Legion Asks Biggest Navy In The World

Also Recommend an Increase in the Standing Army

NEW YORK, Sept. 23. (AP)—The American Legion's national defense program, calling for the biggest navy in the world and big increases in the standing army and the national guard, was adopted at the nineteenth annual convention today.

The legion recommended continuation of the citizens military training camps and reserve officers training corps. It also recommended that the navy be expanded to include all of the world's oceans.

Mrs. Malcolm Douglas, Seattle, was elected president of the auxiliary. Legion officers are to be elected this afternoon.

For this honor—for the job of succeeding Harry Colney of Kansas—two lawyer-fishmen were out in front.

John Kelly, Detroit's corporation counsel.

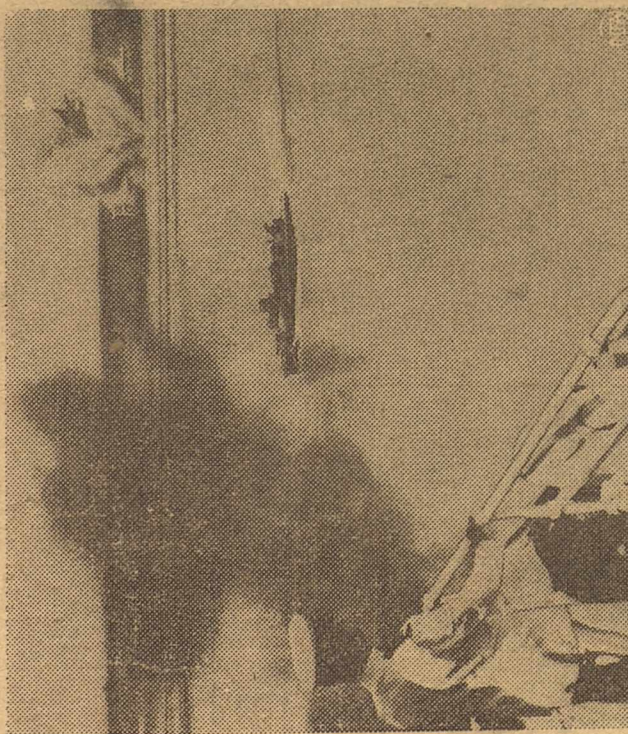

The matter progressed just as it does in a political convention; there were whippers of "deals"; and Doherty and Kelly adherents advertised their men as widely as any candidate on anything ever was advertised.

Doherty men claimed they would elect their man on the first ballot today. The Kellyists conceded nothing. Most unofficial speculation inclined toward Doherty.

Three others were in the race, U. S. Stambaugh of Fargo, N. D.; Robert H. Smith of St. Louis; and Stephen G. Clark of St. Louis.

Secretary of War Harry Woodring spoke of an international scene that was "clouded," but in this scene, he said, the president and Secretary of State Cordell Hull were "pursuing a direct and logical course," and were doing everything possible to prevent the spread of the contagion of war.

As Bullets Sprayed U. S. Ship

This graphic war photograph was taken from the American liner President Lincoln at Shanghai. An American officer stands at the line's rail in the foreground; in the river is a department store boat, racing between the U. S. ship and Chinese store-boats in the background. Machine gun bullets, warship, were striking the American liner when the photograph was taken.

Stanolind 1 Slaughter Flows 432 Barrels on 24 Hour Test

By FRANK GARDNER. Stanolind Oil & Gas Company No. 1 Alex Slaughter, second producer in Hockley county and two and one-half mile southeast extension of the 31-well area, flowed 432 barrels of 31-degree oil, official 24-hour gauge through 3/4-inch choke on tubing, Gas-oil ratio 1.1808 to 1. With first pay encountered at 4,940, the well reached a total depth of 4,975 feet, and was treated with a total of 6,000 gallons of acid, then shot with 180 pounds of dynamite. The well is one-fourth of the southwest quarter of the 76, league 37, Zavalla county school land.

Frank A. Bates No. 1 F. S. Lockett, southern Hockley test eight miles east of the Stanolind producer, is drilling unchanged at 4,844 feet in line. In southeast Cochran, Wiggins, Lawson and Hyde No. 1 Dean, remains flows yesterday while swabbing. It may be re-acidized. The same operator's No. 1-A Dean, wildcat five miles northeast of the No. 1, is drilling below 4,460 feet in line and anhydrite.

Editor Wildcat Hits Water.

Editor Wildcat, Editor of the Hockley Standard, has been hit by a wildcat. The well, located in the southeast corner of section 41, block 43, township 2 south, T. & P. survey.

The mile-south extension to the Foster pool in Ector, Mid-Continent No. 1 Wanda Hinkle, had 2,600 feet of oil in the hole while cleaning out 800 cavities 90 feet of bottom. The well was drilled to 4,315 feet with 400 quarts from 4,185 to 4,310.

Economic Condition Of State Declared Sound

AUSTIN, Sept. 22.—Consulting more bonds have been approved in the last two years than in any similar period in the history of Texas. The impressive factor in the record of bond issue approvals, was that is the fact that little if any of the money general added, was that is available to the public government building programs.

To understand the significance of the present steady flow of issues through our office," he said, "it is essential to sketch in the background. During my administration as secretary general there have been bonds at a considerably lower rate of interest.

The first phase of the period was the refunding period. Beginning early in 1935, the federal government started calling in government bonds at a considerably lower rate of interest.

This released a huge surplus of funds immediately, took advantage of the low interest rates then available to sell their own bonds at a lower rate. During the first eight months of 1936, scores of such bond issues were approved. The turning-over of refunding bonds was tremendous.

'Hot Money' Curb Idea Of Two Nations

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23. (AP)—The hint of possible mutual action by the United States and England to curb international "hot money" movements through taxation came today from Secretary of Treasurer Morgenthau.

The problem of international capital movements and the effect on domestic economy have been under study by the government departments for more than a year. Morgenthau said he would discuss the matter with the British representative Saturday.

Negro's Plea of Guilty to Crime Refused By Judge

MARSHALL, Sept. 23. (AP)—Roscoe Young, negro charged with robbery and assault, was given the death penalty today by a jury which deliberated only six minutes.

MARSHALL, Sept. 23. (AP)—Both sides rested today in the trial of Roscoe Young, negro, charged with robbery and assault on Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Reed, Longview, near Hallsville last month.

Both Reed and his wife identified the negro as one of the two who attacked them. After the state rested, Young pleaded guilty to the robbery. What Mrs. Reed testified I did, did the defendant's brother, Henderson Young, was given a death sentence two days ago for his part in the attack.

MARSHALL, Sept. 23. (AP)—Roscoe Young, negro on trial on a charge of robbery and assault in connection with robbery and assault on a Longview couple near Hallsville a month ago, today asked the court Wednesday for permission to plead guilty, but the request was refused after questioning by the judge.

Young's attorney still wanted the court to let him plead guilty. He said he would not be able to get a lawyer for his client. He said he would not be able to get a lawyer for his client.

Constitution Speech Made by Sealy at Rotary Luncheon

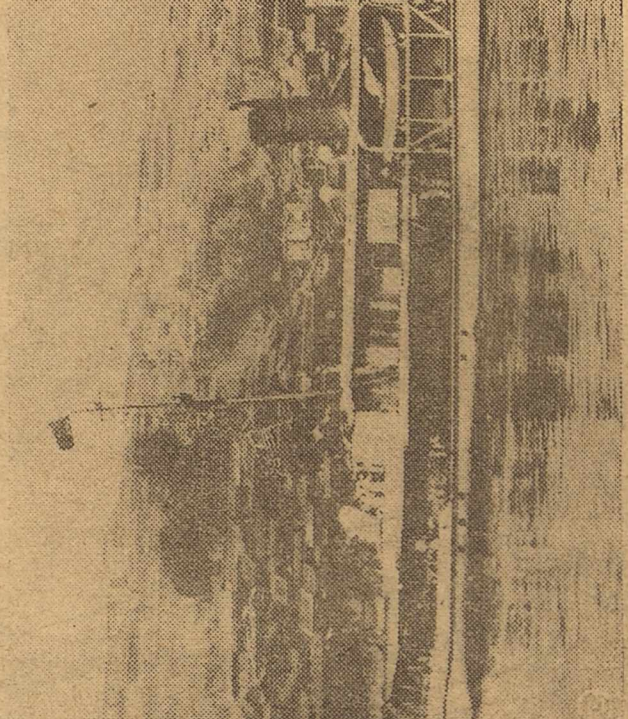

When a law is passed by congress, approved by the president and declared valid by the supreme court of the United States, citizens may rest assured that it was drawn up according to terms of the constitution, said Tom Sealy, Midland attorney, in an address to the Rotary luncheon here today.

His talk was on the constitution of the United States, commemorating one hundred fiftieth birthday September 17. He reviewed the history of the document, telling of its framing and signing at 1787.

constitutional convention of 1787, create a central government, settle the conflict leading up to its final acceptance, and then recited its preamble. He told of the passage of the first ten amendments, constituting the "bill of rights."

The speaker pointed out which amendments were approved. See FINGERPRINTS Page 6

Floating Refuge of Americans In Nanjing

The river gunboat Luzon, shown above anchored in the Yangtze river, was the refuge of American Ambassador Nelson T. Johnson, his staff, and some 20 other Americans as Japanese naval and air forces prepared to bomb Nanjing, ancient capital of China. The Luzon took aboard the embassy staff and other Americans and was to steam up-river out of bombing range. Built especially for service along the Chinese rivers, the Luzon has been a fixture along the Chinese coast for years.

Shiva Temple, Where Scientists Seek 'New World'

On this verdant island in the sky 4500 feet above the bottom of picturesque Grand Canyon, a party of scientists led by Dr. Harold E. Anthony of the American Museum of Natural History, searched for a "new world." This unusual aerial view shows at right the tortuous sandy cliffs which it took five hours to ascend and seven hours to descend. Across the temple's heavily wooded terrain the scientists located their camp on the edge near the cleared spot in the center foreground. The first animals they trapped or shot all appeared related to specimens common to the vicinity. They found traces of other animal life but not animals.

Doomed to Lifetime Of Law Obedience As Parents Have Fingerprints of Two Year Old Son Taken And Placed On File

By JESS RODGERS. Little Bobby Stubbeman, two-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stubbeman, was probably doomed to a life of law obedience today when his fingerprints and his father's prints taken, to be recorded in Washington.

Should the youngster decide later to become a safe blower or on some other such a line for a living, he will find it embarrassing as his father's prints are on file in Washington as he lives. It will be easier for him to just go ahead and obey the law, not to say troublesome incidents of non-obedience.

Anybody that students be fingerprinted, school authorities have made it a rule to wear gloves all the time. And besides, gloves cost money. Suppose he did decide to become a lock expert. He couldn't "do" it without getting his fingerprints on a "job." Such a dilemma is too sad to think of.

Bobby's dad is a lawyer and if he becomes one when he grows up, he will be in a kind of embarrassing spot sometimes. He can say "I back where we started, so well am no crook because my fingerprints were taken."

Frank Cowden, rancher whose summer home is in Midland, was in the chamber of commerce today on a large heads of beargrass which he has a good crop. Except for a few stalks, which were demonstrated.

Anxiety Felt For Safety of 5 Americans

Japanese Gains Are Claimed in Area South of Shanghai

SHANGHAI, Sept. 23. (AP)—Two thousand Chinese, most of them refugees, today were estimated killed or injured in the two-day Japanese aerial bombardment of Canton.

Thousands roam the streets, bewildered and almost crazed with anger and fear. Five Americans believed to have remained in Canton, which the Japanese have bombed daily.

Convicted the Japanese new bomb-proof shelter provides a safe refuge, American Ambassador Nelson Johnson said he would remain in Nanjing.

Johnson said their third army had shattered the Chinese defense line north of Paotingfu and had driven Chinese back within a mile of their strategic base 80 miles south of Peiping.

Japanese claimed to have destroyed 65 Chinese planes in raids on Nanking and Canton. Understood Great Britain is planning to take the Washington pact guaranteeing China's territorial integrity as a last resort to bring Japanese to an international conference to stop the war.

SOME BIRDS BUILD THEIR NESTS IN A DAY; OTHERS REQUIRE MONTHS!

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
The Midland Reporter-Telegram Washington Correspondent, WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—Dr. Rexford Guy Tugwell, quitting the Roosevelt administration, said he reminded himself of the small boy who hunted squirrels with stones and didn't kill any but at least annoyed the hell out of them.
Tugwell's strange remarks came in a speech before a luncheon and dinner given by the Midland chapter of the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

This is the second of four stories on the President's brain trust's by Rodney Dutcher.
* * * * *
* Whatever else Tugwell did didn't do after he became Roosevelt's Brain-Truster Number One, you may be sure of these facts:
* 1. Tugwell always gave Roosevelt his own honest convictions, severely criticized several New Deal programs in inner councils and was far from the "yes man" type.
* 2. Tugwell continually reminded himself of the small boy who hunted squirrels with stones and didn't kill any but at least annoyed the hell out of them.

Porcupine-Lion Battle Ends in Death for Both
NAIROBI, India. (UP)—A grim battle between a lion and a porcupine which ended in the death of both is described in the annual report of the game warden at Tanganyika.
While hunting a man-eating lion a game ranger was told by natives that they had fought a porcupine which had fought a lion. Nearby was a dead porcupine and 100 yards away a dead lion with five quills in its chest. Two of them had pierced the heart.
The natives said that the lion attacked the porcupine, which shot his quills, but was killed by the lion before the beast succumbed.
The same report records the fate of a lion which attacked a native woman. The woman's mother ran to her daughter's home and told her that a lion was being dragged to the lion den. The woman's mother and her son arrived and struck the lion between the eyes with an axe, killing it. The mother and daughter were so severely injured that both died.

My old friend Mr. Drake, who helps entertain the jokesters down on South Main street, and who returned several years ago from cotton farming, got a big laugh out of the following clipping from a Yuma, Ariz., paper, mailed to him by his daughter. Read it and see if you can pick a flaw in it:
While Cotton is the overcoat of a seed that is planted in the southern states to please the producer broke and buyer crazy.
The fiber varies in color and weight and the man who can guess the nearest the length of the fiber is called a cotton man by the public, a fool by the farmer

Number of Workers in Texas Industry Shows August Gain

AUSTIN.—The number of workers in Texas industry was moderately larger than during the like month last year, and the total payroll of these workers was substantially above that of August last year, a report by the Bureau of Business Research of the University of Texas, as said.
"Reports from over 1,800 Texas establishments show a total of 94,922 workers in August last year, an increase of 23.9 per cent over the corresponding week last year." Cities in which the gains in both chartered with capitalization of $100,000 or more, which was double the number with such capitalization in July and more than double that of August last year.

Moderate Increase in Charters Given

AUSTIN.—There was a moderate increase in the number of new corporations in Texas which were incorporated during August, both over the preceding month and the corresponding month last year, according to the Bureau of Business Research of the University of Texas. In contrast with the relatively small gain in the number of new corporations, the increase in capitalization was quite marked, the number of new charters over both months totaling 141, which was 6.8 per cent over the like month last year. Capitalization of these companies totaled $4,030,000, an increase of 96.4 per cent over July and 74.4 per cent over August last year.

He Worked Toward Ideal

TUGWELL was a Columbia University professor called in by Ray Moley as an agricultural expert in 1932 campaign. He never helped in the Roosevelt administration. As Assistant Secretary and Undersecretary of Agriculture with increasing importance as general adviser to a President who he thought believed in a new social order, Tugwell worked as hard as he could to bring about a more efficient administration. He would be glad to admit he never made much progress.
Business men never understood Tugwell, except as they felt his opposition to "unfair profits." Tugwell felt the New Deal mission was to find a middle way between Fascism and Communism.
Tugwell was an impatient toward "greedy" politicians and business men. To have retained his position as chief adviser he would have had to handle his AAA and Resettlement jobs with great caution and tact. But at AAA Tugwell and General Counsel Jerome Frank didn't baffle milk and patent medicine trusts, bathing hopefully but vainly for consumers.
In February, 1935, Frank, his assistant Lee Pressman, Fred Howe and others were "purged" from AAA by Secretary Wallace at the behest of AAA chiefs: farmer organization chiefs and other lobbyists.
Collided With Congress.
Tugwell inherited rural rehabilitation loans, subsistence homesteads, a land acquisition program and he added his own community housing experiments with their handtraps of required relief labor.
RA was an experiment in giving individuals a stake at considerable public expense and attempting to push them into the "abundant life." Friends and well-wishers were made in early personnel. Some waste, inefficiency and maladministration appeared. Some fancy ideas, a tendency to bat down all critics with the slogan "nothing is too good for these people," collided with a skeptical Congress and a limited budget.
Tugwell allowed himself to be pushed or drawn into conflict with the more compromising, go-slow "Frankfurter liberals." This split added confusion to an already confused New Deal.
Then Wallace, urged by the old AAA chief, Secretary of Agriculture, into the Department of Agriculture resigned to accept executive vice-presidency of Charlie Taussig's American Molasses Company.
Tugwell's influence is felt all gone. He is intimate with Harry Hopkins. Roosevelt's present chief

NEW ORLEANS (UP)—David C. Loker, father of 10 children and a member of one of New Orleans' most exclusive clubs, has been out on his last night in 20 years and has never seen a talking picture.
 The amiable father of two debutantes and three sub-debts often greets his daughters and sons coming in at dawn with a cheery "good morning," but he has none of the night life of the city. Loker, a brother-in-law of former Mayor Semmes Walmsley, has done his share of the "chasing around." Dr. Fraser Gives 16 Body Elements In Health Lecture

The sixteen vital elements of the body and how they function was the featured discussion at the lecture-demonstration given yesterday by Dr. Rose A. Today is the last day of the three-day health school, and the general public is invited to attend the free lecture, in the annex of the First Methodist church, on North Main street. Today Dr. Fraser is giving the foods that contain the sixteen elements, and she will also interpret the vital elements of the body from the creation of

System of Communications Advanced Rapidly By Army Tests Now Going On

FORT SAM HOUSTON, Tex. — Between the division headquarters and the three infantry regiments and one field artillery regiment. Success in battle depends on the quick and accurate transmission of the messages to the subordinate commanders on the front.

Systems of communication have been developed rapidly in the army since the war and the military has taken every possible advantage of scientific discoveries in the modern means of communication.

Every conceivable mode of communication will be used during the test of the proposed new infantry division now underway at Fort Sam Houston, which will continue through November 13, field printers telegraphically operated by improved Morse code telegraphic systems, improved field telephone systems, and even visual signal methods will be in use during the test.

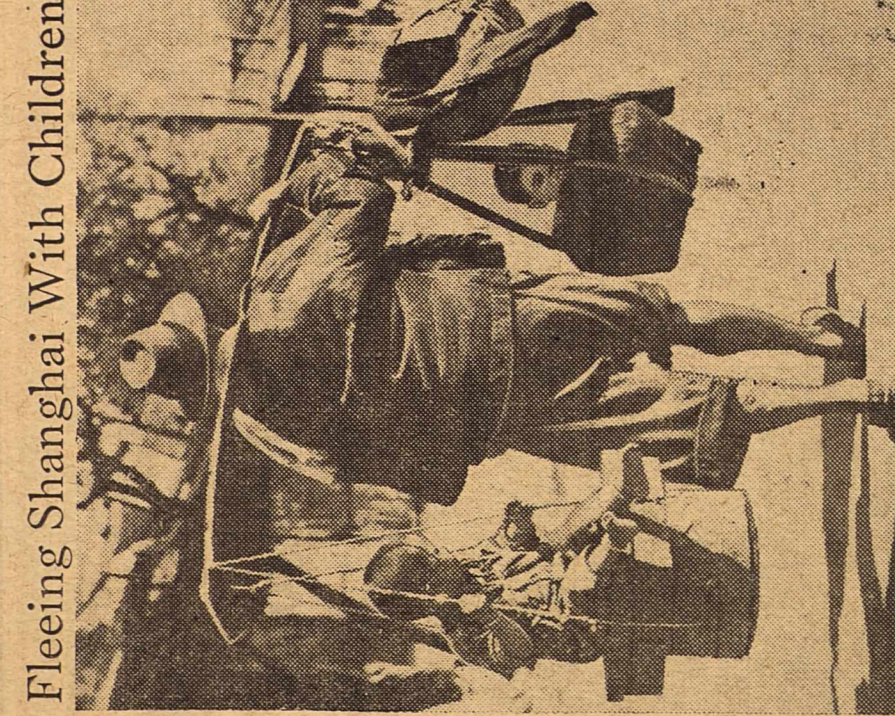

Under the proposed division communications is being tried out. Signal Corps will take over the establishment, maintenance and operation of communications and division headquarters down to and including infantry battalions and from division headquarters down to field artillery battalions, as well as to the various command and staff officers.

Under the division organization now in use in the United States, every army regiment, battalion, company or battery is responsible for the successful operation of its own signal system. Infantrymen, artillerymen, and other troops are assigned to the job of setting up and running their own phone, radio or telegraphic systems from the brigade down to their respective units.

Under the present set-up the Signal Company of the division is fully responsible for establishing and operating the communication system from the division headquarters down to the infantry or field artillery brigades, and operate the installations around division headquarters.

Organizers of the "stream-lined" division have abolished the brigade set-up, which formerly provided for separate signal systems for each division.

Now there are three infantry regiments and one field artillery regiment of four battalions. The function of the division signal company remains the same in the new division—that of laying lines and maintaining communication between

Bay to Alaska, the Japanese are endeavoring to open up a new market for such an extent as to threaten the eventual depletion of that fish on this side of the Pacific.

Then, beginning with the states of Oregon and Washington, and extending along Canada and on to Alaska, complaints are entering on the salmon industry as practiced by Lays Don't Apply.

Fishing as they do, outside the three-mile territorial water limit, there are not subjected to any of the measures imposed by the American and Canadian governments on their own nationals for the protection of their fish during their spawning season.

In addition to the restrictions that are placed on salmon fishing from streams like the Columbia river and similar streams in Canada, both American and Canadian fishers are greatly restricted in their catch of fish in British Columbia and Alaska.

Alaskan spawning grounds of the north. The Japanese, on the contrary, by operating their fishing boats and reduction plants just outside the three-mile limit are able to catch all seasons of the year fish spawning in American and Canadian waters, and to which American and Canadian fishermen are not permitted to access only during certain periods.

Only Experiment.

While surveys made by the Canadian and American fishing interests in these waters report a goodly number of Japanese fishing boats and reduction plants, the Japanese insist they have only two such plants in operation. The Japanese are being operated as part of an experiment by the Japanese government.

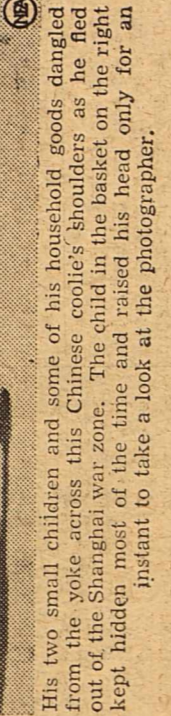

Almost simultaneously, however, similar complaints have reached the Pacific coast fishery organizations from other portions of the Pacific countries. Australia, it is asserted that just as the Commonwealth government is endeavoring to put in a fishing conservation program, especially to keep from depleting the whales, Japan is setting up a competitive industry, always outside the three-mile territorial water line, not only off the Alaskan coast but off that of India as well.

The Japanese, it is stated, will have at least six reduction plants for whales off the Australian coast this year, where heretofore they have not exceeded two. Other European countries, especially the Scandinavian ones, are also expected to become competitors in the Australian waters.

According to information received here a joint effort may be undertaken by the Pacific and the United States, if possible, to secure an extension of the three-mile limit, and limiting the spawning season so as to make up a competitive industry, always outside the three-mile territorial water line, not only off the Alaskan coast but off that of India as well.

Increase Fleet.

The Japanese, it is stated, will have at least six reduction plants for whales off the Australian coast this year, where heretofore they have not exceeded two. Other European countries, especially the Scandinavian ones, are also expected to become competitors in the Australian waters.

PRIZE TURTLES ARE SPEEDY.

Frank Allen is pretty proud of his stable of thoroughbred racers. They are turtles, 18 of them, and every one is capable of covering ten feet (10) in less than a minute.

Approximately 100 people, including children, aged and the sick, are absolutely dependent.

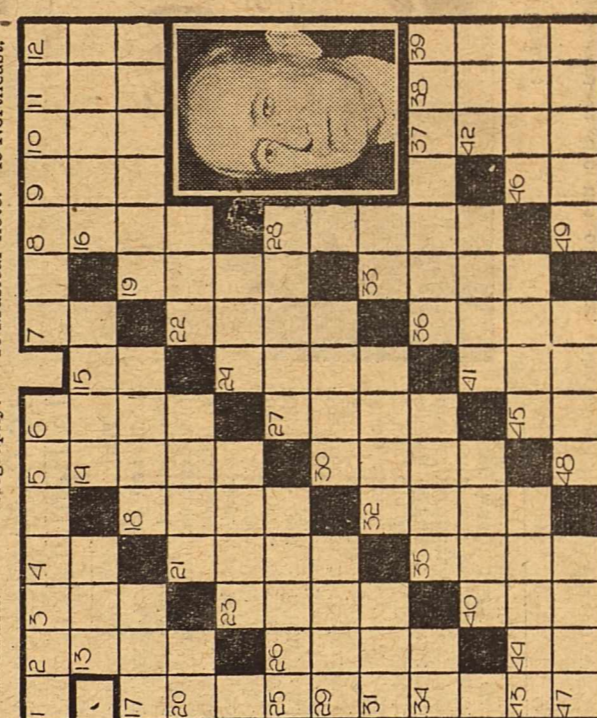

Two small children and some of his household goods dangled over the side of the boat. The child in the basket on the right kept hidden most of the time, but he was rescued only for an instant to take a look at the photographer.

Widespread Complaints.

The Japanese are fishing off the three-mile territorial water limit of the Pacific by the extent of the central fishing organizations here.

As far south as Panama and Mexico and on up to Southern California the complaint is made against the capture of the tuna fish.

Farther north, from Monterey during the spawning season.

Jap Fishermen Cause Worry By Their Zeal

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal. (UP) — Combined action against Japanese fishing for foreign waters may be made by the various fishing associations along the American coast, as well as those of Canada, Australia and other British possessions, according to fishing associations here.

The situation is a peculiar one, in that, while fishing off the coasts of all of the above countries, the Japanese are within their international rights, but are none the less depleting various lines of fish for the home market.

INJURIES, ILLNESS WRECK BULLDOGS ON EVE OF BIG LAKE GAME

THREE REGULARS DEFINITELY OUT OF FRAY; COACHES PESSIMISTIC OVER CHANCES OF BEATING HEAVIER CLUB

It's a good thing coaches Bud Taylor and Bob Myer have decided to ease up on the Bulldogs tonight or they might not have 11 men able to stagger out on the field tomorrow night in their scheduled game against the behemoth Big Lake Owls.

Injuries have appeared like weeds after a rain this week and the team's chances of victory have not been enhanced by them. Sickness has also taken its toll.

Admittedly disappointed and far from satisfied with the showing made last week by the team in their win over Peecos, the coaches have reacted to the boys' what work was done.

All the injured will probably be able to take their place in the starting line-up tomorrow night with the exception of Van Dyke, and Taylor. Van received an injury to his neck that may possibly cause him to ride the bench at least for the time being.

Marion Taylor, big back, reported sick yesterday and was unable to report for drill.

One of the members of the team declares the coaches caught one of the second stringers crying the other night and he asked what was the matter. The kid replied that someone slugged him under the chin.

It is the kind of game the coaches are playing. Making this week, it has been like the boys and Lord have mercy on those who couldn't take it.

Truman Whitaker seems to have started something last week when he complained of pains, which he diagnosed as appendicitis. Only a couple of days ago Red Edson checked up with real appendicitis and the doctor stepped in and removed not only all of the pains but also the appendix.

At Edson's spot in the line the coaches have been trying out only six boys. Peegos and from the "Rocky" Ford, Temple Harris, White and Wilson have been used at the position. If Taylor is able to go, there is a chance either White or Wilson will get some work in the line.

A complete diagnosis of what is ailed by the boys is being completed, but if it is found to have come necessary and an operation next week exact to move Woody Adams from his tackle position into the backfield. Such a move is one they don't want to make but their great-ess handicap at the start of the season is now finding out what it is like to get a winning team out of eight proven men and a hand full of green youngsters.

So, go ahead and bet on the Bulldogs if you think eight is a better number than 11, but don't give any points.

FORT WORTH GOES TWO UP OVER THE OKLA. CITY CLUB

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 23. (AP)—The Fort Worth Cats staged a four-run rally in the ninth inning to whip the Oklahoma Indians, 10 to 6, here last night and move into a two-up lead in the final Straight-Flight Series. The Cats' victory over the Tarheels leaped on their League championship.

Oklahoma City pitchers for 14 hits, but it was Ash Hillm who had to take the blame again.

The big right-hander who was voted the league's most valuable player this season after he set a record with the Indians, went into the victim of the Cats' vicious last-inning assault.

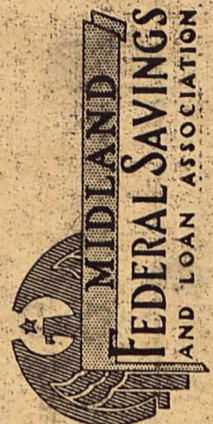

Hillm also lost the opener. Like the Number One game of the series, the battle was crammed with mistakes. Arving Paul LeBlanc, from the mound in the fifth, the Indians held onto a 6 to 4 advantage until the Cats knocked the score with two runs in the eighth.

The Payoff

BY JESS RODGERS.
District 7-B is going to have a leader after this week, and it is going to be Stanton. Peecos—either Monahans or Odessa—will be the runner-up.

The West and Martin county boom in the first conference game of the season and the only one this week.

All the other conference schools will take on out of district opposition, all the games occurring tomorrow or tomorrow night.

Probably just as good a game as the next one will be played here tomorrow night. The game is the "worse" thing as "Big Lake" loss.

Bulldogs were far from impressive in coming through with a bare 6-0 win over McCamey.

Information seems to be just a shade hard to glean about the Big Lake club, but that there is a lot of beef on the club and that it is considered one of the top clubs of district 8-B.

The other game of the week that will mean more to backers of the Midland club is the Odessa-McCamey game in Odessa tomorrow night. Odessa is looking to what Midland and Odessa as to what club will win has already started and the game tomorrow night will furnish the first reliable comparison.

Reports drifting back from Odessa after they defeated O'Donnell last week are that coach Loren had a bit of a way this fall and that he had one of the smoothest passing attacks seen in this district in a long time. Maybe the O'Donnell team is just weak, maybe not. Some who saw the game claim Odessa is traveling at mid-season form right now.

Very few comparisons of district clubs can be gleaned from the Crane-Fort Stockton affair. Peecos defeated Fort Stockton a couple of touchdowns last week. Crane did the same thing to McCamey the week before. So, if you are mathematically inclined, and believe that Odessa can't beat Midland, Odessa, Crane and Peecos will stack up after the games.

Probably one of the best games in the district will be played at Peecos between the Eagles and Truan. Truan has been loudly touted as the club that is shooing in district 8-B this year. Peecos no doubt is not as strong as she was last year, but we will pick her to hang one on the Braves' nose.

The Wink Wildcats, and if you don't think they are wild just ask Big Spring, take on the Hobbs club.

net, both of M. L. Clemens, appeared likely to break into games by engaging out some of the four varsity players.

The schedule:
Sept. 25—Wayne University, at East Lansing.
Oct. 2—University of Michigan, at Ann Arbor.
Oct. 9—Manhattan, at New York City.
Oct. 16—University of Missouri, at Columbia, Mo.
Oct. 23—Marquette University, at East Lansing.
Oct. 30—University of Kansas, at East Lansing.
Nov. 6—Temple University, at Philadelphia, Pa.

Spartans Have Hard Grid Tour Ahead In Fall

EAST LANSING, Mich. (UP)—Coach Charley Bachman will parade his Michigan State College Spartans to the Big Ten football ball glory which is so hard for a non-conference school to gain.

Spartan prospects appear rosy for what coaches describe as the "toughest schedule we ever had" due to the 9,000 miles of traveling commitments he required to meet five opponents.

The college was denied admittance in the Big Ten because directors last spring said it would be "inexpedient to increase the size of the conference at present."

Bachman will have 20 lettermen every position except center, so the Spartans will be developing their reserve strength. A veteran team will be ready to take the field in the opener against Wayne University of Detroit here Sept. 28 and what coaches describe as an "ordinary" second string will be available.

Making a third team to help because he will be the toughest job ahead of us," Bachman said.

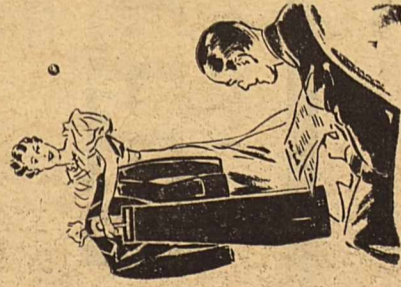

The Spartans will go against Manhattan in New York City and journey to the Pacific Coast to play the University of San Francisco in the season's finale Nov. 27. The center and guard material is the best in the district. The 1937 squad. One veteran pivot man will return and two of the four guards who won letters and will be back were considered regulars.

Scramble Backfield.
Tackle and end positions should be well fortified for two teams and in prospect of a good game. The sophomores' talent threatening to force veterans to stay on the bench much of the time.

Ronald Alling, reserve from Lansing, looked strong in spring practice and coaches hoped he would continue to develop at the college level.

The outstanding freshman in spring drills was Alexander Kazko, a burly tackle from Mattawan. Lyle Rockenbach, Sterling, N. Y., and Myron Masny, Arlington Heights, Ill., were considered the best of the sophomore guard candidates. Mike Acmeck, Michigan City, Ind., and George Guegert and Ralph Ben-

New Pipe Organ Heard at Baylor

WACO, Texas (AP) — The 5181 pipes of the largest organ south of St. Louis sounded for the first time this week in Waco hall of Baylor University.

The organ, dedicated in elaborate ceremonies last spring but not installed ready for playing until this week, was given the university by alumni in memory of a Texas leader who served as president of the university from 1902 until his death, which was published in May, 1931.

It was on his death bed that Dr. Brooks used his last bits of energy to sign diplomas for the senior, class and to dictate a message to the seniors of all years. That message is engraved in a bronze tablet on the organ.

The huge Brooks Memorial organ, now used for the first time, is a realization of a dream of the educator during the latter years of his life. Four manuals of the organ, the echo organ and the pedal organ make a total of six constituent organs in the one master instrument.

As-Freddie Helped Make News

"Call me out on strikes, will ya?" Freddie Bartholomew, juvenile film actor holding the bat, seems ready to fight for his point in an argument during a San Francisco street baseball game. But feelings cool quickly—in fact, as soon as the camera clicks. The situation was developed by an astute reporter in search of a new angle for a story on what Freddie has been doing since his studio troubles over salary. Other boys in the game, which Freddie joined temporarily, are from the neighborhood which produced Joe DiMaggio and other big league ball stars.

has the greatest in the history of Texas for any comparable period of time.
"There were few new issues arising this period. The country was just emerging from the depression years; they were not yet ready to add to their debt burden. It was then that the planning program offered by an outright grant of 46 per cent of the local unit would furnish 55 per cent of the money. There was an immediate response in a heavy issuance of new construction bonds all over Texas.
"Both these periods are understandable as the direct or indirect result of federal action, but the fact that the depression was so deep and that the attorney general's desk is as steady, and almost as heavy, as during the 'pump priming' days bespeaks something altogether different—an increase in general stability and confidence.
"It has not been any abnormal record, but it has been impressive, happy days when defaults in the payments of municipal bonds were occurring every day.
"It heartens me to think of these new bond issues in terms of men and materials rather than in terms of the dollars they represent. Each dollar of the some two hundred millions of new construction went in whole or in part to some man who was employed by a contractor, or workers on the construction job, or indirectly, as workers in the manufacture of the material.
"Certainly it is a fair conclusion to believe that this basic confidence in Texas, evidenced by her local governmental units, has gone far toward making the state ready by giving jobs to men who want to work."
for a non-resident photographer to "mug" club members without charge, revenue for same to come from such picture orders as could be obtained. John Thomas, associated with John P. Howe, Inc., was elected to membership in the Rotary club. He formerly was a member of the club. Visitors today included Jeanette B. ments may be added, namely by two-thirds majority in two thirds of the states, and then declared that another method of amending the constitution virtually exists. He had reference to the power of the supreme court of the United States in its interpretation of cases. Although the constitution does not expressly provide this power, it has come about through precedent and custom, he said.
He reviewed the administration's troubles in recent months due to the 5-4 conservative majority which for a time existed in the supreme court, shifting to a 5-4 liberal majority which recently upheld New Deal legislation. He said that although the 5-4 majority principle had been termed a "one man" government, it was no more so. He reviewed President Roosevelt's plan to "pack the court," and of his failure to make the attempt. He said that decisions of the "liberty minority" today will become accepted in the next generation, history having reflected such tendency in all times.
Summarizing the status of the United States, the speaker declared that it was the whole structure of governments providing the three departments of government which serve as a system of checks and balances.
Reference was made by President A. O. Thomas of a proposed bus trip by Midland Rotarians to the Big Bend park site early in October. Members voted against a proposal that they delay—get your clothes do-

Machine Tests

Parts of Curve
AUSTIN, Texas. (AP)—A "Harmonic Synthetic" devised by Dr. S. I. Brown, professor of physics, to test the component parts of a car, has been built at the University of Texas.
One of a few of its kind in the world, its present value is almost entirely academic but in years to come it may help the president of C. Paul Bonnet, one of Dr. Brown's associates.
At present the United States Geodetic Survey is using a similar apparatus for predicting the swell and fall of ocean tides and it may be used also in seismograph operations.
The device, a conglomerate of wheels and cogs each representing some curve component, can be geared to the component numbers of a curve, such as a swell in the earth, and if the original calculations were correct the machine will draw on a large blackboard attached to it an exact reproduction of the original curve.
The total American population includes 3,000,000 infants under 1 year of age.

Plans for Red Cross Drive Made Today

There was a meeting this morning in the commissioners' court room to organize the Red Cross drive in Midland county. Ector county withdrew from the Midland county Red Cross chapter and will form their own chapter. It was voted to ask Andrews and Seminole to enter the drive.
W. I. Pratt was elected chairman of the roll call, to be assisted by Ralph Geisler, Clint Lackey and Mrs. H. C. Barnes. Bill Collins was elected publicity chairman. The promotion program, Miss Christine Moore chairman of the Junior Red Cross county schools, and M. M. Shagel life saver chairman.
Nine hundred dollars was the goal set, but those assisting with the drive expect to have more than that amount in contributions. An authorized committee was placed at the first aid station to be placed at the local airport, and it will be ready for service by Christmas.

Fate of Many PWA Projects in Doubt

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23 (AP)—President Roosevelt's announcement today that PWA is at an end raised doubts today whether the government will complete final units of some current projects.
At 11:30 a. m. today the president said he had made final allocations of money under the 1937 act. Public works officials here declined today to amplify the president's statement in any way. They would say nothing about proposed projects omitted from the final allocations, whether Mr. Roosevelt eventually might have further allocations from PWA's remaining funds to complete projects not yet financed in their entirety.
Some observers said the fate of such projects could be determined only by the president or by congress, S. I. Brown, professor of physics, said that if it desired specific appropriations in Texas, the lower Colorado River Authority has received funds sufficient to complete its Marshall Ford dam, but officials said $10,000,000 would be needed to finish the authority's projected power and irrigation system.
The state released more than $1,126,000,000 for wages to workers on construction sites, and nearly $2,000,000,000 for material. Though it still has more than $200,000,000 available uncertainty as to the fate of remaining projects made it impossible to determine how much of this would be spent.

Railroad Talk Is Revived at Alice

ALICE, Texas. (AP)—Interest in a proposed new railroad to connect Alice with San Angelo and New Mexico and give the wool and mohair growers of that section a market outlet at Corpus Christi was revived this week with announcement that new officers had been elected and arrangements had been made to continue work already under way.
