Voluntary, Not Compulsory, Rodeo Cooperation Wanted

In a spirit of sport, the move to get Midland people dressed up for the rodeo may have developed an angle in the wrong direction, namely the threats of physical violence, duckings and the like for those not desiring to cooperate. Although these methods have been used in other places, rodeo officials here have voiced a desire to see Midland citizens enter into the proposition voluntarily.

It is through the whole-hearted recognition of the approaching rodeo, which will be of untold value to Midland as a whole, that the citizens can do the most good for the project. The practice of getting the citizenry dressed up in western attire merely serves to create a rodeo spirit. Frank players will have their fun, but the rodeo officials are asking for one hundred per cent voluntary cooperation from the people, in every way.

Join in the fun and wear your rodeo clothes, beginning Monday, August 22.

Give O'Daniel a Chance to Try Out "Business Methods"

Both praise and denunciation have been heaped upon W. Lee O'Daniel, Texas gubernatorial democratic nominee, for endorsing a slate of run-off candidates for state offices.

The nominee declared that he was going to be rid of professional politics and was going to apply business methods. The endorsement of candidates, hitherto unheard-of in Texas affairs, was his first "important step" in application of business methods.

Before condemning Mr. O'Daniel for this act, give him a chance to show what he is working out. He indicated that other drastic acts might follow. Don't seize the first opportunity to assault his administration. His administration hasn't even begun yet. After he has served as governor for a reasonable time, then will be ample opportunity to say whether he is right or wrong.

If the new governor, by application of his individual methods, gets rid of obsolete methods, reduces cost of government and operates the state's affairs in a more business like manner, more power to him.

Farm Accidents "On the Job" Rank High

Most farmers probably would scorn the use of industry's steel-toed safety shoes, hard hats to protect their heads from falling objects, and goggles with unbreakable lenses to ward off sparks from the grindstone and splinters from the wood-cutting power saw. If this be true, it may possibly account for agriculture ranking first as the most hazardous of occupational enterprises.

The National Safety Council reports that of 19,500 fatalities in occupational accidents during 1937, agriculture, or farm accidents, contributed 4,500. Trade and service industries were responsible for another 4,500 accident deaths. All other industries experienced fewer accident fatalities last year, the council said.

Machinery and animals were the cause of most fatal farm accidents, machinery figuring in 29 per cent and animals in 21 per cent. In order, other farm hazards and the per cent of fatalities they caused were: excessive heat, 11 per cent; falls, 9 per cent; vehicular, 8 per cent; lightning, 5 per cent; crushed by falling tree, 4 per cent; all others, 13 per cent.

Power Industry May Profit by Holding Company Act, Says Babson; Companies "Fouled" by Taxation, Public Competition

By ROGER W. BABSON (Copyright, 1938, Publishers Financial Bureau.)

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Aug. 13.—The utility business has never regained its pre-depression popularity. Most everyone thinks that the reason for this is the "death sentence" imposed on the industry by the Holding Company Act of 1935. However, I believe that the real cause is the constant increase in utility taxation and public competition. Actually, under the wise administration of the SEC I feel that the "death sentence" may, in the long-run, prove to be beneficial to the power business. But the government's fostering of publicly-financed, tax-free competition will never help taxpayer, electricity customer nor security holder.

Much has been written about the harshness of the Utility Holding Company Act. While I doubt if there is any real need for the act at this time, I feel that investors may be surprised by the little effect it will have on most companies. Its provisions call for the breaking up of holding concerns whose operating territories are not adjacent to each other. Hence, there will be a lot of swapping of properties. When this rearranging period is over, there should be worth-while economies in operation. Only in the case of over-capitalized holding companies should this death sentence prove a hardship.

For the security holders of companies affected by such competition the New Deal has turned out to be one of the rawest deals in history! The voter is fooled by the anti-utility campaign because he thinks the industry is owned by the "Rockefellers and the Morgans." Only 3 per cent, or less than 4,000,000 people in the United States pay income taxes. There are, however, 6,000,000 owners of power company securities. If all the 4,000,000 who do pay income taxes own power securities there are still 2,000,000 others whose earnings are not large enough to pay an income tax, who also hold utility securities. The same situation undoubtedly applies in Canada.

Publicly-Owned Industry. Moreover, the majority of the bonds of the utility industry are owned: (1) by insurance companies who have 65,000,000 policy holders; (2) by savings banks who have 48,000,000 depositors; (3) by hospitals who give succor to millions of Americans; (4) by libraries who provide free reading material to 130,000,000 citizens; (5) by churches who pay the salaries of thousands of clergymen; and (6) by colleges who give education to 1,000,000 U. S. youths each year.

Hence, the power industry is not owned by a few wealthy people. There is scarcely a U. S. resident who does not have a direct stake in the securities of this business either through his insurance policy, his savings deposit, his hospital, or his church. Yet, it is this industry which the President has singled out to badge, to intimidate, to persecute, and to belittle for the past six years.

Light Summer Reading

The only provision to hamstringing the PWA's generosity is that the money shall not be granted to any community where the existing company's rates are "fair and reasonable." But this is no safeguard because the final judge of whether or not the rates are "fair and reasonable" is to be the PWA administration.

Electricity rates have been regulated by state utility commissions for years. Under this supervision, rates have been constantly reduced. They are now only 50 per cent of the level of 25 years ago. Since 1933, utility taxes have nearly doubled and prices of their materials and their labor rates have risen sharply. Yet, their rates are 23 per cent under the 1933 depression level!

What other industry can make such a claim? Utility consumers in the United States and Canada are today receiving far better service at a far lower rate than they are anywhere else in the world! Taxpayer "the Bagman." The money which the government is borrowing to give or to loan to municipalities is your money and my money and 130,000,000 other Americans' money. Is it right to use these funds, as gifts, for the building of municipal plants which will destroy the existing private systems, financed by our hospitals, schools, churches, banks, insurance companies, and individual citizens?

Prizefighter And The Lady

Things happen fast when a Park Avenue beauty falls in love with a lad from the other side of the tracks. Such is the case in M-G-M's "The Crowd Roars," co-starring Robert Taylor and Maureen O'Sullivan. They're at the Yucca now, through Tuesday.

taxpayers. The loss will be made up by higher taxes on homes and other real estate. In addition, some year soon federal taxes will be boosted again so that the federal government can pay back the money it borrowed to build these unnecessary power systems.

fort being mad to get a vote on the whiskey question again, on August 27. They have to publish the order only ten days to get the election, I understand, and if enough signers get on the petition, the commissioners are pretty well bound to order the election. If that comes up, look out for a big vote.

Absentee voting for the run-off primary, August 27, has been getting off a little slowly, compared to the records set for the first primary. Now that isn't the way for us to do. Chances are a lot of you will be taking vacations between now and August 27, and we owe it to the Midland men running for district offices to go to the polls. This applies also to those of us who will stay at home for election day.

I was talking to a run-off candidate for a district office this morning, and he said he hoped the Midland county people would understand why they are not looking up all of the home voters. It is necessary for them to get out and see the citizens of other counties. We ought to be able to take for granted the home support. What we want to do is to go to the polls, then our district candidates will have a chance.

Unofficial rumors have been circulated around that there is an effort to frighten those who, in normal times, invest nearly a billion dollars annually in the building of needed new private power plants. The government cannot prime the prosperity pump forever, especially if the priming never takes—and it will not "take" unless private capital begins to flow through the pump!

Jack Bodkins, chief enforcement officer to see that people wear rodeo regalia, beginning Monday, Aug. 22. Saturday issued a public statement:

The Reporter-Telegram will stage another election party the night of August 27. I believe the public will be considerably interested in the district judge, district attorney and state representative races, locally; also in lieutenant governor, railroad commissioner, attorney general and land commissioner races for the state. Midland people will show more interest in the races for railroad commissioner and attorney general, from what I hear.

What was your reaction to W. Lee O'Daniel's picking of candidates in the principal run-off races? He did not pick my men all the way through, and he did a very unusual thing. Some will use that as the first point on which to wage an attack, while others will think even more of him than they did before. To say the least, we are going to see an entirely different sort of governorship.

I have just received a letter from "A Citizen": "Dear Quack: Let's all get behind this movement and get the weeds out in our city. While driving the other evening I almost had a wreck with another car, due to the fact that the weeds were so high on this corner lot that we could not see each other. It would certainly help the looks of the city too, and nothing looks more run down than to see a city with its vacant lots full of weed."

Jack Bodkins, chief enforcement officer to see that people wear rodeo regalia, beginning Monday, Aug. 22. Saturday issued a public statement:

land is good enough to live in, it's good enough to cooperate in. If you don't want to stay, we will provide you transportation out. I know I am going to run into a couple of sore-heads who may think they are too big to be dunked. They may think they are bigger than Midland is. Those are the fellows I'm after. Like Dewey, I'm going after the big guys first. Of course, I won't soil my own hands. But when I turn thumbs down, it means THE TANK. I'm glad to know that Mr. McEntire, with whom I have been associated in other ventures, will cooperate with me in this project. Personally, I do not like to wear cowboy clothes, but if we are going to do a job, let's do it right. I know I can count on the people of Midland to cooperate.

Fashion's Outlook For Fall Is Black

(From Bonwit Teller, New York.)

take high honors, too. But there are wonderful suede finish mat crepes for those who like smoother fabrics.

Furthermore, if you decide that your first fall dress just won't be black this year, the color chart for fall is something to get excited about. All reds, from rich, deep wine to scarlet are shown. All blues, including stone blue and teal blue, also violet and plum shades, bottle green, rust and terra cotta are making news at the moment.

For a Black Dress Only.
If you want a black dress, but not a black outfit, consider using wine accessories, including hat, shoes, bag and gloves, which match one another perfectly. Or try black shoes and bag, scarlet gloves and a black hat with scarlet feather. Or dark green hat and purse, black gloves and shoes.

One of the nicest versions of the shirtwaister is in coal black matelasse with a high neckline that is slit at the neck to form upstanding points, a bodice slightly bloused at the back and a slenderizing skirt, flared a bit at the hemline. This is a wonderful background for costume jewelry which is more important than ever.

Another smart model—a two-piece affair—has a slim skirt with fullness at the front and a bloused bodice with buttons down the center of the back. The neat flat collar in old ivory silk is lavishly embroidered.

By KATHLEEN EILAND

Those who like the bright-colored pottery that has brought vividness to dish counters for the past few seasons will be interested in the new glassware which is heavily painted (with a pottery-like finish to the paint) so that the top of the plate and the inside of the cup shows the color through clear heavy glass and the reverse side features the pottery appearance.

Whole sets of dishes come in this new handling of materials with a delightful variety of colorings in bright blue, yellow, orange, and that soft, particularly appealing green that came into favor about three years ago.

For the housewife who wants color and beauty along with comparative inexpensiveness, we commend a view of these dishes.

"Mass vacations" is a strange-sounding phrase to American ears. Wonder what Americans towns would look like if employers followed the French custom of closing up their plants and giving all their employees a vacation at once?

More than 60,000 workers, took their holidays when two great plants alone closed for vacation days.

At that, the plan has something to commend it. It would certainly tend to emphasize the feeling of rest and complete relaxation to know that all one's co-workers were resting, too.

And a vacation is properly the time to rest and completely forget all one's business worries. As we know from experience.

Another time when we can't understand men's sense of humor is when they poke all manner of fun at a new lipstick some girl is wearing—but see nothing laughable at all in their bizarre manner of shaving their heads in summer weather or turning the cuffs of their trousers up six or eight inches.

Mexico has forbidden the use of motor boats on her famous Xochimilco canals, the "Venice of Mexico."
We're duly thankful that some proper appreciation of romance is still alive in this over-commercialized world. Home Demonstration Council Plans for Programs, Camping

Plans for radio broadcasts and for an encampment to be held August 24-25 were made at a meeting of the home demonstration council in the assembly room of the courthouse Saturday afternoon.

It was decided that those going on the encampment should leave the courthouse at 9 o'clock, Wednesday morning, Aug. 24, and should return Thursday evening, Aug. 25, after 5 o'clock. The meal that each club will prepare was decided on and appointments for each committee were made.

A new feature of the entertainment for the council was introduced—a radio broadcast. Committees were appointed for programs for each club. It was suggested that each president give the history of her club at the first broadcast.

A donation representing the Valley View club was presented to the council by Mrs. Gilbert Brunson.

A short discussion on the disposal of the miniature bedroom suite was made and the name of the winner, Mrs. Stanton Brunson, was announced.

Mrs. S. L. Alexander called the meeting to order and the minutes of the last meeting and the roll call were given by Mrs. C. C. Carden.

Those present were: Meses. J. L. Hundle, W. A. Conn, Gilbert Brunson, Bartlett, S. L. Alexander, C. C. Carden, J. A. Mead, R. E. Ward, and Miss Mary Jo Weigers, home demonstration agent.

worldliness shattered by the rude sputter of a racing motorboat.

For once, we agree with the Mexican government in putting up bars on foreign nuisances. Long live the "manana" spirit among Xochimilco's haunted and charmed waterways!

NEW YORK.—Let your first fall dress be a black one. Buy it early and wear it late in August as a welcome relief from your drooping prints and wilted pastels. Wear it day in and day out during September, then again later on under your winter coat.

Watch for skirts that flare ever so subtly from below smooth hiplines. Consider dolman sleeves, especially those which start about the waistline and so allow more freedom of movement than the old style dolmans that started right at the waist line.

Also notable are the ones which are intricately cut or shirred at the shoulder line to give the popular squared off effect. Such treatments overcome nicely any objection you have to dolman sleeves on the grounds that they make shoulders appear to slope abnormally.

New Sleeves in News.
Mishop (or bloused) sleeves are in the news, too. So are those with fullness between elbow and shoulder and none below the elbow.

Bloused bodices are important again—for the first time in years. These make hips look ultra slender, of course, and are particularly comfortable.

According to cable reports, Alix often uses nooks and eyes up the center of the front or back of a dress, catching horizontal, gathered drapes. Also, she continues to place skirt fullness at the front, favoring godets or unpressed pleats.

The most talked-about fabric of the moment is matelasse—that lovely, bumpy, lumpy-looking material lined with chiffon to keep the lumps from flattening out. If you get one with firm chiffon backing, it isn't likely to stretch or sag.

"Soul" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, August 14.
The Golden Text is: "Hear me speedily, O Lord... cause me to hear thy loving-kindness in the morning; for in thee do I trust; cause me to know the way wherein I should walk; for I lift up my soul unto thee" (Psalms 143:7, 8).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Know therefore this day, and consider it in thine heart, that the Lord he is God in heaven above, and upon the earth beneath: there is none else" (Deuteronomy 4:39).
The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Soul, of Spirit, is God, unchangeable and eternal; and man coexists with and reflects Soul, God, for man is God's image" (page 120).

Praises O'Daniel For Ordorment State Candidates

Although he took the lead and served as county chairman in the first primary campaign of Ernest O. Thompson for governor, A. N. Hendrickson, vice-president of the Landreth Production Co., expressed praise to W. Lee O'Daniel, gubernatorial nominee, for endorsing a slate of candidates in the run-off primary.
"Your announcement indicates that you are a man of sound judgment and that you are worthy of the honor that the people of Texas have given you," he wired O'Daniel. "Although I was county chairman for Ernest Thompson here, I worked for and supported all six men you endorsed, so the only way I can show my appreciation is to vote for you for any office you want in the future. You are bound to be a 'real guy,' if you will pardon the expression. I am particularly interested in Mr. Terrell and thank you for your kind remarks as I am chairman of thirty-three West Texas counties in his campaign."

The statement was apparently announced to match a government assertion that new German and Italian aid is reaching the insurgents.

Simultaneously with the battle around Cabeza de Buey, southern Spain, insurgent authorities tightened frontier control, leading to the belief a new offensive is planned.
