Texas Sheriff Slain

Sharpshooting young Bill Brunt, sheriff of Cherokee county, pictured above, and Isaiah Creel, tavern keeper, were shot to death in a pistol battle on a highway near Rusk early Thursday. Myrtle Stanley, 25, employe of the tavern and the only spectator of the shooting, told officers the men shot each other after the sheriff halted Creel's automobile. She was slightly wounded in the encounter and was charged with murder.

Auto Accident Is Fatal to 40-Year Midland Resident

Wm. M. Coates, 70, was fatally injured when struck by an automobile on the highway three miles east of Midland Thursday afternoon. The accident occurred at about 4:30 o'clock, death following at about one o'clock this morning in a Midland hospital.

Coates, according to reports, was en route to Stanton when one of the tires of his machine went flat. A companion had gone back toward a filling station to get the tire fixed and Coates was walking around the car on the highway when he was struck by an east bound automobile driven by A. B. Phillips of Eunice, N. M. Phillips immediately stopped, loaded Coates in his car and rushed him to a hospital here where emergency treatment was given. Phillips remained with the accident victim and still was here today. The accident, officers believed, was unavoidable as Phillips could not see Coates until he was practically upon him as Coates walked around the front of his own car.

Funeral arrangements had not been announced today, the body being at the Ellis funeral home.

The accident victim had lived in Midland for about forty years and owned property along the highway in east Midland. He was employed at a tavern operated by Mark Magee in one of the Coates buildings.

Two sisters, Mrs. Ed Wright and Mrs. Steve Clark, live at Midland. A brother, Doc Coates, former Midland resident, arrived here today from his ranch near Carlsbad, N. M. Another brother, Oscar Coates, lives in Arizona. Five children, George, Mary Allen, Tina May, Lyndner and William Jr., also survive.

Meeting to Decide Ball Club Future Called for Saturday

Baseball fans of Midland have been invited to attend an open meeting Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Crystal ballroom of the Hotel Scharbauer for the purpose of devising some plan whereby the team might finish the season here.

At the meeting, it will be definitely decided whether money needed to pay players past salaries and future expenses will be made up through popular subscription or whether some other method of financing the club shall be adopted. Club directors are anxious to re-instate the club here for the remainder of the season—only one month—and request all persons interested to attend the meeting.

Private Use of WPA Materials Under Probe

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 4. (AP).—John Rogge, assistant United States attorney general, today advised District Attorney Harvey Fields a Shreveport to meet him here Monday to discuss Field's data on alleged diversion of 450 truck loads of WPA material to private use near New Orleans. Seven operators and nine taxpayers were involved in the charges. Fields advised Rogge.

Electric Wire Contact Fatal to Abilene Boy

ABILENE, Aug. 4. (AP).—More than two hours of artificial respiration failed late Thursday to revive Jackie Jensen, 8, electrocuted when he slid down the edge of the roof at his home and struck an electric service wire with his wrist.

The child had climbed on the roof to gather grapes from vines swinging in overhanging trees. A brother, Carl Jensen, 17, used a hammer handle to dislodge the little boy's wrist from the wire. He also brought the child to the ground and applied artificial respiration until firemen and a doctor arrived.

Investigation revealed the service wire carried only 115 volts, but that the roof, metal tile, had been grounded out through a sewer vent.

GERMAN PERSECUTION CAUSES DEATH LEAP

Mother and Two Children Victims of Tragedy In Fashionable Chicago Hotel After Husband Forced to Sell Business in Czechoslovakia

CHICAGO, Aug. 4. (AP).—Persecution by the German government of Czechoslovakia was blamed by a coroner's jury today for the plunge of Mrs. Karel Langer, 50, and her two sons, Jan Misha, 4, and Karel Toomy, 6, to their deaths from the thirteenth floor of the Congress Hotel. The jury which heard the tragic testimony of the once wealthy Langer declared his wife leaped with her children while temporarily insane due to worry over being forced to leave her Czechoslovakian home. The tragedy occurred last night, about six hours after the woman had registered at the hotel under another name. Her wrist was slashed and a blood-stained razor blade was found in her room. The slight Jewish father said he had been "practically forced" to sell his million dollar business, the largest clothing manufacturing plant in Czechoslovakia, for a song.

Historic Bloys Camp Meeting in Davis Mountains to Open for Week August 15

PORT DAVIS, Aug. 4. (SC).—The half-century anniversary session of the Bloys Camp Meeting Association is scheduled to open August 16 for one week. The tabernacle, in use for 20 years or so, has been remodeled and enlarged to seat an audience of 1,000.

Dr. George W. Truett, widely-known Baptist leader, of Dallas, is on the program to preach the opening night sermon, and to deliver the 50th anniversary address at 11 a. m. the following day.

Dr. Truett was for several years one of the earlier preachers in the history of the association, known as the "cowboys" camp meeting" since its establishment in 1889 by the late Dr. W. B. Bloys, a Presbyterian missionary to the cattle country in the days when the frontier military post here was occupied by soldiers.

The regularly employed preachers for this year are the Rev. L. D. Anderson of Fort Worth, Disciple; the Rev. Everett B. King, Fort Worth, Presbyterian; the Rev. Marshall T. Sael, Dallas, Methodist; and the Rev. W. R. White, Oklahoma City, Baptist. The four named denominations have composed the association from its inception.

The association, incorporated since 1904, owns a square mile of land in the heart of the Davis Mountains. More new cottages have been built in recent months. Old original camp meeting families, dated from pioneer days, have long been banded together in group camps, and recent years have seen three and four generations of families present.

The Rev. Richard G. Irving, Presbyterian pastor at Fort Davis and Marfa, and superintendent of the camp meeting, has been reminding inquirers that no cottages, cots or tents are for rent on the grounds but that arrangements may be made for meals with the established camps by paying a pro rata share. Camping sites, water and lights are free to anyone wishing to camp. The purposes of the camp meeting are given as "social, recreational, moral and religious," and it is pointed out that all in sympathy with these aims are welcome to attend. Prospective visitors are advised to bring wraps, as the altitude of around 6,000 feet sees chilly nights, even in August.

AUSTIN, Aug. 4. (AP).—The automatic tax board, of which Governor O'Daniel is chairman, today set the 1939 advalorem tax rate at seventy seven cents on the one hundred dollars valuation, the maximum allowed under the constitution, and twenty eight cents higher than last year's rate.

The new rate will be thirty-five cents each for general and school funds, and seven cents for Confederate pensions. The vote to boost the rate was unanimous.

Red Hawkins, Well Known Texas Ranger, Victim of Economy

SAN ANGELO, Aug. 4. — Capt. R. C. (Red) Hawkins of Company C was notified Thursday by Homer Garrison, Jr., director of the Department of Public Safety that his services were being discontinued.

The notice, given officially by an order of the Public Safety Committee, interrupts a law enforcement career of one of the state's best known officers. Garrison's communication informed that Capt. Hawkins' name was being placed on an eligibility list from which vacancies occurring after Sept. 1 would be filled.

The Ranger captain was not available for comment yesterday, leaving for Fort Worth on a business trip.

Humorous Sides of Attack on Garner Brought Out After Lewis Puts "Evil Old Man" in the Headlines

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4. (AP).—This terse telegram reportedly received by Vice President Garner a few hours after he had been characterized as a "poker-playing, whisky-drinking, evil old man" by John L. Lewis, summed up a view held by most congressmen:

"God has been most gracious to you in the selection of your enemies."

Accordingly, after the tempest caused by the labor leader's statements before the house labor committee had died down, most political bigwigs believed the entire episode would react to the advantage of the Texan in the 1940 presidential campaign.

Republicans as well as democrats had rushed to the defense of the vice president. Three replies in particular stood out—a resolution adopted by the Texas congressional delegation, utterance on the floor by Rep. Hoffman (R-Mich.), and a statement by Texas' senior senator, Morris Sheppard.

As soon as word of Lewis' utterance got around the capitol, Reps. Luther Johnson and Ed Gossett, chairman and secretary, respectively, of the Texas delegation, called a meeting of the group to consider reply.

Johnson, Reps. Milton West and Charles South were appointed to draft a statement. They hurried to the office of House Majority Leader Rayburn of Bonham and after some thirty minutes hastened back to a reception room off the house floor where the rest of the delegation awaited. Outside the door stood a dozen reporters.

Johnson then handed out brief statements in which the delegation simply expressed its resentment of Lewis' accusation, and declared its high regard for Mr. Garner's honesty, ability and integrity.

"We did not care to resort to the gutter sniping tactics of Lewis," commented Johnson. "That's why our reply is dignified and brief."

Said Senator Sheppard, father of prohibition: "Mr. Lewis is entirely under misapprehension as to Mr. Garner's personal habits."

Rep. Richard Kelberg of Corpus Christi said Lewis' charges were merely the remarks of a "little man on the way up about a great man on the way down."

Sixty Hardin-Simmons college alumni and ex-students living in Washington attended a party given by Rep. and Mrs. Clyde Garrett of Eastland and Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Carson of Washington in honor of Dr. Rupert N. Richardson, vice president of the Abilene school.

Guests at the affair, given at Garrett's summer cottage on the shores of the Potomac, included Mrs. Morris Sheppard, wife of the senator; Rep. George Mahon of Colorado City, a Hardin-Simmons alumnus; Mrs. Mahon and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Miller of Corpus Christi. Unable to attend because of a late night session of the senate were Senators Sheppard, Tom Connally and Vice President Garner.

She promoted the project of procuring a county nurse for Midland county, interesting the civic clubs and other organizations, the nursing service being instituted in January, 1931, coincident with organization of the health board.

Mrs. Sloan was also active in social activities of the town and a member of Town Hall club.

Big Spring Man Is Charged After Auto Wreck Killing Woman

This Fisherman Has A Beaver Story

Mr. and Mrs. Woody Strader have returned from a vacation trip to Ocate, N. M., where they visited relatives. They fished at a lake reached by a difficult climb through a canyon and reported a nice catch.

Mr. Strader reports an interesting incident of man's making wild animals work for him without going to the trouble of taming them before hand. Lacking sufficient stock water at one watering place, an ingenious New Mexico resident introduced beavers into a little stream a few years ago. There are now six beaver "homes," including one large dam and a large amount of water has been stored for use, the Midland man said.

A nephew from Andrews accompanied the couple on the trip.

Meeting Called by Elijah Powerful, Dramatic Challenge to Those Hearing

Editor's Note: The following discussion of this week's Sunday school lesson is printed here through courtesy of J. Fred Cocks, teacher of the Business Men's class of the Methodist church.

I. Kings, 18; 1-39. Close observation invited that there be no doubt, an altar of sacrifice, praying that God reveal his presence, praying that Israel recognize him as prophet, and entreating that the people observe that it is the Almighty who has turned their heart back, certainly these make clear that the faith of the Fathers is the only faith worth the attention of Israel or any people.

A wicked reign of Ahab, made so mainly by his wife Jezebel, one of the most brutal women of history, was suddenly interrupted one day (and afterward). It was by a man with long hair falling over his shoulders and down his back; whose dress was a leather girdle about the waist that could be quickly lightened for fast movement.

Bridge-Luncheon In Spanish Theme Is Birthday Courtesy

The Spanish theme predominated in decorations and accessories for the surprise bridge-luncheon with which Mrs. R. V. Lawrence commemorated her daughter, Lisa Jane, on the latter's fifteenth birthday anniversary Thursday afternoon.

Table ornaments carried out the chosen motif and the birthday cake, lighted by 15 candles, was decorated in Spanish colors of orange and green.

After the luncheon hour at one o'clock, two tables of bridge amused the group. High score in the games went to Louise Cox and low score to Kathryn Collins.

of the mountain was a precipice and declivity measuring 1600 feet in height. But this was not the tallest place on this alpine range.

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "This I say then, Walk in the Spirit, and ye shall not fulfill the lust of the flesh."

1. The people are invited near to see for a certainty that the true God is the one who answers by fire. Come see the twelve stones, which are in commemoration of the twelve tribes of Israel.

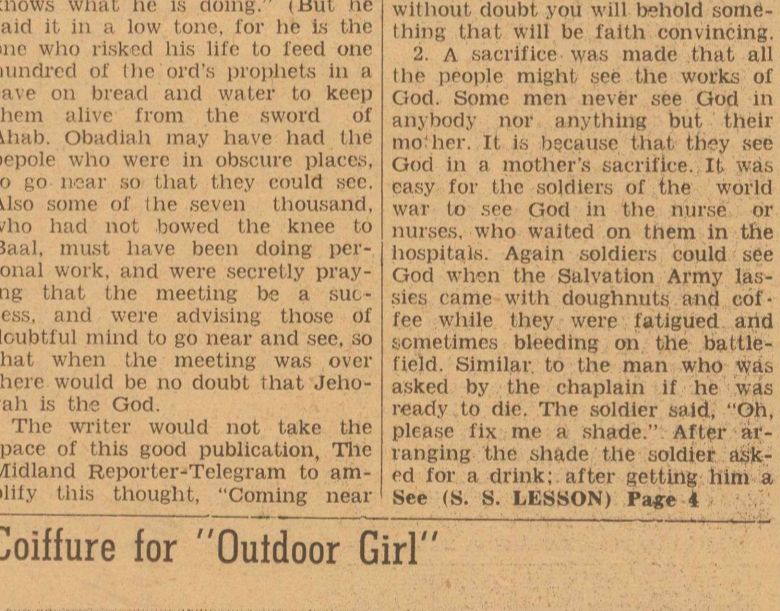

Behold the stones, see the wood put in order, look at Elijah as he sheds the blood of the animal in type of the lamb slain before the foundation of the world.

Obadiah, says "Never mind, he knows what he is doing." But he said it in a low tone, for he is the one who risked his life to feed one hundred of the old's prophets in a cave on bread and water.

2. A sacrifice was made that all the people might see the works of God. The people might never see God in anybody nor anything but their mother. It is because that they see God in a mother's sacrifice.

The writer would not take the space of this good publication, The Midland Reporter-Telegram to amplify this thought. "Coming near

FEMININE FANCIES

By Kathleen Eiland. Our vote for the ultimate in sophistication goes to a fluffy black flower to be worn with one's more dressy costumes.

The very sound of it is exotic—a black flower. Rather like black gold or black diamonds, suggesting something directly opposite to what we are accustomed in daily life.

If you're yearning for a new frock with an air of fall but one suitable for wearing on the many warm days yet remaining, we suggest that you go shopping for a new spun rayon fabric that have the look and the color of winter material but is lighter weight.

Velvet is to be popular again this year we learn. Which is good news, for velvet has a richness, a dignity, and luxury that accords well with the "ladylike" fashions which are to dominate the style scene this winter.

A simply-lined velvet dress with one touch of glitter or color in a brooch can hold its own in almost any setting.

The plaid woens are already beginning to tempt us with their parade of carefree color. Particularly pretty is a green-and-gray combination. Ditto a blue-and-gray one.

Playing a variation on the persistent theme of electrical appliances for table cooking is a new grill or "kitchenette" for making sandwiches, cooking meat, eggs, hot cakes, or toast.

But what first took our eye about the grill was that the makers have equipped it with a tiny rectangular pan which neatly catches all the overflowing meat juices!

No woman has to be told that a receptacle like this is preferable to having the grease make a messy ring around the rim of the grill or, worse still, drip disgustingly to the table or floor.

In the last three months, the skulls of two million-year-old "shovel-jawed" mastodons have been discovered by University of Texas and WPA geologists in the same Bee county quarry.

Cattle Brands of Early Days Still Used in Wyoming

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP) — The cattle brand, introduced in the early days of Wyoming's history when stock raising was its only large industry, still is the most practical and humane method of marking the animals, Russell Thorp, secretary of the State Stock Growers Association, insists.

Although the large herds that roamed the state's almost limitless expanses when "rustlin'" was the most serious crime no longer exist, Thorp said that Wyoming still has thousands of registered brands.

"The burned brand is the most successful method of marking cattle," he explained. "Reports that the brand is inhumane are false. An hour after the average calf is marked and returned to its mother the scar no longer bothers the young animal."

"It is the most practicable because it makes possible the detection of frauds. Experts can tell instantly whether the brand scar is the original or has been altered by one of several methods.

Although rustling is not so common as when ranchers covered thousands of acres of Wyoming's prairies, "rubber tire" cattle thieves still carry on a lucrative business, he said. They load the animals into swift trucks, a few at a time, and rush them to distant points for sale. Gone, however, he said, are the large-scale operations of 70 years ago when it was possible to drive off a herd of several thousand animals and evade capture.

"A running iron is the most common tool for changing brands, just as it was during the state's early days," Thorp said. "Instead of being equipped with a stamp bearing one particular brand, the device is a straight, pointed bar.

"The rustler thus could use the heated running iron to change a brand into a similar marking with the addition of a few lines. He frequently made these alterations with a fluid, or through a blanket, producing apparently what was an old scar instead of the new, raw lines ordinary changes would leave."
