Injunction Prevents Board Altering Apportionment

Court Order Given On Application of A School District

AUSTIN, Aug. 2 (A).—Ghent Sanderford, president of the state board education, received notice today that a San Antonio court had issued temporary injunction restraining the board from changing a recent order fixing the per capita scholastic apportionment at $22.

The injunction was granted by wiet Judge McCrory, on applition of a San Antonio indepen-ent school district. Some board mbers have been holding condion of the school finances justify 2, others, in the minority at the st meeting, think the amount too

Spanks Down Juvenile Miscreants

The whipping post in another form has returned to Powhatan, O., as the picture above proves. In the last five years Marshal Edward Carpenter has laid approximately 200 boys across a barrel and soundly whipped or paddled them, and as a result, juvenile misdemeanors have been greatly minimized. though Judge Harry L. Albright, county juvenile agent, has "heard reports" of the "barrel justice" whippings, he knows only that Powhatan's juvenile come less of a problem.

What we sometimes forget is that was a romantic age in real life, oo. Nature mimicked art, as it so often does; men behaved as roman-tic heroes were expected to behave; hey struck fine attitudes and said ine things without in the least being insincere or self-conscious. And of them all, the military and naval heroes were the most completely ro-

You get a good glimpse at this sort of thing in "The Romantic Decatur," a new biography by Charles Lee Lewis (University of Pennsylvania Press; $3). Mr. Lewis, telling the life story of Capt. Stephen Decautr of the U.S. Navy, gives a perfect picture of the romantic hero in real life.

To class Decatur with such great naval geniuses as Drake or Nelson would be absurd. His picture was painted on a far smaller canvas. Yet is life story has an irresistible appeal. He seems to be forever out-lined on a flame-lit quarter-deck, handsome and brightly uniformed, performing some prodigious deed of valor in just the right way, saying just the right things afterward and, in the end, dying in a duel in the approved romantic manner.

He was an enormously interesting man, in other words, and had an enormously interesting car-eer. Mr. Lewis has somehow got the flavor of the romantic era into his books, and it makes good read-

Soft Ball Play to Be Resumed With 2 Games Tonight at 8

Play in the Industrial League will be resumed tonight when the league leading Hardware club and the Sinclair team meet in the first game; the Scharbauer and Ford clubs to tangle in the second affair.

Although the Hardware club has a cinch on remaining atop the lea-gue, regardless of whether they win or lose, the standings are certain to be different tomorrow, the Ford, Scharbauer and Sinclair clubs all being tied for second place.

To date, the Hardware club is the only one that has not met defeat, having met and defeated all clubs in the league except the strong Sinclair club. The three clubs tied for second place have each won and lost two games. The KRLH and Gulf clubs trail, each having one victory and three losses. The two tangle tomorrow night in a game that will lift one of them from the cellar depths.

At the conclusion of play on the first game tomorrow night the clubs will each have played one-fourth their scheduled games, but their positions will not be assured for the entire season.

Managers of the local clubs are to meet this afternoon at 6:30 at radio station KRLH to consider the possibility of holding a district tournament here late in the month decide an entry in the state tournament at Overton. Several other business matters are also to be considered. Managers are requested by the league president to have their player lists ready to hand in at the meeting.
