Condition of Pershing Is Much Worse

End Believed Near By Three Attending Doctors in Tucson

TUCSON, Feb. 26 (AP).—A bulletin issued at 10 o'clock tonight by physicians attending General John J. Pershing declared his "condition is unimproved."

TUCSON, Ariz., Feb. 26 (AP).—General John J. Pershing languished near death today but physicians reported there was no change from the alarming condition into which he sank about dawn.

Excitement prevailed near the weakening soldier since early morning when further signs of falling were noticed in his heart. His only son, Warren, paced a hospital corridor, and a sister, Miss May Pershing, was also constantly near the bedside.

"He is unable to take nourishment or drink," Dr. Roland Davidson's bulletin said. "The kidneys have ceased to function."

General Pershing had been unconscious during the greater part of the early morning hours, but Dr. Davidson said that at times he regained consciousness for brief periods.

The family was summoned to the general's room a few minutes before the last bulletin. The general's sister, Miss May Pershing, had been sleeping. His nephew, Frank, was in shirt sleeves, wearing no tie, and appeared weary.

The general's earlier rally followed four hours of unconsciousness during which the doctors, weary from almost constant vigil at the bedside, announced as on the previous night that he could not last much longer.

The faint heart grew stronger for time and the 77-year-old world war chief showed resistance that surprised even his physicians, then he sank again.

A bulletin issued at 2:45 a. m. ST. Dr. Roland Davidson explained the old warrior was not responding as he should to the extreme treatment he was receiving.

The general's temperature was slightly above normal and his pulse somewhat irregular.

Although the second crisis was past, Dr. Davidson and Lt. Col. S. U. Marietta held little hope for the recovery of their patient, and made preparations for a possible blood transfusion.

Arrangements have been made with the Southern Pacific company, by Maj. Gen. Herbert J. Brees, commander of the eighth corps area, for a special train to be run to Washington in event of death.

Clean-Up Campaign Will Be Continued Through This Week

Weather permitting, the spring clean-up campaign started here two weeks ago but held up due to rain and cold weather will get underway with renewed vigor Monday morning and will continue throughout the week, members of the general committee in charge of the clean-up campaign announced yesterday.

Considerable work has already been done over the city, but much additional work at cleaning up nature remains to be done before the current campaign may be termed a complete success. To make of Midland the cleanest city in West Texas is the goal of the clean-up committee.

The campaign is being sponsored by the City-County Federation and the chamber of commerce in cooperation with the Lion club, Rotary club, Red Cross, Health Board, Fine Arts club and the city.

Clean-up trucks, furnished by the city, are scheduled to start making their rounds over the city Monday morning, residents being requested to have their trash and rubbish ready in the back alleys when the trucks come by. The trucks are being operated under the direction of A. M. East, city engineer.

It was pointed out by committee members yesterday that the success of the campaign depends largely upon the cooperation of all residents of Midland, the entire citizenry being urged to do their part in the drive by cleaning up their own property and adjoining vacant property. It is the duty of every Midland citizen to cooperate in making of Midland a cleaner and more healthful place in which to live.

Persons wishing to employ day laborers in cleaning up their premises may secure same by calling the Texas State Employment Service, Telephone No. 335, or the chamber of commerce, telephone No. 39.

Boy Injured When Horse Takes Fall On Paved Street

Charles Barron, ten year old son of Mr. and Mrs. T. Paul Barron, sustained a broken leg and injuries to the head and chin Saturday morning when his horse fell with him on the pavement at Loraine and Tennessee streets. Rushed to a hospital by Ernest Nance and Harvey Kiser, employees of the Midland Hardware Co., he lay unconscious for a brief period but steadily rallied afterward.

The breaks in the larger bone of the left leg were about one inch above the ankle and were not of severe nature. Doctors expressed belief that the head injury would not be serious.

Peace for America Lies in Defensive Force, Edison Says

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26 (AP).—Charles Edison, assistant secretary of the Navy Department, told congress today future peace for the United States depended entirely on maintenance of a defensive force "sufficiently strong and expertly trained, that other nations will not risk war with us."

He said that in the face of current international political conditions "it is certain our naval needs be on a parity in strength with other naval powers."

He denied the proposed naval expansion program was based solely on reports in Italian newspapers that Japan is building 43,000 ton battleships.

West Texas Gasoline Plants Turn Out 2,000 Bbls. Daily

BY FRANK GARDNER. The average West Texans think of the Permian Basin as an oil producing area rather than a refining center, yet its 11 gasoline plants in operation during January, 1938, produced an average of 119,975 gallons of gasoline each day during the month. The gasoline is extracted from gas produced with oil in many of the West Texas fields, which would otherwise pass off into the air and be a total loss.

The 11 plants operating last month have a total capacity of 334 million feet of gas daily, three of them having each a capacity of 50 million feet; they are the Cities Service plant in the North Cowden field of Ector county, the Phillips Petroleum Company's plant at Goldsmith, also in Ector, and the Smith Bros. Refining Company plant at Kermit, in Winkler county.

Smallest of the 11 is the Cosden refinery at Big Spring, which can handle only two million feet of gas daily. Since figures for January were compiled, another plant has been put in operation, the Barrisfield refinery in the Foster pool of Ector county. It was completed around the 15th of this month.

West Texas' gasoline plants are: Barrisfield's in the Foster pool; Cabot Carbon Company's in the Keystone pool of Winkler; Cabot's in the North Ward and Estes pool of Ward; Cities Service's in the North Cowden pool; Cosden's in the Howard-Glasscock field; Gulf's in the North Ward and Sealey pool of Ward; Magnolia's in the Kermit field; Phillips' in the Church-Fields pool of Crane, Phillips' in the Goldsmith pool of Ector; Phillips' in the Penn pool of Ector; Smith Bros.' at Kermit; and Standard Oil's in the South Ward field.

Comprehensive figures released by the Railroad Commission show that casinghead gas amounting to 174,240,600 cubic feet a day was piped from 2,522 oil wells to the various plants during January, in addition to 8,351,000 feet of gas from two gas wells, making the total gas volume 182,491,600 feet daily. Of the residue, 93,557,000 cubic feet of gas was vented to the air each day; extraction loss was figured at 5,051,000 feet; 33,617,400 feet was used in the plants and for drilling wells; three million feet was used for gas lift and repressuring; 694,200 feet went into pipelines; and 44,633,000 feet was used each day by carbon black plants.

The carbon black industry in West Texas is in itself a sizeable enterprise. Two plants, both operated by the Cabot Carbon Company of Pampa, Tex., are now in operation, one at Wickert, west of Monahans in Ward county, and the other at Kermit, taking gas from the Keystone pool. Average daily output of 40,701 pounds of black was registered last month by the Wickert plant, while that at Kermit turned out 21,904 pounds a day. Carbon black is used extensively in the manufacture of printer's ink, paints, industrial dyes, electrical equipment, etc. Each of the Cabot plants has a capacity of 30 million feet of gas per day. The more efficient of the two, that at Wickert, recovered 1.53 pounds of black for each 1,000 cubic feet of gas processed, the Kermit plant recovering only 1.22 pounds per 1,000 feet.

Country Club Membership; Capital Stock May Be Doubled Under Plan Adopted Fri.

Capital stock of the Midland Country Club will be doubled if action taken at the meeting of stockholders and associate members Friday night is perfected, Addison Wadley, club president, said Saturday that a committee had been named to contact associate members and others not holding original shares of stock with the idea of selling an additional 100 shares at $200 each, the total amount to be used for expansion and improvement of the club property.

The committee, composed of W. T. Doherty, J. E. Hill, Chas. Klapproth, R. W. Hamilton and R. H. Henderson, will report to another meeting to be held March 15, at which time it is hoped that the new stock will be sold and paid in. Wadley said.

If the new project is put through, the golf course will be made one of the best in this section. Associate memberships will be eliminated and restrictions will be made on green fees for residents of Midland, it was decided.

WILL NOT DESERT HER SMALL FRIENDS

PARIS, Feb. 26 (AP).—Foreign Minister Yvon Delbos, in his first public pronouncement of French intentions since the rise of Nazi influence in Austria and Britain's turn toward deals with dictators, told the chamber of deputies today that France would follow England's lead, but would not desert small friends.

Declaring Austria must be kept independent, and warning against any "political hegemony" in central Europe, Delbos made a friendly bid to Italy.

Informed political quarters said Delbos undoubtedly was warning Germany that France would remain faithful to Austria as well as her little entente allies of Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia and Rumania.

In London, Prime Minister Chamberlain's task of knitting Europe into a peaceful community of nations shook itself free from immediate domestic opposition.

The departing Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden's graceful self-effacement to "await the verdict of history" removed the threat of conservative party strife over the cabinet crisis which jolted Britain into sudden decisions to play ball with Europe's dictators.

Eden, predicting failure in dealing with Germany and Italy, nevertheless wished the conservative government well in its task and made clear he would give no aid to liberal and labor party hopes of overthrowing the national cabinet.

Eden quit rather than yield to what he considered pressure from Italy in the Italian request that friendship bargaining begin at once, and in Rome, Chamberlain agreed to the bargaining rather than risk animosity which might one day bring war, and named Viscount Halifax as foreign secretary to speed the bargaining task.

Babson Says New Housing Act Alone Cannot Start Building Boom In U. S.

By ROGER W. BABSON
(Copyright, 1938, Publishers Financial Bureau)

BABSON PARK, Fla., Feb. 26.—Does the new Housing Act mean that America will finally get the building boom of which she is so desperately in need? The unnecessarily heavy costs of erecting a small home have been stifling building. The new act cuts initial financing charges and makes it easier to take on a home. But it does not slash through the high costs and other obstacles which are blocking a real construction boom. Despite these drawbacks, however, home building should register a good improvement this spring.

Steadily rising tax rates and the desire for automobiles rather than homes are two of the hurdles in the building pathway. Gasoline for the car instead of milk for the baby is the great problem in many a modern family. In the pre-war era, the wage earner, no matter how modest his job, managed to provide for a "rainy day." The interest he received on his bank deposit or the rent he saved by buying his home on a building and loan plan added to his income and helped him to save more.

Furthermore, his savings were loaned on real estate or helped to finance new productive projects. Now all that is changed. The worker of today puts his savings into an automobile on an easy payment plan. When he is through paying for the car he has purchased on "time" he finds that his "savings" have depreciated to almost nothing. He has put his nest-egg in a "wasting asset."

Prefabrication Inevitable.
The high material and labor costs of building, however, are the major handicaps today. Archaic production and distribution methods keep material prices at almost prohibitive levels. The answer to this problem is prefabrication. The small-like progress in this field is not a question of manufacture. The problem has been solved. But others such as real estate, building code, zoning, and financing questions must still be ironed out.

Certainly, large-scale output of factory-made houses right now would bring the prices of good homes to the "mass-market" level—between $3,500 and $5,000. Until that time comes, however, antique methods of building will prevail and will keep costs at a high level. Workers in building supply factories and in warehouses and lumberyards are now being organized in some cities. Hence, little reduction in material prices can be expected.

Building Unions Unpatriotic.
The worst handicap of all, however, is the foolish and unpatriotic policy of building trade unions. I believe in extending bargaining. The entire nation can benefit from it. While profits of stockholders in old-time industries that were organized years ago are less today, certainly their consumers have benefited. Why? Because managements were forced to become more efficient—to install labor-saving machinery. This, in turn, boosted the output per man-hour.

The unionization of textile, shoe, coal, and other lines has lifted man-hour output in these industries. In the building trades, unionization has not increased the man-hour production. Why? Because the leaders of the unions have sabotaged their own men and their industry by stupid and uneconomic policies. They have put artificial limits on the amount of work a man can do; while at the same time they have held down the number of skilled workers.

Slow workers must be paid as much as fast workers. So the efficient lose their incentive to do more than the inefficient. Bricklayers in some cities get $13 per day, while hundreds of jobless are excluded from the building trades by the unions. Furthermore, in highly unionized towns a man cannot give an unemployed neighbor a little handiwork around his home without fear of bombing or beating. The result of these various union tactics has not only been a wage scale out of all proportion to the type of the job, but a tremendous cost-per-unit of work done.

Interest Rate Could Be Lower.
Now what has the new Housing Act accomplished in overcoming high costs? The answer is: Not much except to cut initial financing charges somewhat. Actually, I think a lower interest rate could have been made. Banks are choked with money. Better have it loaned on homes and insured by the government at three per cent to create more jobs, than to give it away to men for raking leaves. Insuring loans up to 90 per cent of valuation does not necessarily mean that banks will take such big mortgages. The new regulations will let home-builders go ahead with a smaller down payment, but it will not, all by itself, produce a big construction boom.
So I feel that the new Housing

Sweethearts at Yucca

Alice Faye and George Murphy are co-starred at the Yucca now in the eye-filling, romantic comedy set to music, "You're a Sweetheart." Six big song hits are in the picture.

Act Has Done Only Part of the Job

President Roosevelt was on the right track when he called for an annual wage for building workers. If some such scheme could be mapped out, maybe building workers would drop their unreasonable hourly scales. Even if an annual wage scheme is not feasible, the administration could do much toward getting labor costs down by insisting on maximum hourly rates (based on an annual wage) on public works projects and on homes built under government-insured mortgages.

Pick Up in Building Ahead

Yet, regardless of all this pulling and hauling, building is bound to increase over present levels. People will do what is the cheapest thing to do. Just as soon as it is cheaper to build than to rent, people will build. Ten years of sub-normal construction have created a tremendous shortage of desirable rentals. Rents have risen 41 per cent since January, 1934. Building costs have skyrocketed, too, but there has been a drop in the last several months. Hence, despite all the hindrances, I expect 1938 building to improve materially over the final half of last year and to come close to equaling the entire 1937 level.

Alligator Kills Shark In Fierce River Battle

DARWIN, North Australia (UP).—A shark fought a crocodile on the Adelaide river near here—and lost.
First honors went to the crocodile which, with a sweep of its tail, sent the shark into the air. The crocodile then dived. A fierce struggle followed, beating the muddy water into foam.
The battle ceased suddenly. The blood-stained shark appeared on the surface, and was slowly dragged down.
The crocodile is estimated to have been 10 feet long and the shark seven feet, by the shooting party from Darwin who saw the battle.

At The Library

International Mind Alcove books have arrived. The 6th collection of books, placed in the library by the Carnegie endowment for International Peace, is now on the shelves. Miss Amy Hemingway Jones, in her letter accompanying the books says: "The new books now going forward to you for inclusion in your International Mind Alcove treat of widely separated countries all of which will appeal, I think, to your library visitors." They are as follows:

Allah Deithroned, by Lilo Linke: This is a lively account of a journey through Turkey made by a German girl supplied with little money, but with plenty of keen interest and love of adventure. It brings us in close touch with the modern Turkey developing so rapidly from the Turkey of the past under the extraordinary leadership of Kamal Ataturk. The story is personal and spontaneous and based on shrewd observation. Those who wish more definite and specific information will find valuable material in the facts given in condensed form at the end of the chapters and in the Table of Dates. The books is profusely illustrated and has an excellent map.

India Reveals Herself

It is good to find a book on India which gives a fair hearing to all sides of the problems of that much discussed country. This is a small serious book dealing sympathetically and intelligently with grave questions. Much of the writing centers around outstanding personalities such as Gandhi, Tagore and Nehru. There is a wealth of information to be found in this book which well repays the careful reading and study of its 190 brief pages.
Circling The Caribbean, by Tom Marvel: This book will take you for a carefree journey around the Caribbean sea stopping off at fascinating ports, penetrating some-

The Town Quack

A folder came in this morning labeled "What's Making Washington Laugh." You don't suppose they could have that twisted around, do you?

From a boys' magazine:
A negro hired out on a construction crew whose foreman had a reputation for getting a lot of work twelve hours the first day, lifting heavy timbers, digging huge ditches and a lot of other jobs. About night he asked the foreman if he had his name listed right.

"Yeah, I have you down as Simpson," said the foreman.
"Yassah, I thought maybe you had me down as Samson," was the reply.

And here's one about a construction crew, which I read in an insurance magazine:

A self-styled reformer was watching a trench being dug by modern machine methods. He said to the superintendent:

"This has taken jobs from scores of men. Why don't you junk that machine and put one hundred men in that ditch with shovels?"

The superintendent promptly retorted, "Or better still, put a thousand men in there with teaspoons."

A customer went in a Midland store and asked the amount of his bill.

"Which bank?" asked the bookkeeper, extending check books.

"Oh, I didn't want to pay it, I just wanted to verify it," said the customer.

Repartee is defined as what you think of ten minutes after you had a chance to say it.

Agreement Reached On Tax Revision

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26 (AP).—The house ways and means committee reached complete agreement today on the proposed tax revision program after defeating a republican attempt to obtain repeal of the undistributed profits tax.

The bill will probably be brought up on the floor Thursday, chairman Daughton said.

TO ANSON.

Miss Jeanne Logan, teacher in Midland high school, is spending the week-end in Anson.

SON BORN TO SHULLS.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Shull of Stanton are the parents of a son, Wesley Neal, born Feb. 24 in a Big Spring hospital. The baby weighed eight pounds. The father formerly lived at Midland for several years.

ON WEEK-END TRIP.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Strawn and daughter, Marcella are spending the week-end at Kress, with his parents Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Strawn.

TO SONORA AND ELDORADO.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Gordon Bird and two daughters and Miss Joyce Hollman were among the groups making trips out of town this week-end. The Birds went to Eldorado and Miss Hollman, who accompanied them, went to Sonora to visit her sister.

Shipment of Live Stock Is Steady

AUSTIN—Shipments of livestock from Texas to Fort Worth stockyards and interstate points during January were virtually the same as those during the corresponding month last year, the University of Texas bureau of business research has reported. The decline in shipments of hogs and calves were almost offset by slight increases in shipments of cattle and sheep.
Aggregate shipments during the month were 5,212 cars, a decline of nearly 2 per cent from January, 1937. Cattle shipments, 3,516 cars, increased 3 per cent over a year ago; and sheep shipments, 446 cars, increased 20 per cent; while shipments of calves, 702 cars, were 10 per cent lower than during January last year, and hog shipments, 548 cars, dropped 26 per cent.
Receipts of Texas cattle and sheep at the Fort Worth market during January were slightly larger than a year ago; while receipts of calves and hogs were substantially below those of a year ago. Shipments of all classes of Texas livestock to the Los Angeles market were sharply below those of January last year, but marketings to the middle west, especially of sheep, increased substantially.

Prize Cocktail Named "Our Smiling Duchess"

LONDON, (UP).—In a competition in which more than 1,500 sipped first prize for the world's cocktails were mixed, shaken and most palatable, potent and pleasant effort went to "Our Smiling Duchess," a cocktail by an Aberdeen bartender, George Mackie.
Here is the composition of the winning cocktail, "Our Smiling Duchess": One-third dry gin, one-sixth apricot brandy, one-third Lillet, one-sixth creme de noyau. Stir in mixing glass. Ice well. Place red cherry in bottom of glass.

TRIP TO AMARILLO.

Lindsay Austin of the CIT office is making a trip to Amarillo this week-end.

Midseason Hats.
Smart Fifth Avenue shops show early Spring millinery which will give a lift to mid-season costumes and can be worn well into the Spring with your Easter suit; a bicameral beret of black milan straw flares wide and high above the forehead; a tailored hat of fine navy felt bound with grosgrain, brim rolled at the sides, wide band and bow of sheer veiling at the back, is reminiscent of postillion days; a bowl brim roseberry felt model has a shallow crown, dips rakishly over the right eye, rolls high toward the back and finishes with a clever cockade; a small gay sports hat of Indo Clay felt has a slanting medium height crown, twisted wool band and Tyrolean brush at the side.

Display of a collection of his paintings by E. Martin Hennings, Toos, New Mexico artist who is listed in "Who's Who in America" for 1934-35, will continue through today on the mezzanine of the Hotel Scharbauer. Twenty-five pictures, including oils and some monotypes, are in the group being displayed here. The public is invited to attend the showing. Davis in San Antonio.

Personals
Mr. and Mrs. Elliott H. Barron returned last night from a trip to San Antonio, Austin, Dallas and Henderson. Tender Roasters. When preparing fowl for roasting, singe and remove all pin feathers and wash thoroughly inside and out with a milk baking soda solution. Rinse with clear water and dry with a clean cloth. Stuff, truss and rub with olive oil or any fat which does not contain salt. Place in baking pan, breast side up and roast until tender, allowing about one hour for a three-pound chicken. Tough poultry requires a little longer cooking per pound, should be roasted a little slower and in a covered pan.

Contributors' Column
UNSUNG HEROES. Ida Tabell, biographer of the most prominent men of the United States, was asked a short while ago on her 80th birthday, to name some of the greatest persons she had ever met. She replied: "Those nobody knows anything about." After all, it is the folks who work faithfully each day who are the real heroes of life—those who know and realize the value of courtesy and kindness to those with whom they come in contact every day, in their daily work. While spending an idle day in Midland I have tried to make a kind of survey of polite folks who are doing service to the public. My observations are as follows: Most polite waitress, Claudia Crow, Agnes Cafe. A remarkably courteous Service Station employee: Dick Whitson, Ever Ready. Leslie Stevens, teller Midland National Bank, the acme of courtesy. Edith Norman, Western Union, very courteous and considerate. Extremely courteous: Jos. Hoskins, Wadley Dry Goods Co. At the Scharbauer Hotel: Charlie Sanders, Bell boy. Rose Sams, house maid. George Davis, porter. Pokey Carson, Elevator boy. Jimmie Lott, Midland Drug Co., not only courteous but good looking. Absolute perfection in courtesy and affability—Janell Burns; Book Nook on the Mezzanine floor of the Scharbauer Hotel. A grocery clerk who knows the real value of "taking care" of customers—Alvin Roberts, B. & B. Food Store. Mrs. Oia Haynes, clerk in Sheriff's office—unsurpassed for courtesy in a public office. Elizabeth Cole ONE girl who is polite and courteous at a telephone exchange board. John Butler, assistant bank cashier who is the "tops" in politeness. Affable, intelligent, agreeable and always extremely courteous—Geo. R. McDonald, Midland Hotel. Most competent, affable and well versed lease broker, George Wallace. For real courtesy, consideration and human kindness from a gentleman of the "Old School"—"Uncle" John Scharbauer. Nat Campbell.

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O. (UP).—Henry Chini petitioned common pleas court for a divorce from his wife, Alma, who, he charged, nagged and mistreated him until he lost 20 pounds. He also alleged she packed his lunch box with food she knew he disliked.

C. V. Terrell, member of the state Railroad Commission, who Saturday announced his candidacy for re-election.

Terrell Announces His Candidacy for Railroad Comm.

C. V. Terrell, member of the Railroad Commission Saturday announced his candidacy for re-election. In announcing his candidacy, Mr. Terrell said:

I do so with profound appreciation of the trust reposed in me heretofore by the people of my native state.

True to my promises in the past, I have faithfully discharged the duties of an important public office; and due to intensive training and experience I have qualified myself to pass upon matters coming before the Railroad Commission—a department which constantly faces complex problems vitally affecting every citizen of our Commonwealth.

The jurisdiction of the Railroad Commission embraces the supervision of railroads, trucks, busses, express companies, dock companies, gas utilities, pipe lines and the administration of the conservation laws of this State dealing with the production of oil and gas; investments totaling more than three billion dollars.

The Commission has caused the rates on cotton to be reduced in some instances from $4.00 to $1.25 per bale, resulting in a saving to the cotton farmers and people of the State of several million dollars annually. Through its action the rates on grain are lower than they otherwise would have been and the grain farmers of Texas have thereby been saved, and are being saved, in excess of two million dollars annually. Because the action of the Commission the rates on stocker cattle are 15 per cent lower than they would have been, which saving has accrued to the cattlemen of our State.

An order of the Commission directing a reduction of the gas rates to the City of Laredo, by which the consumer will be saved more than 25 per cent was recently sustained.

Applications for Crop, Feed Loans Being Accepted

Applications for emergency crop and feed loans for 1938 are now being received at the courthouse by James G. Dougherty, field supervisor for the Emergency Crop and Feed Loan Section of the Farm Credit Administration.

The loans will be made, as in the past, only to farmers who cannot obtain credit from any other source. The money loaned will be limited to the farmer's immediate and actual cash needs for growing his 1938 crops or for the purchase of feed for livestock, and the amount which may be loaned to any one farmer in 1938 may not exceed $400. Farmers who can obtain the funds they need from an individual, production credit association, bank, or other concern are not eligible for crop and feed loans from the Emergency Crop and Feed Loan Section of the Farm Credit Administration. The loans will not be made to standard rehabilitation clients whose current needs are provided for by the Farm Security Administration, formerly known as the Resettlement Administration.

As in the past, farmers who obtain emergency crop and feed loans will give as security a first lien on the crop financed, or a first lien on the livestock to be fed if the money borrowed is to be used to produce or purchase feed for livestock.

Where loans are made to tenants, the landlords, or others having an interest in the crops financed or the livestock to be fed, are required to waive their claims in favor of a lien to the Governor of the Farm Credit Administration until the loan is repaid.

Checks in payment of approved loans will be mailed from the Regional Emergency Crop and Feed Loan Office at Dallas, Texas.

by the Supreme Court of the United States. Since I have been a member of the Commission no order of the Commission fixing gas rates has ever been stricken down by the Courts.

The Railroad Commission's policy of oil and gas conservation has yielded to the permanent public school fund, the University of Texas and A. & M. College more than forty million dollars, the benefits of which will extend to coming generations.

Standing upon my record in these and many other achievements of the Commission, I ask with confidence my re-election to this highly responsible office; and I pledge a continuation of my best efforts for the public welfare.

A faithful performance of public service in the past is the best guarantee of like service in the future.

Dramatic New Pictures That Tell the Story of 'Stigmata Miracle'

"A modern miracle!" cry thousands who have seen Therese Neumann, German peasant girl, as she appears above with streams of blood trickling down her face in such a manner as to suggest the wounds of Christ at His crucifixion. In more than 10 years of the periodic manifestation of these "stigmata," all attempts to prove them other than genuine have failed.

To Konnersreuth in Bavaria, throngs have been coming for years to see the most widely-known modern instance of "stigmata." Here the cars of visitors are seen in ranks near the village church, where Therese worships, and where an altar has been dedicated to Saint Therese of Lisieux, namesake of the girl who is providing the most baffling religious phenomenon of today.

By thousands they come to the convent where nuns have taken charge of the strange young woman. Almost all are convinced that they have seen a miracle; only a few mutter of self-hypnosis, hysteria, and other naturalistic explanations. Almost none at all suggest fraud of any kind on the part of Fraulein Therese, who accepts no money from pious ones who wish to give it.

Starting from the back of Therese's hand in this picture may be seen the blood from the wounds which never heal, in the same positions on her body as those inflicted on Jesus Christ at His crucifixion. When the seizures come, Fraulein Therese becomes weak and scarcely able to walk. Hence she is accompanied by a nun and a priest, Father Joseph Naber, en route to the convent.

Savings & Loan Has Banner Month During January; Survey Says

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Feb. 26. — January was a banner month for the insured savings and loan associations in Texas, according to figures just compiled by the Federal Home Loan Bank of Little Rock. More new investment funds were received by the Texas insured associations during the month than in any similar period in the past five years. New investments in January totaled $2,063,000 as compared with $1,403,000 in July, 1937, which was the next best month in recent years.

For the past year, through newspaper advertising, the associations have been stressing the advantages of investing money locally where it will be kept safe and yet available when needed. Officials of the Bank expressed gratification at the increase in investments and said it was largely due to a better understanding by the general public of the convenience and safety of placing funds in local associations. Accounts in insured associations are protected against loss up to $5,000 for each investor by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation. Included in the compilation prepared by the Bank are the figures of the Midland Federal Savings and Loan Association which is a member of the Federal Home Loan Bank System and whose accounts are insured.

Although weather conditions were unfavorable for construction the insured associations in Texas made 729 home loans in January aggregating $1,292,500. Of this amount $664,000 was loaned for new construction and repairs and $628,500 was advanced to 183 Texans to assist them in the purchase of their homes. The total loans for January showed an increase over the months of November and December and were only $200,000 less than in July, 1937, indicating, the Bank officials said, continued interest in home ownership. These loans were made on the popular direct-reduction plan under which payments of principal and interest are due in small amounts each month, over a long period of years, similar to rent. The associations are reported to have ample funds available for additional loans and, with the coming of spring, much increased building activity is anticipated.

There are now 266 insured associations in the District served by the Little Rock bank, 117 of which are in Texas. The new investments in January, throughout the district, totaled $5,035,000 which, officials said, indicated the public's appreciation of the protection of their savings through the insurance offered by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation. In the District, home loans aggregating $2,654,000 were made during the month.

The PAYOFF

BY JESS RODGERS.

Spring is here. According to the calendar, it is practically a month until winter is over—but don't you believe it. Proof that spring is really here was given in a telegram to Fincher Withers Saturday when he was ordered by Sacramento officials to come at once to Riverside, Calif., and pick out the ball players he would want for the club here this year.

The Saint Louis - Sacramento club are conducting a training school for their farm clubs and about 200 boys are enrolled. This year, Withers will get a chance to pick out his boys before other managers in the chain get the choice of the talent.

Last year, two clubs were sent to Albuquerque and the New Mexico management got first call on filling out their roster. However, what was left was good enough to make a walk-away of this league until the club blew up.

Withers is going to be forced to leave town for a few days but the sale of tickets is going on. Several of the men interested in seeing that baseball is restored here again this year have agreed to take charge of the ticket sale and really start things going this week.

So far, 12 firms and individuals have contracted to take and get rid of something better than 300 tickets. Included in the list to date is Wilson Dry Goods company, Midland Hardware, Piggy Wiggy stores, J. C. Smith Dry Goods company, Addison Wadley company, Midland Steam Laundry, Cotter Hiett, M. System, Westex Food Market, Petroleum Pharmacy, D. H. Roettger, Bond Specialty company.

The response of merchants to the program has not been as strong as expected but several have indicated they would increase the amount they had signed for if "competition" did likewise.

Several firms have held off taking any tickets at all pending an announcement of what their neighbor did. That is a policy that is playing havoc with plans of those selling the tickets but it is one way for the merchant to protect himself if he feels that protection is what he wants.

The idea of asking the merchants to take the tickets and give them away with sales was offered in the idea that it would give the merchants free publicity and in all probabilities increase their business.

In other words, it was felt that residents would come nearer trading with firms offering the tickets than firms that were not. Some of the merchants seem to look upon the idea as merely one that would "stick" them with some tickets instead of the way sponsors intended for it to.

KONNERSREUTH, Germany, Feb. 26. — Although it is 12 years since the "miracle of the stigmata" first revealed itself in the person of Therese Neumann, nothing has yet been found to shake the faith of thousands of visitors that they have seen the Passion of Christ reflected before their own eyes.

The wounds which appeared in the hands, feet, and body of Therese Neumann in 1926 continue to bleed at regular intervals, unhealing, yet without effect on her general physical condition.

Neither has 12 years' claimed abstinence from food and water—except for the Communion wafer—affected the physical well-being of this remarkable woman. She is now about 40 years old, and no similar religious phenomenon in modern times has been subjected to as close and as prolonged a scrutiny.

Stricken During Fire.

THERESE NEUMANN is the daughter of a local tailor. Reared in poverty, she "worked out" in the fields, and slaved at domestic duties. Barely able to read and write, she was not notable for any special religious zeal.

When she was 20, the Neumann home burned, and as she was helping fight the fire she suddenly collapsed in pain. At the hospital a spinal injury was found, but Therese became blind, deaf, and dumb. For more than six years she remained so, in helpless agony.

Then, on May 17, 1925, the day of the canonization of Saint Therese, she became whole. She saw "a great light," and suddenly she was able to see and walk. Early the next year she began to see religious visions and on Easter Friday she fell into a sort of ecstatic trance, and the first bleeding from eyes, hands, and feet developed.

Attracted Thousands of Pilgrims.

GRADUALLY, permanent wounds developed in precisely the positions where it is recorded that Jesus Christ was wounded during the march to Golgotha. These were immediately recognized as the stigmata, similar to those borne by Saint Francis, and word spread rapidly. Soon pilgrims began to come in crowds to the Neumann house.

The religious authorities of the village and of the diocese investigated fully. For periods of as long as 15 days four Sisters of Charity sat at Therese's bedside, their eyes on her at every moment. She took no water nor food except the Communion wafer.

Bavarian church authorities then asked the consent of the father to a plan to have Fraulein Neumann taken to a neutral clinical hospital for observation. He refused. Thereupon the Catholic church officially dropped the case. In short, the official church attitude is simply: "not proven."

But the phenomenon has continued for nearly 12 years, and many of the faithful insist that here is a modern miracle.

Collapse Follows Seizures.

EACH Thursday at midnight, Therese lapses into her abnormal state, visions dominating her consciousness until 1:30 Friday afternoon. Then she collapses in a state of exhaustion, but soon becomes normal again. Weight lost during the period is rapidly regained.

Learned men, brought to Konnersreuth are said to have verified that while in this state, Fraulein Neumann speaks fluently in Aramaic, a long-dead dialect language of ancient Palestine, and also in Latin and Hebrew, languages of which in her normal state she is utterly ignorant.

The wounds, which have not healed nor changed materially in 12 years, are red marks the size of a nickel on the palms and back of her hands, on her feet, below her heart, and hidden below her hair on the upper forehead. They speedily become dormant after bleeding, but scar tissue does not form.

Baseball Club to Be Either Cardinals; Herefords or Cowboys Here This Year

Sports Editor:

I suggest the Midland baseball club this year be named:

- () Cardinals
- () Herefords
- () Cowboys

The Midland baseball club this year will be known as either the Midland Cardinals, Midland Herefords or Midland Cowboys. The final decision will be left up to the public.

A committee designated to pick the three top names decided Saturday morning upon the above listed ones and left it upon baseball fans to choose the one they prefer.

Several different fans submitted each name but all duplicate names were placed in a hat with the name of the originator written on them, and one was drawn.

The name Cardinals, submitted by Roy McKee, the name Herefords, submitted by Mrs. John Scroggin, and the name Cowboys, submitted by Cotter Hiett, were drawn from the hat. Other persons submitted each of the names but the three listed were the ones that were drawn from the hat and the three are the ones that will compete for the two prizes that will be listed.

It is up to the three persons named above to see that residents fill in the ballot at the top of this story and send them in. The name that the most ballots are cast for will be adopted for the team and the person submitting it will be awarded a free pass and a free box for the season. The person getting second prize will be given a season's pass. The contest will last until Friday midnight.

Retired Railroad Man Put Life in on Budget

LISBON, N. D. (P). — J. A. Risk, retired Northern Pacific depot master here, today looked back on a record that included achievements other than 50 years of railroading.

Risk was left fatherless at an early age. He was the main support of his mother and six younger brothers and sisters. He reared a family of 12 children of his own after that and all have received college educations.

To finance college educations for their children Risk and his wife encouraged them to save their earnings, which were placed in a fund. As the children became old enough to attend college, this fund was drawn upon and later the other children were able to repay the sums for the benefit of younger brothers and sisters.

Less Farm Land in Hartley County

CHANNING, Tex. (P). — Hartley county is steadily changing its agricultural economy into a farmer-stockman set-up, the type that state and federal farm experts have urged since 1932, says County Agent J. S. Coleman. Wheat acreage in 1933 was 95,000 and last fall was 70,000. In the same period grain sorghum acreage and farmer-stockman operations throughout the county increased 15 to 18 per cent, Coleman said.

Farmers who have most of their land under the plow are turning enough of it back to grass to accommodate the farmer-stockman set-up, Coleman said. Hartley county farmers in 1936 turned back about 1,000 acres; 3,600 last year and this year are asking help, Coleman said, in turning back 15,000 acres. The 1937 AAA farm program showed that the county had 223,000 acres of plowed land.

Texas U Alumni Magazine Carries Story on Goodman

Photograph and story on James H. Goodman, Midland attorney who is candidate for state representative from the 88th legislative district, is contained in an article in the February issue of THE ALGOLIDE, University of Texas alumni magazine.

The article contains brief stories on several of the 15 recently-appointed district athletic committees of whom it is said "Most important exes of the month are those who have stepped into the football breach with Coach Dana Bible in an effort to rebuild a faltering Longhorn gridiron machine."

The Alcolide has this to say of Goodman, who is committeeman for district four:

"Past Longhorn star and line coach is the record of James H. Goodman, District 4's athletic chairman, living now in Midland where he is occupied in legal practice."

Born at Bastrop, he moved to Austin at the age of 4 and was graduated from the Austin public schools in 1908. During his high school career he was active in both football and track, serving as captain of his school team in both sports.

In the summer of 1908 he entered the university, but a year later was teaching in the Ball high school of Galveston in the manual training department.

Three years later he was re-enrolled in the university, where he had taken up the study of law and resumed his activity in athletics. He lettered in football in 1913-14-15, and in track in 1915-16.

Leaving the university in 1916 to become coach of the state-champion Austin high school squad, he was back on Forty acres next year in the role of head line coach.

Marriage to Lena Williams of Fort Worth was followed by residence in Waxahachie and directorship of Trinity University's Athletic Department from 1920 to 1923. Moving to Lubbock in 1923, he practiced law again and was city judge of that city from 1924-28.

Now living in Midland, he is occupied with the practice of law and is active in the American Legion, having served as ost Commander of the Midland Post for two terms.

Your Income Tax

No. 20

Deduction for Taxes

Taxes on real estate and personal property paid during the year 1937 are deductible. So-called taxes, which are assessed against local benefits, such as streets, sidewalks, drainage, and other like improvements, are not deductible but are to be capitalized, as they tend to increase the value of the property and thus constitute cost of a permanent improvement. The federal income tax may not be deducted. The tax on unjust enrichment—a federal tax on income—is not deductible. Income tax, however, paid to the state by an individual on his income is an allowable deduction in his federal income tax return.

Customs duties paid by a person on articles imported for his own use are deductible. Import or tariff duties paid to customs officers; and business, license, privilege, excise, and stamp taxes paid to internal revenue collectors are deductible as taxes provided they are not added to and made a part of the expenses of the business or the cost of the articles of merchandise with respect to which they are paid, in which case they cannot be deducted separately as a tax. Federal taxes on admission in excess of 40 cents are deductible, but the taxpayer must show that account has been kept of the amount paid. Taxes on club dues are deductible by the member paying them. An individual may deduct the tax on his telephone conversations, radio messages, telegrams, and cables, and on the rent of his safe-deposit box.

Unemployment compensation contributions if officially classified as taxes are deductible as taxes and not as business expense.

The income tax imposed upon employees by section 801 of the Social Security act may not be deducted by the employee. But the excise taxes imposed upon employers by sections 804 and 901 of the Social Security act may be deducted by the employers. Also, if an employer pays the income tax on employees under section 801, the amount may be deducted by the employer as an ordinary and necessary business expense and the employees are required to report as additional income in their federal income tax returns the amounts of the tax so paid for them.

License fees exacted by a state or city upon certain businesses are deductible as taxes. Automobile license fees are ordinarily taxes and deductible. Postage is not a tax and is not deductible. In general, taxes are deductible only by the person upon whom they are imposed.

Federal estate and gift taxes and state inheritance, estate, legacy, or succession taxes are not deductible on federal income tax returns. The federal taxes on automobiles, gasoline, cigarettes, and liquor are imposed upon the manufacturer, producer, or importer, and are not deductible by the purchaser or consumer. Whether or not the gasoline tax or the sales tax levied by a state may be deducted by the individual purchaser depends upon the terms of the state law imposing the tax; consequently, the right to the deduction, as between purchaser and seller, varies in the different states.

Under the Revenue act of 1936 the amount of excess profits tax paid or accrued under the Revenue act of 1935 (as amended) is deductible in computing net income of a corporation for the purpose of both the normal tax and the surtax on undistributed profits.

Many Applicants for Govt. Farms Denied

DALLAS (AP).—Almost two thousand applicants for land purchase loans have been eliminated, and county committees are giving intensive study to the remaining five hundred, C. M. Evans, regional director of the Farm Security Administration, announces. From these 146 will be selected as the cream of Texas' 286,000 farm tenants.

Volunteer committees, composed each of three dirt farmers, have been meeting several times weekly since January when the application period ended for loans to be made under the first allocation of federal funds provided by the new Bankhead-Jones farm tenant act. Committees in several counties report they are spending their time in the field, studying qualifications and attainments of applicants, and estimating value of land which the tenants propose to buy.

It is expected the first loan, covering the full amount of purchase price, with an additional amount for improvement, will be cleared soon. Preparing for new construction and repairs on the purchased farms and survey of prevailing wage scales has been completed by B. J. Walker, FSA's regional advisor on labor relations, after a tour of the 23 Texas counties included in the present tenant purchase program. Improvements costing in excess of $500 must be built by contract, Walker said, but under that amount the purchasers may construct their own and hire such labor as needed. Wage rates paid on contract jobs must be at least as high as the rate prevailing locally, he said, but this means the rate in the rural area immediately adjacent to the project.

"Where contractors hire their labor from cities they will be expected to pay the prevailing city rate," he said. Carpenters are drawing around fifty to sixty cents an hour in rural communities, he said, where the city scale is $1 to $1.10.

A school of instruction for land appraisers recently was held at Dallas regional headquarters under E. R. Henson, assistant national director of the tenant purchase program. Henson said land would be bought only at prices which could be paid out by the land's actual production, as indicated by its past record. Annual payments, however, would amount to no more than had been paid as rent, in most cases, the FSA being amortized at 4.3 per cent a year to cover combined principal and interest.

To promote a program of safety in the streets of Kansas City, Mo., a safety slogan-writing contest was held among the people. The city has established a record of 14 months without a child fatality in a traffic accident.

Glamor Gals---With an Accent

From the peasantry of Hungary comes the lovely, blond creature who looks serenely heavenward in this picture. She is Iona Massey, who fought her way through Europe's hard operatic school to become one of Hollywood's most glamorous of foreign stars.

BY PAUL HARRISON, NEA Service Staff Correspondent.

HOLLYWOOD. — Foreigners arriving in Hollywood are faced with the ticklish alternative of becoming either stars or failures.

Nobody seems to know why there is no middle ground, why a player who falls short of stellar ranking may not remain to play character roles and second leads capably and profitably. But that's the way it is; they can't get jobs.

Such a situation, though, is the very reason why studios are counting on a large proportion of their imported glamorists to succeed. Most of them will work harder than young American actresses would dream of working. They have everything to win and everything to lose. To understand the determination of some of these people you should know about Iona Massey. Miss Massey was that shapely, beautifully coiffed-and-gowned creature who warbled in "Rosalie." Also, not so many years ago, Miss Massey was a Hungarian peasant.

She wanted to sing. At least she was of peasant stock. There was no farming to be done by the war-shattered father who was brought back from the front, and they lived, the parents and two daughters, in one room in the Budapest slums. The children were little then, and only the mother could work. They were always hungry.

After the war, what with the political mess, times were no better. An association of people in Holland sent word that they would take into their homes a certain number of the most desperately undernourished and underprivileged children of Hungary. Iona Massey (the name was Hajmassy then) was one who was sent.

She spent nearly three years in Holland, important years for her health and education. But back in Budapest, and old enough to work, she went into a dressmaking shop—and hated it. She wanted to sing. Nobody ever had told her she could sing. In fact, her parents had told her very decidedly that she couldn't. "You know how in Europe some old-fashioned people think the theater is a sinful place," said Miss Massey. "My father said if I went into the theater I would be like dead to them."

"But I went. When I was 17 I went to a little theater for work and they asked 'Do you sing, dance, act or what?' I said no and they said get out. But I argue and beg and say I am 18, so finally they said 'Tomorrow begins a rehearsal for an operetta, and you can be in the chorus.'"

A Scout Sees Her. So she danced and made the equivalent of $12 a month. Her fathers, reconciled, met her at the stage door each night. After a year Miss Massey went to a small opera company in Vienna and had an audition. They liked her voice and offered her a hole in "La Tosca." Of course she knew the role? "Yes, of course," the applicant assured them.

Actually she knew no part of "La Tosca" and scarcely a word of German. So she rushed home to Budapest and studied day and night for two weeks. During the first rehearsal the manager said he was sorry but, although the voice was excellent, nobody could understand the German.

More pleading. Finally they assigned her a coach for a week, and the German was made understandable. And in the audience on opening night was the manager of the Vienna State Opera House. He went backstage with a contract for the blonde newcomer. First there were small parts. Then leads. Her greatest triumphs were in "The Empress Josephine" and "La Belle Helene," both light operas. A Metro talent scout persuaded her to come here.

Wont' Let Her Act. IN Europe, appearing with the strapping, overstudied, Wagnerian type of singers, Miss Massey was ashamed of her comparatively small size. "Over here," she said wryly, "they tell me 'Reduce, reduce, reduce!' I have lost eight pounds. I weigh 130 pounds, and I must lose eight more. I have terrible trouble! If only I did not so much love goulash!"

"Only today I write to my mother and say, 'Now that I have money to buy all I want to eat, they will not let me eat!'"

"My voice is a trouble too. I have a big voice, with big power, for opera. But here it knocks over the microphone, and I am studying to make it weak. In 'Rosalie' I only whispered. Someone said I am a crooner now. What is this 'crooner'?"

This was Miss Massey's first interview. Her studio has kept her in busy isolation, for she soon must take the lead in a musical, "Balalaika," maybe with Nelson Eddy.

Executives are not worrying about her acting, because screen tests show that she can act. Indeed, the naturalness and underplaying in American movies are particularly to her taste. She always disliked the extravagant postures of opera. Even the European stage and pictures, she said, are full of people who make faces and wild gestures.

Worth a Million. MISS MASSEY once was married, briefly, and divorced. She has time for nothing now except hard work and lots of it. Along with her own ambitions, she'd like to justify Bill Grady's predictions. Grady, former Metro casting director and now talent supervisor for the studio's foreign-glamor legion, believes the one-time peasant girl has the brightest future of all.

"That Massey girl," he says "is a sure star. Right this minute she's worth five million dollars, on the hoof."

Property Suit Is Won By Deceased Plaintiff

TAMPA, Fla. (U.P.). — Final order has been entered in the circuit court suit of Walter Wood against the Tampa Waterworks Co., terminating nearly 10 years of litigation during which 11 persons connected with the case have died.

The death list includes the man who brought the suit, the judges who heard the original proceedings on each side and five interested parties.

The suit involved about $400,000 worth of property held by Stuart Wood, who with his brother, Walter, operated the Tampa waterworks system, later sold to the city. The suit finally was decided in favor of Walter Wood, but the decision came a year after his death.

SPAIN'S LITTLE CHILDREN

All the stark, heart-rending horror of modern warfare is depicted in the photo above, showing little children lying dead in a row in Barcelona, Spain, after a bomb from a Rebel plane demolished a building in which child refugees were quartered. It is pitiful scenes such as this that prompted U. S. Army officials to announce recently that American policy, in event of war, will forbid all bombing of civilian sections.

Gunman for 60 Years, Never Saw Gun Play

AMARILLO (AP).—John Arnot has been a cowman on the High Plains of Texas nearly 60 years but never saw gun play. Part of that time he lived in old Tascosa, where several citizens were forty-fived and put to rest atop Boothill.

"Even in the old days of the open range and the trail herds," said the veteran puncher, "the cowhands didn't carry six-shooters. Nearly all of them had pistols in their bed rolls but they didn't make a practice of toting guns and looking for someone to shoot at. Some of them would shoot all right, but it took more than the drop of the hat or a word out of the side of a screwed up mouth to make them pull the trigger."

"I was in old Tascosa and many other frontier towns of the Plains but seldom carried my gun. There was no more need for carrying a pistol then than now."

Arnot went to old Tascosa on the Canadian the other day and for the first time in 45 years visited Mrs. Mickey McCormick, 80-year-old lone inhabitant of the ghost town who was "Frenchy, the girl from Baton Rouge," when Tascosa was the capital of the Panhandle cow country.

Mrs. McCormick, who declines to talk about the old days, didn't recognize her visitor until he identified himself and told her he lived in Tascosa in the eighties.

"Nearly all of us are gone, ain't we?" was about all Mrs. McCormick said.

Arnot knew Mrs. McCormick when she and her late husband were in the gaming and livery stable business in Tascosa.

Arnot said the first person buried in famous Boothill cemetery was a above Marshall Ford Dam; Federal funds, $109,850; sponsor's funds, $30,680; workers, 434.

In Brown, Coleman, Kimble, Mason, and Rannels counties elimination of unsanitary devices in rural and suburban areas where sewer systems are impractical; Federal funds, $2,810; sponsor's funds, $1,686; workers, 24.

persons buried there died with their boots on, he said.

Arnot said the first man buried on the bleak hill was shot down by a sheriff after the cowboy had shot some ducks at the edge of town. Arnot lived in the old town when it was the Panhandle cow capital and the last stop on the cow trails between Texas and old Fort Dodge in Kansas.

Many old cemeteries have been found in the Panhandle. One 20 miles north of Amarillo on the Tascosa road is the resting place of the wife and baby daughter of a prospector. Names on the rough sandstones have been almost obliterated. The two graves are encircled by a stone fence.

Boothill cemetery at Tascosa is encircled by the thing the open range cowhands detested—barbed wire.

'Richest Girl' at Play in Hawaii

The water's fine—over in Hawaii. Shown emerging from a swim and surfboard ride is Doris Duke Cromwell, heir to the great Duke tobacco fortune and America's richest girl. Her husband, James Cromwell, also wealthy, takes life easy in a canoe beached on the warm Hawaiian sand.

STAGES LAST MINUTE RALLY TO WIN BY 3 POINTS.

Thursday afternoon, if you didn't go to the Midland vs. Wink ball game, you missed the thrill of the year. Both teams were in good form and "rarin'" to go. Midland scored first and at the end of the first quarter, led 12-6. During the second quarter, Wink edged up and the score at the half stood 21-18 in favor of Midland.

At the end of the third quarter Wink, for the first time, led 25 to 24. It was during this quarter that Lynch, Midland forward, fouled out. Midland came back in the last quarter determined to win. Wink felt the same way. With about 3 minutes to go Midland trailed by one point, when Collier, Midland forward taking Lynch's place, slipped a beauty and Midland led by one point. Then Adams came down and literally would not be denied. He made one from under the bucket and with a point to go, Adams seemed safe but reckoned without Pugh of Wink who made a long one to put Wink only one point behind. The crowd was on its feet cheering Midland on, but Wink would not be denied and made 2 quick but hard fought buckets to sew up the game. It was Midland's ball in midcourt when the game ended.

The boys played a swell game and for six of them, their last game. Adams, Norman, Barnes, Lynch, Taylor, and English, all ended their high school careers in basketball. There was practically nothing to choose between the two teams but any Midland fan would back the team to his last cent if we were to play Wink another game.

Adams was high point man with 14 points. All the boys played a good game, but Collier, who has had practically no experience, showed promise. He will be back next year, too.

WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY PROGRAM PRESENTED.

The Midland High School Literary society observed the birthday of Washington by presenting a program in the high school auditorium.

PERSONALS. Emma Mae Richman had as her guest Wednesday, Louetta Barnard, of Justin. Miss Barnard attended classes with Emma Mae.

Miss Ina Mae Vaught spent the week-end with her mother in Eastland.

PERSONALITY PLUS. (This is beginning a series of personality sketches of some of M. H. S.'s students.)

Our first interview was with Jeanne Davis, our annual queen. Jeanne's birthday is on August 4 and she is sixteen years old. Her hobbies are horseback riding and dancing, and her favorite sport is swimming. Jeanne's favorite colors are blue and green. She wears raspberry lipstick by Vanderbilt and Cutex tulip fingernail polish. Jeanne dislikes balloons but doesn't say why. Freda Pae is her best friend although she seems to like everybody. She refuses to state just who she thinks is the most beautiful girl and most handsome boy in M. H. S. Jeanne's favorite subject is typing but she likes geometry, too. She likes black-eyed peas and avocados but just can't stand liver or spinach. Jeanne's greatest ambition is to travel. She likes winter best of all our seasons because of the clothes one can wear.

She thinks girls should curl their eyelashes if they are long enough although she doesn't curl hers. She chooses jazz instead of classical and other music.

You had better get your thinking cap on so if someone comes up asking you questions you will be able to give the answers without having to stop and think and think.

MIDLAND

By Margaret Watford. Where the cloudless skies are splashed with blue.

Where the yucca grows (and grass-burrs, too).

Where the wind is always a little stronger.

Where the coyotes howl a little longer.

That's Midland.

Where you find the very best of schools.

Where everybody knows and lives the Golden Rule.

Where strong men rise, and weak ones "grow."

Where neat cottages are built, row on row.

That's Midland.

Where the cowboys ride and sing their songs.

Where the bawling steer runs from branding tongs.

Where all the wild flowers thrive and bloom.

Where an oil well, at frequent intervals, will loom.

That's Midland.

In foreign lands, I've heard it said, Stand ancient castles, filled with gold and lead.

Precious stones; rubies, diamonds, and emeralds, too.

Are found in foreign lands by you and you.

But still, I like my old home town the best.

It gives me peace, contentment, and rest.

You know, if I were the first one up on Judgment Day,

I would rise right up and proudly say—

"First one up—Hurrah for Midland!"

That's Midland.

TRACK SEASON OPENS.

On Friday afternoon a group of boys met in Mr. Myer's home room and made plans for the opening of track season. On March 13, the Cactus relays will be held in Iraan and the Midland team hopes to take a few boys down to make a good showing. On March 4, an interschool meet will be held and the senior class expects to take that in a stride. The lettermen back from last year's team hope to do better than last year, running faster and throwing and jumping higher and farther. The returning trackmen are Woodrow Adams, Pat McMullan, Harold Barnes, Lynn Stephens, R. O. Brooks, Weldon Harris, Temple Harris, Wayne Lanham, Billy Noble, and Jack Reid.

DECLAMATIONS TO BE CHOSEN SOON.

Mr. D. D. Shifflett, principal, announced Wednesday morning in the assembly period that declamations will be chosen soon by every student in high school.

Mr. Shifflett stated that a large number of students should take special declamations, for the training they will receive.

About twenty-five are expected to enter the contest.

STUDENTS TO ENTER SPEECH TOURNAMENT AT ABILENE

Several students of Midland high school will enter the invitational Annual Speech Tournament sponsored by Hardin-Simmons University to be held at Abilene, Saturday, March 5, according to Miss Atha Bruner, public speaking teacher.

The following students will enter: Donald Griffen, senior declaimer. Joyce Beauchamp, senior declaimer.

Jack Sappington, junior declaimer.

Val Borum, extemporaneous speaker.

Margaret Watford, extemporaneous speaker.

Cleo Tidwell and Jean Lewis, girls' debate.

Students from Midland have attended this tournament before as visitors, but this is the first time they have entered it.

EXTEMPORANEOUS SPEAKERS.

The subjects to be used as extemporaneous speech topics for the Interscholastic League contest this spring fall under three main divisions: Foreign affairs, national affairs, and state questions.

The speakers to represent Midland high school in extemporaneous speaking are Margaret Watford and Val Borum.

Both Val and Margaret have been reading material on their subjects for the past three months. They are reporting to Miss Bruner every evening after school for coaching on their speeches. Val is a veteran speaker, and won honors for Midland high school last year.

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB HOLDS REGULAR MEETING WED.

About 25 members of the home economics club met in 202 study hall Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 on their regular meeting. The topic for discussion was "Etiquette." Beatrice Coker gave a talk on "General Behavior" which included how a gentleman meets a lady on the street by tipping his hat and if he stops to talk with her, throws away his cigarette, because the smoke may annoy her. He should always walk on the outside of a next to the street so as to protect her from danger.

Myrtle Jean Butler gave a very interesting talk on "Good Behavior of a Gentleman." She emphasized the fact that a man should help a lady down steps or a curb but not hold her arm otherwise.

Margaret Watford gave some of Emily Post's views on "Etiquette at a Dance or Ball." The main point of her talk was that a man should not pilot a lady across the dance floor because people on the sidelines think that she is unable to walk without support.

"Tipping," by Marion Newton will prove very helpful to the girls that attended the meeting. Marion made it quite clear that a person that demands extra services has to pay for them. This type of person should tip the porter or anyone that does him a favor while on a tour at least twenty-five cents.

MIDLAND AND BIG SPRING HAVE PRACTICE DEBATES.

Miss Bruner took her two debate teams to Big Spring Tuesday night for a practice debate with the Big Spring debate teams. Although the decisions were in favor of the Big Spring teams, it was the first debate for the Midland teams this year, and they did very well, considering that fact. The boys' team even wrestled a split decision from the judges.

The debaters are planning a return debate with Big Spring in the very near future, and the girls are entering the invitation meet in Abilene March 5. Keep your eye on the debate club this spring, as they enter the Interscholastic League contest in May.

THIS IS TEXAS WEEK.

Did you know Texas Week is next week?

Did you know the week falls on the exact days it fell on when Texas proclaimed its independence from Mexico on March 2, 1836?

Beginning February 27 patriotic citizens of Texas will raise Texas flags to heights where they may be seen, hear patriotic programs of Texas, and remember the hardships through which these loyal soldiers went at San Antonio.

In 1932 the forty-second legislature of Texas set aside one week as "Texas Week", the week during which March 2 falls.

I'd be willing to bet that not all of you know this:

Texas song: "Texas, Our Texas." Texas tree: Pecan. Texas flower: Bluebonnet. Texas motto: Friendship. Did you?

ONE ACT PLAY CAST ANNOUNCED.

Miss Agatha Bruner, public speaking teachers, has announced the selection of the one-act play "The Crimson Cocoon" by Ian Hay Beith for the contest play.

The following is the cast of characters:

Those students who represented Midland in this practice contest were: Frances Burris, Granada Saxe, Lillian Arnett, Ed Dorsey, and Janelle McMullan.

Four students were entered from Big Spring.

Miss Mary Watters, typing teacher of Midland high school stated that there had been a great deal of improvement in the accuracy and speed of the Midland students since the last practice contest.

WOMEN'S WORRY.

"Mother, I don't feel well today. May I stay home?"

"Why, my dear, you must have a notebook due!"

Yes, notebooks are due. Book reports are due. SIX weeks tests are this week.

No wonder some of our students are absent. Who wants to stay in for notebooks and book reports? But that's what it eventually comes to.

"Be sure to learn the Treaty of Paris," says Mr. Moore. "We shall have nouns, verbs, adjectives, and adverbs on the six weeks test," says Miss Carden. "Vitamins, protentins, and carbohydrates will be included on the test," advises Miss Crawley. "You will not be allowed to make up six weeks tests unless you have a good excuse," protests Mr. Shifflett. "That's right—don't forget" to come to school Tuesday, Wednesday, or Thursday, because it may determine whether or not you will graduate.

THE SNOOW WAS FUN!

It doesn't snow very often here in Midland but when it does, the students of Midland high school certainly know what to do about it.

At least, that was the case last Monday morning, for it had snowed the night before, not just a flake sprinkling of white here and there, but an honest-to-goodness snow, so so it seemed to these Texas students.

And to make things more perfect, we were allowed to play with snowballs during assembly period. The juniors and seniors had the west side of the building, and the freshmen and sophomores the east side.

The snowballs flew thick and fast, right and left, everywhere. And then to climax this grand event, Mr. Taylor, Mr. Myer, Mr. Shifflett, Mr. Hill, and Mr. Moore were rolled in the snow—good and proper.

Which all goes to prove what a simply grand time anyone can have when it snows.

And if the weather man ever sees to it that we have another snow, we hope that we can have as much fun then—as we did last Monday.

MEDDLING MYRIAH.

Can you feature a little gal like Joyce Saunders going with Dwain Wolfe?

Franklin Stickney's column in last week's paper wasn't so hot. Everything was E. B. and John. He doesn't know good gossip when he sees it.

Three sophomore boys, three junior girls, Saturday night—where were they and doing what?

Truman has started going with the Guffey clan again. What next? Here's a flash to all you female heart-breakers: There's a new heart-throb in town. His name is Claude and he lived in Stamford.

John Turner finally attained his greatest desire Monday morning when he was able to run from girls.

John wants to be Clark Gable II. Did you know that Jay and Noble have promised to go to Sunday school? (Every other Sunday.)

We haven't heard anything about Beth Reeves lately, but I'd like to ask her how she enjoyed that informal dance of Eddie Savage's in her formal dress.

Mary Sue surely was "showing off" for someone's benefit Thursday at Odessa. I wonder who, and what he thought.

Jean Lewis and Elbert Leggett are doing right well themselves.

Margie, did you see Goodrich and Catherine Jane?

We never can tell who Freda is going with: Joe Wayne, or Billy; but we could guess who she'd go with if she had her choice.

IT'S THE TRUTH.

"Fleet Foot" Flaherty seems to be in quite a fix. She doesn't know whether to answer it or not. A & M "Oh, my side!"

E. E. carries Franklin around with him just to get some free blowing up (if you get what I mean.)

Jessa Lynn, you just keep on flirting with Charles (you know, that cute little blond over at the Hostess the other day) and maybe you will get a date. (He isn't a bad dancer, so I've heard.)

Kitty Gene, I hope you had a good time Friday night. Gordon Geddes is a heart-breaker. (If you catch). So, beware, Kitty.

David Holster—March 31.

Worry, worry, worry.

A CLEANER AND HEALTHIER MIDLAND.

Midland boasts of being the most beautiful, the most progressive, the most up-to-date town of the West—but is it the cleanest? She is proud of her beautiful homes and yards, but what about the unkept vacant lots next door or across the street? They are like No Man's Land—no man seems to bother about their care. You would be surprised at the variety of things which you can find on a vacant lot; anything from beer bottles to worn out automobile tires. Here sometimes papers find permanent homes in clumps of bear grass. These garbage catchers are an eyesore. Shall we let these lots spoil the appearance of our fair city? A good cleaning will not only improve their appearance but will reduce the fire hazard and improve health conditions. A few property owners have made their lots very attractive by planting oats or winter grass on their open spaces at this time of the year. In the spring, by destroying last year's weeds and their seeds, we can to some extent lessen this year's weed crop.

Isn't it just as easy to throw garbage into the can as it is to put it beside it? Every trash container should have a tight-fitting lid, but if it doesn't, why not burn the rubbish? We must be very careful about raising the fire hazard. Burn the trash in the container. This prevents papers from blowing out. With garbage service twice a week, our alleys should be easy to keep clean. Do not forget to clean your own back yard. Trash accumulates here as well as in vacant lots and alleys.

As a finishing touch to this clean-up campaign, let us add a coat of whitewash to our trees and a coat of paint to the buildings and fences.

As Mayor Ulmer has proclaimed February 12-19 as clean-up week, let us get busy and give Midland a good spring cleaning.

Insurance Firm Shows Record Growth Since Founding

Every individual concerned with the advancement and economic progress of Texas and Texas institutions, will find intense interest in the latest financial statement of

The Great American Life Insurance Company of San Antonio. The figures contained in the report for 1937 not only reflect notable credit on the company's management, but indicate that a basic soundness exists in business conditions throughout its operating territory.

Following a recent visit to the home offices in San Antonio, Roy McKee, district manager here for the Great American pointed out that the company's present assets of $2,400,000.00 represent an increase as of January 1st over 17 per cent as contrasted with the previous year. A gain of 17 per cent is also shown in the volume of insurance in force. McKee said. The present total is now over $28,000,000.00.

The Great American Life Insurance Company was founded in San Antonio in 1923 by its present officers, and during the comparatively

The History of The United States Navy

The change wrought in naval power by 150 years of steady development is well shown by the contrast between the mighty battleship U. S. S. Pennsylvania, pictured above during Pacific maneuvers, and the U. S.

S. Constitution, left, better known as "Old Ironsides." This veteran of the early American navy is still afloat, but a single shot from the Pennsylvania would demolish her long before her officers could even sight the modern ship.

(This is the second of four stories discussing the United States Navy in the light of pending proposals for tremendous armament increases.)

By WILLIS THORNTON
NEA Service Staff Correspondent.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—When the American revolution broke out, the colonists had neither an army nor a navy.

But within a month after Lexington, hastily improvised vessels were capturing British shipping and supplies, and the Continental Congress launched the first naval building program—13 new frigates.

The daring exploits of captains like Jones, Wickes, and Conyngham, who fought British ships in British waters, established an American naval tradition.

And it was command of the sea, won through the French allied fleet, that enabled Washington to bottle up in Yorktown the last of the British armies, and win the war.

By 1785 there was no more navy. The last ship had been sold, and when the undeclared naval war with France and the war on the Tripolitan pirates came along, it was necessary to build from scratch again.

Starting All Over.
Six frigates were authorized in this new program, including the famous Constitution, "Old Ironsides." She cost just over $300,000, as compared to the ships being planned today, which will cost upwards of $60,000,000 each.

The Navy Department itself was not established until 1798, and when the War of 1812 was declared, the United States had 16 serviceable ships of war. The naval victories in individual combat won by this tiny navy in the face of Britain's unmatched armada of a thousand ships—especially the success won on the Great Lakes—helped with satisfactory conditions of peace.

When the Mexican War came, the navy was largely instrumental in taking California and blockading the Mexican gulf ports. It covered the landing of Scott's expeditionary force at Vera Cruz, but met no opposing navy. In 1854 Commodore Perry's visit to Japan opened that country to foreign trade.

The Coming of Steam.
In the meantime, steam had been introduced (U. S. S. Fulton, 1814) and the screw propeller (U. S. Princeton, 1843), but the navy was in deplorable shape at the opening of the Civil War. A $43,000,000 building program was hurriedly launched to impose a blockade on the east coast and open the Mississippi. In 1862 came the conflict between the Monitor and Merrimac—the first between iron-clad ships—and the navies of the world became obsolete in a single day.

The war closed with the Union navy the most powerful in the world, but immediately thereafter it was nearly all junked. Although Americans had invented the iron-clad, for 20 years the United States did not have a single iron-clad ship, and the navy was far below that of any European power in strength.

Not until 1881 was any attempt made to build a navy. And not until 1890 was the first big battleship authorized even under this program.

U. S. Becomes a "Power."
Yet by 1898 a new navy had been built, which won easy victory over the bravely-served but badly-equipped fleets of Spain at Manila Bay and Santiago. Since then the United States has remained one of the "great naval powers."

The navy was kept in such workable shape that less than a month after the declaration of war with Germany in 1917, the first destroyer division steamed into Queenstown to help break the submarine grip that was rapidly starving out the British Isles.

The immediate expansion of Allied naval force made possible the system of transport under convoy, helping further to break the strangling grip of the German U-boats, and create a safe road to carry the new army to France.

Within the same month the first convoys sailed for Europe from Hampton Roads. By August, 1917, about 10,000 ships had been escorted with a loss of only half of one per cent. The first troops were convoyed in June, 1917. In November a division of battleships went to join the British grand fleet in the North Sea.

The tremendous job of seizing and reconditioning 20 German liners and hundreds of private vessels, as well as overseeing the construction of hundreds of "quickie" vessels for the "bridge to France" fell on the shoulders of the Navy. By the middle of 1918 the Navy was carrying and conveying almost 300,000 soldiers a month to France.

SIX German submarines did penetrate to the American coast, inflicting some damage to shipping, but the effort was clearly not worth the results, and naval operations were confined to the European theatre.

The navy put gun crews aboard 384 American merchant vessels, and from her reserve forces manned 120 small "sub-chasers" in the war zone.

American influence was strongly felt in the decision to close the North Sea with mines in 1918. More than 100,000 mines were built, and 56,000 were carried overseas and planted between the Orkney Islands and Norway by the American mine-layers. American 14-inch naval guns carried to France and operated on railroad cars were of great service in the Laon and Sedan sectors.

The Navy in the Air.
The youthful Naval Aviation service was on hand in France early in 1917, and before the armistice had 500 planes, 16,300 men, and 27 operating bases. The units covered most of the coasts of France, England, Ireland, and flew a million miles in protecting shipping.

Bombing raids were also organized on German bases at Ostend, Zeebrugge, Bruges and Pola. The U. S. Marines were among the first American troops engaged, and left a bright record at Chateau Thierry and Belleau Wood.

At the close of the World War, the United States again had a fleet equal to any in the world, and counting ships rapidly being built, was well on the way to undisputed supremacy at sea. This advantageous position was deliberately sacrificed in the interests of disarmament at the Washington conference of 1921-22.

Next: What does the fleet do when it gets to sea? Every type of ship has its job when fleets clash.

Prisons Scored On Easy Labor

FRESNO, Cal. (UP)—Increased physical labor for jail and prison inmates as a corrective measure in California penal institutions was recommended by District Attorney Earl Warren of Alameda county at a peace officers association meeting here.

"California's penal system is a failure as far as the rehabilitation of criminals is concerned," Warren told assembled officers.

"Most of our prisoners spend their time either in solitude or in talk and few are rehabilitated," Warren said. "They come out more anti-social, knowing more about crime than when they went in and are more of a problem to police and law enforcement agencies."

The 6,000 inmates in San Quentin prison do not have enough work to make them physically or mentally tired, he said.

Warren suggested employment of prisoners in road building projects and furniture manufacture for public buildings.

Warren pointed out that organized kidnaping has practically been abolished in the United States and that organized crime of other types has been largely abolished. Gang murders have been greatly reduced by legislation of a helpful nature and a closer working between law enforcement agencies, he added.

District Attorney Dan F. Conway defended the state parole system and said records show that only a few ex-convicts get into difficulties while on parole.

Conway said incorrigible prisoners should be segregated.

Bird Varieties in Valley Decrease

EDINBURG (AP)—"Bird Lore," a national ornithological magazine, reports the lower Rio Grande valley led all other sections of the nation in the number of varieties of birds counted in the annual December bird census. The count made at Harlingen in which Stanley Mulak of Edinburg Junior college assisted, listed 15, six less than in 1936.

At Edinburg, Jordan Rutherford, Lou Piper and Charles Hamilton assisting Mulak, counted 85 varieties, nine more than the previous year. Ninety-three species were counted at Mission. Two species found at Mission and four at Harlingen were not found at Edinburg. The varieties listed numbered 164.

Mulak said valley birds include some of the most colorful in the nation.

Legion Commander Gets Cowboy Boots

BRADY (AP)—Daniel Doherty, national commander of the American legion, who recently found Texas much larger than the map suggested, will take Texas to staid Massachusetts.

He was measured for a pair of Texas cowboy boots upon a visit here recently. It has not been disclosed whether the footwear will be suitable to the "hard" boot country of the plains or the mellow clime of the border, but it is believed Allin Stafford post, which is making the gift, will remember it is mid-winter in New England.

Name of Hereford Line Carried on

SAN ANGELO, Texas. (AP)—A generation is defined "the ordinary period of time at which one rank follows another, or father succeeds by child," but in the cattle business "it all depends," breeders say.

Anxiety 4th, a well-known Hereford breed, was calved in 1880 but its name appears in the fifth generation of the pedigrees of many living Herefords.

In the J. B. Stribling sale at Rotan last year the pedigree of Lamplighter 32nd showed Anxiety 5th in the 10th generation and in the direct line of descent.

Vignette 23d, owned by J. D. Dulaney & Sons of Sweetwater, died a few years ago at the age of 24. She was a daughter of Beau Dandy by Beau Brummell by Don Carlos by Anxiety 4th. The Beau Dandy family was noted for its longevity.

There is no definite answer to the length of a Hereford generation. Breeders will say "it all depends."

New drapery fabrics show Swedish influence in design, color and weave. Stripes and plaids are much used and achieve the suavely tailored effect which blends so well with both modern and provincial furniture. Floral motifs predominate in figured materials; the designs are fresh, graceful, beautifully spaced and clearly defined; the colors are soft, the blues and greens particularly beautiful.

Paying Royalties On Stage Plays Is Handicap to Schools

AUSTIN (P).—Now that comedies and farces are acceptable in Texas Interscholastic League drama competition, high school play directors are wondering how to get good ones without paying royalties and meeting sometimes exacting stage demands.

E. C. Blackshear of South Park high school, Beaumont, thinks the answer lies in old-time plays and even the classics.

For instance, he has adapted a scene from Shakespeare's "Taming of the Shrew," cutting the cast to Katherine and Petruchio, her maid, and a citizen.

A colleague adapted Rostand's "The Romanes" and also pared "The Barber of Seville" to his cast and stage limitations.

This year Blackshear's troupe plans to alter Tchekoff's "The Boor." The classics offer material as fresh as the day it was written, says Blackshear, and besides, you can't plagiarize them; there is no copyright problem, and no royalty. He says Moliere supplies a wealth of material; and the restoration writers; Congreve, Colley, Cibber, Van Brugh and others; Ben Jonson; and Beaumont and Fletcher. Besides, there's more incentive in adapting a classic. "The players always feel important that they are allowed to help Shakespeare and me rewrite a play," he says.

"Sydney Howard long ago justified adaptations, as did Casella, Anderson, Shakespeare himself, and Moliere. Who are we to say those men have not added to the sum of human happiness?"

Always give the original author full credit, however, he advises.

Mosquitoes Cause Encephalomyelitis

WASHINGTON (P).—The bureau of animal husbandry is urging Texas horse owners to fight mosquitoes as a means of checking equine encephalomyelitis—commonly called blind staggers—as result of experiments it has announced indicate the insects spread the disease.

Texas was one of a number of states which reported a big increase in equine encephalomyelitis in 1937. The bureau of animal husbandry said the number of cases there rose from five in 1936 to 9,000 last year.

"The disease is apparently caused by mosquitoes," Dr. H. W. Schoening, bureau pathologist, reported. "The increase is probably due to prevalence of conditions unusually favorable to the insects." Schoening said it had not been definitely determined which varieties of mosquitoes carry the germ but that it was advisable to eliminate all mosquito sources and to protect horses from mosquito bites by spraying and other methods as far as possible.

He said the army veterinary corps found such practice resulted in less encephalomyelitis among cavalry horses than among privately owned horses in the same area not similarly protected.

Participation in Exposition Urged

DALLAS (P).—Gov. James V. Allred spoke at the first official meeting here recently of the Texas commission for the New York World's Fair and San Francisco Golden Gate Exposition, saying "tremendous good" was bound to come out of participation in the two 1939 expositions.

The commission agreed to a proposal to raise $500,000 for Texas participation. Details for raising the fund remain to be worked out, but the group, acting under legislative authority, organized a non-profit corporation to perfect this and other details.

Karl Hoblitzel, vice chairman of the commission, was chosen president of the corporation. He invited suggestions and criticisms from the press of the state "since it is upon the support given by the press Texas' participation must stand or fall," he said.

The commission comprises 45 business and professional men, appointed by Gov. Allred, from all parts of the state. Jesse H. Jones is chairman. In addition to Hoblitzel, corporation officers include Paul Wakefield of Austin, executive secretary; Nathan Adams of Dallas, treasurer; and Fred F. Florence, R. L. Thornton, Van Kennedy and H. J. Litcher Stark, vice presidents.

Jones was named honorary president, and Vice President John N. Garner honorary vice chairman of the corporation's board of directors.

Tex. Liquor Revenues Total Half Million

AUSTIN (P).—With tax stamp sales providing the major portion January liquor revenues totaled $472,457.

Liquor tax stamp sales declined from $311,150 for January a year ago to $278,637, but a comparison of beer stamp sales for the same months showed an increase from $76,495 to $128,380.

The auditing division accounted for $1,479 of the total collections, also checking $228,883 during January. Chief auditor John Kvinta said 43 audits of nine types of accounts were made.

The liquor control board issued 1,464 beer licenses and 92 liquor permits.

Beer licenses included: general distributor, 7; branch distributor, 24; local distributor, 28; on-premises retailer, 665; off-premises retailer, 16; beer-wine retailer, 724. Liquor permits included: package store, 27; agent, 28; industrial, 6; medicinal drug store, 18; common carrier, 5; local cartage, 7; private storage, 1. A summary of matters handled by the attorney general's department showed 183 hearings conducted and 60 permits and licenses cancelled during January. Twenty-five permits were suspended, three for breach of peace, and 44 applications refused. In January, last year, 65 hearings resulted in the cancellation of 55 permits and licenses.
