Flood Menace Follows Storm

Death Toll Nears 500 In Wind's Wake

Hurricane Force 120 Miles Hour, It Is Learned

By Associated Press. Death toll from the New England storm and flood area was reported this afternoon to have reached a total of 484.

Danger of flood drew closer to many sections as the hurricane struck in the northeast today, the list of storm dead meanwhile approaching 500.

In Connecticut, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Vermont, New York and New Jersey, rivers were rising and rain fell at many points. A section of Connecticut appeared most gravely menaced, with ten per cent of Hartford inundated and 1,400 homeless there. Thousands worked to pile sandbags upon the Connecticut river's banks.

As the search for bodies continued, every report from Rhode Island was more tragic than the last. The death list in that state totaled 247. Governor Quinn estimated the damage at $100,000,000. It was learned for the first time today that the wind reached a velocity of 120 miles an hour. Throughout the storm area, towns lacked light and power, and food was generally reported to be inadequate. Thousands of workers toiled to restore communication lines.

Nearly 450 persons were counted last night in the hurricane which ravaged seven states and moved on to Canada. Property damage soared to millions of dollars.

Yet the weather bureau at Washington revealed that the toll might have been considerably higher had the storm not veered away from New York City by the barest of margins.

The nation's largest city, with its scores of skyscrapers and millions of inhabitants, would have presented a huge target.

Forecasters Charles L. Mitchell said the "blow" broke all records for rapidity of movement and continued intensity, traveling 600 miles at about 50 miles an hour. The usual speed, he said, is 12 or 15 miles an hour.

Floods, and in some cases hunger, loomed as new threats in the stricken area.

A mid widespread destruction brought by the storm—the worst to strike that rich and heavily populated section in a century—the people fearfully watched ever-rising streams.

The menace seemed particularly imminent in New England, as illustrated by the Connecticut river which, at Hartford, already had passed the level it reached in the major flood of 1927. Elsewhere, river crests also rose.

Hurricane damage was so vast as to be incalculable. Thousands of homes and cottages fell into smashed and dreary piles of kindling. Hundreds of palatial yachts and small craft were swamped or destroyed. Public buildings were damaged; transportation and communication were halted or crippled. Crops were ruined over wide areas.

None could venture a guess as to the number of homeless, save that it was in the high thousands. From the glided "gold coast" of Long Island's north and south shores, the suburban homes of many of New York City's wealthy, to the ancient fishing villages of New England's coast, there was suffering.

Hurricane hit of the seven states were Massachusetts and Rhode Island. The latter reported a total of 223 victims early today.

New York, Connecticut and New Hampshire likewise had high fatalities. New Jersey and Vermont escaped the worst.

In Canada, the province of Quebec had a single death, but much damage.

Food supplies appear adequate for the immediate future in most sections, but some isolated towns in Massachusetts reported shortage. The hurricane, which appeared late yesterday to have blown itself out in the Canadian provinces of Quebec and Ontario, was followed by fire in some cities. A 300,000 cubic feet gas tank exploded in Providence, Rhode Island, amid the gale, and a 10-hour blaze helped push the total damage in historic old New London, Conn., to some $4,000,000.

Half-isolated Cape Cod, jutting out from Massachusetts into the open sea, reported more than a score of deaths at its base near the mainland. Connecticut, where the danger of See (Flood Menace) Page Six

Salute To Future Events

A foresighted person might have seen a hint of England's eventual capitulation to Sudeten German demands in this apparent Nazi salute by Lord Runciman, Great Britain's unofficial mediator in Czechoslovakia. The gesture was made in response to the salutes of Sudeten German storm troops whose parade he reviewed while a guest of Count Czernin at Castle Petersburg, Czechoslovakia.

FAIR SUCCESS IN C-C DRIVE IS INDICATED IN HALF DAY'S WORK; LOSERS FETE WINNERS AT DINNER

Primed by a "pep talk" by Clarence Scharbauer, thirty-two volunteer workers for the chamber of commerce went out into the business section and in office buildings today, seeking to increase the chamber's budget by $4,000 to $5,000 a year.

At a breakfast at 7 a. m., all team workers who were in the city reported. They were divided in pairs and began at once to contact their prospects, seeking both new members and increases in dues, with agreement to turn in their reports by 4:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Divided in two teams, captained by John P. Butler and Geo. T. Abell, the workers will attend a dinner at 6:30 o'clock this evening, the winning side to be announced and the losers to pay for the meal. The contest is based on a point system.

Russell C. Conkling, vice-president of the chamber, is in general charge of the drive for more funds to meet the increased demands of the treasury.

Although complete reports had not been turned in, several committees indicated they were having strong response during the morning and it was expected that the goal would be met by mid-afternoon. Prospects who cannot be seen today will be re-listed and turned over to the regular membership committee for "follow up" solicitation.

Four institutions were reported this morning to have signed up 100 per cent, every employee in each firm taking a membership. Included were the Ever-Ready Auto Service, A. & L. Housing & Lumber Co., and the Midland public schools, and Hotel Pharmacy.

Flood Relief Needs Growing in East

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23. (AP)—A Red Cross estimate that 10,000 families were in distress spurred Government officials last night in their efforts to provide relief, prevent epidemics and rehabilitate public property in the storm-beaten Northeast.

Norman H. Davis, the National Red Cross chairman, said the families were in need because of the hurricane, floods, fire and high seas.

He authorized local chapters of his organization all over the country to accept contributions for relief activities in the area.

Even before Davis spoke, offers of aid had come from Louisville, Ky., flooded in 1937, and the Red Cross Chapter of Miami, Fla., where hurricanes have struck in the past.

Red Cross workers at the scene reported that, if the crest of the rise in the Connecticut and other rivers of New England reaches the height of the 1936 flood, hundreds of additional families will be forced to flee.

Although confined by a head cold to the presidential quarters of the White House, President Roosevelt took a personal hand in relief activities, ordering Government agencies to provide all possible assistance.

Landslide at Dam Kills 1, 8 Missing

GLASGOW, Mont. Sept. 23. (AP)—One man was killed and eight others were missing after a shift of earth in the east abutment of the Fort Peck dam Thursday afternoon. Army engineers said no damage was done to the dam proper.

Millions of yards of dirt was pushed into the lake upstream from the dam by the earth slide, which left a chasm 200 feet deep and 200 feet wide.

The missing men were working in the Score pool at the abutment when the shift occurred.

Observers said the damage was serious but not beyond repair. Work on the huge dam, across the Missouri river, largest earth-fill structure of its kind in the world, was practically halted as Army Engineers and employees of contractors began efforts to recover bodies of the eight missing men and determine what caused the slide.

Benes Asks Czechs To Support Army In New Protection

PRAGUE, Sept. 23. (AP)—President Eduard Benes early today called on his army to protect the Czechoslovak people against "unfriendly elements" he said were attempting to arouse enmity toward the government in the tense atmosphere of foreign pressure on Czechoslovakia.

The president's communication to the armed forces came a few hours after a new cabinet, headed by General Jan Syrový as premier, assumed control of the government.

An official communique issued after midnight declared the Syrový government was one of "order, controlled strength and experience."

"Unfriendly elements are trying to use this sorrow to arouse a spirit of enmity toward the government, but you must remember that in this difficult time the uneasy people look to the army for security."

Syrový's cabinet was formed yesterday to cope with rising indignation over surrender of the republic's Sudeten areas to Germany.

The veteran campaigner, who was considered friendly toward Soviet Russia, succeeded Premier Milan Hodza, whose cabinet quit in the face of resentment against the French pressure designed to appease Adolf Hitler.

General Syrový, emerging as the republic's strong man in an hour of crisis, took over the war ministry portfolio in addition to the premiership.

He lost an eye while fighting in the famed Czech legion with the Russian armies against Germany during the World War. It was during this service his friendship developed with the Russians.

Britishers Riot Against Premier

LONDON, Sept. 23. (UP)—Several hundred policemen Thursday night fought an angry crowd of 15,000 Britons, who attempted to smash through a police cordon and reach the residence of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain.

Fight to Be Renewed to Move Texas Pardon Board From Austin to Huntsville

AUSTIN, Sept. 23. (AP)—The fight to move the State Pardon Board from Austin to Huntsville, site of the Central Penitentiary, appears certain of renewal at the legislature's regular session opening in January.

The proposal mustered strong support in the regular session last year with the consequence that forces opposing it agreed to let one of the three board members sit at Huntsville. Member J. B. Keith resides there while Chairman Bruce W. Bryant and Member T. C. Andrews live here.

Rep. E. F. Harrell of Paris, former State Penitentiary warden, said he would sponsor the next move to transfer the entire board to Huntsville. The change would result in the body being in position to grant clemency to a larger percentage of deserving convicts, he said.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23. (AP)—The Social Security Board reported it had authorized allocation of $2,412,600 to Texas for old age assistance during the first quarter of the 1938-39 fiscal year.

No plan has been submitted by the state for federal aid to dependent children and the blind.

The board certified advances totaling $9,375,700 for old age assistance in the state in the 1937-38 fiscal year.

Advances totaling $229,000 have been certified or authorized by the board to Texas for unemployment compensation administration during the first quarter of the current fiscal year, and $199,842 for employment service administration.

A balance of $25,731,493.55 was in the treasury as of June 30 credited to Texas' unemployment trust fund.

Hines Trial Now Set for Nov. 14

NEW YORK, Sept. 23. (AP)—Retrial of Tammany District Leader James J. Hines, on policy racket conspiracy charges, was set Thursday for Nov. 14 in General Sessions Court by District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey.

Hines' first trial was declared a mistrial two weeks ago by Supreme Court Justice Ferdinand Pecora, who said Dewey has asked an improper question regarding testimony before a 1935 grand jury regarding Hines. Dewey asked Pecora last week to change the retrial from Supreme Court to General Sessions and the Supreme Court Justice granted the request.

Britain Strives to Retain Support for Premier Chamberlain

LONDON, Sept. 23. (AP)—British ministers strove last night to save Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain from losing public support at home while he bargained with Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler on the future of Europe.

Disturbed by violent attacks on the prime minister charging he surrendered to Hitler on Czechoslovakia, two cabinet members appealed for patience and calm.

Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax called Chamberlain's second flight to Germany in a week a "courageous mission for peace" and warned the public against premature conclusions.

Earl Winterton, chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, admitted in a speech at Harsham that "the crisis is by no means over."

He declared Chamberlain took proposals to Hitler "which, in the circumstances, France and ourselves believe we can honestly and honorably make and which the Czechoslovakian government have accepted."

Political speculation was stirred meanwhile by an hour's visit in Buckingham Palace between King George VI and Earl Baldwin, Chamberlain's predecessor as prime minister.

Baldwin, who led the nation through the crisis of Edward VIII's abdication, is known to be friendly with former Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, who declared in a speech last night:

"There are some people who believe that if immediate issues can somehow be resolved without resort to force the ambitions of all powers of Europe then will have been largely met and the crisis is over. I can find no justification for such hopes . . ."

Conference Is Interrupted by Sharp Demand

PARIS, Sept. 23. (AP)—A Havas news dispatch from Godesberg tonight said the Hitler-Chamberlain negotiations had broken down over the German chancellor's refusal to give a guarantee the British prime minister requested regarding his future action toward Czechoslovakia.

PARIS, Sept. 23. (AP)—

The Havas News Agency reported tonight that the Godesberg conference between Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler of Germany and Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain of Great Britain had been interrupted by Hitler's demand that Germany be permitted to immediately occupy Sudetenland.

GODESBERG, Sept. 23. (AP)—

After a day of suspension in the fateful Godesberg talks on peace for Europe came the announcement that Prime Minister Chamberlain would see Chancellor Hitler later tonight and return to London by plane tomorrow.

By Associated Press.

Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler and Prime Minister Chamberlain exchanged notes across the Rhine today, amid tense suspense in their postponed conversations on the European crisis. There was no official information as to what the notes contained, but informed persons believed Chamberlain's letter outlined the essential conditions for continuing the talks.

One of these was reported to be that Hitler help arrange a truce between the German and the Czechoslovakians who were reported to be drawn up as if for battle on the Sudetenland border.

Prime Minister Chamberlain later sent Ambassador Henderson across the Rhine to confer with German Foreign Minister Von Ribbentrop regarding the crisis and other developments.

Pattern Would Be Repeated.

If war should start tomorrow, I think that a similar pattern would be repeated. There would not be so much foreign selling of securities as in 1914. The amount of foreign capital invested in our securities is about the same; but America is considered a safer haven for money now than it was a quarter century ago. Nevertheless, there would probably be a sharp drop in our prices due to speculative selling. The security exchanges might even be closed again. No, everyone, however, agrees with these conclusions.

Some investors, for instance, feel that the government would make this a "profitless war" in an effort to keep the United States neutral. I doubt if this can be done effectively. Other observers cannot understand how European powers can pay us for our goods. They, however, can pay us. But leaving for a moment demand entirely out of the picture, war in Europe would produce a period of feverish rearmament here in North America! After the first furies of selling, I believe that security prices and business would come back with a bang.

War Means Inflation.

The most far-reaching result of a general European war now, however, would be world-wide inflation. I do not think that the currency of any country could withstand the ravages of a big war. For ten years, every major power has been borrowing more than it could pay back. If to the normal demands of peace-time, the abnormal demands of war are added, the day of reckoning must come. I believe that the United States would be caught in this inflation mesh. But even inflation brings a business boom in its early stages.

Aside from the war situation, the fall outlook for business is good. We have already recovered 25 per cent of last year's losses in the face of gloomy and depressive news. If you are not discouraged by front page headlines, you can find cheerful and optimistic business reports every day in the inside pages of your paper. Hence, my advice to business men and workers is: Forget front page scareheads and pay more attention to your own business and your own job!

Capitol Jigsaw

By HOWARD C. MARSHALL

AUSTIN, Sept. 23 (AP).—Coach Dana Xenophon Bible, hired at $15,000 a year to re-establish the lost gridiron glories of the University of Texas, is wearing a smile these days in spite of the fact there is little reason to believe the Longhorns will be world beaters this fall.

The team has wound up the past three seasons in the cellar of the Southwest Conference and has not won the championship in eight years.

This is Bible's second year in active charge of the gridiron. He became director of physical education and head football coach in the spring of 1932 after asking and receiving more than twice the salary of the state school president.

The reason for the grin which wreathes the stocky mentor's features is a crop of "fine, clean boys" who have registered as freshmen and who will be available for varsity play next year.

The "Bible plan" which won six titles for Nebraska university in eight years and five for Texas A. & M. college previously, is only now beginning to function in its entirety.

Simply stated, it is a system in which organized groups of alumni over the state try to interest boys of good character, who are studiously inclined and blessed with outstanding athletic ability, in working their way through the university.

Bible says he wants only boys who are looking ahead to what happens after graduation. He and his alumni hold the state school can do more for a student in education and placement after graduation than other institutions.

Apparently the plan is working, for the bald-headed veteran is more than satisfied with the freshman grid prospects entering school this fall.

Capitol city grid enthusiasts and other close followers of the university's teams feel the Longhorns will rank a notch or so higher than the cellar when the season closes this year, but Bible gives them little encouragement.

The mentor flatly refused to guess the team's place in the standings or the number of games they would win out of a nine-game schedule.

Several sophomores, members of the state high school championship team of Amarillo in 1933, will be depended upon to strengthen the line, he said, but the backfield will be weaker because of a lack of reserves.

"The biggest asset we have this season," Bible said, "is co-ordination. Last year we didn't know each other so well—the coaches, the boys, the system and the school. We lacked the momentum needed for a successful system and when the bad breaks came, we bogged down."

There was reaction in the legislatures of Texas and Nebraska when Bible was conferring with University of Texas regents on a contract.

Nebraska's unicameral lawmaking body objected strenuously by means of a resolution to the famed coach's impending transfer to the Texas school.

When it became known that Bible had been employed by the University of Texas at what was a staggering salary figure in the southwest and signed to a 10-year contract, a resolution was introduced in the Texas Senate requesting the school's regents to rescind the agreement.

Senator L. J. Sulak of LaGrange, author of the resolution, took exception to paying to a coach funds which he claimed could be used to better advantage in academic activities.

But the resolution failed. It died in a pigeon hole of the committee on state affairs where it had been assigned for study and whose members never voted it out for floor action.

Although the Longhorns finished last year's season in their accustomed place at the bottom of the conference, there was no howl on the part of the alumni.

Apparently they have great faith in Bible.

Your Child's Future

THE biggest job you have ever had, parents,—that of caring for your children—is safeguarding their health so that their future happiness and success may be assured.

Nothing is more important to them than their eyes. No child is healthy without healthy eyes. No child can achieve success without good vision.

There's only one way to tell whether or not your children's vision is normal—have their eyes examined. Do it now before school begins.

I-Spy for Everybody

Well, friends, pick your hide-out; it's here.

The sidewalk television interview made its debut in New York the other day, and everybody announced it a great success. And doubtless it was, and will be for the audiences and the people who cherish dreams of being televised. But how about the shrinking violet and a few others?

When sidewalk telecasts get to be the ordinary thing, how about the poor woman who just slipped an old thing on and dashed downtown with her make-up cock-eyed, expecting to rush right back and see no one but the saleslady? Isn't she going to be tickled to get telecast into the homes of all her friends and enemies? And how about the poor gent who always looks like a camel when his picture is taken? And how about all those people that are going to be unexpectedly telecast from places they aren't supposed to be, with companions they aren't supposed to know?

On second thought, maybe television is going to prove a great force for good in this world. At least, good dress, good manners, and good, quick thinking.

They Let Go Hard

Whatever became of bootlegging?

Back in 1930, federal agents seized 25,000 stills and 34,000,000 gallons of mash and arrested 85,000 persons.

From the Internal Revenue Bureau in Washington comes the information that so far this year federal agents have seized about half that many stills, a fourth as much mash, and arrested a third as many persons.

What is the conclusion to be drawn? That may depend on what it was you expected repeal to do. If you expected a sudden and complete cessation of bootlegging, the 1933 figures will come as a shock of disappointment. But the act of repeal did not repeal the way of life many thousands of men had become accustomed to over a period of 14 years.

A lawless class of specialists arose that can still derive some profit from their specialty through circumventing federal taxes. It would be excessive optimism to expect them to vanish off the face of the earth before more than a few years have passed. They still think they've got a good thing; the type learns slowly.

Keep Your Eyes off of the Front Page Is Babson's Advice to American People Who Have Allowed War Scare to Hurt Business

By ROGER W. BABSON

(Copyright, 1933, Publishers Financial Bureau.)

NEW YORK CITY, Sept. 23.—For the past three months the longness has been bowing right along. Activity is up 11 per cent from the mid-June bottom. Every day there is encouraging, cheerful news coming out on this industry and that. Yet I believe that people are more upset and frightened today than when business was at its lowest point in June.

The reason is, of course, the European situation. Newspaper headlines have been screaming war for weeks. Your radio program is interrupted every ten minutes by a "radio press bulletin" playing up some insignificant war news. My position right along has been that there will be no general war in Europe this year, at least. When you read this column I will be on my way to Germany to get some first-hand information for you.

War Bullish on Business.

Our present upswing will be halted by this European situation if business men, radio broadcasters, and the press are not careful. Business is like a machine. It takes a lot of power to get it rolling. Once it is rolling, however, it builds up its own momentum. The sensational treatment of the European crisis is putting a brake on business recovery. Consumers are naturally holding back on their shopping and business men stalling on their buying.

However, my belief is that whatever happens people are worrying unnecessarily. Even if there is a war, it may help, not hurt, American business. If the European powers fly at one another's throats, the demand for foods, clothing, munitions, and machinery will be tremendous. To know what will happen we only have to look back a quarter century to the World War. Most of my readers remember that we had a "prosperity" never before known in the United States from 1915-1919.

What Happened in 1914?

The opening gong for the last war was sounded on July 28, 1914, when Austria knocked the chip off Serbia's shoulder. The New York stock market immediately crashed. Prices hurtled downward in one of the sharpest breaks in history. The Exchange was promptly closed from July 31 to December 12. However, during the twelve months after the market reopened, there was a constant increase in security prices. Many issues doubled and tripled.

Business activity also bogged down immediately after the declaration of war, but only for a short time. Beginning in November, 1914, a sharp upswing got under way and carried through the summer of 1918. At the extreme peak in May, 1917, activity was 55 per cent higher than it was when the Germans crossed the Belgian border. This was an all-time record for American business.

War Brought Inflation.

Of course, not all stocks galloped to new highs during the war period because the profit margins of certain industries were drastically slashed. Commodity prices jumped 140 per cent. We had a real dose of inflation. Copper soared from 14 cents to 30 cents a pound. Lead skyrocketed from $1.00 to $12.00 a barrel. Sugar leaped from 5 cents to 16 cents per pound. Labor also was in great demand. Wage scales in many industries doubled. Taxes, too, were drastic. As a result, the cost of doing business, as well as the cost of living, touched the highest peaks we had ever known.

Those companies, therefore, which could not increase the selling price of their products were squeezed. They had to pay more for their materials, labor, and taxes; but they could not charge more for the goods they made or the services they rendered. Railroads and utilities were especially hurt by this inflation. However, most businesses made barrels of money out of the war. As a matter of fact, our prominence as

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23. Both Republicans and Democratic national committees are giving some high-powered attention to what the "little woman" thinks about politics these days.

At one time party leaders distributed the domestic calm of the housewife's kitchen only on election day, when they sent someone around to persuade her to leave the baby or the pickled preserves long enough to visit the election booth.

But today both parties have full-time divisions that pay year-round attention to what women are thinking about government and politics between election days.

The Democrats entrust this job to Mrs. Dorothy McAllister, head of the women's division of the national committee, and the Republicans have Marion Martin directing women's activities for their national committee.

Marion Martin, directing the Republicans' modernized program, is about the same age, 30ish, buoyant, with a contagious freshness, forcefulness. Both women have tremendous enthusiasm for their jobs.

Both have a sense of humor. Miss Martin thought it hilariously funny one time when she found she was facing a large audience which had come expecting to see and hear Marion Davies.

And both women are young enough to think the hardships of organizing tours a lark. Mrs. McAllister laughs about the time she had just time for a shampoo in Washington and had to wait until she reached Boston, tousled but undismayed, to get a wave.

They've both had the experience of motor breakdowns and have learned to thumb their way to a speaking engagement.

Watching them in action you decide what the modern woman needs to chase the blues away is not a new hat, but political activity.

CLEAN FIXTURES GIVE More LIGHT

Reddy Kilowatt Says:
Light fixtures collect dust which absorbs as much as one-third of the light you should be getting. Wipe all lamp globes, glass shades and diffusing bowls on portable lamps occasionally with a damp cloth to remove the thin film of dust they collect. Then you'll get ALL the light you pay for.

FILL EMPTY SOCKETS TO MAKE YOUR LIVING ROOM MORE ATTRACTIVE

It is the mark of a good housekeeper to have all light fixture sockets filled with lamps that will burn. Dead lamp globes or empty sockets are as noticeable as a window without a shade.

Fixtures with all sockets filled give you better light, too, showing your living room to the best advantage and creating an atmosphere of cheerfulness and hospitality.

PUT LAMP BULBS ON YOUR SHOPPING LIST

Almost every grocery store, drug store, as well as electric appliance stores, have lamps for sale. Buy them in assortments so that you'll have a globe of the right size when one burns out.

Be sure to get Globes that are large enough to give you all the light you need

FOR TABLE LAMPS

You'll find that lamp bulbs of 100-watt or 150-watt size will give the best light for reading or studying under a table lamp.

FOR I.E.S. BETTER SIGHT LAMPS

Be sure to use the same size and type of lamp bulb in I. E. S. lamps that they originally contained to give you the best lighting results.

BRIGHTEN Your KITCHEN

You need a good light in the kitchen, and a 100-watt or 150-watt size will provide enough light to make seeing easier and to speed your work.

Plymouth First to Present New Models for 1939

Here's the first of the new 1939 automobiles, presenting an impressive array of added features for greater comfort and luxury in the lowest price field. The latest models now on display at Plymouth showrooms here confirm the forecasts that stronger "eye appeal" would highlight new auto designs for 1939. Inside and out, this newest Plymouth is completely restyled. Headlamps and tail lights are streamlined into the fenders, and a new Vee-type windshield adds more than six inches to body length above the belt. Built on a longer wheelbase—now 114 inches—brand new features include softer-riding coil springs of Amola steel; new high-torque engine performance; remote control gear shift up on the steering post, and a new "safety-signal" speedometer that flashes traffic lights right under a driver's eyes. The new Plymouth rides better, handles easier—and prices are still lower this year, the factory just announced.

tan was fastened to the dark brown skirt by the simple method of buttoning it on with small red buttons. Each button was set in a red-bound scallop, this scallop edging going entirely around the blouse and up the center-front fastening. The touch of red was accentuated by a red scarf tucked into the plain neckline. Such a dress has the charm of novelty, at least.

In these highly-specialized days, any baby will turn up its nose at being weighed on just any old scale that happens to be handy. Most likely the young hopeful, if able to speak, would demand one of the baby scales now on display. One of these has an enameled tray in which to lay the child, said tray displaying an assortment of such things as rabbits, pigs, and ducks, all arrayed like Mother Goose's favorites, and parading playfully about.

But such designs are not the only specialty of this pair of scales. Displayed to meet the proud mother's eye is a list giving the correct weights of both boys and girls for ages up to four years.

These scales are a nice thought for a gift for the little newcomer. If your bottle of toilet water or cologne is forever being knocked over with part of the contents spilled, try one of the new bottle holders. These consist of a flexible steel scroll in which the bottle with the atomizer attached is held sus-ended, with the bottom of the bottle clear of the table or shelf. The flexible material permits turning of the bottle to the proper position for spraying the scent without removing it from the holder and it springs back into place when the hand is removed.

An Omaha woman who has passed her 108th birthday prescribes working hard, doing the scrubbing and the washing, and letting the rest take care of itself as a prescription for long life. "I'm just about to cross the river", she says.

If we had to live 108 years doing the scrubbing and the washing and suchlike hard labor, we'd be relieved at the chance of crossing the river just to get a little rest.

Maybe we weren't supposed to attain long life. As a matter of fact, we're not sure we want it at such a price as the Nebraska centenarian advocates paying.

Films Always Have Demanded the Best

When I was a youngster, in Philadelphia, I used to go to movies as frequently as I could coax the price of admission from my parents. That wasn't often. My parents didn't entirely approve of the movies. A few years later, when I was a very young stage actor, I would hear older players talk about having tries at pictures. They usually spoke in a low voice and in a somewhat apologetic manner. Actors, it seemed didn't entirely approve of the movies.

It took a series of surprises to formulate my own belief as to what has given the screen its dominant position as an entertainment medium. I would follow the budding career of some stage player. Next thing I'd know, I'd be meeting him in Hollywood. And perhaps he would be cast in one of my own pictures. Gradually, I ceased to be surprised. I did, however, come to the conclusion that the screen is a veritable bloodhound when it comes to tracking down and capturing the very best in entertainment and entertainers.

Looking back over the brief history of motion pictures it is apparent that this driving urge to improve and to go after the very best has always been present. The men who founded the industry were not content to reap fortunes from a novelty which ranked only a step or two above the peep-shows. They began luring actors from the stage. They hired big-name writers. They pressed ahead tirelessly with technical improvements. They aimed high and they kept elevating their sights. When they brought the silent picture to a state of near-perfection they spent millions of dollars and turned their industry topsy-turvy by introducing sound because they knew talking films would provide better entertainment. Today, they're spending more millions to go ahead with color. Any industry that strives so ceaselessly for self-improvement is bound to achieve it. And with it, success and public esteem. —WILLIAM KEIGHLEY.

BULLDOGS TO CLASH WITH BIG LAKE OWLS HERE TONIGHT

VISITORS LIGHT BUT SEEKING TO AVENGE DEFEAT

Bulldogs of Midland high school engage in their second 1938 gridiron combat at 8 o'clock this evening, meeting the Big Lake Owls on Lackey field in a non-conference tussle. Boasting a tackle weighing 185 pounds, the Owls otherwise are light, the backfield averaging around 145 pounds in weight.

Badly beaten last week by the fast Eldorado team, 1937 winners of district 41-B and region 8, the Big Lake team will go on the field tonight with nothing to lose but a determination to avenge the poor start by giving a tough game to a reportedly better team, the Midland Bulldogs.

The locals, fresh and in trim after administering a 53 to 0 blow to Roby last Friday, have been put through stiff paces all week. Coaches Taylor and Myer knowing full well the disastrous possibilities of overconfidence.

Should the Owls prove easy picking, as the Roby team, it is likely that many of the reserves will see action again tonight for much of the game. Starting line-up probably will be Klatt and Eidson, guards; Foster and Ford, tackles; Whitaker, center; Van Dyke and Bryant, ends; Harris, Truelove, Wright and Francis, backs, with the possibility of changing positions with Geddes, White, Walker and Wilson. Last week, reserves were constantly going and coming as coaches gave them chances to see action against the Roby squad.

Big Lake's probable starting line-up will include Guynes and McGuire, guards; Puckett and Daugherty, tackles; Bird and Proctor, ends; Thorn, fullback; Webb, right half; Miller, left half; with other starters unnamed.

Complete names, positions, numbers and weights of players and reserves for both teams appear in this issue.

Major conflicts of the area this week-end are:

Class A: Northside at San Angelo, tonight. Abilene at Lubbock, tonight. Colorado (6-B) at Big Spring, tonight.

Class B: Spur (Class B) at Sweetwater, tonight. El Paso High (4-A) at Odessa (4-A), tonight.

(The Odessa-El Paso game is Odessa's debut in Class A football.) Class B: Eldorado at Wink, Saturday night. Pecos (7-B) at McCamey (8-B) tonight.

Big Lake (8-B) at Midland (7-B), tonight. Stanton at Monahans (7-B district game), tonight.

Tran (8-B) at Kermit (7-B), tonight. Junction (41-B) at Rocksprings

Rankin Wins From Bulldog Youngsters

"Prof" Moore took a squad of third and fourth string Bulldog players to Rankin Friday afternoon, giving them their first taste of an actual game again Rankin's first team, gaining good experience and putting up a stiff fight even though coming back with the small end of a 27 to 0 score. Rankin, originally scheduled to meet Crane, had an off week due to the Crane avalanche of ineffectuality and injuries reducing their squad to ten men.

Eugene Holmes Rankin turned in the best play of the game in the last quarter when he ran 101 yards

Thinks Time Is Ripe For New Automobile Style Cycle
Noted Viennese Designer Points Out That Better Cars Should Soon Bring Smarter Styles
BY MME. IDA JOLLES
All of us appreciate the constant change that is the rule in the world of fashion; too few, perhaps, realize what is behind such change, or what change marks the inauguration of a true style departure.
The fact is that the best style is the style that best expresses purpose. This is true whether you deal with automobiles or the important accessories of women's dress. Whether it's a car or a handbag, it must have logic as well as loveliness if it hopes to start a style.
Personally, I expect automobile design to embark upon a new road in the very near future. Too much attention, of late, has been going to the detail of decoration and too little to expressing the constant improvement that has been marked in automobile construction.
From all I hear, the car most likely to establish such a new style cycle appears to be the new Buick which will soon be announced. Reports that reach me point it out as something that derives its smartness from its improvement in functional design. That will be sufficient to make it a car that at last starts us on a new style cycle.
