

ARMISTICE DAY ..... 1937 ..... 1918

London
Brussels
Nineteen years have passed since Armistice ended the World War on Nov. 11, 1918. But throngs still gather to honor the Unknown Dead. Above, a great concourse of people gathers about London's Cenotaph, standing in silence before the memorial in the center of the busy Strand. Below, King Leopold places a wreath on the tomb memorializing Belgium's dead at Brussels.

Washington
Slowly and with measured tread, a sentry paces before the marble tomb on the heights of Arlington above the Potomac at Washington where "He rests in honored glory an American Soldier known but to God." Peaceful and secluded the tomb of this soldier sees little of military display, little of great gatherings of people, but instead a continuous stream of individuals and delegates on organizations who have not forgotten. They leave their simple wreaths on the marble flagstones almost unnoticed by the Capital city which bustles and seethes across the river, carrying on the government for which the soldier died. But on the heights of Arlington, at least, there is peace, and the soldier, though unknown, is not forgotten.

Rome
Paris
Black-shirted militia and steel-clad cuirassiers stand stiffly about the tomb of Italy's Unknown Soldier before the statue at right of the top picture. Below, an impressive phalanx of flags moves solemnly up Paris' Champs Elysee to the plain tomb beneath the Arc de Triomphe, where France's Unknown Soldier lies beneath an eternal flame.

Where the War Ended
Here ended the long struggle. Dazzling white against the massive green of the Forest of Compeigne, stands this new monument to Marshal Ferdinand Foch, on the spot near Rethondes where German emissaries came to him 19 years ago to ask for the end of fighting. The monument marks the exact spot where stood the railway carriage of the Allied commander-in-chief when the guns along the western front stopped speaking and Unknown Soldiers ceased for a time to die.

Quiet Armistice Day Promised Here

Ranks Thinned of War Great 19 Years After Armistice Signed

PARIS, Nov. 10 (U.P.)—Nineteen years after the signing of the Armistice, in the forest of Compeigne, which brought the World War to a close, only four of the hundreds of great soldiers who commanded the conflict, are still alive—John J. Pershing, Henri Pétain, Eric Ludendorff and Anton Denikin.

A survey of military statistics showed that the soldiers themselves fared better, and that out of the 22,000,000 men who went to war more than 11,000,000 veterans of that conflict still are alive.

Of the great political personalities on both sides of the war, only three remain alive—David Lloyd George, Newton D. Baker and Francesco Nitti. Only three of the score of rulers who sat on thrones or in presidential chairs during the war are still alive, and two of them, deposed by their subjects, are alive in solitary exile—Wilhelm II of Germany and Ferdinand of Bulgaria. King Victor Emmanuel of Italy, is the only ruler of wartime who is alive and still on a throne.

The toll has been heaviest among the general who commanded the armies of millions of fighting men. Most of them were old in the service when the war started, and 20 years having passed since they won glory on the battlefields, those who have survived have abandoned active military careers.

Three of the four great surviving generals are in France today, Pershing, Pétain and Denikin.

Pershing, now 77, had had an active year in France as chairman of the battle monuments committee which built the granite shrines on the American battlefields which were dedicated these past weeks to posterity.

Pétain is the oldest of the survivors, 81, and still sits on the French Superior War Council. Denikin, now 65, is the unhappy survivor of the high command of the White Russian army after having commanded the Russian armies against the Central Powers on the Rumanian front. He lives in exile at Versailles, near Paris, and has wholly withdrawn from political and military activities and shuns any attention which might earn for him the fate of General Koutouf and Miller. Ludendorff lives in retirement in Munich, where he heads the German paganist movement.

None of the five chief delegates who signed the Armistice is alive—Foch, for France; Admiral Wester Wemyss, then Britain's First Sea Lord; Erzberger, secretary of state, General von Winterfeldt and Count von Oberndorf for Germany; Erzberger was executed a few years later. France's General Weygand, Germany's naval Captain Vanselow and Staff Captain Marriot, who were aides-de-camp in attendance at the signing of the Armistice in Foch's dining-car in a clearing in the forest at Rethondes, are the only survivors of those who witnessed that historic ceremony.

FOOTBALL GAME IS AT TOP OF PROGRAM

With no official program being carded, Armistice Day in Midland today promises to be one of the quietest yet observed here.

The annual Armistice Day football game between the Midland and Stanton high schools will be played at 3 o'clock this afternoon on Lackey field, and a dance at Heidelberg Inn, sponsored by the American Legion, promise to be the only outstanding events of the day.

Many persons will journey from here to Lubbock today to see Texas Tech and Duquesne University of Pittsburgh, Pa., football teams play this afternoon; others will spend the day, some of them the rest of the week, in various places away from here.

The football game here today will bring together two clubs which are near the bottom in the league standings, and which will probably finish that way.

Adding interest to the game is the natural rivalry that has existed between Midland and Stanton since the game of football was introduced into this country. The fact that both teams are rated about even has done much to increase speculation as to the result today and will probably cause one of the largest turn-outs of the season for the game.

Stanton has been pointing for the game all season, seeing a chance to defeat Midland for the first time in a decade. The Stanton team this year is no stronger than their usual club but Midland is woefully weak, compared to former years, and the Martin county boys see a chance to partially even a score that is leaning far to the left, as far as they are concerned.

Stanton's chances for victory were given a severe set back when Graham, ace ball carrier and quarterback of the team, decided to drop out of school last week, but Coach Henderson will put his strongest team on the field, and it may be good enough to come through with a victory.

The game will, in a way, be homecoming for Coach Henderson. For five years he was assistant coach at Midland high and no doubt a victory over his former home would give him more pleasure than any other possible win he could register during the year. He scouted the Bulldogs last week in their game with Kermit and will undoubtedly have his team at the

Red Cross Heads Energetic Campaign for Safety In Homes, On Highways This Year

A growing tangible consciousness of the need for more experts in administering first aid has resulted in the training of an unusual number of persons during the past fiscal year, according to Mrs. J. A. Haley, chairman of the Midland Red Cross Chapter.

"It is possible to note unmistakable signs of progress in making the country first-aid conscious," Mrs. Haley said. "This is not from statistics alone, but from the obvious interest that is being aroused among children in schools, employees of large industrial companies, owners of isolated farms, and parents as well."

"This interest last year led 256,884 persons to take specialized courses in first aid, certificates being awarded in classes varying from three to as many as fifty."

"The immediate treatment of those injured on the highways is one of the chief needs in the elimination of deaths and permanent injuries from automobile accidents," Mrs. Haley pointed out. "We have found the greatest danger spots to be those in rural rather than in urban areas, and to combat this danger we have inaugurated, and are rapidly expanding, our system of first aid stations along the highways from Maine to California."

The chairman explained that the American Red Cross had already established approximately 1,800 of these emergency highway first aid stations, placing them in filling stations, roadside inns, police sub-stations, and fire departments, at the same time training an adequate number of persons in the immediate vicinity or connected with the filling station in order to keep them manned constantly.

"Through the past year the Red Cross has also been concentrating on the establishment of mobile units in first aid," Mrs. Haley explained. "Several thousand trucks belong to utility companies, highway police patrols, shipping concerns, and state highway departments are being equipped with first

Dictator Powers Are Assumed By President Vargas

RIO DE JANEIRO, Nov. 11 (U.P.)—President Getulio Vargas Wednesday assumed dictatorial powers to rule Brazil for an indefinite period by a coup in which he dissolved all legislative bodies and proclaimed a new constitution with corporative features.

The new constitution was put into effect immediately by a presidential decree at the same time Vargas issued a manifesto declaring the new regime would suspend payment on all government debts abroad.

The president, who thus took a stronger grip on the nation which he has ruled largely by decree since 1935, declared that the swift move was caused by fear of armed revolution.

It was believed that the army gave its full support to the president's move.

Duffey to Compare 1937 Football With Game As Was In '87

C. C. Duffey, Midland oil man, will have more interest in the football game today between the Duquesne Dukes and the Texas Tech Matadors in Lubbock when he once gets inside of the stadium.

Duffey was captain of the Dukes exactly 40 years ago—1897—and he will watch with interest the difference in play by the club now and what it was like when he as a member of it. When Duffey was captain of the club the old "wedgie" play was the chief ground gainer of all clubs, and the bigger the men the better chance they had of winning.

Appreciation to Program Aides Is Voiced By PTA Head

Mrs. H. B. Prickett, president of the North Ward PTA, today expressed appreciation on behalf of the association to Supt. W. W. Lackey for his address and assistance, to all room teachers and other teachers, to all room mothers, to those who appeared on the program and to all friends and members of the PTA who assisted in staging the "open house" at the North Ward Tuesday night.

Praise for the program has been voiced by all attending the affair.

Japanese Prepare To Dislodge Last Shanghai Forces

SHANGHAI, Nov. 11 (U.P.)—Two Japanese operations south of Shanghai today indicated imminent offensives to wipe out the last Chinese resistance here and to launch a major drive toward Nanking, China's capital.

Japan's army and navy appeared to be massing power in the Nantao area, bordering the French concession on the south of Shanghai, to end the resistance of an estimated 6,000 Chinese soldiers left there when the main defense forces withdrew to the west.

Farther south, the Japanese landed reinforcements on both sides of Hangchow Bay. About 20,000 troops reached the Chapoo area on the north shore. A division landed on the south shore, about 70 miles east of Hangchow, port at the head of the bay.

The objective of the two landing forces was said to be Hangchow, main city of Chekiang Province, capture of which could sever one of two railroads linking Shanghai and Nanking.

In North China, meanwhile, Japanese reported entering Taiyuanfu, captured capital of Shansi Province. They said they found the bodies of 1,000 Chinese and considerable debris from artillery bombardments.

Japanese units advancing into South Shansi were said to have captured Fengyao, about 20 miles southwest of Fenchow on the Tatung-Pukow railroad.

(Discussions of a possible peace between Japan and China were deferred at least until Saturday when the Brussels conference, seeking a formula for mediation, adjourned until then. It was informed Japan's reply to a second invitation to participate might be expected by then. Japan rejected the first invitation.)

Chinese commanders saw a possible lull in hostilities while Japanese consolidate their gains. Apparently, however, they were resigned to the gradual withdrawal of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's forces to main line defenses about 50 miles west of Shanghai.

Barstow Threatens To Contest Votes

BARSTOW, Nov. 11 (U.P.)—Citizens of Barstow threatened Wednesday to contest an election Tuesday in which Ward county citizens returned 1,143 to 464 majority for removal of the county seat from Barstow to Monahans. The margin was 215 votes above the required two-thirds.

Possible contestants claimed the vote in Monahans seemed excessive. They said a recent poll tax list showed only 800 polls there whereas the vote reported yesterday was 998.

The election climaxed a bitter fight. Barstow had been the seat ever since organization of the county 40 years ago while Monahans had enjoyed rapid growth the past few years due to oil development. Barstow repulsed a move ten years ago to remove the courthouse to Fayette.

and daughter, Phoebe, returned there yesterday afternoon after coming here for business Wednesday.

Traxler Acquitted On Self-Defense Plea

HUNTSVILLE, Nov. 11 (U.P.)—Pete Traxler, Oklahoma and Texas bad man, was acquitted yesterday of robbery with firearms in the seizure of a pistol after his sensational escape from the Eastham prison farm near Weldon, Tex., last July 9.

Traxler was indicted as an habitual criminal which meant punishment of death or life imprisonment would have been mandatory had he been convicted. He already is serving a life sentence on a Lipscomb county robbery conviction.

The jury deliberated only three hours before deciding the desperate did not commit robbery with firearms when a pistol was taken from J. C. Dunlap, Kittrell's Cut-Off constable and rancher. Dunlap lost his weapon after a fight with Traxler and two other escaped convicts. Fred Tindol and Charlie Chapman. Traxler later was wounded and captured and Tindol killed by two men they were holding as hostages near Hugo, Okla. The two Oklahoma farmers shot them with their own guns.

Chapman still is at large.

Young Willard Developing as College Boxer

PULLMAN, Wash. (U.P.)—Is a Jess Willard again to be the white hope of the heavyweight boxing division?

That question is rapidly approaching an answer on the campus at Washington State College where Jess Willard Jr., son of the former heavyweight champion of the world, is busily engaged in finding out just how good he is with his fists.

Under careful coaching by Ike Deeter, Cougar national intercollegiate mentor, young Willard is fast learning fundamentals. Deeter says Willard has a rapier-fast right hand.

Willard was champion of the northern division of the Pacific Coast conference in the high hurdles last year with a time of 14.9 seconds. This gives him good footwork and plenty of speed.

When the elder Willard took out the torch, the black cloud on the pugilistic horizon was Jack Johnson.

Whether young Willard will turn professional depends entirely on his success in collegiate competition. Deeter said that the youth was the best prospect he'd had at the State College in years.

NEW YORK VOTERS PUT DEMOCRACY TO WORK

The changes have been rung often enough on the fact that Tammany Hall, for the first time in history, has taken two lickings in a row. What needs to be examined now is the background for the phenomenon.

For it is not enough merely to say that Mayor LaGuardia is a sensational campaigner gifted with a more than ordinary large amount of political "It." Nor is it enough to bring up the fact that his candidacy bore the unofficial blessing of President Roosevelt, or to add that the people of New York had grown tired of Tammany's perennial misrule.

These things don't explain it. Tammany misrule is an old story. National administrations before now have smiled benignly on reform mayors, only to see them go down to defeat. Reform mayors before now have been good campaigners without profiting by it.

The explanation must lie deeper. The very atmosphere of politics seems to have changed. A new spirit is abroad in the land. The people are desperately anxious to have governments that are in tune with the needs and aspirations of ordinary folk, and they are sick to death of governments that represent invisible selfish interests.

How did this come about? Probably you would not be very far wrong if you ascribed it chiefly to the fact that the great depression was one of the most potent educational influences in American history.

Before the depression New York had mayors like Hylan and Walker—and liked them very well. The "better element," of course, made the usual protests, but nobody listened. Like every other American city, the mass of people in New York got just the sort of city government they deserved.

Things were booming, politicians were expected to be a shady lot, and there was a general impression that if the common man just stopped worrying about things his lot would go on improving automatically until the millennium dawned.

Then came the depression.

People began to realize that progress is not an automatic thing, that democracy won't work properly unless the voters take the trouble to make it work, and that a politician who is put into office by selfish interests can't logically be expected to refrain from serving those interests after he is elected.

The old slipshod, care-free sort of politics that seemed to work all right in boom times stood revealed as an unbearably expensive luxury in bad times. It became obvious that the ordinary man's liberties need defending, and that the ordinary man can defend them only by using his ballot wisely.

So politics is existing in an entirely different atmosphere now than was the case a decade ago. Once again, people are willing to take the trouble to make democracy work. That is the encouraging thing about the New York election.

The new success credo is exemplified in a familiar tone by the young fellow who became an airfield mechanic because he could make so many interesting contacts.

It Looks Like A Long, Cold Winter

The Town Quack

"Sure," said Sparks.
"Well, then, why don't you put a whistle on it?"

When the young Stanton Eidson, Brick's boy, comes out on the field against the Bulldogs this afternoon, I wish young Bob Eidson, Boyce's boy, could be in there against him, but the Midland Eidson is one of those fashionable gridsters who had appendicitis during the football season.

Bill Holmes and Johnson Phillips were among the earliest deer slayers of the season, trekking away back in the Guadalupe and getting one each. Holmes got the biggest deer, so Phil had to kill a fine gobbler to offset it.

I envy Hugh Barnes. His resignation from the MPCA gives him more time for his horse trading.

"No, not yet," Ben Rogers, who will leave soon for a deer hunt down in the brush country of south Texas, won't shoot another javelina hog unless he shoots to kill. He said on one trip down there he wounded one with a .22, and the hog herd started such a revolution that their Mexican guide made them move camp 20 miles away.

A lot of theories are advanced as to how to go to sleep when bothered by insomnia. One man, several years ago, was having a fitful night. He got up, turned on the lights and noticed that he needed a shave. He leisurely shaved, then got in bed and went quickly into the arms of Morpheus. (That means sleep, Tommy Betzel.) Another man says when he can't sleep, he either takes a bath, shaves, makes notes, reads or goes to the kitchen for something to eat. He would have been out of luck from 1 to 3:30 a. m. Wednesday, while the Tesco was cutting over on some new lines, unless he knew the way to the refrigerator in the dark. An electric razor would have had to wait until morning.

Kansan Wants School Dances In Curriculum

TOPEKA, Kas. (UP) — The art of dancing, which once was banned from Kansas schools as sinful, is back in such favor that State Sen. Payne H. Ratner of Parsons wants it recognized as an important part of the curriculum.

Ratner's efforts are being made as part of a campaign to exempt extra-curriculum activities from the state's sales tax. Ratner argued before the Kansas Supreme Court that a youth must learn to dance to boast of an education.

The state senator seeks the exemption of student dance tickets from the sales tax and also wants football game tickets similarly exempted. The Holton, Kas., school board has refused to pay the tax on its school events and the state tax commission has begun mandamus proceedings to force this payment.

"The boy or girl who isn't educated in dancing goes into the world under a great handicap," Ratner said, "and may not be able to hold his own with the youngsters of other states."

At one time in Kansas when Miss Lorraine Elizabeth Wooster was state school superintendent a campaign to eliminate dancing from school buildings was conducted.

Country Club Tea Leads Social Calendar

Mmes. Link, Skinner, Johnston Entertain At Colorful Affair

Climaxing social affairs calendar for the week was the tea for which Mrs. R. Steele Johnston, Mrs. John W. Skinner and Mrs. L. C. Link were hostesses at the Country Club from 4 o'clock until 6 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

Chrysanthemums and other autumn flowers decorated the club ballroom.

Guests were greeted at the door by Mrs. J. M. Haygood and Mrs. A. P. Shirey, and received by the hostesses.

Others in the houseparty were: Mmes. Bill Collins, J. L. Greene, W. L. Miller, Frank Stubbeman, Alma Thomas, Allen Tolbert, W. L. Simmons.

During the receiving hours, Mrs.

J. B. Leonard, Mrs. Lee Cornelius and Mrs. Frank Miller were at the piano. Mrs. Leonard sang as a request number, "The World Is Waiting for the Sunrise."

During the afternoon Margaret Ann West read "Modern Mistakes"; Eula Ann Tolbert read "How Maude Set the Hen" and "Paul Revere's Ride—Modern Version"; Helen Armstrong read "Cleopatra and Her Boy Friend"; and Frances Ellen Link read "Lizy's Wedding."

The Madeira-laid tea table was centered by a mound of yellow chrysanthemums and ferns, flanked by four tall yellow tapers.

During the first hour Mrs. Fred Turner and Mrs. J. M. Armstrong poured, while during the second hour Mrs. W. I. Pratt and Mrs. Harvey Sloan presided at the tea and coffee services.

Invitation list for the affair included: Mmes. Armstrong, Harry Adams, John Adams, W. D. Anderson, R. S. Anderson, Walter Anguish, R. E. Gile, W. H. Black of Andrews, Ben Black, R. H. ### Mrs. Geisler Is Hostess to Bridge Party for Club

Favoring members of the Saturday club and guests, Mrs. Ralph Geisler was hostess for an afternoon bridge at her home Saturday.

Autumn flowers used in the entertaining rooms, Mexican tallies, and prizes packaged in brown and orange cellophane carried out autumn tints in party accessories.

High score for club members in the three tables of bridge played went to Mrs. Wade Heath, high score for guests to Mrs. Jack Brown, and high cut to Mrs. Virginia Kelsey.

Guests of the club were: Mrs. Thomas Lee Speed, Mrs. Tom Sealy, Mrs. Brown, and Mrs. Kelsey.

At tea time, a salad plate was served to guests and the following club members: Mmes. Ben Black, Lewis Thomas, Hugh West, John M. Speed Jr., Barron Kidd, Heath, Miss Lucile Thomas, and the hostess.

Bridge-Luncheon, Shower Honor Mrs. Black

Mrs. D. C. Norwood, 2104 Brunson, and Mrs. Alvas Thompson entertained with a bridge luncheon and shower Tuesday at 12:30 o'clock at the Norwood home, honoring Mrs. Ben Black.

Blue and white chrysanthemums formed decorations for the fireplace while bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums and petunias lent a seasonal aid elsewhere in the rooms.

Guests were seated at quartet tables for the luncheon after which the afternoon was devoted to bridge.

Mrs. Barron Kidd was awarded high score prize and Mrs. Jack Wilkinson cut prize, both presenting the awards to Mrs. Black, who also received a shower of gifts from those attending. Shower packages were tied with pink and blue.

Present were: The honoree, Mmes. Tom Sealy, Bill Blevins, Lewis Thomas, Frank Miller, Ralph Geisler, Kidd, Wilkinson, John Nobles, John M. Speed Jr., Al Reese, Bill Dougherty, Hugh West, Misses Lucile Thomas, Margaret Miles, Georgia Goss, and the hostesses.

Library to Be Dustless.

COPENHAGEN. (U.P.)—No dust will be able to enter a new university library which will be opened here shortly. A special apparatus will suck into the building clean and dustless air, which, once inside, will be kept at such a high pressure that even when windows are opened, outside air cannot come in.

The luncheon being scheduled for 12:30 o'clock in the private dining room of the Hotel Scharbauer. All individual members and all members of affiliated groups of the Federation are urged to be present as important business is to be discussed.

Plates are 75 cents and reservations are to be made with Mrs. Dick Anderson, telephone 286-W, by Wednesday night.

Life Preferred On Volcano Lip By Dr. Jaggard

HONOLULU. (U.P.)—Dr. T. A. Jaggard, famed volcanologist of the Federal park service, makes his home on the lip of the volcano Kilauaea where jets of hot steam, vapors from the earth's depths, spiral skyward.

Almost at his front door, the tremendous firepit of Halomamaui spurts molten lava at intervals. For the past quarter of a century he has resided in this strange home in the U. S. National Park on Hawaii Island, 200 miles southeast of Honolulu.

"Aren't you afraid to live in such a place?" visitors ask the scientist.

Dr. Jaggard looks about at the tropical trees, shrubs and flowers and doesn't understand their fear.

"There is nothing to fear living here," he tells his friends. "It is no different than a hot springs health resort. The display of steam is about the same.

"Kilauaea is different only in that the water from which it comes is deep down in the earth and not available for bathing. Proximity of an active volcano, of course, might lend a spice of danger if one did not know enough about them. Mrs. Jaggard and I find our home far from hellish."

Jaggard does not ignore the volcano. He is interested in every phenomena it creates, each earth tremor, every opening or closing of the hundreds of cracks in the earth about his home. It is because of these activities, their recording and study, that the scientist chooses to live where he does.

Mrs. Traynor Is Honoree at Luncheon

In one of a series of social affairs that have honored Mrs. Don Traynor since her marriage recently, a group of a dozen friends gathered in the private dining room of the Hotel Scharbauer Saturday for luncheon, with Miss Helen Fasken as hostess.

Covers for twelve were laid on one large table which was centered by a bowl of chrysanthemums. A three-course meal was served to Mrs. Traynor, her mother, Mrs. J.

HELP 15 MILES OF KIDNEY TUBES

To Flush out Acids and Other Poisonous Waste

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 Miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste. Frequent or costly passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, when due to functional kidney disorders, may be the beginning of lagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headache and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 Miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

ARMISTICE DAY

All the people in any one country never want a war. Any group of men, from any variety of nations left together socially will talk and laugh and have a fraternally good time. But there are a few individuals in the world who have the power to force the issue of war at the cost of millions of innocent lives. There is only one reason for war--and that is the protection of one's own land. Every young boy in every home in America should know that, and understand its full significance. The best man to make him understand is the father who remembers the events that preceded Armistice Day.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11. — The New Deal administration, once widely accused of a crime called "planning," more recently and with more justice has been criticized for lack of plan or consistency in policy. A general uncertainty as to the future is often linked with this apparent lack.

The uncertainties are not being removed. But five years after the 1932 election, what informed persons in Washington are calling "the enduring economic philosophy of the New Deal," has been bound up in book form. The book is "Why Pay Taxes?" by David Cushman Coyle. You can call Coyle a New Deal major prophet. Roughly, more than 75 per cent of the key men in the administration who are "close to the President" agree with him on essential points.

The degree to which the points will appear in subsequent administration programs is problematical, but Coyle's small volume is a guide book for those who want to know what the New Deal today is shooting at. Follows a summary of "Why Pay Taxes?" and certain conversations with the author:

TAXES SEEN AS KEY. DEMOCRACY'S fundamental problems, says Coyle, is to keep democracy going. When economic power becomes concentrated in a few hands it's democracy's business to break or control that concentration and to encourage the growth and survival of small businesses. It is also the government's duty to provide public services necessary to keep the country in a sound condition.

Taxation is the device which democracy must use to preserve itself, first by control and second, in order to finance the public services. Taxation can be used to control and adjust the economic system. The tax system can get revenue most simply by leaning on the middle income brackets. Higher brackets should be taxed at still higher rates (says Coyle), not primarily for revenue but to keep individuals from getting "too much" money and power. The future calls for heavier income, inheritance and state taxes.

Keeping Money Moving. MONEY must be kept circulating. Poor people spend it. Rich people invest it. Unlimited investment, which leads to dangerous booms, must be curbed. Taxes are not a burden, but a saving of expense when public services are cheaper than private costs for the same services. Coyle quotes a Danish farmer who, asked how he could possibly stand paying out 30 per cent of his income in taxes, replied: "What do you mean? We get it all back." Money paid in taxes goes right back into the system with increased velocity which swells the national income, according to this theory.

Under the present tax system in America about 75 per cent of taxes hit poor people. The smaller a person's income, the higher a proportion of it is paid in taxes. Real estate, tobacco, movie, liquor taxes, all nuisance taxes, tariffs and — most conspicuously — sales taxes, soak the poor. This violates the ability-to-pay theory of taxation.

Usefulness is Test. THE question of budget deficit or surplus should be made to depend on whether there's enough money in the country, says Coyle. Most people think there is enough money, so that the treasury ought to have a surplus. But although most people appear convinced that the surplus should be attained by economies, the matter of budget-balancing (says Coyle) really has no relation to what the size of the budget should be. Size should be determined by the answer to the question: "Is government work being done?"

The American people, Coyle concludes, should pay taxes enough to keep the country in good condition. If we balance the budget and still continue a spending program, making up the difference with higher taxes, we can employ a huge number of people on improvement of the country through soil erosion

Leader of C.I.O. Shot in Chicago

Shot three times, perhaps fatally, in the headquarters of a United Auto Workers' Union local in Chicago, John White, C. I. O. organizer, is shown above attended by Dr. C. B. Myers in a hospital after the shooting. Police sought Charles Cain, another C. I. O. leader who recently replaced White as general district organizer.

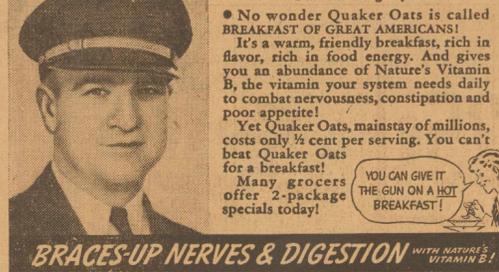

work, conservation, public health work, retaining of workers, Dust Bowl efforts and so on.

Coyle believes in discouraging big business monopolies, but would like to see corporations make big profits and individuals receive big incomes so that the government will have that much more to take away from them in taxes.

Brothers Go 174,960 Miles For Education

CLEVELAND, (U.P.) — Thomas Sebian has returned to Cathedral Latin high school carrying on a "commuting tradition" started and held by the Sebian brothers of Painesville, O., and after much addition and multiplication, he computed the distance the Sebian brothers had traveled to school at 174,960 miles.

George, who now is 28, and the oldest Sebian brother, started the school-going tradition. After George, there followed four more Sebian brothers — Paul, 26; Aloysius, 21; William, 18, and now Thomas, 16. The Sebian brothers commuted between their home in Painesville to Cathedral Latin — a distance of 27 miles — by train, "thumbing" and by offering through an advertisement, to "divvy up" the gasoline bill with a commuting motorist.

Francis Sebian, another brother who comes between Paul and Aloysius with an age of 23, was put out of the commuting when his leg was broken in seven places in a motorcycle accident.

Two more Sebian brothers, Richard, an eighth grader, and John, a fifth grader — expect to follow the others to Cathedral Latin in a few years.

Mary Ann, the family "baby," won't carry on the Sebian brothers' tradition. Cathedral Latin is a boys' school.

Each of his four brothers that preceded him to Cathedral Latin made the 54-mile round trip on 180 school days each year for four years. He multiplied the school days by the mileage.

He then calculated the miles he and his two brother still in school have traveled. By the same method he also calculated the number of miles they will have to travel before graduation — 97,200.

Air Maneuvers To Open Dec. 2 In Miami, Fla.

MIAMI, Fla. (U.P.) — A transcontinental air cruise from California to Florida will be one of the opening day events of the Tenth Annual All-American Air Maneuvers in Miami, Dec. 2 to 5, according to R. V. Waters, general chairman.

Flader by W. P. Balderston, California governor of the National Aeronautical Association, and Bertrand Rhine, of the Los Angeles Flying club, the air cruise may include members of the Hollywood movie colony, Waters said.

A squadron of 65 planes from the Marine Air Base at Juchitán, Va., also will participate in the four-day meet, as will crack units from the Army, Navy, Coast Guard and National Guard.

The Greater Miami Airport Association, sponsor of the maneuvers, disclosed that a budget of $40,000 will be available for the winter air classic.

Hoboes Respect Box Car Bishop

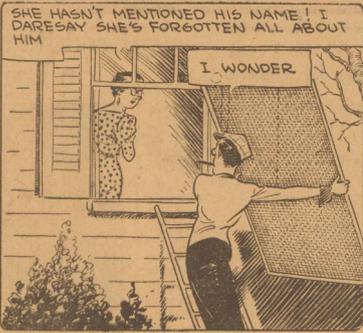

PUEBLO, Colo. (UP) — Robert I. Bell, itinerant preacher, has more churches in this country than the combined buildings of any single faith. For seven years, Bell, who calls himself the "sky pilot of the rails," has been conducting services among the nation's professional transients. Any box car is his chapel—his congregation the thousands of hoboes and "drifters" who frequent "jungles" over the country. He has lived in vacant lots and groves near railroad yards where hoboes make their temporary homes. He has brewed coffee and "mulligan" in tin cans around their open fires. Knowing the language habits and problems of the hobo, Bell is respected and has influence among them. His mission, however, is not so much concerned with those hardened men who have been on the road for years. He is interested more in the young boys who wander aimlessly over the country and who, he says, invariably get into trouble. He tries to rehabilitate them and send them home. Being a "box car bishop" is not an easy job, Bell pointed out. He came to Pueblo because a distraught mother in Kansas City asked him to help find her son. The system he uses is simple and effective. He has little trouble making friends with the men. One of his first questions to the hobo is: "If you had a 10-year-old son and you knew he was down in these jungles what would you do?" Invariably the answer, phrased in strong language, is: "I'd come down here after him in a hurry." Bell carries a portable typewriter, a Boy Scout first-aid kit and small leaflets of the books of the Bible. Although wandering about the hobo jungles has resulted many times in dangerous situations, Bell said the men usually are cooperative and sympathetic.

"Tugboat Annie" Bosses Engines

ST. LOUIS (UP) — Fiction's lovable "Tugboat Annie" has nothing on Mrs. Grady McConnell, 37-year-old grandmother, who serves as engineer on the Mississippi river tug Turnbull. Mrs. McConnell is the only river boat engineer on the inland waterway. Her pay from the Southern Coal, Coke & Mining company is equal to that of her husband, Richard McConnell, who is pilot of the tug. "People tell me that woman's place is in the home," Mrs. McConnell said. "But that's bosh! A home is fine, but I'll take the realization that I'm doing a real job. "Handing a job ordinarily assigned to a man is thrilling to me. Then, too, I get a kick out of knowing I'm helping to move goods up and down the river." Social life, Mrs. McConnell declared, has no appeal to her. "I'd rather be in the engine-room of a tugboat," she said, "pushing a load of wheat to market, than to entertain a bunch of women at a bridge party." When the Turnbull ties up at the end of a trip, however, Mrs. McConnell takes to quiltmaking.

Curfew for One Town Annoys Its Neighbor

MARTINS FERRY, O. (UP) — Residents of this city were dumfounded when the populace of Warwood, W. Va., just across the Ohio river, complained about a curfew whistle which they said was blown nightly—and far too noisily—on the Ohio side of the river. No such whistle was in use here. Investigators found the offensive whistle atop the lock control headquarters of U. S. Army Engineers at Dam, No. 12. They said it was blown at the request of Warwood officials, to serve the community as a curfew.

Heroes of 1932 In China Win Back Prestige

NANKING, (U.P.)—The great surge of national feeling brought about by the Japanese invasion of China has swept aside all former differences among the country's civil and military leaders.

It has brought back to Nanking many political exiles who a few months ago were all but outlaws in the eyes of the government. Among these are the former commanders of the 19th Route Army, which gained worldwide fame and admiration during its long-drawn defence of Shanghai in 1932.

The first to return was Gen. Tsal Ting-kai, field commander of the army and the outstanding hero of the 1932 war. As soon as he came he dropped his well-cut Western suits and the civilian manner he had acquired abroad, donned uniform and left for the front.

Garrison Heads Also Back. Now he has been followed by Gen. Chen Ming-shu who, as garrison commander of Shanghai and Nanking, was his superior officer in 1932. General Chen is more remarkable as a political than as a military figure. An old Kuomintang revolutionary and former governor of Kwantung, he was the founder of the "Chinese Social-Democratic Party" and for a long time a source of irritation to the government.

In 1933 he led the 19th Route Army in rebellion in the course of which a "people's government" was proclaimed in Fochow with himself as chairman. This government demanded war against Japan and reconciliation with the Red Army. Although the rebellion was quickly crushed, its slogans continued to reverberate and were voiced again by the Canton-Kwangsi rebels of 1935 and the leaders of the Sian revolt last December. Today, when they have become the policy of the government, General Chen and other exiles are returning to Nanking not as pardoned rebels but as recognized patriots.

Hsu Chien Welcomed. With General Chen came the former commander-in-chief of the 19th Route Army, Gen. Chiang Kwang-nai, and Gen. Oung Chao-yuan, despatched English-speaking director of the heroic defence of the Woosung forts during the first Shanghai conflict. Another, non-military, member of the group is George Hsu Chien, a fiery old radical who, as a leading figure in General Chen's Social-Democratic party, was one of the moving spirits of the Fochow "people's government."

Thus the 19th Route Army has

Career Chosen By More First Year Students

NEW YORK, (U.P.)—The freshmen entering Hunter College this fall have a variety of ambitions. One plans to be a veterinarian, one hopes to enter the diplomatic service, another is interested in archeology, and two wish to become missionaries.

Eighty-seven per cent of the freshmen have chosen a career according to a questionnaire answered by 1,060 of the 1,200 entering students. Many of these will train for teaching. However, the number who hope to enter the fields of social or laboratory work show that Hunter is no longer predominantly a college for teachers. An increasing number want a college education as a preface to a business career.

The choice of majors by the freshmen is an index to their vocational aims. Science, mathematics, business, and social science are

Freddie Puts on Long Pants

First long pants are first long pants, whether the wearer be a high-salaried movie star like Freddie Bartholomew, above, or the youngster next door. Smiling cockily and throwing out his chest, Freddie, 14, proudly shows that he is getting to be a real man now. The boy star's salary was raised recently to $98,000 a year, in a court settlement after a long controversy among relatives. Freddie's spending money allowance was increased from five cents a day to $1 weekly.

ARMISTICE DAY

There is much disturbance abroad today, as we commemorate the peace which terminated the World War. Let us hope that all the nations of the world will unite and stay united to prevent another war—as they united to end that previous war. As bankers for generations, we express the hope that continued peace will preserve the wholesome business now existing throughout our nation, and insure peace and security in our homes and in our possessions.
