American Business Ready for New Boom As All Industries Staging Recovery

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—Governorships are the most important jobs at stake in the 1938 elections. Governors control state political machines. A state machine normally is the most powerful single factor in an election.

THE CAPITOL JIGSAW

By HOWARD C. MARSHALL, Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Oct. 27. (AP).—Sombre brown drapery that hangs in heavy folds behind the president's rostrum in the senate chamber provides one of the dark mysteries of the capitol.

That is, it is a mystery to many visitors to the capitol until they draw it aside, at times a little fearfully, to see what it conceals.

It hides nothing but a blank white wall. It has been hung merely to break the whiteness of expanse that senators must gaze upon many hours daily when the legislature is in session and to add to the beauty of the senate chamber.

Mrs. Ham Ward, senate custodian, says it is one of the prime attractions to tourists, especially to children.

"Please, what is behind that curtain?" is the question asked Mrs. Ward several times daily.

"Nothing," Mrs. Ward will reply. "May we look?" comes another query.

And curious hands draw aside the drapery.

In front of the drapery has been temporarily suspended a small frame reproduction of a drawing of Sam Houston.

While traveling in Tennessee two years ago, state auditor Tom King ran across the sketch and had a number of reproductions made. One of these he placed temporarily in the Democrats make hay with charges against Governor George Earle's administration and a bitter split between the state machine on one hand and Senator Joe Guiffey and John L. Lewis on the other.

Recent reports indicate a nip-and-tuck struggle in which the democratic nominee, Charles A. Jones, may outdistance Earle, running for senator, and beat Judge Arthur H. James, republican candidate for governor.

James attacks the New Deal incidentally, but centers fire on Earle's administration, promising to "clean up Harrisburg." Desecration of the democratic ticket by Bob Vann, powerful leader, may 9. Financial news is mostly good. Credit reserves, the largest in our history, could allow credit expansion of $250,000,000 compared with an actual figure of $55,000,000 at the '29 peak. Bank deposits are rising.

Most important of all, commercial loans are now beginning to expand for the first time in a year. Furthermore, foreign investors are again looking to the United States and Canada.

10. Increased security prices in themselves, are adding momentum to the upward surge. Since June 1 security values have swelled $15,000,000, or almost three times as much as the last Congress appropriated to pump-prime prosperity! This increase in values cannot help but boost business, just as a year ago the stock market stopped it. In addition, Christmas trade this season will be the best since 1930!

UNEMPLOYMENT MUST END. This review of the business situation is not poppy-cock. I call the business turns as I see them. My job is to give you facts. Therefore, while I am optimistic today, I say: We will have lasting personal, industrial, and international prosperity only as we give greater attention to Jesus' Gospel. I especially have in mind one major problem—unemployment. I shall give my opinion on this issue, in view of my European observations, in a later article.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Reporter-Telegram:

On July 29, 1938, a state-wide meeting was held in Austin, under the jurisdiction of the Texas Planning Board, at the call of Governor Allred.

At this meeting representatives from the various parts of the state explained in detail many of the problems facing us in connection with this very important and necessary resource.

At the suggestion of the Resolutions Committee, the Chairman of the Planning Board appointed seven men to constitute a Legislative Committee, who were to prepare a tentative draft of a law covering the various legal requirements necessary to protect the underground water.

The committee, after due consideration, decided to hold regional meetings in various sections of the state for discussion of the bill. The meeting for this area will be held in Lubbock in the ballroom of the Hilton Hotel, Monday, November 7, at 2:30 p. m., at which time the entire committee will be present, together with other speakers, to explain the bill as outlined.

We respectfully request that you be present in order that we may have an open forum and get the benefit of the opinion and knowledge of citizens of the respective localities in Northwest Texas regarding our underground water supply.

We sincerely hope and urge that you attend the meeting and bring everybody in your section with you who is interested in this so important matter to each community in Northwest Texas.

With kindest regards, I am, Yours very truly, W. H. Rodgers, Member, Underground Water Conservation Committee, Lubbock, Tex.

Vital Life Lines of British Empire In Peril If Reich Regains Colonies

Reichsfuehrer Hitler, his land hunger unsatisfied, has let it be known that his dreams for a new German empire embrace the return of far-flung colonies lost to the Reich after the World War. The story of these colonies and how their return to Germany would affect the world situation is told in three informative articles written for The Reporter-Telegram. This is the first.

By MILTON BRONNER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent.

LONDON.—Having watched the acquisitive hand of Germany scramble over the face of Europe and come up clutching Austria and Czechoslovakia's Sudetenland, British colonies in Africa fear that the next sweep of Hitler's threatening fist may be in their direction.

On the Sudetenland settlement, the Fuehrer said it would be his last territorial demand "in Europe." Well, where does he go from there? Britons in Africa fear they know the answer.

And Chancellor Hitler's recently reported demand, in preliminary negotiations for a Franco-German accord, for the unconditional return by France of the former German colonies of Togoland and the Cameroons, is only one basis of their fear.

This matter of colonies is the only outstanding question upon which Hitler has widely varied from the platform laid down in his book, "Mein Kampf." In that volume he made rather light of colonies and boldly said he was more interested in getting rich European territories contiguous to the present Germany. But men like General Franz Ritter von Epp and others close to him have made him change his mind. Now he wants colonies:

1. Because they were taken from Germany by "duress" in the Treaty of Versailles.

WHERE NAZI EYES FOCUS ON AFRICA—In solid black on the map of Africa above, are shown Germany's former African colonies and their strategic location in relation to the ocean "lifelines" of the British Empire. Should war with a dominant Mediterranean power close the Suez Canal to Britain, she would be forced over to the western "long route" to India and her far East possessions. Walvis Bay, in former German Southwest Africa, and Dar es Salaam, in Tanganyika, former German East Africa, are ports from which warships and submarines could cut either route. Tanganyika also threatens British land communication, along the famous Cape-to-Cairo north-and-south rail and air routes. The shaded area is the Union of South Africa, which has the mandate for Southwest Africa.

2. Because when England, France, Italy, Holland, Belgium and Portugal all have considerable colonial empires, it is "derogatory to Germany's honor" not to have part of the white man's burden.

3. Because he is confident Germany could so develop her former colonies as to supply many of the home needs. He scouts any British talk of Germans being able to buy in the colonies what they want. He says Germany has not the necessary gold or foreign exchange. If colonies were once more Germany's the nation could buy stuff with its own currency.

HITLER is not claiming the Pacific islands which mainly went to Japan. He may not even bother greatly about Togoland and Cameroons, in northern Africa. What he has in mind is former German East Africa for which England holds the mandate and former German Southwest Africa, for which the Union of South Africa holds the mandate.

German East Africa, now called Tanganyika, is a territory the English would be loathe to give up. It was the last link of Cecil Rhodes' dream of an all-British route from the Cape of Good Hope to Egypt. It makes possible some day an all-English railway from South to North Africa. It is an important stopping place for the Imperial Airways planes which fly from England to South Africa.

In Dar es Salaam and other ports it has havens, which, if in German hands, might some day prove dangerous to British shipping. German submarines, operating from these ports, could harry British ships going from the Suez Canal and Red Sea en route to India, the Far East and Australia. Since Tanganyika has been British, several short railway lines, connecting with the bigger ones, have been constructed, many airbases built, and a big electric power station on the Pangani river. All are valuable from a military standpoint.

EVEN more than British East Africa, King George's subjects in Southwest Africa fear any "deal" for colonies.

And there's a nice little snag. Tanganyika is a British mandate, but former German Southwest Africa is a self-governing dominion. The British cabinet and government cannot make decisions for that dominion. All of which will look to Hitler like passing the buck and probably engender considerable heat.

Even if London decides to play ball with Hitler on restoration of colonies, it is going to take a lot of argument from the Chamberlain government to get South Africa to fall into line. South Africa, by its own efforts, conquered the Germans in Southwest Africa during the World War, and feels pretty strongly about holding on to this territory.

Two-thirds of Southwest Africa is valuable because it is burning desert. But the cultivable part AFRICAN HARBOR A POTENTIAL GERMAN NAVAL BASE—Spacious and with peaceful landlocked waters, the harbor of Dar es Salaam, in Tanganyika, former German East Africa, is a potential threat to Great Britain's "lifelines" to India, should Germany regain this colony. Seen as a peaceful, thriving town in this airview, Dar es Salaam, important railroad center and Imperial Airways port, might be turned into a base for German warships and submarines.

Texas Industries Exceed Minimum Wage Under Law

AUSTIN.—The average hourly wage for manufacturing industries in the state is 59.2 cents; hours of work average 40.7 a week, it is shown by special tabulations prepared by the Bureau of Business Research of the University of Texas. It was found that no industry canvassed in connection with the regular employment and pay roll survey shows average earnings below the 25-cent-an-hour minimum set by the law. All important industries are represented.

In making any study of the possible effect of the Fair Labor Standards Act, consideration must be given to the provision calling for the appointment by the administrator of an industry committee for each industry for the purpose of recommending the highest minimum wage rates for the industry, which will not substantially curtail employment in the industry," the Bureau said. "Due regard must be observed for economic and competitive conditions. Recommendation of the industry committee as to the highest practical wage rate for the industry, between 25 and 40 cents an hour, if approved by the administrator, becomes the legal minimum rate for that industry. Thus the law has a potential effect upon every establishment engaged in or affecting interstate commerce which pays its employees less than 40 cents an hour.

The northern part of the country is almost exclusively inhabited by native tribes, who largely are ruled by their own chieftains. The Germans say they want this territory back principally because of its mineral possibilities. There are copper lodes which promise great things. In the last year reported, the territory produced $4,575,000 worth of diamonds, $140,000 of gold, $150,000 tin concentrate, $1,000,000 vanadium, $44,000 pig lead and $360,000 crude copper.

But possibly another consideration is that Walvis Bay offers a good naval base from which submarines and cruisers could make life difficult for British ships following the long "life line" from England around the Cape of Good Hope to India and the Far East.

Modern airplanes have an average speed of 200 miles per hour, as compared with 100 miles per hour in 1930.

NEXT: Nazi activity in Southwest Africa.

facturing average, crude petroleum production, with about 30,000 workers, averages 94.7 cents. Other industries in the chemical group include carbon black manufacturing, 84.4 cents, paints and varnishes, 51.7 cents, and other chemicals, 50.1 cents.

In the stone and clay products group, only brick manufacturing, with 32 cents an hour, averages less than 40 cents an hour. Cement averages 59.9 cents, while other industries, including marble, granite, stone and concrete products, range from 53 to 63 cents an hour.

All of the industries in the machinery and iron and steel products group are well above the 40-cent limit to which the minimum wage rates may be raised by the industry committees and the administrator. Foundries and machine-shop products average 63.5 cents, steam-railroad repair shops (although probably not within the scope of the act), 65.7 cents, structural and ornamental iron, 51 cents. Miscellaneous machinery and iron and steel products average 57.5 cents an hour.

"Cotton oil mills, with an average of 31.2 cents an hour, mattresses and bedding, with 56.1 cents, paper products, with 49.2 cents, and truck bodies and trailers, with 50.5 cents, complete the industries covered in the bureau's survey.

"Of non-manufacturing industries which may be affected, quarrying and non-metallic mining averages 66.1 cents, public utilities 67.5 cents, and averages for the various lines of wholesale trade range from 41.9 cents to 86.5 cents an hour.

"Greater need for adjustments will be found in connection with hours of work. To comply with the 44-hour-week provision applicable during the first year, the following industries will have to revise their weekly hours downward: Carbonated beverages, 48.2 hours a week, confectioneries, 48.1 hours, creameries, 46.4 hours, flour milling, 50.7 hours, ice cream manufacturing, 57.4 hours, meat packing, 44.8 hours, and saw mills, 44.9 hours a week. These industries employ about 22 per cent of all employees engaged in manufacturing in the state.

"No provision is made in the Act for regulating hours of work through industry committees. The law simply provides for a 44-hour week during the first year, 42 hours during the second year, and 40 hours thereafter.

"On the basis of industry averages, it may be stated that approximately 65 per cent of all workers engaged in manufacturing in Texas are already receiving pay at hourly rates averaging more than 40 cents an hour, and that the remaining 35 per cent receive between 25 and 40 cents an hour. It is probable, however, that a comparatively small number of workers may actually receive less than 25 cents an hour, and that both the percentages quoted above would be lowered slightly if industries not canvassed and the below-average elements within the industries which were canvassed could be taken into account. There also may be a considerable number of non-manufacturing establishments which will be required to adjust their wage rates upward under the Act, but in the absence of a general coverage of such industries and any information to the effect that will come under the Act, they have been omitted from this discussion."

Aggie Fans Wonder if Writer Ever Heard of Dick Todd as Well as Rice's One and Only Ernie Lain

COLLEGE STATION. — When Texas Aggie followers read Hugh Fullerton's recent article in "Liberty" in which he named Ernie Lain, Rice back as the player of 1938 to fill the shoes left empty by Byron "Whizzer" White, Colorado star, completed his college career in the Cotton Bowl last New Year's Day, they got a big laugh and at the same time felt slighted for Fullerton forgot to mention that such a player as Dick Todd, "The Crowell Cyclone" of the Aggies even existed.

is in forward passing with an average of 446 for completions against Todd's 167. Lain has thrown 56 and Todd 18. Another bit of humor in Fullerton's story was the naming of Jack Morrison, SMU, and Dwight Sloan, Arkansas, as other prospective "Whizzer" successors. The funny part of that is that both of those boys graduated last June and Sloan is now playing pro football in the town where Fullerton has his office.

36 Conference High School Games Clear Way for Drive Down Stretch

DALLAS. (AP). — Thirty-six conference games this week will clear the decks for the stretch drive down the Texas interscholastic league gridiron trail. There are few outstanding battles on the schedule and none of the five unbeaten, united teams Gainesville, Tyler, Livingston, Lufkin and Waco, appear in danger of taking a fall. It is the lull before the storm, the real championship race starting with the first week in November. From there on it will be hammer and tongs until Thanksgiving Day. Favorites are well-defined in a majority of the districts but results of the past two weeks have shown the hazards of selecting possible winners. However, on the basis of the season's records thus far outstanding contenders for the district titles appear to be:

"Fear Tully Week" On H-SU Campus

ABILENE.—This is "Fear Darrell Tully" Week on the campus of the Hardin-Simmons Cowboys. The spark of the varied aerial and running circus of the undefeated East Texas State eleven is leading the Lions into town for the final home game on the Rancher slate, Saturday night, and the Eastland boy's brilliant razzle dazzle has them talking to themselves at H-SU. Co-captain Tully put on the show in last week-end's Lion win over plucky Trinity, 26 to 6, tossing three scoring passes, and setting up a fourth score. Even more to the point, all of Rancherland members the 15 to 12 close squeak for the 37 unbeaten Cowboys, down at Commerce, with Tully again setting the pace. Coach Frank Kimbrough, with his charges back home after their 20 to 14 intersectional win over Murray State College at Paducah, passed out some new ammunition he hopes will deceive the Lions, who have learned perhaps too much with Coach Bob Berry in the stands scouting the three previous home games here. The East Texas game is the final home appearance for eight Cowboy seniors, Co-captains Luke Raley, Bud Reeves, Clarence Headstream and Ed Bigelow, and for Jack Hinrichs, Bill Fletcher, M. H. Raborn and Lloyd Guy.

Four Horsemen Had Co-ordination but the Pittsburgh Panthers Have Goldberg-Miller

BY JERRY BRONDFIELD, NEA Service Sports Writer.

It'll always be a moot point, of course, but competent critics who saw the Four Horsemen in action more and more are declaring the famed Irish quartet has been matched—and then some—by the Sutherland Scythe, otherwise known as John Chickerno, Dick Cassiano, Harold Stebbins, and Marshall Goldberg. Stuhldreher, Crowley, Miller and Layden—they were great, all right—had to be to ride roughshod as they did in 1924. But each one has seen the Pitt backfield in action, and each one will tell you, short and to the point, that the high-geared Panthers have what it takes. Don Miller, a practicing attorney in Cleveland and the only one of the Stuhldreher-Miller-Crowley-Layden unit not in the coaching business, speaks almost in awe of the Pitt ball-carriers. "They have absolutely everything," Miller says and he drives home the point with all the force he'd use in a court of law. You can tell he means it. "And this boy Goldberg. Why he's the greatest back I've ever seen on a football field."

GIVES PLENTY CREDIT TO SEVEN MULES. RATHER kidningly one asks the Horseman if that includes Messrs. Stuhldreher, Crowley, Miller and Layden, and very emphatically he repeats: "Anywhere—anytime." "Mind now," he continues, "I'm not saying these Pittsburgh kids are any better as a unit than Stuhldreher, Jim, Elmer and myself—it isn't for me to judge. As I see it, it's rather difficult to compare the two backfield, but I do think Pitt has more power than we had." Before he makes any comparison, however, Miller tells of the Seven Mules—that great line consisting of Hinzinger, Bach, Kizer, Walsh, Weibel, Miller and Collins. "Those boys really cleared the way like no line I've seen since. It not only was a pleasure but a cinch working behind them." Timing and co-ordination, Miller explained, were the real secrets of their success. Rockne inserted them as a unit against Carnegie Tech in the second to last game of their sophomore year. By the time they were seniors in 1924 they were the closest thing to mechanical perfection on a football field.

open with his dynamic, knife-like thrusts. Miller and Crowley could run the code ranged, just as soon as the secondary came in to stop Layden he would shoot one of his halfbacks off a flank. . . or he himself would throw a pass. Layden was a remarkable punter, so between the four of them there wasn't anything that couldn't be done. And in 1924 they rumbled over Lombard, Wabash, Army, Princeton, Georgia Tech, Wisconsin, Northwestern, Nebraska, Carnegie Tech, and finally Stanford in the Rose Bowl. The Pitt backfield, however, appears to have all they had and more. Cassiano at 175 is the lightweight of the group. Chickerno, the blocking quarterback, who is as smart as they come, weighs 200. Stebbins goes 190 and Goldberg just about the same. Goldberg and Cassiano are an inch under six feet, Chickerno and Stebbins are an even six feet.

THEY'RE VERSATILE, TOO BUT DON'T SHOW IT. PROBABLY the biggest mistake people make about Pittsburgh is in thinking all they can do is run. Such is far from the case. Jock Sutherland merely prefers to build his offense around a running attack. Either Chickerno, or Goldberg, from his fullback position, can turn loose a great forward pass on occasion, but the need for it seldom arises. Both also are better than average punters. The Sutherland Scythe operates so devastatingly on the ground—and operates so smoothly, it should be added—that nothing else has been necessary. As one Wisconsin critic exclaimed after the Badged defeat: "There's little deception to Pitt plays. The boys simply shift and let you know where the play is going—then literally dare the opposition to stop it. But what's the use—you might as well stop a steam-roller. That Pitt line is tough enough, but those backs—they always run as though it's against the law to stop short of the goal line."

Jess's Guesses

There has either been a helluva lot of upsets this fall or we are slipping badly from our self-designated title as an "expert." Which ever it may be, we are willing to try again this week. So, here goes: District 7-B. Midland vs. Odessa. We have had a hunch all week that it would be Francis & Co. on top at the end of this one. A vote that way. Pecos-Crane. One more victory for the Pecos Eagles. Monahan-Grand Falls. No reason to go against Monahan's. Colleges. Akron-Carnegie Tech. Absent-minded referees not allowed—Tech. Arizona-New Mexico. It is past time for Arizona to win one. California-Oregon State. Cal is Rose Bowl bound again. Chicago-DePauw. At long last Chicago cops. Columbia-Cornell. Cornell has too much power for Luckman. Gonzaga-Wash. State. A lusty vote for State. Harvard-Princeton. Harvard in one that will be tough. Holy Cross-Colgate. Holy Cross has power to spare. Take 'em. Iowa-Purdue. We're well satisfied with Purdue. Kansas State-Kansas. Both weak. A vote for State. Kentucky-Alabama. Bama should take this one in stride. Michigan-Illinois. One of the best of the week—Michigan. Michigan State-Santa Clara. State is not tough enough to win. Nebraska-Missouri. Nebraska has gone overtime without a win. They should be able to take this one. New York U.-Ohio State. Schmidt's Ohio States in a breeze. North Carolina-Duke. A scorcher with Duke coming out on top. Oklahoma-Tulsa. Oklahoma continues to win. Oregon-Southern California.—It'll take more than Oregon to stop the Trojans. Penn.-Navy. Nothing soft about this one—Penn. Penn. State-Syracuse. A not so strong vote for Syracuse. Pittsburgh-Fordham. Give us Fordham and 7 points. Rice-Auburn. Lain is on the crumple list. Auburn. Tennessee-L. S. U. A real battle for anybody's money. On a hunch Tennessee. Texas-S. M. U. A couple of mediocre clubs, Texas is the worse. T. C. U.-Baylor. The Frogs but not as easy as some folks think. Tulane-Miss. State. Who wouldn't take Tulane? Army-Notre Dame. Too much power in this Notre Dame gang. UCLA-Stanford. A weak vote for Stanford. Vanderbilt-Georgia Tech. Vandy, but it won't be easy. West Virginia-Youngstown. The Mountaineers of West Virginia. Wisconsin-Indiana. Nothing easy about this one—Wisconsin. Yale-Dartmouth. If you can't believe what you read—Dartmouth.

SMU Offense Due To Meet Stubborn Texas Defense

AUSTIN.—A dangerous offense will strike a stubborn defense when the Southern Methodist Mustangs invade Memorial stadium here to play the Texas Longhorns Saturday, according to an analysis of last week's games. Although the Mustangs scored only one touchdown to Pitt's five, they rolled up respectable offensive figures against the virtually invincible Panthers and, declares Scout Jack Gray of Texas, would have played Pitt a much closer game had not S. M. U. backs fumbled six times inside the opponents' 40-yard line. Meanwhile, the Longhorns were putting up a surprisingly good defensive game against the Rice Owls, holding the score at 6-6 until less than three minutes before the end when Rice pushed over the winning touchdown. Ends Mike Sweeney, Ned McDonald and John Peterson, Tackle Don Williams, Guard Jack Rhodes, Center Glenn Jackson and Linebacker Bill Forney were particularly prominent in goal-line stands that started with two spectacular efforts in the second quarter and continued through most of the last half. Coach D. X. Bible, complimenting the whole team for its courageous play, indicated that he would start the same team against S. M. U. Sweeney and McDonald, ends; Williams and Bernie Estess, tackles; Rhodes and Charley Naiser, guards; Jackson, center; Forney, quarterback (acting captain this week); Wally Lawson, left half; Fred Plate, right half; Bullet Gray, fullback. Scout Gray praised particularly the S. M. U. ends, Capt. Charley Sprague and Billy Dewell. Himself a former all-conference end, Gray considers Dewell the best offensive wingman in the Southwest this year. Gray liked also the Methodists' sophomore backfield of Ray Malouf, Gerald Geise, Roy Holbrook and Will Mullenweg. He reported that Mullenweg, a 190-pound fullback from Houston, had the makings of one of the best linebackers he had ever seen. Mullenweg played high school ball at John Reagan with Bobby Moets, Texas halfback. The passes of Malouf and Johnny Clements, Gray warned the Longhorns, are double-dangerous with a receiver like Dewell apt to

STORIES IN STAMPS

Gambia, the Real "Bush" Country of Africa

SMALLEST and northernmost of the British West African dependencies is Gambia. It consists of a stretch of land on both sides of the treacherous, meandering Lower Gambia. The colony, with the protectorate dependent upon it, has an area of approximately 4000 square miles, and nearly every foot represents the real "bush" country of the travel books and adventure yarns. For away from the river and the swamps, the country is hilly, densely lush. There is nearly every conceivable variety of fern, the mangrove tree, mahogany and rosewood, the rubber vine, and oil palm. The animals include maneless lions, a few elephants, leopards, many species of antelope, monkeys, bush cow and wild boar. In the Gambia and tributaries the hippopotami and crocodiles abound.

So the country is not conducive to white habitation, and for that matter there is very little of it. The people are almost entirely of Negroid race. Some four-fifths of the natives are Mohammedans. The European residents are traders, officials and missionaries. Bathurst is the capital, only town of any size, with a population over 10,000, including a few score foreigners. It is built on St. Mary's island. It assumes a new importance today, as airplanes often land there en route across the South Atlantic. A current stamp of Gambia, featuring the new British monarchs, is shown here. (Copyright, 1938, NEA Service, Inc.)

Where Munich "Peace" Didn't Apply

When the four major powers of Europe recently sat down at Munich and signed a pact that was wildly hailed as bringing "peace" to the continent, war-weary Spaniards shrugged—it didn't apply to them. Rebel General Franco's planes continued to blast Loyalist towns, as this picture of Barcelona shows. In a street smashed by one of the Spanish civil war's worst air raids, a Loyalist soldier stands guard over merchandise salvaged from a wrecked shop.

What's Left When a Locomotive Blows Up

Three men were killed, the boiler was hurled 300 feet, rails were torn up and a great hole dug in the road bed when a railroad locomotive exploded between Elgin and Almore, Ill. The above picture shows the tangle of twisted and broken metal that was left when the locomotive of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific railroad let go with a roar. A fireman, an engineer and a brakeman died in the wreckage.

Whitehall Office Crowded

LONDON (U.P.)—England's civil servants now total 376,491—the highest figure since March, 1919, when the ranks were swollen by wartime measures. Most of these officials are employed in the revenue departments—the post office, inland revenue and customs and excise.

Frogs Work Hard For Crucial Game With Baylor Bears

FORT WORTH, Oct. 28.—This week is just a prelude to Saturday on the Texas Christian university campus.

Students go to classes with that certain look in their eyes, but the look is not inspired by thoughts of higher education. Those Frog fans are dreaming of sweet revenge—revenge for a 6-to-0 loss at the hands of the Baylor Bears in Waco last year.

Behind locked gates and a policed campus, the football squad and the student body are getting ready for Saturday's Bear invasion.

The footballers are going about their preparations without benefit of spectators. Coach Dutch Meyer has used only about three formations in the five games to date, but the engagement with the Bears calls for the cooking up of strong medicine. Dutch wants to be sure that no one from Baylor gets the prescription in advance.

A guard of freshman boys patrols the campus throughout the night in the interests of a "no-painting" campaign. It seems that some of the Baylor lads have the idea that the T. C. U. campus would look well done over in green. It's an old Frog-Bear custom to paint a few choice signs on the rival school's campus sidewalks—if possible.

It appears now that a crowd of at least 25,000 will gather for the battle—the largest to witness a football game here since the bowl prologue of 1935 between the Christians and the Methodists.

"Our boys will be ready," is all the comment you can get out of Coach Meyer.

"They're not excited about all this bowl talk that is going about, but they are intent on being in top form against Baylor. Those Frogs will play a whale of a ball game. I can promise the fans that. And, after all, what more could anybody ask for?"

She Wants Love Before Riches

Love and happiness come before riches in the plans of 26-year-old Janet White, above, who sticks to her $30-a-week job in a Rochester, N. Y., department store, demonstrating sewing machines in preference to marrying Leonard Marler, 35, son of Sir Herbert Marler, Canadian minister to the United States.

Miss White publicly renounced her love for Leonard, who now is suing his father for $300,000, charging illegal confinement in a mental hospital.
