Foes of New Deal Win 3 Elections

Virginia Solons Who Backed FDR Polling Victims

By Associated Press.
Late returns from yesterday's primaries in four states—Virginia, West Virginia, Kansas and Missouri—showed no shift in tabulations today. Roosevelt backers and anti-administration candidates divided democratic honors.
Pro-new dealers winning were: Senator McGill, Kansas; Representatives Ramsay, Edmiston, and Johnson, West Virginia.
Anti-new deal "democratic independents" winning were: Senator Clark, Missouri; Representative Howard Smith and former Representative Colgate Darden, Virginia.
Clark's landslide may have a bearing on the next democratic presidential selection. The state's supreme court race was won by James Douglas, St. Louis. The result showed defeat for the noted Pendergast Kansas City democratic "machine."
In the hot Kansas republican contest, Reverend Gerald Winrod, who opponents dubbed pro-Nazi, ran a poor third for the senatorial nomination. Ex-Gov. Clyde Reed was far ahead.
Gov. Walter Huxman, democrat, will be opposed by State Senator Payne Ratner, republican, in November.
Two Virginia democrats, seeking seats in congress as supporters of the Roosevelt administration, went down to defeat in yesterday's primary election.
William E. Dodd, Jr., was beaten by Rep. Howard W. Smith, who opposed the wage-hour and reorganization bills and reserved the right to vote against additional administration measures if he chose.
Rep. Norman R. Hamilton, who despite voting against the reorganization bill declared himself "a staunch supporter of the president" back to Colgate W. Darden, who called himself an "independent" candidate. Both Dodd and Hamilton conceded defeat.
Meanwhile in Kansas, the Rev. Gerald B. Winrod, denounced by clergymen and political leaders as a "Nazi" who advocated religious and racial intolerance, ran third in his race for the republican senatorial nomination. Former Governor Clyde M. Reed and Dallas Knapp, were in a close race for the nomination. Winrod denied the "Nazi" charge. In the democratic primary Senator George McGill was far ahead of his single opponent. He has consistently supported the administration.
In Missouri, Senator Bennett Camp Clark assumed his expected commanding lead over two opponents seeking his seat. Clark has repeatedly opposed the administration.

Italy to Bar Foreign Jews From Schools

ROME, Aug. 3. (AP).—The government announced today all foreign Jews would be barred from Italian schools at the beginning of the fall term.
The decree presumably will not apply to the 47,000 Jews who are Italian citizens. No move was made to exclude Jews from gaining Italian citizenship.
At the same time, a new program for increasing efficiency of the nation's armed forces was announced.

Congressman to Address Rotary; Public Invited

Reversing the usual procedure, Mrs. Katherine Mackay O'Brien, above, announced marriage—not divorce—plans in Reno and said she would wed Robert Zeimer Hawkins, young Reno lawyer. She is the daughter of Clarence Mackay, telegraph company magnate.

Congressman George Mahon of Colorado, Tex., who is representative of the nineteen congressional district, will be the speaker Thursday at the Rotary club luncheon, it was announced today by S. A. Debnam, program chairman.
Feeling fortunate in bringing this noted speaker to the city, Rotary club officials have thrown open to the public the privilege of attending the luncheon and hearing his address. Reservations may be made by contacting Clinton Lackey, club president, at the West Texas Gas Co. office, or Bill Collins, manager of the chamber of commerce, by 9 a. m. Thursday. The regular luncheon fee of 75 cents per plate will prevail.

Odessa-Crane Road to Be Reconditioned

ODESSA, Aug. 3. (AP).—Ector county commissioners were informed Tuesday that the Texas Highway Commission has approved a $45,000 allocation for reconditioning of State Highway 51 from Odessa to the Crane county line. The advice was contained in a letter from Robert Lee Bobbitt, chairman of the commission.
Contract for improvement of the 12-mile stretch will probably be awarded at the state board's next meeting. Highway 51 is the oldest paved state route in this area, having been constructed back in the days of the oil boom. It is a principal route leading into the Big Bend park region.

Governor May Order Probe in Death of State School Boy

FLORENCE, Ala., Aug. 3. (AP).—Governor Graves considered today a request to investigate the death of a young inmate of the Alabama boys' industrial school. State Legislator George Jones said "It appears the boy was brutally beaten before he died." Jones examined the body yesterday.
School officials said they would "welcome an investigation."

Tennessee Politicos Bar No Charges As Wild Campaign Roars to Climax

Democratic Battle Pits Crump's Memphis Machine Against State Organization of Governor Browning

By NEA Service.
MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 3.—A rough-house campaign that has brought charges of "gutter politics" before a senate committee, and which may even bring National Guardsmen to Memphis to supervise the primary election Aug. 4, is roaring across the "hog-and-hominy" state.
Gov. Gordon Browning, who spent the last 15 minutes of the World war in a pillbox under a devastating artillery barrage, is probably right at home in the current campaign. For the primary fight is a knock-down and drag-out affair between the state machine built up by Browning while his opponents cried "Tennessee Hitler," and the long-entrenched Crump machine in Memphis, which claims support of federal patronage.
Browning is running for re-election as governor, while Crump's candidate is State Senator Freddie Cooper. Browning is backing U. S. Senator George L. Berry, millionaire head of the Pressmen's Union, for re-election, and the Crump machine is opposing him with Tom Stewart. It is purely an intra-party fight, as all republicans have withdrawn.
BOTH SIDES CHARGED WITH SHAKEDOWN.
Whichever side wins there is likely to be an official contest of the results in the U. S. senate, whose committee investigating campaign expenses and practices has charged that Browning has been shaking down state employees and Crump federal employees with equal zeal and lack of scruple.
It is even rumored here that if Browning carries the state outside Memphis, and is nosed out by a 70,000 majority piled up by the Crump workers in the city, he will perhaps ask the state central committee to throw out the Shelby county (Memphis) vote and declare him the nominee. If he should lose even in the state committee, he may run as an independent in November.
The Tennessee situation has other similarities to the one which brought Huey Long to power in Louisiana. Not only is Browning stumping the state in the same swanky trailer once used by the Kingfish, but he is launching the same kind of an attack on the inequities of the big city (Memphis) which Long used so effectively among the bayou-billies in attacking the New Orleans opponents.

Long Illness Fatal To Midland Resident

Samuel Goode (Shorty) McLaughlin, 43, a mechanic here for the past score of years, died yesterday afternoon in Albuquerque, N. M., only two hours after he arrived there to undergo treatment in a veterans' hospital.

McLaughlin, an ex-war veteran, incurred injuries to his lungs during the war period that had caused him to resort to treatment several times since that time. In 1930, he entered the veterans' hospital at El Paso, where he received treatment for nine months.
McLaughlin was born in Colorado, Tex., April 19, 1895, and moved to Midland in 1909. He entered the army in 1918 and served in the 94th balloon corps at San Antonio following preliminary training at Austin. While still at Austin, he was given ranking of one of the best mechanics in the army. He never got overseas, and following his discharge from the army returned to Midland where he followed his occupation as mechanic until 1930. The condition of his health had prohibited him working since that time.
McLaughlin left here yesterday morning in an Ellis funeral home ambulance to enter the hospital in Albuquerque. His body is expected to be returned here late today.
The deceased is survived by his widow, mother, Mrs. Sam McLaughlin, one sister, Mrs. V. O. Baldridge, an uncle, Tom Warren, and a nephew, Billy Baldridge, all of Midland.
Funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

Army Air Base in Alaska Hinted as Conditions Studied

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3. (AP).—An aerial trip to Alaska by Louis Johnson, assistant secretary of war, provided a hint today the administration is considering development of a huge army air base in the far north.
Johnson said he would leave in a few days to inspect army posts and projects in Alaska and to study the feasibility of a base. A projected all-weather road northwest through Canada and Alaska will also be studied.
Johnson said the highway would be valuable in rushing men and munitions to Alaska in time of war. Congress authorized the air base two years ago.

Humble 47 J. S. Means, Andrews Well, Flows 5,430 Barrels a Day

For about 25 to 50 barrels a day, on pump. No increases had been logged in drilling to total depth of 4,780 feet in lime. The well was shot and acidized while bottomed at 4,582 feet. Its location is 860 feet out of the northeast corner of section 20, block A-41, public school land.

By FRANK GARDNER.
Flowing 5,430 barrels of pipe line oil on 24-hour potential gauge, Humble Oil & Refining Company No. 47 J. S. Means today established itself as the largest producer in Andrews county and also as the record well of the entire West Texas region north of Ector county.
Flow was through open 2-inch tubing and 2 1/2-inch outlet off casing, with accompanying gas gauged at 1,600,000 cubic feet daily. The big well was drilled to a total depth of 4,510 feet, and flowed 50 barrels an hour before acidizing, first with 1,000 gallons, then with 3,000 gallons.
It is located on the east side of the Means pool, in the north central part of the county, section 10, block A-35, public school land.
Location has been staked for a diagonal southeast offset to No. 47 Means, the No. 49 Means, located in approximately the center of the northeast of the southeast quarter of the same section.
Tubing and rods were being run yesterday in Olson Drilling Company No. 1 Lockhart & Brown, Andrews producer, five miles west of the Fuhrman pool, preparatory to taking a pumping test. The well was estimated in some quarters good

Reports on Lions Convention Made At Luncheon Today

Reports on the 22nd annual convention of Lions International, held recently in Oakland, Calif., were today noon made by Ed M. Whitaker and Bill Collins, delegates from the local club, at the regular weekly luncheon of the Midland Lions club, the delegates telling of their trips to the convention city and citing interesting incidents taking place at the convention. Both were high in their praises of the large Texas delegation attending the convocation, and declared the entire convention as most impressive and inspirational. The convention program was outlined, brief remarks on various addresses being made. Texas politics, which placed George B. Jordan of Dallas in the third vice-president's chair, assuring his election as international president in 1941, was lauded by both delegates. Other officers of the international organization are Walter F. Dexter, Sacramento, president; Alexander T. Wells, New York City; Karl M. Sorrick, Springport, Mich., and Jordan, Dallas, vice-presidents. Pittsburg was chosen as the 1939 convention city.

Fighting Is Continued On Border

Major Battle Is Anticipated as 2 Armies Strengthen

By Associated Press.
Soviet Russia threw on Japan's shoulders today responsibility for further conflict on the Siberian border and warned of serious consequences if Japanese "provocations" continued.
Russian officials declared she wishes a peaceful settlement of the quarrel and declared under existing conditions "further continuation of hostilities is inevitable."
Japanese directed a second protest in 24 hours to Moscow. A foreign office spokesman said Japan hoped to localize the trouble and settle it amicably.
As the fighting continued through the fourth day both countries claimed that the other side was taking the "offensive," and that the other's losses were heavy.
Large forces of troops, airplanes and tanks indicated the battle might be the prelude of major operations.
In Washington, army and diplomatic experts were inclined to believe the fighting would be concluded in an armed truce.
Following night-long aerial and artillery bombardments, Soviet Russians hurled six divisions, supported by 30 tanks, against Japanese positions at Schachofeng at 6 a. m. today, according to an army communiqué.
Japanese army sources said the Russians were repulsed with "heavy losses."
Schachofeng is a point near Changkufeng, dominating height in the Fossil Bay region on the ill-defined border of Russian Siberia, the Japanese colony of Korea and the Japanese protectorate of Man chow, and is about 150 miles southwest of Russia's important Far Eastern naval and military base of Vladivostok.
The Japanese communique describing the attack which came at 4 p. m., E. S. T., Tuesday, said "Japanese troops waited until the Soviets were with 230 yards, then charged and broke the Russian attack in hand-to-hand fighting."
The Russians quickly reformed their lines and returned to the assault an hour later but again were repulsed.
Meanwhile official sources, said Russian air squadrons bombed Kofu, a town on the Korean side of the border, "causing numerous civilian casualties."
Exact military losses on either side were not stated.

Rodeo Edition of Reporter-Telegram Set for August 21

Annual rodeo edition of The Reporter-Telegram will be published earlier this year, in order to circulate it over a larger territory and aid in attracting more spectators to the Midland Rodeo September 3-4-5. Publication date has been set for Sunday, August 21.
Although the exact number of pages or section has not yet been determined, the staff of the newspaper is at work on feature articles, as well as general rodeo news, to give the edition historical and informative value to the readers.
Distribution will be made in principal towns of the Permian Basin.

Beginning in this issue, The Reporter-Telegram is publishing a photo-serial, "Algiers," in six chapters, based on the Walter Wanger screen play and starring Charles Boyer. It is released by United Artists.
The photo-serial, in fast reading and racy form, offers to the newspaper readers an interesting and novel feature as well as a preview of the movie which will be shown later at a local theatre.

When It Rains ---- Water Controlled and On the Loose

The Reporter-Telegram staff cameramen offer a variety of views taken soon after the rains of last week. The aerial picture at extreme left was taken by Guy E. Bennett, linotype operator, who is an amateur photographer, on a trip with County Agricultural Agent S. A. Debnam and Pilot "Little George" McEntire, in the latter's plane. It shows contoured pasture land on the Hutt ranch after completion of "listing" work done under the soil conservation program. Rainfall formerly ran rapidly down the slope to a draw and into a small lake, thereby giving little benefit to the bulk of the pasture. The listing is calculated to hold the water in the furrows during a rain, increasing grass growth instead of providing surface water.

The second picture was taken by Debnam and shows the new surface lake built at the Mabree & Pyle "NA" ranch about 25 miles north of Midland. Built by Jack Mayfield with power equipment, the lake had just been completed and had caught water from only one rain, although water was standing at about eight feet in depth when the photo was taken. When the lake is filled, water will reach the level of the automobile which is barely visible as a black spot in the center of the picture. The dam is 350 feet long and water will stand 25 feet deep when the lake is filled, backing up approximately one mile.

Midland soon after an inch of rain fell. Water from that area runs northward and covers much of the south part of the golf course at Midland Country Club. The extreme right picture shows the east end of Goodman park, where Texas and Wall streets intersect, and was taken from the east side of the Catholic church. Note how the water covers the front bumper and hub caps of the automobile plying westward.

The Rodeo Is Not a Local Job.

If the stockholders and officials of Midland Fair, with their $60,000 investment, have failed to get as far as was expected in the three years of existence, it is because the entertainment events staged at the plant have not been made general enough in appeal.

True, the citizens of Fort Worth, El Paso and numerous cities between, have participated in the rodeo each year and have added to the interest and color of the fete, but the immediate territory surrounding Midland has never been cultivated to the extent that they feel the annual Midland Rodeo is their show.

To overcome this handicap, Midland Fair officials this year have enlisted the aid of oil men whose holdings and operations extend over several districts. These oil men are undertaking the task of interesting a hundred thousand people in this spectacular western event which, if critics are to be believed, compares favorably with the biggest and best of them.

Midland business men and citizens in general will want to show their appreciation of the efforts of these oil men, who have no angle of profit to be gained, by cooperating to the fullest extent, thereby aiding in bringing thousands of additional spectators to Midland Rodeo and making additional friends for Midland.

To be the success originally intended, and to justify the large financial investment, Midland Rodeo must be far more than a local event. It must belong to the hundred thousand citizens of the surrounding territory.

More Rush Than Gold.

That pioneer spirit—or something—is giving California a problem these days.

Recurrent rumors of rich gold strikes during the last year or so have drawn enough out-of-state prospectors to warrant describing the situation as a gold rush. The only trouble is that there isn't a great deal of gold.

Most of the "rushers" are farmers from the Dust Bowl. They bring their families, invest in a pick and a pan, and settle. They stick it out as long as they can, and then, as likely as not, they're forced to go on relief. Some of them manage to get back to the Dust Bowl.

The State Division of Mines figures that the average annual income of today's gold prospector is $50. The men who are old hands at the game sometimes pan as much as $1.50 a day.

California wants those figures broadcast as far and wide and fast as possible, in the hope that they may stem the emigrant tide. But will they? Scores of the prospectors who are already there stick till they drop, though they themselves are familiar with the figures.

News of the "slim pickin's" will probably stop them the way warnings of the discomforts of sleeping out-of-doors stop boy campers; the way revelations of the laws of chance stop gamblers; the way unemployment figures from Hollywood stop movie-struck girls.

Leading Public Figures at the Present Time

The Town Quack

Attending the press convention here yesterday were Editors Charley Roberts of Andrews, E. F. Hunt-Sucker of Goldsmith and Charley Green of the Hereford Journal. Editors Ralph Shuffler of Odessa and Cora Matlock Kelly of Stanton were noticeable by their conspicuous absence, although they probably were beating the bushes for business while the remainder, along with the local editor and Bill Collins and Jack Jordan, were drinking cokes at the Hereford Journal's expense. No wonder we have to take what's left, after this weekly invasion.

Speaking of press conventions, there really is going to be one over at Seymour August 12-13 when the West Texas Press association holds its annual get-together. According to Secretary J. C. Smyth of Snyder, there will be fish, cantaloupes, beating and swimming. To me, that usually means ptomaine, stomach-ache, sea-sickness and strangulation, because I take 'em in excess, but of course, that's my fault.

However, he adds further that there will be golf, swing music and sinuous Lake Kemp. I usually get profanity and sore feet from the first two, but perhaps Lake Kemp would soothe my aches and pains. But there's no use staying at home because Ralph Shuffler is the worst of all my ills, but of course I may run into him over at Seymour, so what shall I do?

Jake describes three kinds of newspapermen: (1) the "don't give a dam" class, (2) the "listen and learn" class and (3) the "dizzy lunatic who enjoys a more or less salubrious version of wine, women and song. Why didn't Jake go on and name (1) me, (2) Charley Roberts and (3) Ralph?

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3. — The LaFollette committee, through which labor spies have been introduced to the public for the first time, dug up a couple the other day and put them on the stand.

Scanning the committee room crowd, you can't spot spies from the rest. You exempt Mrs. LaFollette and other women, since steel spies are men. Also Vice-President C. M. White, or Republic steel, who chews gum, and his retinue, and a score of newspapermen and photographers and others you know. That leaves 30 or 40 men who might be spies, steel workers or spectators.

Chairman LaFollette, white-clad, sunburned, bespectacled and wearing in lapel the circled cross emblem of the new LaFollette political party (does anyone remember the name?), looks over the crowd.

WHAT A LABOR SPY LOOKS LIKE.
THEN he calls Harold F. Vargo, who promptly admits such aliases as Ira Albert and Richard Brooks. Vargo is a tall, slim, darty-eyed young fellow probably in his late twenties. His hair is plastered back, and he wears a pencil-striped blue suit, fancy-figure blue shirt and white-wash tie. He blows cigaret smoke through nose and mouth simultaneously and answers questions slowly and shrewdly. His grammar doesn't go to pieces until he becomes excited an hour later.

Yes, indeed, he was employed at the Republic plant in Youngstown in 1936-37 as Ira Albert, joined the union and organized workers. The boys elected him financial secretary and he kept track of all records and dues for a lodge of 1800 to 1900 members. Kept the records at home for safety.

Just before the big strike his resignation was asked — apparently, said he, because he wasn't "Communistically inclined." At this point only a few in the hearing room—including Vargo — know he's a spy.

LaFollette calls other leaders of the union lodge. Charlie Fagan, boyish-faced, swarthy Irishman who was fired before the strike, and Ed Valesky, soft-voiced, wavy-haired Pole, once a steel inspector, and others. Yes, rumors had come that someone was "turning in" names of new union members, who were being fired in different parts of the plant. Albert alone had the names of dues-payers. Albert, without suffering, spent much time away from work at meetings, at union headquarters. He was red-baiting (described as a company anti-union tactic).

NOT THE RIGHT TACTICS.
ALBERT would say, referring to Republic cops, "let's go up and clean 'em out." Explained Fagan: "A good union man never says that. . . . We took steps to eliminate this gentleman." It took a week to get the union safe from Albert. Records were incomplete and an affidavit mentioned $1,000 in dues as unaccounted for, which Albert denied.

Suddenly LaFollette pops an affidavit from the lady with whom Vargo previously lived in Buffalo. They were "getting along very well" when Vargo became disenchanted with $25 a week, became a Republic guard and went to Youngstown. "That's what I told her," snorted Vargo, denying Republic employment in Buffalo, but admitting under questioning he had gone to drive a cab during a Cleveland taxi strike.

WITNESS TELLS ALL.
WITHOUT warning, LaFollette demanded to know all strike-breaking and undercover jobs on which Vargo had worked. Vargo dropping a pose of innocence, revealed a series. Burly Chief Jim Williams of Republic lodge had sent him to Youngstown. (It had been "out on the grapevine that Jim Williams could use a few men.") Republic Police Captain Earl Butler gave him a gun and told him to "keep his eyes open." . . . At this point, Joseph Varnos, a swaggering self-contained fellow not quite as smooth as called to say he had gone to Youngstown with Vargo and had worked with him on previous jobs . . . Vargo said he had "worked on the picket line" after the strike began. He had been on both salary and expense account, merely telephoning Butler for cash when he needed it. The last payment was $300. Then he was sent to work for Republic in Buffalo.

The story of Vargo ended as Valesky, after asserting the man had tried to get himself and two others to chip in for bomb expenses, told how the group had been arrested and beaten up at the police station with the exception of "Albert". Vargo said the victims got what was coming to them.

Historic Peddler's Grave Receives New Monument
MAHANAOY CITY, Pa. (AP). — A monument has been erected by Mahanoy City residents at the "Peddler's Grave," burial ground of the community's first murder victim.

Jost Folhaber, an itinerant peddler, was murdered near this community on Aug. 11, 1791, by Benjamin Bailey of Morristown. His slayer was eventually apprehended and hanged at Reading.

Folhaber's murder was the subject of several historical papers. One was "The Immortal Peddler" and another is in the publication of the Schuylkill county Historical Society.

Vandals destroyed the former marker on the grave several months ago. Volunteers bought a new headstone and also landscaped the grave.

Nice Profit Shown In Fire Prevention

COLLEGE STATION. (AP). — Although the stretch between investment and profit is not readily comprehended, nevertheless a $20,000 legislative appropriation is returning Texas property owners a saving of approximately $10,000,000 a year in preventing fire loss, and at a cost of about $4,000 annually.

The appropriation, made by the state legislature in 1931, was for the equipping and operation of the firemen's training school at Texas A. and M. College and the bulk was spent for fire fighting apparatus and other permanent equipment. The $4,000 annual cost is for the salary and expenses of field instructor G. F. Williams, who spends about ten months yearly traveling and instructing Texas fire departments in the latest approved methods of fire fighting and fire prevention.

The training school was organized under Prof. H. R. Brayton's guidance in 1929 and the first annual fireman's training school was held in 1930, when 76 cities sent 196 men to attend the course. It has grown annually, until this year 245 cities were represented and approximately 600 firemen took part.

It was not until 1933, however, that

Nonstopper Dons Mayor Facing Recall Election

Scoffing at charges that his last campaign was "sponsored and financed by racketeers and political underworld" personalities, Mayor Frank L. Shaw, above, of Los Angeles, faces an election proposing his recall after reform groups obtained sufficient petition signatures to force the vote.

Fair Year Predicted For Hotel Business

WASHINGTON, (AP). — Hotel business the last part of this year will be above normal but not as good as last year, according to reports compiled by the American Automobile Association.

"Fewer than 20 per cent of the hotels replying to our questionnaire" the work was extended to the field. Cities sending representatives to the course receive a three per cent reduction in their key rate, providing the existing rate is not twenty cents or lower.

Figures compiled by Prof. Brayton show that between $40,000 and $50,000 in reduced fire insurance premiums are saved by Texas property owners each year, with more than $300,000 saved since the establishment of the school, through '37. The savings reported do not show the improvement made in fire fighting methods, Brayton explained. "In 1931 the fire loss in Texas amounted to more than $17,500,000 but in '37, after seven years of training school instruction, the loss was about $7,500,000. The fire loss ratio compared to insurance premiums was 75 per cent in 1931. But last year it was 34 per cent," he said. Meanwhile insurance premiums have shown considerable reduction in addition to the three per cent key rate reduction mentioned.

Prof. Brayton's report shows that the Texas fire loss for the five-year period ending in 1932 totaled about $21,000,000 as compared to almost $38,500,000 for a similar period ending in 1927. This reduction may be attributed in a large measure to the training given the firemen at the school, the director said.

"I attribute the success of the training school, not only to the increased efficiency of the firemen themselves, but to the fact that we have made Texas citizens fire prevention conscious," Brayton concluded.

Prof. Brayton is a member of the faculty of Texas A. and M. College, serving as professor of inorganic chemistry and chemical engineering, which department is in charge of the firemen's training school.

Cost of operation of the annual school is paid by nominal registration fee of $12 charged those enrolling.

High score was won by Mrs. K. S. Blackford and Mrs. Bill Van Huss second high score. Roses were used for decoration.

A fruit plate was served to guests Misses Bert Ross and L. R. Saunders; members Misses S. O. Cooper, R. R. Cowan, J. J. Kelly, E. D. Richardson, Van Huss, S. M. Warren, Blackford, M. A. Spry, A. H. Riley, S. M. Erskine, and the hostesses.

With the exception that the molecules are arranged differently, diamonds are of the same material as the soot of a lamp chimney, or the lead of a pencil.

Caution Should Be Enforced to Avoid Accidents in Home

Editor's Note: The following paper on "Household Emergencies" was presented as the chief feature of the weekly radio program broadcast over station KRLH this morning at 11 o'clock under the auspices of the Midland county public health board. The paper, written by Morris Fishbein, M. D., was read by Helen W. Stocking.

Mark Twain once said that the most dangerous place for a person to be was in bed, because more people die in bed than anywhere else. While the humorist was twisting the truth to make a comical line, the actual facts are that more people die from accidental causes at home than die in traffic or industry. Accidents cause more deaths in children from 10 to 14 years than any two diseases combined. Among the accidents that occur in the home and which bring about death are: 1—falls; 2—burns and scalds; 3—explosions; 4—asphyxiation; 5—cuts and scratches.

The human being is naturally an unstable animal. He walks on two feet while other animals walk on four. The baby, learning to walk, and the young child are hardly likely to balance as well or to be as careful as the person who is grown up. Therefore, children should be protected from falls by putting a safety gate at the top of the stairway and by penning the child in when it is not under observation.

Ladders used around the home should be safely constructed and not of flimsy material. Do not climb kitchen shelves or library shelves which are made for holding china and books and not the bodies of human beings. The use of weak shelves and overcrowding of shelves must be avoided.

Children should learn to keep their feet on the floor when looking out of windows and should not be allowed to climb on furniture or windowills. Children should always be kept out of the kitchen while cooking is going on, and out of the laundry during washing and ironing times.

Most important, however, of all in relationship to the prevention of accidents from falls in the home is the provision of plenty of light. Great numbers of people would stop falling down steps if the stairways were adequately lighted, provided with suitable bannisters or hand rails, and never used for storage purposes.

Another common cause of accidents around the home is electric shock. Nowadays by the extensive use of floor lamps and electric equipment, every home is a complicated system of electric wiring. Safety against electric shock consists in having all electric wiring in good repair and extension cords installed only by a competent workman. Electric equipment should always have the seal of safety of the underwriters' laboratory.

Another common source of danger in the home is the presence of poisonous chemicals. You have been reading in the newspapers of the death of twenty people and the poisoning of many others in San Francisco as a result of purchasing contaminated baking soda. When you buy drugs or chemicals, you must be sure that they come from a reliable pharmacist and that they are standardized according to the U. S. Pharmacopoeia. Chemicals bought in bulk are bound to be dangerous. After you have supplied the home with chemicals see that they are properly put away and suitably controlled to prevent danger.

Today many people purchase laxative candies and chewing gum, having strong drugs as ingredients, put in a "sweet" package. Children cannot be expected to know that the bar of chocolate they are eating, and which they found loose in Mama's room is actually loaded with a strong cathartic.

Every medicine should be treated as a possible poison, because if it is strong enough to do an adult any good, a large dose may be fatal to a

MARCH OF TIME.
The only motion pictures ever taken of the hitherto secret activities of the Intelligence Division of the U. S. Coast Guard form the basis of March of Time's new one-episode release entitled "U. S. Coast Guard—G-Men of the Sea." This issue, now playing at the Yucca theatre, deals with the Coast Guard's current drive to stamp out the increased wave of arms and ammunition smuggling to foreign nations in violation of U. S. neutrality laws.

With permission from the Coast Guard to shoot first and exclusive pictures of an arms-running case from start to finish with real Coast Guardsmen as characters, March of Time presents for the first time on the screen the inside workings of the secret service activities of the Coast Guard.

Every city should have an ordinance absolutely prohibiting the distribution of sample packages of medicines from door to door, where children may find them and eat them. Numerous cases have been reported to The Journal of the American Medical Association in which children have been poisoned by eating a sample package of medicine.

Whenever a poisonous drug is kept around the home, it should be identified so that accidents cannot happen through failure to comprehend the nature of the material. Stick a pin through the cork so that the bottle containing the poison will be unmistakable in the dark. Fasten the cork to the bottle with adhesive tape. These two methods will let any one know that there is something unusual about that package.

When you take a bottle of medicine from your medicine chest always read the label on the bottle three times—once when you take it from the shelf; next, before you pour out the dose of medicine, and finally just before you give the medicine to the person who is to get it.

When an accident does occur in the home, do not trifle! Do not use first-aid methods unless you know they are right. Do not put beef steak on a black eye. Do not fish for a bean in the baby's ear with a button hook. Do not turn the baby upside down and pound on its back when it is choking. The wrong kind of first-aid may do more harm than the injury itself. Respect the knowledge of the man who is trained to take care of the sick. In an emergency, call a doctor!!!

Blouses Flutter Into Fall Vogue At Paris Showings

Newest Varieties Resemble Dress Tops

By ROSETTE HARGROVE
NEA Service Staff Correspondent.

PARIS.—Blouses are in the limelight. The fall styles, featured in midseason collections, included a number of tailleurs with some brand new notions in this category. This is indeed the time to start haunting the blouse departments.

Begin, of course, by looking for a blouse that will transform last spring's navy or black or gray suit. Pick something that looks not at all like the blouses you wore with the suit last season. For example, you might consider at least one blouse in a shade that matches exactly the color of the suit. Nothing could be smarter, or look newer, than a black satin blouse with a black suit, a navy one with a dark blue, or gray with a suit of the same color.

The newest blouses are more akin to dress tops than to ordinary blouses. They either tuck in the skirt or else belong to the tunic variety, fitting smoothly over the hips. Sleeves are either short or long (there are some women who do not look their best in long sleeves) and necklines continue to be worn high, although with a great deal more softness.

The "bloused" blouse, i. e., pouched all round the waistline, which Piquet launched in the spring, promises to continue its vogue well on into the coming season. These are particularly becoming to slim hipless figures.

Lace Encrustations.
Very dressy blouses usually combine chiffon and fine chantilly or satin. The style is much more intricate, with the lace encrustations forming, Louis XV bows or other motifs. Bows, and loops by the way, are coming in with the fall season. Maggy Rouff trims the neckband of a slim black silk crepe tunic blouse with two large and wide loops of black satin ribbon knotted on one side, while Mainbocher finishes a bright royal blue satin ribbon blouse with an amusing little corolla collar, in front only, and wide twin loops which almost cover the bosom. This blouse is worn with a slim skirt and a full-length coat in black ribbed wool, the satin collar and loops being worn over the coat. A distinctly unusual idea.

Many of the more formal blouses offer the added advantage of doing double duty in the guise of informal dinner dresses, with the addition of a simple but well-cut skirt in satin or crepe or, later on in the season, in velvet. This skirt can be of the same color as the blouse or in black.

Lame chiffon, which is ultra thin and supple, makes a stunning evening

Right: Over an evening gown of navy blue jersey Lelong places a pleated and tucked coat in dusty pink lamage with deep waistband. Note the novelty earrings.

An effective and clear-cut paisley print is shown in this cleverly worked Lelong blouse. The color scheme is green and navy on white. It's worn with a navy suit and navy felt hat.

ing dress, when combined with a slender black silk jersey skirt. Bruni showed one in her mid-season collection which was most attractive. The blouse in dull gold lame was very full, with a deep rounded yoke worked in the tiniest sunray pinpoints. The fullness "bloused" all around the waistline and the long "party" look to things.

Pressure Cuff Used in Fight On Paralysis

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (U.P.)—Physical therapy is employed at the University of Minnesota hospital to aid patients regain the use of disease-stiffened arms and legs.

Besides the swimming pool where patients who are slowly regaining use of limbs left helpless by infantile paralysis, diathermy machines and ultra violet lamps are used in the treatment.

To relatively new pieces of apparatus, the pavex machine and the pressure cuff, are also employed by physical therapists.

The pavex machine resembles a glass boot which fits over the leg. A motor alternately creates a pressure and vacuum to stimulate circulation. The machine is useful in warding off gangrene or aiding circulatory systems attacked by hardening of the arteries.

The pressure cuff accomplishes much the same purpose. However, the body does the work instead of a motor. The cuff resembles a band doctors wrap around the arm for taking blood pressure.

Pressure is turned on for 2 1/2 minutes after the pressure cuff is in place around the arm or leg. During this time, blood in veins is stopped, and only arteries function. The arteries carry blood to the veins, which dilate and force blood into smaller blood vessels, where richer circulation is needed.

Nation Toured In 1904 Model

CARSON CITY, Nev. (U.P.)—When it comes to "crates," George C. Green of Lambertville, N. J., insists that he is doing by land what Douglas C. Corrigan did by air, when the latter flew his "crate" from New York to Dublin.

Green arrived here in a single cylinder, curved dash Oldsmobile, 1904 model, which he bought for $165 in 1907 when it was 3 years old. He is touring the United States in it.

The machine is one of three Oldsmobiles of the same vintage which recently passed the rigid New Jersey state inspection.

The car is 34 years old and Green has had it in his possession since he was 21. He is now 52.

Green, who is the proprietor of a small machine shop at Lambertville, gave his "crate" a complete overhauling early this year, and together with his wife started out to see America.

The first leg of their journey took them to Niagara Falls. Then they crossed to Canada and returned to the United States at Detroit. They have since kept on going until they reached here and departed for the Pacific coast. Altogether they hope to cover 7,000 miles.

Green doesn't know how far he has driven the car in the 31 years he has owned it, but thinks from 1,000 to 2,000 miles annually. It has a speed of 30 miles and runs 28 on a gallon of gasoline. He can only carry five gallons, so stops are frequent. The wheels are fitted with motorcycle tires.

The reaction of people who pass him on the road—he never succeeds in passing them—are different, he said.

"ALGIERS"

A Photo-serial in six chapters based on the WALTER WANGER screenplay starring CHARLES BOYER and released thru UNITED ARTISTS

CHAPTER 1

Pepe le Moko, the debonair jewel thief, has scandalized Europe with his sensational robberies and escaped to the mysterious Casbah of Algiers with an enormous amount of loot. Janvier, Paris commissioner of police, follows him to the picturesque seaport town, hoping that with the help of the native officers, he will capture Pepe and bring him back to Paris. He is highly incensed when Inspector Slimane informs him that the task is by no means simple. While Pepe continues to live in the Casbah—a melting pot for all the sins of the earth, the seat of the African underworld, where people from a dozen strange countries live in dim rooms and secret courtyards—he is protected by the strange code of this lawless outpost. The police can only look forward to the day when Pepe will venture out from behind those walls into the main city.

Meanwhile Pepe and his henchman are trying to sell a great quantity of jewels to Grandere, a fence who shares Pepe's love of beauty and gems. But their hiding place has been revealed to the police by Regis and L'Arbi, paid informers, who resent the popularity of the thief and the loyalty of his clique. The criminals, however, learn of the approach of the police from Ines, a native girl deeply in love with the handsome Pepe.

The gang retreat through secret passageways and fire derisive shots at the police who are completely mystified by the labyrinth of alleys and rooftops. The exchange of bullets endangers a party of French tourists who are out slumming. Gaby, a gorgeous Parisian girl, swathed in furs and jewels, is ushered into an adjacent house by Inspector Slimane and a few moments later Pepe mysteriously appears. Slimane introduces them—she is impressed and amused by the suave criminal, while he is as much attracted by her glittering diamonds as by her exotic beauty...

Pall of Death Where Plunging Plane Killed 53

An army flyer, stunting at a military field dedication in Bogota, Colombia, grazed the reviewing stand of the diplomatic corps with his low flying plane. That threw him into the stand occupied by Colombia's President Alfonso Lopez. The speeding plane tore through the tin roof of the stand, then exploded. The picture above was taken just as flaming gasoline was thrown over the jammed crowds and the whirling propellers bit into the mass of screaming people. Some of them can be seen fleeing. Fifty-three were killed or died in hospitals since the accident, and more than 100 were injured. President Lopez escaped unscathed.

Shenandoah Park Portrays Old South

LURAY, Va. — Shenandoah National Park, in the heart of the Blue Ridge Mountains, presents many reminders of the Old Dominion's romantic history. Visitors with little time available, find difficulty in choosing between traversing roads that were used by Phil Sheridan and Stonewall Jackson, or going still further back into history to the Spotswood Trail, where once rode the Knights of the Golden Horseshoe. That was the only order of knighthood ever founded on American soil.

Established less than three years ago as the twenty-sixth link in the chain of 27 National Parks, Shenandoah ranked first in number of visitors last year, when registrations totaled in excess of 1,000,000. Land for the park was purchased by the State and deeded to the federal government, following a public subscription campaign such as is being carried on now in Texas to provide for establishment of the proposed Big Bend National Park.

Sometimes translated "Daughter of the Stars," practically all of the Shenandoah National Park is at least 2,000 feet above sea level. Through its length, embracing 80 miles of the Blue Ridge, runs the Skyline Drive, from where trails lead into the mountain wilderness, with its glens and waterfalls. It is but a short drive from Washington, and is in the heart of one of the richest historical sections of the nation. All the highways leading to it run through regions replete with reminders of the colorful and important part Virginia played in Colonial history, and the conflict between the States.

The Spotswood Trail, from Gordonsville to Clifton Forge and Troutville, crosses the park area at Swift Run Gap where Virginia's Colonial Governor, Alexander Spotswood, and his Knights of the Golden Horseshoe passed on their way to the Shenandoah Valley in 1716. It was at the northern end of this valley, swarming the park that George Washington made his headquarters in Winchester, during the French and Indian wars.

Of particular interest is the Shenandoah's portion of the Appalachian Trail, a footpath that extends for more than 2,000 miles, from Maine to Georgia. In the park, this trail lures the hiker to mountain peaks, along sheer cliffs, through spectacular forest growth, and into unexpected canyons. Hawksville, highest mountain in the park, has an elevation of 4,049 feet.

The Blue Ridge Mountains are known throughout the world for the beauty of the trees and wild flowers. The variety of trees is almost endless. In the Spring, white blossoms of the dogwood are to be seen throughout the area, and the mountain slopes flame with the purple-pink blossoms that cluster along the branches and twigs of the redbud. In the autumn these slopes are a blaze of color that is an annual source of wonderment. In Summer, great masses of rich color splash the mountain sides.

The Shenandoah National Park will be connected with the Great Smoky Mountains National Park in North Carolina and Tennessee, by the Blue Ridge Parkway. This scenic roadway, now under construction, will be approximately 480 miles in length, and will average 2,500 feet in elevation.

21 forecast of a record crop which might be expected to depress prices. The crop reporting board has predicted a 53,330,000 bushel crop compared with 53,004,000 last year and a ten-year average of 42,304,000, but the supply situation is different from last year, distribution has been better, and the tone of southern markets has been firm. The bureau of agricultural economics has reported that distribution of milled rice from August, 1937, through last June totaled 11,675,167 pockets compared with 9,208,711 in the corresponding months a year previous, and that the combined milled and rough rice stocks amounted to 1,481,000 barrels (correct) July 1 compared with 1,920,000 a year previous, or 439,000 barrels less. The bureau said the June distribution of milled rice by southern mills was almost twice as much as for the corresponding month of '37, amounting to 970,374 pockets of heads, second heads and screenings. It reported rice supplies in Burma, Siam and Indo-China about 300,000 tons less than in 1937 and the smallest in six years.

CARDINALS SALVAGE FINAL GAME OF SERIES WITH BOOSTERS

EARLY WILDNESS BY HOBBS HURLER GIVES CLUB 4 RUNS

The Midland Cardinals were given four runs by the Hobbs Boosters last night as a starter, and with "Dizzy" Warren pitching seven-hit ball and not walking a man, the home club came out on top of a 7-4 score and salvaged the final game of the series.

The Cardinals were out-hit, 5-7, but they capitalized on eight walks and four errors to roll up the winning margin. Pitcher Traweck, on the mound for the Boosters, made them the gift of five bases on balls in the first frame, walking three runs over the plate and after that victory was easy.

After the first inning, the visitors outplayed the locals, but they got started too late.

In the first, Battle, lead-off man, rapped a line single to center to start the game. Traweck walked Barnhill, Ballinger, Evans and Morris in a row to force across two runs. Svytar struck out. Guinn walked to force another run across and Beers forced Guinn at second as another run came home.

The Boosters got their first runs in the fourth when Hargrove singled and Smyly hit one out of the park over the right center field wall. The Cardinals got them both back in the fifth on two errors, single, double and hit batsman. Their final run came in the sixth on a double, sacrifice and error. Hobbs pushed across another in the eighth on two singles and an error and their last run on a double by Bonk and a two-base error by Battle.

The Cardinals left this morning for Hobbs where they will be for the next three nights. Saturday, Sunday and Monday they will be in Lubbock returning here next Tuesday night against Clovis.

Anglers Club Pledges To Tell No Whoppers

LEWES, Del. (U.P.) - Members of the Lewes Anglers Association have taken a pledge to tell the truth regarding the number and size of fish they catch this season.

"We have a responsible position to uphold," said Capt. W. I. Pennewell, association spokesman. "While I know it is human nature for fishermen to add a couple of inches to every fish caught and a couple of hundred to every boatload, I ask you to refrain."

Camp Pioneer Heads Will Hold Coaching School on Aug. 27

School superintendents and coaches of this section have been notified of a planned football camp for coaches and players, to be held beginning August 27th., and lasting one week or more.

The camp will be held on the campus of Camp Pioneer, Summer Camp for Boys, located ten miles from Junction on the Old Spanish Trail toward Kerrville. The entire facilities of Camp Pioneer, including mess hall and cabins, have been offered to the coaches and players of this section free of any cost. The only expense for each man attending the camp will be a small fee to cover cost of food and other expenses of running the camp.

The attending coaches of the schools of this section will be in charge of the boys in camp and a high standard of manly conduct will be maintained. Swimming in the clear cool waters of the Llano River, and hiking over the tree-covered mountains of the Hill-Country will be high spots in the camp. Splendid football training and conditioning will be made possible on the excellent fields with which the camp is provided. Further information may be obtained by writing R. N. Winslip, Jr., Director Camp Pioneer for Boys, Segovia, Texas.

O'Daniel Lends Support To Big Bend Park Idea

FORT WORTH, Aug. 3. (P.)—The wholehearted support of W. Lee O'Daniel, Democratic nominee for Governor, was thrown behind the Big Bend National Park project Tuesday in a statement issued from his vacation headquarters on Galveston Island.

"It will be one of the greatest things that can happen for Texas," he said, asking that the entire citizenship help the cause with their contributions.

Backers of the project are seeking its endorsement by the state Democratic convention at Beaumont in September.

"We can make Big Bend a greater attraction to tourists and vacationists than Yellowstone or Yosemite," O'Daniel said. "And bring people here from all over the nation, as well as some from foreign countries."

"They will spend millions of dollars annually while they are in the state," he continued. "Not only in the park area but all sections will feel the benefits."

"I am interested in the project, however, not only because of the immediate and continuing tourist trade it will bring to Texas, but because I know many of these people who are attracted to the new national park will see the limitless opportunities which the state affords, and will want to make their homes here."

"It is a matter of concern for the entire state and I want to see everybody get behind it, and especially would I like to see the 566,000 'common people' who have nominated me as their governor to support the project with their contributions."

West of the Denver pool, Magnolia No. 1 Lynn is drilling at 2,529 in anhydrite and red rock. Texas No. 1 Randall is coring at 5,111 feet in lime. Shell No. 3 Mrs. Dora Roberts is drilling lime at 4,955 feet.

In the Denver pool, Shell No. 3 Dowden swabbed 13 barrels on seven-hour natural production test through 3-inch tubing set at 5,068, three feet off bottom. Oil level remained at 300 feet while the well was being swabbed. Operators are now preparing to acidize. Don Danvers No. 2 Shell-Lynn is drilling at 941 feet in red rock.

Texas No. 1 D. S. Wright, in eastern Cochran, is drilling lime below 4,065 feet.

In southeast Hockley, Skelly No. 1 Ellwood is drilling unchanged at 4,845 feet in lime.

Stanolind No. 2 Slaughter in the southwest Hockley pool, is coring with cable tools below 4,977 feet in lime, carrying 100 feet of oil in the hole.

Lime Topped High.

High lime top was credited today to Texas No. 1-G State, wildcat a mile and a half northeast of the new University area in eastern Crane. First lime showed in samples at 2,980, which would put the well over 90 feet higher than Magnolia No. 1 University, discovery pumper of the area. No. 1-G State, located in section 7, block 30, University survey, is drilling ahead at 3,011 feet in lime.

Magnolia No. 1-15 University, production prospect a mile and a quarter southeast of the discovery, is standing after cementing back to 3,252 from 3,327 to shut off a slight amount of water found near total depth. It will probably be acidized to increase natural production. Pay to top of limestone at 3,190.

In the Jordan pool of Crane-Ector, Sinclair-Prairie No. 3-27 University flowed 304.97 barrels a day, natural, with gas-oil ratio of 500-1. It topped pay at 3,555 and is bottomed at 3,580.

Publicity of Midland Rodeo September 3-4-5 is taking different angles this year, with expectation that oil men and all other citizens of the Permian Basin will feel a personal interest in the big three day and night western show.

W. T. Doherty and J. W. Jordan, heads of the Humble and Sinclair-Prairie operations in this district, with J. Howard Hodge, theatre operator, and T. Paul Barron, newspaper publisher, compose the publicity committee. Doherty is chairman.

Special appeal to the oil fraternity will be made through the oil men's roping contest, in which a representative from each Permian Basin town will compete. An advance sale of tickets over a large area, with appropriate reimbursement to sellers and buyers, will be conducted. Distribution of placards, automobile stickers and handbills will be handled by oil men on their regular rounds, their personal contact being calculated to create closer interest.

Oil Men Publicize Rodeo, Seek Wider Interest in Event

Publicity of Midland Rodeo September 3-4-5 is taking different angles this year, with expectation that oil men and all other citizens of the Permian Basin will feel a personal interest in the big three day and night western show.

W. T. Doherty and J. W. Jordan, heads of the Humble and Sinclair-Prairie operations in this district, with J. Howard Hodge, theatre operator, and T. Paul Barron, newspaper publisher, compose the publicity committee. Doherty is chairman.

Special appeal to the oil fraternity will be made through the oil men's roping contest, in which a representative from each Permian Basin town will compete. An advance sale of tickets over a large area, with appropriate reimbursement to sellers and buyers, will be conducted. Distribution of placards, automobile stickers and handbills will be handled by oil men on their regular rounds, their personal contact being calculated to create closer interest.
