Searchers Hunt for Kidnapers of Boy

G-Men Push Hunt for Boy's Slayer

Federal bureau of investigation operatives, who had remained in the background while the father of 12-year-old Peter Levine attempted to contact the kidnaper of his son, stepped to the front when the boy's body was found. Dr. Amos Squire (in checkered coat) who examined the body, is shown talking to Reed Vetterli, New York FBI operative.

Rumor Has Cedillo Surrendering Soon

MEXICO CITY, June 1 (AP).—Indications that Rebel Leader Saturnino Cedillo may be arranging with his sister as go-between to surrender to President Lazaro Cardenas developed in the capital last night.

Dispatches from San Luis Potosi, revolt-torn state the insurgent chief had ruled as agrarian overlord, said that Higinia Cedillo, his sister, visited President Cardenas there yesterday.

General Juan Barragan at the war ministry confirmed the reports of the meeting, but said he did not know whether Senorita Cedillo was authorized to negotiate for her brother, who has escaped capture in widespread federal operations against his rebel followers.

It was recalled that an intimate of Cedillo had quoted him at the outbreak of the revolt 11 days ago as saying, "I'll put a bullet into my head before I'll surrender."

President Cardenas said in an interview yesterday that the rebel leader, should he escape to the United States, need not fear an attempt to extradite him. If caught in Mexico, the president said, he would be tried before the proper tribunals, which the law would decide.

Meanwhile a defense ministry spokesman said that since the revolt now was ended, operations in San Luis Potosi merely were pursuit of "fugitive from justice."

Walter Woodward Offers Support to Bill McCraw Today

COLEMAN, June 1 (Special).—Two one-time political opponents met here today and the one who had lost gave his support to the one who had won.

William McCraw and Walter Woodward were opponents in a hard-fought campaign for the democratic nomination as attorney general in 1934 and it took a run-off to decide which would win.

When McCraw, now campaigning for governor, visited Coleman today Woodward held a reception for the attorney general at his office.

Between 300 and 400 Coleman citizens were called to meet the candidate. At noon, Woodward introduced McCraw at the Coleman Lions club luncheon.

"There were no hard feelings in that campaign," Woodward said, "although it was a hard-fought campaign. It was a clean one. Bill McCraw is a clean fighter. He has made a great record as attorney general and he will make a greater one as governor. I have no hesitation in recommending his candidacy to my friends. I know Bill McCraw and I know what he will do."

Recently, Clyde E. Smith, who was also a candidate for attorney general in 1934, introduced McCraw to a Tyler crowd of his "home-folks."

"William McCraw, the next governor of Texas, has my wholehearted support," Smith said.

McCraw spent the morning in Coleman today, enroute to San Antonio.

Newsprint Plant to Be Placed at Lufkin

EDGEWATER PARK, Miss., June 1 (AP).—James Stahlman, chairman of the newsprint manufacture committee, told the Southern Newspaper Publishers association today success was virtually assured for building the first southern newsprint plant at Lufkin, Texas.

Stahlman, publisher of the Nashville Banner and president of the American Newspaper Publishers association, said his committee had approved plans of engineers for a plant and financial structure and that there was "every indication of successful completion of the project."

Credit Business Keeps Store Open

TYLER (AP).—Giving credit probably has kept J. L. Vanderver in business. He is one of the last of the big credit merchants in this section.

He has lived in Tyler several years but goes daily to his general merchandise store at Bullard, Smith county, which he has owned since the beginning of the century. There is no sign on the building to tell the world it is Vanderver's general store. The reason is he solicits no business, merely keeps open to supply farm families who need him in financing the year's crop.

Vanderver, a country school teacher before becoming a merchant, says at one time he carried credit accounts of 500 families on his books. He says he belongs to a part of America's economic system, now dwindling, "that was the backbone of the agricultural south."

Scrap Bill to Reorganize Government

President Gives Consent in Order To Halt Session

WASHINGTON, June 1 (AP).—With President Roosevelt's consent, his legislative lieutenants pigeon-holed a government reorganization bill today until the next congressional session.

Chairman Byrnes (D-SC) and Acting Chairman Warren (D-NC) of the senate and house reorganization committees said in a joint statement:

"No further effort will be made to pass the reorganization bill at this session."

The announcement definitely ended one of the bitterest rows of the session, smoothed the way toward adjournment, and confirmed a major rebuff the administration suffered last April 8 at the hands of legislators.

On that date the house, by a vote of 204 to 196, sent the reorganization bill back to a special committee. For a time that was believed to be the end of the measure, but more recently there had been reports the controversy would be reopened.

The decision to abandon the legislation for the session was reached at a morning White House conference attended by the President, Speaker Bankhead, and Senator Barkley of Kentucky and Representative Rayburn of Texas, the two Democratic leaders.

Barkley, informed persons said, advised Mr. Roosevelt that a formal declaration of intentions would help end dilatory Senate tactics against the $3,000,000,000 spending-lending bill and consequently speed adjournment.

Administration leaders had expressed belief some senators had been delaying the $3,000,000,000 bill to make certain there would be insufficient time this session to revive the reorganization measure.

Byrnes and Warren projected the reorganization problem into the next Congress as one of its earliest issues. They said:

"It is our opinion that the American people overwhelmingly desire some kind of effective reorganization of our government in the interest of greater efficiency and practical economy."

"We shall press for prompt consideration by both houses at as early a date as possible, and we entertain no doubt of its successful enactment."

"No Restrictions" On Relief Spending Asked by President

WASHINGTON, June 1 (AP).—President Roosevelt asked congress to impose "no restrictions" over administration of relief funds provided in the $3,247,000,000 spending-lending bill.

In a letter to Senator Adams, democrat, Colorado, floor manager for the relief measure, the President asserted the unemployment situation has "grown worse" since he sent his relief message to congress six weeks ago.

"Emergency employment, therefore, should come right away instead of being deferred," the president said.

Skelly Stakes Southeast Hockley Location on Elwood Estate Block

By FRANK GARDNER.

Staking by Skelly Oil Company of a wildcat location in southeastern Hockley county featured today's oil developments. Test will be on the Elwood estate, in league 15, Howard county school land, 3,980 feet from east line of league and 3,914 feet from the south line of lease. C. J. Davidson Drilling Company has been awarded contract to drill to 5,500 feet, unless production or sulphur water in the time is encountered shallower. Rotary will be employed to top of lime, then tools will be rigged up.

Skelly's Elwood lease consists of sections 5, 6, 7 and 8, in block A, public school land; all of league 16, Howard county school land except the southwest 531 acres; and approximately 2,424 acres in the northeast part of league 15.

The new test is about five miles northwest of a dry hole, World Oil Company No. 1 Elwood, which went to 5,088 feet. It is approximately 20 miles northeast of the Slaughter pool in southwest Hockley.

After several cement jobs, H. S. Forgeron No. 1 Lockhart & Brown yesterday bailed dry following drilling of plug, and when bailer was run three hours later was still dry, indicating that 7-inch casing set at 4,302 was holding. The well showed a small amount of oil and gas through bridge, top of which is set

Return of Property To Americans by the Japanese Demanded

WASHINGTON, June 1 (AP).—The United States demanded today Japan take immediate steps to restore American properties in China to their rightful owners.

In a strong note presented by Ambassador McGrew, Japanese foreign minister Ugaki, the Japanese were told their "infringement with American rights in China" was "giving the government of the United States increasing concern."

It was pointed out that while Japanese civilians had been permitted to enter and do business in the areas from which the Sino-Japanese conflict had been moved on American business men and missionaries had been denied such permission.

Condition of Gunter Remains Unchanged

An attending physician today reported unchanged the condition of Hershall Gunter, in a local hospital suffering from a gunshot wound. The physician revealed that Gunter was paralyzed from the waist down due to a spinal injury inflicted by the bullet when it penetrated Gunter's body.

Gunter was allegedly shot by T. L. Box in an altercation on South Main street late Monday morning. Box is being held in the county jail charged with assault with intent to kill. His attorney has not requested bond be set.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Gladys Box, wife of the man being held in jail, was said to be recovering rapidly and will probably be dismissed from a hospital tomorrow where she was taken after it was reported she had drunk part of a bottle of disinfectant following the altercation between the two men. A physician said her condition was satisfactory and that full recovery was foreseen.

Collyns Named President Of Lions Club for Year

Bill Collyns, chamber of commerce manager, today was elected president of the Lions club for the coming year. For the past year, Collyns has served as first vice-president.

In other elections, held at the regular weekly luncheon of the club, Charles O. Crum was elected first vice-president, Russell Conkling second vice-president and Paul McHargue third vice-president. George Phillipus was named treasurer, Tom Betzel lion tamer and Mrs. De Lo Douglas Lions sweetheart.

Carry-over directors were Ed M. Whitaker and Jas. H. Goodman. New directors elected were O. L. Wood, Ellis Conner and M. C. Ulmer.

Announcement was made at the luncheon that Lions of district six, consisting of Midland, Big Spring, Anson, Snyder, Lamesa, would meet here on the night of June 21 for their regular group meeting.

Members today were entertained by James Egan, employe of the Anacada Petroleum Corp., with varied tricks of magic. The entire club then took part in audience participation—a guessing game.

Tom Betzel was in charge of the luncheon today, attended by 35 members. Women of the First Methodist church prepared the meal.

Six Indicted for Looting Investment Firms of 4 Millions

NEW YORK, June 1 (AP).—District Attorney Thomas Dewey announced today that six persons had been indicted on the charge that they looted seven investment trusts with combined assets of more than 16 million dollars.

Dewey said that with a total investment of only five dollars the defendants acquired control of four investment trusts with total assets of $13,500,000, out of which $4,300,000 was quickly dissipated.

He named the Continental Securities Corporation as the keystone organization in acquisition of the group of investment trusts.

Break in Tomato Market Protested

HENDERSON, June 1 (AP).—State Senator Joe Hill today telegraphed President Roosevelt, Senator Sheppard, and Representative Sanders a protest against the "unwarranted break in the tomato market."

He urged the Federal emergency buying program be immediately instituted to stabilize the market and "save the tomato producing farmers of East Texas from utter ruin."

Nacogdoches Girl Well Known Painter

TYLER (AP).—Johnnie McBride, a Nacogdoches girl who became known as a painter of East Texas oil field scenes after studying at Paris and Rome, has a painting on the cover of Farm and Ranch magazine. The scene shows how farms in the oil-producing section combine industry with agriculture.

The artist came to Tyler in 1934 to paint windows in a suburban church and became fascinated by the oil fields as a subject for art. Since then, she says, she has neglected religious paintings for an interpretation of industrial life on canvas. She has been successful with the oil field subjects, as she found men liked the scenes for their dens and houses.

She has painted "first" wells for many oil companies, has found interesting material in locations for wells, in slush pits, men setting up rigging, changing pipe and digging ditches for pipe-lines.

Miss McBride studied a year in Paris and two years in Rome, and lives in Tyler with her sister, Mrs. Billy Dukes.

Attack Slaying of Girl Admitted by Cincinnati Youth

CINCINNATI, June 1 (AP).—A 15-year-old former newsboy Tuesday viewed the mutilated body of Shirley Ann Woodburn, 6, and confessed, police said, the brutal attack-slaying of the golden-haired child.

Police Captain Patrick Hayes reported the youth, Lindberg Heist, alias Trent, was taken to see the girl's body at a mortuary, where he muttered:

"I did it, I did it, but I guess I must have been out of my head."

Young Heist, charged with murder, was implicated in the slaying when Matthew O'Leary, a mortician, gave police a description of a boy with muddy clothes who boarded his car near the scene of the crime—a thickly wooded area near the girl's home. He said the boy told him he had fallen in the mud in the woods.

Arthur Rahn, five-year-old playmate of Shirley Ann, then identified Heist as the one who lured Shirley into the woods on a promise to go "rabbit hunting," Hayes said.

Prosecutor Dudley Outcalt said Heist finally told of chasing Shirley Ann when she fled along a muddy path, of knocking her down with a sharp piece of tin, and stabbing her with it again and again because she "made him mad."

Coroner Frank M. Coppock, Jr., reported she had been criminally attacked before she died.

The girl's body was found buried in weeds and mud shortly before noon yesterday.

Funeral Services Held for Woman

Funeral services were held here yesterday afternoon for Mrs. Britte May Driver, 57, who died at her home a mile northwest of Midland Monday evening of a heart attack.

Rev. J. E. Pickering, pastor, officiated at the services, held at the First Christian church. Interment services were held at Fairview cemetery.

Mrs. Driver had been a resident of Midland for 13 years and had been active in affairs of home demonstration clubs, Christian church circles and other civic enterprises. She had been in a weakened condition since suffering from a heart attack recently.

The deceased is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Adah Heidelberger, and two sons, Goodner Driver and Levi Driver.

WASHINGTON, June 1. — One of the most important undercover fights in Washington is on the question whether the forth-coming investigation of monopoly will delve into the affairs of the insurance companies.

President Roosevelt in his monopoly message urged that these companies be looked into, pointing to their huge investment funds as possible instruments of economic power. But Congress hasn't seemed anxious to start such an inquiry.

Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney of Wyoming, who has been framing what appears to be a more or less official monopoly investigation bill, thus far is keeping the insurance companies outside the bill's scope. New Dealers, however, are hoping they want to find out whether insurance funds are being invested on the basis of independent judgment or are controlled by big New York banking houses.

HEAVEN'S BLESSING ON BILBO BILL?

SENATOR THEODORE BILBO of Mississippi, who is promoting a bill to move American Negroes back to Africa, is still known in his home state as "Pastmaster General Bilbo" or "The Mississippi Clipper." That's because early in the New Deal Bilbo had an AAA job, wangled for him by Senator Pat Harrison, which paid him $6000 a year for clipping newspapers.

"God moves in a mysterious way His wonders to perform," Bilbo told Senator Borah ament his Negro bill. "That may be the reason why the senator and I are here to do this job."

Famous Figures Make Funny Faces at Annual Press Club Outing

There was fun aplenty and no dignity at all when the National Press Club threw its annual outing for members of Congress and other public figures at Fort Hunt, Va. A ball game, an old-fashioned "public speaking," and a barbecue were the features of the picnic. Pictured above are four picnickers who entered into the spirit of things in a big way. Left to right: Senator Tom Connally of Texas, shown exhorting the assemblage; Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia, vigorously taking care of the inner man; ex-Heavyweight Champ Gene Tunney, who umpired the ball game, getting a bit tough as he hands down a decision; and Senator Carl Hatch of New Mexico getting down to business about that barbecue.

Part Cotton Plays in Business and Economics of World Pointed Out

AUSTIN.—The part that cotton plays in business and economics generally of the world has been pointed out by Dr. A. B. Cox, director of the bureau of business research at the University of Texas, in a review of the history of this important money crop. The development of the United States from its earliest settlement may be traced to the wealth obtained from the sale of cotton, at home and abroad, Dr. Cox declared.

"Cotton production is one of the greatest world enterprises," he said. "Its most attractive advantages to the nations that can produce it are that it is relatively easy to produce, it is a cash enterprise, and it furnishes much employment of many types. Cotton assumed a major role of importance among world industries during the latter half of the eighteenth century largely because of the invention of mechanical devices in England for manufacturing it into cloth cheaply."

Either sum isn't to be sneezed at. But Roosevelt recalled that power company magnates had been promising to spend up to two billions dollars if they could get a free capital market.

Oak leaves have been used as insignia by various corps and ranks of the U. S. Navy since the earliest days, as a symbol of its famous old oaken ships.

United States, May 1, were 13,336,000 bales as compared with 6,921,000 bales last year, 7,841,000 bales two years ago, and an all-time previous high of 11,742,000 bales in May, 1933. In addition to this, supplies of American cotton in European ports and afloat to Europe were 523,000 bales more than on May 1 last year. These two items of the world's supply of American cotton increased to 6,969,000 bales from May last year, or over 100 per cent.

"Increases in supplies of foreign grown cotton, even though there was a record crop, have increased less than 15 per cent. The United States government now owns or has under loans above market price about 6,800,000 bales of cotton. It is thus holding the umbrella over foreign cotton growers now in a really big way."

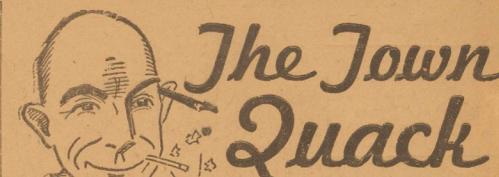

"All methods of price calculations using total supplies indicate lower prices. It is evident that government loans are sustaining prices of cotton above those indicated by supply and demand conditions. Spinners ratio margins on 32's twist yarn in Manchester to midling 7/8-inch American cotton in Liverpool average 212 during April compared with 213 for March, and 194 for April, 1937.

"The pence margin in Manchester during April average 5.44d compared with 5.66d in March and 7.11d in April, 1937. These margins indicate a continued slowing down of consumption in England."

Radio Education Offered at School

AUSTIN. — Courses in radio education will again be offered during the 1938 summer session at the University of Texas, it has been announced. Lester W. Parker, director of a research project in school broadcasting at the University of Wisconsin, will have charge of the courses. Two subjects will be taught, one on schools and radio, including such topics as radio as an instrument of social communication, planning and supervising schools uses of radio, techniques of teaching with radio, selection and use of broadcasting equipment, broadcasting radio education programs, and radio program appreciation; the other will deal with problems in educational broadcasting, such as a survey of Poppies Bloom Artificially.

PASADENA, Cal. (UP).—The day before the Golden Fiesta celebration, at which a blazing red poppy field was to be part of the exhibition, not a poppy was in sight. Adverse weather had retarded their growth. But on the morning of the celebration, the entire field was a-bloom with them. Junior high school students had prepared for the emergency by getting a supply of paper poppies and fastening them on the poppy plants.

regional specialization furnished the originating force for the three-cornered trade which made possible specialized regional production in New England and the middle west.

"With the exception of the brief period of the Civil war, the world supremacy of the United States as a cotton producer was not successfully challenged from 1800 down to 1934. In view of such a long history of successful predominance it is not surprising that we failed to recognize our increasingly vulnerable position in the world's cotton markets, and that many believed our supremacy was based on a 'natural monopoly'.

"The trend in United States production from 1915-16 through 1929-29 was up at the average rate of 331,000 bales per year. From 1929-30 through 1937-38 the trend has actually been down at the rate of 74,000 bales per year. What happened to foreign production during the same time? From 1915-16 through 1928-29 foreign production increased at the rate of 353,000 bales per year, or 22,000 bales per year faster than the increase in the United States. During 1929-30 through 1937-38 foreign production increased at the rate of 1,016,000 bales per year. The rate of increase of total world production from 1915-16 through 1928-29 was up at the rate of 684,000 bales annually. During 1929-30 through 1937-38 the trend of world production was up at the rate of 942,000 bales annually.

"Increases in cotton production abroad has thus more than made up for our enforced decreases in the United States. Do not the facts show that the policy of the United States to restrict production to raise price has failed in its purpose, and that the net result has been to transfer production from the United States to foreign countries?"

ENGINES WILL BE WORN LESS THIS SUMMER

But you want to know exactly why. You're leery of general statements that won't save you one piston ring or one quart of oil. So you want what the doctors call a specific. And that's what you get—a definite, substantial, physical protector that actually exists right in your engine as soon as you get it OIL-PLATED. Only patented Conoco Germ Processed oil from Your Mileage Merchant's station can give your engine OIL-PLATING. Other oils can't. No matter how much refining is claimed for them, they cannot surpass the correct refining of Conoco Germ Processed oil, but refining only takes things out. Going much farther, Germ Processing adds in the patented man-made substance that gives your engine OIL-PLATING. Only this addition by the Germ Process makes oil "join up" with the working parts, to keep them OIL-PLATED. All the while Germ Processed oil is used, OIL-PLATING is permanent. Like other plating, OIL-PLATING keeps wear from getting through. And like other plating, OIL-PLATING can't drain down at any time. Actually united to each surface, OIL-PLATING gives your engine lubrication that needn't wait for the oil pump... Before other oils could even begin to circulate, OIL-PLATING is ready to lubricate! Thus you know why the much-advertised harm of "dry starting" doesn't mean a thing with your engine OIL-PLATED. And you wouldn't expect any good plating to go flying off at Summer speeds, or to frizzle away in the Summer heat. Then expect the heat indicator to stay on the safe side, while the gauge-stick keeps saying, "Still full of Conoco Germ Processed oil!" That's why it's smart and thrifty today to have Your Mileage Merchant OIL PLATE YOUR ENGINE Continental Oil Co.

Washables Low in Price Are High In Quality

(From Demi-Deb Dresses, New York)

Here are three inexpensive, washable sheers, suitable for any woman's summer wardrobe. The shirtwaist model, left, comes in navy, black, white and all pastels. The two-piece, center, has a convertible neckline, and the Mexican print, right, is gold with brightly colored figurines.

By MARIAN YOUNG.

NEW YORK. — Sure to interest business girls as well as women who do not work in offices are new, inexpensive, washable summer dresses of flat rayon crepe, that simulates rough, sheer wool. This is a summer when it's fairly simple to find smartly designed frocks at prices to suit modest budgets. Surprisingly enough, the low-priced washables in one collection are amply cut. That is, their pleats are really pleats and not just little wisps of fabric set in to look like pleats. There is adequate fullness around arm holes and across the back. And the models which are supposed to blouse actually blouse. Then, too, they are simply designed in excellent taste. No bits of cheap flowers or bizarre looking clips to take off and throw away. And the collection includes a number of shirtwaister models as well as dressier types.

Varying Styles. One attractive, inexpensive dress, show here at the left today, comes in navy and black as well as white and all pastels. It has a gored skirt with inverted pleats front and back, and a tucked bosom. It's finished with two patch pockets and plain studs.

In the center is a two-piece model with convertible neckline which may be worn low or in a high cowl. This skirt, too, is gored, and the blouse has a slide fastener up the front. It's lovely in mustard yellow, or powder blue or rich, cool green. And equally nice in white or navy.

The Mexican print, right, of the same washable rough-textured rayon, has a gold background with purple, green, red and violet figures. This neck also is convertible. The skirt is gored at the back. Knife-pleated across the front.

Naturally, dark sheers — especially if they are washable — are the best bet for the business girl who works in a large city. And, if she does a great deal of work at a desk, she ought to make sure that every dress she buys is adequately full across the shoulders and around armholes. Also, that if isn't so tight at the neckline that seams are likely to spread or split.

Then, too, she ought to keep in mind all the rules she knows about the importance of sticking to one color scheme. If she starts out with one navy dress and a complete set of navy accessories, her other frocks should be in colors with which navy can be worn. Practical prints for the office might have navy backgrounds.

Roundtable Lesson Marks Final Meeting Of Delphian Chapter

Meeting in the last program session of the year, Delphian chapter presented, in roundtable form, a discussion of "The Influence of Modern Design in the Home" at the courthouse Tuesday morning.

"New Standards in Homes and Furnishings," "Modernistic Rooms," "Modern Design in Theatres," and "New Fields for the Designer" were the subtopics studied.

The new trend of knowing how to enjoy a living as well as how to make one was emphasized, the point being brought out that many people labor at earning a living without enjoying themselves as they do so.

Mrs. F. H. Schouten was leader for the lesson.

Mrs. O. G. Bluhm of Lubbock was a visitor.

The chapter will probably open next year's activities with a resume tea in September.

Present yesterday were: Mmes. J. E. Adams, Curtis Bond, S. A. Deonnam, G. R. Grant, S. H. Hudkins, Chas. L. Klapproth, Schouten, R. E. Williams, Miss Nell Shaw.

Feminine Fancies

Talk about the beasts, birds and other inhabitants of the earth being made for the use of man—the most extreme example of that we've heard of is in a recent article by the explorer, Roy Chapman Andrews.

He tells of ants heads being used by medicos of Indian and Algeria to hold the edges of a wound together just as American surgeons would use stitches or adhesive plaster.

In such a deadly, never-let-go grip do ants in those regions clamp their jaws on articles that when they are induced to seize both edges of a wound, their bodies are snapped off and the heads remain, continuing to hold the wound together until it is healed.

Wonderful are the ways of doctors—and of ants.

Pleasantest job we can think of is that of buying a new dress—maybe even two—when a pay check

To raise your batting average in the esteem of masculine members of the family, serve a huge bowl of salad featuring the slimmest and tenderest of string beans, quartered small red tomatoes, chipped onions, and sliced cucumbers, all tossed thoroughly with salad dressing. The man of the house will likely wonder audibly why the bowl wasn't bigger.

One of the wonders of human life is the amazing elasticity of its dream castles. Every time one goes down in ruins, another goes up in its place lending a glamorous hope to next year and the next. Or perhaps the same one is rebuilt lovingly.

Whether it be plans for a new home which have to be delayed from year to year or the lure of a tropical seas trips which beckons like a mirage, dreams have a strang tenacity of existence.

And somehow it is our belief that when they are held to persistently

Linen skirts, nicely gored, with a zipper closing down the front are a pleasant variation on the theme of the eternally-useful extra skirt to wear with sundry blouses. And the softly-colored, pastel prints in dimities and batistes are an invitation to make just one more blouse—and yet another.

A new career has opened for the cactus plant. Some enterprising Texas chemist has made it into a substance for removing rust from metals.

Quite fitting, the Texas version of the cactus is just about tough enough for that kind of job. As anybody can vouch for who has ever accidentally brushed against one.

One-half of the turpentine produced in the United States comes from Georgia.

SUYTAR'S HOMER WITH BASES LOADED GIVES CARDINALS WIN OVER BOOSTERS

Big Jake Suytar, who has done more than his share of breaking up ball games this year, repeated last night when he came through with one over the fence while three mates were aboard the hassocks to give the Cardinals an 8-4 win over Hobbs.

Hobbs was leading, 4-2, at the time, thanks to some timely hitting by the Boosters and some sterling pitching by Twitchell. But the husky right hander was tired in the seventh and almost completely gone in the eighth before he finally retired the side after the Cards made two more.

Howard Parks hurled for the Red Birds and outpitched Twitchell after the sixth inning, especially. The Boosters got to him for only two earned runs during the night and he struck out 11 of them.

Hobbs presented a brother battery for the game and the two, Dan Twitchell catching and Bebe Twitchell pitching, did their best for a victory. In the fifth, Bebe drove Dan home with a run to put the Boosters out in front and Dan got singles in the second and eighth.

The PAYOFF

By JERRY BRONDFIELD
NEA Service Sports Writer.

Everyone on Cadillac Boulevard thinks he has the right answer to the Louis-Schmelzing riddle, but maybe it's Harry Thomas who should be given the cupped ear before anyone.

The rugged Minnesotan thinks he has it figured out correctly, and after all, who should have a better right to the answer?

If you recall, it was Thomas who was belted out by both of them, within the space of a few months. "The big difference between Louis and Schmelzing," states Eagle Bend Harry like a physics prof conducting a lecture, "is that Max hits with one hand and Joe hits with two."

Simple mathematics, thereupon, reveals a point in Louis' favor. "Sure, Louis can't take one on the chin any too well, but he can hit so much harder than Schmelzing that there's no comparison between the two."

LOUIS BY A MINNESOTA MILE. "Louis was the first fighter to really hurt me," Harry admits. "He did more than hurt me in Chicago. He well-nigh paralyzed me. "But not so with Schmelzing. I knew what I was doing every minute of the time I was in the ring with him—and if he hadn't cut my eyes they wouldn't have stopped the bout."

ARMSTRONG GIVES ROSS WORST LACING OF CAREER TO LAND ANOTHER TITLE

By ALAN GOULD.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN BOWL, New York, June 1. (AP)—Henry Armstrong, sensational Los Angeles negro, shared all ring tradition last night by winning the world's welterweight title from Barney Ross, adding the title to his featherweight crown, Hammering Henry won the decision in 15 rounds, giving Ross the worst lacing of his ring career.

Armstrong's tireless attack was too much for the defending champion, who won the cheers of the shivering throng of 30,000 spectators by taking the bombardment all the way and refusing to quit.

From the fifth round on, the battle was all Armstrong's. His right eye closed and his face a mass of blood, Ross was so hopelessly beaten he could hardly lift a glove in his defense over the final five rounds. Ross weighed 142; Armstrong 133 1/2.

Only his courage and fighting instinct saved Ross from a knockout. Twice he refused the pleas of his handlers to let them stop the fight. Once, with only three rounds to go, he shook his head negatively when Referee Donovan suggested the possibility of halting the one-sided match. But when he got to his dressing room Barney promptly announced he had fought the last fight of a career that saw him scale world lightweight honors as well as the welter heights.

For six rounds, Ross made it close and exciting. On the Associated Press scorecard the Chicagoan gained three of the first six rounds—the first, fourth and fifth. He was actually in front when, despite absorbing a heavy battering, he was awarded the seventh round on a penalty, the result of a low punch by Armstrong.

But that seeming "break" actually was the turning point of the match. From there on Armstrong, crowding and clouting, constantly pressing forward and punching, converted the

Gehrig, Enthusiastic as Ever, Expects to Play 5 More Years

Iron Man Found Hustle a Necessity At Start, and Made It Yearly Habit; Regards Baseball as Serious Business

Lou Gehrig says that complete relaxation immediately following each contest has helped him to establish his amazing consecutive game record.

The closest to the Ruppert Rifles profess to see indications that Gehrig is slowing down and less able to shake things off than he was before.

There was no sign of the latter in Cleveland, however, when Columbia Lou bounced right back into the thick of things after a lame back forced him to retire in the sixth innings two days earlier.

"Luck," replies Gehrig, when asked about his phenomenon in endurance, but a better explanation is that the longevity of his consecutive-game streak simply is a by-product of a burning ambition to lift himself and his parents out of a Harlem tenement house.

"My mother and father were ill when the Yankees gave me a bonus for signing at the end of my sophomore year at Columbia," explains the great first baseman. "I needed the money badly."

"Baseball offered the one way to financial security for me and my own, and I decided to make the most of it. I figured that I had 10 years at the most, and made up my mind to play all the baseball I could in the best way I could during that period."

BASEBALL IS SERIOUS BUSINESS WITH GEHRIG. Naturally, in the beginning, Gehrig didn't have the slightest idea of breaking the consecutive-game mark.

"But I was in deadly earnest," he explains. "Baseball was much more than a pastime to me. It was a serious business."

"My people were very poor. My early life was denied the luxuries and many of the comforts that kids nowadays seem to take for granted."

"No player ever welcomed the opportunity to get money quickly more eagerly than I did. It was strictly up to me to make the most of my time in the game."

"Of course, when I had played a good total of games, I gave that total some thought. I took pride in that total, and hope that I can extend it for a good many more games."

As Gehrig points out other players could develop the same will and the same iron. He encounters athletes almost every day who are said up with injuries that he simply ignores. Teammates insist that injuries or illness make the big boy from the sidewalks of New York go all the harder. It is his determination to do his finest despite what he calls minor hurts and aches.

Well fixed now, and the highest paid player in the game at $39,000, Gehrig hustles as hard as ever.

IRON MAN HUSTLES AS HARD AS A PEAGREEN. Another veteran might be tempted to avoid as many risks as possible to prolong consecutive-game streak such as the Iron Man has compiled, but not Gehrig, who has yet to pull a punch—at bat, on the bases, or in the field.

Gehrig has his own training theories, too. "The Yankees were playing exhibition games when Gehrig reported the last two springs, and Columbia Lou hopped right into them."

"Might as well get sore and be done with it," he beams. One reason for the longevity of his consecutive-game streak, Gehrig believes, is the fact that he relaxes completely immediately following each game.

He sits in his sweaty uniform for from 15 to 30 minutes, smoking a pipe or perhaps a cigarette. He may take a bottle of beer. He gives tired nerves and muscles a chance.

Other players, he points out always seem to have an early date downtown. They undress hurriedly. . . . take quick showers. This is not only likely to tie them up, but they risk catching cold.

But the principal reason why

Henry Lou Gehrig played his 2000th consecutive game is that his early enthusiasm became a habit, and it remains so today—in this, his 16th season in professional baseball.

NEXT: Are the Yankees cracking up with Lou Gehrig?

A new ordinance map of the county of Surrey, England, with a scale of 25 inches to the mile, shows every building more than 10 feet square.

It's Soda Pop In Night Club At Ohio State

COLUMBUS, O. (UP)—Ohio State University students, either unwilling or unable to afford the cost of dining and dancing at Columbus night spots, have opened their own center of entertainment, the Mirror Lake Night club.

The campus club has several features to set it apart from professional competition.

No. 1 Difference: No matter what the request for refreshments, the answer is always, "fruit flavored punch and pop."

No. 2: Curfew rings at 11:30 p. m. Finally, and the chief reason for existence: Price of admission is 25 cents per couple.

For that price, the thrifty escort can bring his best girl, dance, play bridge or ping pong, or just sit in the moonlight by the edge of the "small campus lake."

The club, sponsored by the residents of a dormitory and the Women's Recreation association, is open every Friday night.

Plenty of Words for Heroes But Never a Cent for Statues

WASHINGTON, (AP).—There were "millions" of words for tribute but "not one cent" for statues as tales of the nation's heroes echoed again the House of Representatives.

From Virginia came the story of Peter Gabriel Muhlenberg, the Pennsylvania minister who moved to a little church in the old dominion, then, as troops gathered to claim freedom from Britain, stood in his pulpit and shouted:

"There is a time to pray and a time to fight, and the time has come to fight."

With those words he flung aside his clerical robes, stood before his flock for a moment in the uniform of a colonel in the continental army, then led the men from the church to fight with George Washington.

From Texas came mention of Sam Houston, the Kentuckian who went to the southwest, aided in formation of the Republic of Texas, leading Texans in the war which brought freedom from Mexico—death in the Alamo for many leaders.

From West Virginia—the story of Newton D. Baker, the small town boy who became a leading attorney in Ohio, then secretary of war during the world war.

Virginians and West Virginians urged appropriation of funds for memorials to General Muhlenberg at Woodstock, Va., site of his little church, and to secretary Baker at Martinsburg, W. Va., his boyhood home.

Texas' Rep. Maverick disagreed. He told of heroes throughout the nation's history who deserve memorials, and declared: "In all justice, we have many heroes. Should we build a statue for one, because a congressman is very active, and neglect another hero? I think not."

Replied Rep. Robertson (D-Va.) urging a memorial for Muhlenberg: "General Muhlenberg and his co-patriots, through unity of spirit and purpose, laid the foundation for constitutional American liberty.

"Upon it we should endeavor to erect a superstructure of democratic institutions that will be the wonder and the envy of the world.

"For such an undertaking, we must have patriotic manhood, sterling character.

"How better can we inculcate

Liquor Collections Fall Off in April

AUSTIN, (AP).—Revenues from liquor in April, approached the half-million dollar mark but fell slightly short of collections the same month last year.

Total collections were $471,763 and records showed stamp sales up to $278,569 from $263,495 in April of 1937. Wine stamp sales also had increased from $16,970 last year to $19,920 in April, 1938.

Sale of beer stamps was off with $142,578 collected as against $156,560 in April a year ago.

The liquor board reported the auditing division had accounted for $1,121 of total collections. Cecil Jennings, chief supervising auditor, said the division had made 33 audits of nine types of accounts and checked more than $200,000 in revenues.

During the month, 1,034 beer licenses, 86 liquor permits were issued. The liquor permits included: Class A winery 1, package store 37, wine package store 1, agent 21, industrial 1, medicinal pharmacy 13, common carrier 5, local cartage 4, private storage 1, public storage 1, hospital 1. Beer licenses were as follows: General distributor 8, branch distributor 9, local distributor 20, on-premises retailer 542, off-premises retailer 16, beer-wine retailer, 439.

There were 115 hearings in the month and 47 permits cancelled. Suspensions totaled 36 and six applications were refused.

The attorney general's department reported 37 suits involving the board were pending in district courts at the start of the month, three suits were tried and disposed of, and 15 opinions written.

such qualities in the youth of the present generation than by honoring a man who exemplified them in the highest degree?"

Rep. Wadsworth (R-NY) joined in Maverick's opinion, declaring: "If congress embarks upon a program of erecting monuments to distinguished Americans of the past, it will never cease in that program."

"Dozens and dozens of bills will appear on the floor, backed by members of congress who take a deep interest in their particular bills, and supported by the sentiment of the districts in which the monuments are to be erected. x x x x x

"I cannot avoid the conviction, that with the entering wedge the door will be opened wide."

Sequoia Park Trees Older Than Pyramids

FRESNO, Cal.—If the big trees in Sequoia National park—the oldest living things in the world—could speak, they could tell us what was happening on this continent when Christ and Moses walked the earth. Several of the trees now growing in their prime were vigorous youngsters before the pyramids were built in Egypt, and before Babylon was at its zenith. Hundreds were thriving before the heroic ages of ancient Greece. Thousands were flourishing when Christ was born in Bethlehem.

With a home-made tent, 20 years old, which cost him $4, he has traveled by cycle, bus, train, or on foot through every country in Europe.

House Fly Is Called Disease Spreader

AUSTIN—The common housefly possesses two deceiving characteristics. As insects go, it is not offensive in appearance and it is so common that its presence is to a degree accepted. Nevertheless, the fly is a very real threat to good health. It is estimated that the fly is responsible for 40,000 deaths annually in America. Its efficiency as a spreader of typhoid fever, infant diarrheal infections and tuberculosis is well recognized by the medical profession, states Dr. Geo. W. Cox, state health officer.
