

Labor Peace Prospects Are Said Dimmer

Lewis Declares It Is "Impossible" to Come to Agreement

WASHINGTON, June 15. (P) — Prospects for further negotiations to end labor's civil war seemed to vanish Wednesday night as John L. Lewis, CIO leader, flatly asserted it was "impossible" to deal with the present AF of L negotiating committee.

"The AF of L is still under the control of a small group, firmly entrenched and reactionary in their attitude toward public questions, who are tolerant of many evil conditions existing in the federation," he told reporters.

He spoke after a day-long session of the CIO executive board, at which a report of the CIO peace negotiating committee was received. The committee, at the behest of President Roosevelt, discussed peace with an AF of L committee but the talks were broken off months ago.

Lewis said the leadership of the AFL was working with industrial and financial interests to labor in an attempt to emasculate the CIO "and bring about a crystallization of anti-New Deal sentiment in the country."

He characterized AFL policy as one of "rule or ruin" and said the federation had threatened to defeat a congressional appropriation for United States participation in the international labor organization at Geneva unless it was given all the labor representatives.

William Green, president of the AFL, commented that "the leader of the CIO had again blocked labor peace." The AFL, Green asserted, "has consistently done its utmost to bring a 'reasonable' peace."

The AFL president asserted that reasons given publicly by Lewis for declining to deal with the AFL were "too ridiculous to merit serious consideration."

In a statement, Green said: "The real reason that he does not want peace is because peace would automatically end his autocratic control over a minority group in organized labor."

"The public can now judge by the temperate character of Mr. Lewis' statement the sort of man he is and why he is responsible for the failure to reach peace. In the last two days he has denounced Congress, business, the administration, the labor departments and everything else he could think of. His attack today on the AFL is in the same vein."

British Ask Joint Action Against Japs

LONDON, June 15 (P) — Prime Minister Chamberlain today indicated the possibility of seeking joint action by Britain, France and the United States if Japan used the Tientsin incident for more far-reaching demands against foreign interests in China.

He told the house of commons a Japanese spokesman in Tientsin indicated the object of the blockade of the British-French concessions was to obtain much wider forms of cooperation from British authorities in China.

He said the situation was "obviously a grave one" but added "I am not prepared at this moment to say what action we shall decide to take."

Rotarians Describe Impressions Gained On Visiting Clubs

Impressions of Rotary clubs on their guests formed the basis of a program conducted at the weekly luncheon of the Midland organization today, with Ben Black in charge. Four speakers told of their visits to various clubs and of the variety of impressions gained.

George T. Abell, who has visited 25 clubs in ten states in his two years as a member, ranked the Dallas club first among the larger organizations and the Wilshire club of Los Angeles for their hospitality.

He did not omit, however the splendid treatment shown visitors to Chicago at the daily round table luncheon where he met Paul Harris, founder of Rotary, and other notables.

Herbert F. Fox, second speaker, said most of his visits had been to clubs in his own territory, where he had wider acquaintance, hence he had not been able to judge fairly the impressions made on average guests. However, he stressed the value of fellowship by members of each club as a means of promoting goodwill among visitors.

Roy McKee declared that a visiting Rotarian helps his own situation by making himself easily approached, and that the best response he had found was when he began immediately to making himself known to those in clubs he visited.

Dr. W. E. Ryan, fourth speaker, said each Rotarian misses much if he fails to shake hands with those he contacts, wherever he attends a luncheon, and that the visits to other clubs had provided much of the value he has gained from seven years in the organization. He mentioned the Chicago club as "tops" among the larger organizations and Rochester, Minn., the smaller ones.

W. R. Upham presided at today's meeting in the absence of President Clinton Lackey. Attendance was small, due to the fact that many members were out of town. Visitors including Judge J. A. Drane, of Pecos, R. B. Samworth of Big Spring, Neal Brown of Alpine, Pete Droleman of Midland and George Burton, new citizen here with the Sun Oil Company.

Bank Robber Caught Few Hours After He Gets $900 in Raid

WHARTON, June 15. (P) — A 20-year-old youth who admitted, Chief Deputy Buck Flournoy said, he had robbed the People's State Bank of Hallettsville, was arrested in the postoffice here Wednesday afternoon.

Flournoy, who had learned the suspect's identity by checking the license number of his automobile, was watching him along the main street, and nabbed the young man as he entered the postoffice.

The officer said he found the bank loot—$895—in the pocket of the man's automobile.

Flournoy, who said he knew the youth personally, reported he strode up to him, caught him by the arm, and said, "Let's go." The man made no effort to resist the deputy.

"So far as we know, the boy's never been in trouble before," Flournoy said. "He lives at Boling, 12 miles southeast of here. His mother runs a tavern."

The youth entered Wharton from Eagle Lake but toured out-of-the-way roads, Flournoy said.

"I waited along Main street for about three hours, because I figured he'd come through here to see his relatives," the officer said. "I watched him park the car and then nabbed him."

The man appeared calm when arrested, contrasting with the demeanor of the party who robbed the bank. The gunman's hand shook violently as he handed his pistol on Cashier M. R. Bozka, the latter reported.

Midland High School Seal Shows Motto and Traditions of School

The accompanying seal of the Midland high school, just received from the engravers, is in keeping with the standard ring adopted by the class of 1939 and the other classes of the high school this year. The seal embodies in the three-circle design: The name of the school, the four great fields of knowledge covered by the rich and broad curriculum of the Midland high school, the traditions of the school, including the name of the high school yearbook (The Catoico, meaning Cattle-Oil-Cotton), the football "Bulldog," and the official motto of the high school, adopted in 1906: "Not Failure But Low Aim Is Crime," by James Russell Lowell.

The seal, designed by Superintendent W. W. Lackey on a recent tour of Texas Colleges and Universities, is fashioned after the seals of three great universities in Texas: Baylor University, the University of Texas and Rice Institute. It embodies the ideas of the Midland high school standard ring and class invitations, adopted during the session of 1938-1939, and is suitable for use on high school diplomas and programs.

In keeping with the practice and the example of the institutions of higher learning mentioned above, the seal would make a fitting and beautiful bronze tablet to be presented by some class of the high school.

Any member of the class of 1939, or any member of the Midland high school who would like to have the seal stamped on his copy of the 1939 CATOICO, may have it done by bringing the book by the office of the superintendent of schools, Superintendent Lackey said today.

BRUCE CATTON IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, June 15.—Opening of a sensational anti-trust drive in the building industry awaits only appropriation by Congress of the needed funds.

New pending is a bill which would give the anti-trust division of the Department of Justice an extra $500,000. If that increase passes, a nation-wide drive to break a whole series of restraints of trade in the building industry probably will be launched.

Preliminary studies are in progress already. But the anti-trust division has just five men to spare for the job. It wants to use from 60 to 100 men on it—to move into a dozen or a score of cities simultaneously and open up the industry from top to bottom.

MAY REVEAL A SCANDAL

If it is enabled to do this, two results are anticipated:

First, there may be literally hundreds of indictments.

Second, building prices may be broken all along the line—materials, labor, appliances, and so on. Out of this, the Justice Department confidently believes, there would come the long-awaited breaking of the log jam in the building industry.

Specifically, Thurman Arnold, assistant attorney general in charge of the anti-trust division, has asserted that price structure in the building industry is unduly rigid because of practices common in every level of the industry, from top to bottom. Among such practices, he declares, are the following:

Prices of materials are fixed by a variety of means. In some cases, holders of patents on building materials allegedly control sales methods, and even limit the quantities which may be sold, among those who handle their products.

Basing point and zone price systems are common in some building materials industries. In certain industries, a definite share of the business is allotted to different concerns, and the crack-down is applied to any firm which tries to get more than its share by cutting prices.

G. W. Cunningham, secretary of the Texas Sheep & Goat Raisers' Association, is in Washington this week to work with Byron Wilson, member of the executive committee of the National Wool Growers Association, on an attempt to speed the truth-in-fabrics bill through the Senate. He is also to assist in work on an amendment to the wages and hours bill. Directors of the association, in session at Mason last week, approved his mission and the secretary left Del Rio for the capitol on Saturday.

Scheduled, also, is a conference with officials of the Commodity Credit Corporation on wool loans, with particular reference to the disposition of the few 1938 loans not yet cleared.

More hope is held forth by the officials of the various wool growers organizations for the passage of the truth-in-fabrics bill now than at any time since the fight for such legislation began almost 20 years ago. The measure has been favorably reported out of the House and the association's representatives in Washington will work for an early hearing by the Senate.

"Excursion Rates" On Tires Offered By General Dealer

Many Midland motorists who have returned from San Francisco and the World's Fair declare that the most satisfactory way to get to and from the national metropolis and to see the fair after they get there, is to go by private motor-car.

"When a person, or a family, or a congenial group drive to the fair, they can make their own schedules, they can visit interesting places off the beaten paths en route and they can go and come as they wish," remarked W. F. Hejl of 207 W. Wall, who has furnished many Midland motorists with advance information that has helped them to see the fair to best advantage.

In order that as many Midland motorists as possible may see the fair safely as well as comfortably, Mr. Hejl has devised a plan to provide what he calls "excursion rates to the fair in your own auto."

With motorists driving to the fair principally in mind, Mr. Hejl has just established some new "World's Fair Excursion" rates on the various lines of General tires in his stock. This will make it possible, he points out, to travel to and from the fair and to see sights in and about San Francisco while there most economically, as well as most comfortably and safely.

Mr. Hejl added that, unfortunately, he would not be able to continue the "excursion rates" on his regular line of General tires for the duration of the fair but that the prices would return to regular levels in a short time.

"However," Mr. Hejl said, "this will make it possible for Midland motorists to get new, fresh, safe rubber on their cars at the opening of the real summer driving season and then they should be set for a long time to come."

Motorists returning to Midland from San Francisco and the World's Fair have been bringing back the word that the fair is even more stupendous, more interesting and enlightening, and more worth while than they had anticipated before they saw it.

"As most folks are much more inclined to believe what their friends and neighbors tell them than what they read, a lot of Midland people are planning to drive to San Francisco and the fair, although they had been undecided about it before," said Hejl.

"People who have been there say they are glad they decided to drive their own cars, instead of using other crowded means of transportation," Mr. Hejl said. "They saw not only the fair but many inter-

Guinea Pig Has Role In Medical Drama

"IGNATZ," trained guinea pig, made it possible to show in detail how scientists experiment with bacteria and solve abstract problems in medicine. Though "Ignatz" appears for a few seconds only, his job made him one of the most important characters in "Calling Dr. Kildare," second of the medical-detective series with Lew Ayres and Lionel Barrymore, coming Friday to the Yucca Theatre.

In the picture Ayres is supposed to inoculate the guinea pig with fever germs, and Ignatz apparently dies. Later the sequence is shown a comedy turn when Lionel Barrymore wakes him up and proves that the germs he was supposed to have been inoculated with didn't exist.

When the script was handed an animal expert he proceeded to coach Ignatz for the role. The guinea pig was simply taught to "play dead" as many dogs are taught, after Ayres went through the motions of inoculating him.

The new picture deals with a murder mystery, solved by Ayres, with its background life in a great New York hospital. Harold S. Bucquet directed, with Laraine Day, Nat Pendleton, Lana Turner, Emma Dunn and Walter Kingsford among the principals.

Charles E. Reagan, district attorney of Falls county, has bought a ranch in his home county and is stocking it with yearling ewes bought last week in the Big Lake country. His rams were purchased from J. P. Heath of Argyre.

Casper Real of Kerrville sold a number of rams to Carl Brown of Gatesville, range raised, animals, at around $20 a head.

T. J. White of Burnet has started a registered flock of Rambouillet, using as the foundation stud rams and ewes purchased from Leroy Branden of Gatesville. The Branden stock has been shown at a number of the major state shows.

All of the technical papers presented at the Round-up at the Ranch Experiment Station, Substation 14, at Sonora will be put in bound form by A&M College after the meeting, W. H. Dameron says. The Round-up is set for June 27 and 28. A wide variety of topics of vital interest to ranch people of West Texas are scheduled for discussion. Included are wool and lamb production and consumption, range management, plant control studies, breeder-feeder possibilities, hard yellow liver, sleeping sickness, poisonous plants, and influence of range and water conservation. Adequate camping facilities are available at the station and round-up dances are planned for the evenings of the 26th and 27th.

Anahuac Planning on Being Big Port City. ANAHUAC, Texas, (AP)—A century ago Anahuac expected to become Texas' largest port and today the hope still dwells at the mouth of the Trinity river.

Searily anything has been done about Anahuac's port since Texas was a republic until the other day when the first barge from Galveston arrived.

That barge, citizens of the old town hope, is the forerunner of the big boats that may call here some day and proceed up the Trinity to Dallas and Fort Worth.

Proponents of canalization of the Trinity as far as Fort Worth and Dallas claim the Trinity river valley is rich in resources and would afford much traffic on the river.

They point to an undeveloped sulphur dome here, iron ore in Cherokee county, wheat from the Texas Panhandle and the ordinary commerce cities the size of Dallas and Fort Worth carry on as evidence the Trinity should be made navigable.

United States army engineers are studying the project.

The Palo Pinto lime was topped at 3,143 feet and drilling continued to 3,190 feet. While attempting to run tubing the pressure blew it out of the hole and the well flowed wild.

On the present showing the well is estimated as a 4,000 barrel producer. It is the second producer on the west side extension of the pool located in north line, southeast quarter section 158, B. B. B. and C. railway, south offset to the Owens-Snebold No. 1 McKeever.

Rodeo time is near. Big Spring will stage the annual big show there in about a week. Stamford, Pecos and Brady will follow around July fourth. And Midland should be getting awake to the advertising of Little George McEntire remarked recently that it is easy to tell whether the picture at the Yucca is a good one. If it is only fair, J. Howard Dodge stays in his office. If it is better than average, he walks about the lobby and greets some of the customers. If it's a wow, Howard just gets out in front and stays there where everybody can find him. And that's where George found Howard while Union Pacific was having its run recently.

Dick Cowden was reading our "Ten Years Ago" column the other day and saw where the Midland Colts were $1,400 behind. He corrected that by explaining that it wasn't the Colts, it was Dock who would that season up several thousand dollars behind.

When City Is Oven You Can Radiate Coolness, Daintiness

By ALICIA HART NEA Service Staff Writer

Sure to feel pretty neglected and quite out of the running along about now is the woman who is in town and, except for an occasional weekend and a brief holiday, expects to stay in town, hot weather or no hot weather.

For weeks she has read about what to wear at mountain resorts, how to make up on the beach, how to conduct herself on a yacht, on a farm, at a dude ranch. She knows that this is a year to suit yourself about suntanning, that short, casual coiffures are best for vacations, that denim slacks wash like handkerchiefs and cotton housecoats are perfect for breakfast on the terrace.

What she really wants to know, however, is how in the world to look crisp fresh from nine to five in the office when the thermometer hovers around 90, and somebody turns the one and only electric fan away from her desk.

She'd like also to know how to get through a morning's shopping without looking wilted. Or how to manage to look cool and radiate good nature across the dinner table after a day of marketing, dusting, cooking and trying to keep Junior in his own sand pile.

FEMININE FANCIES

By Kathleen Eiland

Those beach bonnets made of a flat piece of straw matting with two ends brought together with a snap and a cotton cord for anchorage under the wearer's chin—a fad of which we've spoken before—are now available in giddily-striped matting to delight the soul of the girl who goes in for splurges of color in outdoor clothes.

Our nomination for the title "ultra-feminine" goes to those gloves in silky-soft material which boast rows and rows of shirring. They may be had in pastel pinks and blues as well as white.

We can see only one good quality to these excessively-hot days: They mean that the time of mid-summer bargain sales is approaching. And "breathes there the woman with soul so dead who never to herself has said," "I'll be glad when bargain days get here?"

What if she doesn't save much money? There's the fun of shopping about and being sure that she's going to save dollars and dollars—the fun is something.

For the woman who wants to care for winter clothes or blankets in the summer, these inexpensive moth-proof chests of heavy paper would seem to present an easy solution. In fact, we've decided we'll try them out. It gives one a "lift" to be able to bring out at the first frost-fall, a winter coat or dress that is in good condition and ready to be worn again. And in addition to this psychological effect, there is the actual savings gained through proper care of clothes to be considered.

Much as we are opposed to envy on general principles, we can't help envying those lucky ones who can make good punch. We've tried and tried but somehow the drink that we concoct never has that special appeal which other women can achieve in a blend of fruit juices and tea or even with a commercial base.

In our next re-incarnation there are a few things we'd like to be (quite modest demands), such as: A good hostess; a poet; a great beauty; and one of those souls who always get the most out of living and never do any worrying.

Water Flowers Less Often But Heavier, Horticulturist Says

COLLEGE STATION.—Watering flowers a little every night may be fun, says J. F. Rosborough, horticulturist of the Texas A&M College Extension Service, but the flowers will do better if they are watered thoroughly once a week and allowed to dry out somewhat in between times.

A summer mulch of peat moss or a similar mulch will prove more than worthwhile in holding back weeds, keeping the soil cooler, and reducing surface evaporation. A more robust plant and larger, brighter flowers will result.

Some plants will do better if they are pinched back when they are six to eight inches high. Such plants as the zinnia will develop into a much bushier plant if this method is used.

Another pointer listed by Rosborough is the removing of blooms. As blooms reach their prime they should be removed before they have a chance to go to seed. This will not only result in more blooms, but a longer blooming period.

Texas Ranges Make Better Than Average Improvement During May, Report Shows

Texas ranges made more than average improvement during May, according to the monthly livestock and range report of the bureau of agricultural economics. However, the condition on June 1 was still 7 points below the average June 1 condition. Copious rains fell over the drouth area of South Texas, and the grazing situation in that area should improve materially during the next few weeks. Moisture conditions throughout the central, eastern, and southern districts and the south portion of the west central districts were very favorable on June 1, and prospects for summer range feeds were very good. Rains were spotted throughout the Edwards Plateau, west and northwest Texas, and many local areas needed rain badly to promote the growth of range feeds. The extreme northwest area had early rains which furnished subsoil moisture, but more rain was needed during early June to replenish surface moisture. Generally, the outlook for summer range feeds is much improved from a month ago, with only the western portion of the state and local areas in south central Texas needing immediate rains to prevent further deterioration of range feed prospects. The condition of ranges on June 1, 1939, at 77 per cent of normal, compares with 72 per cent a month ago, 87 per cent a year ago, and 84 per cent the 10-year average June 1 condition.

Cattle held up well during May, and in most areas they made average gains. Some loss of flesh occurred in districts with poor range feeds, but feeding was almost general throughout the drouth areas. Cattle are fattening rapidly in most sections, but the supply of marketable grass-fat cattle is much smaller than a year ago. The movement of cattle out of the drouth areas has been very heavy, and ranges are now lightly stocked. With the present favorable moisture conditions in the southern area, and with the ranges lightly stocked, the remaining cattle should put on flesh rapidly. The spring calf crop was good, generally, and losses have been very small. Trading and contracting for fall delivery has been very active during May, but buyers were having some difficulty in closing deals at prices offered. However, most sales have been made at satisfactory prices and offers were continuing at higher levels. Range conditions were very spotted throughout the sheep area. Local areas received moisture, but generally the district is very dry and in immediate need of a good general rain. Sheep have held up remarkably well under the circumstances, but losses have been somewhat heavier than a year ago. A smaller lamb crop has been "marked" this year than the record crop saved last year. Sheep shipments from Texas started in volume the latter part of May, but marketings during this month were not expected to reach last year's May movement, when 523,000 head of sheep and lambs were shipped from the state. The June shipments should be heavy, however, and shipments from the state may approach the record June movement of last year when 394,000 head of sheep and lambs were shipped out.

Western Range States. The much below normal precipitation of April and the first three weeks of May caused ranges to deteriorate. Rains the latter part of May relieved the drouth conditions temporarily over most of the range area. However, additional rains at frequent intervals during June and July will be needed if range feed is to make normal growth. The condition of ranges made a seasonal decline from May 1 to June 1 and was the third lowest for June in 17 years of record. This is the fourth time on record when range conditions declined during May. In the other three years range conditions continued poor during the rest of the year. High ranges are generally in good shape, but lower ranges are short and in some areas will not readily respond to rains. The Pacific coast states and Idaho, which showed an extremely sharp decline in condition since April 1, received rains during May which were beneficial to the higher ranges, but lower ranges generally are still in poor condition. Texas ranges made more than average improvement during May and summer range feed prospects are more favorable. Copious rains were received in the drouth areas of South Texas and further improvement is expected. Condition of ranges in the northern great plains area declined during May. Late May rains in this area were beneficial, but much more moisture will be required to keep grass growing through the season. Serious grasshopper damage to ranges is threatened in some sections of Montana and Wyoming. Ranges in Nebraska and Colorado continue in fairly good condition. Kansas ranges showed a sharp decline from last month. Grasshoppers are numerous in sections of the central plains states, but as yet have caused little damage. Ranges in Oklahoma also improved substantially during May and conditions are the best in several years in former "dust bowl" areas of this state. Cool, dry weather in New Mexico has caused ranges to become dry in lower areas and rains are badly needed generally over the state. Utah and Nevada ranges have benefited by rains and are about in average condition. Arizona ranges deteriorated slightly. California ranges and pastures declined further in May. Summer feed prospects are generally below average, except in southern California. The condition of ranges on June 1 was 77 per cent, compared with 78 per cent a month earlier, 87 per cent on June 1, 1938, and the 10-year (1929-38) average of 83 per cent.

Cattle are generally in good flesh, due mainly to their good condition at the end of the winter and to ample supplies of dry feeds. Losses of both cattle and calves since the first of the year have been very light. Conditions have been favorable and the calf crop is good in most areas. There is still a general tendency to restock but high prices of breeding stock and in some areas uncertainty as to feed prospects are limiting factors. The forced movement of cattle from the South Texas drouth area has stopped. The condition of cattle on June 1 was 84 per cent, compared with 83 per cent a month earlier, 88 per cent on June 1, 1938, and the 10-year (1929-38) average of 85 per cent.

Sheep and lambs declined during May, but although in lower than average condition for June 1 are still in fairly good shape. Losses have been light in all states, except Texas, where losses were somewhat heavier than a year ago. Weather was generally favorable for lambing and a good lamb crop is reported. The early lamb movement from California is practically over. The shipments east nearly equaled the record movement of 590,000 head in 1935. The Texas sheep movement started in volume the latter part of May, and June marketings are expected to be heavy. Early lambs in Idaho, Washington, and Oregon reflect the shortage of green feed and a larger than usual proportion will only make feeders. The condition of sheep on June 1 was 84 per cent,

Tunes Coaxed From Skillels, Roast Pot

NEW ORLEANS (UP).—Bartolo Ortiz, of Cuajalajara, Mexico, makes music sweeter than the sound of frying bacon comes out of a frying pan. He taps his melodies from the up-turned bottoms of 17 frying pans. Added to the tones issuing from the strings of his double roast pot, an orchestration is born. Bartolo is touring the United States in the interest of his art and whatever may accrue to him. In San Antonio he linked his act with Antonio Daniel, a guitarist. Bartolo envies Antonio, for Antonio plays legitimate music, while Bartolo coaxes his tunes out of kitchenware.

Coaxes is the word. The 17 frying pans lie in a double row. Each one is attuned differently. He strikes a utensil, listens intently, and moves it to its proper place on the scale. This act is repeated 17 times. He plays them in the manner of a xylophone. He plays tunes like "Valencia" and "La Cucaracha." Before the last ringing tone careens from the pans, the roasting pot-guitar is in action.

Utah Geology Students Go to Cloud College

SALT LAKE CITY (UP).—University of Utah geology students are up in the air—going to school in "Cloud College." The "campus" of the college is a large transport plane, chartered by the geology department for field trips. Instructor Bronson Stringham said that he believes Utah is the first university in the country to use large planes for instruction purposes. "Salt Lake City is the best jumping-off place for studying geology of any place in the United States," Stringham said after the first session of "Cloud College." "For elementary geology study an airplane trip is unequalled because it gives the students a broad, general viewpoint of large formations." The high-flying geology trips start from the Salt Lake City municipal airport. Trips have been made over Grand, Zion and Bryce canyons to permit study of the unusual geological formations of the three national parks.

compared with 85 per cent a month earlier, 90 per cent a year earlier, and the 10-year (1929-38) average of 87 per cent.

Ruling to Keep Semi-Pros Free From 'Ringers'

WICHITA, Kas. (UP).—Prosperous semi-pro baseball clubs will find few "ringers" to buy for their lineups by the time the national semi-pro championships games here roll around Aug. 11-23. A ruling, laid down by Ray Dumont, president of the National Semi-Pro Baseball Congress, provides that no player could be used in the championship games who held a professional contract after June 15.

The ruling, Dumont said, would prevent players from jumping small minor league clubs late in the season to join leading semi-pro teams with excellent chances to grab top-cash in the annual tournament.

"The summer-long semi-pro tournament program is a sporting competition," Dumont said. "The sandlotters get a lot of thrill in advancing through district and state play and entering the national finals with the players that stick with the team all summer. "Thus," he said, "rules are being placed in force that will assure clubs remaining practically intact from spring until fall. "For instance, a team that wins a state meet will be allowed only three replacements in entering the U. S. finals." The national tournament at Wichita offers prizes up to $5,000 and a trip to Puerto Rico to the winners.

Recently perfected as a safety device was a centerline barrier consisting of corrugated sheet steel, having deep, slanting ribs which grip the left front wheel and deflect the car to the right. After the tire is caught in the rut, the wheels cannot be turned.

National Dress of Mexico Is Colorful

MONTERREY, Mex. (AP).—If children in the United States dressed like George Washington, Pocahontas or Paul Revere on national holidays, large cities would have somewhat the appearance of Mexican cities on Mexican national holidays. Here little girls wear the spangled red flannel skirts and rebosos, and little boys parade in the Mexican tight trousers, bolero and big sombrero whenever there are patriotic doings, especially May 5 and September 16, which are special days in Mexican history.

The little girls wear the curious "China poblana" dress, which has a quaint history. The "China poblana" which means "Chinese girl in Puebla," was not Chinese, really, but Hindu, and a study of the costume reveals that it is much like the dress of Hindu women today. The "China," as the girl was inaccurately called by Mexicans several hundred years ago, landed on the shores of Mexico as a passenger on the Manila galleon, which brought bright foodstuffs, silk, tea, and slaves to Mexico. The Hindu girl was sold at auction in Acapulco, and a merchant of Puebla, impressed by her beauty, bought her. She became the "China poblana." Later he fell in love with her, and married her. She was baptized a Catholic, and went about doing good works. To honor her, the quaint dress she always wore was adopted as a national dress after her death, and the wide flowing skirts, beads and rebosos of the Mexican woman, suggests a Hindu costume of flowing petticoats and sari.

The boys' costume in Mexico is the tight embroidered riding trousers of the men of South Spain, together with the short jacket bolero. The wide straw hat was adopted from the Indians by the Spanish and readapted for use.

Sound Producing Trio Unable to Read Music

TOLEDO, O. (UP).—They can't read a note, but three Toledo youngsters are successful song writers. They operate by picking the tones out on one string of an old guitar.

Betty Carr is the inspiration of the trio, according to Art Wight and Tommy Geach, the other two members. "First we think up a catchy title, or idea for the song," Wight said. "Then we work out the words and fit the tune to them. We have the frets of the guitar numbered and we put the numbers down on paper. When the song is finished, we call in a friend—a guitar player, and he works out the notes and chords for us."

The tarsier, an animal of the East Indies, has suction cups on its toes.

Real Life Model for the Movies

This jumble of smashed cars, crazy enough to suit the most demanding Hollywood director, resulted when a freight train was recently wrecked at Hypoluxo, Fla., near Palm Beach.

They Don't Want Bergdoll Barred

State Declares War On Greedy Garfish

NEW ORLEANS (U.P.)—The first control campaign launched by the Louisiana department of conservation against voracious garfish is proving to be an abundant success.

Great numbers of edible fish are being pulled in by fishermen in spots where before long, needlessly gar had a virtual monopoly, the department announced.

Garfish traps were set in small, badly-infested areas last summer. This spring more than 100 black bass beauties have answered the lures in one two-acre region. This is a catch represented at more than 50 pounds of black bass per acre, and this year is only one-third over.

Gars are both predators and scavengers. The removal of so many of them simply means that more food is now available to game fish, the department explained, with a resultant increase in these species.

AVOID DISCUSSING IMPROVEMENT PROGRAM
 Furthermore, you may be an angel about watching your weight, brushing your hair and taking excellent care of your skin. But it's a mistake to say that you are, or to discuss your ways and means of self-improvement too frequently. If you do, you'll have people saying, "Mary worries too much about herself, don't you think?" Or, worse yet, "Why shouldn't Mary be attractive? Look at all the time she spends on her face and figure."

Better to go your own sweet way, making yourself as attractive as possible without going into detail about how you do it, and taking no risks of drawing attention to your defects by pointing out the shortcomings of others.

New Manager Is To Take Charge Of Team Today

The Clovis Pioneers, after losing two in a row to the Midland Cowboys, did an about face last night, hanging a 13-3 defeat on the locals in the final game of the series.

The Cowboys left immediately after the game, headed for Amarillo. They will meet the Gold Sox in single games the next three nights, play two games in Clovis Sunday, another there Monday and return home for nine games.

Sammy Hale, recently named manager of the Midland team, is scheduled to take charge of the Cowboys in Amarillo today and return with them Tuesday.

Ray Abernathy, usually the most dependable hurler in the club, started on the mound for the Cowboys last night but did not have his usual stuff and was blasted from the box in the third inning. He was relieved by Blair, who hurled good ball until the eighth when he walked three and gave up two hits for four runs.

The Cowboys never had a chance last night as Hunt, an Indian pitcher from Oklahoma, held them to seven hits, five of them singles and struck out eight.

The Pioneers started scoring in the first inning last night, kept it up three innings, failed to score for three, then came back with runs in each of the last three.

Smith opened the game for Clovis with a two base hit and scored a couple of minutes later on a single by Miller. Wagner then walked, but a double play got one of the men and Abernathy retired the side a minute later when he took Thiebaud's grounder.

Another Pioneer run came in the second on a single, walk, sacrifice, fielder's choice and five tallies were pushed across in the third before the Cowboys could score. After a home run, error and single had accounted for one run, Abernathy was derelict. Before Blair could get warmed up to his job the Pioneers had made four more tallies on two hits and two walks.

The Cowboys, after getting men on in the first and second, finally got a couple of runs in the third on singles by Blair and Piet and a double by Petzold.

Blair managed to hold the Pioneers scoreless in the fourth, fifth and sixth but the Cowboys could garner only one tally off Hunt meanwhile. The run came in the sixth when Wooten led off with a triple and scored as Allday grounded out to first.

A walk, stolen base and single gave the Pioneers another run in the seventh and two hits, three walks gave them four more in the eighth. They finally halted scoring in the ninth when they got one run on a single, stolen base and sacrifice fly.

Manager Ratliff of the visitors paced the batting attack on the two local hurlers, getting three singles and a walk in five times at bat. Joe Piet led the home club

Harvest of Grain And Cash to Start In the Panhandle
AMARILLO, June 15 (AP)—The annual harvest of golden grain and greenbacks will begin in earnest in the Texas panhandle-plains by the first of next week. Already scattered loads of wheat have been taken to the country elevators at a dozen panhandle points. Estimates from elevator men and farmers place the Panhandle wheat yield this season all the way from about 15 million bushels to as high as 25 million bushels. Hail storms the past ten days have wiped out thousands of acres of fine wheat lands in Ochiltree, Gray, Roberts and Hemphill counties in Texas. "I have been saying all along that the Panhandle would produce 25 million bushels of wheat this year, and I still say it will," declares J. E. Davis, veteran Amarillo grain elevator operator. Davis believes the entire Panhandle will average better than 10 bushels to the acre. There are about two and a quarter million acres in wheat in the Panhandle this year. Grain men agree that

Harvest of Grain And Cash to Start In the Panhandle
AMARILLO, June 15 (AP)—The annual harvest of golden grain and greenbacks will begin in earnest in the Texas panhandle-plains by the first of next week. Already scattered loads of wheat have been taken to the country elevators at a dozen panhandle points. Estimates from elevator men and farmers place the Panhandle wheat yield this season all the way from about 15 million bushels to as high as 25 million bushels. To Start Farming At Age of 83 Years
GAINESVILLE, Texas. (AP)—Ben P. Garvey, 83, who was forced to give up his employment in a confectionary in his youth because of delicate health, rounded out 60 years in the transfer and storage business last week, and announced he would devote the remainder of his active life to farming.
A native of Kentucky, Garvey came here in 1878, and after working in a confectionary nine months, started his transfer business with a team of mules borrowed from his father, a flour miller. He hauled all of the stone that went into the courthouse, postoffice and other buildings in Gainesville.
Mr. and Mrs. Garvey, who will observe their 53rd wedding anniversary, next month, are parents of three children, B. P. Garvey, Jr., of Kaufman; Mrs. Gilbert G. Holman, wife of the Gainesville postmaster, and Miss Ruth Garvey, teacher in the C. M. Lindsay school here.
Garvey served 17 years on the city council, and has been a civic leader who were interested in French horses running there.
Jockeys often fly to race meetings.

More British Racegoers Are Flying to Tracks
LONDON (U.P.)—Increasing numbers of British racegoers are using planes to take them to the courses. For the Two Thousand Guineas at Newmarket recently 17 planes, from big airliners to small private planes, were engaged.
The use of planes for racegoing at Newmarket started three years ago, when private two- and three-seater machines began to arrive for some of the meetings, sometimes with visitors from France,
