Big Business Offers Help To President

United Effort to End Recession Is Promised in Note

WASHINGTON, April 27, (AP).—Sixteen big businessmen offered President Roosevelt their help Tuesday in establishing a system of continuing consultation between government and business for prevention of overproduction and periodic depressions.

In a joint statement they said that all should "resolve to encourage the president in every effort he shall make to restore confidence and normal business conditions." Significantly they added, however, that "legislation based upon untried social and economic theories should be avoided."

Noting Roosevelt himself had indicated belief that the "America's continued prosperity requires closer cooperation between business and the government," the statement said the "overproduction to which he referred would be substantially alleviated if the government engages in continuous consultation with business leaders and encourages them to take the initiative to develop and stabilize their respective industries."

Prepared through the initiative of John W. Harnes, "Wall Street man" on the Securities and Exchange commission; Owen D. Young, chairman of the board of General Electric, and Winthrop W. Aldrich, chairman of the Chase National bank, the statement also was signed by such men as Charles A. Cannon of Cannon Mills, Clarence M. Woolley of American Radiator, Robert H. Cabell of Armour and company and Frederick H. Eckner of Metropolitan Life Insurance company.

Harnes took it in person to Roosevelt just before the latter's semi-weekly press conference. Asked about it, the president told reporters he had only had time to read it hurriedly, but that it seemed to be excellent.

In fact, it was promptly recalled that Roosevelt himself urged a system of government-business consultation last winter, in the course of a series of conferences with businessmen on the present depression.

The statement of the businessmen reached the president at a time when he was engrossed with the problem of the business recession; planning a conference with Henry Ford, today, a message to congress on monopoly for Friday and making preparations for putting his new lending-spending effort into operation as quickly as the appropriations are made.

He told reporters he expected to discuss general economic questions with the automobile manufacturer.

The president's $4,500,000,000 lending-spending program was under consideration by the house appropriations committee meanwhile. Secretary Ickes urged the committee to approve the $1,000,000,000 item for public works. Some $400,000,000 of that amount, he said, would take care of 2,174 projects on WPA's present approved list.

"Moral Recession" in Government Is Flayed by Hoover

FRESNO, Calif., April 27 (AP).—Former President Herbert Hoover last night appealed to politically-minded women for a fight against what he termed a "moral recession" in American government.

Loss of morals in self-government paved the way for the rise of European dictatorships, said Mr. Hoover before outlining through questions "immoralities" he charged were endangering self-government.

"They must be expurgated from American life," he told the Federation of Republican Women's Clubs.

An audience of some 2,800 persons gave Hoover an ovation.

"Somebody has to do a clean-up job in this republic," Mr. Hoover declared in saying he was turning to women "as a complaining citizen" because "the men haven't done much of late" and because "it is x x x a commonplace fact that moral instincts of women are upon average higher than men."

"These are grave hours," said Mr. Hoover. "We are in a moral recession in government."

"Beyond this we have for five years listened to a continuous denigration of everything that has gone before. Honest achievement of men has been belittled and attributed to improper motives. Ideals embedded in our patriotism are smeared with contempt. x x x We are told that we are in ruins and we must begin anew. We are told that government must be it for us. People speak less today of the greatness of America, x x x There is doubt of her destiny."

Landon's Father Dies.

KANSAS CITY, April 27 (AP).—John Landon, 81, father of Alf M. Landon, 1936 republican candidate for president, died here today of a heart disease.

Held for Brothers' Deaths

Former inmate of a mental institution, Elizabeth Wagner, 22-year-old Astoria, N. Y., girl, is being held on a charge of homicide in connection with the deaths-by-poisoning of her two brothers, Henry, 21, and Charles, 14. Police say she admitted dropping successive doses of poison in the boys' food. According to police, the Wagner girl said Henry had often beaten her, knocking out a tooth and loosening several others on one occasion. She was reported, however, to have been fond of the younger boy, and to be unable to explain why she poisoned him, too.

Magnolia McKee Shows Gas and Drilling Mud When Tested

By FRANK GARDNER.

After showing 65,000 cubic feet of gas and approximately 30 feet of drilling mud on 45-minute drillstem test from 5,711-46 feet, Magnolia Petroleum Company and Tex-Mex Petroleum Corporation No. 1-A J. H. McKee today was reaming core-hole to bottom with 6 3/4-inch rock bit. Another core will be taken this evening.

Drillstem test was made after the well had cored from 5,745-46, recovering about six inches of saturated, porous, Simpson sand. As was the case in coring from 5,744-45, core-head beveled and became dull before much progress had been made. The well has had about 18 feet of saturated sand in cores between 5,715 and present depth. First saturation came in core between 5,715 and 5,722, of which only one foot was recovered. More saturated section was found at 5,735, and the well was still in this type of formation at 5,746, with saturation and porosity increasing. Depths given above are corrected measurements; steel line corrected 5,732 to 5,744.

No. 1-A McKee is in the Imperial area of northern Pecos county, section 24, block 9, H. & G. N. survey. It attracted widespread interest several months ago when it topped the Simpson, middle Ordovician, high structurally at 4,775 feet, and excitement mounted to fever pitch later when it cored saturated sand from 5,271-80 and blew out, making several flows of high gravity oil. Testing of the showing was disappointing, and the well was ordered deepened. No change was encountered until the saturated cores at 5,715 to present depth were pulled.

Floyd C. Dodson, San Angelo oilman, announced here this morning that he is preparing to pull 5 3/4-inch pipe from his No. 1-A Texas-American Syndicate, Brewster county Ordovician test. Drilling by junk was unsuccessful, depth of 7,740 being reached in sidetracking hole. Total depth of the test is below 7,777 in Simpson sand. It has shown some saturation in bottom samples. Dodson said that he will move off the standard tool rig but may later put on a rotary. Shows Free Oil.

Slight showing of free oil was found from 3,215-25 by Texas No. 1 Wilkinson, southwestern Howard county wildcat, in section 32, block 34, township 1 north, T. & P. survey. Last night, it was drilling ahead, unchanged, at 3,283 in line. In Andrews, H. C. Wheeler No. 1 F. E. Gardner was balling hole, getting about one-third of a barrel of oil hourly, with a trace of water. The well is two and a half miles west of the Means pool.

H. S. Forgeron No. 1 Lockhart & Brown, five miles west of the Fuhrman pool in Andrews, topped brown line at 3,995, according to driller's pick, and this morning was drilling at 4,015 in anhydrite and lime. Farther north, Seaboard No. 1 Thornberry was shut down for repairs at 4,325 in line. It had slight oil show from 4,425-34.

Ray Alband No. 1 Dewey Hogz, southeast Dawson wildcat being deepened from 3,865, is shut down for repairs at 3,847 in line. Five and one-half inch pipe was mudded at 3,865.

Staining of oil in samples from 4,730-41, present total depth, was encountered by Landreth No. 1, P. W. Dalmont, southern Gaines test a mile and a half northwest of the company's discovery well in the Kirk area. Rotary is being dismantled today. Rotary is being dismantled today. Plainview Man Named WTCC Head

Other Officers Elected; Abilene Gets 1938 Meet

WICHITA FALLS, April 27 (AP).—H. S. Hilburn, Plainview newspaper publisher, today was elected President of the West Texas chamber of commerce.

During the last year, Hilburn had been first vice-president and chairman of the important committee which outlines the work program of the organization.

He succeeds Milburn McCarty, Eastland attorney, E. K. Fawcett, Del Rio, was advanced from second vice president to first vice president and J. S. Bridwell, Wichita Falls, was elected second vice president.

Malcom Meek, Abilene, was elected general manager, and D. A. Bauden, Abilene, was re-elected secretary treasurer.

Directors of the West Texas chamber of commerce Tuesday chose Abilene as the site for the next annual convention of the organization after Big Spring and Sweetwater withdrew their bids.

Other high spots of this year's most active convention day were an address by Mayor F. H. Laguardia of New York, a parade miles long, the crowning of Miss West Texas, an oil conference at which new taxes were opposed, a band contest and a financial report to directors.

An address by Senator Connally was a feature of today's program. Weatherford won first place in the registration contest.

Big Bend Park Fund Subject of Address At Lions Luncheon

Former Senator Benjamin F. Berkeley of Alpine addressed the Lions club here today on progress of the Big Bend National park fund. He urged the formation here, as in other counties, of a county organization, with a definite quota, sponsored by the chamber of commerce and aided by all other civic organizations and individuals.

The federal government has passed the necessary legislation to spend millions of dollars for improvement and maintenance of the park as soon as Texas acquires title to the land, he said. It will be the largest national park and the only one with year-round climate.

Brewster county has reached its quota and many other counties of Texas are at work on the project he said, but the bulk of the campaign needs to be completed during the spring and summer of this year. Senator Berkeley offered his services to local organizations to aid in perfecting an organization.

Guy W. Breneman, Boy Scout chief here, thanked the Lions for their support in raising the county's quota for the year's work.

Betty Jo Joplin, youthful musician, played a violin solo, with Miss Lydie G. Watson playing the piano accompaniment.

Thirty Lions were present, with the following visitors: Harry Payne of Dallas, Alfred Bates of Sweetwater, Breneman, A. Richman, and C. E. Pritchard. The luncheon was served by the Valley View home demonstration club.

Program committee for May was named by President Ed M. Whitaker, including Frank Stubbeman, Bob Williams and O. L. Wood.

British Boycott of Mexico Oil Favored By the Government

LONDON, April 27 (AP).—The British government advocated today what would be, in effect, a British boycott of oil taken from wells expropriated by Mexico from British companies until the question of those properties is settled.

Richard Butler, under secretary of foreign affairs, disclosed this stand in replying to a question in the house of commons.

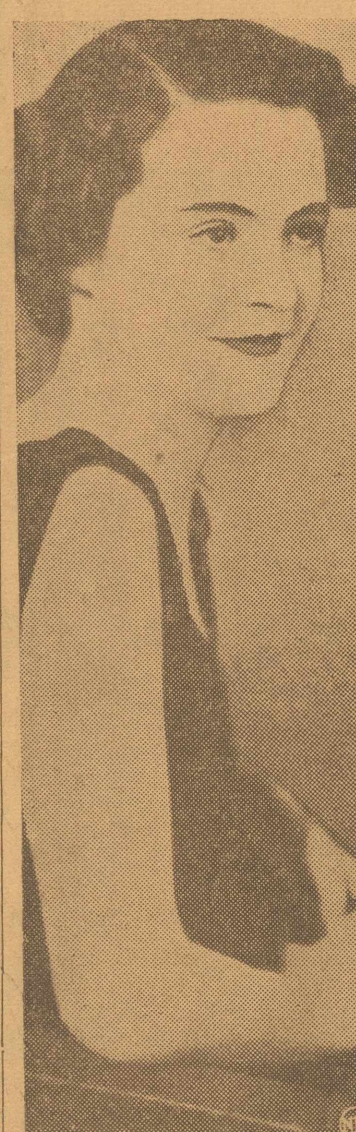

Britain has sent Mexico two notes regarding the matter.

Showers Fall in Scattered Areas

Showers amounting to as much as a quarter of an inch fell in various sections near Midland late Tuesday, it was reported today. One rain swept across a section of country northwest of Midland, continuing eastward across ranches north of here. Another fell to the southeast, from a distance of thirty miles out almost to the city limits.

High winds, lightning and thunder, with a light sprinkle in the city, occurred just before midnight, when showers were falling in other areas and the storm swept the territory near Tahoka.

High Official of Air Service Makes Night Stop Here

General H. H. Arnold, assistant chief of the army air service, spent Tuesday night at Hotel Scharbauer, en route from a five day visit to the west coast to his offices in Washington.

The veteran official was flying his own ship, a special A-17-A attack plane, accompanied only by his mechanic. He landed here at 6 p. m. Tuesday, checked out of his hotel at 6:57 a. m. today and took off from Sloan field at 7:15 for Hensley field, Dallas.

While on the west coast, he made inspections of air service and defense units and made a radio address from a San Francisco station.

Allotments for Cotton Acreage Sent to Farmers

Cotton allotments for Midland county producers have been received from the state committee and are being sent to each grower by letter from the county agricultural agent's office today, it was announced today.

Midland county was given a cotton allotment of 35.6 per cent of the cultivated acreage, an increase of 3,600 acres over that allowed in previous programs, after a personal visit of the county committee members, A. M. Stanley, M. W. Whitmore and C. H. O'Neal, with County Agent S. A. Debnam, to the state committee at College Station recently.

Diverted acres may be planted to cane, and the cane may be harvested or grazed, Agent Debnam said, making possible the building of reserve feed supplies toward drought years. This is a marked improvement over the last year's program, in the opinion of Debnam.

The quota of 35.6 per cent of the cultivated acreage applies to the individual farm, as well as to the county, he said. A penalty of two cents per pound will apply on all cotton produced on acreage in excess of that allotted.

However, those complying with the terms of the program will receive benefit payments of 2.4 cents per pound, on the average production for the previous five years, and subsidy payments of three cents per pound on 65 per cent of last year's base acreage. The total for Midland county will amount to approximately $100,000.

In this year's program, it has been indicated that farmers and ranchmen will take advantage of soil building practices, including terracing, contouring and pasture ridging, to conserve moisture, all of which provide for additional benefit payments. Ranchmen especially are beginning to take more interest in terms of the AAA program, Debnam reported.

Simple Ceremony Unites Bachelor Ruler and Bride

TIRANA, Albania, April 27 (AP).—In a civil ceremony marked with mountain simplicity, Countess Geraldine Apponyi, whose mother was an American, became the first Queen of Albania today when she was accepted in marriage by King Ahmed Zog.

A salvo of one hundred guns and shouts of Mohammedan mezzins praying from minarets signaled the marriage.

The ceremony held an atmosphere half oriental, half occidental.

The bride's mother, Mme. Gladys Stewart Girault, was formerly of New York.

QUEEN TO INHERIT 250 FEUDS OF KING.

LONDON, April 27. — King Zog of Albania—who because of his many corkscrew political gyrations might in plain English be called King Zig Zag—will be more nervous than the ordinary bridegroom when, today at Tirana, he marries the young Countess Apponyi of a famous Hungarian noble family.

The answer is—feuds.

The Kentucky mountains, classic American home of family feuds, are a peaceful Sunday school sort of place compared to little Albania. Albanians carry on feuds for centuries. At one time it was estimated Zog was family heir to about 250 feuds. The number has increased since then, because pro-Yugoslavs think he betrayed their cause and pro-Italians are not so sure of his allegiance to them. Then the Moslems, who form the big majority of Albania's million people, are angry because he is going to marry a Christian girl.

Next to feuds, Zog's plague has been rumors. In the past ten years, European newspapers have reported him engaged to everybody from minor princesses to dancing girls. They have also had him assassinated several times. Only one story was authentic.

In February, 1931, as Zog was leaving the opera in Vienna a half dozen shots were fired at him. He escaped unscathed, but his aide-de-camp was killed.

Zog, who is now 43 and a handsome, tall chap with brown hair and blue eyes, was born a member of the chiefest family in northern Albania's million people, are angry but and, besides his native tongue, speaks Turkish and German.

During the World War he fought in the Austrian army. When after the war Albania proclaimed its independence, he became Minister of the Interior in 1920, Minister of War in 1921 and Prime Minister in December, 1922, holding the post until February, 1924, when a revolution led by Bishop Fan Noli, drove him out.

The Bishop became Premier. Zog took refuge in Belgrade. He won Yugoslav sympathies. At that time Yugoslavia and Italy were at daggers drawn. Both countries were seeking the paramount position in Albania because of its splendid Adriatic seaports. Moreover, the Italians wanted the primacy because if they had it, Albania would be the jumping off place for Italian troops in case of a conflict with Yugoslavia. Later in 1924, assisted by the Yugoslavs, Zog came back to Albania and drove out Bishop Noli. Early in 1925 he made himself President of the Albanian republic. To the dismay of the Yugoslavs, he soon became a puppet of Mussolini. In 1926 he signed with the Italians the Pact of Tirana. In 1928 he signed a defensive military

Three Dead, At Least 20 Are Injured

Two Communities Struck Yesterday By Freak Cyclone

TAHOKA, April 27 (AP).—Lynn county today surveyed damage caused by a twister striking two of its communities, killing two persons and injuring a score.

George Walters, 40, Austin, visiting in the Draw community, and a cousin, John Walters, 15, were killed when the storm bowled over their automobile. Mrs. V. C. Caswell, 25, was killed when her residence was demolished.

Fourteen were injured when the twister dipped into the O. K. community, 14 miles north of Lamesa. The storm struck late yesterday.

Most seriously injured was one-year-old Irene McKay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis McKay. She suffered a skull fracture when the McKay home, one and a half miles north of here, was destroyed. All members of the family were injured, their bodies lacerated by flying debris.

A. R. Hensley said the storm first struck southwest of O'Donnell, but missed that community, and then wrought havoc in widely separated farms around this village of about 40 persons. At least one farm woman in the community was seriously injured.

At the Caswell home, a mile and a half west of Draw, Caswell was seriously injured and his wife killed. A nearby house, unoccupied at the time, was wrecked.

Some rain and a little hail accompanied the disturbance. Five persons were taken to Lubbock hospitals and nurses, doctors and ambulances went to the scene.

Condition of Cole, Hollon Serious; Others Improved

J. C. Hudman, injured with three other Midland men in an automobile accident near Fort Worth Sunday morning, arrived here on the 8:43 a. m. train today and was taken to his home. Mr. Hudman accompanied him. His condition was said to be improved but he is still suffering considerably from shock, two broken ribs and body bruises.

R. V. Hyatt, somewhat improved, was still unable to be brought home but hospital attendants thought he might leave tonight or Thursday night if no complications set in. He is suffering from a gash on the head, severe body bruises and a blow on the back.

The condition of S. T. Cole, 72, who has a gash on his head, a broken left wrist, dislocated left shoulder and other injuries, was not favorable, reports here said.

Tom Hollon, 62, who was placed under an oxygen tent yesterday morning after contracting pneumonia from a crushed chest, was given little hope of recovery, it was reported. He also had a fractured pelvis and broken ribs.

Mrs. Hyatt, Mrs. Hollon, Mrs. Cole, Mr. and Mrs. Pearl Blair were still at Fort Worth with the injured men.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

Editor's Note: The opinions expressed in this article are those of Mr. Dutcher, NEA-Reporter-Telegram Washington correspondent, and are not to be construed as expressing the editorial policy of The Reporter-Telegram.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—President Roosevelt tried to forestall the Democratic row in Pennsylvania by getting party leaders to agree on his friend William C. Bullitt, ambassador to France, for Governor. And each new outburst of scandal in the historic Pennsylvania primary fight indicates what a bright idea that was—or would have been, if it could have been made to stick.

But Matt McCloskey, Philadelphia political boss and contractor, broke up the play by insisting that the state machine endorse Charles Alvin Jones of Pittsburgh. At least that's the story told by Senator Joe Guffey, which no one seems to deny.

Guffey's wishes overcame the agreement on Bullitt—at least as far as Earle and State Chairman Dave Lawrence were concerned—is especially interesting now that Earle, who bosses the PWA program in Pennsylvania, is revealed to have borrowed $30,000 from McCloskey, who has received millions of dollars in building contracts.

Guffey's story also is interesting because it indicates that Roosevelt, in seeking to help compromise the situation, did not support Kennedy

For what it may be worth, the following story is percolating since a recent visit of a group of labor leaders at the White House. "Mr. President," said the delegation spokesman, "you are our candidate for 1940. We want you for a third term."

despite open endorsement of Kennedy by John L. Lewis, and did not on the other hand, support Jones, as has been rumored. Guffey says he went to the White House with Earle, Lawrence and Publisher J. David Stern of the Philadelphia Record, that the President urged Guffey to stay in the Senate instead of running for governor, and that all four came away agreeing to recommend Bullitt for the state committee's endorsement.

ANOTHER curious behind-the-scenes angle is found in Guffey's assertion that McCloskey's original candidate was State Supreme Court Justice John W. Kephart, a Republican. McCloskey used to be a Republican himself. And there's a growing administration fear in Washington that by blocking Bullitt and precipitating the current vendetta, McCloskey has almost assured election next November of Gifford Pinchot, who seems the leading Republican gubernatorial contender, and of Republican Senator James J. Davis.

There's also the possibility that Guffey gives McCloskey too much credit. For John Lewis, regardless of Roosevelt's wishes, might well have insisted on running his man Kennedy against Bullitt in the primaries.

Florida Test. THE first test of the administration's House - defeated reorganization bill as a campaign issue will come in Florida's Democratic senatorial primary on May 3. Congressman J. Mark Wilcox, who seeks the seat of Senator Claude Pepper, voted with anti-administration forces to recommend the reorganization bill. He voted similarly against the wage-hour bill last December.

Pepper was in Florida when the reorganization measure passed the Senate, but has been endorsed by Jimmy Roosevelt and runs as a New Dealer. There's a third candidate former Gov. Dave Sholtz, and politicians generally expect that a runoff primary between the two top vote-getters will be necessary.

STORIES IN STAMPS

FIRST Portuguese discoverers, then British governors sought the shining ore along torrid Africa's southwestern coast. And they found it, so the narrow strip of land became the Gold Coast, officially, literally. Moreover, the British colony exports manganese ore and bauxite and a million carats of diamonds in a year. Rubber is likewise an important product. But none of these is the chief concern currently. The Gold Coast's first product these days is cocoa and the natives are burning it by the ton.

Forests blanket three-fourths of the Gold Coast but in the clearings are vast plantations of oil palm and cacao trees. The latter make the colony the world's No. 1 producer of the cacao bean. So far has the production gone, in fact, that Gold Coast beans account for 40 per cent of the world's chocolate crop. Hence the surplus. Hence low prices. And as a protest against these low prices, Gold Coast farmers have been destroying this major product. Almost as fast as they burn the cocoa, however, tropical heat, heavy tropical rains start new growths. Ceded to Great Britain in 1871, the colony embraces 93,000 square miles, issues its own stamps, one of which is shown here, a 1928 value. (Copyright, 1938, NEA Service, Inc.)

Drive to Pay for Confiscated Oil Unites Mexico as Never Before

Peons and Wealthy Alike Toss Their Trinkets and Pesos into Common Fund

By WILLIS THORNTON NEA Service Staff Correspondent. MEXICO, D. F.—Nothing since the shout of Hidalgo which launched Mexico's first revolt against Spain more than 100 years ago has stirred and united Mexico like the oil crisis.

The expropriation of the American and British oil properties, and the serious assumption of the obligation to pay for them, implies that Mexico must make a strenuous effort to stand on her own financial and economic legs, and the response to the appeal has been amazing even to government officials. Touching evidence of the enthusiasm of this support by even humble people was revealed at the Bank of Mexico with the opening of the first of 20 boxes in which long lines of women and white-cotton or denim-clad workmen had been depositing their contributions toward a fund to pay off the oil debt.

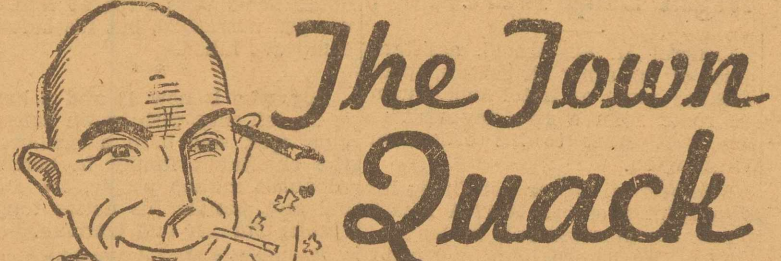

President's Wife Leads. The women's campaign was actively sponsored by Senora Amalia S. de Cardenas, wife of the president. In the Palace of Fine Arts, magnificent downtown building which also serves as an opera house, wooden boxes were placed. In these passersby could leave their contributions to what has become a national cause.

After several days, the filled boxes were carried to the Bank of Mexico, and unsealed. Three women high in government circles unpacked the boxes, assorted the contents, and prepared them for later sale or deposit to the credit of the fund.

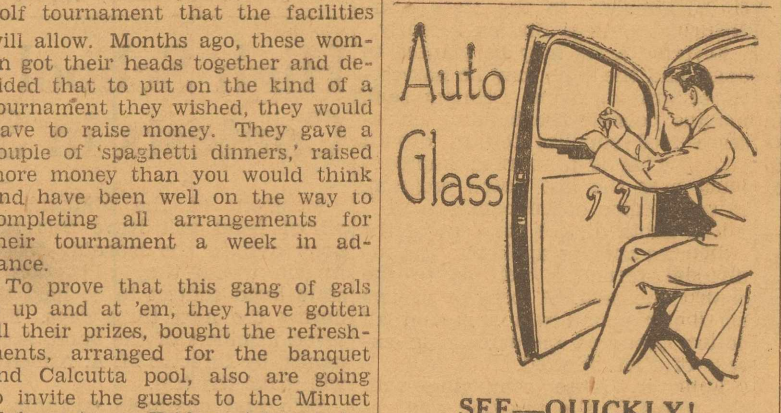

Senora Amalia S. de Cardenas, in light dress, wife of Mexico's president, is pictured above with other women leaders she contributed part of the family silver toward the $25,000,000 needed for the first payment on the expropriation debt.

The first of the 20 boxes to be dumped out on a table top revealed the spirit of sacrifice behind the contributions. Bracelets, earrings, decorations from former wars, souvenir spoons, rings, watches, stickpins and a pair of gold-rimmed glasses, tumbled out of the rough wooden box in a welter of small coins, many evidently out of and from the rounds of practice, some hot golf will be shot. It will be well worth the trouble of watching and those who have never kibitzed a women's golf tournament have really something in store for them. The gals get serious when they come down the stretch. From Roy, the porter, to Bob Hamilton, the president of the Midland Country Club, everybody has gotten orders as to what will be expected of them. One oil company may have to call the club for scout dope, and another will likely have to geologize off the nineteenth green, but the tournament will go on, whether Midland business does or not. Every office may have to use the hunt and peck typewriting system and if you wish a file, you will have to be your own filing clerk, but the gals will be golfing this week-end. Husbands will line the lunch counters and keep the kids, this is the week when Mama is out a-golfing.

Boxes placed throughout Mexico received the contributions of the people toward the fund now being raised to pay for the expropriation of foreign oil properties. The contents of the boxes—new coins, old coins out of hoarding and all kinds of personal trinkets—revealed the sacrifice rich and poor alike are making to pay Mexico's bill.

A big sugar company subscribes in advance to 1,000,000 pesos of bonds, the state of Nuevo Leon wires for 4,000,000. Vera Cruz state employs ask for a million. The families of the 42nd battalion in Yucatan send $1; Boys of a school at Taxco send $8; collective farmers in Sonora send a little more than $5; an association of ranchers in San Luis Potosi sends $86. Leagues, families, individuals, labor unions, schools, the Catholic church as represented by Archbishop Garibi y Rivera of Guadalajara, are all helping to raise the fund.

Just how much eventually will be needed in payment is not yet known. Even if the entire 100,000,000 pesos ($25,000,000) is raised in three years as proposed, that amount would be little more than a down payment. Money derived from the sale of the oil itself must eventually be the backbone of any payment when, in the future, legal appeals are exhausted and an amount set.

But in the meantime the patriotic fervor sweeps the country. An organization of ranchers in Sonora, whose lands have been expropriated as part of the agricultural program, is actually offering to turn back to the government the bonds received in payment, and is urging other landowners to do likewise as their contribution toward solving the agricultural problem. "Combat Pessimism!"

HOW long this nationalistic and patriotic fervor will last, and how much it will contribute to a lastingly united Mexico, no one can tell. But it is seen on every hand today. Along the principal streets posters flame: "The Pessimists in the Oil Case are unconscious Traitors to their country! Combat Pessimism!"

For the present, at least, this spirit is triumphant over the long-standing, and well-justified skepticism that Mexicans feel toward government. Typical of the spirit is one old man who came to the Fine Arts Palace to contribute his mite. A reporter for the government newspaper, thinking to get from the old man a statement praising the Cardenas regime, queried him. "This was the grumbling reply: 'Oh! This Cardenas, I suppose he is a bandit just like all the other. But this—is this for Mexico. Here is my peso!'"

"My favorite pastimes are skating and reading. I am fond of fudge and malts, and like to bake cookies," she said of her hobbies.

Miss Bentley corresponds with former classmates, and friends, using either the Braille writing machine, or her typewriter, which she uses expertly. She prepares many lessons on the typewriter, in addition to tests and quizzes taken orally.

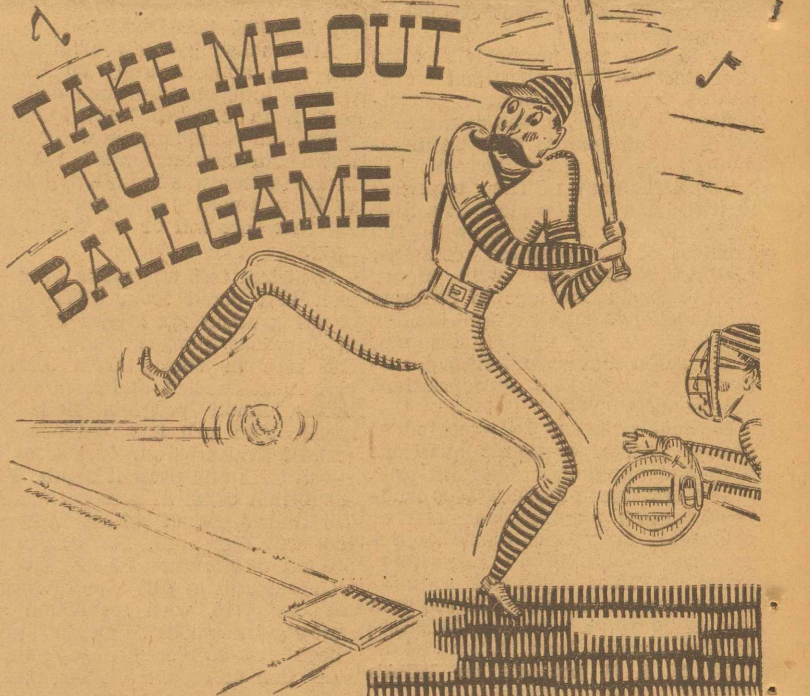

Many of Miss Bentley's books are in record form and each record requires about 30 minutes to tell its story. She "reads" about a book a week this way. She also keeps up with the news through Braille publications, such as the Readers' Digest, and Weekly News.

A graduate from the Texas school for the blind at Austin in 1934, Miss Bentley was salutatorian of her class.

"When a student goes through a university and makes nearly all A grades without the aid of sight, she has achieved a goal that is remotely removed to the average persons with the aid of this sense. Agnes Bentley has done this, and because of her superb record in Hardin-Simmons she is more than entitled to the silk bandana," said the H-SU Brand, campus newspaper, in naming her recently as the week's wearer of the honorary H-SU bandana.

Child Movie Stars are Growing Up

By PAUL HARRISON

NEA Service Staff Correspondent. HOLLYWOOD.—Before Jane Withers was born, her mother bought a supply of clothes for a baby girl, chose a career for her, and selected a name that would look well on the theatre marquees.

Being as optimistic as all that, Mrs. Walter Withers naturally assumed that her daughter would be a star. So now she is pleased, if not greatly surprised, that Jane ranks sixth of the 10 leading box office attractions of the movies, topping Astaire and Rogers, Sonja Henie, Gary Cooper, and Myrna Loy.

The above two paragraphs, unsupported by details, would be very unfair to all the Witherses. The statements alone, might call up visions of a single-minded, drivingly ambitious mother and a supercilious, typically "Hollywood" brat. Any such ideas would be all wrong.

The fact is that Ruth Withers has seen her dreams materialize without doing much of anything about them. She taught Jane to dance a little and sing a little, and then took her to a studio. After that, things happened by themselves.

The mother's role now is one of good-natured restraint instead of aggressive promotion. Her job is to keep her daughter natural.

Jane is earning $1500 a week, most of which, plus the returns from a recent personal appearance tour ($5000 a week), is going into trust funds and investments made in her name.

Faint-Size Trouper

Among the people who make pictures and act in them, Jane is the best-liked of all young players. And that's saying a good deal in a town that has a great many nice kids.

She never spoils a scene without trying valiantly to do it her way through it. This is often possible because she does not try to learn her lines verbatim before rehearsal, but merely gets the sense out of them.

She's an unselfish trouper. I watched her play a scene with a colored woman who had a long, difficult speech and was faltering in it. Miss Withers voluntarily turned her back to the camera, thus sacrificing a closeup, and silently mouthed the woman's lines to cue her from one sentence to another.

And Jane is conscientious. "Oh! the set she may be full of pranks in an agreeable precocity. But not once, during five years in Hollywood, has she ever held up production a minute with temperance or tardiness, or even illness. Now you know why movie-makers like her.

One of the Busiest

Mrs. Withers almost always is on the sound stage, but she is time that is ordinarily frittered away.

She lists 70 minutes a week (10 minutes daily) for caring for face and throat; five minutes daily or 35 minutes a week for brushing hair; 90 minutes a week for bathing; and other similarly useful and necessary beauty habits, all reasonable in the amount of time required. The grand total for the week, as estimated, is eight hours and 10 min-

Smart Little Girls

Charming little party dresses such as these are featured in smart shops. Of lovely fabrics and cut on exquisite lines, they are new-worthy because of perfect tailoring rather than fussy details. The little girl who stands up in the pony cart wears a washable green silk crepe afternoon frock with back and front pleats from yoke to hemline. The child in the center wears a bolero dress of green silk paper taffeta printed with tiny rosebuds and leaves. The skirt is pleated all around. The white organdy blouse has a tucked bosom and a frilled collar. The bolero has puff sleeves. The other silk print, right, comes in a variety of soft pastels. It's finished with white collar and cuffs, velvet belt and buttons to match one color in the print.

does not watch the shooting and she never enters a suggestion or a protest. So she has plenty of time for talking:

"Jane was 12 on the twelfth of April. The studio is finding stories for her that represent her exact age. After this one, 'Hello, Hello,' she'll do 'The Texas Kid,' then 'Salome Jane,' and probably one called 'Meet the Girls.'"

"She is under contract for four pictures a year, and has six weeks for personal appearances. The tour this spring went to Chicago, Cincinnati, Cleveland and Detroit. Jane loved it, and not for the $3000 a week either. She's as thrilled as the fans are, and never would let us take her out a side door to dodge a crowd."

The Future

Miss Withers grew an inch and a half last year, and now is 59 inches tall. She weighs 94 pounds, and thus is plumper, or at least solidier, than any other star. Her parents haven't required or even permitted her to diet, though.

"She doesn't expect to be a romantic leading lady, anyway," Mrs. Withers continued. "Jane doesn't seem to have a bit of personal vanity; never has used a trace of makeup on or off screen. She wants to be something like Patsy Kelly or Martha Raye."

"Eventually, though, she'd like to write. Jane already has written a fairy-tale picture and would like to cast Don Ameche in it."

"Jane most likes to play with older children, partly because she is so good at sports."

"We let her have a lot of things, but she doesn't abuse her privileges. Her allowance is $5 a week, but it goes for things for other people."

"She has five dogs, four cats, two horses, ducks, chickens, pheasants, rabbits, a parrot, and a canary on our four-acre place. She also has two motorbikes, and a boat at Lake Arrowhead."

"We always have made a point of discussing money matters before her."

All Stores to Close for Game Here Friday

Opening Day Ticket Sales Reported to Be Going Over Rapidly

With practically every store in town due to be closed, and the sale of tickets to the opening day game rapidly gaining momentum, everything appeared today to indicate the opening of the baseball season here Friday would attract a record number of persons.

Most of the merchants were contacted yesterday afternoon and agreed almost unanimously to close their stores in order for employees to see the opening day game from 2 to 4 p. m. All stores will be reopened immediately after the game ends.

Ladies of the Episcopal Auxiliary, in charge of the sale of tickets, started their drive in earnest today and reported at noon the tickets were going rapidly. They expressed belief they could sell the entire 2,000 placed in their hands before Friday noon.

The opening day game here will find the Midland Cardinals pitted against the Big Spring Barons. They will also play here Saturday and Sunday.

The Cardinals and Barons meet today and tomorrow in Big Spring for the first game in the West Texas-New Mexico League this year for either club. Other opening day games today find Wink in Hobbs and Lubbock in Clovis.

The opening day crowd in Big Spring this afternoon was expected to be swelled considerably by a number of fans from Midland. Several indicated they would make the trip to see this year's edition of the Cardinals make their first start in league competition. The game was scheduled to start at 2:30 this afternoon.

Manager Withers was due to start Hank Froshauer, middle-weight righthander, on the mound this afternoon, and Oscar Bates, a veteran of last year's campaign, behind the bat. The infield was to be Snytar at first base, Dosdoorian at second base, Zemez at shortstop, Larrieu at third base. In the outfield, Ringer in right, Brown in center and Morris in left completed the line-up.

SIDE GLANCES

"I hope he recovers soon, Doctor. I'm up half the night—I found three gray hairs in my head, and look at the circles under my eyes."

Physical Standard Is Developed by Ex Student of Texas U.

AUSTIN—Word of an outstanding achievement on the part of a former University of Texas student and faculty member has been received here. Dr. James L. Thomas, formerly of Austin and now connected with the United States bureau of standards, has developed a new physical standard, a one-ohm resistor, which is considered by authorities to possess unique and remarkable accuracy and which it is believed may in time replace the present international standard.

It is explained by physicists that electricity is governed by three factors, current, voltage and resistance, for each of which an international standard has been set up. In each case, it has been necessary to reduce the actual standard to a working basis, and to develop instruments which would maintain this working standard in measuring other such factors. These working standards are used in all laboratories and permit accurate exchange of experimental data with other laboratories.

In the instance of the resistance standard, it has been desirable to develop an instrument which would preserve its accuracy despite change in temperature and despite aging. The Thomas standard resistor not only remains accurate regardless of temperature changes and maintains its maximum variance from its initial value is only five parts in ten million, whereas the best resistors previously available have fluctuated several times this amount, bureau of standards records show.

Dr. Thomas obtained the bachelor of arts and master of arts degrees from the physics department at the University of Texas in 1917 and 1923, respectively, teaching in that department for several years. He then joined the staff of the United States bureau of standards, obtaining leave for a while to obtain the doctor of philosophy degree from the university in 1932, then resuming his duties there. His wife is the former Miss Louise Megee, also a university graduate.

Reports to the bureau from chambers of commerce in 36 Texas cities show total permits during the month of $7,723,127, an increase of 35.5 per cent over February and 12 per cent over March last year. During the first quarter permits in these cities totaled $17,531,711, an increase of 2.9 per cent over the first three months of 1937.

Cities in which building permits during both March and the first quarter exceeded those of the comparable periods were: Abilene, Amarillo, Beaumont, Big Spring, Brownwood, Cleburne, Del Rio, Galveston, Houston, Lubbock, and Palestine.

Working Oil Field Laboratory to Head Line Power Shows

AUSTIN—Opening of a working oil field laboratory for public inspection will headline the twenty-ninth annual engineering and power show at the University of Texas Friday, May 6, it has been announced by W. R. Woolrich, dean of the college of engineering. This display will feature mechanized pumping units of various historic types, in some cases the actual machinery, used on famous oil wells in fields of Texas and other states. A 300-foot dry hole, to which pressure of varying degrees can be applied to simulate bottom conditions of any depth well, will be demonstrated.

The department of electrical engineering will display illumination and electronics, demonstrating the making of various types of vacuum tubes, remote control units, and an electric eye count of the visitors who attend this exhibit.

Along with the usual displays of student craft, the department of architecture will show students actually at work putting the finishing touches on an eight-hour problem, assigned as part of their class routine.

Shops, laboratories and foundry of the mechanical engineering shops will be going full blast, with students pouring, moulding and working the machines. In the drawing laboratories will be a display to show methods and an exhibit of the models made for use in the teaching of descriptive geometry. These models are unique in this field and represent a step forward in the teaching of this subject, it was stated.

Chemical engineering students will present displays and demonstrations, both legitimate and fantastic, of phenomena encountered in this field, while the civil engineering department will feature models of highway construction and maintenance.

sharply below those of the corresponding month last year, the University of Texas bureau of business research has reported. Poultry shipments totaled 59 cars, compared with 79 in March last year, a decline of 25 per cent; while egg shipments dropped from 94 cars last year to 47 during March of the current year, a decline of 50 per cent.

Thirteen cars of eggs were received in Texas from out-of-state points—12 cars from Kansas and one car from Missouri.

Washtub Drudgery

The greatest tyrant of the household is the washtub, symbol of a day of drudgery long since passed.

The washtub and his reign was abolished by the modern laundry, where the family washing is done quickly, thoroughly and inexpensively.

There is no economy in doing the washing at home.

rural citizens, J. C. Kellam, State Youth Director, told the Texas Conference of Social Welfare here.

More than half the institutions participating in the NYA Student Aid program, under which 14,000 boys and girls are now earning part of their expenses while attending school, are situated in communities of less than 2,500 population, Mr. Kellam said. He asserted that disparity between farm and industrial incomes as shown on student applications emphasizes the need of rural youths for assistance in order to continue their education.

Mr. Kellam said that Work Projects have been developed over the state for rural out-of-school youths, and that on 46 rural conservation survey projects 514 youths had been assigned to assist county agents in running terrace lines and contour surveys. In addition NYA youths have provided clerical assistance in offices of nearly 100 county agents.

"Our records indicate that 2,326 rural youths were assigned to NYA Work Projects in March 1938," Mr. Kellam said. "More than 1,000 of these boys and girls had been referred to the NYA by the Farm Security Administration."

Among construction projects on which rural youths are helping in rural centers, Mr. Kellam cited a 4-H club building at Eastland, a community center at Clarksville, an addition to a school building at Carthage, and a school dormitory at Center Point. He also said that three resident training projects for rural youth are now being operated at Texas Technological College, Luling Foundation Farm, and at Center Point, and that a fourth will be begun at Buchanan Dam on May 2. All youths assigned to these projects are earning their expenses and $8 a month by working about one-half time, and during the remainder of their time are receiving agricultural training, Mr. Kellam said.

Game Conservation Interest Increases

AUSTIN (AP).—Widespread interest in game conservation manifested during Wildlife Week has resulted in a reorganization campaign of the Texas Wildlife Federation.

Henry W. Flagg, president, and J. W. Chapman, manager, said a membership drive would reach every section of the state.

Chapman said the federation was not "merely another sportsmen's organization," but acted as a clearing house for ideas from all groups interested in conservation.

It was organized in 1936 after a meeting at Austin of sportsmen from over the state at the call of Gov. James V. Allred. Sportsmen's groups, nature clubs and others were invited to affiliate.

Keystone of the current campaign is an appeal to organizations to affiliate with the central agency in order that united efforts may be made to improve conservation in Texas.

Organization work is being carried on in each of the 21 congressional districts, whose chairmen constitute the federation's board of directors. The chairmen will elect new officers at a state convention to be held either in June or just preceding the fall hunting season. An advisory board of 100 will be chosen.

Objectives include assisting landowners in their conservation efforts, cooperating with schools and colleges who care to sponsor wildlife courses, aiding 4-H clubs and other youth groups and stimulate interest generally.

Building Permits For State Increase
