$3.75 Fine

Ordered to pay damages of four cents and a fine of $3.75, Mme. Madeleine Fontages, French actress, writer, and friend of Mussolini, is shown above as the court suspended a one-year prison sentence at the close of her trial for the shooting of Count Charles Pinetou de Chambrun, former French ambassador to Rome. Her trial threatened to rock European diplomatic circles, for Mme. Fontages had told police she shot the ambassador because he shattered "unforgettable hours of love" with Il Duce.

POLAND'S LAND NEED

History shows that many wars have begun over a nation's ambition for more land. Italy's adventure in Ethiopia affords the most effective and most recent illustration of that.

Now Poland is coming out with the hint that more land is needed to take care of its million jobless adults, the majority of whom exist precariously as excess baggage on small farms. And solution to the question has been placed in the hands of an emigration committee formed in the Polish parliament.

The only trouble with this idea is that practically all the habitable territory of the world is now independent or allocated definitely to some power. Poland's emigration committee, then, faces a stiff problem. And how that problem is solved without stepping on someone's toes will be interesting to see.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11. — One of the great plagues of the long court bill fight is the fact some of the most admirable administration policies, thanks to Roosevelt's desire to win the court fight, were tossed overboard.

While Roosevelt was under steady attack and losing prestige and power in the battle on which he had staked so much, Congress was quietly raiding the civil service system and bringing as many high-bracket jobs as possible under political control. Few have noted the extent to which the Senate has knifed the merit system in favor of the spoils system.

Patronage Sought. RIGHT now the chief difference between the Senate and House wage-hour bills is the fact that the Senate insists all employees of the wage-hour board earning more than $4000 a year must be exempt from civil service and placed under the Senate's political control by a requirement that they be confirmed by the Senate.

Unlikely to pass at this session but sure to be up for action later is the late Joe Robinson's version of a government reorganization bill which would exempt from civil service about 1000 career men in the government, mostly bureau chiefs and division heads, who are now covered by civil service.

The original administration plan proposed to strengthen the merit system vastly. Apparently the only reason Roosevelt allowed Robinson to pervert a strong civil service bill into a violently anti-merit system bill was his dependence on Robinson in the court fight.

Some lawyers who looked at the reorganization bill insisted it would mean removal of hundreds of veteran high federal officials, replacement by political employees, and standing the government service on its ear. The eight main divisions of the civil service would even be manned by politicians and the real career service officials would be tossed to the wolves.

Tough on Morale. GRADUALLY the Senate has voted itself the power to pass upon the men making $5000 or more in the WPA, Resettlement, PWA, Social Security Board and the Bureau of Archives. This simply means that an official must be endorsed by his senator or senators if he is to get a job.

The spoils attack on the SSB was directed only at some 51 lawyers and technical experts there. These persons all went without pay for a month, some of them under severe hardship, while the Senate took its time about checking up on them and they nominally weren't employed. All have been approved now except one woman from Illinois, but morale suffered a shock. Individual records were checked, but apparently no one could "get anything on" the employees. The confirmed employees now are virtually compelled to feel under a certain amount of political obligation to their various senators.

At least five acts of Congress have passed this session with civil service exemptions written into them. Although the original Guffey Coal act placed all employees under civil service, the new Guffey act puts only the clerical staff in Washington under the system.

Bad Break for CCC. WHEN the bill extending the CCC three years came up, the Senate tried to put the technical and supervisory jobs under civil service, but this time the House refused to go along.

Then some 6000 jobs on the Soil Conservation Service were taken out of civil service. About 800 of these jobs were held by junior assistant technicians, CCC boys who had been given their titles as part of an experiment. Roosevelt wanted to make CCC a sort of career service school for the government and had the Civil Service commission give special examinations to 1000 CCC boys. The 800 now lacking civil service protection are the ones who passed the exams.

Employees of the administration which will supervise the new farm tenancy bill were exempted from civil service. So were those of the Disaster Loan Corporation for flood relief.

When both Senate and House tried to keep employees of the Railroad Retirement Board, Roosevelt made such a fuss that they failed. It seems unfortunate that the court fight kept him from other similar efforts.

Mexico City Once Again Has Come to Be Grateful for "Mud Mattress" Under City

MEXICO CITY, (AP) — Mexico City had cause again last week to be grateful for the "mud mattress" underlying it.

A devastating earthquake that spread damage widely through Puebla and Vera Cruz states, killing 34 persons, gave the capital nothing more than a playful shaking. It was the "mattress"—the soft spongy, water-saturated earth of the old lake-back upon which the capital rests—that took the kick out of the quake here.

Earthquakes are frequent in this mountainous country, sloping down to the sea on each side of towering, once terrible volcanic peaks. Much of the country to the west and south of the central plateau lies along the great geological faults that stretch from Alaska, through California and Mexico to Central America.

Geologists here speculate upon the possibility that some day the part of Mexico roughly including the states of Guerrero, western Jalisco and western Oaxaca may slip into the Pacific ocean.

Rarely a month passes without the Mexican newspapers reporting that the earth has trembled somewhere in the nation. Often these tremors are felt in Mexico City but property damage usually is slight because of the underlying "cushion." Were it not for this "cushion," this gigantic "mud pie," say the geologists, the city's taller buildings must long ago have been shaken to the ground.

Mexico City never has been badly damaged, although quakes have spread devastation in Oaxaca, Vera Cruz, Puebla, Guerrero, Jalisco, Chiapas, and other mountainous states.

July 25, for example, many persons failed even to notice the oscillatory movement of the earth that set lamps swinging, stopped clocks, and swayed parked automobiles.

Those who did were momentarily panic-stricken. Theatre crowds rushed into the streets, hotel guests, many scantily clad, did likewise, but their fear soon passed and they returned indoors. It was otherwise in Maltrata, Orizaba, Cordoba and Nogales, Vera Cruz and Esperanza, Ciudad Serdan and Puebla, Puebla.

Leche Asks U. S. Planning Board To Unify Roads

BATON ROUGE, La. Aug. 11. — Urging immediate construction of a nationwide series of high-speed highways to provide for the mounting increase in passenger vehicles and trucks, Governor Richard W. Leche today called upon national, state and civic officials to coordinate their efforts in a national highway planning board.

Citing statistics recently advanced by Charles F. Ketting, vice-president of General Motors Corporation, that 37,000,000 passenger cars and 6,000,000 trucks would be using the country's highways by 1950, Governor Leche declared that the time had come for a unified highway system which would eliminate dangerous road hazards, make each state's main roads part of a national network and provide safe and speedy transportation facilities to travelers and industrial shippers. He said he believed accidents could be greatly reduced by having national traffic regulations on interstate highways.

"Each state must provide facilities for business to expand and develop within the next quarter century," said Governor Leche, "and adequate highway are essential both for the transportation of manufactured products and the assembling of raw products at industrial centers.

"A great waste of time, money and accidents is caused by failure to build roads until the sheer burden of traffic makes it absolutely mandatory. Roads should be built ahead of the need for them, as an increasing number of states are realizing.

"To aid in this, a national planning board would seem advisable. With its broader outlook, such a board could analyze current motor and transportation trends of the nation as a whole and coordinate state road-building programs into a national plan."

Back, Not the Face To Decide Winner

GALVESTON, Texas, (AP) — The only way a pretty girl can remain in this contest is to "back out." The contest, dedicated to the glorification of a part of the figure usually taken as a matter of fact—the back, is sponsored by the Galveston beach association, which years ago originated the international pageants of pulchritude.

The winner will be named Aug. 14 and will be awarded a cash prize, a bronze plaque and a possible chance in motion pictures.

The beach association announces any woman in the country between 18 and 30 is eligible. Many entries, including some married women, have registered from over Texas. In order to make it a "back" proposition, the association decreed that contestants for the title of "The Woman With the most Perfect Back" would wear sport clothing in the afternoon and formal in the evening. No bathing suits will be allowed.

Charles Schlotter, association secretary, who has been doing research on backs and what makes them perfect or otherwise, says this of backs: "The spine must follow the normal curve, which, in the layman's terminology, assumes the position of an elongated 'S'. A scrawny back may be as perfectly formed as the plump one."

"Generally, a healthy person possesses a healthy back. Dancing is a good back builder. Tennis, swimming, golf and all other sports activities which develop both sides of the body in unison are advised as good, too."

fiscal year ended June 30, the state commission has reported. The state-owned stores did a business of $8,864,000 during the year as compared with $6,559,437 in the year ended June 30, 1936.

Liquor sales have increased considerably since the state stores were established in 1934. This year's sales were 63 per cent greater than during the 1934-1935 year, and 32 per cent greater than in 1935-1936.

She Asks Police Guard For Attack on Neighbors

TULSA, (AP) — An unidentified woman called police headquarters and asked Capt. George Reif to "send some policemen out here right away."

"What for?" Reif inquired. "Well," the woman said, "Mrs. He-wit's next door has been talking about me, and the neighbors and I are going over and break her windows out. We want the police there so if she should attempt to hurt us they can stop her."

Reif explained the police would be glad to stop her instead. He demanded her address.

Early American Dishes Are Attractive Adornments

Eighteenth Century Glass Unsurpassed

ABILENE, Aug. 9.—Tables not so strong as the ones our forefathers used would have sagged under the weight of the enormous amount of food placed upon them.

But even though the food had been less plentiful and appetizing, it wouldn't have made a great deal of difference. It was that attractive in the dishes of early day America.

Home economists preach long and loudly upon the desirability of having food attractively served as well as wholesome and tasty. And there's nothing like lovely dishes to make a meal look desirable.

According to history, the 17th century was an almost glassless age in the American colonies. Men lived and died without ever having seen it. In its place they used pewter, wooden and iron utensils. Later on when they were able to take time from clearing forests and making untillable soil yield a living, they began to consider finer arts.

STIEGEL GLASS. And it was then that the art of glass making began in America. What the Encyclopedia Britannica glass making began in America, blown in America was that done by Henry William Stiegel, a German emigrant.

Mrs. Dallas Scarborough has several pieces of Stiegel glass, none of which could have been made after 1774 since it was in that year that Stiegel did his last work.

Her pieces, when you hold them in one hand and tap them, ring like bells, each on a different note. Mrs. Scarborough has three water glasses of blue, three of bottle green, both colors lovely.

Mrs. Scarborough also has a collection of copper luster—pieces of china made by a method now lost to the world. Her collection includes a pitcher and several mugs of various shapes. Several rare pieces. Some of the luster is combined with pink or a hyacinth blue as in a set of Chelsea dishes.

CHELSEA DISHES. Those Chelsea dishes, incidentally, are among the most beautiful to be found in Abilene. They are a light cream in color, almost white, with hyacinth blue grapes, tinged with copper luster. The set was purchased by Mrs. Scarborough from three unmarried women who were going to an old ladies' home and sold all the furniture and furnishings that had been in the family for years.

There are plates, a tea pot, cups and saucers and cup plates, sauce dishes and an enormous sugar bowl as well as other pieces. The saucers are deep and were used by the gentlemen of another day to cool their coffee. The cups, after they had been drained of their coffee were placed into the cup plates, small flat dishes, not unlike modern saucers.

BY DAVENPORT.

In one of Mrs. Scarborough's china cabinets also is a plate made by Davenport, one of the most famous of the Staffordshire potters. Many of Davenport's plates immortalize various historical events, but only one scene was used in which Texas figures. Mrs. Scarborough's plate is one of those few, a piece of cream pottery, with red figures, immortalizing the Mexican war in 1845. On the back are the words "The Texian Campaign."

Mrs. Scarborough has a set of Venetian glasses, opalescent with small stems. She also has some old moss rose soup plates, and a Sheffield case basket of silver from Charleston, S. C. It was made by William Gale and Sons. Mrs. Scarborough's Sheffield coffee service was brought from England in 1800. On the tray is engraved a coat of arms, on which is engraved a coat of arms with the words "Virtue Shines" in Latin. She also has a Florentine bell of silver with an ivory handle, and a pair of silver candlesticks that can be made tall or low just as you please.

The art of making Wedgwood china has been lost, but there are still a few sets of it left from former days. In Abilene probably the only persons owning brown Wedgwood are Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Digby-Roberts.

SOUP TUREEN. Mrs. Roberts' set includes plates in four different sizes, each with a different scene depicted in the center. There's a soup tureen big enough to feed a regiment from, three meat platters and vegetable dishes that look like soup plates.

Mrs. Roberts' doesn't have cups and saucers to match the set although she has tried to find them in New York and London. She does have after dinner coffee cups, however. The Wedgwood belonged to Mrs.

Mrs. Cornelius to Play On Boulder Program

Several hundred Chautauquans and visitors will attend the auditorium program Sunday night at the Colorado Chautauq in Boulder, at which time Mrs. Lee Cornelius of Midland, will play several piano selections, according to Mrs. A. Chaney of the Fine Arts department. Mrs. Cornelius is an instructor in piano here.

Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius and children, Sharon Lee and Norman, are spending their vacation there.

PARIS STYLES

By DOROTHY CAREW
United Press Staff Correspondent.

PARIS (U.P.)—Tailored handbags, as trim as the dark autumn street clothes with which they will be carried, are making their bow in Paris shops. Alligator is the newest of fabrics for the coming season, but rich calfskins have adopted a note of novelty which will mark them as being definitely autumn, 1937.

Alligator bags are seen principally in simple, rectangular designs with no trim other than an occasional tailored gold buckle. Calfskins, on the other hand, have discarded the severity of line and vary in style considerably.

One flat navy bag of rectangular design is modified with rounded corners at the top. Its clasp is a large gold globe with the continents and oceans etched on its surface.

Handles are buckled down like suitcase straps, dull gold links hold others in place, and strapless bags are trimmed with simple rolls of matching leather or are topped with metal frames of modern design.

Pouches are back in soft dull leather broader at the base than at the top. Fashioned with round or rectangular caps that fit over the opening of the bag, when it is opened the sides may be spread out so that the contents may be found easily.

Silky antelopes with severe gold and silver trim are the loveliest of afternoon bags. One with a broad matching handle is trimmed with short strips of alternating gold and silver at either side.

TODAY'S FASHION TIP.

Print glove and bag combinations brighten dark afternoon costumes, and sports gloves favor contrasting palms and novelty fabrics.

TODAY'S FASHION TIP.

Alligator handbags are being shown for wear with tailored costumes for fall—antelope is smartest for afternoon wear.

Roberts' parents and she has no idea just how old it is, but she knows that her parents started housekeeping with it in 1865.

A silver service in the Roberts' china cabinet was a wedding gift to Mr. Roberts' parents who were married in India in 1865. It includes a coffee pot a tea pot a cream pitcher and sugar bowl and a syrup pitcher.

It doesn't come under a heading of glass and china but the little mahogany English medicine chest the Roberts have is something you won't see every-day. It's filled with crystal bottles, with glass stoppers and has a drawer that pulls out and can be filled with pills. It, to belonged to Mr. Roberts' parents.

All this fits in with the other furnishings of the home—the walnut bedroom suite Mrs. Roberts' parents used to have, two pictures in round frames of Mr. Roberts' grandparents and two others in another room of his parents.

Mrs. W. W. Hair is one of the few women in Abilene who could serve a housefull of company entirely with antique glassware and china. She has a dozen daisy and button pressed glass goblets in amber and blue, service plates of milk glass, apple green daisy and button compotes and ice cream dishes in blue and amber.

At the Harry Tom King home, too, glassware and china is of olden days.

STAFFORDSHIRE PLATES. The most interesting of Mrs. King's Staffordshire plates is a blue plate with Washington at Valley Forge depicted on it. That, explains Mrs. King, was one of the ways the English potters persuaded residents of the new country to buy English wares. They used patriotic scenes of colonial days for decorations.

And in many cases that is the only pictured record we have of such events. The potteries sent artists over here to paint the scenes, and then returned home to boost trade from post-war America.

Mrs. King also has some clear glass goblets of pressed in the star and block and daisy and button patterns. A berry set she has is composed of a central bowl and 12 sauce dishes in blue Sandwich glass. A jelly tray in lacy sandwigh glass, belonged to Mr. King's mother, in milk glass, she has two compotes and 12 plates, all lacy edged.

Also in the corner cabinet in her colonial kitchen are two blue glass compotes in grape design, and a round tray with five glasses in daisy and button pattern, cobalt blue. She has a cream pitcher and sugar bowl in the same color but a different pattern—bird and fern. Another cream pitcher is of blown glass, hobnail in design. A footed opalescent blue butterdish and a set of square butter pads in canary yellow daisy and button should take care of the butter situation when Mrs. King entertains.

Meat Salad Ideal For Sunday Eve

Something cool and yet substantial are the requirements for the Sunday night supper, so why not have a meat salad? This is substantial enough to satisfy the heartiest appetite, and tasty enough to tempt the most lethargic one.

As to the kinds of meat salads suitable for the Sunday night supper, there are many. The meat is finely diced and combined with a variety of other foods. Crisp celery and pickles are ingredients of practically every meat salad, because of the crunchiness they add. Macaroni, carrots, apples, cucumbers, tomatoes, may be used in various combinations with meat.

Cut Meat Into Cubes.

The meat for a salad should be cut into pieces which are not so small that they lose their identity. For most salads one-fourth to one-half inch cubes of meat are best. And for a meat salad, there should be plenty of meat. Left-over cold roast pork, veal, lamb, or beef are ideal for this dish. Cold baked ham makes an excellent salad as does the ends of a pot-roast. In fact, practically every kind of already cooked meat may be used, so if there are to be guests for the Sunday night supper, perhaps you will want to leave a large roast of meat for the Sunday dinner, and make the left-over into salad for the supper.

Here are suggestions for hearty meat salads suggested by Inez S. Willson, home economist.

- Meat and Macaroni Salad.
3 cups diced meat
2 cups cooked elbow macaroni
1/2 cup diced celery
1/2 cup diced sweet pickles
- Salt and pepper
Salad dressing
Lettuce or escarole
Stuffed olives.

Have meat diced into one-fourth to half-inch cubes. Drain cooked macaroni and wash with cold water to prevent it sticking together. Combine meat, macaroni, diced celery and sweet pickles. Season with salt and pepper and moisten with salad dressing. Serve on a bed of lettuce or escarole and garnish with sliced stuffed olives.

- Tomatoes Stuffed with Ham Salad.
5 ripe tomatoes

Imbibers Really See Snake. SALINAS, Cal. (U.P.)—Bibulous participants in a recent rodeo had reached a point where when a snake appeared in the middle of the street, they were not sure it was really a snake or that they were "just seeing it." While the discussion was in progress an automobile came along, ran over the luckless snake, and settled the question.

A Book A Day

Full Flavored Tale in Tropical Setting.

In the foreword of "Guilty in the Tropics" (Sheridan House, $2.50), Author Edmund Whitman dedicated himself to making his reader "smell like the tropics, sweat under the brassy heat of the tropics, exit with the magnificent dawn and dusks of the tropics, and creep with the vermin of the tropics." He succeeded quite well; so well, in fact, that the book leaves you with a rather vivid picture of the setting and little of the rather inconsequential story's plot or action. The scene is a little Central American town sprawling between the bright tropic sea and the lush jungle. The town smells of fish, rotten fruit and the heavy, sweet perfume of bougainvillea; it swarms with a motley population—barefoot, lazy soldiers, inscrutable, thin-lipped Indians, full-bodied girls with luminous dark eyes, huge Jamaican negroes.

Against this background the author tells the story of a young American who kills a native in self-defense and of the American's adventure's with Central American justice, friendship and love.

Whitman has a nice flair for his characters—Fidel, the chap with the "surprised-looking toes"; Rosita, "as beautiful and as natural as water and as necessary"; the commandant, "thin and cruel as his own quilt." The style is simple, the author uses no tricks of writing, but he splashes the bright colors of his locale with broad strokes that obviously must come from intimate association.

No best seller, "Guilty in the Tropics" is good for a brief trip away from city lights and main streets into a land that is pictured romantically and at the same time stripped of its romance.—B. N.

Keys to Driving Safely Indexed

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. (U.P.)—Students in more than 7,000 high schools who take the supplementary course in safe automobile driving next year will be taught that "the American love of speed is the greatest cause of accidents."

They will learn that 15 to 20 miles an hour is too fast for certain conditions, and 30 miles an hour is too slow for other circumstances.

But in addition to theory they will have to drive an automobile to the satisfaction of their instructor before the "final exam" can be passed.

Their courses will be based on the extensive safety bibliography started by Prof. Amos O. Neyhart, of the Pennsylvania State College extension service department, who originated the course several years ago.

Inspected Early Classes. On leave of absence from the college to take charge of the American Automobile Association's safe driving campaign, Prof. Neyhart toured the United States last year to inspect results of his first few classes of high school teachers who returned to their respective schools to pass on Neyhart's instructions.

He reported 3,500 schools offered classes last year, and the number is to double itself this year. During the summer he taught classes of 30 high school teachers at a time in the art of safe driving.

Two completely dual controlled automobiles, with dual brakes, clutches and steering columns, are used by Neyhart in his "student" classes. These are supplemented with three other cars with dual clutches and brakes.

Lesson Ideas Pooled. Each teacher-student, in addition, is required to develop lesson plans incorporating points of safe driving learned on the college campus. These plans are pooled and will be the most complete set of safe driving lesson plans in the country.

The plans, transformed into the bibliography, and kept up to date, are available for teacher-students.

The list so far contains sound films, lantern slides, film strips and sound records.

Believing the course "limited to a certain extent" by requiring school teachers to come here for the course, Neyhart said that through the association, the "lessons" will be extended to other parts of the country, "to reach greater numbers of teacher-students and consequently larger numbers of high school students."

Paul Harrison in Hollywood

By PAUL HARRISON.
NEA Service Staff Correspondent.

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 11.—Short takes: Director Gregory La Cava read that a girl at Long Beach was severely mauled by a pet leopard, but he isn't worried about Katharine Hepburn having the handle the beasts in his next picture. He said, "Why, we could give the leopard the first bite—and he'd still lose."

Most studio pianos seen on sets are silent—without strings. The ones which can be played usually are sadly out of tune from being moved around. Edward Fraser, Paramount pianist, had to do some playing on the set the other day. After striking a few bars he sent this note to the property department: "Please bring over the saloon that goes with this piano."

Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau visited the "All Baba" set at 20th - Fox and watched Eddie Cantor. Before leaving, he thanked Mr. Cantor. Mr. Cantor thanked Mr. Morgenthau and said, "Mr. Secretary, if you go to see my picture I will buy a couple of government bonds."

Paradise Lost. A GIRL tourist crashed the gate at Paramount the other day, right on the heels of Gary Cooper, who also was only a visitor at the studio. She followed him into the cafe, and in her blind pursuit crashed headlong into a heavily loaded tray carried by a bus boy and was knocked cold.

A few minutes later she was revived in the manager's office and began moaning about missing Cooper.

"Why, dearie," soothed a waitress, "He was the guy who carried you in here!" At that, the girl swooned again.

Irving Hoffman, writing from Manhattan for the Hollywood Reporter, chuckles that "nothing is quite so dead as the 52d street which Walter Wanger is immortalizing (in a picture of that name) as a hurdy-gurdy highway."

"The Onyx, Yacht, Clover, Callente, and hair: a dozen other clubs are closed. Its aspect these nights is more ho-hum than hi-de-ho."

Speaking again of the "All Baba" flicker—some of the mob scenes have been shot again at considerable expense. The first time, three of the Arabs who showed prominently in the foreground forgot to remove their wrist watches.

"Sculptographing." THE autograph seekers are shopping for novelties. When Michael Bartlett drove into a parking lot near a preview theatre, a girl handed him a diamond ring and begged him to scratch his signature on a window of her coupe.

And Kay Francis was approached by a determined little boy lugging a knife and a live turtle. He said would she carve her initials and the date on the turtle's shell? She wouldn't.

In spite of her cool indifference, and snubs, and frank requests to please go away, Olivia de Havilland has been pursued for weeks by a prominent actor. He visited her set the other afternoon and hung around until she became jittery and began blowing up in her lines.

Then came a big denouement scene not in the script. She declared she wouldn't do another lick of work until the man was tossed off the lot. He left under his own power, but hurriedly.

Adolphe Menjou wishes Hollywood would pay just a bit more attention to clothes. He says the only place he can dress correctly and not feel conspicuous is in front of the camera.

The grizzly bear is called "the King of the Rockies," yet it will step aside to let a skunk pass along the trail.

Hot Weather is Here—Beware of Biliousness!

Have you ever noticed that in very hot weather your organs of digestion and elimination seem to become torpid or lazy? Your food sours, forms gas, causes belching, heartburn, and a feeling of restlessness and irritability. Perhaps you may have sick headache, nausea and dizziness or blind spells on suddenly rising. Your tongue may be coated, your complexion bilious and your bowel actions sluggish or insufficient.

These are some of the more common symptoms or warnings of biliousness or so-called "torpid liver," so prevalent in hot climates. Don't neglect them. Take Calotabs, the improved calomel compound tablets that give you the effects of calomel and salts, combined. You will be delighted with the prompt relief they afford. JACOBS, GAMBLING WITH GUARANTEES, CROWDS BOXING CALENDAR

FOUR TITLE BATTLES IN NIGHT BIG STUFF AND PROMISE FULL FALL AND WINTER PROGRAM

BY HARRY GRAYSON
Sports Editor, NEA Service

NEW YORK.—Marcel Thil's presence in the championship carnival at the Polo Grounds, Sept. 17, is a striking example of what a gambling promoter can accomplish.

Not that Thil is so important, but the Garden and other have been trying to entice the bald Frenchman to this country for a half dozen years.

It didn't take Mike Jacobs long to land Thil, however—just long enough to say $30,000.

Jacobs is overpaying four champions in presenting as many 15-round world title battles on the one night, but the new head man of the best busting business long ago was taught by the late Tex Rickard that purses frequently make the show.

Jacobs is guaranteeing $163,500 in purses alone in giving the trade four championships an hour apart at the Polo Grounds. Other expenses run the net up to $216,000, but Jacobs hardly can be charged with being optimistic when he says that the production will gross $400,000.

Lou Ambers is getting $50,000 and a privilege of 20 per cent of the net for laying his lightweight title on the line in an engagement with Pedro Montanez. Barney Ross collects $35,000 for tackling Ceferin Garcia at the welterweight limit, and Sixto Escobar $12,500 for permitting Harry Jeffra to come in at weight. Freddie Apostoli squares off with Thil.

Montanez and Ambers Main Attraction.
MONTANEZ is banking $25,000 of the $36,000 going to the challengers, which gives you a rough idea of the pulling power of his return engagement with Ambers. Garcia is being paid $50,000, Apostoli $35,000, and Jeffra $25,000.

The show is built around the Ambers-Montanez match.

SCHMELING NOW KNOWS THAT IF HE WANTS ACTION HE MUST TURN TO MAN WHO TALKS CASH

The other three bouts are for those who like quantity, but they make the card so unique that it can be sold at a $16.50 top, revive three divisions, and furnish a complete fall winter program.

The Ross-Garcia bout, for example, clears the way for a rich meeting between the welter leader and the survivor of the Montanez-Ambers meeting. Henry Armstrong also awaits Ambers.

Freddie Steele will get the Thil-Apostoli survivor, and Kayo Morgan of Detroit is in line for the next crack at the bantam bauble.

With another indoor season rapidly approaching, and handicapped by lack of capacity at the Hippodrome, Jacobs may be making matches for the Garden, but that's all right with him. He realizes that the more leather he can make fly the better things will be when he returns to the ball parks next spring.

Schmeling Must Wait Until Next June.

JACOBS' program for this fall is the most ambitious ever undertaken by a promoter.

He practically has Jim Braddock and Max Baer signed for either Chicago or Los Angeles in late September, and intends to put on the winners of the Ross-Garcia and Montanez-Ambers bouts in New York in early Oct.

These, coupled with his Joe Louis-Tommy Farr heavyweight championship at Yankee Stadium, Aug. 26, are just about all that can be crowded in before another indoor season sets in.

When Jacobs snatched Farr from Max Schmeling and the British promoters, it meant that Schmeling would have to wait until next June for anything of importance.

By now Schmeling must know what the remainder of the boxing world realized some time back. If he wants action, he'll have to come to Mike Jacobs. The old Broadway ticket scalper appears to be the only one who can stir it up in large quantities.

LEAGUE LEADING HARDWARE TEAM SACKED BY THE FORD, 15-3

Gulfers Upset Sinclair Club In Second Game

The "dope bucket" was completely kicked around last night out at the soft ball diamond when the second place Ford team showed they were very much in the running for the championship when they ran rough shod over the league leading Hardware club by a score of 15-3.

The V-8 boys caught Sherrod, Hardware pitcher, on an "off" night and blasted out a total of 17 hits off his delivery. After allowing two unearned runs in the first inning, Wright, Ford hurler who is rapidly becoming the number one pitcher in the league, was invincible, not giving up a hit until the sixth inning. The Hardware was able to get one run on the hit and an error, then made their second and final hit in the seventh.

Meanwhile, the Ford club, after overtaking the Hardware with a five run rally in the third inning, continued to find the range on Sherrod's hurling, counting six runs in the sixth inning and three in the seventh.

In the other game of the evening, the Gulf club outlasted the Sinclair to take an 8-7 decision. The game was a ding-dong affair all the way with the Sinclair managing to hold a lead gained in the first inning until the seventh, when the Gulf made it seven all, and finally came through in the ninth for the winning run. It was the first extra inning game of the season and one of the hardest played games to date.

The Hardware and Sinclair clubs will meet in the first game tonight, the Ford and Hotel clubs meeting in the second game of a pair of games postponed from August 2.

Marathon Swim At Galveston To Be Held Aug. 15

GALVESTON, Texas, Aug. 11.—Marathon swimmers from at least three states will compete here Sunday, August 15, in the first long-distance swim involving major purses ever to be held in the Southwest.

The $1,000 in cash that the Galveston Beach Association and the Turf Athletic Club is offering already has attracted swimmers from Louisiana, Wyoming and Texas, and officials sponsoring the event have predicted that Arkansas and Oklahoma also would be represented by the time the judges start the contestants over a five-mile grind parallel to Galveston Beach.

Already it is assured that the field will be a representative one, with amateurs and professionals, a 52 year old man and a 15 year old youngster, two members from the U. S. Coast Guard Service, and one woman swimmer on the entry list.

The woman is Miss Mildred Skjonnhaug, Casper, Wyoming, girl who aspires to the 1940 Olympic squad. Miss Skjonnhaug necessarily will enter the amateur division in order to keep alive her eligibility for the Olympics.

Both the age extremes are from Galveston, being Edward Skjonnhaug moved to a leprosarium.

Texas to Have 55,000 On WPA Payrolls Soon

AUSTIN, Texas, (AP)—Texas may have no more than 54,700 workers on Works Progress Administration payrolls by October.

H. P. Drought, state administrator, said a quota reduction was instituted in May when 77,000 persons were employed. About 14,000 were cut off by the end of July and approximately 8,300 more will have been removed by October.

Drought appealed to city and county officials to aid workers obtain private employment in order to make room for those now jobless and to reduce the number lacking means of earning a living.

He said law provides that any WPA workers who refuse private employment under reasonable working conditions and at wages at least equal to those paid him by WPA must be discharged.

Drought explained reductions were necessary because funds were insufficient to afford employment of all the workers enrolled by the WPA.

Indications are the yield on my contoured field will be greatly increased.

Contour Tillage Benefits Dawson

AUSTIN, Texas, (AP)—The U. S. Soil Conservation Service reports that contour tillage in the Lamesa area is increasing crop yields and saving expense of frequent replanting, sometimes necessary under the old straight-row system.

In addition, the service reports that soil and moisture conservation methods are doing much to control wind and water erosion in the 1-250,000 acres in the area including all of Dawson county and portions of Howard, Martin, Andrews, Borden, Lynn, Gaines and Terry counties.

The Houston, operating a 1,280-acre farm, said that in 1936 he planted cotton on 120 acres broken and planted to grain sorghum the previous year with a yield of 1-000 pounds of grain to the acre. Because the land sloped from one to five percent most of the rainfall was lost by run-off, and only three bales of cotton were produced. Houston estimates he lost at least four inches of top soil in two years because of wind and water erosion.

In the winter of 1936 he terraced the field and started farming on the contour and reported there was practically no run-off and replanting was unnecessary.

Indications are the yield on my contoured field will be greatly increased.

"Born Reckless" Is Sudden Death Drama

As tough as the armored car he drives in his one-man war against crime, Brian Donlevy pilots a wreck-proof car, on puncture-proof tires, behind bullet-proof glass--but the heart of this demon driver of the speedway isn't proof against love.

A story of ruthless taxicab-racketeer warfare in which a group of strong-arm mobsters, unsuccessful at levying a "protection" tax against the legitimate cab operators of a Western city, embark on a program of physical assault, the crime is highlighted by a series of spectacular automobile smash scenes.

PHILADELPHIA (U.P.)--"Oh, father, I hear the sound of church bells! Oh, say what can they be?" "Tis but a woman's hobby, daughter; a sight that's strange to see."

That's what they're reciting out Lansdowne way, for Mrs. Charles S. Musser has one of the strangest hobbies of all--the collection of rare bells. She gets them from church steeples, temple spires, cloistered monasteries, cow herds, school houses and everywhere else where the ringing of bells is used to declare a message.

In every corner of her house are bells. They come from the plateaus of Tibet, from the heart of the African jungle, and from the decks of storm-washed ships at sea.

One bell came from a Buddhist temple built back more than 500 years to the Ming dynasty. Another is from the battleship Maine, while a third is an altar bell from the Virgin Islands.

U. S. Promises Speedier News On Hurricanes

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (AP).--Expansion of weather bureau hurricane forecasting to make it the most efficient in the world is announced by the department of agriculture.

Stations in charge of expert forecasters and with all modern meteorological instruments are being established in more than a score of southeastern cities and on 25 scattered islands in the Gulf of Mexico and the Caribbean Sea. Virtually every important path for tropical storms has been dotted with stations from which the progress and intensity of storms will be reported, according to E. B. Calvert, in charge of the forest division of the weather bureau.

Earlier Warnings Assured. Under the new setup the weather bureau will be able to chart the path of any storm and issue warnings to ships and to coastal cities many hours before it reaches the mainland. New stations will augment many which have been in operation for years.

Special emphasis has been placed on the area surrounding the Florida peninsula by establishment of stations to the east and southeast of the mainland. It is from these directions that most storms approach.

The bureau's office at Miami, Fla., will cooperate with the director of the meteorological service of the Bahamas in checking the course of storms. They will exchange observations made with meteorological instruments and data on atmospheric conditions.

Observations from the Bahamas are collected by the director of the meteorological service at Nassau, radioed to the weather bureau station at Miami and sent out over the teletype circuit to all stations in the bureau's hurricane warning service.

"From ships at sea, better observations from the islands in the waters over which violent tropical wind storms travel, and faster communication systems, weather bureau forecasters at San Juan, P. R., New Orleans, Jacksonville and Washington can issue warnings of where the hurricane is likely to strike far enough in advance to protect life and property."

The hurricane season is from June 1 to Dec. 1. The greatest number of tropical storms in this area was 21 in 1933 and the fewest in 1890.

Florida and the West Indies have been the center of destructive hurricanes during the past 10 years. During the early part of the century Florida was relatively free from hurricanes, but the Louisiana and Texas coasts suffered heavily.

Dr. W. R. Gregg, chief of the bureau, has sent 150 small instruments to stations at Macon, Ga.; Maxwell Field, near Montgomery, Ala.; Vicksburg, Miss.; and Raleigh, N. C., for release in event of a storm, to record automatically the temperature, pressure and humidity in the path of such disturbance.

The instruments may rise 10 to 20 miles, recording atmospheric conditions. When the balloons carrying the instruments burst, the latter fall back to earth. The weather bureau pays $3 for each one returned. Information obtained from these instruments should aid in strengthening the bureau's hurricane warning service, Dr. Gregg said.

What an Eary Spectacle!

It must have been an okapi, not a wolf, that killed Little Red Riding Hood's grandma. Anyhow, "What big ears you have, grandma!" certainly fits an okapi better. One of the rarest of African jungle animals, Big Ears is listening to the roar of New York traffic, for the first time. It is the only captive okapi in the western hemisphere, has become a resident of the Bronx zoo.

'Harmony Dinner' Of Demos Missed By The President

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11. (AP) -- Senate democrats of all factions pledged support last night to their new leader--Senator Barkley of Kentucky--at a dinner which President Roosevelt declined to attend.

A letter from the President praising Barkley, but touching only lightly on the question of party harmony, was read. The chief executive, who was accused yesterday by Senator Cope land, of destroying party harmony, sent a letter to the party gathering, instead of attending. White house aides said "pressure of other things" prevented the President from going.

Copeland attended the dinner--announced as a banquet in honor of the new party leaders, Senator Barkley, of Kentucky--along with virtually all of his colleagues among the strife-ridden democratic ranks in the senate.

Senators in charge of the affair insisted it was purely social, to honor the new leader, and that no serious speeches were listed. Vice President Garner, who has been working persistently since his return from Texas to heal party wounds, was the presiding officer or toastmaster.

In selecting the speakers, senators in charge of the affair made an effort to choose representatives from all factions of the party, they included Senator Harrison, of Mississippi, the defeated candidate for
