Collapse of Neutrality Act Is Seen

Deadlock Appears When Germany and Italy Stand Pat

LONDON, Oct. 20 (AP)—Complete collapse of the neutrality system designed to keep the Spanish war from embroiling the rest of Europe appeared inevitable today.

A new deadlock came on the refusal of Italy, Germany and Portugal to agree to withdraw foreign warriors from Spain.

The nine-power non-intervention committee failed in a bitter, three-hour meeting to solve the problem of the withdrawal of foreign volunteers from the Spanish conflict.

Italy unexpectedly recommended to the non-intervention committee today that an independent commission be sent to Spain to effect withdrawal of foreign troops on both sides "as soon as possible."

The stalemate was heightened by a surprise Italian demand for the return of the whole non-intervention negotiations to the basis of a British plan of last July, thus rejecting discussion of the new Anglo-French five-point plan for removing the volunteers.

(The Anglo-French program proposes immediate withdrawal of belligerent rights after an international commission had reported foreign soldiers had been and were being withdrawn and establishment of a system of control for supervising non-intervention in Spain.)

The Italian move was supported by Germany and Portugal.

Facing Deportation and Nazi Ax

Talking animatedly with his beautiful wife Margaret, 19, crismoustached Baron Egon Karl Von Mauchenheim smiled in Detroit as this picture was made, despite his fears of being returned to Germany to face a Nazi executioner's ax. A U. S. consul at Windsor, Ont., had just refused the couple's plea for visas to permit them to stay in the United States. The Baron fled Germany with his wife in 1936 to escape compulsory army service. Unless the U. S. government intervenes they will be deported.

Landon Decries "Too Much Power" For The President

TOPEKA, Kas., Oct. 20 (AP)—All M. Landon summoned the nation's Republicans Tuesday to shut off "too much power" for the Roosevelt administration and to insist upon "workable legislation" achieved by constitutional methods.

The 1936 Republican presidential nominee addressed himself to an unusual "radio meeting" of his 17,000,000 supporters in the last election.

Landon asked of President Roosevelt: "How far does he intend to go?" in pursuing international peace.

"We are faced with a situation," said Landon, "where he may make a mistake that would indeed be tragic, that might lead to war. * * * Close observers have increasing doubt if he brought his recent (international) declaration through to its logical conclusion. Moreover, Congress adopted a neutrality act at the last session. The President took it upon himself to repeal the principle of the act."

"Now the job for the Congress will be to decide whether the President's own policy is to be followed or whether we are to adhere to the policies which the last Congress adopted."

Hawaii Roused By Grow More Food Campaign; Need for Imports Cited

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 20 (UP)—Although Hawaii is the most elaborately fortified American territory, defense of the islands could be made ineffective in the event of an extended naval blockade, according to an announcement by the U. S. Department of Commerce.

The department's annual report concerning Hawaii's purchases from the United States revealed that the territory produces less than a third of its essential foodstuffs. High army officers admitted this lack of sufficient home-grown food was one of the greatest obstacles to effective defense of the little group of islands.

A naval blockade, shutting off all imports from the United States and from other countries, would place the territory's 400,000 inhabitants in a state of near-starvation, officials observed. They pointed out that the islands normally have sufficient essential foods on hand to withstand a blockade of several months.

PIE SUPPER PLANNED

A pie supper will be held at Valley View schoolhouse Friday night, Oct. 29, Prin. L. L. Alcorn has announced. Proceeds will be used to purchase playground equipment. The public is invited to attend.

Landon called for "workable" revision of the Wagner labor and social security acts and in general charged a Republican viewpoint for the forthcoming special session of Congress. He assailed in particular the Administration's governmental reorganization proposal and said: "What he (President Roosevelt) really needs is less power—a position which will force him to take the advice and counsel of other men of both parties—men whose hearts also are in the right place, but men who have had more experience and practical application of government than he does."

He said Roosevelt "wasted practically the entire session of Congress of 1937 fighting for more power for himself" while important legislation waited. And now, in the call for a special session, he asked that the President's "first, of course, * * * asks for more power."

Landon criticized the Administration for what he called use of "all its mighty power to prevent * * * the operation of our constitutional methods of government by blocking the public hearings on the appointment of Hugo L. Black to the Supreme Court.

has pointed out the necessity for immediate development of a greatly increased local food supply, if the civilians and troops stationed on the fortified rock were to function at peak efficiency in the event of a siege by a foreign power.

In an effort to correct this weakness in the island defenses, military authorities have asked the cooperation of civilian groups in a concerted campaign to increase production of foodstuffs.

As a part of the army's plan, officers have been detailed to each of the major islands in the group. They will study farming conditions and prepare plans for increased production in event of an emergency.

Officers revealed that partial success of the plan has been noted during the past year. Shipments of fruits and vegetables from outside islands to Honolulu have increased perceptibly, they said. However, they pointed out, this slight increase has not been sufficient to offset to any great extent the territory's dependence upon other parts of America for a full range supply of foodstuffs to balance needs.

Where Alabama Miners Perished in Blast

A pit of death in reality was the Woodward Iron Co. coal mine at Mulga, Ala., when an explosion ripped through its lower levels, killing at least 33 miners. Silently weeping families and friends at the entrance wait for bodies to be brought to the surface and placed in the corps of ambulances. Victims were crushed, burned and suffocated in the blast, which was blamed on ignition of gas.

Youth Held As Car Yields Bodies

The weird odyssey of an 18-year-old boy who for more than two days drove through five eastern states with the bodies of two 64-year-old murder victims—in their own car—was told by Paul Dwyer, left, of Paris Hill, Me., after he was held as the slayer at North Arlington, N. J. Police said he confessed that he killed Dr. James G. Littlefield during a medical examination, then, after luring Mrs. Littlefield from home on a pretext, strangled her because she suspected him. With the woman's body in the car and her husband's corpse stuffed into the trunk, Dwyer said he drove aimlessly until he fell asleep and was arrested on a roadside.

Prisoner Given 2 Years in Jail On Assault Charge

Z. W. Rogers was found guilty and his punishment assessed at two years in the county jail by a district court jury yesterday in connection with an attack on Deputy Sheriff Fisher Pollard in an attempted jail break.

Rogers had been indicted by the grand jury for assault with intent to maim and the prosecution attorneys urged the extreme penalty—five years—for him but the jury found him guilty of a lesser crime—aggravated assault—and gave him the maximum term of imprisonment under it.

The prosecution alleged Rogers attempted to blind Pollard by throwing a container of disinfectant in his eyes but the defense pleaded an accident.

Rogers has already been assessed eight years in the penitentiary during this term for forgery and officers indicated he would be surrendered to the state to serve his time before the sentence in the county jail would be started.

Two New Outposts to Goldsmith Pool Start In Northwest Ector

Northwestern Ector today gained two new wildcat tests, one four miles north and slightly east of the Goldsmith pool and the other more than one-half mile northwest of the pool.

Location was being staked this morning for Milligan Drilling Company at No. 1 Gull-B-H. Blakey, test northeast of the pool. It will be drilled 330 feet from the north, 2310 feet from the west line of section 3, block A, public school land. The well is on a 160-acre tract, the east half of the west half of section 3, farmed out to Bruce C. McKague and J. N. Gregory, Midland operators, by Gulf Oil Corporation. Several major companies holding acreage nearby are making dry-hole contributions.

The other new wildcat is Borsodi, Beatty and Bowles No. 1 TXL (Texas Pacific Land Trust), 2310 feet from the south and 330 feet from the east line of section 21, block 45, township 1 north, T. & P. survey.

Fred Turner, Jr. No. 1-A J. E. Parker, outpost one mile west of the Harper pool in Ector, this morning was drilling unchanged at 3,990 feet in line. It is 330 feet from the south, 2310 feet from the west line of section 16, block 44, township 2 south.

Hogg Shut Down.

Ray Albaugh No. 1 Dewey Hogg, wildcat in southeastern Dawson county, is shut down for orders today at total depth of 3,632, with 800 feet of sulphur water in the hole. Water was encountered from 3,810-15. It is possible that the test will be deepened in search of pay corresponding to that in the Roberts pool of the Howard-Glasscock field. No. 1 Hogg is located in the center of the southeast of the southwest of section 17, block 34, township 4 north, T. & P. survey.

R. H. Gill, No. 1 S. R. Simpson, Gaines test four miles east of the town of Seminole, is drilling below 5,269 feet in line and anhydrite.

Continental No. 2 Jones, northwest Gaines test, had reached 3,320 feet in anhydrite.

A. G. Carter No. 1-A Langdon, diagonal southeast offset to the Carter-Conoco No. 1 Moore-Langdon, farthest northeast producer in the Wasson pool, is rigging up standard tools to drill plug from 7-inch casing cemented on bottom at 4,890 feet. Reports that No. 1-A Langdon had drilled into the pay and made a large natural flow were false. It is located 440 feet from the north and 2,300 feet from the east line of section 43, block AX, public school land.

Southwest Yoakum Tests.

American Liberty No. 1 L. N. Clawwater, latest of the southwest Yoakum tests to reach critical depth, is drilling line below 5,041 feet. Of a core from 5,014-7, two and one-half feet were recovered. Cores at that point were very hard lime, with no oil showing. Bleeding core had been pulled from 5,007-14. No. 1 Clawwater, located 660 feet out of the southwest corner of section 766, block D, Jno. H. Gibson survey, is a mile and a half northeast of the Denver No. 1 Whittenburg discovery.

Losing Out On 1 Northern China Front

Johnson Asks China To Stop Bombers Killing Foreigners

SHANGHAI, Oct. 20 (AP)—Chapei was mercilessly bombed for 15 hours today by Japanese bombers. James A. Mills, Associated Press writer, made a survey of the section and found Chinese forces strongly entrenched and in high spirits. Square miles of wrecked homes and looted shops told a grim story.

Shanghai received its first independent reports that the Japanese not only are being slowed down but are being pushed back in one section of the North China front.

American Ambassador Nelson Johnson asked the Chinese government to stop Chinese warplanes from flying over the international settlement and dropping bombs on foreign areas. Reports showed 1,990 Chinese and 16 foreigners had been killed in the foreign area.

Bodies of 19 Slain In Plane Wreck Are Moved From Scene

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 20 (AP)—Trucks bore the bodies of the 19 victims of the nation's greatest airplane disaster from the mountain crash scene to Evanston, Wyo., mortuaries Tuesday, United Air Lines officials here said.

"I have been informed that all of the bodies have been taken down from the scene of the wreck," Bob Johnson, public-relations agent for the air concern, asserted.

"They will be placed, in charge of the coroner at Evanston for identification and other arrangements. A number of the bereaved relatives already have assembled at Evanston to claim their dead."

Deep snow, deep and slippery canyon walls, and the ever-present menace of landslides required that the work proceed with great caution.

Meanwhile, several investigations into the crash that killed four women and 15 men were in prospect.

Federal inspectors and Bureau of Air Commerce representatives visited or prepared to visit the scene of the disaster. The United Airlines proceeded with its study, and the Utah Department of Aeronautics announced it would make a complete survey.

High school students will again this year be asked to make brief announcements regarding the roll call before the churches and service clubs of the city. Clint Lackey was named chairman of the poster committee.

Mrs. John Haley, chairman of the Midland County Chapter of the Red Cross said last night that the local chapter has already prepared and shipped fifteen Christmas bags to the Pacific coast, the Xmas bags to be given to soldiers detained in hospitals.

Paul Harrison in Hollywood

BY PAUL HARRISON.
NEA Service Staff Correspondent.
HOLLYWOOD. — Once Carl D. Elinor was the most important musical figure in motion pictures. No one would suggest that he is any less a musician now—but what have they got him doing? He's conducting a dummy orchestra in "The Goldwyn Follies."

When D. W. Griffith made his famous "Birth of a Nation," the first silent picture to be accompanied on its rounds by a special musical score, it was Elinor who did the composing and arranging. He did the same for Griffith's "Intolerance," "Broken Blossoms" and "Hearts of the World."

The music for "Hearts of the World" was the last he wrote before starting off to the war, but he paused in New York to conduct the 60-piece orchestra which opened the picture in 1918. After the war he toured the country with an orchestra, until in 1920 Samuel Goldwyn brought him here to conduct at the California Theater. He remained five years and was more of an attraction than any of the pictures shown. He always got top billing.

During his first year at the theater Elinor hired a promising young singer to appear with his orchestra. The fellow's favorite number was "Sunshine of Your Smile," and for warbling it he got $25 a week. His name was Lawrence Tibbett.

Vacation a Mistake.
Elinor next became manager of the Carthay Theatre, the spot where the largest premieres now are held, and also conducted the orchestra. He stayed there four years, until the movies became talkies and Fox Films made him studio musical director. Two of his best-known scoring there were for "What Price Glory?" and "Seventh Heaven."

Along in 1932, when musicals had slumped and things generally were pretty dull, Elinor quit his directorship and visited his old home in Bucharest, Rumania.

His visit lengthened into three years, and although it was a happy one it was a big mistake. For things move quickly in Hollywood, and names are forgotten.

Back here he found new faces, new executives, tune-factories humming with a more efficient crew. For two years he has been marking time, hoping for a break, wondering whether he and his baton ever would face a concert orchestra again.

The smallish, handsome man with the thinning black hair and waxed mustache is working now. He is waving his baton before a mute dance orchestra. Their instruments make no sound because the music already has been recorded by another band and the musicians are merely acting for the playback, synchronizing the action to the notes.

When the call for an orchestra leader went to the Goldwyn music department, Charles Dunnworth, assistant musical director, knew just the man for the job. The reason he knew Elinor was that Dunnworth had learned almost everything he knew by working under Elinor years ago.

Bulbs for Indoor Window Box

A Window Box of Colorful Flowers Is a Cheerful Sight in Winter.

Window box gardeners may plant in the fall for indoor bloom throughout the winter. The chances for success indoors are equal, if not greater, than outdoors, and plant materials are almost as numerous; more important, there are no storms and draughts to combat.

The best planting materials are the forcing bulbs. They are easiest to grow and produce the most brilliant display. A few plants may be transplanted from the garden, and some foliage plants added, but the lovely and cheerful colors come from the bulbs.

The gorgeous amaryllis with velvety trumpets and gay colors needs only a sunny window for healthy growth. The lily-of-the-valley, if started from pips, is easiest, and lovely indeed. Hyacinths are ideal pot plants. The early tulips may be forced into bloom if started in time and given care; and that whole tribe of indoor garden subjects called the minor bulbs can be grown indoors. Most popular is the grape hyacinth, or Muscari, of deep blue coloring. The squills or scillas, and also the crocuses can be potted for winter color.

The narcissus, especially the trumpet type, is another excellent bulb for indoor growth.

All set? listen: HERE'S THE ENGINEERING MUST STORY OF THE YEAR!

Featuring the DYNAFLASH ENGINE and TORQUE-FREE SPRINGING - in the Most Modern Chassis in the World

YOU won't drive a hundred yards behind the DYNAFLASH engine without sensing that something marvelously new and different is happening here.

Speeding from the carburetor through the intake manifold, the fuel charge hurries into the cylinder at something like 250 miles an hour.

Leaping to meet it is the piston, with a unique device called a Turbulator built into its face.

Then occurs something more than high-compression—literally cyclompression—as this swirling gale of gasoline vapor is compacted around the spark plug.

The fat spark leaps, a fiery, fist-size hurricane lets go, and gasoline vapor gives up more performance than it has ever given up before in a commercial engine.

This might seem enough for inspired engineering science to lavish on a car in a single season.

But matching DYNAFLASH power in importance is Buick's new TORQUE-FREE SPRINGING, and the arrolite ride it provides.

Take a Buick over a railroad crossing or search out a bumpy road—wheels may dance but the body rides level!

For in place of old-type leaf springs, each wheel has a soft, shock-smothering cushion of stout coiled steel.

No shackles, no spring covers, no grease points to watch. Nothing to go wrong, wear out, or clog with dirt, rust, grease.

Skid risks are blessedly reduced. You save money. Rear tires last longer. The whole car handles more surely and easily.

And summer or winter, with 50 or 50,000 miles behind you, you have the same soft cushioning unaltered by either wear or weather!

If it's power you're after, you'll choose Buick this year for its amazing DYNAFLASH engine.

If it's matchless comfort, you'll want the TORQUE-FREE SPRINGING ride. With either you get the other—plus half a score important features.

You can learn about them all from the nearest Buick dealer, now waiting to show you this modern engineering marvel.

'Dillinger Was A Piker!'

Brady, Shaffer and Dalhover Sang That Theme Song Until Bullets of G-Men Chattered a March of Death

James Dalhover after his capture in Bangor, Me., handcuffed and bloodmarked. A bullet furrowed his nose and capturing police weren't gentle. He probably will be returned to Indianapolis to answer charges of murdering Patrolman Paul Minneman in the little white church ambush.

Lying in the street at Bangor, Me., where the bodies of Al Brady, foreground, and Clarence Lee Shaffer, dead public enemies as this picture was taken shortly after the gun battle which ended the career of the gang which said "Dillinger was a piker." They were shot by police and federal men.

BY JACK HEAL.

NEA Service Staff Correspondent.

THE stuttering chattering ribbon of machine gun fire had just moved down Patrolman Paul Minneman, of the Indiana State Police, with 51 steel-jacketed slugs.

A scant hundreds yards away in a field, clipped like a broken field runner as he fled, lay the bullet-riddled body of Deputy Sheriff Elmer Craig.

In the maroon sedan three men grinned at each other and laughed aloud as they sped away from the little white schoolhouse which had provided the ambush.

"Dillinger was a piker." That was their motto, the phrase that Al Brady, James Dalhover and Clarence Lee Shaffer, Jr., set out to make a byword and they succeeded, at least as far as the police were concerned.

"John Dillinger couldn't be a chauffeur for this mob," said Captain Matt Leach of the Indiana State Police. He was gritting his teeth as he spoke. Captain Leach had known Dillinger, too, had hounded his trail for weeks and months and had brought him back from the west when Dillinger and his gang were captured there. "These three kill without reason or cause—just for the pure fun of it. They're kill crazy."

Dillinger a piker? Putting it in terms of brutality and murder and lawlessness as the Brady gang put it—yes.

From rural Kentland, in western Indiana, short, slight Al Brady had come to Indianapolis as a petty thief and racketeer. Resisting arrest on suspicion, he was shot by an Indianapolis patrolman. Brady vowed vengeance and after a term in the Pendleton Reformatory for auto theft, set out to get it.

Liked the "Difference". From down in Marion, Indiana, came that "atom of lawlessness," Dalhover, hardly five feet four inches in height, with his blondish hair rapidly receding from a weak forehead at 35. Bootlegger in prohibition days and hijacker, ratchet in appearance, he liked the "difference" that a blazing gun gave his stature.

Indianapolis born and raised was Shaffer, about Dalhover's height, with a light brown wavy pompadour, a pleasing profile, but his crooked mouth gave him a perpetual sneer at life.

They met in Indianapolis in January of 1936 and it is more than probable that the one thing which welded them together more than anything else was their stunted size, the inborn inferiority complex of each, the introspective craving for headlines and notoriety that would compensate their routines.

Graduate to Big Time. They started out by preying on filling stations and small stores and then they skipped a class in crime and graduated to the "big time." It took them just 18 months to make good that boast: "Dillinger was a piker."

In those 18 months Brady had been listed as the government's No. 1 Public Enemy, and Dalhover and Shaffer might well have had the second and third places on the nation's crime list.

The raided an armory, carting away an army machine gun, so heavy, with its tripod, that it took the combined strength of the three to carry it. They mounted it on the back seat of a sedan to cover their flight and cut down pursuit.

Murder a Policeman. Within the course of little more than a month they had looted jewelry stores in Greenville, Dayton and Lima, Ohio. They had shot a grocery clerk in Piqua, wrecked a section of Lima, North Main street business section in a gun battle with police.

Fleeing from Lima with a wounded pal they raced to the home of an Indianapolis physician where Sergeant Richard Rivers in charge of a police detail surprised them. They killed Rivers and escaped.

From this murder they hurried to Chicago where their women were waiting—they all three liked women, stole and killed for them—But Chicago police ferreted out Brady and Dalhover, and Shaffer was picked up in Indianapolis a short time later.

In jail they showed their strangest trait. Each boasted that he and he alone had killed Officer Rivers, and collectively they boasted that no jail could hold them, that Dillinger was a piker.

Jail Doesn't Hold Them. That Greenville jail near Indianapolis, didn't hold them. They battered Sheriff Clarence Watson into insensibility and fled, and guards imagined they heard them laughing as they ran.

A dozen bank robberies followed until May 25, 1937, when the trio looted the State Bank of Goodland, and while escaping approached the intersection where Officer Minneman and his companion were stationed. They whirled about and lost the pursuing officers, stopped behind the schoolhouse and sprung their deadly ambush.

Within 10 days of the Minneman murder they had looted the First National Bank of Plymouth, Mich., and another at North Baltimore, O. Robbery at High Noon.

There were more robberies and more gun battles, then Baltimore, Md., police flushed them and the police escaped with their lives luckily—for they weren't prepared for the reception they received.

While in Baltimore, Md., Shaffer and Dalhover had married. Brady was "engaged" and they were living respectable lives—doing their raiding elsewhere. Brady and a woman companion spent a week at the fashionable Plaza Hotel at Indian Lake, Ohio, in the latter part of August, and then the gang shot down Jim Tison in Youngstown, and robbed him of $9000 at high noon in front of his cafe.

But it couldn't last and it didn't last. In Bangor, Maine, a long ways from the theater of their crimes, all three dropped before the combined fusillades of federal men and local officers. Dalhover was captured. Brady and Shaffer were dead.

Dillinger was a piker. Sure, they're all pikers when they are dead.

Head Coach, University of Texas. AUSTIN, Oct. 18.—One All-America hold-over of 1936 tops individual Southwest Conference stars as this league of six Texas teams and one Arkansas team (all plenty tough) gets down to serious business.

Jarrin' Joe Rount, Texas A. & M. guard, made a number of mythical selections last year and deserved it.

Roy Young of the Texas Aggies was almost a unanimous all-conference choice last year at tackle. In addition to his football, "Spanky" is famous for the largest feet in the conference—No. 15's.

I. B. Hale of T. C. U. has been getting the headlines in early games. Weighing around 235 pounds, he vies with Ray Keeling of Texas for the honor of being the section's biggest tackle.

Coach Matty Bell of Southern Methodist seems pleased with the work of Charley Sprague, a junior giant whom he moved from center. Ed Lalman of the champion Arkansas Razorbacks is good. Our best tackle at Texas in early games has been Will Tullos, a 200-pound senior.

Arkansas Well Fixed. Jim Benton, towering Arkansas star, was an all-conference end last year, and his teammate, Ray Hamilton, is about as capable.

S. M. U. has a great boy in Billy Duvell, and Rice is proud of Jim Nance.

Morley Jennings seems to believe that he has his best pair of wings in years at Baylor in Sam Boyd and Frank Huesner.

Bruno Schroeder, switching from the backfield, is going to make the Texas Aggies a brilliant end.

Ki Aldrich of T. C. U. already has a national reputation for his slashing center play, which Southwestern fans compare favorably with that of Darrell Lester, T. C. U.'s two-year All-America. Zed Coston of A. & M. is set for his first regular season, and asks no odds from Aldrich or anybody.

Several southwest squads have had worries about the center set-up. There is no Sammy Baugh or the immediate horizon, but T. C. U. fans say they have the next best thing—little Davey O'Brien, a 147-pound slinger who had a better record of completions last year than his All-America mate.

Among Those Present. So, for that matter, did Jack Robbins of Arkansas. Robbins and Dwight Sloan of Arkansas and Billy Patterson of Baylor will vie with O'Brien for passing laurels, and Er-

The PAYOFF

By JESS RODGERS.

Interest in the outcome of the Midland-Wink game Friday is rising daily; but it should be of little consolation to the team. The main interest seems to be over what the final score will be—how bad the Wildcats will beat the Bulldogs.

One of the members of the Bulldogs told me he firmly believed they would defeat Wink Friday night. It sounded a lot like whistling while passing a graveyard in the dark to keep up the courage—but such things have happened.

There is only one chance for the Bulldogs. They must catch the Wildcats suffering from an extreme case of over-confidence and put over enough points in the first period to sew up the game.

Not since the fall of 1934 when the Wildcats, riding the waves of some 30-odd straight victories, left Midland on the short end of the score have we heard of them being over-confident. And I'll lay six-two or even that they have been reminded of that game more than once this week.

A review of the Wink games to date this season show the club is probably the highest scoring machine that has ever represented the district. Following a 13-2 win over Big Spring and a 12-0 win over Hobbs, the Wildcats have really turned on the power. On consecutive week-ends they have ran rough shod over Fort Stockton, Kermit and Stanton. They took the Stockton crew into camp by a score of 68-6, defeated Kermit 73-0 and annihilated Stanton, 75-12.

Coaches, fans and sportswriters who have seen the Wildcats in action this year declare it is the best balanced club ever to represent this district. Observers declare the team will average around 162 pounds, with not a man missing that figure by more than three pounds. Every man in the line is said to be almost the same size in both weight and height.

There is very little criticism to be offered the Bulldogs because they haven't been trying. Some of the boys have been loafing a little, but generally the team has been putting out its best ball all during the games. The team simply just couldn't have it.

Weaknesses at both end positions and at one guard slot have thrown extra duties on Adams and English at tackles and their work has suffered. They have done their best most of the time to help the youngsters on the flanks and as a consequence have watched ball carriers go through their positions. It does them no good to turn a ball carrier inside for the ends when there is no one to plug up the holes left vacant by their pulling out of position.

The damage done by injuries has been cited more than once already—enough to say that what lack of material didn't do injuries did.

The Bulldogs would probably get more pleasure out of hanging up a win over Wink Friday night than any other game this year and it is a cinch they are going to be doing their damndest to cop. But if they couldn't beat Crane or Peets they appear small chance for them in this one.

The coaches have already indicated Jay Francis would be left on the bench again during this one. His knocked down shoulder has not responded any too rapidly to treatment and there is no percentage in putting him in there and possibly getting an injury that might ruin him permanently.

The club is already out of the race this year and the coaches might just as well start trying to develop something for next year.

The coaches, naturally, would like to see the team win all the remainder of their games. And they will be trying to. But they might as well give some boys who will be back next year some much needed experience.

Tuberculosis Mortality In St. Louis Up 8 Pct.

ST. LOUIS, (U.P.)—The tuberculosis death rate in St. Louis last year increased 8 per cent over the 1935 rate with 667 persons succumbing to the disease, according to a survey compiled by the Statistical Research Department of the Tuberculosis Society.

St. Louis stood second high among the seven largest cities in the United States in tuberculosis mortality in 1936 with a rate of 78.9 deaths per 100,000 population, the report stated.

Los Angeles was first with a tuberculosis death rate of 87 per cent per 100,000.

No Rest for Tired Aggies as Bears To Be Ready Saturday.

COLLEGE STATION, Oct. 20.—There is no rest for a Southwest Conference grid team when all seven clubs begin throwing their chips on the line, and Coach Homer Norton's Texas Aggies are finding it out this week as they prep for their go Saturday, Oct. 23, with Baylor's Battling Bears. Important at the time and crucial in the fading minutes when they managed to tie the score, the past Saturday's 7-7 tie with Texas Christian faded rapidly early this week when the Cadets bumped against their freshman team already primed with Baylor's pet plays. Freshman Coach H. R. McQuilman, who scouted the Bears in their last two games, reported Baylor has the best team he has ever seen from that school. He had nothing but high praise for Bill Patterson, Milton Evans and Bubba Green backs; and Sam Boyd, end, among others, and said the Aggies have a big job cut out for them if they are to knock Baylor out of the undefeated or untied class now numbering but 15 in the nation. With Aggie freshmen, using Baylor plays, rummaging about on offense Norton is devoting the major portion of the practice time to polishing his pass defense which reached a new high last Saturday against TCU. Davey O'Brien, Frog passer, attempted 19 passes, completed only four and had two to fall in Cadet hands. Dick Todd, loose-footed halfback, bumped the leg which he injured against Mississippi State late in the TCU game and was helped from the field, but the injury has responded to treatment and he is expected to be in top shape by Saturday. He was the only Aggie casualty in the game with the Frogs. Todd was well pleased with the Texas Christian game and although he wanted to win that one badly, he was satisfied that the breaks, virtually all of which went against the Aggies, did no greater harm. Ticket sales for the Baylor game took a spurt after the Bear victory over Centenary last Saturday, and according to E. W. Hooker, ticket manager, probably will hit an all-time high for a Baylor-Aggie game at College Station. Baylor has declared a holiday and 1500 of the students are expected to follow the team to Kyle field. The game will begin at 2:30 o'clock. With the Aggies boasting of two victories and a tie to date and Baylor as yet undefeated or tied in four games, there is bound to be a lot of football played at Aggieland Saturday. Both teams hold conference title hopes and a victory for either team will make them national standouts in the eyes of the football fans.

U. S. Not Committed On a Foreign Policy

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Oct. 20 (AP).—President Roosevelt asserted in a formal statement last night America would enter the nine-power treaty conference on the Sino-Japanese conflict "without any commitments on the part of this government to other governments." The statement, issued after a long conference between the President and Norman H. Davis, head of the American delegation to the conference to be held at Brussels Oct. 30, was generally accepted as a reply to a statement by Senator Johnson (R-Calif.) hinting that the United States and Great Britain had agreed in advance on a program of action. In a statement in San Francisco, Johnson, an isolationist, demanded to know the President's attitude, adding: "We know the attitude of Mr. Hill and the ambassadorial ambassador, Mr. Norman Davis, and we would not be going to Brussels unless in advance a program had been agreed on between England and this country." The President in his statement cited the language of the invitation to the conference—to the effect that the powers would examine the Far Eastern situation and "study a peaceable means of hastening an end of the regrettable conflict which prevails there."

Allowable Slash Recommended By Bureau of Mines

AUSTIN, Oct. 20, (AP) — The state Railroad Commission announced at its monthly oil and gas hearing today that the federal bureau of mines had estimated Texas' share in the national market demand for crude oil in November at 1,413,000 barrels daily. This compared with the bureau's estimate of 1,430,000 barrels for October and the basic allowable for the state October 1 of 1,405,844 barrels, and current production of 1,468,319. Operators concluded the Texas allowable would be slashed within a few days.

Debonaire Dionnes Stage Their Own Daring Bike Races

Very debonaire in their rakish fashions, the Dionne quintuplets are ready to take off here on one of their popular non-stop rides around the playground path, which has so pleased visitors to Childer. There is a flash of bright spokes and furious pumping of those white, streamlined boots as the girls zip around their course at top speed, dodging collisions and jingling tiny bells fascinatedly. The autumn outdoor play periods are great fun. That's Marie bending over the handlebars at the head of the line, followed by Cecile, Yvonne, Emile and Annette. There's an occasional spill while taking a curve on two wheels, but that only adds to the fun.

ARCHITECTURE DEPARTMENT AT TEXAS UNIVERSITY HAS RECORD ENROLLMENT

AUSTIN, Texas. — With an enrollment of 152 professional students, the architecture department at the University of Texas is directing its efforts to training future architects. In addition, there are 12 students who are preparing to enter the University's School of Fine Arts when that division comes into being next year. Since the department was created in 1910, approximately 275 graduates have received degrees in the various phases of architecture, according to W. T. Rolfe, chairman. As a part of a broad advisory program for students, in the entire College of Engineering, of which the architecture department is a branch, Prof. Goldwin Goldsmith, recently prepared a brief explanation of the principles of architectural training and outlined the roads along which a student might choose to go in reaching his desired professional destination. "Architecture is a creative art based on imagination, yet it is a practical art controlled by logic," Professor Goldsmith asserted. "It is a structural art using all branches of engineering and science, yet it is founded on the fundamentals of the fine arts. Broadly, architecture is both design and construction. It is a product of art, science, engineering, logic, literature, history, imagination and creative ability. "Because the profession of architecture is so broad there is a need for specialization within the profession. "The course in architecture is for those students whose inclination is toward design. In design, the major subject, they must learn the creative approach to the logical solution of the plan and the aesthetic development of its resultant exterior, but for these they must have a full realization and understanding of the necessary construction. For many buildings they must learn to solve the structural problems themselves, but when the problems are so intricate as to require a specialist in construction they must cooperate intelligently with the architectural engineer. "The course in architectural engineering is for those students whose main interest is in construction. They will specialize in the structural side of architecture and will deal specifically with the materials of the supporting frame and enclosing walls, the strength of materials, the calculation of size, the methods of construction and the fundamentals of sanitary, eleccognized schools. "The course in domestic architecture, open to juniors in all colleges of the university, and the course in office practice and specifications, do not belong in any specific group but may be classed partly with several. "All of these courses are housed in the new architecture building which was designed and erected especially for the department. Each of the five classes has its own drafting room in which each student's drafting table serves as a permanent headquarters through the year. "As a member of the Association of Collegiate Schools of Architecture the department is on the list of schools recognized by the American Institute of Architects and the graduates are accepted for membership in the Institute after the required period of practical experience, without further proof of ability; but in the meantime they may become junior associates of the Institute. Due to this membership in the association the department is listed by the National Council of Architectural Registration Boards as an 'accredited school' thus making the graduates eligible for the Council's general examination for professional practice. Also the graduates of these 'accredited schools' are eligible for the State examinations given by the Registration Boards of a majority of states. In both cases a set period of practical experience is required. "The graduates of all three courses find employment in the offices of architects, engineers or decorators, and various State and Federal departments. The breadth of education given results in a broad field of employment in many allied lines of business as well. The graduate's income will depend on his ability and the square of his industry."
