot.

Callahan, early day cowboy and range boss, later became an inspector for the Texas & Southwestern Cattle Raisers' Association, stationed at the Kansas City and later at Chicago stock yards. He was given national wide publicity in the American Magazine and other publications as the man who knew more cattle brands than anyone else in the world. Callahan and his family formerly lived in a small dwelling where the Percy J. Mims home now stands.

Long Candle Symbol Of Welcome Years Ago

10—Long Candle Symbol
VINYARD HAVEN, Mass. (U.P)
Candles were used as time guides in the olden days on Martha's Vineyard Island.

Records reveal that when the "boy friend" called he could tell how long he could stay by the length of the candle. If he was given a short and stubby one he knew he was an unwelcome guest. Inversely, a tall taper was a symbol of welcome.

Wives Quadruple, Love Is Trouble

Cutting through the gordian knotted marital affairs of J. Leslie Youngusband, wealthy Chicago cosmetic manufacturer pictured at upper left on the witness stand, his fourth wife, right, agreed to accept $11,500 settlement and end the divorce proceedings which dragged through Chicago courts four months, with complications of cross-bills and alienation suits. Asked if he would remarry his third wife, who stood by him during the trial and who is pictured at lower left with one of Youngusband's children by Wife No. 1, Youngusband grinned and said: "Well, you never can tell."

JAMES ROOSEVELT APPEARS BEFORE INQUIRY BOARD

WASHINGTON, July 13. (P) — James Roosevelt, eldest son of the President, made an unheralded appearance before the tax inquiry committee today to deny that he had any interest in a Bahamas personal holding company.

Rep. Treadway of Massachusetts demanded that young Roosevelt submit his income tax report for 1935 for study by the committee, and Roosevelt said he was willing. However, the committee declined to press the demand.

Shortly afterwards, the names of William Randolph Hearst, publisher; Jacob Ruppert, baseball magnate, and William Paley, president of the Columbia Broadcasting Co., were mentioned by O. John Rogge, counsel for the securities commission.

Fire Death of Husband Leads to Murder Charge

POST, July 13. (P) — Twenty-one-year-old Cioe Johnson was charged with murder Monday afternoon after 50 witnesses had been questioned in a court of inquiry which sought to learn the cause of death early Sunday of Bob Johnson, the woman's 21-year-old crippled husband.

Johnson's body, almost consumed was raked from the embers of his farm shack in the Pleasant Valley community after Mrs. Johnson had fled in darkness before dawn to the home of Mrs. J. L. Northcutt and sobbed out a story of awakening to find the two-room residence aflame and rushing out just before the walls and roof collapsed—and without awakening her husband.

The pretty woman, whose parents live at Merkel, had made no indication she wished arraignment for the purpose of obtaining her liberty on bail, said County Attorney Joe Moss, who had questioned the witnesses in the court of inquiry conducted before County Judge I. A. Weakley and who Sunday night had grilled her.

The young bride was held in Garza county jail tonight.

To Lay Sideboards Around Polo Field During the Week

Laying of side boards around the new polo field at Midland Fair oval will be complete this week, it was announced today by Clarence Scharbauer, president of the fair committee. He said a meeting of members of the polo committee was held Sunday afternoon at the field, after a practice session, and it was decided to have the field ready for a game at an early date.

The ground surface of the field was declared in perfect condition, after oiling and rolling. Several prospective players are taking regular workouts with stick and ball practice.

Craft Fueling for Final Effort to Locate Amelia

HONOLULU, July 13. (P) — The aircraft carrier Lexington's great air force fueled today to skim the equator in the south Pacific in the search for Amelia Earhart and her navigator, Fred Noonan.

Officials said the carrier was expected to reach the area by dawn. It was hampered last night by a tropical storm which might delay the search today.

Composer Honored By Paul Whiteman

FORT WORTH, July 13. — Paul Whiteman, who made "Rhapsody in Blue" famous and was himself carried to loftier fame by that immortal melody, paid musical tribute over a nation-wide radio hookup Monday night to the memory of George Gershwin, composer of the Jazz classic. The program was broadcast from the studio on the grounds of the Fort Worth Frontier Fiesta where Whiteman and his band are being started throughout the summer in Billy Rose's Casa Manana Revue.

"Rhapsody in Blue" was composed for Whiteman who first presented it in a concert in Aeolian Hall in New York City in 1923 and, until Gershwin's death Sunday, he and the "King of Jazz" were close personal friends. Strains from the rhapsody are used to introduce and to close Whiteman's program on the air.

Fines Assessed Four Officers in Contempt Charges at Raymondville

Home From Gigantic Jamboree

Midland's delegation to the National Jamboree of the Boy Scouts of America, at Washington, returned home Monday night. Proclaimed as "the experience of a life time," the group reached home fresh, sound in health and strong in praise of those who provided entertainment and instruction while they visited the national capital and eastern cities. Pictured above are: (standing, left to right) Bobby York, Frank Wade Arrington, Val Borum, Buster Howard (scoutmaster), Goodrich Heil, Billy Noble and Harry Sindorf; (seated, left to right) E. J. Ragsdale, Kenneth Williams, Billy Kimbrough, John Wintan and Bobby Martin. John Scarborough not shown in the picture, also made the trip.

Boy Scouts, Home From Jamboree, Are Strong in Praise of Trip and Leaders

On a crack Pennsylvania train, about forty rollicking, happy boys laughed and played in their special coaches. For nearly seventeen days these boys had been away from their families, and, as many said, "The best part of the trip is the return home."

Included in this group were twelve Midland scouts (Bobby York left the contingent at Washington with his parents more than glad to be on the way home and eagerly watching the miles pass by under the wheels of the swiftly-moving locomotive. Of this group of twelve only eight came all the way. At St. Louis Bobby York and Harry Sindorf left to visit relatives. Kenneth Williams got off in Texarkana, while Val Borum met his parents at Marshall from whence they bid us good-bye as he parted from us at St. Louis. Thus only seven boys and a scoutmaster remained to be greeted Monday night.

The ride home was almost continuous with only a few short lay-overs on the long way back. Because of this many of the boys became restless and depended upon Darrell Wilson, our able Field Executive, to keep up the morale. Mr. Wilson said he enjoyed his "vacation" and thinks he may be able to carry on another day. After this he fears a nervous break-down which does seem inevitable. He claims to have gotten more sleep than anyone else in camp as several times he was able to get to bed by twelve o'clock.

Credit for equally trying and tiring work should also go to Scoutmaster Garland Vinson and his assistant, our own "Buster" Howard. These two, with the help of George Miller, Senior Patrol leader, "bossed" Jamboree Troop, 22, for some sixteen days.

With credit given where credit is due we will continue. As soon as the Buffalo Trail boys arrived in Sweetwater, the headquarters of the council, they received a rousing welcome. From then on, as we would stop in "home towns" along the way, each group was given a royal reception. Like-wise when Midland's own finally pulled into the station at about 10:20 Monday night they were greeted by many parents and friends interested in them and the trip.

I suppose many families were up quite late last night listening to the many experiences had by the scouts of Midland. For the next few days several scouts will be indeed busy reviewing the trip time and time again. Some will probably be forced to get a photograph. This would be rather convenient.

But, now that we are back, all of us will join in words of thanks and appreciation to those who made it possible for so many to go, our parents, our friends, scoutmasters, and those organizations, the railroads, bus lines, and taxi cab companies which rendered their service at a sacrifice rate in order that we might have the best time in the world.

I thank you.

Invitations Mailed to Fifty Towns In Effort to Secure Large Number of Cowgirl Sponsors for Big Rodeo

Invitations were mailed this week to over fifty cities and towns of West Texas and New Mexico inviting them to send cowgirl representatives here to compete in the colorful Cowgirl Sponsor's Contest in connection with the annual Midland Cowboy Contest, September 4-5-6. The sponsors will complete for a $100 handmade saddle and other attractive prizes. Chambers of commerce and service clubs are being asked to select the sponsors for their respective towns. It is hoped to have a record breaking number of sponsors this year.

The first prize winner in last year's contest was Mrs. Louis Robertson of Pecos who won out in a field of more than twenty-five contestants.

Judging in the contest, in which no hazardous feats will be required, will be on appearance of cowgirl, appearance of horse, ability of girl to ride and ability of horse to be reined. The local rodeo committee will take care of the sponsors' mounts during the three day show. Purses and prizes totaling more than $3,500 are being offered in the rodeo events which are "open to the world." Present plans call for one of the outstanding rodeos of the southwest for 1937. Afternoon and night performances will be presented daily.

JAIL SENTENCES REMITTED AFTER JUDGE'S VERDICT

RAYMONDVILLE, July 13. (P) — County Judge W. E. McCharen today fined State Ranger Power Fenner and Game Warden Morgan Miller $50 each for contempt of court, growing out of the arrest of Louis Lamadrid, deputy constable who was investigating the mysterious disappearance of Luther and John Blanton.

Judge McCharen also assessed a fine of $50 against the Willacy county sheriff's department, saying the department could pay or the fine could be paid jointly by Sheriff E. T. Crags and Jailor Mallie Brownfield, who also were held guilty of contempt.

The three day jail sentences first assessed against Fenner and Miller were remitted. All of the defendants gave notice of appeal to the criminal court of appeals.

Gilchrist Will Accept Job as A. & M. Dean

AUSTIN, July 13. (P) — Gibb Gilchrist, state highway engineer for nine years, announced last night that he had decided to resign and accept the engineering deanship at Texas A. & M. college, tendered him recently by the board of directors.

Gilchrist said his resignation had not been given the highway commission which will appoint his successor but said he would become effective before Sept. 1. John Wood, member, said it was unlikely the commission would name a successor before Sept. 1.

Members of the commission have given no indication as to a successor. Names of several engineers were discussed in unofficial circles, among them E. P. Arneson of San Antonio, developer of master highway plans for several counties and who recently resigned as a district director for the works progress administration.

Gilchrist has served in the administration of Govs. Dan Moody, Ross S. Sterling, Miriam A. Ferguson and James V. Alford, the incumbent.

During his term as chief engineer the commission has constructed and maintained roads at a cost of more than $300,000,000 to the state and federal governments.

House Asked to Override Veto of Cheap Rate Loans

WASHINGTON, July 13. (P) — The agriculture committee voted today to ask the house to override the president's veto of legislation continuing for two years the three and a half per cent interest rate loans by the federal land banks.

President Roosevelt Monday vetoed a bill which would have set the rate of interest of Federal Land Bank loans at 3 1/2 per cent for the fiscal year 1938 and at 4 per cent for the fiscal year of 1939.

The Chief Executive returned the measure without his signature on the ground it would cost the Government $52,900,000 during the two-year period in the form of what would amount to "gifts to individual borrowers from the Federal Treasury."

Behind The Scenes In Washington

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Reporter-Telegram Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 13.—The names and favorite legal tricks of various tax evaders and avoiders have now been paraded by the Treasury Department before the joint congressional committee, and it now remains for Congress to plug up some loop holes in order to make the job of some 45,000 private tax lawyers that much harder.

But it would be a mistake to say that the Treasury had not lost a few tail feathers in the process. It ought to be said for the Treasury that its primary motive in putting on this show was to rouse Congress to the point of some remedial legislation, thereby increasing revenues. But there is circumstantial evidence that the administration did hope to make plenty of political capital out of the effort, and that the Treasury was unnecessarily choosy in selecting the names which it tossed out to the lions.

The Treasury took its first spanking when conservative leaders in Congress turned down its proposal to have Treasury agents hold hearings and take charge of the publicity. Then Vice President Garner and speaker Bankhead took pains to appoint the most conservative members available to the joint committee further spiking administration hopes of bringing the evaders and avoiders here in person.

One of the first committee reactions was to ask the Treasury, in effect, "Where the devil have you boys been?"

Although it has been losing hundreds of thousands of dollars a year over a five-year period through a tax evasion scheme involving fake foreign insurance companies, and agents had reported frauds and evasions through the scheme, no action was taken until February. And, of course, the general question was raised why the Treasury hadn't made its public exposures long before.

They May Be Lobbyists, Too

QUEERER still was the fact that the Treasury, long acquainted with the personal holding company method of tax avoidance, was now foaming at the mouth about it, but as recently as last year Congress—apparently with Treasury approval—slashed personal holding company taxes heavily, some by 50 per cent. Undoubtedly certain tax lawyer-lobbyists here did that job, but why the Treasury and the White House let them get away with it continues to be puzzling.

The fact that thousands of tax lawyers have been graduated into private practice from the Bureau of Internal Revenue after intensive courses at government expense—in the latest, and most improved methods of tax evasion was also brought out. This racket flourished through the Wilson-Harding-Coolidge-Hoover period and is still going strong.

Secretary Andrew Mellon once called for a survey of tax avoidance methods.

Later he used several of those methods himself.

And it stands revealed that Undersecretary of the Treasury Roswell Magill, in general charge of presentation of evidence before the committee, once—as a lawyer—wrote two or three books which told wealthy taxpayers how to "minimize" taxes.

You might suppose Congress would now pass some drastic legislation covering government tax experts who resign to handle private tax cases and give tax advice. Possibly it will. But it seldom does act where the interests of lawyers and lobbyists are involved. Scores, if not hundreds, of members of Congress bear in mind that some day they may have to settle down here to embark on a lawyer-lobbyist career for themselves—as hundreds of other members have done before them.

Anyone but Ham Fish

A CERTAIN amount of odor has been stirred up Congressman Hamilton Fish's charges that President Roosevelt himself has been guilty of tax avoidance or evasion. There would be more general interest in this, however, if the charges came from anyone but Ham Fish.

Somewhere between the Treasury and Department of Justice stands responsibility for the $76,000 tax suit against Mayor Daniel Shields of Johnstown, Pa., who has led the anti-union movement in the steel strike there. The administration is pro-labor, of course, but this case dates back to 1925.

Shields was convicted, retired, reconvicted and sentenced after a prohibition raid on a Johnstown brewery. Shields finally was pardoned by Roosevelt on recommendation of Senator Guffey. But now the government decides he should pay taxes on 12,000 barrels of illegal beer and 400 gallons of liquor seized in 1925. Quite a lot of people here who don't think much of Shields, don't think much of that tax action at this late date, either.

Athletes on Hand At Pan-American

DALLAS.—Athletes from the four corners of the Western Hemisphere have been congregating in Dallas for the past few days to compete in the Pan American Games, an international sports meet costing $50,000 to stage, offered first to Pan American Exposition visitors July 15 to 18.

Second only to the world Olympics held in Los Angeles in 1932, the Games will make athletic history in this nation. Never before have Uncle Sam's crack stars competed against a field composed only of men from South and Central America and Canada.

Events will be held in the Cotton Bowl, a concrete stadium seating 46,000. All events are free to international fair visitors despite a cost of approximately $50,000 for transporting and caring for the 200 champions from a score of nations.

The United States squad is expected to steal the track and field show. The team is composed of the new national A. A. U. champions and runner-ups picked in the July 2 and 3 National A. A. U. meet at Milwaukee. The veteran miler, Glenn Cunningham, and Archie Sam Romani will meet again in their historic duel in the mile run. Such Olympic stars as Ken Carpenter, discus king, and Forrest Towns, hurdler, will compete.

Most famous of the South American aggregation is Jose Ribas, of Argentina, world record marathon star. Mel Porter, national A. A. U. champion, will wear the U. S. colors in the 26-mile marathon to be held the final night of the games.

Hitler Favorite a Nazi Emissary

If Leni Riefenstahl had been disturbed by the report, later denied, that she had been ordered to leave Germany because of "non-Aryan" blood, the vivacious and handsome favorite of Hitler gave no indication of displeasure when this picture was taken recently in Paris, where she presented an Olympic Games film to the Paris Exposition. Actress Leni is said to be the only woman to enjoy the confidence of Germany's dictator.

A Hit Not in the Box Score

Outfielder Jake Powell of the Yankees, right foreground, has just bunched his right hand off the jaw of First Baseman Joe Kuhel of Washington as Catcher Walter Millies of the Nationals rushes up to join in the bit of fisticuffs which enlivened a Yankee Stadium game won by New York, 16-2. Bitter feeling cropped up between Kuhel and Powell in a previous series when Powell crashed into the baseman in a close play at first. When they brushed shoulders again both started swinging and a good number of punches were landed before umpires managed to separate them. Note Kuhel's hat floating to the ground.

The Town Quack

(Reserves the right to "quack" about everything without taking a stand on anything).

The howl I put up yesterday for a dude ranch near Midland wasn't wasted on deaf ears, as far as the customers were concerned. Eddie Lamar, up at the bucket shop, phoned to add his endorsement to the fact that we need some place for local people to ride and "go western." He said they have a young lady guest in their home who came all the way from Little Rock, wanting to ride a cowpony, and she hasn't been able to buy, rent or borrow a ride since she got here. I really don't think this is such a dumb idea about there being a need for ranch accommodations where people here can spend week ends. Such a place would need to be fitted comfortably for sleeping and living quarters, with meals served ranch style. Saddle horses should be ready for use at day break, with some old broke-down waddy to guide the guests about the country before the day gets too hot. Then they would need a hearty dinner, plenty of siesta, more riding for those able to get on a horse late in the afternoon, a big supper and maybe a barn dance in the evening. The rancher could use his own judgment about refreshments, etc., but he should provide comfort along with roughing it.

A little calf roping by some of the ranch hands, one or two outlaws kicked out by the cowboys, or something to provide a touch of the real thing would make it that much more attractive.

According to the American Boy, a resort is a place where the natives charge the summer visitors enough in three months to live happily the other nine.

There won't be any prairie chicken hunting this September, at least it can't be done legally. For a good many years, hunters have been allowed the first four days of September to hunt chickens in certain West Texas and north plains counties. But the ban is on now, and hunters will lay off to prevent complete annihilation of the fowls. Boy, but those prairie chickens used to eat the corn crops up around Florey. At least the hunters claimed they did, and that it was a benefit to the farmers to kill out the birds.

I'd hate to meet up with Warden Tom Grammer right after shooting a prairie chicken now.

A Look Can't Kill, But --- Teasing About Looks Can Ruin

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON
A growing child is sensitive about his looks. The peculiar part is that he often hates the very features that others praise.
Mary tugs at her mop of golden curls and declares that they're hideous. Why? Well, perhaps she associate such glory with her second-cousin Anne, whom she doesn't like, and who happens to be topped with a similar thatch. Or it might be that Myrtle, her best friend, has straight, shiny hair, as black as shoe polish.

But alas, it's more than likely that Brother Bill has christened her "Goldlocks" or even tweaked the soft ringlets and called her "Gun Moll."
You seldom can tell why a child learns to dislike his, or her, features.
Never to Be Spoken
There are times, of course, when causes are more obvious, such as teasing about ears that stick out, a nose that turns to the sky; or referring to lean little legs as "pipe-stems."

Even the slightest allusion to any irregular member is unwise, because the ever-ready disparagement of the child seizes upon any excuse to fix itself.
We should not joke about anything of the sort, however lovingly or by sign or sight reveal our secret disappointment.
The boy or girl must always feel that he is as good looking as everyone else. And, of course, he really is. Beauty is so thin and so fleeting. The least attractive child usually grows into a personable, if not handsome, adult. So why should he carry a secret hurt with him all his life?

There is something about freckles that sears the soul of their young victims, yet the freckled child is usually a sweetheart. And those little dots are not disfiguring but as lovely as dew.
Ugly Ducklings Will Be Swans
Here is the crux of the whole matter, I think. Time cures almost everything but feelings. It shapes up heads, ears and noses, fills out shanks and wipes off the skin. It evens off the fast-grower and the little fellow who delays adding to his inches. As they say, it all comes out in the wash. In the meantime, we must do all we can not to allow self-consciousness to ruin things.
There is so much that can be controlled or avoided during the sensitive stage. Not all, but every little bit helps.

Children get notions enough without our aid. However, it is surprising how little the boy resents the kids calling him "Carrot," or "Freck." Indeed, he knows this to be his membership card, and tingles with pride over "Pie Face" or "Fatty."
One last rule and a good one is, "Never discuss a child's looks with him or before him." The best way is to forget all about it, unless there is something that needs professional help, such as teeth or persistent eruptions. Cleanliness is all a child needs. Children are all lovely.

A Book A Day

Comedy and Pathos of an Army at War

THE humor and pathos of the American army during wartime, as seen through the eyes of the Abby children, might be a good characterization of "My War With the United States," by Ludwig Bemelmans (Viking; $2.50).

Here is a frank portrayal of life in the army, during that effort to preserve democracy, as seen by a naive, honest and perfectly candid lad who had left his native Tyrol to sail for America and hunt Indians, only to land in the ranks of an army composed of civilians like himself.
It's not really a war book—for Bemelmans is concerned only with telling about this strange, foreign madhouse into which he has been thrown. He joined the army, the author says quite frankly, merely out of curiosity. And as he apparently was completely devoid of inhibitions, army life was thoroughly enjoyable to him, although probably not to his superiors.

The illustrations by the author add a great deal to the enjoyment assured by the book, and help the reader realize that Bemelmans is one of those rare individuals always completely himself, never putting on an act for the benefit of the bystander.
The book is not all comedy, and the comedy is never slapstick. It is real writing, worthwhile reading—and offers an experience every reader will look back on with delight. However, Bemelmans' "war" is going to be a hard book to own, for in reading it, everyone must think of a number of close friends who will enjoy it too. My hunch is to buy two copies—one to keep and one to lend.—W. V.

Jamboree News

By BILLY NOBLE

For a full day the Buffalo Trail contingent tramped and rode around New York City, mouths and eyes open—necks stretched. This trip was the climax of a grand adventure, thirteen days in Washington, four hours in Philadelphia.

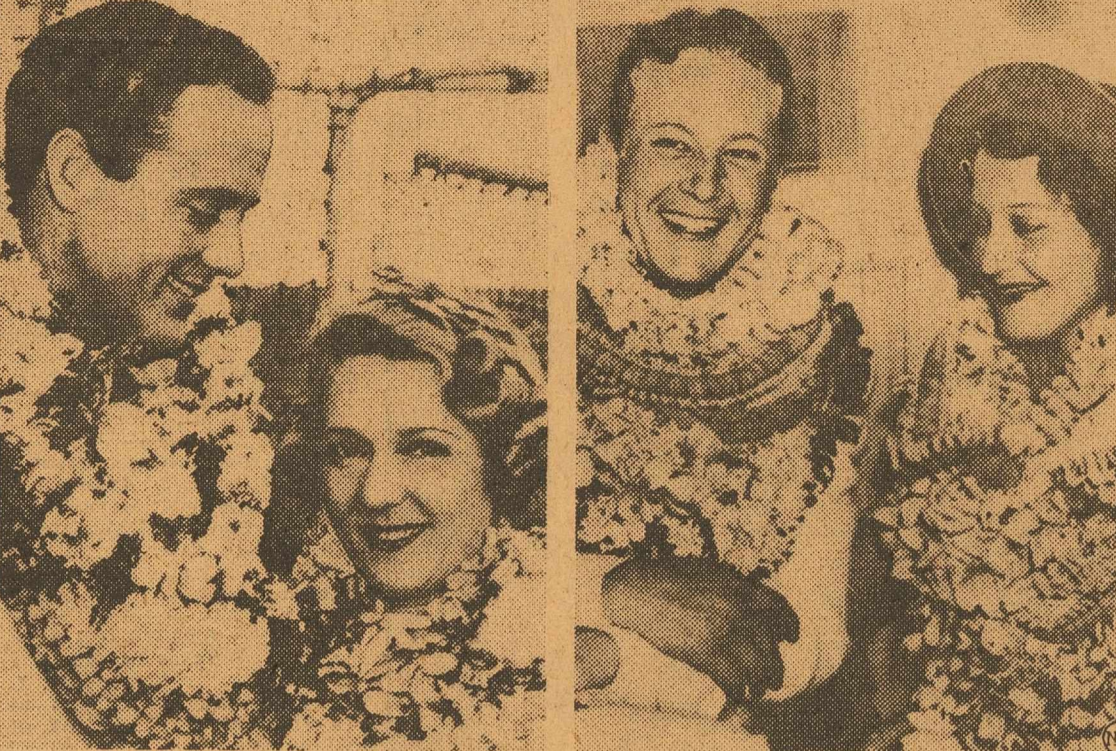

As to the "Phillie" lay-over, we were escorted promptly to an automatic cafeteria where some of us saw for the first time a "slot machine" restaurant. By bus we were taken over the entire city, seeing all points of interest, including a prolonged visit to Independence Hall.

In New York the troop was put up in a Y. M. C. A. dormitory which was both comfortable and convenient.
From there we left early Saturday morning on the all-day tour which was entirely prepaid in a previous fee.

After breakfast the troop went on a walk down Broadway and Wall Street, and rode an "elevated" nearby to the docks. Some went through a docked freighter while the rest hurried on to lunch. Following this we rode to the Empire State Building, viewing New York from the top. Then came the boat trip to the Statue of Liberty.

Hurriedly eating supper we boarded the train for home.
Bobby York, Val Borum, and Bobby Martin will not be with the group when they arrive Monday night as they will join parents or relatives on the way home.

Film Honeymooners 'Right at Home' in Hawaii

These two famed Hollywood honeymoon couples, seeking the traditional solitude on an island under a tropical sky, found just what they might have expected when they landed at Honolulu—a mob of well-wishers and a battery of cameras. However, the pictures are proof that the newlyweds could take it smilingly. Buddy Rogers and Mary Pickford are pictured at left, lei-bedecked, upon arrival. At right are Gene Raymond and his bride, Jeannette MacDonald, as their Hawaiian fans made them feel practically at home.

150 MEMBERS OF MILITARY SERVICE TO PARTICIPATE IN RIFLE MATCHES

FORT SAM HOUSTON, July 13.—Approximately 150 members of the various components of the military service in the Eighth Corps Area will participate in the National Rifle matches to be held at Camp Perry, Ohio, August 22 to September 11. Colonel Jay L. Benedict, chief of staff for the 8th Corps Area, announced here today.

Eight officers and 28 enlisted men of the Regular Army from eight different military posts and stations in this Corps Area already have been ordered to Camp Perry for participation in the matches.
Regular army officers and men now are trying out for positions on the Infantry, Cavalry and Engineer rifle teams.

In addition to the regular army representatives 70 members of the National Guard in Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Colorado and Arizona will participate in the matches.

Thirteen members of the R. O. T. C. will be selected to represent the 8th Corps Area in the national R. O. T. C. team shoot as a part of the national matches. The names of those selected to represent the corps area as a result of competitive elimination shoots now being held in the six R. O. T. C. camps in Texas, Oklahoma, Arizona and Colorado will be announced shortly. Four of the team members will be selected from R. O. T. C. cadets now in summer training at Camp Bullis; two from Fort Sill; two from Fort Clark; three from Fort Logan, Colo., and one each from Fort Bliss and Fort Huachuca, Ariz.

Members of the C. M. T. C. now enrolled in camps throughout the corps area will fire for record during the month of July and from the high scorers 13 members will be selected to attend the national matches as 8th Corps Area representatives.

Regular Army officers yet to be selected will accompany the R. O. T. C. and C. M. T. C. teams to Camp Perry as team coaches or captains.
Only one team from the entire United States composed of reserve officers will be entered in the national matches. This team will be captained by Colonel H. Harrison Smith, Infantry-Reserve, 803 Weightman Bldg., Philadelphia, Pa. Eight reserve officers from the 8th Corps Area already have submitted their applications for team membership. These applications are being forwarded by Colonel E. A. Keyes, civilian components officer for the corps area to the War Department in Washington. Selection of team

Mrs. John Dunagan Is Hostess to Circle

Martha Holloway circle of the First Baptist church met Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. John Dunagan, 1904 West Wall. Mrs. J. M. White led the devotional and Mrs. M. D. Cox was in charge of the lesson. She was assisted by Mrs. R. O. Walker.
Present were Mesdames J. M. White, M. D. Cox, R. O. Walker, Clarence Hale, N. W. Bigham, F. H. Lanham, John Hix, B. C. Girdley, Walter Cowden, J. V. Wrenn, and Mrs. Dunagan.

Intense national interest has been displayed in the forthcoming matches at Camp Perry, Colonel Benedict said today. He recently attended a meeting of the National Board for the Promotion of Rifle Practice in Washington, of which he is a member. This group promulgates rules and regulations for the conduct of the matches. Colonel Benedict served last year as the executive officer for the Camp Perry matches.

Members of the military components will participate in three major divisions of the matches, namely: the small arms firing school to be held from August 22 to August 27; the National Rifle Association matches, to be held from August 28 to September 5 and the national matches to be held from September 6 to September 11.
The greatest interest of the military personnel will center in the national rifle team match fired primarily by members of the service. In this event there will be one team of regular army membership from each of the following branches: Infantry, Cavalry and Engineers; one team from the U. S. Navy; one from the Marine Corps; one from the U. S. Coast Guard; one from the U. S. Military Academy; one from the U. S. Naval Academy; one team from each state and the District of Columbia composed of members of the National Guard; one

Top Cast Seen in Devil's Playground

With Richard Dix, Dolores Del Rio and Chester Morris sharing the starring roles, Columbia's "Devil's Playground," a dynamic comedy drama based on the exploits of the brave lads in the United States submarine fleet, will open its local run at the Ritz Theatre today.

Revolving about the unusual triangle of two navy officers, once inseparable, who part over the friendship of a voluptuous siren interested in neither of them, "Devil's Playground" turns its attention in a sensational climax to a spectacular crash between a huge, derelict ocean liner and a fully manned submarine. With a gaping hole midships, the sleek, grey sea dog sinks to the bottom, fifty fathoms below the surface. With the crew trapped in an airtight compartment, diver after diver attempts the hazardous descent with a life-bearing hose but the pressure at fifty fathoms is too much to overcome.

Dix, as the navy's ace diver, is probably the only man able to make contact with the sunken hulk, but refuses to try it. The events responsible for this dramatic situation unfold in a rapid-fire succession of thrills, romance and action-packed comedy.
Eric C. Kenton directed "Devil's Playground," which was adapted to the screen by Lima O'Flaherty, Jerome Chodorov and Dalton Trumbo.

Each of the teams will be composed of one team captain, one coach, ten firing members and two alternates.
National individual rifle and pistol matches are open to any citizen of the United States.

The PAYOFF

Let lanky Cliff Neighbors of Hobbs acquire normal control and he will be a winner in higher classification. That is the consensus of opinion of the managers under whom the recent addition to the Hobbs staff has worked.

Neighbors has stuff on the ball. He demonstrated that when he whiffed 13 Midland batters in one of his early starts. But he has been troubled with wildness that kept him continually behind the batters and that has hampered his progress. He has been advised to work on control if he wants to go up.

Neighbors broke into professional ball last year with the Siloam Springs Travelers of the Arkansas-Missouri League, and did a yeoman share of relief work to help the Travelers win the 1936 pennant. His won and lost record of four victories and seven defeats was nothing to write home about, but the veteran manager, Ray Powell, thought enough of his prospects to keep him around all season. He finished out a lot of games for faltering mates for which he received no credit, thus aiding the small staff to get its rest. Wildness was his outstanding fault.

This spring, Cliff was transferred to Lake Charles of the Evangeline League, and looked like a comer there, save for lack of control. He was sent to Hobbs when the Shippers had to make room for a new hurler sent them.

At his home in Fargo, Okla., in 1935, Neighbors won seven of the eight games he pitched for his high school team. Four of the victories were shutouts and he allowed an average of just three hits per game. On the Fargo town team, Cliff doubled in brass, playing second base and pitching, and in one of his games on the hill, he fanned 19 batters, although a bit wild.

A native of Mercer, Mo., the young righthander is just 20 years old. Wildness often holds back youngsters starting out in the game, but if Cliff can get control, he is on the way to going places.

For two years, Mel won the handball championship of the high school. Just 18 years old, the young German-Italian has plenty of power as indicated by his position in the home run race. His homer with two bases full which beat Roswell in a game this year shows something of how his bat works in the pinches. Mel was born in St. Louis, Mo., but has spent most of his life in Los Angeles.

Pitchers have had time to get their arms loosened up and their curves snapping, batters have had time to get their sights adjusted and the scrap for the 1937 batting supremacy of the minor leagues is now a merry chase.

There are two handsome trophies awaiting those who can bang out enough hits to win them. Perhaps, as was the case in 1936, both of them will be copped by one batsman. It all depends on his classification.

The trophy is a beautiful sterling silver bat, full-sized and suitably engraved. It is presented by Hillerich & Bradsby Company, makers of Louisville Slugger bats.

The other award, up for the third year, is known as the Spalding cup and goes to the first-year batter with the highest average. It is an elaborate silver figure of a player, mounted on a base and bearing an engraved plaque. A. G. Spalding & Bros., sporting goods outfitters, are the donors.

In 1936, Ed Zipay, a rookie, hit 419 for Fostoria of the Ohio State League to pace the field and become the first player to win both awards.

The highest average was compiled in 1934 by Jimmy Sanders of Martinsville in the Bi-State League, who batted .423. Oscar Eckhardt won the Slugger trophy in 1935 with .399 and Duane Kratzer copped the Spalding cup that year with .397. Zipay came within three points of Sanders' high mark last season.

ed a decade and less ago, are now almost forgotten. Some of them pass out of the picture completely. Others take up managing in the minor leagues. The following lines, gathered from here and there, may revive a few memories. How many of them do you recall?

Vic Keen, the former Cardinal pitcher, after a long layoff, is managing the Pocomoke City club of the Eastern Shore League. . . . Billy Southworth, a hero of the 1926 world's series, has the reins at Memphis in the Southern Loop.

Remember Steve Yerkes, the old Boston Red Sox infielder? He's handling the Perth entry in the Canadian-American loop. . . . Clarence Mitchell, once a southpaw spitball ace in the National League, is guiding the youngsters on the Mayfield club of the Kitty League.

When Alex Gaston stepped out as manager at Dallas, Firpo Marberry, erstwhile relief star of the Washington Senators, stepped in to take charge. . . . Bill Zitzmann, once a well-known National League fly-hawk, is way up on top of the world piloting Dominion in the Cape Breton Colliery wheel of Nova Scotia. . . . Jack Fournier, the Slugging Frenchman of other days, has the wheel at Johnstown in the Middle Atlantic circuit.

Down at Siloma Springs, Ark., in the Ark-Mo loop, you'll find Ray Powell as head man. He used to roam the garden for the old Boston Braves and Cardinals. . . . Little Nemo Leibold is showing the youngsters how to paly ball at Rocky Mount in the Piedmont, and Johnny Neun skips the Norfolk Tars in the same organization. . . . The manager at Greensburg in the Penn State loop is Wilbur Cooper, the old Pittsburgh pitching luminary. . . . The once peerless Glenn Wright gives the signs for Wenatchee of the

Texas Christian Coaches In Sweat

FORT WORTH, July 13.—The Texas Christian University coaches are really in a sweat about the Ohio State game coming up in Columbus Sept. 25.

With the thermometer hovering around the 100-mark, Coach L. R. (Dutch) Meyer and his assistant, Line Coach Mike Brumbelow, are literally sweating over their charts every day, mapping out a plan of strategy.

The first call for grid workouts is for Tuesday, Sept. 7, and Coach Meyer figures he has only about 15 working days in which to get ready for Coach Francis Schmidt's Buckeyes.

"I worked with Schmidt here at T. C. U. for three years, and you can be sure that we have plenty of respect for the kind of opposition we know we are going to get up in Beautiful Ohio!" Coach Meyer observes.

"We're going to have the plays worked out and the preliminary work done by the end of the summer. When the boys show up, we'll be ready to go to work in a big way and make the best possible use of the short time available for practice."

About the general prospects for the Horned Frogs, Coach Meyer is fairly optimistic.

"We'll have a line that will be up to the standard set by Frog elevens of the past, and we'll have a more versatile backfield than we've had for several seasons," he says.

"Our backfield will have more speed and more power than last season. I believe we'll be in better shape for reserves at all 11 positions. We have men three deep at every spot, and four deep at some."

The end positions are the unknown factor. Not a letterman is available for the wings. It appears from spring practice showings that Russell Hensch and Durwood Horner will battle it out for the starting berth at right end, while Slim Mabry and Bob Jordan are fighting for the left end spot.

As to the details of the plans he is laying for the Buckeyes, Coach Meyer is noncommittal.

"You can say that we expect to use runs, passes and punts," he explained.

Texas Coastal Region Urged to Grow Flax

ANGLETON, Tex. (U.P.)—Flax from which linen is made will grow better in Texas than anywhere else in the nation, according to R. H. Stanzel, chief of the Texas agricultural experiment station here.

In a report an flax culture Stanzel advised farmers of the Texas coastal region to try the new crop, pointing out that 20,000,000 bushels of flax are imported annually. Flax is produced extensively in North and South Dakota and in Michigan.

As Manhattan Greeted Atlantic Air Liner

Manhattan's towers formed a carpet of welcome for the British Imperial Airways flying boat Caledonia when, as pictured above, she approached the end of her voyage from England. The survey flight, by way of Ireland, Newfoundland and Montreal, was made simultaneously with that of a Pan-American clipper over the same course from the U. S. to Europe. The flights were designed to pave the way for regular trans-Atlantic air service.

Mackerel Darken Channel

WEYMOUTH, Eng. (U.P.) — The greatest shoal of mackerel ever seen off the Dorset coast here turned a square mile of the English channel into a dark tumbling mass of fish. Fishermen launched every available boat. When they got to sea, net after net broke under the weight of the fish. The beaches were strewn with mackerel.

Mystery Golfer Holdup Suspect

The mystery man of Los Angeles golf circles, so strongly opposed to publicity and photographers that this photo, from Sports Illustrated magazine, is one of the few ever made of him, admitted he was Laverne Moore, New York robbery suspect, after authorities checked his fingerprints. A year after the tavern holdup for which he was sought, Moore went to Hollywood, made his headquarters at an exclusive country club and soon numbered film notables among his friends.

Child Prodigy Laments Over Brake, Not Break

AUSTIN, Tex. (U.P.)—Martin Ettlenger, 11-year-old child prodigy, is wondering whether it pays to be so brilliant after all.
 The trouble is that Dr. H. J. Ettlenger, mathematics professor at the University of Texas, thinks his son is too young to enter college, so "Martin will just have to keep on going to high school whether he likes it or not."

 Martin finished high school a year ago with the highest grades ever recorded by the school.
 His parents persuaded him to return to high school again last year and now they want him to go back for still more work next year.
 "I suppose we'll have to let him enter college after that unless we can devise some scheme to delay him," his father said.
