The time to stop depression talk is before it gets started. You hear a little talk now about "getting out of it."

One of my reader-contributors writes to me as follows: "I have been thinking about you for a long time."

At least it was thoughtful of H. T. F. to say "just" inside, because not many of us can get far inside and meet the expenses of life's necessities.

It was long luck for the year and for little Bob Eddison when he turned up and had to have an operation for appendicitis yesterday afternoon.

The Texas drivers' license law falls way short. We ought to have a drivers' license law, but the licenses should be issued only after the applicant has been tested by a physician.

France Takes Official Note Of Esperanto

PARIS. (UP)—Esperanto, artificial international language, which is supposed to be the easiest amalgam of all the world's languages, is rapidly becoming an important language in France.

Esperanto, near which will figure signs of all Paris railroad stations, designed to guide the wandering foreigner. The Paris chamber of commerce is offering courses in the international language and there are several score stenographers who can take dictation or those wishing to send the air, the radio station regularly broadcasts part of its programs in this language.

Dr. I. L. Zamenhoff, who invented the artificial language, perhaps would be more pleased with a sign of literary recognition. A short time ago one of the "Esperanto" was presented at the Sorbonne in a case reported of a minister who delivered his sermon in Esperanto.

Flower Fashion

A pair of tough leather gloves is a useful accessory for the flower lover, especially for handling roses. There is no flower more suitable to carry for a fall wedding than the gladiolus.

When you do not have time to arrange your flowers, have the florist deliver an arrangement already made.

The orange, trifolium, or red-hot poker is a fall flower which typifies the season.

The spicy scent of the carnation makes it one of the most desirable centerpiece flowers. Make a light, airy arrangement of a few flowers for a change using a frog or holder to keep the blooms in place.

Asters and gladioli are the most plentiful flowers of the season. Get your share of them when they can be had economically.

There is nothing so gay at a foot-ball game as the huge chrysanthe-mums the crowds wear.

Flowers appear well under candle light.

Some types of arrangements are difficult to make even with a hold-er to keep flowers in place. When you are contemplating a party, be-cause of the florist for a few lengths of wire.

If you enjoy a real floral per-fume, wear a gardenia.

Foliage plants are the easiest to keep and the longest lasting. Se-lect a plant that has a few occa-sional waterings to last for months.

Evening corsages should be worn at the bosom when the shoulder straps are narrow and the neckline low. For high necked gowns, a gar-land of blooms is more often best.

The fiery red tritomas may be used alone in an arrangement. Make use of their curved stems to form pleasing lines.

If you have a few flowers left from that dinner centerpiece, use them as a spot of color on your purse.

The huge 10 inch chrysanthe-mums are the most memorable, but the tiny pompon types are the most useful.

General Wolfe was only 32 years old when Quebec was captured.

A Book A Day

$2.50 has just been released. Son of an aristocratic German officer, high in the councils of the Kaiser during the World War. Steel fled to America because he saw only a dead past in Ger-many. He has returned to his native land to take up his first citizenship here — and announces that he's here to stay.

Writing without rancor, Steel paints a gloomy and sometimes terrifying picture of the present and future in all Central Europe and in the Balkans. He tells of the Kaiser, the days of inflation.

From these feverish scenes Steel carries the reader with him as an agent of the German gov-ernment, selling second-hand war materials under the noses of the Allies. He was instrumental in providing German factories with an industrial outlet to Poland, and from this he progressed to indus-trial sabotage and espionage.

Steel, however, was unable to reconcile his own beliefs with the policies of Hitler's regime. At the outbreak of his career, he was virtually into Hitler's teeth.

There is no melodrama, nothing heroic in Steel's recital. And the story is all the more forceful be-cause of its compression and fac-tual handling. — V. V.

German Flees From "Dead Past" of European Nations

There is but one hope for an al-ling word, and that is the democ-racy of America, in the opinion of Johannes Steel, whose "Escape of the Present" (Farrar and Rinehart, Inc., New York, N. Y., 1937) is now on the shelves.

Steel fled to America because he saw only a dead past in Ger-many. He has returned to his native land to take up his first citizenship here — and announces that he's here to stay.

Hollywood Bowls You Over With Salad

Here's a new Hollywood Bowl. Made of wood, it is filled with crisp lettuce, broccoli, tomatoes and other vegetables in mouth-sized pieces to make a man-sized meal in itself.

Wooden Dish Is Ideal Kind to Use

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Service Staff Writer.

It may be Hollywood, but the watch their diet, seek stream-lined figures and vital energy. They demand salad bowls with every meal. Yes, right through the year. It's getting along toward fall now and they begin to change non-summer diets. The below will take you behind the scenes of many a star's kitchen and reveal how they eat for health and glamor.

A few notes first on salad bowls themselves. Use a wooden one and keep it for green salads and nothing being ribbed with garlic and anointed with oil over a pe-riod of time, your wooden bowl will achieve a delicious personal-ity and play a leading role in making your salads taste better.

To clean the wooden bowl, wipe it out with a damp soft cloth, or near intense heat. Follow these simple rules and that flavor-some bowl will never warp or crack.

Village Clings To Old Caucus On Candidates

WELLINGTON, O. (UP)—Phi-many election voters here again have upheld a record held year after year—three votes in all were cast.

Election laws require that pri-mary election be held in a town the size of Wellington. Local citi-zens, however, prefer to ignore this method of selecting candidates for their own method of selection—a "peoples' caucus."

At this "peoples' caucus," in ef-fect here for 30 years, any citizen wishing to run for any office merely files his intention at a local drug store, paying a registration fee of $1.00. This "top-down" registra-tion method lasted about 10 days before the caucus.

While technically a primary elec-tion, the caucus is as good as elec-tion because the "peoples' choice" invariably wins.

The 9 votes cast in this year's primary were all in the third pre-district. There are five precincts in the village.

Weather Signs Crossed By Deer and Geese

DALLAS, Tex. (UP)—Nobody pre-dicts coming weather in Texas, where even the best signs fail.

Pet deer near Clarendon, Tex., are putting on a new winter coat, days ahead of time. Texans started to prepare for an early winter.

Then Tom McDougal, Bonham, Tex., newspaper man, noticed a flock of geese flying south. Mc-Dougal recalled the old Indian weather prophecies.

"We'd have a late autumn," he informed his readers.

A Graphic Picture Story By NEA'S and Reporter-Telegram's Staff Photographer

So This Is War

—or if it isn't, history has never known a war. Neither China nor Japan has made a formal declaration, but Rudolph Brandt, ace NEA and Reporter-Telegram staff photographer, finds the savage hostilities raging in the Shanghai zone just like the savage hostilities in any other war—homes burned, hundreds killed, civilians bombed in the streets, children maimed, families starving. Brandt brings you here photographic evidence of war—under any name.

Pillage

Tattered clothing in the middle of this battle-marked native city street—dropped by a homeless coolie who had neither time nor thought to gather up his belongings as he fled in hysterical terror before the hurrying death from the heavens that scattered his family, seeking any haven, anywhere.

Destruction

Bombs from the skies left this home of some prosperous Shanghai merchant a shambles. Left almost intact, ironically, is the railing around what once was a balcony. Branches, even some of the bark, were blown off the trees in front of the house. The roof and walls were blasted into small bits.

Death

All the fearful, grotesque horror of war is encompassed in the distorted features of this Chinese man. The Chinese people are victims of war. A bomb tossed from the air left him a victim of war. Force of the explosion tore all except narrow strips of clothing from the upper part of his body, killing him instantly.

Desolation

From cover of outposts like this, Brandt photographs the war.

Unutterably lonely, a black and white kitten crept back to its doorstep when the rain of destruction on Chapei ended, crept back to meow a plea that went unanswered because all the rest had fled before a destructive force that played little tricks—like killing hundreds of humans and leaving a tiny bewildered kitten.

OKLAHOMA CITY ERRORS GIVE FIRST GAME OF PLAY-OFF TO CATS, 5-4

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 22 (AP)—Little Jackie Reid stopped the Oklahoma City Indians here last night with plenty of help from the umpires. With one run across and the third strike on Paul Easterling, the World Cats off to a flying start in the Texas League championship series with a 5-10-4 victory. In a game packed with all the suspense and drama of a dime novel, the Panthers broke up a 3-10-3 tie with a two-run spurge in the first inning. Then with one run across and the third strike on Paul Easterling, the Indians, who committed mistakes in the field, let their defense go to pieces in that disastrous last inning. Three crucial errors were enough to turn one ninth-inning hit into two runs.

Traffic Officer Scores Use of Metal Whistle

BINGHAMPTON, N. Y. (UP)—When George Westlar, traffic policeman, loses his lower front teeth, the city of Binghampton will have to buy him a whistle.

For the past eight years he has been known as "the cop who whistles," turned in the old brass whistle furnished by the police department, explaining that he could do well enough with his tongue and teeth.

Motorists say they cannot distinguish his natural whistle from blasts which other traffic patrolmen make on their brass whistles.

Country Wins Over City As Preferred Mail Job

BARNSTAD, N. H. (UP)—Buck in 1919 John Moore was a rural letter carrier here while John King was a carrier in a Boston suburb. Moore thought he'd like city life. King felt a yearning for the country.

So they swapped jobs. But the other day Moore resumed rural work as a rural carrier. And King is still covering his rural route.
