Midland Girls Take Leading Parts in Camp Activities

Midland girls attending Camp Mary White, regional Girl Scout located in the southeastern mountains of New Mexico, are taking active interest in camp activities, according to their respective interests. Jean Lewis, old-timer in camp, organized a pep squad for the Fourth of July that boosted the unit's two contestants in archery and probably raised the unit score, inasmuch as one of the contestants made a bull's eye. The pep squad also tried to carry off the hog-calling contests by running and squealing as pigs when their hog-calling entrant began her call. The unit came in second. Jean was one of the referees for the jacks contest in which younger campers entered. During Scouts' Own Sunday evening she played the part of Minerva, in a story of constellations. She is spending this week on a pioneering trip to Turkey springs.

Another Midland girl who is capturing camp attention is Dolores Ann Barron, member of the unit of younger girls. They were asked to put on the story of Cinderella Saturday evening in four scenes, all of them out of doors. They improvised their lines and adapted the story to camp. Dolores was Cinderella and received many compliments for her acting.

Instead of riding a coach to the ball she rode a horse bareback, for she is considered one of the best younger riders in camp, and her flowing gown did not prevent her from finally managing to get on the horse's back, with the aid of the Fairy godmother who pushed her up.

She also took part in Scouts' Own, Sunday evening, playing a piano solo. On the Fourth of July she won first place in the three-legged race. That evening she and her partner, Margaret Mims, were awarded a prize for second most original costume at the old-timers' ball. Dolores wore an Indian dress. Margaret Mims is keeping pace with Dolores in showing interest and ability in a variety of activities. In the play, Cinderella, she was the Fairy Godmother and created a conveyance out of two pine cones and a water bucket that later became the pony for Cinderella.

In the contests that occupied the Fourth, Margaret won first place in jacks finals. Margaret and Dolores are both going on an all-day hike this week and after that will take part in the Halloween program this Saturday night that marks the end of the first session of camp.

Wesley Bible Class Has Monthly Social At Feeler Home

Mrs. M. J. Allen brought the devotional at the monthly social of the Wesley Bible class of the Methodist church held at the home of Mrs. J. E. Feeler on the east highway Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. M. D. Johnson read a brief report on one part of the general conference which met at Birmingham recently.

A review of the Sunday school lessons for June was also held with Mrs. Johnson asking the questions.

Mrs. Annie Brunson was a visitor and also a niece of the hostess who came in for part of the afternoon.

A refreshment course was served to the visitors and to the following members: Mmes. Allen, R. W. Patterson, T. A. Fannin, J. M. Hughes, J. M. Reising, Stephenson, W. A. Black, M. D. Johnson, Allen Arnold, M. D. Johnson, H. S. Merrell, and the hostess.

Bible Class Concludes Study Of Book of John

The last three chapters of the book of John were studied by members of the Women's Bible class of the Church of Christ in their weekly meeting at the church Tuesday afternoon. Minister Harvey Childress taught the lesson.

Mrs. G. W. Southern of Dallas, mother of Mrs. Childress, was a visitor.

Members present were: Mmes. D. Davis, Harvey Childress, Curtis Bond, W. F. Hejl, Blum.

girls are in the Medina ranch, which has occupied itself, so far with handicrafts and sports. This ranch is divided into two groups, the Pioneers who like trips out of camp and the others who do not and are therefore named the Settlers. The Settlers are occupying their time this week with working up dances for the floor show to be given Halloween evening. They are: Kathryn Jordan, Patty Lou Griswold, Mary Lou Hoskins, Liza Jane Lawrence, Marjorie Ann Monaghan and Margaret Ann West.

In addition to this, Kathryn and Barbara have made dish gardens for centerpieces at Great Hall, small gardens made from moss with trees and flowers. Liza Jane is working on a Charlie McCarthy act. Mary Lou and Marjorie are doing a great deal of horseback riding. Margaret West is interested in crafts.

Margaret also entered the Fourth of July contests and won second place in jacks.

Former Midland Girl Wed Monday At Big Spring

BIG SPRING, July 6.—Roger Read, son of a pioneer Coshoma ranch family, Mr. and Mrs. H. Noble Read, and Miss Rae Elizabeth Price of Ocate, N. M., were married at high noon Monday at the home of Read's aunt, Mrs. Mattie Leatherwood, 410 Johnson, in an impressive ring ceremony read by Dr. D. F. McConnell, pastor of the First Presbyterian church.

The bride, who is the daughter of R. D. Price, formerly of Midland but recently of Ocate, selected a beige tailored suit for her wedding attire and carried brown accessories.

She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Stradley of Midland, pioneers of that section. For the past few years she has been living with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Strong of Ocate. She is a graduate of the Midland high school, attended the New Mexico Normal university in Las Vegas and taught school near there last year. She is a student in the university this summer.

Since early fall, Read has been associated with his uncle, John H. Leatherwood, in the ranching business near Las Vegas. He is a graduate of the Big Spring high school.

Wedding guests were Mr. and Mrs. Norman Read of Coshoma, Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Byron of Eunice, N. M., Elsie Folk, Amy Damron, George Lynn Brown and Miss Leatherwood.

The couple left Tuesday for Las Vegas where they are to make their home.

Bridgettes Meet With Mrs. Cooper At Afternoon Party

Mrs. S. O. Cooper entertained for the Bridgette club with an afternoon party at her home, 1209 W. Illinois, Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Two tables of bridge occupied the attention of the group during the playing hours with high score going to Mrs. L. A. Tullos and second high to Mrs. S. M. Erskine, a new member.

A refreshment plate was served at the close of the games to the following, all club members: Mmes. A. E. Horst, J. J. Kelly, Tullos, Erskine, R. R. Cowan, S. M. Warren, K. S. Blackford, A. H. Riley, and the hostess.

Missionary Society Holds Business Session Tuesday

Postponed from Monday because of the holiday, the regular business meeting of the Methodist women's missionary society was held at the church Tuesday morning at 9:30 o'clock.

Mrs. J. M. Prothro, society president, presided.

Mrs. W. C. Hinds offered the opening prayer.

The devotional for the session and also the closing prayer were brought by Mrs. C. E. Nolan.

The WMS will continue to meet through the summer, it has been announced, Bible study lessons being held each Monday at the church at 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon. The study text is "The Way of the Witness" and the reading book accompanying it is "By the Waters of Bethesda."

Mrs. Frank Prothro will be leader for next Monday's study.

Quick-Freezing Is Aid to Proper Food For Year-Round

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following paper was presented by Miss M. Elizabeth Wilson, county health nurse, at the regular health program sponsored by the county health board over radio station KRLH this morning at 11 o'clock. Author of the paper is Dr. W. W. Bauer.

FROZEN ASSETS.

The title of this talk has nothing to do with stocks, bonds, bank credits, mortgages or any of the frozen assets of that nature which have been such cold comfort to most of us these past years. On the contrary, it deals with assets that must be frozen if they are not to become liabilities at seasons of the year when hot weather is the rule. I am talking about perishable foods.

In the primitive days when everybody raised his own foodstuffs, See (Quick-Freezing) Page Four.

Feminine Fancies

Tactics, where romance is concerned, must be really tactful or they won't work. Probably Mrs. Hedi Heusser has realized that now. She is the redheaded divorcee who was so determined to marry a man 20 years her senior that she simply went to his home and announced she would stay there until he married her.

She didn't, of course. The gentleman in the case left the house to her and took up his abode elsewhere and poor Hedi, after nine days of staying inside and watching for a bridegroom who did not come, left the house—to eat a hot dog.

Moderation in all things is desirable, the wise men have said. Certainly in such affairs of the heart as in determining to marry a man who does not want to marry you, a woman should observe it with tremendous strictness.

Poor Hedi, she might have saved herself much humiliation and the masculine world a chance to make scornful remarks if she had mixed her devotion with a considerable quantity of good common sense.

The old laws still hold. In 1938 as a thousand years ago, a man is certain he does not want to marry a woman if he is too bluntly told that he shall and must.

Burlap, like many other hitherto scored fabric, is coming into favor in the fashion parade. Now clever and inexpensive sets of a jacket and bag for informal vacationing are being made of burlap—yes, plain old burlap. The loose-hanging jacket with big patch pockets lined with gay cotton print and so is the handbag.

What a chance for the nimble needlewoman to have something new to perk up her costume at a minimum of cost!

We have heard of bath mits and of cold cream gloves but the newest development in the line of toiletries knick-knacks is the talcum mitt.

These talcum mitts are made of terry cloth and packed inside with talcum. The powder sifts through the terry and does away with the need for a puff.

They may be matched to a color scheme and a clever hostess will supply a pair for each guest's bath.

The newest wrinkle in the serving of fruit is to put it before your guests in individual dishes shaped like apples, or pineapples, or even halves of melons.

And of course, to top the service with special swank, the hostess may serve the fruits at the table from a "Big Apple" dish.

Are you the kind of traveler who has a mania for buying this and that as souvenirs of your trip—and then finding no place to pack them? Then you will want the newest improvement in the way of luggage—a duck bag that folds flat and goes into the bottom of your bag (matching the latter, of course).

When you start buying souvenirs, take out and unfold the bag, fill it, and presto! you have simply another piece of good-looking luggage.

Most of the new monster planes are so large and have such complete electrical equipment in them that they are compelled to install a separate motor to take care of the electrical output.

Ryder Cup Mates Block Shute's Try for P. G. A.

BY ART KRENZ. NEA Service Golf Writer. SHAWNEE-ON-DELAWARE, Pa. —With all of his Ryder Cup teammates and a score or more other definite threats shooting at his crown, wily Denny Shute attempts to win the P. G. A. Championship for the third consecutive year over the Shawnee Country Club course here, July 12-16.

Only one man has bagged this coveted title more than twice. . . the great Walter Hagen, who held it five times. Long Jim Barnes, Leo Diegel, and Gene Sarazen are the others who have prevailed on two occasions.

There is $15,000 in prize money this trip. Qualifying rounds take place, July 10 and 11, with the low 63 and the defending champion entering the match play competition in the form of two 18-hole matches the following day.

Hagen will make his first appearance in competition in this country in almost two years, having recently returned from a world tour.

Seven former champions will tee off . . . Hagen, Sarazen, gray-haired Tommy Armour, Paul Runyan, Johnny Revolta, and Shute.

PAR FOR 6655-YARD SHAWNEE COURSE IS 72. PAR at Shawnee is 72. The layout measures 6655 yards.

The hole-ground is situated in the Poconos, not far from the summer resort, Delaware Water Gap and the pretty little town of Stroudsburg, where Gene Tunney completed his training for the first Dempsey fight.

Long-hitting Jimmy Thomson is the home professional.

Following the P. G. A., the crack field moves to Olympia Fields for the $5,000 Chicago Open, July 22-24; thence to the $7500 St. Paul Open, July 29-31; a new $10,000 Cleveland Open, Aug. 11-14; the $3,500 Canadian Open in Toronto, Aug. 18-20; the $3000 Lake Placid tournament, Aug. 26-28; the $5000 Hershey, Pa., Invitation, Sept. 1-4; the $4000 Glens Falls, N. Y., Open,

Sept. 9-11; and a new $12,500 Westchester Open at White Plains, N. Y., Sept. 22-25. A beautiful P. G. A. Honor Award, dedicated to the memory of Harry Vardon, has just been completed and will be presented during the P. G. A. Championship to Harry Cooper, its first winner, who had the best scoring average in 1937 based on the P. G. A. system. GULDahl, TOP SCORER, EARNS ONLY $350.

TOWERING RALPH GULDAHL, who leads this year, is fairly certain to make his presence felt at Shawnee. The two-time United States Open champion has played 32 rounds of tournament medal play this year at an average of 1.5 strokes per round. This stretch of sub-par golf has placed the Texas-born Norwegian far ahead of his fellow professionals. He picked up 160

Monahans Tourney To Start Sunday

MONAHANS, July 6.—With $250 in prizes awaiting the winners, Monahans' first annual golf tournament and calcutta pool will get under way here this week-end with qualifying play for medalist honors scheduled for Saturday at the Monahans Golf club. All qualifying scores must be in by 6 p. m.

The tournament committee said that registrations to date indicate at least five or six flights in the match play which will start promptly at 8 o'clock Sunday morning.

The championship match will carry more than $70 in prizes and winner, runner-up and consolation prizes will be awarded in all flights.

Quick Freezing

the consumption of fresh and perishable foods such as meats, fish, vegetables and fruit was not only a seasonal matter, but was regulated to a great extent by the ability to raise a given amount in a given locality. With the exception of those food products which are kept well when packed, like apples, oranges, smoked meats or pickled fish, or which could be picked green and ripened in shipment, like bananas, the resources for a varied diet were fairly well limited to what could be raised in the immediate locality and season were sharply circumscribed. About the only exceptions were to be found on the tables of the rich, who could afford fancy prizes for hot-house goods or for those shipped laboriously and expensively in ice-packs. Even they had to be content with the more or less inferior taste and quality characteristic of such preserved products.

Today the picture is a different one. The dietary of the average American family is cosmopolitan. Fruits and vegetable from distant climes are to be found in virtually every market at prices that all except the very poor can afford. Nor do seasons exert the influence they used to do. All this is due to the more effective development of refrigeration, and in particular to the application of the process of quick freezing and the use of so-called dry ice.

Cold storage, of course, is nothing new. Even the jokes about it are old. But within the past few years there has been developed the process known as quick freezing, by means of which the oceanless prairies of the Middle West can be served deep-sea fish as fresh as the sea-board gets them and as tasty, while vegetables can be shipped longer distances and received fresher than by the use of the older methods.

Quick freezing is accomplished in one of three ways: by an air process in which the food is exposed to air in a freezing chamber at a temperature of 14 degrees below zero; and more lately by the use of a fog or spray of brine at only 3 degrees below zero, which is the quicker and more effective. Vegetables to be frozen are first cleaned; fish are frozen whole if they are not too large, while larger fish and meat are frozen in parts of convenient size. The appearance and taste are preserved very well by this quick freezing, which adds to the market-ability of the product. Fruits are still the subject of experimentation.

The shipping of frozen foods has always been difficult, because as they thawed they had a tendency to deteriorate, and even if still safe enough, were undesirable because of taste or appearance. The development of dry ice has to a great extent overcome this handicap. Dry ice is solidified carbon dioxide, one of the gases which we breathe out of our lungs and which is also formed by certain types of combustion in furnaces. It is familiar to all as the fizz in carbonated drinks. Subjected to pressure it becomes liquid, cooled and expanded, it solidifies, being known then as carbon dioxide snow or dry ice. When this solid cake melts, it skips the liquid stage and becomes a gas at once. This is very convenient from the standpoint of packing, since it eliminates

Sister Meets Brother After 54-Year Lap

WILLOUGHBY, O. (U.P.)—Miss Catherine H. Kane, 80, has had a reunion for the first time in 54 years with her brother, William, 75, of Oklahoma City, Okla. He left home when a young man and neglected to come back or write. His sister did not know his whereabouts until he was injured in an automobile accident. points by winning the United States and Western Opens in successive weeks. That brought his total to 244 points with Paul Runyan, the little man with the big spoon, second with 207.

Cooper is third with 196, but he nevertheless continues to be the leading money winner, having collected $5523 in prize money since the first of the year. Sam Snead is second in this respect with $5512.

Although Guldlund holds the more valuable titles, he is eighth among the money winners, his earnings from purses alone being only $3530.

While Guldlund wouldn't swap his championships for much more than the combined earnings of Cooper, Snead, and a few more of the leaders, his money winning total gives you a rough idea of just how slim purse pickings are in one of the more exacting games.

But there is vastly more prize money involved when the sharpshooters go after a United States Open or P. G. A. Championship.

Improvements in trade are held by responsible in part for this early-rising tendency. More people are at work, and others are moving to the suburbs or to council estates.

The idea of workmen's tickets began about 60 years ago when workmen were being displaced from their homes by the building of certain of the big railway stations.

Ten years ago, the Railway Rates Tribunal fixed the scale of charges which at present work out at about 4 1/2 miles return for 5 1/2 pence (11 cents), ten miles return for 10 pence (20 cents), and so on—roughly a cent a mile.

The hour at which the ticket must be booked varies in different districts, but is generally before 7:30 a. m. or 8 a. m.

According to figures released by the London Passenger Transport Board, the number of journeys made on its railways under the workmen's ticket scheme increased from 68,000,000 in 1933-34 to 82,000,000 in 1936-37.

The total number of journeys made increased from 415,000,000 to 509,000,000 in the same period.

There is a minimum fare of 3 pence (6 cents), and the general basis of the workman's ticket is a return ticket for the price of an ordinary single. But there are variations of this, and where they occur they are really jaggeds from the company or undertaking that the Transport Board took over after 1933, when the board came into existence.
