Suchow Said Surrounded By Japanese

Actual Assault on City Will Start In Near Future

SHANGHAI, May 16 (AP)—Japanese dispatches declared today Suchow had been completely surrounded and Japanese troops were closing in from all sides on thousands of Chinese trapped in and around the vital central China rail junction city.

Japanese asserted it would be only a matter of hours before they actually assaulted the strategic city for which they have been fighting for months.

They said upwards of 100,000 Chinese defenders were "reduced to a state of confusion" west of Suchow, junction point on the Lunghai line and the North-South Tientsin-Pukow railway.

A Chinese retreat from this month old battle area was reported to have begun with at least 10,000 Chinese north of the Lunghai seeking to flee westward through southwest Shantung province.

The Japanese described this as the only remaining avenue of escape from the tightening Japanese lines.

Japanese reports of deep inroads into Chinese defenses east of the Tientsin-Pukow railway were disputed by the embattled defenders who said they were holding their own in that sector.

The Chinese also said they had thrown the invaders back in a counterthrust southwest of Suchow.

In Anhwei province, where the Japanese reported the occupation of Hofei, the Chinese said the Japanese invasion there had bogged down in the face of unyielding defenses.

Chinese advisers said 500 Japanese were killed and more than a number wounded in a stiff battle south of Hofei, a Chinese military stronghold.

Far to the west in southwest Shansi province a reinvigorated Chinese drive carried Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's forces across the Yellow river to wipe out nearly won Japanese positions.

Chinese guerrillas continued their harassing activities in the Shanghai-Hangchow-Nanking triangle. Their latest raid was reported to have cut the Nanking-Hangchow highway where a Japanese unit of 150 troops was ambushed. The Chinese said the entire unit was wiped out.

Hunt for Small Girl Switches to Grave

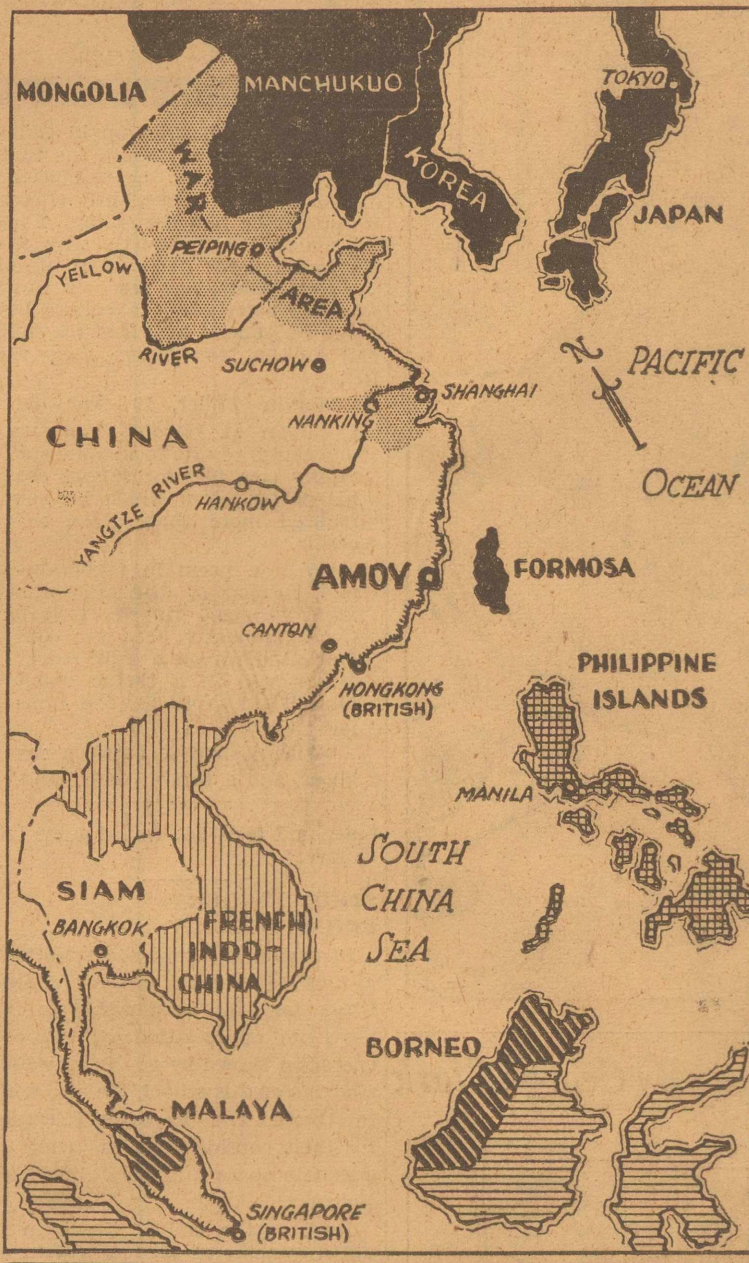

BRADFORD, Pa., May 16 (AP)—Weary searchers, haggard from loss of sleep, Sunday shifted their week-long hunt for four-year-old Marjory West from the area where she disappeared to the woods surrounding what Mayor Hugh J. Ryan said appeared to be a newly-dug grave.

"I can't say we expect to find anything," said Ryan, "but there is no question that it was a grave. This is the first tumble we have had."

He said the pit apparently had been opened about 24 hours before it was found. It was dug beside a fallen tree, approximately seven miles by highway from the place the girl disappeared.

Marjory, daughter of an oil field worker, has not been seen since she wandered away from a family picnic last Sunday.

New Jap Thrust Arouses Powers

As Japanese bluejackets, backed by a terrific naval barrage, captured the seaport of Amoy, and pushed their attack further into South China, diplomats of America, Great Britain and France are watching apprehensively for further developments in an area uncomfortably close to possessions of the three big powers. As shown in the map above, the British must protect parts of Borneo and Malaya, in addition to important naval bases at Hongkong and Singapore. American possessions in the Philippines are a comparatively short distance from the latest Japanese military activity as is French Indo-China. The Netherlands is another country with valuable colonies not far from Amoy. Meanwhile, more than 500,000 Japanese troops were launching a new offensive on a half-dozen fronts in the Central China war area, shown in the shaded portions of the map. One unarmed Britisher was bayoneted, and lives of scores of foreigners were endangered.

Eastland Gains Well Running Pipe After Drilling More Pay

BY FRANK GARDNER.

More saturated cores in Eastland Oil Company No. 1 P. C. Dunbar, in southwest Gaines, today bettered its chances for developing production. After drilling soft lime formation from 4,600-22, it was cored from 4,622-40, recovering only eight feet out of the 18. Those cores recovered were said to carry oil. Five and one-half inch casing is being run today, and it will be cemented at 4,300 feet. After drilling plug, operators probably will test the well's natural output, then will shoot and acidize the whole pay section from 4,635 to total depth. The well is 2,310 feet from the south, 33 feet from the west line of section 24, block A-12, public school land.

Failure was indicated for Landreth Production Corporation No. 1 P. W. Dalmont, northwest of the company's discovery well in the Kirk area, south central Gaines, as it encountered sulphur water from 4-871-72, total depth, which rose 750 feet the first 40 minutes and 3,200 feet in 12 hours. Only slight shows had been found, from 4,793 to 4,805. Schlumberger electrical survey was run and the well is now shut down for orders. It will probably be plugged. Location is 660 feet out of the northeast corner of section 24, block A-21, public school land.

J. L. Friel and Osage Drilling Company No. 1 Atlantic-T. S. Riley, in central Gaines, was shut down at 4,950 awaiting 5 1/2-inch casing. The well topped solid lime at 4,730 feet, which is said by operator to be favorable in relation to producers in the Seminole pool, four miles to the southeast.

25 Die in Hotel Fire In Atlanta

Other Bodies May Be Uncovered in Ruins of Building

ATLANTA, May 16 (AP)—A fire which started in a basement kitchen killed 25 persons at the Terminal hotel here early today; at least 13 were injured and an undetermined number of others are still missing.

More than a dozen persons were rescued or leaped to safety. Reports of firemen indicated from 50 to 65 persons were registered in the 62 rooms of the five-story brick and frame building. High winds fanned the flames.

Engineers estimated two days would be required to clear the wreckage. Many dead were found in charred timbers and steel which dropped from the roof.

Police Chief M. A. Hornsby expressed belief ten or 15 more bodies would be found.

Fraudulent Claims For Pensions Will Be Prosecuted Now

AUSTIN, May 16—A statewide crackdown on fraudulent attempts to obtain jobless benefits has been ordered by Orville S. Carpenter, chairman-director of the Texas Unemployment Compensation commission, in an announcement today.

"The commission feels that there has been a sufficient period of education during which we have instructed the people that they can't draw full compensation while they are working. Now we are going to crack down and prosecute to the limit of the law any attempts to obtain unemployment benefits by making false statements on income and employment," Carpenter said.

Four convictions have been obtained already in the first charges to be brought into court for violations of the unemployment compensation law. The maximum penalty for filing a false claim is a fine of fifty dollars or thirty days in jail, or both.

"These efforts of persons who are employed and representing themselves to be unemployed, or persons partially employed and failing to report their earnings in order to get jobless benefits, are going to be stopped. Employers are footing the bill for unemployment compensation and the commission is going to protect that investment."

"Collect money to which they are not entitled and they should realize that the complete records of the commission on each claim will prevent the success of such fraudulent attempts."

Control of Blowing Soil Is Foreseen

WASHINGTON, May 16.—Possibility of controlling harmful soil blowing in the dust bowl area within a few years has been foreseen by the department of agriculture expert who coordinates the work of all the agencies attempting to reclaim America's lost lands in the Southwest.

"The southern great plains region as a whole, about six million acres should go back to grass," said Roy I. Kimmel, coordinator of the southern plains in a coast to coast radio address arranged by the American Wildlife Institute. "Our best scientific information indicates that with good fortune in the way of favorable moisture conditions, and skill in handling the job, it will take four or five years to put a grass cover back on those lands."

Kimmel, who directs the reclamation work from his headquarters in Amarillo, said that about 26 millions acres can be profitably maintained in cultivation, given a reasonable improvement in farming practices and reorganization of the farms into proper-sized units.

Reclaiming the dust bowl will require a combination of individual measures, of federal government measures and of state government measures, according to Kimmel. The method of taxing lands being reclaimed will play an important part in the reclamation, Kimmel pointed out.

"The states, by proper taxation policies, can do much to influence a desirable responsibility of ownership," Kimmel stated.

Kimmel recommended that three policies other than tax adjustments, be adopted to make the dust bowl reclamation project a success in as short a time as possible. He urged the use of credit; special AAA payments to those who restore to grass crop land that shouldn't be cultivated any longer; establishment of differential taxes in favor of lands being returned to grass and some way to bring about a more responsible ownership of land.

"In 14 southwestern Kansas counties all the way from 50 to 83 per cent of the crop land is owned by non-residents," said Kimmel. "Usually the non-resident owner mines the land for everything he can get from it. Better leasing arrangements will help get away from this."

"The lesson of the dust bowl may prove very beneficial to this country," according to Kimmel.

Primary Campaigns In Pennsylvania End

PHILADELPHIA, May 16 (AP)—Pennsylvania's bitterly contested primary election campaign—testing the political strength of divided camps of labor—rushed toward a climax Sunday with leadership at stake within both parties.

The campaign laughingly likened by President Roosevelt to Dante's Inferno, brought a cross-fire of charges and counter charges of irregularities, "bought" legislation and political coercion which prompted the call for a grand jury inquiry and federal investigations.

More than 4,000,000 voters are registered to go to the polls Tuesday. Republicans, seeking in November to wrest back the political control they lost in 1934 led with 2,140,496 enrolled. Democrats had 2,016,736.

Final challenges of the campaign were framed for eleventh hour mass meeting tonight and statewide radio broadcasts tomorrow by candidates.

The split in labor's ranks over trade and craft unionism extended into the primary when John L. Lewis, CIO chieftain, backed one slate of Democratic candidates and the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor endorsed another.

Lewis, with U. S. Senator Joseph F. Guffey, supported a ticket headed by Thomas Kennedy for governor and Mayor S. Davis Wilson, Republican-elected mayor of Philadelphia, for Democratic nomination for United States senator.

Barricaded Against Cops And Firemen

Cedillo Followers Say Cardenas Is Unfair to Leader

MEXICO CITY, May 16 (AP)—Socialist students today seized buildings at the University of Mexico in a sudden attack that left a number of wounded. The students then barricaded themselves against police and firemen.

The outbreak was the newest manifestation of unrest following expropriation of foreign oil companies.

Associates of the agrarian leader, General Saturnino Cedillo, charged today President Cardenas was trying to "drive him to rebellion" to distract the public from the administration's troubles. "SURPRISE AND REGRET" VOICED BY BRITAIN.

LONDON, May 16 (AP)—The British government expressed "surprise and regret" to the house of commons today because of Mexico's suspension of relations between the two countries. Richard Butler, under-secretary of foreign affairs, pledged the government to continue to use its best endeavors to protect substantial British interests in Mexico.

SAN LUIS POTOSI, Mexico, May 16 (AP)—Government troops took possession of four church rooftops and mounted anti-aircraft guns there Sunday as tension mounted in fear of an outbreak by General Saturnino Cedillo's armed agrarians.

Detachments were stationed atop the strategically located churches while an anti-aircraft unit was set up at a principal street corner and guards patrolled public buildings of the state capital under virtual martial law.

Through there was no word of disorders throughout the state northwest of Mexico City, the stringent military precautions heightened the alarm of San Luis Potosi citizens.

Three thousand troops were held in barracks here to see that Cedillo and his armed agrarians kept the peace.

Five thousand more were scattered out through the long, strategically important state of which this city is the capital.

Garrisons were heavily reinforced around the Las Palomas estate of Cedillo, the "strong man of San Luis Potosi" and President Lazaro Cardenas' opponent since his resignation last August as minister of agriculture.

A tense city and state, under virtual martial law, waited anxiously to see whether rumors that "Cedillistas" were preparing an uprising would prove to be false, as they often have before.

There were many indications the federal government did not take the rumors lightly.

Detachments of soldiers were stationed inside banks and public buildings. Streets were patrolled and houses of "Cedillista" leaders were being searched for arms.

Cedillo meanwhile remained at Las Palomas, ill enough for physicians' care but not confined to his bed. He was surrounded by the See (Mex. Students) Page 4

WASHINGTON, May 16. — There is nothing that gives more delight to Washington gossips than the stirring up of a factional fight in some government department.

Not even the White House has been immune from these rows, when there have been differences of opinion among presidential advisers, and now the gossips are trying to make the most out of the case of the rest of the Supreme Court vs. Justice Black.

New Deal friends of the ex-secutor from Alabama have been rushing to his defense with favorable analyses of his lone-wolf dissenting opinions, first reported in this column last February.

Black's supporters now claim that recently the Court reversed a vital 96-year-old opinion in the Tompkins case, two weeks after Black had taken the same position in a one-man dissent.

Perkins kept lobbying quietly and the result was a committee bill providing a special maritime labor board and dropping the Kennedy plan.

Kennedy was more influential than any other administrator adviser in dissuading the President from turning earlier to an enlarged

The Town Quack

When Pinky Tomlin up in Oklahoma composed a song to the tune of the milk hitting the pail, as he did his morning and nightly chores, I thought he had something. I always wondered, however, why the old heifer never kicked him off of the stool. But along comes a United Press story about a college boy down at Abilene who sets his milk pail rhythm to poetry. Says the UP:

Marvin Miller, 19-year-old freshman at Hardin-Simmons university, resorts to milking the family cow for inspirations for his poetry, from which he has realized more than $1,000 recently.

"With a poem in my brainpan, instead of drumming the table with my fingers, I grab the milk bucket, feed the cow, and sit down on a milk stool," Miller said in a sketch about himself he wrote for the campus paper.

"With a bucket between my knees, and a teat in each hand, but now I feel—Oh, well, I guess I'm in love!"

Philosophy in Politics.

WASHINGTON has professors of everything except philosophy and it's likely to have one of those after the November election in the person of Prof. T. V. Smith, running for congressman-at-large in Illinois. Smith is a Chicago University professor of philosophy and an author who made regular radio talks for the Democrats in the 1936 campaign. He is chummy with Roosevelt and numerous brain-trusters.

On May 21 he broadcasts on a national hookup in an argument between a philosopher and a politician. Smith takes both parts. It ought to be pretty good or pretty awful. Rivers Pepped by Pepper. THE victory of Senator Claude Pepper, 100 per cent New Dealer, in the recent Florida primaries has disturbed the mental peace of Senator Walter F. George, anti-administration Democrat. It is said to have encouraged Georgia's governor, E. D. Rivers, who had been thinking of running against George on a New Deal platform.

Record of City's Two PTA's Show That Constructive Projects Have Been Carried Out During School Year

Editor's Note: The following brief resume of the work of the city PTA's during the past year is presented here for its interest not only to members of the organizations, but to other citizens of the town.

John M. Cowden Junior High School
 For the year 1937-38, Junior High School PTA had an enrollment of 196 members, including 155 mothers, 27 fathers, and 14 teachers.

Officers of the PTA included: President, Mrs. Glenn Brunson, vice president, Mrs. Harry Tolbert, secretary, Mrs. W. B. Preston; treasurer, Mrs. P. A. Schlosser.

John M. Cowden Junior High School, for which the Junior PTA is designed, has an enrollment of 545 pupils, and 15 teachers including the superintendent and principal.

Port of its yearbook subject the PTA chose "The Guidance of the Child in His World." The programs which were presented discussed the problems of the child in the home, school, and community.

Eight regular meetings and eight executive meetings were held.

Texas Congress birthday was observed and an offering of $2.50 made.

Founders Day was likewise observed and a gift of $2.00 made.

Ten members were enrolled in the Parent-Teacher Study Course, and two subscribers obtained for the National Parent-Teacher magazine.

One delegate was sent to the district meeting at Del Rio.

Special speakers for the regular programs included: Mrs. Alma Thomas on "International Peace Relations"; Supt. W. W. Lackey and Miss Lydia G. Watson on "Home Education of the Child"; Miss Louise Latham on "Character Education"; Rev. J. E. Pickering on "Child Education in the Home, School and Community"; Mayor M. C. Ulmer, Mrs. R. O. Collins, and Crin. R. C. Fagg on "Safety in the Community, Home, and School"; respectively; Fred Fromhold on "Flowers"; Mrs. J. H. Trickey on "Social Hygiene."

Pupils and friends of the school entertained at each meeting with one or more selections. Readings, vocal and instrumental numbers were presented during the year.

Several special projects were carried out by the PTA. Through the health committee, it cooperated with the county health board. Leaflets containing a list of symptoms of all common contagious disease were sent to each home at the beginning of the school year.

The group cooperated with teachers to have health posters made and displayed and worked with the North Elementary PTA and the county health board to provide vaccine and the vaccination of underprivileged pupils against smallpox.

The safety committee cooperated with the city safety council for the promotion of safety in the community, schools, and homes and also aided the teachers in having safety posters made and displayed.

Under the guidance of the radio committee, two radio programs were presented each month dealing with parent education and cooperation of parents and teachers.

The movie committee cooperated with the local Federated clubs to promote the education of parents and children to the needs of better movies.

Special programs included one social program to which the Dads and friends were invited. Grades four and five and grades five and six presented appropriate programs on Armistice Day, Thanksgiving, Christmas, and Washington's birthday.

In the realm of finances, the PTA raised money by means of one silver tea, by cooperating with the Federated clubs to sponsor a book review, and by a popularity contest. The money was used to purchase library books to pay for vaccination of underprivileged pupils, to send a delegate to the district convention, to award prizes to rooms having the largest number of parents attending the meetings.

The organization has met the requirements for standard rating with the Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Officers for the coming year have been elected and installed and work is being planned for the first meeting of the year.

A Summer Roundup committee has been appointed and is cooperating with the Elementary School organization for the medical examination of pre-school children.

The district convention of the Parent-Teacher Association of the sixth district will be held in Midland in April, 1939.

Mrs. W. L. Nicol has been elected vice-president over four counties of the district, Midland, Martin, Ector, and Andrews.

Plans are being made to create a city PTA council the coming year. North Elementary School PTA.

With a membership of approximately 75, North Elementary School PTA followed a line of work closely akin to that followed by the Junior High organization during the year.

An open house for teachers and parents was held on Nov. 9.

Taken from the Texas Parent Teacher Magazine, the series of programs for the year developed the theme "The Guidance of the Child in His World." Sub-topics of the subject under the division of "In the Home," included a consideration of obedience, health, learning, and perseverance; and under the division of "In the School" of punctuality, school days, living and other radio.

Radio programs were presented each month.

Money was raised through a rummage sale and a book review for the year's work, which included the presentation of gifts of fruits and nuts to all pupils and the supplying of milk for underprivileged children.

A special Founders Day program was presented in cooperation with the John M. Cowden Junior High PTA on Feb. 15.

During the next three months, the North Ward PTA will sponsor a Summer Roundup in which children of pre-school age will be advised to have physical examinations and have all special defects, such as those of eyes and teeth, corrected before entering the school room next fall. The PTA will contact the parents of pre-school children and will cooperate with the Junior High organization and the county health board in this project of which Mrs. J. R. Norris is chairman.

When Hohenzollern Wed Romanoff

With a diadem of Russian crown jewels in her hair, and looking as quaintly old-fashioned in her antique wedding gown as her groom appears smartly up-to-date in his German air force lieutenant's uniform, Grand Duchess Kira, of Russia, poses above with her husband, Prince Louis Ferdinand, grandson of ex-Kaiser Wilhelm, at their recent wedding in Cecilienhof Castle, the Potsdam home of the bridegroom's father, ex-Crown Prince Wilhelm. The bride's gown of heavy silver brocade, nearly 100 years old, was the wedding dress of her grandmother, Grand Duchess Marie, daughter of Czar Alexander II.

Bill Van Huss and Joe Trickey, spent the week end at Ruidoso, playing golf.

Two Are Hostesses To Business Women Sunday Afternoon

Miss Betty Wilson and Mrs. Lura Hollingsworth were hostesses to members of the Business and Professional Women's club at the home of the former, 606 S. Main, Sunday afternoon from 4 o'clock until 6 o'clock.

Pink and blue larkspurs, yellow and bronze snapdragons, vari-colored pansies and other spring flowers were employed in the party rooms.

Mrs. Hollingsworth directed the group in laughter-provoking individual impersonations of such characters as the secretary greeting a client, the timid man sitting behind a lady with a large hat at the movies, the reporter trying to keep up with two telephones at once, and other situations encountered in real life.

An entertaining "hobo" note was introduced into the program when at the refreshment hour, guests were directed to the back door to receive a handout.

A "hobo bundle" with a stick for carrying in the style of the road was presented to each guest, the bundle proving to contain a party plate.

Miss Wilson presided at the punch bowl, placed on a table covered with Mexican lace where multi-colored pansies floating in a crystal bowl formed the floral arrangement.

Present were: Mrs. Iris Bounds, Miss Christine Golladay, Miss Clara Jesse, Miss Mamie Belle McKee, Mrs. Iva M. Noyes, Mrs. J. L. Rush, Miss Geneva Risinger, Miss Fannie Bess Taylor, Miss Maria Spencer, Miss Lydia G. Watson, Mrs. Addison Young, Mrs. Elsie Gilkerson of Stanton, Miss Kathleen Eiland, and the hostesses.

Most planters smoke Camels too, for smokers who grow tobacco know tobacco."

LATE INNING RALLIES GIVE PIONEERS WIN; WINK HERE TONIGHT

HANK FROSCHAUER TO OPEN AGAINST LEAGUE LEADERS

The Midland Cardinals appeared to have their seventh win of the season all wrapped up and ready to be offered to the public yesterday, but once more they proved to be a "seven inning" club by watching Clovis Pioneers make four runs in the eighth and three in the ninth inning to win 9-6.

The Wink Spudgers will appear here tonight for the first of a three-game series. The game will start at 8:30. This is ladies' night and all females will be admitted free. Manager Withers indicated today he would start Hank Froshauer against the league leading Spudgers.

The Red Birds went into the eighth inning leading by a score of six and two hurler "Chief" Franklin appeared to have his third victory sewed up as he had given up only four hits and two runs. The first man up in the Clovis half of the eighth, Pitzer-Nelson, singled, Adkins walked, then Franklin got Jordan to fly out to left and Wyss to pop out to first base but McDonald walked and Manager Ratliff, with the count three and two, hit one out of the lot over the left field fence. Neighbors went in and took over the hurling duties and ended the inning by striking out Gagliardi.

To start the ninth, Pitts popped out to first base, Williams doubled, Nelson walked, Adkins walked and that was all for Neighbors. "Lefty" Parks went in and made Jordan pop out to Dosoorian but the next hitter, Wyss, hit a hot grounder that Dosoorian let go through his legs and two runs came home. McDonald singled and Ratliff followed with a grounder that Battle muffed and the third and final Pioneer run was scored.

Clovis scored first in the second inning but the Cards came back with three in their half on a home run by Sutyar, a walk by Ballinger and a four-base error by Williams on Beers' grounder. Williams threw over the head of the first baseman and when McDonald finally reached the ball he kicked it under the fence, letting both runners score.

The Cards made a couple more in the third on a walk to Brown, single by Morris and a double by Sutyar and their final run in the seventh on singles by Franklin and Morris mixed with a couple of in-field outs. The second Clovis run came in the fourth on a home run by Wyss.

Big Jake Sutyar paced the Cardinal hitters with a home run and two doubles and Morris got two singles for his part. The other two hits went to Byrd and Franklin.

sturdy peasants he thrice led in civil warfare.

To those peasants, estimated to number from 18,000 to 35,000 he had given lands and guns.

Leaders of the agricultural colonies he carved out of his once spacious estate have said they would yield neither soil nor arms without a fight.

It was learned that Thursday an army detachment appeared at the "Alvaro Obregon" colony and ordered the peasants to surrender their guns. The latter refused, saying they recognized no chieftain but Cedillo. Mexico City reports that Cardenas had accepted Cedillo's resignation.

Winsett Blasts Grimes for Sending Him "Down River"

By JERRY BRONDFIELD
NEA Service Sports Writer.

NEW YORK.—John Thomas Winsett was very much surprised when Brooklyn turned him over to Jersey City, but claims it was a great break for him when he was sent across the river.

"Twenty-three other Dodgers would feel the same way about getting away from Burleigh Grimes, even if they won't say so," asserts Winsett, putting the blast on the Flatbush foreman.

Winsett reported to the International League Giants without his glove and spiked shoes.

"I sent all my stuff to Pittsburgh," explains the lanky outfielder. "I didn't know about the deal until the night the Brooklyn club was scheduled to start on its first western trip, and by that time I had sent everything ahead."

"Grimes is always talking about guts, but he didn't have enough guts to tell me I wasn't wanted in Brooklyn. John McDonald, the secretary, had the notice sent to my room. Grimes didn't see me all night."

Winsett, who flopped last year after being something of a home run hitting sensation in the American Association in 1932, believes he was getting started all right, and that he easily would have manufactured 25 circuit clouts in the National League this season had he been given the opportunity to play regularly.

Jersey Homers Rare.

But Long Tom hasn't lost his league ambition, and insists he shortly will be banging the ball into the stands at the Polo Grounds, since in going to Jersey City he becomes the property of the New York Giants.

Winsett, however, may find it difficult to belt homers even against Class AA pitching in the spacious, symmetrical Jersey City Stadium. Round trips are a rarity there. Both foul lines extend 330 feet from home plate. The center field barrier is 411 feet away. Only 18 home runs were

Midland-Big Spring Sand Belt Golfers Break Even; Stanton and Odessa Win

The Midland Sand Belt golf team youngster could never overcome Morgan ended up with a 71 and Dozier with a 75.

In the second flight, Shirley Robbins' 76 was good enough to defeat E. D. Dozier, who recorded a 78. Rainey of Big Spring hung up a 76 to defeat Frank Stacy, who got a 79.

In the third flight matches, Pat Riley won six of the last nine holes played to overcome a three holes deficit and wind up with a 75, three strokes better than Rainey could do. Jim Smith shot a 79 and it was two strokes better than Brigham of the visitors could tour the course in.

In the fourth flight, Don Swalls turned in an 80, two strokes better than Watt of Big Spring; and W. T. Doherty toured the course in 85, five strokes better than Bennett of the league leaders.

The standings:

Big Spring	134
Odessa	134
Midland	124
Crane	82
Stanton	66
Colorado	60

(San Luis Potosi is 225 miles northwest of Mexico City).

Field, Pittsburgh, the roomy terrain makes triples and doubles a frequent occurrence.

Winsett's acquisition completed an all-timer Brooklyn outfield for the Little Giants. Babe Herman spent many summers at Herbert Field, and Hal Lee got his first major league chance in Flatbush.

Big Bust of 37.

The former Dodger who was with Columbus, and therefore disposed of by the St. Louis Cardinal organization, was one of the prize busts of 1937. He hit only 237 and drove in only 42 runs in 118 engagements.

Long Tom's trouble was that he took too many good pitches. All too many of them went past him for called third strikes, too.

He was a shining example of what Lord Byron, the warbling umpire of years ago, used to sing: "You can't get a hit with your bat on your shoulder."

Pretty Katy Rawls, Miami, Fla., swimming star, experiences part of the thrill that comes to an Indianapolis' Speedway driver by sitting behind the wheel of one of the streamlined racers. Trotsky in Exile-- Strange Figure Who Is Many Things to Many Men

By WILLIS THORNTON NEA Service Staff Correspondent.

MEXICO, D. F.—Mexican housewives in sunny, sleepy Coyoacan pause on their way to and from market as they pass a plain blue-painted plaster house with faded red trim.

They know that inside that closely-guarded house is Leon Trotsky, who once commanded Russia's Red Army and sat at the right hand of Lenin, and who now works and writes and dreams inside the blue house, once more the exile he was before his meteoric career in revolution.

Suffering from a long-standing illness which has bettered only slightly in the healthful climate of the Mexican plateau, Trotsky keeps the rigorous schedule of a semi-invalid who must make every minute count.

Always a Revolutionary. Trotsky himself is an erect, alert, white-haired man who helped make one great revolution and spends all his waking hours in planning and working for its extension throughout the world.

With his pen, his only remaining weapon, he works methodically now for the revolutionary cause that has been his almost since he was born Lev Bronstein in 1879.

It sounds like a pleasant retired life. But not entirely. That dark, heavy object weighing down the pile of papers on his desk is a pistol. Trotsky always carries it, and he can use it quickly and accurately, as befits a former militant and a confirmed hunter and sportsman.

But there is no more duck-shooting and almost no more afternoon auto rides. Callers approach the door only under police escort. When it opens a crack, the big automatic of the outside guard is the first thing seen.

From the Trotsky house have come recent stories of threatened assassination that would curl the hair. There is a mysterious George Mink and a sinister Roland Abbiatte, one hears, who are both professional cut-throats in the pay of Stalin's GPU.

Trotsky, hiding thus in his Mexican exile, is many things to many men. To his devoted followers, he is a figure of heroism, persecuted, menaced, but indomitable.

To the adherents of the Stalin brand of Communism, he is about Trotsky's Mexican sanctuary—a blue-painted house with faded red trim. Bars are on all the windows. Mexican police, three of whom are shown in the picture, maintain a constant guard around this haven of the one-time right-hand man of Lenin.

Leon Trotsky

what Clarence Darrow was to William Jennings Bryan, a heretic, a spoil-sport, and a gnawing menace.

Government Protects Him. To the Cardenas government, which must furnish the police and take the constant risk of some sort of an incident, he is exhibit No. 1 in their denial that the Cardenas regime is Communist.

Careful inquiry seems to bear out that Trotsky has strictly adhered to the promise he made when he came to Mexico—to keep entirely out of Mexican politics.

Leads Quiet Life. Trotsky's regimen is something like this: He rises at around 7:30 and takes a long walk within the walls of the house, which enclose a large and sunny patio.

Trotsky is austere with his assistants, as with himself. His phenomenal memory makes him at once a trial and a delight to assistants.

Feminine Fancies

Novel refreshments perk up a party and give it that "different" air in a way that few other things do.

Midland hostesses seem to have been unusually prolific in ideas for clever party plates recently.

There was the "hobo lunch" served at an afternoon party, for example. Guests were directed to the kitchen door to ask for a handout. And that is what they got.

Then there was the tea, sponsored by an art club, at which paintings of the various members were exhibited. Cakes on the tea plate were unique—shaped like a painter's palette with spots of colored icing to simulate the paint daubs.

And for the shower for the bride-elect whose fiance is a geologist, ice cream molded into the shape of an oil derrick. Another of those appropriate touches that lend a flavor of alert to a party.

Party refreshments, to bring oh's and ah's from the guests, need not be expensive or overly-elaborate. A little thought will dress them up in ways which will mark them out of the ordinary, yet neither too difficult for the hostess or her budget.

The vogue for corner windows, about which we must confess some skepticism when we first noticed it, is an opportunity for attractive handling of draperies in the home. Whether Venetian blinds are used with a swinging bracket to hold heavy draperies slightly away from the windows, giving more or less of an alcove effect, or whether panels with unlined flowered drapes at the outer side are used, the treatment can give artistic feeling to the room.

SAN FRANCISCO (UP). — It is not unusual for a person to have a passing headache the day after a fiesta. AFTER A HARD DAY AT THE OFFICE — THERE'S NOTHING MORE RELAXING THAN A BOTTLE OF GOOD BEER... that's why I like Southern Select "When 5 o'clock comes and I feel jittery and on edge I can't think of anything more soothing and relaxing than an ice-cold bottle of SOUTHERN SELECT. Experts would say it's the imported hops, the pre-Prohibition skill of the brew-masters, or a dozen other scientific reasons... but one reason is enough for me. SOUTHERN SELECT is the most fragrant and delicious beer I ever tasted and I never tire of it—isn't that enough reason for any beer-lover?" Southern Select BEER W. J. RUSSELL DIST. CO.
