Area Heat Wave Temporarily Broken

Quarter-Inch Of Rain Falls In Midland

Big Spring Hit by 3-Inch Downpour; Parts Are Flooded

A downpour that lasted only about 30 minutes, yet left an even one-quarter of an inch of rain on the streets fell in Midland early last night.

Preceded by a driving sandstorm, the rain clouds opened up over the city. Reports from the north and northeast indicated that country received much rain. Although the precipitation was not heavy enough to materially aid ranches or farms, it has provided temporary relief from the heat wave that has held sway in this area recently.

At Big Spring, the total rainfall was gauged at slightly more than three inches in one hour and a half. Firemen were forced to move families from houses in the west side of town. In a "valley," that part of town was flooded almost entirely, reports said.

"It rained all around and then poured down in the middle," the desk sergeant at the police department described the downpour, estimated at more than three inches. Runnels street in Big Spring was reported filled with swirling water from end to end, the stream level over automobile headlights in some places.

Highways to the city still were open, although flooded. A bridge in the south part of town was washed out.

Police said one cloud approached from the east and another from the west.

Telephone connections in some parts of town were out, and water was standing in business houses.

Minimum Wage of 25 Cents an Hour Asked by Senators

WASHINGTON, June 3 (AP).—A rock-bottom minimum wage of 25 cents an hour was one of the major suggestions laid Thursday before a senate-house conference committee struggling to reconcile differences on wage-hour legislation.

The suggestion was put forward with the idea that the bill, as finally agreed upon might provide for general standards higher than 25 cents, but might give a government agency power to exempt certain industries from these standards.

There was said to be strong senile some bedrock figure below which such exemptions could not go. It was suggested that, besides the 25-cent an hour minimum, the committee agree upon 44 hours a week as the absolute standard below which exemptions could not be granted.

If such a compromise were reached, it would incorporate provisions of both the house and senate bills, committee members pointed out.

The house measure calls for a 25-cent minimum wage, increasing to 40 cents in three years, and a 44-hour week declining to 40 hours after two years. The senate bill sets 40 cents an hour and 40 hours a week as standards, but permits a board of five to excuse individual firms from complying.

One of the southern senators who has been active in the fight against wage-hour legislation, who is not a member of the conference committee, said the Southerners would agree to accept a 25-cent minimum wage if provisions were made extending the time over which it would be advanced to 40 cents.

Feared Slain by Abductors

Fear for the safety of 5-year-old James B. Cash Jr., above, held an army of angry farmers, national guardsmen and police in check as the lad's father waited at his home in Princeton, Fla., in the hope that the boy's kidnapers would advise him where he could find his baby—as they had promised to do after Cash paid $10,000 ransom. The posse organized to search for the boy dispersed temporarily in deference to the father's request that he be allowed more time to establish a contact with the abductors. Authorities recalled the Lindbergh kidnaping, however, and feared that the boy had already been killed.

Florida Home From Which Boy Disappeared

This is the combination filling station and home at Princeton, Fla., where the family of kidnaped James B. "Skeegie" Cash waits and hopes for the safe return of the 5-year-old lad. Having fulfilled every demand of the abductors but one—that he not notify police—the father had asked a posse to disband in order that he might have more time to attempt negotiations with the kidnapers. The searchers—national guardsmen, county and state police and farmers—were confident that they could find the criminals and their prisoner within a few hours. They believed that residents of the city had taken the boy and collected $10,000 ransom from the father.

Hunt Pushed For Kidnaped Jimmy Cash

Florida Keys Are Searched Today by Agents of the FBI

PRINCETON, Fla. June 3, (AP).—A fleet of boats extended the search for kidnaped Jimmy Cash into the Florida keys today.

Edgar Hoover, director of the federal bureau of investigation, and his augmented staff rushed 14 men here by airplane.

The FBI posted a reward of double the face value for finders of the first 100 ransom bills, the serial numbers of which were distributed yesterday.

It also broadcast a description of the blond, blue-eyed youngster containing this poignant line after stating the height of 3 feet, 7 inches:

"Note: This height was obtained from a mark placed on a wall within the past several weeks by the father in measuring the actual height of the boy."

All indications were that the federal agents had given up hope of finding him alive.

All Princeton was on edge. Hoover held a press conference at Miami, 25 miles north of here, but limited his comments to the observation that this farming region was the worst country in which his men ever hunted.

Federal Deficit to Be Smaller July 1

WASHINGTON, June 3 (AP).—Treasury officials said today the fiscal year closing this month would have the smallest federal deficit since 1931, although the new spending program probably would triple the shortage next year.

Cleverest "Bunco Artist" at Large Is Hunted After $5,000 Gained on Forgery

DENVER, June 3 (AP).—R. D. Brown, Federal Bureau of Investigation agent at Denver, said Thursday "one of the cleverest forgers now at large" was being sought in the West after forging an Albuquerque, N. M., attorney's name to two checks for more than $5,000.

Brown said the man was Clarence E. Mehaffey, 33, indicted by a Santa Fe, N. M., federal grand jury on swindle charges.

Mehaffey and Edward Lee Davis, now serving a 10-to-14-year prison term on a recent conviction in Wisconsin, obtained a "very large amount" of money through their operations after their release four years ago from the New Hampshire state penitentiary, Brown said.

Mehaffey used "the old Bunco game" in cashing two checks stolen from the Albuquerque attorney's office, Brown said.

After taking the checks, Mehaffey made an appointment to meet the attorney at Santa Cruz, N. M., Brown said. While the attorney was absent from Albuquerque to keep the appointment, Brown said, the National Trust and Savings bank called his office to determine whether a $2,845 check was in order. The person answering at the attorney's office said it was.

A few minutes later the bank again called about a $2,500 check, and was told it too was in order. Brown said the person answering at the attorney's office probably was Mehaffey, and that he had forged the attorney's name to the two checks.

4 Killed, 21 Injured in Car Wreck

Driver of Truck, 2 Orchestra Members Burned to Death

STEPHENVILLE, June 3, (AP).—Four persons were killed and 21 injured Thursday in the head-on collision of a truck and a bus bearing a San Antonio orchestra and entertainment group.

Sheriff's officers reported fire consumed both machines shortly after they crashed at a bridge opening 10 miles east of here on the highway between Stephenville and Granbury.

A gas tank explosion followed the collision and most of the orchestral group managed to scramble from the machine in time to save their lives.

They hauled all but three bodies from the wreckage, but one of their party died at a hospital here. The dead:

Herman Lemons, 21-year-old truck driver from Junction, who was decapitated.

Frances Valdez and Flora Garcia, entertainers from San Antonio, Miss Garcia died shortly after she was taken to a hospital.

Bobbes of Matthews and Miss Valdez were charred beyond recognition.

Besides Miss Garcia, 21 persons were treated at the hospital. Five were but slightly hurt; 14 required considerable attention, and two were seriously injured.

They were Eddie Martinez, director of the orchestra and Charles (Chuck) Warner.

The bus was enroute to Oklahoma City, where Martinez' company intended to fulfill a three-day engagement at the country club.

The truck driver was believed riding alone.

Texas Joins Other States in Paying Working Benefits

AUSTIN, June 3.—Insured workers losing their jobs while located outside the state in which they have acquired rights to unemployment benefits will, if eligible, receive payments due them under a recently inaugurated plan, Orville S. Carpenter, chairman-director of the Texas unemployment compensation commission, announced today.

The Texas commission is one of the 36 state agencies which have agreed to accept this plan and to adopt uniform procedures necessary to carry it out. This procedure was developed by the interstate conference of unemployment compensation agencies of which Texas is a member.

"Texas and other state unemployment compensation commissions participating in the interstate benefit payment plan will act as registration and claims agents for totally unemployed workers who have rights to benefits in any other state included in the program and will forward such workers' claims to the liable state for approval," Carpenter said.

"Procedures under which the states will operate this program have been drafted by a special committee of the interstate conference representing unemployed compensation agencies in all areas. Upon adoption of this uniform operating machinery, payment of benefits to multi-state workers will become fully effective in the states concerned."

"The interstate benefit payment plan is based on the principle that benefit payments to a multi-state worker are to be subject to the same requirements that would apply (Benefits) Page Six"

Behind the Scenes in Washington

Editor's Note: The opinions expressed in this article are those of Mr. Dutcher, NEA-Reporter-Telegram Washington correspondent, and are not to be construed as expressing the editorial policy of The Reporter-Telegram.

WASHINGTON, June 3. — Richard Whitney, present address Sing Sing has turned out to be as effective a little helper as the SEC ever had.

Thanks to the Whitney exposures, Chairman William O. Douglas and his associates are having a relatively easy time convincing governors of the New York Stock Exchange of the need of certain reforms which had been in effect, would have made it much harder for Whitney to turn crook.

It appears that the governors may make brokers quit acting as custodians of money and securities of their clients. If brokers are prevented from getting their hands on the customer's cash, they won't be able to finance their own financial adventures—or misadventures, as in Whitney's case—with other people's money.

Other reforms which Douglas is pushing, also apparently more likely of achievement because of the Whitney case, include the more active policing of its own members by the Exchange, action to circumscribe the inside floor trader and transformation of the so-called bond market into a free buying-and-selling quality market.

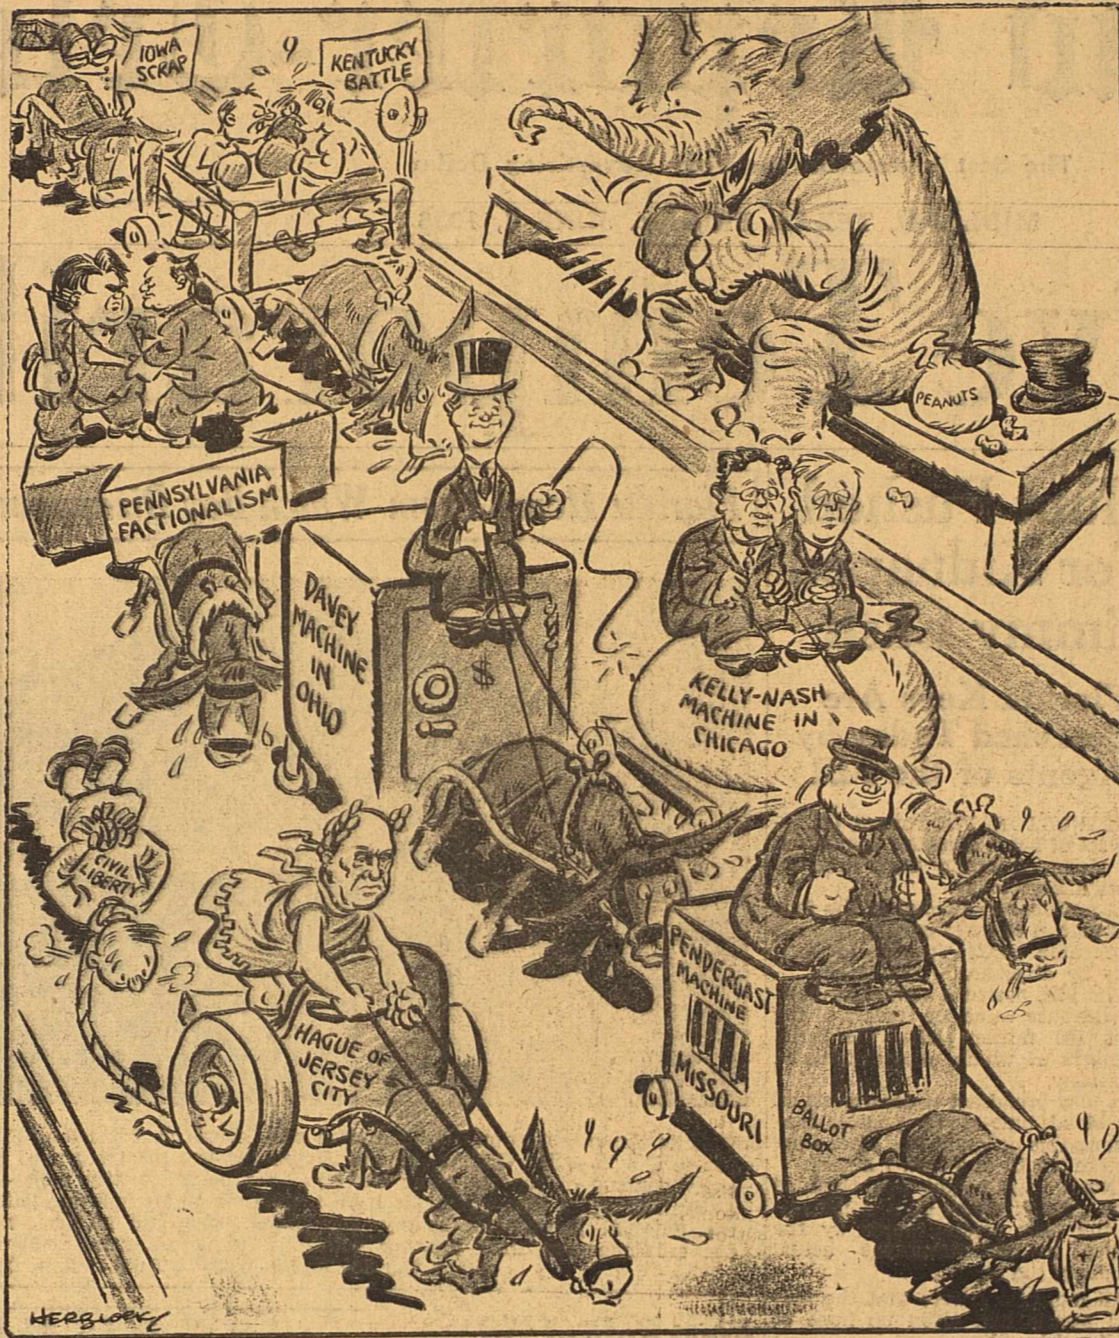

Insofar as Wall Street is concerned, SEC designs on floor traders contain the most dynamic among these items. Douglas has likened the position of the floor trader, operating with full knowledge of what the public is doing at the moment, to that of a poker or bridge player who has mirrors rigged up behind the other players.

Circus

Feminine Fancies

From the frequency with which references are made to the article in columns of beauty hints, one might reasonably expect any statue personifying beauty to hold a brush of some sort in her perfect (by measure) hand.

If she wants beautiful eyebrows, nicely shaped and neat—she is told to brush them. If she wants her eyes to look their best—brush them.

Twice-daily or thrice-daily brushing of the teeth are a fundamental in seeking a lovely smile such as the lucky ladies in the advertising section of the paper display.

If she wants satin-smooth shoulders to rise above her newest evening gown—scrub with a bath brush.

When powder is put on, the surplus may be whisked off with a soft brush for good appearance.

The latest thing thought up by beauty writers in the way of using a brush is to brush one's feet and ankles regularly to make them more beautiful.

Green is an honored color, with us. In fact, green is one of our most favorite colors. But even a good thing can be carried too far.

Concerning that young science lecturer, Irwin Moon, who flirts with death by letting a million volts of static electricity pass through his body and form flaming streamer at the end of his fingertips, we have just one thing to say—that phrenologically speaking, his "bump of physical bravery" seems to have developed at the expense of his judgment.

Physical fearlessness is one of the most appealing qualities a man can have, in our opinion, but when it runs into foolhardiness such as Mr. Moon's it is silly.

Risking one's life is a splendid thing when it is done in a splendid cause—but when it is done for a trivial thing, it becomes rather tawdry, because it cheapens the value of that life. That which there are few things more valuable.

Coastal Defense Asked By Two Texas Towns

PORT ARTHUR (UP).—Beaumont and Port Arthur citizens look upon their large oil refining facilities as vulnerable spots on the United States coastal defense map.

They have pooled their influence to seek establishment of an anti-aircraft regiment in Jefferson county for protection in event of foreign aggression.

Mayor Neal Rader and B. T. McWhorter, Jr., of Port Arthur, and William G. Powell, recently appointed for one year to seek new industries for Beaumont, appeared in Washington in interest of the defense proposal.

Representatives of the two cities pointed out that the nearest military protection for the Port Arthur-Beaumont refining area is at Fort Crockett on Galveston island, 60 miles distant.

The cities contend that insufficient protection would be afforded in time of war from the military air forces at Barksdale field at Shreveport, La., 180 miles distant, and at Kelly and Randolph training fields at San Antonio, 300 miles away.

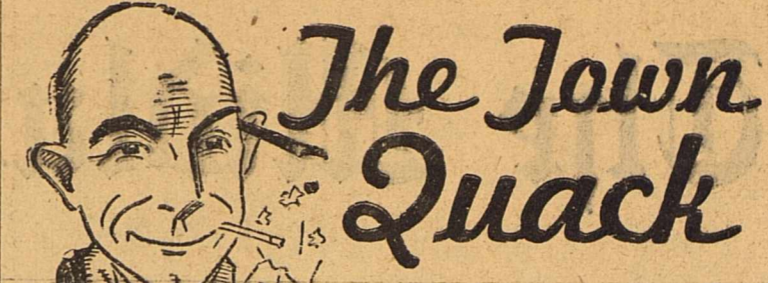

Prize Pointer Found In Cross-Country Hunt

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (UP).—An extensive search over several states—California to Arkansas—ended here when a bird dog was located.

Spotter, a blooded pointer, was held in Garland county jail here two days before he was crated up and sent "home" to Arizona.

The dog's owner traced the animal to the horse car and requested state police to help get the dog back.

When the car drawing the trailer of thoroughbreds stopped here, police found the dog.

Sociologist Forecasts Still Lower Birth Rate

CLEVELAND (UP).—Children are a total loss, economically speaking, believes Dr. Paul Popenoe, eugenicist and sociologist.

He said that since this is an age of industrialized mechanization, a decrease in the birth rate will be noticeable in the next decade's census.

City apartments house a great percentage of the population and children are barred from many of them, he added.

He said that as a result of this condition "the child has no place to play, and with mother and father out all day, has no adult cultural patterns to follow." Such a child never progresses further than the adolescent stage of emotional development, according to Dr. Popenoe.

Former Midland Girl Will Wed Houston Man

Of interest to friends and relatives in Midland where she formerly lived is the following announcement of the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Julia Ann Aycock, taken from a Houston paper:

Mrs. Frank T. Connor of Fort Worth entertained Friday at the Plaza Hotel with a luncheon of 30 covers, at which time announcement was made of the engagement of her daughter, Miss Julia Ann Aycock, to Sidney H. Dunken Jr., of Houston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney H. Dunken of Dallas. The luncheon board was centered by a large slipper filled with pink rosebuds, and each place was marked by a miniature slipper which held the announcement of the approaching marriage, which will take place June 25 at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank T. Connor, in Fort Worth. Miss Aycock attended Our Lady of Victory college in Fort Worth and S. M. U., where she was a member of Chi Omega sorority. She is the niece of Mrs. T. T. Harkins of Houston, with whom she has made her home for the past two years. Mr. Dunken is a graduate of S. M. U. and also attended Oklahoma university, and was a member of Kappa Alpha fraternity. He is now in business in Houston, where the couple will make their home.

A number of affairs have been planned to honor Miss Aycock, including a luncheon June 1, a dinner June 1 and a dance June 3, hostesses to be announced later. The bride-to-be will spend the week of June 7 in Midland with her grandmother, Mrs. J. A. Haley, and will go on from there to Fort Worth to spend the remainder of the time before her wedding with her parents.

The bride-elect is the granddaughter of Mrs. J. A. Haley and the niece of Mrs. R. R. Porterfield of this place. Her mother, Mrs. Connor, is the former Miss Myrtle Haley and Mrs. Harkins is the former Miss Cora Mae Haley of Midland.

Miss Allene Davis Becomes Bride of Elmo Reeves in Afternoon Ceremony

First of the several Midland weddings scheduled for June took place Thursday afternoon when Miss Allene Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Davis of Palo Pinto, and Elmo Reeves were married at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Brock, 805 S. Weatherford, at 2 o'clock.

Ferns and daisies were used in the reception rooms and the couple stood before a table decorated with the blossoms and greenery for the ceremony which was read by Rev. L. L. Hanks.

There were no attendants.

The bride chose a navy crepe bolero dress with beige trim for her wedding costume. With it she wore a veiled blue straw hat and beige shoes, her handkerchief also being in beige.

Following the ceremony, a reception for the group of friends who attended the wedding was held.

The bride cut the two-tiered, white-iced wedding cake which was decorated with tiny figures of a bridal couple. The cake stood on a silver platter wreathed in orange blossoms.

After the reception, Mr. and Mrs. Reeves left for a short wedding trip to El Paso after which they will be at home at 201 E. Pennsylvania.

The bride traveled in a suit of royal blue crepe with navy accessories.

Mrs. Reeves is a graduate of John Tarleton college at Stephenville and has lived in Midland since last September. She is employed by the C. I. T. corporation here.

Mr. Reeves, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Reeves of Houston, also came to Midland last September. He attended the air force technical school at Rantoul, Illinois, and is now a radio wireless operator at Sloan field.

Miss Ima Ruth Davis of Palo Pinto, sister of the bride, was an out-of-town guest at the wedding.

Town's Hurdle Mark Looked Safe And Then Along Came Fred Wolcott

By JERRY BRONFIELD
NEA Service Sports Writer.

Perhaps you've heard the name mentioned this spring, or have seen it somewhere in print. Wolcott is the name—Fred Wolcott. He's a sophomore at Rice Institute, down in Houston, Tex., and it shouldn't take more than a year for him to prove he's the greatest hurdler in the world.

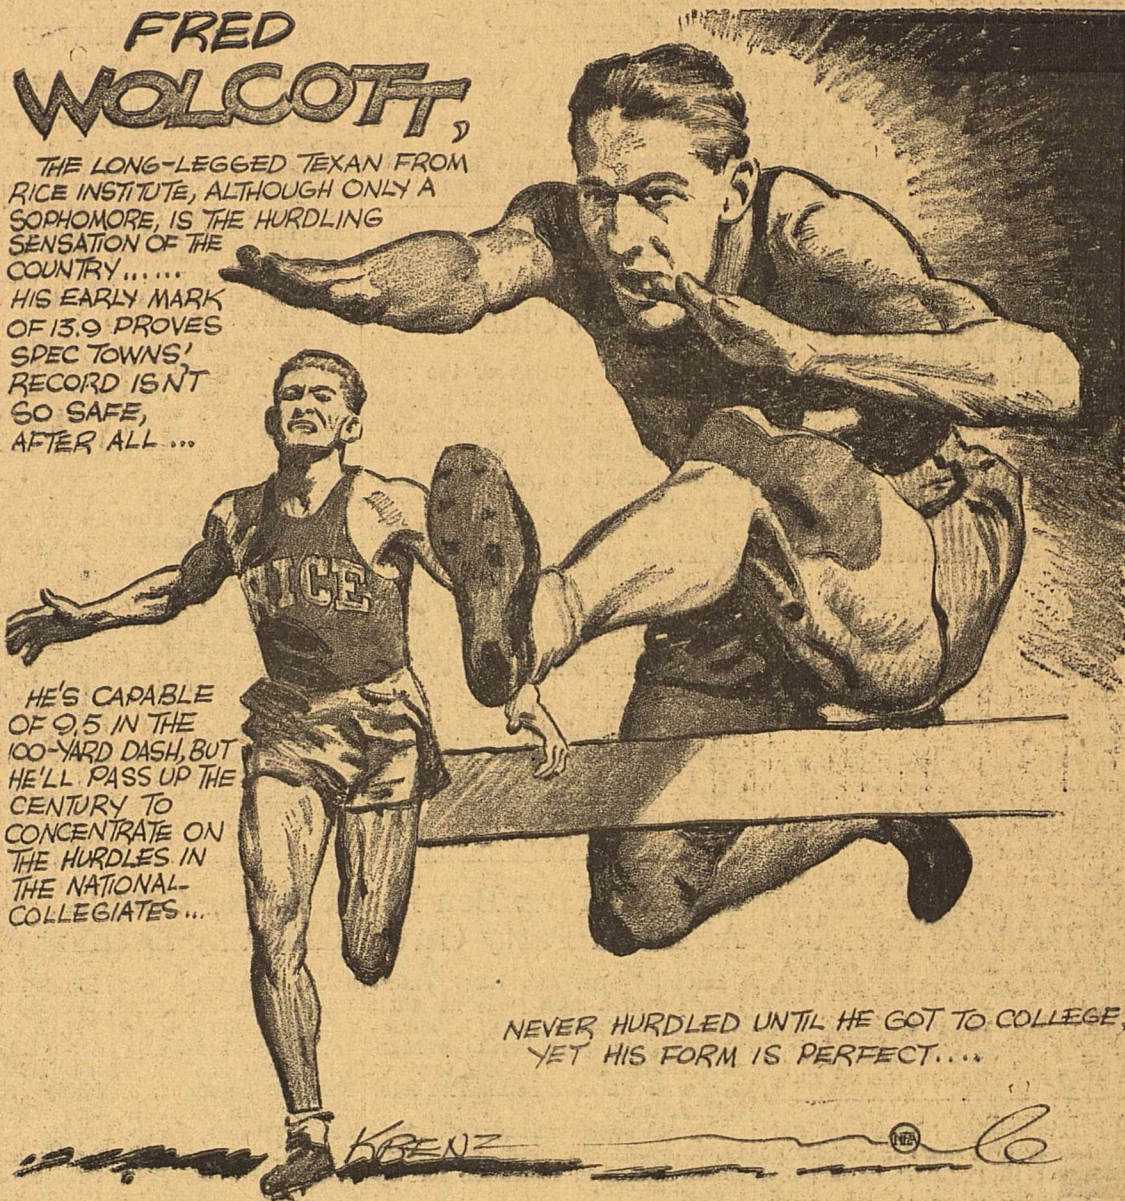

That's a lot of territory, and of necessity takes in the state of Georgia, which boasts Forrest (Spec) Towns, Olympic champion and world record-holder. Until this long-legged blond from the Texas plains burst unheralded into prominence this spring no one had ever thought Towns' mark of 13.7 would be endangered for years to come. Towns was the first man in the world ever to shade 14 seconds and when he sliced the record down to where it now stands it looked mighty high and dry.

That was before Fred Wolcott sailed over the 120-yard high sticks in 13.9. "If I hadn't seen it I wouldn't have believed it," sputters Emmett Brunson, Rice cinder coach. "I was goggle-eyed and was all for sending my step watch to the jewellers for a complete overhauling. And he's only a sophomore. Say, wait! That kid gets his full growth!"

HE'LL BE FAVORED LIKE WAR ADMIRAL. Young Mister Wolcott is liable to get his full growth along about June 18-19 and run hot at the National Collegiate at Minneapolis. He'll probably go to the post with odds smacked on him something like those the experts chalk up for War Admiral, and like the Admiral he'll be the entry everyone would like to beat.

Living in a small town of Snyder, Tex., the only thing Wolcott knew about the hurdles as a high school boy was what he saw in the sports pages, showing action pictures of Sam Allen, Percy Beard, and Spec Towns.

Yet as a freshman at Rice when he ran his first full flight of hurdles he amazed everyone with a time of 14.3. Wolcott is a natural. Not only because of his terrific speed, but because of his inherent grace and muscular co-operation, all of

FRED WOLCOTT,
THE LONG-LEGGED TEXAN FROM RICE INSTITUTE, ALTHOUGH ONLY A SOPHOMORE, IS THE HURDLING SENSATION OF THE COUNTRY..... HIS EARLY MARK OF 13.9 PROVES SPEC TOWNS' RECORD ISN'T SO SAFE, AFTER ALL...

HE'S CAPABLE OF 0.5 IN THE 100-YARD DASH, BUT HE'LL PASS UP THE CENTURY TO CONCENTRATE ON THE HURDLES IN THE NATIONAL COLLEGIATES...

NEVER HURDLED UNTIL HE GOT TO COLLEGE, YET HIS FORM IS PERFECT....

which makes him the ideal hurdler. His form is perfect.

The University of Texas had held a monopoly on the Southwest Conference track title since 1932, but this year Rice—and Wolcott—put a stop to all that. There was nothing to it after Fred had won the high hurdles in 14.1, the lows in 23 flat (best time the nation wide this year), the 100-yard dash in 9.8, and ran as a member of the 440-yard spring relay which breezed home in 41.4.

LOOKS LIKE DOUBLE WINNER IN NATIONALS.

He hung up his remarkable 13.9 in the Texas Relays this spring, and in a triangular meet with Texas A and M, broke the tape in 14 flat. In that same triangular affair he won the century dash in 9.5.

From the looks of things the Blond Express should be the first National Collegiate double hurdles winner in modern times, since in all probability he'll pass up the 100-yard dash to concentrate on his specialties. Majoring in physical education, Wolcott intends to wind up his active career with the Olympic Games at Tokio in 1940. Such, at least, are his hopes.

The name is Wolcott. You'll probably find something like this in the Olympic summary that year. *100-Meter Hurdles: Won by P. Wolcott (U. S. A.)

Robin Eggs Hatched On Top of Refrigerator

NORTH MANCHESTER, Ind. (UP)—Raymond Brooks, city attorney, hatched "cold storage" robins inside a unit on top his electric refrigerator.

Brooks saw his angora cat snatch a robin off her nest in a tree. The North Manchester city attorney rescued the "orphaned" robin eggs and took them into his house. He tested the unit on top his refrigerator and finding the temperature to be around 100 degrees, made a nest in the unit. All the eggs hatched.

Out-of-State Tourists Flock to Williamsburg

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (UP)—A survey of automobiles in the restored colonial capital of Virginia has disclosed that out-of-state cars far outnumber local and state vehicles.

The check of 400 automobiles showed visitors from 21 states, all viewing the $15,000,000 restoration work made possible through a gift of John D. Rockefeller Jr., while only 83 cars were from Virginia and 29 local.

The District of Columbia and Canada also were represented. New York headed the list with 129 cars.

Ancient Curse Defied; Violent Death Follows

LONDON (UP)—A curse which is said to have cost many lives was defied by F. W. Jacquemin, of Wolverhampton, when he lay down in the desecrated sarcophagus of the last abbot of the ruined Bindon Abbey at Wool, Dorset.

By his action, Jacquemin has, according to local superstition, doomed himself to violent death within a year. Since the abbot's tomb was robbed more than 200 years ago,

SETS WINNING GOAL AT $100,000.

Roberts split $40,000 with Lou Moore, for whom he drove, in coming down in front on the Hoosier bricks. He hopes to make $100,000 one way or another before he is finished. There are endorsements, retainers from accessory companies and such.

But to get back to Roberts' courage on the racing strips. Just previous to the crack-up in Reading, a rock broke his goggles and lodged glass in one eye early in a race at Roby Speedway, Chicago. It was under such a handicap that Roberts pushed Rex Mays to such an extent that the Indianapolis driver lapped the field twice in a 50-mile race. They staged a blanket-finish.

A year ago, Roberts broke the big bone in his arm while clowning in a bicycle race for drivers eight days before the Indianapolis grind. He kept the painful mishap to himself, had the arm taped and braced with leather, and drove 480 miles before he was flagged down in 13th place.

While born and raised on a farm, Roberts came into racing naturally. His father was a steam and gas engineer and inventor, and Floyd learned about engines as a child.

Floyd raced neighboring kids on bicycles as a kid, and started to race motorcycles at North Dakota country fairs at the age of 16. Roberts first dreamed of his Indianapolis conquest when he migrated to southern California in 1920.

CONSIDERED DIRT TRACK HICK FIRST TIME OUT.

He built his own car, and in 1934 was runner-up to Rex Mays for the West Coast Championship. Roberts was considered a dirt track hick when he first came to Indianapolis in 1935, but with only 15 laps of practice he average 118.673 for 25 miles in qualifying, and sat in the front row in the big race in which he finished fourth.

Roberts never was worse than seventh in 1936, and was in third place when forced out of the 500 by lack of gas. The boys were limited to 37 1/2 gallons that trip.

It was after that race that Louis Myer, the only three-time winner of the event, remarked: "Well, gentlemen, I've won one race and an economy run. I'd like to come back and win one more race." Roberts, who is 38, averaged 117.20 miles an hour in winning a new record, drove a plain job which he says he could have stepped up to 123 miles an hour had he needed to. The dirt track product virtually coasted to his glorious triumph over $50,000 and $75,000 racing jobs. He'll be back next year with the same mount and a new engine.

Hurricane at Its Height

Stings Repay Kindness So Bees Are Executed

NEW ORLEANS (UP)—Hundreds of golden honey bees died because they stung those who tried to be kind to them.

The bees set up housekeeping on a trolley wire on Canal street, the city's busiest thoroughfare. For three hours they paid no attention to power company employees who attempted to remove them. Street cars lowered their trolleys and coasted under the nest.

The employees, who were assured the bees could be coaxed into a sack, chose this peaceable method. They retreated with swelling faces, hands and arms. Abandoning their gentle tactics, they soaked the sack in gasoline, tied it to a pole and then set fire to the swarm.

Old Pencil Sharpener Made 100 Years Ago

DES MOINES (UP)—A pencil sharpener which he estimates is nearly 100 years old is owned by W. R. Nelson, Des Moines carpenter.

The device, called a "pencil pointer," was made in Hamburg, Germany, and resembles a miniature lathe. More than a foot long and made of iron, the device operates with a crank.

Tooth Decay Now Linked With Erosion of Soil
 PHILADELPHIA, (U.P.).—Soil erosion, which has caused tremendous damage in certain sections of the United States, also is responsible for increased tooth decay, according to a former president of the Pennsylvania State Dental Society.
 "Ninety-eight per cent of all Americans have imperfect teeth," Dr. Fred D. Miller told the organization's 70th annual convention. "This is definitely the result of eating foods which have been demineralized, either through soil erosion or by refining, as in the case of white sugar and white bread."

Happiness in Old Age Traced to Preparation
 ITHACA, N. Y. (UP).—Old age can be an asset if properly planned for, according to Mrs. Christine Morton of the New York State College of Home Economics.
 Mrs. Morton believes that "being happy at 70 is largely a matter of acquiring interests and hobbies that will fill the leisure of later life."
 "Old age is a definite period of life," explains Mrs. Morton, "and it needs as much preparation as a career. Most old people who are happy have plenty to do every day."
 The excuse that "busy people have no time to adopt hobbies for their old age," is questioned by Mrs. Morton. She believes that one hour each evening given to a hobby will aid in making old age more vital.
 Mistletoe will not grow upon all varieties of trees. It grows on several, but gives preference to apple, linden, locust, maple, oak, and poplar.

TOMMY'S CHOICE
 Tommy Farr, British heavyweight, and his lovely bride-to-be, Eileen Wenzel, former member of the Ziegfeld Follies, are shown above at Chicago airport, en route from New York to Los Angeles. The couple have announced they probably will be married within the next few months.

How Farmers View Crop Control in the Corn Belt

BY WILLIS THORNTON,
NEA Service Staff Correspondent,
MACOMB, Ill. — Despite protests against corn acreage allotments and possible "farm dictatorship" by farmers joining the Corn Belt Liberty League, many farmers are going along with the government's plans in this section.

The truth is, neither those who are joining in the League's protest, nor those who follow the government lead, understand the plan very well. It is like the Einstein theory, a thousand people talk about it for every one who understands it.

"I've never heard of the agricultural act or the ever-normal granary plan explained or discussed at any League meeting," says Andy Hodges. "There is a lot of arm-waving and talk about liberty and compulsion, but they never take up the plan itself."

"But it makes a lot of the farmers curious. They come in here and ask questions. And pretty near all of them agree with the plan after they've heard what it's about."

Hodges is president of the McDonough County Agricultural Conservation Association. There is such an association in every farm county.

THE PROS AND CONS OF FARM PROGRAM.

"We're not working against the League or paying any particular attention to it," Hodges resumed. "In fact, we agree with them that no compulsion can be used on American farmers. But we think this farm program is democratic in the way it works."

"Political parties have nothing to do with it. Those of us who believe in the plan and are working on it think it is bigger than parties, and that sometime like this will have to be carried on by whatever party is in."

Tilden Burg, head of the Corn Belt Liberty League, admits that the compulsory element in the present bill is diluted and remote.

But he fears for the future. "They get their foot in the door with the compulsory feature of this act, and next year it will be worse. Then the way is open for complete control over our farms by officials. That's what we want to head off right now," he says.

JUST WHERE IS THE COMPULSION?
So, compulsion being the issue, it is worth examining what degree and what kind of compulsion is provided by the act.

In the first place, no farmer need go along with the plan at all, but can plant whatever acreage he wishes.

If, when Aug. 15 rolls around, government estimates indicate a corn crop of 2,800,000,000 bushels (that is 110 per cent of normal supply and well above normal domestic and export needs), then things begin to happen.

The secretary of agriculture decides how much of that corn can be put on the market without breaking the price unduly. And every farmer in the 566 counties of the commercial corn-growing area is notified what is his share of that.

But before the quotas are made effective, two-thirds of the commercial-area growers must vote for it. Once so voted, it is effective against participants and non-participants alike. There is the compulsion.

Corn which a farmer has raised above his quota, once it is voted, must be stored, and not sold or fed, whether he takes part in the plan or not.

FINES LEVIED FOR NON-COMPLIANCE.

Corn marketed in excess of the quota draws a fine of 15 cents a bushel. To prevent hardship to farmers in having their capital tied up in the form of stored corn, the government will loan 25 cents a bushel on the corn. When the price rises to 75 per cent of parity (63 cents this year) the stored corn would be released to the market.

Backers of the present corn plan point out this: the 1936 crop burned out, causing a shortage. But last year's crop was so heavy that there is now a carryover of 1,667,678,000 bushels of unused, unsold, unfed corn in storage. A bumper crop this fall would knock the price back down around 20 cents unless control is effected.

But another thing that sticks in some corn belt farmers' craws is this: the allotment and quota limitations apply only to the 566 counties of the commercial area. Farmers outside that area can raise all the corn they like without being subject to limitation or penalty.

There is one specific possibility in the League which may be giving Secretary Wallace more worry than long-range political implications.

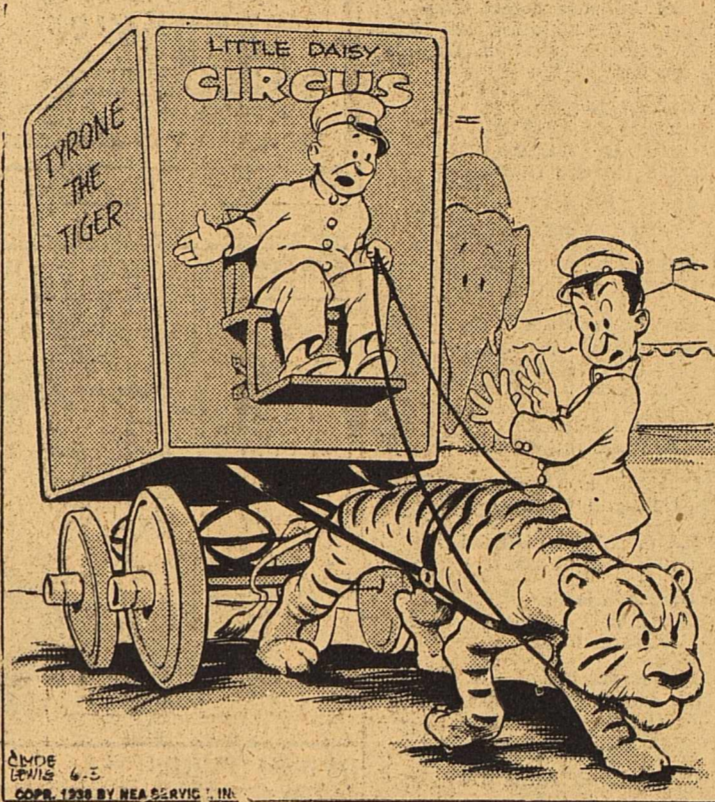

It is this: if a surplus looms in the fall, the League will be in a position, being organized, to oppose as a unit in the referendum the imposition of quotas. And since it takes two-thirds to ratify the quotas, the organized opposition of the League might be a vital factor.

"The word 'must' doesn't go with us," declares Tilden Burg, president of the Corn Belt Liberty League and outstanding foe of crop control. Pictured above on his farm near Macomb, Ill., Burg says his chief objection to the 1938 farm program is that it is "too rigid."

ply if he actually were in the state from which he claimed benefits. In taking a claim from an unemployed worker the "agent" state does not have any authority under the plan to make decisions regarding the worker's right under the law of the "liable" state. The "agent" state merely obtains the necessary information from the worker and forwards it to the "liable" state in order that the latter may make his own determination as to eligibility, and amount and duration of benefits, in accordance with its own law," Carpenter declared.

Carpenter explained that the interstate plan as it now stands does not include workers who habitually commute from their homes in one state to their work in another. The interstate benefit payment committee has taken the position that at least until all states are paying benefits and are in an equal position to handle claims, such workers can without difficulty travel the short distance to register and file their
