In Mystery

Vernon Spencer

Helen Grier

The slaying of Helen Grier, 28-year-old Pontiac, Mich., stenographer, above, in a cabin on lonely Long Lake in Ontario, remained an unsolved puzzle for Canadian authorities, who said it was an "apparent murder," Vernon Spencer, 40, left held as a material witness, told police he returned from a moose hunt to find his comely, 10-day hunting trip companion dead, a 22-caliber bullet in her head, and a rifle beside her pajama-clad body. Spencer, former big league ball player, operates a dairy farm near Pontiac.

Cotton Growers to Receive Billion for The Crop This Year

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4. (AP)— Cotton growers will receive a gross income of about $1,000,000,000 from this year's crop despite low prices, government economists predicted yesterday.

They said a decline in prices from nearly 15 cents a pound early this year to about 8 cents recently would be offset somewhat by the 42 per cent increase in the 1937 production over 1936.

Income from the 1937 crop "is expected to equal or exceed" the 1936 figure, while the economists estimated at $987,100,000.

The estimates, made by the bureau of agricultural economists, included money received from actual sale of cotton and cotton seed, from the loan and subsidy program on this year's crop, and from payments under the 1937 soil conservation program.

The bureau, in summarizing the "cotton outlook for 1938", forecast these trends:

A probably sharp reduction in this country.

A decline in the amount of cotton consumed in this country compared with the record of domestic mill consumption for the 12 months ended with July.

A possible increase in foreign consumption of American cotton which has been decreasing in recent years.

A record-breaking world supply of 50,800,000 bales for this (1937-38) season.

Board of Control to Repay Million, Half

AUSTIN, Nov. 4. (AP)— Claude Teer, chairman of the board of control confirmed today an agreement had been reached to repay a loan of $1,826,000 made last year for old age assistance.

Committee To Offer Aid In Peace Plan

U. S., Britain and Belgium Expected To Be Represented

BRUSSELS, Nov. 4. (AP)—The Brussels conference decided today to empower a sub-committee to offer its aid to Japan and China in effecting peace between the two. Reliable indications were that the United States, Britain and Belgium would be on the committee.

The committee is to be named at the conference session opening tonight.

A decision to call the principal nine-power conference delegations to a meeting for consideration of a second Brussels conference invitation to Japan was reached last night by the United States, Great Britain and France.

The decision was made after a series of evening talks begun when British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden dined with Yvon Delbos, the French foreign minister.

Delbos later called on Norman H. Davis, chief of the American delegation.

It was understood Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet Russia's delegate, had accepted an invitation to the meeting which would be attended in addition by the eight signatory powers which have gathered in Brussels. Only Japan has stayed away from the peace sessions.

Construction Bids On Hospital for Big Spring Asked

AUSTIN, Nov. 4. (AP)—The board of control Wednesday called for bids December 7 on construction of the new insane hospital at Big Spring. The legislature appropriated $817,000 for the work.

Bids will be tabulated on two ward buildings to house more than 500 patients, a hospital building, employees' dormitory, storeroom, administration building, psychopathic building, power house and tunnels, sewers, sidewalks and utilities.

Claude Teer, chairman of the board, said that if low bids were acceptable construction probably would start around January 1.

Rotarians "Tour Russia" As DeFord Relates Trip

Rotarians "toured Russia" today, as the luncheon program was devoted to an address by Ronald DeFord, Midland geologist, on his trip during the past summer to the seventeenth International Geological Congress which was held in Moscow.

DeFord was introduced by Rotarian George Abell who said the speaker was both mining engineer and geologist, also a first class oil man and a keen observer.

Explaining that the term Russia has given way to Union of Soviet and Socialist Republics, the speaker said it is a country with a large variety of languages and nationalities. When one is spoken of as a Russian there now, the term means he is a Slav.

DeFord recounted some of the details of his trip, entering across Germany and through Poland to Moscow. Five field trips were made prior to the congress, with train excursions to mining areas, the territory along the Black Sea, then to the biggest dam in the world where electric power is generated, then along the coastal regions and back to Moscow.

The congress itself lasted for ten days, with technical papers presented by foremost geologists of many nations. The last time the congress met in Russia was forty years ago, and only one man who attended it was present at the recent session. Banquets were held each evening, with one in the Kremlin.

After the congress, five different field trips were available. DeFord choosing one which toured the country's various oil fields. Near Permian a field was visited where the term "Permian" originated, as applied to beds similar to those of the Permian Basin here. New oil fields were visited, and then those along the Caspian Sea where seventy per cent of the nation's oil is produced.

The Midland man spent 63 days in the Soviet and covered between 9,000 and 10,000 miles within its boundaries.

Giving his impressions of the Soviet, DeFord said it was a pioneer country, with many places still primitive and with much area devoted to forests and steppes resembling the plains of our middle west. He said much of the country is the same as it was 2,000 years before Christ.

Under the new system of government, officials are trying to industrialize the Soviet, copying largely the methods used in the United States. Greatest achievements, he said, are:

- (1) Bases of heavy industry, with coal and iron mines being converted into steel manufacturing centers at various points even in the undeveloped sections, and with development of oil furnishing industry for other centers.
- (2) No unemployment, with few beggars, few cripples on the streets,

Accident Blamed After Dallas Man Shot With Pistol

DALLAS, Nov. 4. (AP)—A verdict of death by accidental shooting was returned today in the fatal wounding of Joseph Cass, 37, last night.

Mrs. Ophelia Ballentine, 40, who said she left her family seven years ago in Pennsylvania to live with Cass, returned home after telling police a quarrel led to the shooting.

Officer John Daniel said the couple were struggling for possession of a pistol when a bullet was fired into Cass' stomach.

Election On Bond Issue Saturday

Precinct 1 Voters Will Ballot Upon Gymnasium Question

General lack of interest in Saturday's bond election was indicated when no absentee votes were cast in Midland Independent School District's proposal of $40,000 for a new gymnasium. The bonds of $40,000, if voted, will be augmented by a federal PWA grant of $35,000, to erect a building costing $75,000.

However, proponents of the bond issue said today they expected a fair percentage of the school district's property tax paying voters to turn out Saturday. The election will be held at the high school auditorium between the hours of 8 a. m. and 7 p. m.

The board of trustees, with all seven members present and voting "aye," ordered the election after being petitioned by the required number of voters. Approval in the Fort Worth office of the PWA, with indications that Washington officials will immediately allot the $35,000, caused school trustees to submit to the tax paying voters the proposition of voting bonds and securing the federal aid while it is available.

It has been pointed out that although Midland schools rank high in the state in scholastic achievements, they fall short in facilities for physical education. The gymnasium, if erected, will have a manual training department, physical education facilities for both boys and girls, also an auditorium of greater capacity than any now available in the city.

Besides accommodating the home students in their every-day training, greater facilities for handling the district interscholastic league meet and other regional events will be provided.

It was pointed out Saturday that a voter who pays taxes on personal property may vote, even though he does not own real estate. John P. Butler is judge of the election, with Joe Youngblood, Miss Cordelia Taylor and Mrs. Burton Boone clerks.

Five Naval Fliers Killed, 2 Wounded As Planes Collide

SEATTLE, Nov. 4. (AP)—Five naval fliers were killed and two other injured Wednesday in a spectacular collision of two fighting planes 3000 feet or more above Boeing field.

Apparently trapped in the tangled ruins of their big navy amphibian craft, the five fell to their deaths. The other two men, in a smaller naval plane, leaped to safety with parachutes.

The dead: Lieut. Henry B. Twoly, Spokane, Wash.

Aviation Cadet, K. F. Schmidt, Springfield, Minn.

Aviation Cadet, Kenneth Rhuddy, Seattle, former star mile runner of the University of Washington.

Machinists Mate M. McCroddan, Ne. Warren, Fla.

Radio Operator R. E. Reagan, Grand Rapids, Mich.

J. D. Goodsell, aviation chief machinists mate, of Bremerton, Wash., and W. S. Bowman, seaman, Alexandria, La., occupants of the smaller plane received only slight hurts in their parachute descents.

Civilian witnesses said the accident occurred while the planes hovered high above the airport, the larger plane circling while the smaller made repeated dives.

Goodsell told interviewers: "It happened so fast I don't know what went wrong. Please don't ask me to say anything more about the crash."

He felt pretty broken up over those boys' gesturing toward the canvas-shrouded forms of his colleagues—and the navy department won't like it if I make guesses as to what went wrong."

Forecast of "Too Much Wheat" Made By DA Economists

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4. (AP)—Agriculture department economists forecast today "too much wheat" next year, resulting in materially lower prices for producers.

They based their predictions on another record planting, 100 per cent increase in stocks of old wheat and poorer prospects of selling abroad.

Thousands of Fresh Chinese Troops Poured onto Shanghai Front Today

Conquerors' Food, but Better Than Dying

China's armies are fed, but its civilians either starve or turn to Japanese conquerors for barely enough food to keep body and soul together in the shell-torn Yangtzeop district, as the above pictures show. In the upper photo men, women and children stand patiently, hour upon hour, each with his basket, waiting for the handful of rice which is the daily ration. At the lower left a white-gloved Japanese officer scoops up a little food for a refugee, and at the lower right a Chinese holds his basket to show the pitiful allotment—pitiful but better than starving.

Paris Critics Are Enthusiastic in Violinist's Praise

Paris critics are notoriously difficult to please, but Leona Flood succeeded in achieving that rather arduous feat at her recital in the French capital last November.

"Extraordinarily well-balanced and alive" is the commentary of Le Jour on her playing. "A large audience received" Leona Flood with great enthusiasm. Her tone is full of charm. Because of insistent applause she was forced to repeat the Hora Staccato by Dinicu Heifetz, is the tribute of Art Musical.

So charmingly unaffected, so gracefully at ease in her handling of the bow is the brilliant young violinist, that wonderment is frequently expressed at the "rich powerful tones" she evokes and at "her deep and illuminating interpretive powers."

Miss Flood will be presented in a recital at the high school auditorium here next Monday evening under the auspices of the Midland Lions Club.

Letter From Africa Tells of Mission

Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Walker Wednesday received a letter from their son, Dr. Glenn Walker, now in Nigeria, Africa, as a medical missionary, saying that his family was well and the baby in particular was growing quite fat.

Dr. Walker is the only doctor at the hospital at Obomoshu, the other two doctors who had been on duty there having contracted yellow fever during the epidemic of that disease and therefore having to leave the post. The hospital was closed in June but has been reopened and Dr. Walker wrote that he considered he was doing very well with it as a medical mission.

The yellow fever epidemic is dying down now.

Dr. Walker, who made his home with his parents here for some time, is the only missionary to have gone out from the Midland Baptist church.

Devonian Duggan Fills 1,000 Feet With Oil Overnight

Insurance men and their wives are looking forward to a gala occasion at Odessa, Wednesday, November 10, when agents from District 6 gather to discuss problems of the business pertinent to this section of West Texas, and to participate in the social functions planned for the meeting which includes dining and dancing at the La Fonda club.

Local agents from every town in the district have been invited to attend the Odessa meeting, and because of its importance to the insurance men of the district, a large number are expected to be present. The business meeting will convene at 10:00 a. m. and adjourn at 4:00 p. m.

Crowley in Charge Of Weather Bureau

C. E. Norquest, head of the weather bureau of Texas, today announced here that J. W. Crowley, employee of the Southern Ice and Utilities company, would be in charge of the weather bureau station hereafter.

Crowley served for a couple of months during the early months of summer but was forced to drop the duties because of other work. He will keep records daily of weather conditions in Midland and the records will be turned over to the state office.

Norquest expressed gratitude to Crowley for taking over the duties of the job, a non-paying one, and urged cooperation of the public with him.

Positions of Japanese Are Bombed

Youthful Legions Of Defenders Are Maintaining Place

SHANGHAI, Nov. 4. (AP)—Thousands of fresh Chinese troops well equipped and disciplined, poured into Chinese positions today on the Shanghai front.

James A. Mills, Associated Press writer, witnessed the arrival of the new troops; smart looking and apparently unafraid of Japanese bombers overhead.

Aided by the reinforcements, youthful Chinese legions fought Japanese veterans furiously.

Japanese positions along the south bank of Szechow creek were almost untenable, and it was considered likely Chinese could hold the Japanese for some time.

Chinese expanded and strengthened their positions today under pounding Japanese artillery fire despite intimations the defense might abandon the Shanghai front. Rumors of impending large scale changes in the positions of the contending forces in Shanghai persisted. Of increasing prominence was a theory that the Chinese were on the verge of evacuating Pootung, the industrial area across the Whangpoo river from the international settlement, and the thronged native area, Nantao, south of the French concession.

The belief was expressed the Chinese might abandon the Shanghai peninsula entirely to Japanese control. There was no evidence, however, that such a step yet was under way as the Chinese entrenched themselves more firmly both to the south and west of the foreign areas.

"The Chinese, by shifting their lines inland from Shanghai, still would obstruct the way of the Japanese westward toward Nanking. (When Chinese forces withdrew from Chapel last week Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek declared, "Our real defenses are to the west.")"

Captains of Various Groups Will Solicit Red Cross Members

Captains of the various groups who will solicit Red Cross memberships during the annual Red Cross Roll Call here November 16 and 17 were announced yesterday by Russell C. Conkling, roll call control officer of the Midland County Red Cross Chapter, the group captains having been asked to select the workers who will comprise their respective teams. The city has been divided into sections, the various teams having been given a specified area in which to work. Red Cross booths will be set up in downtown lobbies and groups will work the business and residential sections.

Midland's goal has been set at 900 memberships, local Red Cross workers being of the opinion that the goal will be exceeded during the 2 day drive when an effort will be made to contact every resident of Midland relative to Red Cross memberships. Memberships range from one dollar upward, fifty cents of each membership contribution going to the national organization, the remainder being retained by the Midland chapter for local use.

Urging Liberal Giving.

In urging local citizens to give liberally to this worthy movement, Chairman Conkling today called attention to the fact that a community chest drive will not be staged this year, no other drive for charitable purposes being scheduled. The local Red Cross is called upon daily by persons who are in dire need, the Midland Chapter being of great service to the community. Funds must be raised to carry on this great work, however, See (RED CROSS) Page 8

Should the Judge Get Overtime?

Civilization is catching up with Glasscock county! District Judge Chas. Klapproth today reported the Glasscock county grand jury had made one indictment and that then day a court opened there Tuesday he was forced to hold trial for the defendant.

For Glasscock county, that is really something. At the last term of scheduled court there was not a case on docket. Duties are so light around the court house that a herd of deer are kept grazing on the court house lawn.

The one case tried was for — of all things — stealing oil well pipe. The defendant appeared before the judge, pleaded guilty and was given a suspended sentence of two years.

SCRUBS MAKE HEROES BUT GET NO GLORY

We Americans have the success bug, and we pour out admiration on the man who can lead the field. This is a pretty good trait, as it creates an atmosphere which produces successful leaders; but we might well spend a little time paying tribute to the great army of second stringers who make the success of the leaders possible.

A pointer comes from—of all places—the football field of Yale University.

When this season ends, some time in November, the inglorious members of Yale's "scrub" team are to be formally banqueted; and then one of them will be given a big silver football about the size of a pumpkin, to honor him, his teammates, and the whole mute line of scrubs who have gone unhonored and unsung through many football generations.

The scrub leads a tough life. He has to get out on the field four or five days a week all through the season and take his bumps while the varsity polishes up its play. He never has the slightest hope of actually playing in a regularly scheduled game. His classmates never honor him with their cheers. He gets all the grief and none of the glory. But because of him the first team is able to win games.

All right; that's part of the game, and the scrubs love the game or they wouldn't be playing it. But the football field isn't the only place you'll find scrubs. The world is full of them. Most of us are scrubs; part of the great army of second stringers who contribute what we can to victories for which we can never get either fame or fortune.

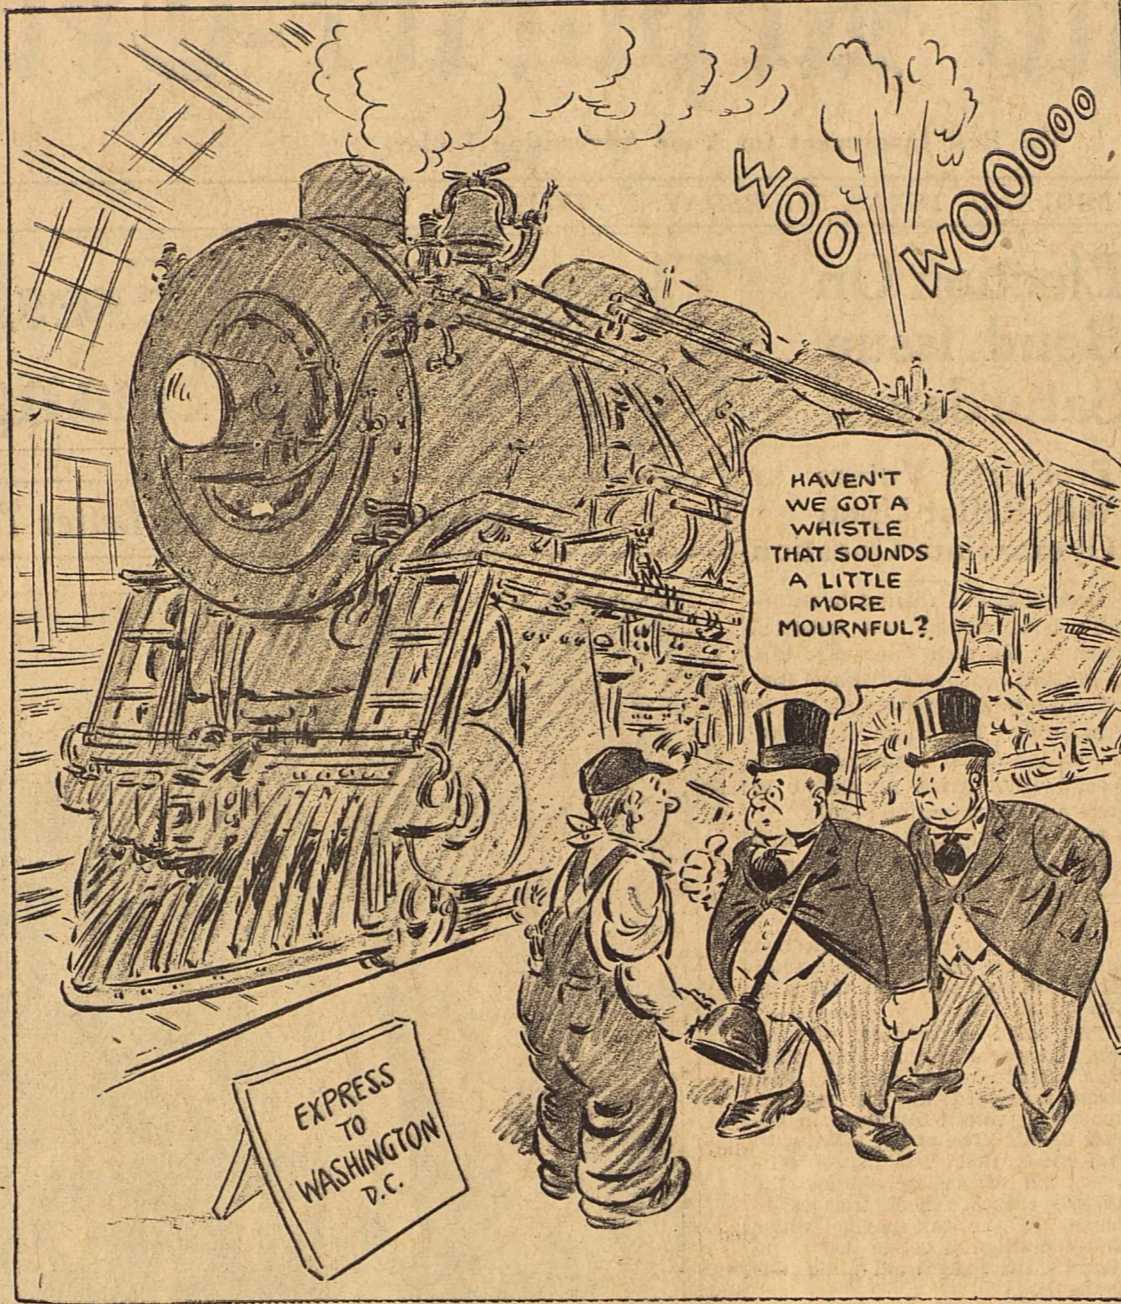

John Jones may become famous as president of a transcontinental railway. But he himself would be the first to admit that he doesn't run the railroad single-handed. Under him there are innumerable section hands, firemen, train dispatchers, master mechanics, shop foremen and so on. If they didn't do their part, John Jones wouldn't be a famous railroad president.

Bill Smith may be a steamship captain, acclaimed for the heroism of his rescues in mid-ocean storms. He didn't make those rescues unaided. He had stout guys down in the engine room with sweat rags around their grimy necks, keeping his ship a jump ahead of Davy Jones in its fight with the storm; skilled seamen in the deck force, ready to take a small boat across tossing waves at their captain's command. Bill Smith gets the glory; the scrubs made it possible.

And so it goes. It is true in every walk of life, from banking to politics, from coal mining to war. A few men have the gifts to be great leaders—the star halfbacks, as you might say, of the game of life. The great majority have the gifts to be great leaders—the star halfbacks, as rich or famous, and they know it and don't mind much. They do their jobs and do them well and the gifted ones get the cheers.

But the service the lowly scrubs render is something that should never be overlooked.

'Railroads To Ask For New Rate Increase'

Behind the Scenes in Washington

WASHINGTON Nov. 4. — This is another of those screwy periods in New Deal history when pundits solemnly ask each other and their readers whether Roosevelt is going "to go to the right or to the left."

When this question is raised, all veteran observers who are capable of learning by experience automatically lean back and predict with a yawn that subsequent wiggles of the administration will veer toward the port rather than the starboard side.

Hits Wall Street Foes. Nevertheless, the degree of pressure from the so-called right probably is heavier to the square inch than at any previous time. It reached unprecedented strength just before the President's Federal Reserve dedication speech. But Roosevelt ignored desperate conservative pleas to give business various reassurances.

Lately the Federal Reserve Board's reduction of stock market margin requirement from 55 to 40 per cent has been widely interpreted as an administration concession to Wall Street. It was. But the only reason for it was the fact that Roosevelt and Chairman Eccles were especially anxious to impose a new 50 per cent margin requirement on short sales and made the reduction just to make it appear that they were doing more than kicking Wall Street in the face. Net effect was a sock at Roosevelt's real or fancied foes in Wall Street.

Roosevelt intimates who have seen him lately agree on two points: First, his well-known gaiety, buoyancy, optimism, and confidence are as conspicuous as ever.

Second, the President believes that at least one cause of the stock market decline, if not of the business decline itself, was a deliberately engineered plan by certain groups intent on discrediting the administration.

Some of his more conservative intimates admit that this alarms them. Blames Business. It must be remembered that New Deal theory, however vague it may be on some particulars, is in general aimed at keeping the capitalistic system function on all six, if that be possible. The President, you may be sure, believes that practically all business troubles are brought upon itself by business. He is convinced that rebellion by industry, against New Deal laws, plus a certain amount of deliberate sabotage, has been a factor in the current slump. If big business men had not preferred to defy the National Labor Relations act, he believes, industry would not have stocked up inventories at high prices last spring. If business men were not so greedy in their demand for profit, he feels, they would have refrained from raising prices to what he considers an almost disastrous extent.

The New Deal idea is that business men should be content with small unit profits and make their money out of volume. Meanwhile, Doctor Roosevelt figures that his job is to keep business from wounding itself and committing mayhem on the general welfare—and that if one of his remedies doesn't work, another will. Double-Barreled Hatred. Coupled with this attitude is the fact that the "hate Roosevelt" attitude of most business men has stirred up an increasing irritation in F. D. R. He's a "good hater" himself. It may or may not be tough on the country, but the man who felt four years ago that he could depend on 90 per cent of business to co-operate with his program now feels that he can depend on about 10 per cent and that the rest of business is so selfish as to require federal mastery.

The state of the President's mind continues to be a most important factor in the current situation. AT THE HOSPITALS. Maxine Neill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Neill, underwent appendectomy in a Midland hospital Wednesday morning. She was reported doing well.

Barbara Ann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Vivian, had a tonsil operation Wednesday morning.

Mrs. C. E. Ramsey sustained minor surgery Tuesday.

Clifford Lee, son of Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Lee, was admitted for hospital treatment Tuesday.

H. M. Carpenter returned to his home Wednesday much improved.

Henry Fields of Goldsmith, who had been treated for an eye infection, returned home Wednesday.

Jail Terms Served at Night.

MIAMI, Fla. (U.P.) — Husbands who stay out nights in Miami have a new excuse now — they've only been to jail. Judge Norman Blakely has instituted a policy of permitting minor traffic violators, who have been given jail terms, to serve their sentences at night leaving them free to hold their jobs in the daytime.

The Town Quack

No individual, organization or group has been as active in noising abroad the recent closing of the brokerage office here as the San Angelo Standard-Times. They sent men here to get sob stories on how it killed business, which it didn't, telegraph the higher up brokerage office with which the local one was associated and went to a great deal of trouble to see if Midland wasn't just about put out of business by the closing. That may be a good story, yet I fail to see where it is such a big story to San Angelo except that during the past three years we have taken over a large part of their population, many of these citizens now owning fine homes here, and the Standard-Times is keenly interested whether or not Midland will be able to weather this "great financial disaster."

The Standard-Times correspondent, on his visit here, was informed that Midland business men are treating the closing of the brokerage office very lightly, although some few people naturally were given a jolt. The Standard-Times estimates of losses amounting to from $200,000 to $300,000 apparently are three or ten times too high and Midland, whether this is news in San Angelo or not, has forgotten the closing of the brokerage office on account that we are too busy growing to spend our time worrying about a little job like a shut-down brokerage office.

We can pick out from a dozen to a hundred Midland men who have lost as much as that in one business deal, in cattle, oil or what-not, and still were able to be back at work the next day. If San Angelo thinks a little door-shutting like that is front page news or a major disaster, then some of the Angelo men ought to come over here and see a little real business done. I'll bet there has been as much money lost in a hotel room crap game here as was lost in that brokerage office closing, and the crap shooters didn't even go home and admit they had been in a game.

Let San Angelo worry about her own troubles. Midland doesn't know she has been hit.

Severe Winter Predicted.

RHINELANDER, Wis. (U.P.) — Conservation wardens believe that frequent raids by northern Wisconsin bears on kitchens, gardens, orchards and beehives indicates the coming of a severe winter. Other wildlife students insist, however, that the bears have been driven to the raids by a shortage of berries.

SAN FRANCISCO. (U.P.) — A $2,000,000 cemetery has been offered to the city of San Francisco as a gift, according to W. B. Ries, president of the Laurel Hill cemetery association. Ries said that trustees had voted in favor of the move, providing that the city turned the 54-acre property into a memorial park to commemorate those buried there.

Revamped Menus Are More Effective Than Boycott to Cut Food Outlay

(This is the first of twelve special articles on "Slashing the Cost of Living.")

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Service Staff Writer.

The welfare of the average American family is threatened. Suddenly, at the approach of winter, we find ourselves facing almost prohibitive costs for the meats regarded as a necessary part of our daily food allowance. If we can't lower meat prices to former levels, what shall we do about it?

Rising food costs without a corresponding rise in income have produced an increase in the cost of living—about 15 per cent. Should women rise up and attack the politicians? Should they boycott butcher shops and hold out until prices drop again to where they were?

Boycott Has Disadvantages.

A boycott is a two-edged weapon and the inexperienced might easily cut themselves. Whenever women have refused to buy groceries or meats in protests against high prices, prices have eventually dropped for a time. But it is not as simple as it looks. The local butcher may have to cut his prices to dispose of stocks on hand, but the large packers may just sit tight and lock their refrigerator doors. It's the little fellow who takes the rap, not the big one. And if the housewives boycott lasts very long, the family suffers from lack of essential and expected items in the diet.

The question now is, can we maintain our American standard of living in the face of the high cost of living? Too much of our "standard of living" is composed of waste and self-indulgence. Americans love a good prime roast of beef. We regard porterhouse and sirloin steak as a national birthright. But loin lamb chops and rib chops seem but the inherent privilege of any good citizen and a leg of lamb for Sunday dinner is little more to us than a flavorless weekly habit.

Much of Carcass Left. But all these choice cuts put together do not use up the entire carcass of the beef or lamb which was sold to the wholesaler on the hoof and by the total weight. Mark that point—the animal from which your choice cuts are cut want to maintain a good table and still not annihilate the family food budget, you must learn to use up all the carcass. Veal is a meat too little appreciated. Leg, loin and rack chops everyone likes; but shudder, breasts, brains and kidney, if used regularly, too, afford not only delicious variations in the diet but bring down the costs of the more familiar cuts. Cross Rib Is Fine Roast. And, with intelligence, you can prepare a cross rib of beef, which is a clear piece of meat from the shoulder, into a tempting Sunday roast. Chuck rib, too, can be roasted. Short ribs, flank steak and chuck steak all belong in the list of usually unwanted cuts, but cuts paid for in the price of the more favored sections. That is why there will be a series of articles on this practical subject. How can you change your food habits? Your husband doesn't want any cheap cuts and he won't eat liver or any other of "those things." That's what he thinks. In the series of twelve articles or Slashing the Cost of Living, I shall try to convince you with selected recipes and specially worked out menus, so that unfamiliar and low-priced cuts can be introduced to your family without any protest on their part or without any lessening in the nutrition value of your meals.

Diet, At Least, Should Begin At Forty, Writer Says In Article
By Mrs. Gaynor Maddox
NEA Service Staff Writer.
Slenderness in the middle aged woman is more than a necessity. It is a form of health insurance. After forty too many calories are like too many worries—they tear a woman down. When she has reached forty, a woman has developed fully and does not need calories to build her up. Light eating makes for light spirits past forty. That of course does not mean starvation. It means intelligent selection of foods that provide not only necessary minerals, vitamins and calories, but also enough enjoyment to make life pleasant. The main thing is that the organism must not be overtaxed and dietary fads be avoided. She must satisfy her normal appetite but avoid indulgence.

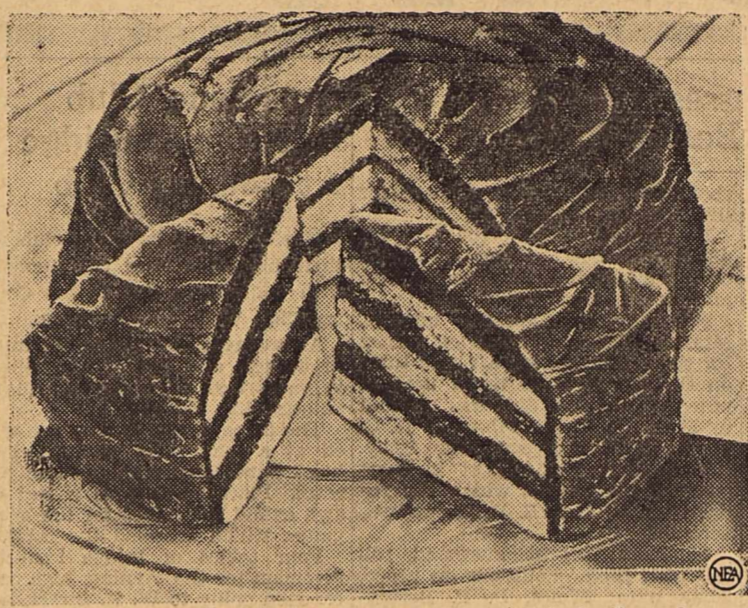

Too Little Exercise.
The tendency with most people after forty is to do less exercising than they have been used to doing and at the same time to eat just as much as formerly. These older people also tend as a rule to develop high blood pressure because of this over-eating and lack of normal exercise.

Diet to people past forty is just as necessary to a comfortable and pleasant life as a steady income. Largely avoid such foods as rich pastries, excessive sweets, cereals, white bread, potatoes, heavy cream, rich sauces, butter in excess, alcohol, hors d'oeuvres such as salted nuts, crackers, popcorn, potato chips. Foods that are too salty and overspiced do not belong in the diet for the woman who believes that life begins at forty.
Here is a sample menu which will help you follow an intelligent and pleasant diet if you have reached the two-score line.

Light Luncheon.
For luncheon at one o'clock—a consommé, a bowl of mixed greens with French dressing, rye toast, one-half square butter, a slice of melon with lime or some other fresh fruit, followed by tea or demitasse.

For dinner at seven try clam juice cocktail, one lamb chop broiled, string beans, grilled tomatoes, slice of Melba toast, one half square butter, a fresh green salad, baked apple, demi-lassé.
When you retire around ten, a glass of buttermilk or skim milk is a good thing to take. This diet may seem a little strict but follow it for awhile and you will learn that life not only begins at forty but begins to be less cumbersome and more to your taste.

Chocolate Layer Cake Is Filled With Man-Appeasing Delight

Fluffy, chocolate, in three sumptuous layers, this is the cake any man would strive for. The frosting is old fashioned but the results will be news.

By Mrs. Gaynor Maddox
NEA Service Staff Writer.
There are many ways to a man's heart. But the quickest is an old-fashioned chocolate layer cake.

Chocolate Layer Cake.
(3 layers).
One-half cup shortening, 1 1/4 cups sugar, 3 eggs, 1 teaspoon vanilla extract, 2 1/4 cups pastry flour, 2 1/2 teaspoons tartrate baking powder or teaspoons combination baking powder, 1/4 teaspoon salt, milk, 3 tablespoons corn-starch, 3 1/2 cups confectioner's sugar, 2 egg yolks, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla extract, 4 tablespoons cream.

Melt the chocolate and butter together in top of double boiler. Mix the cornstarch with the milk. Add slowly to melted chocolate, stirring until thick and smooth. Add 1 1/2 cups confectioner's sugar and salt to egg yolk; add to first mixture. Continue to cook while beating until smooth. Add vanilla extract. Cool. Use half of this mixture to spread thickly between layers of cake. Use the other half for icing by adding remaining 2 cups of confectioner's sugar and the cream slowly, beating until smooth. Spread on top and sides of cake. The fashion for things Victorian makes a good fudge frosting recipe necessary for every modern housewife. This new one will delight you in its rich brown results.

Fudge Frosting.
(To frost 18 cup cakes, top and sides)
Two cups sugar, 2 tablespoons corn syrup, 3 squares unsweetened chocolate, 1/2 cup milk, 1/2 teaspoon tartrate baking powder, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 teaspoon vanilla extract.

Cook sugar, corn syrup, chocolate and milk to 232 degrees F. or until syrup forms a very soft ball when tested in cold water. Stir occasionally to prevent burning. Remove from fire, add baking powder and butter. Cool to luke-warm. Add vanilla extract and beat until creamy and right consistency to spread.

Batches of from 20 to 30 eggs are laid twice annually by mosquitoes.

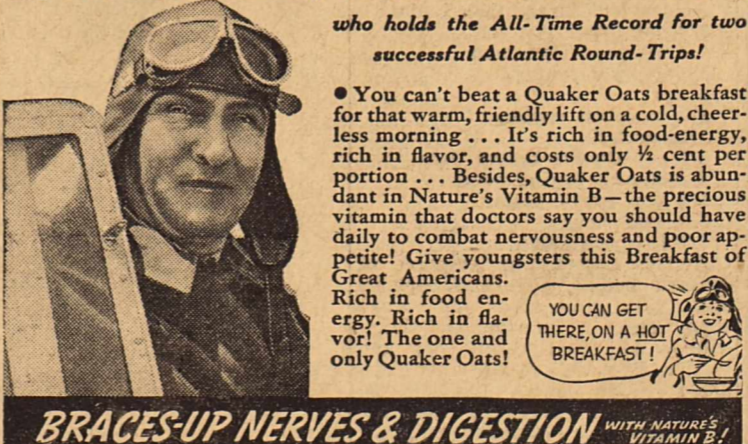

MONDAY'S MENU.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Caused by Tired Kidneys
Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.
The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 2 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.
If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.
Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Col. John Perkins Stresses Need for Preparedness in Talk Before Club

Col. John Perkins, who holds his title as an officer in the Reserve Army, was guest speaker at the meeting of the Modern Study club with Mrs. James H. Chapple, 700 W. Storey, Wednesday afternoon.

General subject of club study for the afternoon was "Progress Toward International Good Will" and Col. Perkins spoke on "National Defense and World Peace," after being introduced by Mrs. L. C. Link, club president.

The speaker forcefully presented the necessity for preparedness. "We live in a world of preparedness," he said. "Our everyday lives prove it. We prepare for comfort in our old age by careful investment now. We prepare our children for life by sending them to school. We prepare against loss by fire by buying fire insurance. Our cities prepare against disorder and for the safety of their citizens by adequate police departments. Then why should not our nation prepare for the national defense?"

He pointed out that the time for disarmament is not now—not until other nations become peace-minded and disarmament would be safe.

Following Col. Perkins' address, Mrs. Fred Turner, program leader for the afternoon, led a round table on the definition of terms used in peace discussions. She was assisted by Mmes. R. Steele Johnston, R. C. Crabbe, J. M. Haygood, Tom Sealy.

Mrs. Link presided at a short business meeting at which the resignation of Mrs. E. P. Lamar was accepted.

Members present answered roll call with Bible quotations on peace. They were: Mmes. P. F. Bridge-water, Crabbe, F. C. Cummings, Haygood, John M. Hills, Johnston, Link, P. A. Nelson, A. H. Riley, Sealy, S. S. Stinson, Turner, F. R. Schenck, Jones, and the hostess.

We, The Women

Handsome men are fun to look at—but not ideal for marriage. Bear that in mind when you turn your mind husbandward. And if you can't overcome your weakness for a chiseled profile and crisp, wavy hair, make up your mind to enjoy those attributes at a distance and at someone else's expense.

I know a wise man who says that the worst fate he could possibly wish on a woman would be that she should marry a strikingly handsome man.

Here are his reasons. A handsome man hasn't a chance against conceit. Every woman he meets sets out to please him. Any girl who has even the most casual acquaintance with him manages to make the association seem personal. He is flattered, spoiled and openly admired.

Very early in life, the handsome man learns that he need not exert himself to be a pleasant entertaining companion. With a profile like his even a grouch is becoming. What is the use of his going out of his way to please women when he knows that women are pleased with so little?

Such a man will always be more interested in his own necktie than in his wife's newest dress. And his wife, poor wretch, will have to spend a lifetime thinking up ways to flatter him. How else can she compete with a world of admiring women?

The very handsome man is less likely to work hard at his job than his brother to whom nature was less generous because he already has one kind of distinction.

Unfortunately women are jealous creatures, whether they are able to conceal the passion or not. The more handsome a man happens to be, the more sure his wife is that every woman in the world, young and old, married and unmarried, would like to have her prize. Why then should a woman, knowing this is so, decide to worry her life away over a collar-ad of a husband?

How much more serene her life would be if she married a man who was not so exciting to look at but who had developed an amusing personality as a substitute for a Robert Taylor-made face and custom built shoulders. Such a man would not be too preoccupied with his own attractiveness to notice when she started parting her hair in the middle.

How blessed is the woman who has only ordinary competition—who knows that Tom is "tops" but is equally certain that every woman he meets is not immediately aware of the fact.

If all my wise friend said is true—and he knows whereof he speaks—it would seem that a handsome man would have a hard time finding a wife. But fortunately for them, and unhappily for us, we women can't easily resist the temptation to have for ourselves a man whom other women admire, even if their admiration is voiced in the characteristically feminine question, "Why in the world do you suppose HE married HER?"

Sans Souci Club Has Dinner-Bridge At Country Club

Members of Sans Souci club and their husbands were complimented with a dinner-bridge at the Country Club Wednesday evening.

A profusion of chrysanthemums in baskets and daisies and zinnias in vases lent a holiday air to the entertaining rooms.

The three-course dinner was served at a long table centered by a black bowl filled with red and pink roses. Place cards bore a leaf design as did the tallies for the bridge games which followed the meal.

Four tables of bridge furnished diversion for the evening, high score for men going to W. H. Street, high score for women to Mrs. Barney Greathouse, and high cut to Mrs. Street.

Present were: Mmes. and Messrs. W. A. Taylor, R. T. Mobley, Bates Hoffer, E. W. Cowden, Barney Greathouse, Tom Rainbolt, Bill Wyche, W. H. Street.

MIND Your MANNERS

Test your knowledge or correct social usages by answering the following questions, then checking against the authoritative answers below:

1. Should a club or organization send flowers to a guest speaker?
2. How many gardenias is it correct for a woman to wear in the evening?
3. Is it suitable for a woman to send flowers to a man who is ill or convalescing?
4. Is giving a reception for their friends a suitable way for a man and wife to celebrate a silver wedding anniversary?
5. Is it good taste to cover the top of a piano with vases and photographs?

What would you do if—
You wish to send flowers to a woman who has been especially kind to you and yet you have very little money to spend—
(a) Decide that it would be better to send nothing if you cannot send enough to make a big show?
(b) Buy at least a dozen expensive flowers—even though you can't afford them?
(c) Take what money you have and buy either two or three expensive flowers or more of some simple variety?

Answers:
1. It is courteous.
2. Not more than three.
3. Yes.
4. Yes.
5. No.
Best "What Would You Do" solution—(c). Most people would regret having you spend more on them than they knew you could really afford.

They Have Quail at Every Meal!

Quail to most persons is a rare table delicacy, but to Mr. and Mrs. I. M. Springer of Atlanta, Ga., it is an interesting pet. "T-Bone," as they call the bird, above, eats out of Mrs. Springer's hand and is cited as a rare example of the domestication of the breed. "T-Bone" sleeps under a blanket, lays eggs in her owners' laps and accompanies the Springers on their trailer jaunts through the south to paint gasoline stations.

American Beauties

Not all the beauties in the country have gone to Hollywood to show off their talent before the camera. Here's one—a lovely brunette with crystal clear skin and a singularly placid, sweet expression—whose talent is at its best when she's before the typewriter she capitalizes. Her name is Mignon Eberhart and she writes best-sellers, the most recent of which is "The Pattern."

Modern Menus

APPLE PUDDING WITH OATMEAL IS NEW DISH
Some cooks are firm believers of the old saying, "An apple a day keeps the doctor away." And they're forever introducing the new in the realm of an apple cooking. One particular good and nutritious dish is apple pudding with oatmeal.
It is made of the following ingredients:
Apples (cut in eighths) 1 pint
1/4 cup sugar
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
1/3 cup shortening
1 egg
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup Quaker Rolled Oats
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 cup brown sugar
1/2 cup flour
1/4 teaspoon salt
Arrange apples in bottom of greased baking dish and sprinkle them with white sugar and cinnamon. Cream brown sugar and shortening, add well-beaten egg and vanilla. Beat well. Mix Quaker Oats, flour, baking powder and salt. To the creamed shortening add the dry ingredients alternately with the milk. Pour over apples and bake in a 35 degree oven for 40 minutes.

BULLDOG SUBSTITUTES LIKELY TO GET A LOT OF ACTION IN GAME WITH THE WEAK KERMIT CLUB TOMORROW NIGHT

Midland Bulldog second stringers, many of whom have sat on the bench all season and watched their so-called superior mates do no better than break even in six games played to date, will probably see a lot of action here tomorrow night when the Bulldogs and Kermit Yellow jackets tangle.

With all chances to finish in the first division of the district flag race definitely eliminated, head coach Taylor has declared he was going to give men who will be back next year all the experience for the remainder of the year that he can. Naturally, he would like to win the remaining games on the schedule but he also realizes that he must look ahead to next year.

It wouldn't be at all surprising to see the coach start a line-up tomorrow night composed of boys all the way through that will be back next year. Little James White and Bobby Walker have been seen in action in the Bulldog backfield in most of the games recently and are likely starters at quarter and half, respectively, tomorrow night.

Some of the linemen, Adams, English and Whitaker and Klatt have played almost every minute of games played so far and could probably use some rest tomorrow night without it hurting them.

The scheduled game with the vastly improved Stanton club coming one week from today gives the coach further incentive for wanting to use some of his youngsters tomorrow night. After being conceded the cellar berth in pre-season forecasts, the Buffaloes have come forward rapidly in recent games and right now are given an even chance to hang up a victory over the Bulldogs Armistice Day. The Kermit club is expected to be much improved tomorrow night when they will have five new men eligible but the new men are not considered capable of making enough difference to keep the Bulldogs from running up their heaviest score of the year and taking a victory.

Kermit has lost five games and this one season for the poorest record of any club in the district. The Yellowjackets have not been able to ring up a point this year while their opponents have totaled 200 points.

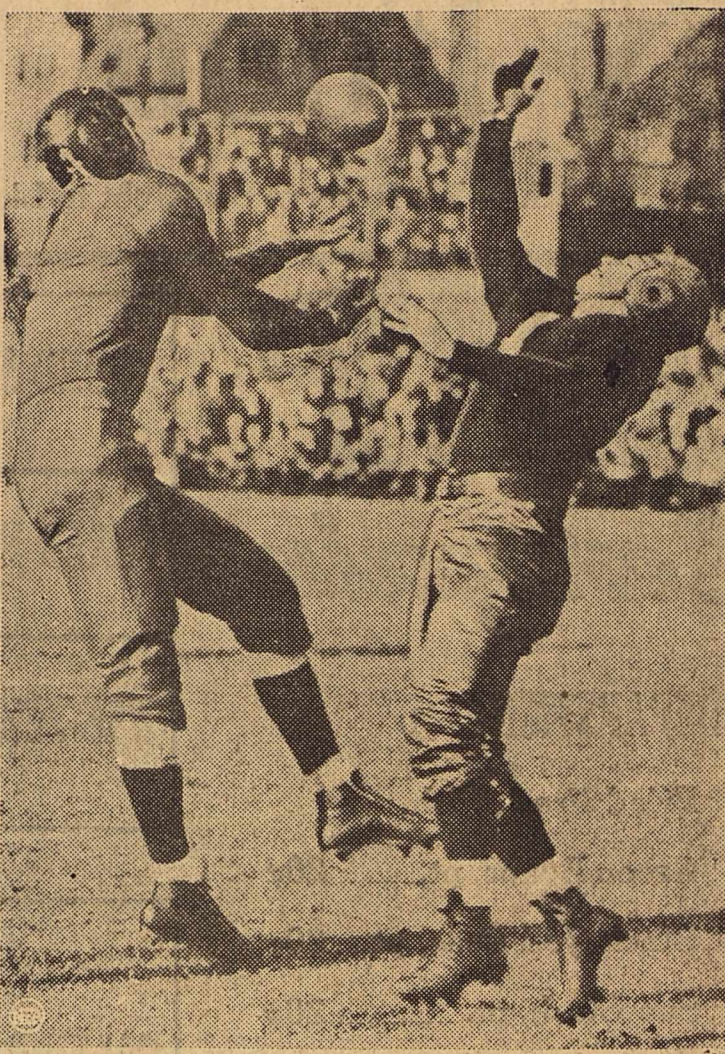

The Midland offensive has been woefully weak all season, scoring only 51 points in six games, but the Bulldogs are confident of being able to come through for a bunch of tallies tomorrow night.

Coaches Taylor and Myer have been working the boys overtime this week, never for a moment letting the boys forget that the Kermit game would give them the best chance of the year to get out of the conference cellar.

The loser of the game will have sole possession of the cellar, both being tied up at the present time with three losses and no victories in conference competition. And the loser will be there for the rest of season—barring an upset—as there is no other club in the district that the loser can hope to defeat.

Should the coaches decide to start the Bulldog subs tomorrow night the line-up will probably be Norman and Van Dyke at ends, Hejl and McMullan at guards, Ford and Coker at tackles, Bryan at center, Walker and Truelove at halves, White at quarter and Harris at fullback.

NOTHING TO SPARE

Jack McCarthy and Andy Puplis, right, tried ineffectually to block the forward pass that resulted in Minnesota's touchdown against Notre Dame. The ball was snapped to Wilbur Moore, who tossed a short lateral to Marty Christiansen, who in turn threw a longer lateral to Harold Van Every. The latter heaved the pigskin to Capt. Ray King, who is shown taking it on the opposite side of the field with nothing to spare. A missed point after touchdown decided a titanic battle in favor of Notre Dame, 7-6.

Horned Frogs Hope Gentlemen Live Up To Names In Saturday Game; Tired Of Rough Way They Have Been Treated

FORT WORTH, Nov. 4.—T. C. U. hopes that Centenary will really be Gentlemen Saturday. They're pretty well fed up with the ungentlemanly behavior of Buckeyes, Razorbacks, Farmers, Rams and Bears.

Seldom, if ever, has a losing team had as much credit given it by sports writers as have the Frogs this season. But that's a left-handed compliment that the Christians appreciate but had just a little rather not be eligible for.

On the basis of the record to date, T. C. U. should win Saturday at Shreveport. But games are not played on the basis of the record, and Coach Dutch Meyer's men know by bitter experience that those Centenary teams can deal out plenty of tough football.

Having dropped three, tied two and won only one in six starts, Coach Meyer is in the mood for experimentation at Shreveport. He hopes that he will give a number of the bench-warmers an opportunity to strut their stuff.

"We can't do any worse than lose," he reasons, "and we've managed to do that half the time anyway. I've got a lot of good boys who are rearin' to go, and I think I'll see if they really can."

There has been a lot of 60-minute playing on the part of the Frog first-stringers and they're in need of rest, even if it means a poor showing in a one contest. David O'Brien has missed only two minutes in six games. Kl Aldrich at center has played almost as much. Others who have spent most of the time in the trenches include I. B. Hale, tackle; Capt. Mason Mayne and Sub-Capt. "Bull" Rogers at guards; and Johnny Hall at half.

It wouldn't be surprising to see the following 11 men take the field against Centenary: Bob Jordan at Charles Mabry, ends; Bob Cook and Alie White, tackles; George Dunlap and Bud Taylor, guards; Jack Title, center; Jimmie Pratt, quarter; Woodrow Duckworth and Earl Clark, halves; and Lacy McClanahan, full.

Saturday will be a holiday at T. C. U. for the official Student Body Football Day. A special train will be run to Shreveport, carrying the Horned Frog Band of 50 pieces and some 500 students and fans.

Why is the pass so popular in the southwest? First, we have the passers. Boys throw a lot in this section. Footballs in the fall and winter. Baseballs in the spring and summer. The weather is conducive to outdoor sports the year round. Players come to college with the throwing habit. It is a tradition.

The weather influences the game in this vicinity. In the north, east, midwest, and Pacific northwest, a coach wouldn't dare build his attack around passing.

His team would be almost sure to strike a number of cold, rainy, icy, and snowy days when passes would be well-nigh useless.

Rain Fails to Curb Forwards in Southwest. In the southwest bad weather is strictly the exception. There may be rainy Saturdays, but the real passing team is not seriously bothered. To refer again to Arkansas, most typical of the passing teams, the Razorbacks clinched the 1936 conference championship on a field ankle-deep in water, with rain falling in sheets—by marching nearly the length of the field on passer from Sloan to Benton and finally scoring the day's lone touchdown by the same route.

Receivers are as important as

Sul Ross Ready for Game Saturday With The WTSTC in Pecos

ALPINE, Nov. 4.—"We'll be ready," were the words of B. C. Graves, coach of the Sul Ross Lobos, when asked about the prospects for Saturday's game with the West Texas Buffaloes, at Pecos, under the lights of Rotary field. The game was changed from Alpine to Pecos in order to give the people of that section of the country a chance to see a college football game.

In order to get ready for the game, the Lobos have been having strenuous blocking and tackling practice sessions, and the same program is on schedule for this week. In addition, finishing touches will be added to the new set of plays designed by the Lobo mentors, in an attempt to stop the Buffaloes.

Full strength will be seen on Rotary field for this week's game, except maybe Peimbert will not be in the pink of condition, since he is suffering with an ankle injury. His loss as reserve quarterback, if it happens to be more serious than believed, will be felt if Craig is injured; but even if this would happen Captain Tipps, end and halfback, or Archer, halfback, are ready and able to carry on in the signal calling position.

Since so much enthusiasm and interest by the student body has been shown, the college authorities have declared a half day holiday, in order to give the Smiling Lobo Band, and the two pep squads, a chance to attend the game and add color to the contest. A special broadcast by the band and the pep squads will be given over radio station KUON, Pecos, prior to the game.

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—Free lessons in lip reading have been instituted in city schools here. The course is open to the hard of hearing and is given in afternoon and evening classes.

Baugh refuses to admit that professional receivers are superior to the boys he pitched to at Texas Christian. Walter Roach, L. D. Meyer, and Willie Walls. Those stars have graduated, but we still have plenty of catches—Homer of T. C. U., Boyd of Baylor, Smith of Texas and M., Steen of Rice, Benton and Hamilton of Arkansas, Peterson and Bryan of Texas, and Dewell and Acker of Southern Methodist being only a few of them.

Aggies Prepare for Game Saturday At Home With S. M. U.

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Nov. 3.—Feeling they outplayed the Razorbacks, although defeated 26-13 at Fayetteville, Ark., last Saturday, the Texas Aggie grid squad ran through light workouts early this week preparing for their annual meeting with Matty Bell's Southern Methodist Mustangs, Saturday, Nov. 6, on Kyle Field. The Cadets appeared to be in higher spirits than they have been at any time since they reported early in September.

The last time the Mustangs ranged on Kyle Field they were Rose Bowl bound and not only won a game on the Aggie's historic grid-iron, but did a thorough job, winning 24-0. The Seniors on the team this year played in that game and have not forgotten the drubbing they took.

Matty Bell, who was head coach at Aggie land for five years before going to Southern Methodist, started a string of victories over the Aggies on Kyle Field with that victory and is more than anxious to extend it indefinitely by taking the Cadets this week-end.

Work early this week has been on pass defense and blocking, both of which were below par last Saturday. Head rocking scrimmage with the Freshmen is slated for Wednesday. So far a good part of the practice time has been spent in classroom studying the SMU-Aggie pictures of last year and the Mustang plays brought back by Freshman Coach H. R. (Hub) McQuillan.

Coach McQuillan has much praise for the Pony team he saw beat Texas last Saturday and says the game next Saturday is likely to be a dandy. "It was a far better team than I saw play Arkansas a week before," McQuillan said, "and anything might happen this Saturday."

Worst fears of Coach Homer Norton began to jell last week when Bounding Bob Nestrta, Flatonia, backfield star of the Aggies, was examined by physicians in Dallas. The medics say that Bob has a case of football knee and while it is not certain, the joint may pop out of place at any minute. He hurt the knee against Mississippi State early in October, and while it apparently was improving, it has given him a lot of trouble. Warming up last Saturday to go into the game against Arkansas it jumped out of place and he had to stay on the bench. It is possible that he will be out for the rest of the season.

Owens (Slick) Rogers, Mart, quarterback, is the other Aggie not in shape. His knee, injured against Baylor, is still bothering him. He went into the Foraker game for a few minutes but the bump bothered him so much he had to retire to the sidelines.

Joe Routt, All-America guard from Chapel Hill, does not bruise easily but does heal quickly. Baylor game is about healed and will be cured by the time SMU trounces the field Saturday.

Rattlers Will Go 'High Brow' Ride A Train Saturday

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 4.—After traveling from coast to coast by motor bus, the St. Marys of Texas Rattlers go "high-brow" this week-end when they board a Missouri-Pacific special Saturday morning for Kingsville where they meet the Texas A. & I. Javalinas for the Alamo Conference title.

The game has been designated as homecoming for the Texas A. & I. graduates and ex-students and the Rattlers intend to spoil the day's celebration by snatching the first championship of the new conference. Last year the loop finished in a three-way tie.

Monday night's 19-0 win over the strong Oklahoma City University eleven brought the season's record to six games won and two lost.

Warren Wylie, guard from Beaumont, came out of the Goldberg jarring with a broken nose and Clin Hennig, freshman tackle sentention from Olney, sustained a wrenched knee. Clyde Rush, Beaumont, or Howard Phillips, Greenville, will replace Wylie as guard from Beaumont, came out of the Goldberg jarring with a broken nose and Clin Hennig, freshman tackle sentention from Olney, sustained a wrenched knee.

Others ineligible for the Texas A. & I. game are Sam Hagler, center from Cleburne; John McGowan, Broken Bow, Okla., guard; J. T. Copeland, Jr., guard from Mount Pleasant; Lester Patton, tackle from Crowley; Harold Sabath, tackle from Chicago, Ill.; Otis Parks, Wink, end; Hank Schmidt, 222-pound power end from Des Moines, Ia.; and All-American Doug Locke, the Crosett, Ark., paper mill worker whose place will be filled by Beaumont's blond bomber, Burren Brown.

Changed Line-Up Will Be Offered By Texas Steers

AUSTIN, Nov. 4.—The reward for two years of trying will come to a couple of Texas Longhorns Saturday when they get the thrill of starting their first college football game.

Ned McDonald, stocky end from Houston, and James Watson, fiery center from Dallas, went a whole year on the squad without cracking the lineup, and at the start of this season were considered ex-

Scup Bowl, Not the Rose Bowl, Interests Baylor Most Now

WACO, Texas, Nov. 3.—Soup bowl, over which starving athletes spend much time in the evening hours, is the only kind of bowl the Green and Gold wave of Baylor university will allow talked around the campus as Morley Jennings prepares his under-studies for the invasion of the cellar championship University of Texas at Longhorns.

After the Bruins had suffered through the final minute to be saved by pop of the gun in the 6 to 0 victory over Texas Christians Saturday, someone yelled "Rose bowl" but he was soon drowned out with talk about how tough a vicious stampeding Longhorn may be when he is mad.

"The steer is apt to be mad after seeing red in Dallas Saturday," Coach Morley Jennings told his boys as they began running Texas plays Monday afternoon.

But on the campus, away from the practice field, conversation always led to the narrow escape the undefeated Golden Bruins had against the Christians. One Baylorite, Bill Daniel of Liberty, a yell leader, suffered complete collapse and was taken to the Baptist sanitarium here for recuperation. Hundreds of others agree they, too, were on the verge of a breakdown.

Again it was the masterful work of Bullet Bill Patterson and his well-equipped wingmen, Sam Boyd and Frank Huessner, who pulled the game out of the fire several times. Patterson's booming and the holding of "That Good Old Baylor Line" when the ball was in dangerous territory spelled the difference between the Baylor and TCU clubs. Baylor's big, bad Bears were high in praise for the fine interference given to little Davie O'Brien. Many drugstore critics said Boyd, an all-American nominee, played the greatest game of his career.

The slogan adopted by the Bruins when the season was yet young—"Take 'em as they come"—was very much in evidence as the Green and Gold wave prepared for another strenuous week-end with the Longhorns from Austin as their guests. They are not planning to have an easy time with the invading horde in spite of the fact that the cellar championship team last week saw red in going down before the Southern Methodist university Mustangs by a decisive 13-2 count.

Several other changes were noted after the Longhorns' disappointing showing against Southern Methodist. Park Myers is back at his tackle, due to start his first game since the season's opener. The 220-pound sophomore was hurt in the L. S. U. game Oct. 2 and is just now getting back into condition.

The PAYOFF

By DANA X. BIBLE Head Coach, University of Texas. AUSTIN, Nov. 4.—Arkansas has the ball on its 10-yard line late in the game, with the score favoring the Razorbacks, 7-3. The University of Texas defense is set for the punt which it believes Quarterback Dwight Sloan is sure to call.

Sloan drops back in long pun formation, and what does he do? If you know Southwest Conference football, and particularly the Arkansas Razorbacks, the answer is easy. Sloan passes, of course, to one of his towering ends, for a gain that moves his team out of danger.

That is the type of daredevil football spectators see week after week in the southwest. Unorthodox? Certainly. Unsound? Wait a minute. When Sloan called that pass, he KNEW the Longhorns weren't going to intercept it. This cool, steady young man, superb passer that he is, was running no more risk of giving the ball to Texas than he would of having a punt blocked and possibly recovered for the Longhorns' winning touchdown. He knew where he was throwing the ball. About the worst misfortune he risked was loss of a down.

Passers like Sloan and his teammate, Jack Robbins, like Billy Paterson of Baylor. Davey O'Brien of Texas Christian, Ken Mills of Texas A. and M., and Ernie Lain of Rice carry on the southwest's aerial tradition. They took up this year where T. C. U.'s incomparable Sammy Baugh left off.

When you have a passer who rarely ever costs you more than a down, and quite often connects for gains that eat up yardage in huge chunks, it certainly is sound strategy to take advantage of his talent.

Forward passing yearly is becoming more popular in football, and the southwest has headed the parade.

Virtually every team in the country now employs the pass as an integral part of its offense, not merely as a threat. In the southwest some teams build their entire offense around the forward pass. In defeating Texas, 21-10, Arkansas threw 36 passes and completed 18, with only two intercepted and both those deep in Longhorn territory. Approximately every other play was a pass.

Throughout a three-game stretch the Baylor Bears passed for six

Branch Plants From U. S. Dot Canadian Map

OTTAWA, Ont. (U.P.)—The penetration of United States industry in Canada, attributed to the desire of American manufacturers to obtain the benefits of the British Empire tariff preferences, is increasing, a survey by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, Canadian Government statistical agency, reveals.

Beware Coughs from common colds That Hang On

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold, or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with any remedy less potent than Creomulsion, which goes right to the seat of the trouble and aids nature to soothe and heal the inflamed mucous membranes and to loosen and expel the germ-laden phlegm.

Ontario, because the province extends farthest south and is more contiguous to the large centers of American manufacturing. Distance favors Americans. Canadian economists, surveying the situation, find a great difference between the attitude of British and American manufacturer in locating in Canada.

It is estimated that American manufacturers have established nearly 1,500 branch plants in Canada, and the large majority of the $2,000,000,000 invested in plants in the Dominion by foreign manufacturers is owned by American interests.

When the American manufacturer attempts to enter the Canadian market, he encounters a tariff wall, and the only way he can overcome this impediment is by establishing a branch factory in Canada.

The American branch industry in Canada is particularly pronounced in

Rotarians---

CONTINUED FROM PAGE ONE Public decorum is remarkably good, he said. There apparently is a desire to get rid of foreigners, with native architects, engineers and technicians favored in all projects. He called attention however, to the subway in Moscow, saying it was one of the best engineered and best constructed subways in the world.

Many questions, propounded by Rotarians, were answered by DeFord. President Fred Middleton took the chair today for the first time. A brief talk was made by Arthur Yeager in favor of the bond election for a school gymnasium, to be held Saturday, Dr. Wallace E. Brown, new member, was recognized. Visitors included Rotar at H. E. Howie of Big Spring, Roy Ritter of San Angelo and Alfred Siles of Sweetwater; also Mrs. W. E. Ryan and W. W. Lackey.

SLOANS RETURN.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Sloan recently returned from Canada. Mrs. Sloan had been visiting in the British territory for about six weeks. Her husband joined her there, after seeing the World Series in New York, and made the return trip with her.

has readily assimilated itself into the Canadian industrial structure, and, in places, it is actually a dominant factor. It has a large voice in the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, and, curiously it commonly combats moves to lower the tariff against the United States even if this would benefit the parent industry. Free access to the Canadian market would modify them even though it is only through them that the Empire preferences are available.

Some Opposition Manifest. The penetration of American industry into Canada has aroused opposition in some sources. The necessity is particularly opposed by the Socialist Co-operative Commonwealth Federation party, which holds that the operation of these companies in the Dominion is "a real menace to Canada."

J. S. Woodsworth, leader of the party, recently accused Prime Minister Mitchell F. Hepburn, whose opposition to John L. Lewis's Committee for Industrial Organization is construed in some quarters as an invitation for American industry to locate in the province, of permitting American companies to organize in the province and operate under lower wage scales. "Wherever there are gold, nickel or coal mines, automobile factories or water powers controlled by American interests in Canada you should put up an American flag, and then you would have no room for the British flag," he said. "Stand on guard for Canada if you want to have British industries established here."

University Explores Aztec Language, Uses 16th Century History As Key

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (U.P.)—Three books which may bear the same relation to the ancient Aztec language that the Rosetta Stone does to Egyptian picture writing have been acquired by the University of New Mexico.

The three volumes are facsimile reproductions of Fray Sahagun's 16th century "History of the Things of Ancient Mexico," written in Aztec picture writing with parallel columns of Aztec text written in Latin letters. One volume of illustrations was done by native artists.

Only two of the original manuscripts of this Aztec version of Sahagun's history are known to exist. The university copy was photographed from one in Madrid, Spain, and the other is in a library in Florence, Italy.

The production facsimile reproduction is very rare. It was made in Spain in 1906 and dedicated to Profiro Diaz, former president and dictator of Mexico.

Furry Fish of Trout Type Caught In Underground Lake In Missouri

ST. LOUIS, (U.P.)—A fur-bearing fish, caught in an underground lake on a Pulaski County, Mo. farm, may be a reversion to a possible ancient type of piscatorial life.

But, professing to be more of a fisherman than a biologist, Frank F. Wielandy, former Missouri state game and fish commissioner, prefers to let science decide what manner of fish had chosen to strike his line.

The fish was taken out of what is called the trout pond on the acreage known as the Blue Bird Farm owned by the Wielandys and located near Waynesville, Mo. It was mounted and brought to St. Louis to be placed on exhibition.

The fish resembles a trout in every respect except that it has a rich coat of fur completely covering its body in longitudinal stripes, brown and grayish-yellow, much on the order of a chipmunk. The stripes run from snout to tail.

"I nominate it for a leading place in the book," Wielandy said. "For I doubt if there will ever be another freak just like this. In life it would weigh about two pounds. It has the head, jaws and snout of a trout. I frankly admit I can't explain it."

Wielandy suggested that inbreeding had produced a reversion to some long extinct type of fish. The pond in which the fish was taken was a small one. It was stocked by Wielandy. The fish was caught on an ordinary line with a young mouse as bait.

Rare Collection of Frontier Relics Given to Fort Worth By Plumber

FORT WORTH, Texas. (U.P.)—There are collections and collections of old relics, Indian arrowheads and frontier weapons, but few can compare with the mass of material that W. J. Layland, Cleburne plumber, has amassed.

Layland operates a plumbing business in Cleburne, but his business seldom interferes with his hobby of collecting relics, and today it is difficult to separate the relics in his shop from the plumbing fixtures—a modernistic bathtub may be found filled with Indian beads, arrowheads and a mass of head dresses.

Layland has been collecting his material for nearly 59 years, using the mountains and plains of West and Southwest Texas as his happy hunting grounds. His summers are spent in searching for relics—and doubt if there will ever be another "full of the stuff."

Recently Layland offered to give the entire collection to the city of Fort Worth, if a fireproof building would be provided. After Fort Worth sent several authorities to inspect the collection, the city quickly replied that such a structure would be provided. Experts said the collection is the best of its kind in America.

The collection includes prehistoric bones, defense weapons of all types, more than 100 firearms, ranging from ancient flintlocks to modern revolvers, and several saddles that belonged to such noted characters as Kit Carson and Buffalo Bill Cody. There are 3,000 arrowheads; Indian skulls with arrowheads imbedded in them, and various types of hatchets and knives in the small
