FEMININE FANCIES

By KATHLEEN EILAND

Interesting combination of colors is found in a dressmaker suit of pale gray flannel accented with dark brown polka-dotted in white. The accent appears in huge gaunleted gloves, pocket kerchief, and scarf.

For a distinguishing touch on a dark dress, use large-petaled flowers of self fabric, one at the shoulder as a corsage and two posed in pocket positions below the belt on the skirt front.

For that coveted luxury look that every woman needs now and then to keep her self-confidence at par, we recommend those chubby boleros of fur. Swanky no end.

An ever-present temptation to buying "just one more" are the costume jewelry counters which these days are laden with the heavy, colorful pendants and pins and clips which make one long for a single good dress and unlimited quantities of these gay accessories.

Set in gold, these collections of flower-colored or brilliant stones are guaranteed to chase away the blues just by having them where they may be seen.

Recently we noticed a color treatment in a hotel coffee room that displayed an unusual and pleasing combination of colors, yellow, white, and pale blue-green with deep vivid blue as the accent. Cool, quiet-looking, and artistic.

We always envy those fortunate individuals who can think up color combinations that are attractive and harmonious and at the same time utterly different from those used by the rest of the neighborhood. Our originality seems to be sadly lacking whenever we attempt to think up something "different" in tone groupings.

Tones of rust-brown-reds seem to be high favorites in millinery stocks these days. "High" may be accepted literally for numbers of hats have jutting crowns or feathers of similar appurtenances which take the sky for the limit of their upward ambitions.

And are they delightful—on the people who can wear them in the right way!

The Humble motor fuels and motor oils you get at Humble Service Stations and dealers, as this customer points out, are outstanding. They are offered you without a single exaggerated advertising claim, because we think that you, the user, are best qualified to pass on their quality. We ask you to try them, to compare them with other gasolines and motor oils you have used, and so convince yourself, like thousands of Texans, that Humble motor fuels and motor oils are definitely second to none.

Can't be beat, a customer from West Texas writes on a service check card. . . Best in Town. Thanks, says another, from the South. . . The usual fine Humble products, comments a lady from the North. . . An East Texan writes, I know what performance means. I get best results with Humble Esso. . . And a gentleman from New York state says, Wonderful mileage with no knock and plenty of power and pep.

Try Humble products. Next time you need gasoline or motor oil—stop for service where you see the Humble sign!

Ray Phipps, Hermann Richards, and Vice Stewart of Brownsville, and Roy Kingery of Gainesville, Tex., waded 11 miles across the shallow water to the mainland, where they caught a Mexican fish truck to Brownsville. The men were sighted by a plane yesterday on Fourth Pass, 80 miles south of here. Two others stayed at another pass, where eight Mexican fishermen were still marooned. The men said they received a radio warning of the hurricane at 7 a. m. Saturday and drove their cars from Eighth Pass, 110 miles from here, up the numerous sand dunes, 25 miles, where they found a dune they considered safe from the tides and wind. Late Saturday afternoon the wind began to howl, they said, and eight Mexican fishermen joined them. The 16 men divided, eight of them seeking safety in the automobiles and eight lying face downward in the sand, which was whipped about them by the wind. "The wind blew about 80 miles an hour for two days and nights," Roberts said. "The tide kept getting higher and higher. We expected a tidal wave to wash us away any time." "Late Sunday, when things looked the worst," Roberts said, "we decided it was all up for all of us. We got the whole bunch together and we knelt and prayed in the sand. Then we waited for death." After the wind died down the men rebuilt a hut which had been blown down by the hurricane. They had only a scant amount of food and a water jug they had brought along was found to contain gasoline instead of water. They drank water out of puddles on the bar. All of the men suffered from thirst and hunger during the two days on the island, they said.

Safety Council Endorses Film

Midland Safety Council officials today urged every Midland citizen to see the film "Man at the Wheel," to be shown at the Yucca theatre Thursday. The 100 deaths and 4,000 injuries which occur daily on U. S. highways are unnecessary, according to "Man at the Wheel," an episode in the latest issue of the MARCH OF TIME, now playing at the Yucca Theatre. Traffic accidents, which take a toll of 39,500 lives annually and injure 1,460,000 persons, the MARCH OF TIME reveals, are 95% preventable and actually being reduced by from 25% to 50% in a score of communities through the 3-E's education, enforcement and engineering. The MARCH OF TIME shows that scientific study of the U. S. traffic accident problem has been responsible for the development of a new police enforcement policy which aims to prevent accidents by foreseeing them, and the film shows how this system has actually been made to work for accident reduction. Also revealed is how a new classroom technique of safety study, junior traffic courts and intention of bringing their complete outfits to be in this division, which will be typically a "ranch" delegation. Both senior and junior cowboys not entered in contests will ride in this group. Next will be the closely supervised divisions of children. First will be those riding larger ponies, and next will be the children riding Shetlands and smaller ponies. A captain will be at the head of the group, another between the two lots of ponies, another at the end of the division and one rider on each side, to give assistance if any is needed. The parade committee, including George Glass, H. G. Bedford and Elliott F. Cowden. Captains already named to assist the committee include Aldredge Estes, Stanton Brunson, Frank Williamson, Guy Cowden, O. B. Holt, Bill Wyche, T. Paul Barton, Jack Wilkinson and Frank Cowden. Those who will be in charge of the children's division will be Brunson, Estes, Barton, Guy Cowden and Wyche. Following is a tabulation of the parade divisions:

- Flag bearers
 - Band
 - Rodeo officials
 - Judges, guests
 - Cowgirl sponsors
 - Contestants (senior)
 - Contestants (junior)
 - Clown, trick riders, etc.
 - Band
 - Miscellaneous riders
 - Chuck wagon
 - Ranchmen, cowboys
 - Children (larger ponies)
 - Children (Shetlands)
- junior safety patrols have reduced accidents among children. Today 90% of the nation's traffic mishaps involve adults, and the accident rate among them stands out in sharp contrast to the falling rate among children.
- "Man at the Wheel" is also discussed engineering's contribution to the safety program—the part highway planning plays in cutting down the annual toll of seven million smash-ups. Shown in the film are plans for the safe highway to be constructed by Designer Norman Bel Geddes and Dr. Miller McClintock, world-famous traffic engineer, lay out a new system of ramps and viaducts, test new theories to make tomorrow's city safe for pedestrian and motorists alike.

Students Complete NYA Work Program

AUSTIN.—Forty boys and girls returned home last week better prepared to help recreational leaders of their home towns in developing local recreation programs after completing a twelve weeks work and training program in recreational leadership on an NYA resident project at Southwest Texas State Teachers college in San Marcos, J. C. Kellam, state youth director, said. A certificate of accomplishment was awarded each youth by Dr. A. H. Nolle, dean of the college. Boys and girls interested in recreational leadership were selected from half a dozen points in Texas for part-time employment on campus improvement and as recreational assistants for San Marcos and the college. They worked part of each day to earn an amount sufficient to cover their living and incidental expenses. City recreation centers were used as laboratories and workshops for the youths, some of whom were responsible for helping conduct community recreation activities. Other work assignments included completion of the NYA cooperative dormitory, supervisory work in the gym, and improvement of the athletic field and college campus. During their spare time, the young people received instruction in physical education, arts and crafts

Vaccine for Tick Fever Successful

SABINAL (P).—Tests of a vaccine for the cure and prevention of tick fever as conducted by I. L. Vaughn Jr. are regarded as successful as none of the cattle vaccinated and later given tick infested blood have shown fever symptoms. The first test was made at the Vaughn ranch near Sabinal July 8 to determine the value of the vaccine discovered by I. L. Vaughn Sr. Four head of cattle of different ages were vaccinated and seventy-two hours later blood from a tick infested animal was injected into the same four animals. Some of the infected blood also was injected into a steer which had not been treated with the vaccine.

Japanese Reject Protest Made by U. S. Government

TOKYO, Aug. 31 (AP).—The Japanese government tonight rejected on all counts the United States strong protest over destruction of a Chinese-American airliner by Japanese warplanes near Canton on August 24. The Japanese admitted, however, that the attack continued after the airliner had landed. This had previously been denied. They disclaimed all guilt for destruction of the ship, and denied the incident concerned the United States. They cited "wide discrepancies" between reports given by the American airliner pilot and Japanese air authorities. In Washington, state officials reserved comment pending receipt of the formal note.

Unearth Horn of Prehistoric Beast

What prehistoric animal left his mammoth horn where the B. H. Blakeney ranch now reposes inECTOR county is puzzling the ranchman. The horn, eight or ten inches in diameter and about five feet long, was found five feet below the earth's surface by men who were constructing a tank in the Blakeney pasture. The horn, now softer than the dirt in which it was resting, lay on top of a layer of caliche or chalky soil. The blade of the bull-dozer, being driven by one of Jackson Parker's crew, split the horn from end to end and the workman discovered it when he drove back through the excavation. It crumbled badly when removed from the ground.

Fort McHenry Park Where Key Wrote

BALTIMORE, Md. — The place that gave Francis Scott Key the inspiration to write a song that was to become—more than 100 years later—our national anthem, is now the Fort McHenry National Park. Bordered the Baltimore waterfront, the park contains forty-seven acres, about five of them covered by the fort. A museum includes one of the most complete displays of American military firearms in existence—the E. Berkeley Bowie collection, donated to the National Park Service.

Service by the Maryland & of the War of 1812. Francis Scott Key, undelag of truce, sailed out from Bore, in 1814, to intercede for release of a friend who had captured by the British. Key detained aboard ship by the British and witnessed the naval at Ft. McHenry. He noted, the dawn's early light," after moan a day's bombardment, "that lag was still there," and started the Star Spangled Banner, ich Congress, in 1831, formally ted as the national anthem. Ironically enough, Key's adson was imprisoned in thine fort nearly fifty years after the British attack, as a Southermpathizer, in the War Between the States. Named for Colonel James Mory of Baltimore, who had been aide to General George Washington during the Revolution, and latecame secretary of war, the olar fort is in an excellent statof preservation. Restoration of pheriors and installation of hein barracks permits of display museum and other exhibits of War of 1812. An entirely different type of fr than the scenic wilderness in the proposed Big Bend National Park of Texas, Fort McHenry is nationally important because of its historical background. It is easily accessible from Baltimore. East Fort Avenue leads directly into the fort. Free guide service is provided daily throughout the year. Congress, in 1925, designated the area as a National Park, and placed it under supervision of the War Department. It was transferred to the National Park Service in 1933.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Alfred Tom have moved from their ranch near Stanton and are making their home at 406 W. Illinois in the residence they had constructed last year. They have two children, Charles and Joan.
