Dallas Lawyer Shot to Death By Girl Today

Had Been Under Bond For Stabbing Girl, Leaving Her for Dead

DALLAS, Nov. 20. (AP).—Brooks Coffman, Dallas attorney, was shot to death here today.

Assistant District Attorney Jimmy Martin said Miss Corrine Maddox, 26, told him "I have just shot Brooks Coffman."

Coffman was under a charge of assault to murder in connection with the ice-pick stabbing of Miss Maddox last May. Miss Maddox, found stabbed at a gravel pit, recovered after several weeks in the hospital.

The shooting occurred at the county town street. Eleven shots were fired from two pistols, two striking Coffman. Miss Maddox telephoned police after the shooting.

Law Enforcement to Be Stressed Tonight in Revival Sermon

Two large congregations attended the First Baptist church revival meeting with 22 additions to the membership, making a total for the meeting of 25. The visiting preacher, Rev. Porter M. Bales of Tyler, has announced that tonight he will speak on "They Why of Every Moral Tragedy." At this service it is hoped that peace officers of the county and town will be present, since the preacher will have a word concerning the matter of law enforcement in his message. Personal invitations will be extended the police department, commissioners, mayor, the sheriff and his deputies and county attorney and judge. It is hoped that as many of the county court will be present as possible.

On Tuesday evening the boys and girls of the schools are asked to sit in reserved sections, at which time Mr. Bales will speak on "The Greatest Story Ever Told." He spoke to the high school at the chapel service today on "Why of Every Moral Tragedy." A great number of the students will be present for the service on Tuesday evening. Special invitation is extended to the faculty of the different schools and the board of directors.

J. Boyd East, who is directing the music, is making a contribution to the success of the revival in song. He is inviting members of other churches to sing at the First Baptist church at the night services.

Rev. H. D. Bruce, the pastor, is highly pleased with the splendid attendance and cooperation of his church and the many friends who are present for the services.

More than 200 men and boys, among whom there were 25 grandfathers and two great grandfathers, Mr. Bales spoke on "The Most Vital Relationship of a Father," declaring that when a father is a president of a bank, manager of a great business concern, or director in a great corporation, his chief and most vital relationship that he sustains to anyone is to the child who calls him dad. He asked the question of what good would a father be and what pleasure if as a father, climbs the ladder to prominence, his son descends the stairs to degradation. What good is wealth, if as one piles up riches and becomes a millionaire, his son goes morally bankrupt and becomes a pauper in high principles and noble aspirations. The most vital relationship that any father sustains is to the child who calls him dad. The speaker told of a man who had fortune and fame as he sat in a high class hotel, a friend approached him and said, "You should be very happy, because of your fortune and fame. You have built a great business and your name stands for integrity and honesty." Then the famous man's eyes dropped and he was fixed on the carpet—in a few minutes he raised them and with tears he looked straight at his friend and replied: "What you say is true, I can write my check for a vast amount and my name does stand for honesty, but what is it all worth if the only boy you have is a fool and a drabbling idiot?"

O'Daniel Announces He Will Not Call Special Session This Year

AUSTIN, Nov. 20. (AP).—Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel announced Sunday he would not call a special tax-raising session of the Texas Legislature because developments of the past six weeks had convinced him nothing would be accomplished and the cost would be probably $200,000 or more.

"Consequently," he said, "I do not intend to call a special session at this time for the purpose of considering social security tax measures."

"Obviously, the social security problem is not going to be solved until it is solved by the people themselves and this they can do and, I think, will do in 1940."

A group of House members told the governor Saturday that 81 representatives, or several more than a majority of the House, had in principle approved a general tax bill levying mainly on natural resources.

O'Daniel replied in the radio talk there was considerable difference between endorsing a measure in principle and endorsing it in fact and that the attitude of the Senate was unknown. He said also that he had been informed the bill would produce "considerably less than one half the money needed to adequately meet our social security obligations."

O'Daniel was elected on a platform of $30 a month pension to everyone over 65 years old. The tax proposals which he advocated before the Legislature last spring were $100 a month pension, and pensions have dropped to $8.61 per month, or less than half the national average. They are paid to about 42 per cent of Texas' estimated population past 65.

The governor first urged a transactions tax constitutional amendment. He later endorsed a sales-natural resource tax constitutional amendment after Senate and House committees had expressed preference for that type of proposal. Constitutional amendments may be submitted only at regular sessions of the Legislature and the next regular session won't start until January, 1941.

"I am convinced," O'Daniel said Sunday, "that I would not be true to the old folks, the dependent children, the indigent blind and the retired school teachers; neither would I be true to the taxpayers of Texas; and neither would I be true to my own conscience if I were to call a special session of the Legislature without first receiving some tangible and definite information which would lead me to believe beyond the shadow of a doubt that the social security problem would be handled, adequately and fairly solved."

"In most all statements against S. J. R. 12 (the sales-natural resource tax amendment) which I have heard or read, House members giving the statements have referred to S. J. R. 12 as it came to the House from the Senate instead of telling you what S. J. R. 12 was at the time they voted against same."

"They tell you the poor old widow would have to pay 20 per cent tax on a 5-cent loaf of bread or a 5-cent bottle of milk, when they know full well there was no tax whatever on a 5-cent loaf of bread or 5-cent bottle of milk when they voted against S. J. R. 12, because it had been exempted all sales of bread and milk and other food articles, also exempted clothing sales up to $5 values."

"And there is another important question. Why should anybody, and especially any legislator, take the people's money and imply that the voters are not intelligent enough to read and understand a constitutional amendment and decide for themselves what it means before they would go to the polls for or against same?"

Hot Water Bottles Save Log Cabin Triplets

Despite lack of modern medical care, these premature triplets, two girls and a boy, survived with the aid of an improvised incubator of hot water bottles. They were born to Mrs. Sam Sampson in a mountain log cabin near Fernwood, Idaho. Shown above are Patricia, 10 months; Mr. and Mrs. Sampson; the triplets, Robert, Beatrice and Betty; and Mary Anne, 3.

Remission of Taxes To Harris County Is Ruled Invalid

AUSTIN, Nov. 20. (AP).—Attorney General Mann today held invalid the Harris county tax remission bill enacted at the general session of the legislature.

The bill would donate to Harris county for flood control half of the ad valorem taxes for the state's general fund collected within its borders during the next ten years.

Floods Halt All Fighting Along Front

Widespread Scouting Flights Reported By German Command

PARIS, Nov. 20. (AP).—Germans continued wide spread scouting flights over France today while the flooded Rhine and other border rivers forced suspension of even local operations along the western front. Military sources said Germans could be seen erecting dikes and abandoning some small, outlying defensive posts which were flooded.

An unsuccessful German thrust at French positions on the Western Front in which, for the first time in weeks, actual Nazi casualties were mentioned was reported in French military dispatches.

Six Nazi soldiers were said to have been killed and one captured when French police pushed back a German sortie near the Elbe River, in the Saar region. This engagement and an exchange of fire on the Upper Rhine, opened the 12th week of Europe's war. The remainder of the front was quiet.

A flare-up of the war on the Upper Rhine, the German high command said resulted in "lively machine-gun and rifle fire on both sides."

Nazis also reported heavy French artillery fire against Hammelberg, a hill occupied by the Germans near the Luxembourg border. The fire did not dislodge the defending French troops.

They also reported that the German air force continued its observation flights over France.

Labor Unions Warned Prosecution Certain For Law Violations

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20. (AP).—Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnold advised labor unions Sunday they would face federal prosecution under anti-trust laws whenever they used "legal rights of association in an illegal way."

The chief of the justice department's anti-trust division set forth his policy in a letter to the secretary of the Central Labor Union.

It was made public, he said, because of numerous inquiries about applications of the anti-trust laws to unions since anti-trust charges were filed recently against some labor organizations.

Arnold declared anti-trust laws "should not be used as an instrument to police strikes or adjudicate labor controversies."

However, he would apply, he said, when union advocates "have no reasonable connection with wages, hours, health, safety, the speed-up system, or the establishment of the right of collective bargaining."

He listed these five types of "unreasonable restraints" by unions as examples of cases that would be prosecuted.

"To prevent the use of cheaper material, improved equipment, or more efficient methods" such as "the effort to prevent the installation of factory-glazed windows or factory-painted kitchen cabinets."

"To compel hiring of useless and unnecessary labor" such as requiring each truck entering a city to carry a member of the local teamsters' union in addition to the driver of the truck.

"To enforce system of graft and extortion" as "when a racketeer, masquerading as a labor leader, interferes with the commerce of those who will not pay him to leave them alone."

"To enforce illegally fixed prices" such as "indicated in the Chicago milk case where a labor union distributed kitchen cabinets to prevent milk being brought into Chicago by persons who refuse to maintain illegal and fixed prices."

"To destroy an established and legitimate system of collective bargaining" as when one union makes "war on another union by attacking employers who deal with that union."

Rev. W. C. Hinds Returned Here as Methodist Pastor

Rev. W. C. Hinds was returned as pastor of the First Methodist church here at the North Texas Methodist Conference at Lubbock which closed its session Sunday.

Big Spring Man Is Found Shot to Death

BIG SPRING, Nov. 20.—L. A. Eubanks, 54, manager of the Retail Merchants' Association here and a former instructor at Texas Christian University, was found in the garage of his home fatally wounded by a shot from his rifle Sunday at 2 p. m.

A negro maid in the Eubanks home rushed to the garage when she heard a shot fired, finding the body and gun near the automobile, to which Assistant Police Chief O'Leary said Eubanks had apparently been carrying the other hunting equipment found in it. Mr. Eubanks was shot just above the heart. Justice of the Peace Hefley conducted an inquest but deferred announcing a verdict.

Mr. Eubanks had lived in Big Spring 14 years, having moved here from Oklahoma to organize the Retail Merchants' Association. Prior to his residence here he had taught at Tyler Commercial College, and at Texas Christian University, where, from 1916 to 1919 he was an instructor in commercial subjects. His wife, the former Miss Ollie Bethel, who had been one of his students in Tyler, was also a member of the faculty at that time, assisting her husband in conducting his courses. Mrs. Eubanks, who was not at home at the time of her husband's death, collapsed when told of it.

Magnolia I J. S. Masterson Gauged At 24-Hour Potential Flow of 179

Official potential test today on Magnolia Petroleum Company No. 1 J. S. Masterson, one-quarter mile southeast extension producer of the Apco pool in northern Pecos county, showed it to have flowed 179.03 barrels of 39.9-gravity oil through 2-inch tubing in 24 hours, with gas-oil ratio of 4.106-1. Top of pay was called at 4,505 feet, where the Ellenberger, lower Ordovician, was entered, and total depth is 4,536 feet in dolomite.

Report this morning from Olson Drilling Company and Bruce McCandless No. 1 Mrs. V. W. Crockett, Ordovician wildcat two and a fraction miles southwest of the Apco stated it to have set 9 5/8-inch casing at around 1,800 feet. It is standing while cement sets.

Humble Oil & Refining Company No. 1 Mrs. Bertha D. Young, eight and one-half miles northwest of the Apco pool and also seeking Ordovician production, is drilling past 1,800 feet in lime.

Continental Oil Company No. 1 Todd unit block, Crockett deep test 15 miles northwest of Ozona, halted coring at 6,316 feet in Ellenberger dolomite, and now is swabbing through 2-inch tubing set at 6,282. It had swabbed down 2,000 feet from top, at last reports, but still was showing only drilling fluid.

Neutrals Are Losers of Five And British 3

Undisclosed Number Reported Killed in Latest War at Sea

LONDON, Nov. 20. (AP).—Mines have at least temporarily supplanted submarines as the leading sea menace off the British coast, officials said today, as floating explosives added still further to the war's greatest weekend toll of merchant shipping.

Eight vessels were reported sunk in the North sea with 177 persons killed or missing.

The sinkings included the 345-ton British trawler Wigmore with its crew of 16 and the 1,267-ton British collier Torchbearer which were disclosed today. Four survivors of the Torchbearer's crew reported to have numbered 13, were landed at an English port.

Total tonnage of the eight vessels was 27,478 tons. Neutral nations were the chief sufferers, losing five ships to Britain's mines.

Those sunk included Simon Bolivar, Netherlands; Garzia, Italy; Blackhill, British; B. O. Borjesson, Swedish; Carola Milica, Yugoslav; Kautas, Lithuania.

In announcing the mining of the Simon Bolivar, the admiralty charged the 8,390-ton Netherlands ship was a victim of German mines sowed near Britain's coast with the deliberate purpose of sinking commercial shipping.

German authorities in Berlin, however, have declared that "a German mine could not have been responsible."

The Carola Milica, was built in 1928 and was owned by the Yugoslavian Lloyd Co., according to Lloyd's register. The home port of the 425-foot vessel was Dubrovnik, Yugoslav port on the Adriatic.

Lloyd's register says the Garzia was built in 1923 and her home port was Genoa. The 994-foot vessel was owned by Giovanni Vassero.

The 303-foot Blackhill was built in 1919 and her home port was New Castle. The vessel was owned by the Consett Iron Co., Ltd.

The B. O. Borjesson, built in 1907, was the 261-foot craft whose name port was Helsingborg, Sweden.

Germans Continue To Tighten Hold On Czech Cities

PRAGUE, Nov. 20. (AP).—Czech and German police tightened their hold Sunday on Prague and four industrial centers under martial law and prepared to act quickly if a threatened protest strike should break out Monday against the governments of Germany and the Bohemia-Moravia protectorate.

Labor leaders assured the Germans they had persuaded workers against following those who favored a strike to show sympathy Friday and Saturday for anti-German acts.

Czech police nevertheless were sent to factory sections Sunday to spread the word that any strike would be suppressed severely.

Officials reported a quiet Sunday generally after two days in which nine students, two policemen and another unidentified Czech were shot to death. Czech academies were closed for three years and martial law was imposed on five districts, including Prague.

Students under 20 years of age were taken into custody in mass arrests by SS (Elite Guards) detachments last week were released but older ones still were in custody.

Communist Paper Urges Youths to Oppose Present War

MOSCOW, Nov. 20. (AP).—The newspaper Red Star, organ of the Russian army, today urged youth of the world to oppose continuation of the present "capitalist war" under leadership of the communist international.

The newspaper asserted students in the United States, Great Britain, France and India are against war and said that while "the soviet is in a strong position, capitalism is falling into ruins."

12 Shutdowns Are Ordered During Dec. for State

AUSTIN, Nov. 20. (AP).—The railroad commission today ordered 12 shut-downs of Texas oil wells in December, each Saturday and Sunday and December 1 and 15.

The commission also set a basic daily allowable of 2,140,489 barrels which with the shut-in days makes an average output of 1,866,439 barrels daily.

The average daily permissible is 51,661 barrels below the estimate of the December market demand for Texas oil made by the federal bureau of mines.

LONDON, Nov. 20. (AP).—An unidentified plane flew over Essex, southern Kent, and the outskirts of London today, trailed by anti-aircraft gunfire but no raid warnings sounded. British chasers stalked in pursuit of the craft as it sped eastward.

700 Tickets Sold To Grid Game Here During First Day

Persons purchasing tickets to the Midland-Odessa football game, to be played in Odessa on November 30, were warned today that the game will start at 2:30 in the afternoon instead of at eight o'clock at night as is printed on the tickets.

From all indications, Midland will send a record crowd to the game to cheer the Midland team on in its quest for the ninth win of the season. Approximately 700 tickets, half the amount allotted to Midland, were sold at the chamber of commerce office this morning and it appears likely that Midland school officials will have to request more tickets to accommodate all the local fans who plan on attending the game.

Tickets will remain on sale at the chamber of commerce office until November 29 or until all allotted Midland for the game are sold. The tickets are located on the east side of Fly field and sell for 75 cents each.

BRUCE CATTON IN WASHINGTON

By Bruce Catton Reporter-Telegram Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—A little-noticed angle of the Third U. S. Circuit Court's decision on the Republic Steel case is that it leaves Republic owing some money to WPA.

Down in the lengthy Labor Board finding which the court upheld was a section dealing with back pay for employees whom the Board ordered Republic to re-engage.

Since the original unpleasantness of which the whole row was based took place back in the spring of 1937, some of these men had been out of work a long time and had gone on relief; so the Labor Board, in ordering the company to give them their back pay, stipulated that it deduct therefrom any sums which they might have received from WPA and pay those sums direct to WPA.

This isn't entirely unprecedented. WPA authorities say there have been a few similar cases, involving small sums, in which they have received payment. They haven't yet figured out how much they have coming from Republic.

DECISION COMERTS LABOR BOARD

The Republic decision, incidentally, heartened the Labor Board more than anything that has happened in months. For it was this case which the Board withdrew in the spring of 1938, after it had already got into court with the findings of the Supreme Court's famous ruling against Secretary of Agriculture Wallace in the Kansas City stockyards case.

Wallace has set maximum rates for livestock sales commissions in the Kansas City yards. The Supreme Court threw these rates out on April 25, 1938, holding that Wallace had simply taken as his own the findings of active prosecutors for the government and that the packers had been denied a full and fair hearing.

By unmistakable implication, the decision, criticized any and all quasi-judicial agencies which failed to "act in accordance with the cherished tradition embodying the basic concepts of fair play."

CAPONE GANG CARRIES ON—BUT MAYBE NOT FOR HIM

By NEA Service

CHICAGO—Al Capone's gangland empire has transferred its activities to new fields since his leader was bundled off to prison—And maybe its allegiance has been transferred, too.

If Capone should try to resume his interrupted career following his release from more than seven years in prison, he would find the field still profitable. But that his old lieutenants who still are active would be willing to put him back at the top of the heap is far from certain.

The Capone syndicate, as Chicago police call the post-repeal hangover of the old mob, shifted its attention for the most part to more lawful fields when repeal ended the big money in illicit liquor. The group is said to still control part of the Windy City's cleaning and dyeing industry.

Horse racing, vice and gambling add to the syndicate's revenue. Most of Chicago's betting handbooks are under its management. Police say bookies who wish to operate under their own auspices are forced to pay protection in order to stay healthy and in business.

SLAYING REVEALS SYNDICATE'S ACTIVITY

The recent shotgun slaying of Edward J. O'Hare, president of Chicago's Sportsman Park race track, revealed what police believe is the syndicate's intention to branch out into other fields of professional sport.

O'Hare was found to be a director of the Chicago Cardinals, professional football club, and was known to have been angling for a roller skating derby concession in several southern states.

O'Hare was regarded as "front" man for the syndicate and as Capone's stand-in during the latter's Alcatraz stay.

Chicago police claim to be mystified as to the public about the part former Capone lieutenants play in the present syndicate set-up. Two years ago State's Attorney Courtney listed Frank Nitti, Charles Fischetti, Louis Campagna, Lawrence Mangano and Danny Stanton among the county's vice and gambling chiefs.

MANY OLD CRONIES STILL IN CHICAGO

Still known to be around Chicago are Frank Nitti, once regarded as the brains of the mob; Murray Humphreys, regarded as the gang's No. 1 man while Nitti was serving an income tax term; Jack Guzik, one time general manager of the syndicate; Lawrence Mangano and others.

Ralph Capone, Al's brother, recently stated he was employed at $50 a week by a water bottling concern. Frank Diamond, the gangster's brother-in-law and former bodyguard, told police he was a contractor.

Danny Stanton, questioned last October about a fatal shooting, said he was a tavern owner. Hymie Levin's loop handbooks were among the first to feel the ax in a drive conducted by the state's attorney last year to close out Chicago bookies.

Some of the well-known members of the gang are dead, others have left town. Frankie Rio, Capone's bodyguard, who served a year in Philadelphia in 1929 for carrying concealed weapons, died a natural death four years ago in Oak Park, highly respectable Chicago suburb.

MCGURN SHOT DOWN VALENTINE'S DAY

Most famous member of the gang died since Al entered Alcatraz is

Ralph Capone, Frank Nitti, Lawrence Mangano, Al Capone, Murray Humphreys

Chicago isn't sure that Al Capone still holds the aces in the game he played before prison. Many of his old associates still are active, but doubt is raised that Capone controls them. His brother, Ralph, is bound by ties of blood, but he said recently he is working for $50 a week. Nitti, once regarded as the "brains" of the group, himself served an income tax sentence. While he was away, Humphreys was regarded as "No. 1" man. Mangano and Nitti were two of those named by the state's attorney in a list of Chicago vice and gambling chiefs.

James DeMora, better known as "Machine Gun" Jack McGurn, suspected of having been the machine-gunner in the St. Valentine's day massacre of 1929 McGurn was shot down in a bowling alley the day after St. Valentine's day, 1936. A valentine was found in his pocket.

John Torrio, in the early 1920's an even more important figure than Capone, started serving a two-year income tax evasion term in Leavenworth last spring. James Sammons, a Capone machine gunner, is serving a life term for, trying to bribe an Indiana law officer in 1933.

Tony Volpe, whose deportation was upheld that year by the U. S. Supreme Court is said still to be in Chicago. Neither Italy nor Argentina, his birthplace, nor would accept him.

Police estimate that the total of present and former Capone mobsters still in and around Chicago is about 100. Some are broke, a few are content with "jobs" as handbook doormen or race track ticket sellers, but none are doing what may be classed as hard labor.

Informed opinion is that no matter what the syndicate's next move is, and whether or not Capone resumes control, O'Hare will be sorely missed. The dead man was suave, clever, and without peer as a contact with persons whom it was important for the gang to know and be friendly with. If the syndicate ordered his execution it may live to regret it.

Someone got so much pleasure out of this expression about an editor that he clipped it and used a cent stamp and a number ten envelope to get it to my desk:

A gentleman was walking down the street with a little boy at his side, when the boy cried out: "Oh, pa! there goes an editor."

"Hush, hush," said the father. "Don't make sport of the poor man. God only knows what you may come to yourself, some day."

But I still say editors, like cowboys, are about half human.

Two Midland women, part of the thousand Midland citizens who attended the game at San Angelo Friday night, had to make the trip without their husbands, the latter being engaged in hunting trips or some sort of excursions. They got a promise from Tom Sloan, who knows his way around San Angelo, that if they got in any trouble, they would call on him. While he and his family were at dinner with relatives, a call came, purportedly from the police, saying a couple of Midland women were in trouble and needed help. He was down the steps and half way to the car before they lost their nerve and called again, declaring it was only a joke.

Orchard, garden, meat, dairy and poultry products also will be produced on the farm for use in the boys' mess hall.

Buildings on the resident center are to be constructed of lumber produced by the boys from timber on the property, with necessary mill work, cement, nails, building hardware and similar materials to be furnished by the FSA.

Adequate fencing and cross fencing for proper diversified farm management and land utilization for the livestock program will be provided, and the youths will construct terraces where required, with the local Soil Conservation Service camp providing any technical assistance needed.

Pasture improvement will be handled also by the SCS, with additional technical service to be supplied by the Texas Forest Service, the Stephen F. Austin college at Nacogdoches, the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station and the Texas Extension Service.

Needed reforestation will be done by the boys under the direction of the Texas Forest Service and a wildlife conservation project will be operated on the farm under the supervision of the Texas Game, Fish and Oyster Commission.

The boys who will become residents of the project—referred to the National Youth Administration by the State Public Welfare Board, the FSA, and the Old Age Assistance Commission—will receive sufficient remuneration from the NYA to pay the cost of their room and lodging and medical attention, and have enough funds left to allow each about $12 monthly in cash.

NYA boys from the 23 East Texas counties of NYA District 1 will be eligible to reside on the project, according to information from the district office at Marshall.

At present, Frank M. Coons, of the NYA area office in Lufkin, a graduate in forestry from the Colorado State Agricultural college, and Grady F. Pitts of the Marshall NYA district office will supervise initial work on the site, where eventually 100 NYA boys will be employed prior to the establishing next summer of the full-time resident center for the 90 boys who will reside in the dormitories.

In connection with the training program the boys will receive, it is expected that three hours' instruction daily will be given in agronomy, soil conservation, feeds and feeding, animal husbandry, farm management, and culture, which is the care and management of trees and related subjects.

The boys will operate their own woodshop and blacksmith shop and will also set up a tannery and a harness and saddle shop.

The proper care and management of livestock will take up much of the boys' time, for they will be directly responsible for developing production of purebred stock, under guidance of FSE and NYA supervisors.

Of the 2,500 acres, 400 will be put in cultivation, with the remainder to be used as pasture, a forestry and game project. It is expected the Texas Game, Fish and Oyster commission will designate some 500 acres on the site as a quail preserve.

Operation of the land use program on the site will be started as soon as possible, with the attention to the livestock production to follow.

Hunan Valley Prepared for Jap Offensive

By ROBERT F. MARTIN, CHUNGKING (UP).—Coordination of civilian and military forces has been geared in anticipation of a Japanese assault on the rich Hunan valley extending from the Milo river to Hengyang, this correspondent discovered during a trip to the Changsha front.

Chinese authorities in that region are reasonably confident they could repulse any attack because: 1. Hunan has enormous man power, available for both army and civil service. The province has one of the best production records in its history, having produced enough foodstuffs to feed Hunan for two years and an export considerable quantities of produce to Kwangsi and Kweichow.

3. There is a spirit of cooperation probably not to be seen anywhere else in China.

Admire Army. Queenans—regarding their attitude towards the war, all types of civilians, from the village magistrate to the humble peasants, expressed their admiration for the bravery of the Chinese army and their willingness to cooperate with it.

"Chinese soldiers have been our friends," remarked a typical peasant. "They help us harvest our crops. When they occupy our homes, the commanders pay us for it."

As a result of this new-found spirit, farmers and laborers have formed cooperative groups which have supplanted the former compulsory labor corps. I saw thousands of workers—most of them from the farms—digging trenches and transporting war materials. Each group had a civilian foreman, for no armed guards were permitted.

Work was carried out completely by the local civilian government. The army merely informs the magistrate what work must be done. The magistrate in turn asks the cooperative associations for laborers, and work is begun within a few hours.

Work is paid from military and provincial funds. This is not always the case, however, as one civilian worker explained. He and many in his group who had lived in rural districts life continues much the same as before, but Japanese raids have changed life completely.

In Hengyang, where the civilian population has been reduced from 200,000 to 60,000, life is completely regulated by the military.

Civilians are not permitted to roam the streets between 3 a. m. and 4 p. m. Farmers bring only limited supplies to the markets in order to prevent losses from bombings. Before the deadline the city's streets are filled with milling masses headed for the nearest exits and the open fields.

The government has ordered all productive enterprises to leave the city and has supplied them with funds with which to re-establish themselves in Kwangsi and the rural districts of Hunan.

Effective Shelters. In Kweilin, a similar situation exists. Less than a mile from the city a refuge camp has been built outside a huge granite rock formation known locally as the Seven Star mountain. In the subterranean caverns dug out centuries ago by glacial waters all of Kweilin's population can find shelter from Japanese raiders.

The government is building four large houses, each 40 feet square, within the cave to serve as refuge shelters. Near one of the entrances to the cave a kindergarten school has been established and all city youngsters are required to attend school there.

In more than 150 raids the past few months there have been only 150 casualties.

Examples of cooperation among civilians and the military are visible throughout Hunan, and this unity is one of the principal reasons why the Chinese military authorities are confident of holding on from the Japanese in this area, known as "China's bread basket."

NEW YORK.—Costume jewelry—the big, showy kind—becomes more important by the minute in the season's fashion picture.

Bill Ferguson talked on the Young People's Kingdom Highway organization, giving the officers, council and committee chairmen of the group, telling of the different phases of the work, and giving a short history of the organization.

Two chairman gave the scope of their work, Hartzell Stephens telling of the home mission committee work, and Merle Scott speaking on stewardship and reading a story.

The offering was taken by Verre Byrd, Gloria Correll, and Frances Ellen Link. Bill Ferguson offered thanks for the offering.

Lynn Stephens explained the three objectives for this year—the effort to start a movement among all churches of the town to take a religious survey; donation to the minister's annuity fund; the Thanksgiving donation of clothing and toys to the Orphans Home at Itasca.

Dr. Walter Meyers led a selected group of junior choir voices in singing "Smile, Smile, Smile."

Roger Sidwell read the scripture lesson from the fourth chapter of Matthew and the second chapter of Acts.

The service closed with the singing of "God Be With You Till We Meet Again" and benediction by Rev. W. J. Coleman, pastor.

Good attendance was reported and it is probable that the same group will present the worship service one evening a month.

Costume Jewelry Is Back on Gold Standard Fashion Displays Show

BY MARIAN YOUNG NEA Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK.—Costume jewelry—the big, showy kind—becomes more important by the minute in the season's fashion picture.

Massive necklaces and bracelets, set with glittering stones, encircle the smartest throats and wrists. With women who have sumptuous wardrobes as well as with girls who try to make a basic dress do the work of five, collars of semi-precious stones, sparkling earrings and huge, unusual clips are finding widespread favor.

Yellow gold jewelry outshines all other types. There are platinum and silver finishes available, but gold is highlighted.

A necklace of gold leaves has a pendant of three larger leaves, seemingly caught together with a sprig of gold blossoms. A massive gold choker chain has for a clasp a garnet the size of a silver dollar. And there's a matching bracelet with a single matching stone of equal size.

A pair of gold angel fish clips is smart on the neckline of a plain black dress. Twin clips of seed pearls in the shape of apple blossoms are charming. And an old silver bowknot pin—very large—with green stones dangling from half a dozen little chains attached to the bowknot is right on a lapel or the neckline of a blouse.

Earrings—forever reported as "coming in" but never seeming quite to make the grade—really have caught on this winter. Chic women actually are having their ears pierced again. For those who wouldn't dream of having their ears pierced, screw-on and the newer clip earrings come in all types of finishes and in a variety of interesting stones as well as amusing settings. Little flower-like enamel clips with a compartment for perfume in the center of each flower are lovely.

JEWELS SPARKLE IN EVENING COIFFURES Rings of huge, semi-precious stones are worn again. The amethyst in a simple gold ring is as large as an acorn and the stone in the matching bracelet is almost twice that size.

In evening coiffures, glittering, although rather daintily, tresses have replaced waving plumes and bits of feathers. Clips are worn in some of the most flattering evening hair-do's. One hairdresser winds a slender silver chain with small rhinestones spaced about an inch apart around and around an upswep coiffure with topknot of curls.

Dr. Elbert Thornton was guest speaker, discussing "Triumphs of Modern Medicine."

Here's the Way To Spice Up Old Favorites

BY MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX NEA Service Staff Writer

A BIT of spice often takes the mind off less pleasant things. That's why these dishes belong in the menus of today.

Apple Muffins (Makes about 12) Two cups flour, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 4 table-spoons sugar, apple slices, 2 table-spoons butter or other shortening, 1 cup chopped apple, 1-2 cup milk, 2 eggs, cinnamon.

Sift flour, salt, baking powder and half the sugar together. Cut in the butter, then add chopped apples. Beat eggs well, add milk, and gradually add flour mixture. Drop into greased muffin pans. Place a slice of apple on each muffin and sprinkle with the remaining sugar. Add a dusting of cinnamon to each and bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) from 20 to 25 minutes.

Here's a recipe for breakfast when it's cold outside.

MENU BREAKFAST: Grapefruit juice, Philadelphia scrapple, apple muffins, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Fried tomatoes, crisp bacon, hard rolls, chocolate cup cakes, tea, milk.

DINNER: Boiled beef tongue, horseradish sauce, parsley potatoes, buttered beet greens, Waldorf salad, apricot soufflé, coffee, milk.

Philadelphia Scrapple

Lean fresh pork on bone, 1 quart pork broth, 1 cup corn meal, powdered sage, salt and pepper to taste. Buy enough pork on bone so that the meat when cooked will weigh a pound without the bone. Boll pork until tender and easily removed from bone. Remove fat from meat and grind meat fine. Remove bone from broth and when cool, skim off fat. For each quart of broth allow 1 cup cornmeal. Cook cornmeal to mush in broth and add ground meat, powdered sage and seasoning. Mold in bread pan, slice and fry.

Ex-Service Men Are Favored for Jobs

5 DISTRICT 3AA TEAMS TO REST THIS WEEK

Lamesa, San Angelo To Meet Friday in Only Conference Go

Five of the seven district 3-AA teams rest this week in preparation for traditional Thanksgiving Day games that—Roosevelt and O'Daniel to the contrary—will be played November 30.

The San Angelo Bobcats will journey to Lamesa Friday night for a game with the Golden Tornado of that city that may decide the team that will wind up one notch from the bottom. It will be the last game of the year for the in-and-out Lamesa boys and they might slip up on a San Angelo team that appeared rough at the start of the season but that has looked worse each time in the last four games played.

The championship of the district apparently is already decided. The Sweetwater Mustangs are out in front with five wins and no losses and have only to face the Big Spring Steers before the pennant is theirs. There is only a slim chance of the Steers being able to do what Midland, San Angelo, Abilene, Odessa and Lamesa have been unable to do. If by some unexpected chance Big Spring should win the game and Midland defeat Odessa, the Mustangs and Bulldogs would end up in a tie at the top. The Championship would then be settled in the committee's court room and Sweetwater probably would be given the flag since the Mustangs have a win over Midland.

Probably the outstanding Turkey Day game will be played in Odessa between the Broncs and the Midland Bulldogs. Midland has a better record for the season and in the conference but "dope" means little when these two teams meet. The Broncs came within four points of defeating Sweetwater, a team that defeated Midland by 23 points, but Midland came through with wins over Big Spring and Wink, two clubs that defeated Odessa.

Wink was admittedly in better condition while beating Odessa Saturday than when the Wildcatters were taken into camp by the Midland team earlier in the season. The Broncs were crippled through the loss of two regular backs and one of them, Alvin Caudle, will be out of the holiday game if reports from Odessa are to be accepted.

The Midland-Odessa rivalry has been the most intense in West Texas over a period of years and there is nothing to indicate it will be any different this year. Odessa was undoubtedly overrated early in the year when they were ranked with the top half dozen teams of the state but there is no doubt the Broncs boast a hard fighting lightweight club capable of giving any of them a better than fair workout.

Big John Kimbrough Returns Rice Kickoff 29 Yards

Big John Kimbrough, center, is shown as he was trapped along the sidelines by two white-shirted Rice men after returning Rice's opening kickoff 29 yards at Houston Saturday. Kimbrough crashed over minutes later for the first score which gave the Aggies a 19-0 victory.

Anyway you look at it, the game is an even Stephen bet and regardless of the winner, the result will not be considered an upset.

The other Turkey Day games will find Sweetwater pitted against Big Spring and San Angelo playing the victorious Abilene Eagles.

By all odds, Sweetwater should be a big favorite to win over the steers, despite the game being scheduled in Big Spring. The Steers had a big scare thrown into them last week by the weak Abilene team and will have to show far more than in any other conflict this year to win. "Lefty" Bethell, Big Spring quarterback, is one of the best backs in the district but the Mustangs have a half dozen backs and a much heavier line that has plenty of replacements.

Unless the San Angelo boys come out of their doldrums and play better than in the past month, they are due to be defeated against Lamesa this week, leaving their holiday game with Abilene the one that will decide cellar championship.

Foreful Oratory

PITTSFIELD, Mass. (U.P.)—Speeches of candidates for the city council had unusual power this year. The three candidates took sound tests at the General Electric laboratories and the results showed each made more noise than Johnny Weissmuller giving his "Tarzan" yell. One of them, Walter H. Ramsay, had a decibel rating equal to the roar of a lion.

The PAYOFF

BY JESS RODGERS

One more hurdle, the most important of them all, and the season will be over for the Midland Bulldogs.

The Bulldogs will rest this week and wind up the season November 30, one of the two Thanksgiving Days, in Odessa against the Odessa Broncs.

Following the Sweetwater-Odessa game, some of the Odessa scribes said the Odessa defeat didn't rankle much because they would rather beat Midland than win a conference championship any time. That has been the attitude of Odessa for years and years and it is up to the Bulldogs now to keep the Odessans from being too happy this winter.

The Bulldogs got out of the San Angelo game without getting battered up too much even though it was the roughest game of the year for the local boys. There was more than a bit of underhand work by the San Angelo boys but the officials conveniently overlooked it all except twice. Incidentally, the officiating was just about the worst the boys have had to put up with this year.

Just what is wrong with the San Angelo team remains a mystery. That something is wrong is apparent to anyone watching the Bobcats play. They only tried in spots against the Bulldogs and their record of three losses and a tie in their last four games, although all have been against strong teams, further indicates something wrong. Stories of every nature can be heard in San Angelo but all are probably wrong. Certainly those who should know the inside dope refuse to talk.

Hank Hart of Big Spring breaks back into this column through a line in his sports column Sunday in which he admitted Jay Francis of Midland might make all-state because of the publicity he has been given recently but that Bethell of Big Spring is rightfully recognized as the best back in the district. What, we wonder, is who gave Hank the idea that Francis was not equal to Bethell. Francis probably has a record equal to Bethell at passing and punting and there is certainly no comparison between them at carrying the ball.

Against Hank's opinion we will stick that of Dewey Mayhew, Abilene coach.

Prexy Anderson of Abilene furnishes us with the following: "What a shame, what a shame indeed, that Jay Francis can't change uniforms and start playing with the Sweetwater Mustangs when the latter move into the state playoff next month."

Larry Priddy, the Sweetwater coach, would start growing new hair instead of pulling out what little he has.

And Jay, the wild horse of the Permian Basin, would breeze to the all-state recognition, which he deserves, anyhow.

Listen to what Dewey Mayhew has to say about the Francis boy: "He's the best running back I ever saw in high school, bar none. I didn't believe Blondy Cross last winter when he told me: 'When Jay starts running toward one side of the field, put all your boys over on the other side, and they may catch him when he comes back by.' 'But I know it's so now. Only my boys didn't catch him. He went for four touchdowns.'"

When Dewey says Francis is the best running back he ever saw, lots of ground is covered. Dewey has seen lots of them in 20 years, his memory is fairly good, and he is much less given to exaggerate the ability of an enemy star after his team has played said star than before the game.

The four touchdowns he tallied against Abilene composed no unusual performance for Francis. (They were made on runs of 65, 26, 65, and 8 yards.) He does it just about every game.

Schick Test Urged For All Children

AUSTIN.—"Nature has revealed priceless secrets to students of medical science, and the Schick test is the key to one of these," declared Dr. Geo. W. Cox, state health officer. "It determines whether children are susceptible or immune to diphtheria. The medicine used consists of a highly diluted form of diphtheria toxin, a few drops of which are carefully introduced between the outer layers of skin, on the inner surface of the forearm."

"This test to determine whether or not a child might have diphtheria is entirely harmless. Fifty times the amount used for a child would be necessary to injure a small animal such as a mouse or guinea pig. The red area produced by the

Aggies and Longhorns Will Meet Forty-Seventh Time Thanksgiving

COLLEGE STATION, Texas.—Eighteen hundred and ninety-four—that was the year all this Texas Aggie-Texas University football rivalry started with a 38-0 victory for the Longhorns. Since that time the Aggies have been continually trying to catch up and when they meet on historic Kyle Field, Texas Thanksgiving, Nov. 30, they will be meeting for the forty-sixth time and the Longhorns have the margin 27 to 15 in the matter of victories and the other 4 have ended in those "moral victory" ties.

Tradition says the home team wins but don't let that slogan fool

you. In 1922 the Aggies won at Austin, 14-7, but the prove the traditional saying is all wrong, Texas came right back in 1923 to make the Cadets "take in on the chin, 0-6."

Texas' coach, Dana X. Bible, was then at A&M and had the glory and gloom of both those jinx years but now he is on the other side of the fence and nothing would bring more happiness to him than that he could reverse the hoodoo and take the game football back to rest forever in the trophy case at Austin.

Coach Homer Norton also has ideas that he would like to give the winning ball to the captain for the game. It is a custom he has followed all year and, although he has not said, he probably will follow that system on Turkey Day—unless the boys decide that the ball belongs to Norton for bringing the Aggies "out of the Wilderness" that settled on the A&M campus after the 1927 team won the last title for the Aggies.

Just for the benefit of the record here is the all-time Texas Aggie-University of Texas record:

Owls to Seek First Victory Over Frogs Since November 1924

FORT WORTH.—Victory-less since 1924, the 1939 edition of the Rice football machine comes to Ft. Worth next Saturday for the 18th contest with the Horned Frogs of Texas Christian University.

Houston fans insist the Frogs have a hex on the Owls. At any rate, the TCU aggregation has managed to run its string of victories to eleven straight, the last loss to Rice having been chalked up 15 years ago, in 1924.

The Frogs, even in the Owl's two championship years of 1934 and 1937, managed to win by the identical score of 7 to 2.

This year both teams are well below par and have been kicked around pretty generally. Both hope to add one more to a meager victory list when the two elevens meet here next Saturday.

The TCU-Rice series began back in 1914. The Frogs have won 12, Rice 3 and 2 contests were ties.

test is nature's danger signal, because such a child, if exposed to diphtheria, might acquire the disease.

"Seventy-five to ninety per cent of children under twelve are naturally susceptible to diphtheria. This information has been gained through Schick tests carried out on thousands of children throughout the United States. Young children should receive immunizing treatments against the disease without a preliminary Schick test. Such a test should, however, be carried out six months after preventive treatments, to make certain that immunity has been established. In older children and adults a test is advisable, since immunity may already be present.

"During the past year about 250 Texas children died, and 2,500 were ill of diphtheria. Nature has revealed the secret of susceptibility through the Schick test. With this knowledge diphtheria could be reduced to the vanishing point if parents would have their family physician protect their children."

Gridiron Glamor Boys . . . No. 6 CASSIANO OUTSTANDING MAN IN PITT SENIOR CLASS

Idol of Teammates, Brilliant Halfback From Albany Is Another Who Will Study Law

Sixth of a series of gridiron glamor boys.

BY JERRY BRONDFIELD
NEA Service Sports Writer

DICK CASSINO, lone surviving member of Pittsburgh's 1938 "dream backfield," like Nile Kinnick of Iowa, may have a Rhodes Scholarship at Oxford denied to him because of the European War. A brilliant student, he has maintained an "A" average. . . . A senior, this handsome curly-haired Italian lad, according to intimates, is the type who is destined to be successful. . . . They predict that some day he'll be a great lawyer. . . . Since his home is in Albany, N. Y., he probably will attend Columbia School of Law to prepare for the New York bar exam.

CASSIANO is 21 years old, stands 5 feet 10 inches, weighs 173 pounds. . . . Dresses conservatively but prefers the legitimate theater. . . . Also likes to relax in the woods and frequently week-ends in near-by mountains. . . . On campus he appears just another student among thousands. . . .

slight, quiet, well-mannered, and usually with two or three books under his arm.

Very likely will be named outstanding man in senior class this spring. President of Phi Kappa, his social fraternity; president of Omicron Delta Kappa, top-ranking honorary group on campus. . . . Member of Drums, honorary sophomore society.

Doesn't bother him if he misses a campus dance here or there, but he hates to miss classes. . . . Writes column for student newspaper. . . . Idol of his teammates and as far as they are concerned he can do no wrong.

As sophomore Cassiano was understood by Marshall Goldberg but led Panthers in yards gained. . . . Was regular last year with John Chickler, Curly Stebbins and Goldberg. . . . Later went to fullback and Cassiano took over at left half. . . . A brilliant, inspiring leader on field. . . . Remarkably quick thinker. . . . This year blossomed out as exceptional pass receiver as well as runner, and were he playing with stronger club would rate All-American in anybody's book.

Paul Harrison in Hollywood

BY PAUL HARRISON
 NEA Service Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD — Short takes: Everyone asks Eddie Cline how he expects to manage two such difficult stars as Mae West and W. C. Fields. And the director says, "I've got the studio to change the billing. I'll be 'Mae West vs. W. C. Fields. Referenced by Eddie Cline."

The wife of a minor executive at 20th-Fox was showing a woman friend around the lot the other day. "These signs don't mean a thing," she said airily as they slipped through a stage door plastered with "Keep Out" and "Positively No Admittance" notices. A moment later they both fled with stifled screams. Sidney Toler, as Charlie Chan, was about to get into a bathtub to be photographed for an incidental shot; and, since there were only a few men on the set he hadn't bothered about the wardrobe.

ACTORS GUILD is getting to the bottom of general complaints that extra players have to pay off somebody before they are assigned to jobs. . . A. F. of L. and C. I. O. are battling over organization and control of all studio office workers, who have been first to feel the ax in economy movies. . . Total employment is down about 10 per cent but will slump further from now until after the holidays. But it seems certain now that the talk of closing down everything for a month is just talk.

MOUSE IS ELIMINATED IN "OF MICE AND MEN"
 A WESTERN called "The Day of Jesse James" is in the mill at Republic—without Tyrone Power. . . And "Drums Along the Mohawk" positively will not feature Gene Krupa. . . Incidentally, there are no real bluebirds in "The Blue Bird." Nor is there any Singapore scene in "The Road to Singapore." And there's no mouse in "Of Mice and Men." It was thought that a mouse might be offensive to some of the customers, so Lennie will fondle a bird.

Of course they don't need grapes for "The Grapes of Wrath," but they do need wheat, and I'm afraid there won't be much of it. Hollywood's full of rumors charging emasculation of the story, and not even the players are allowed to see the latter part of the script. Most alarming report is that the Joads and their friends will be carried through the travel of their migration and left on a mountain pass looking happily down into California—the Promised Land!

PETER CUSHING, English newcomer who's on his way to leading-manhood, was being interviewed by an eastern writer, who said, "I heard someone say that you're one actor who hasn't shown any sign of being Hollywood. I take it you haven't got a swimming pool and things like that at your place."
 "Matter of fact," admitted Cushing, "there is a pool. Quite a big one."
 "Really? And a tennis court—badminton—things like that?"
 The actor said yes, there were several courts—even squash and handball, and a gymnasium, too. The correspondent suggested that he must find Hollywood a pretty expensive place to live.
 "Not at all," said Cushing. "You see, I only rent one room—at the Y. M. C. A."

FAZENDA WILL BE NEW TUGBOAT ANNIE

MACK GORDON and Harry Revel, the tonesmiths, are likely to become a team again. . . Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy, who have been at ins and outs for three years, are cementing their comedy partnership with articles of incorporation. . . Seeing George Jessel and Norma Talmadge together, Movietown is speculating on a reconciliation and remarriage. Jessel's an experienced second-timer; he was married twice to Fay Courtney. Louise Fazenda is almost a certain choice as the new Tugboat Annie — to team with Alan Hale in the roles created by Marie Dressler and Wallace Beery. . . Sonja Henie, who can't stay idle, will begin whipping together her new ice show the minute her current picture is finished. . . Von, the spine-chilling Hound of the Baskervilles, is now the lolloping, amiable playmate of Baby Sandy!

Starting Gate Will Replace Racing Stalls

BALTIMORE, Md. (UP) — The Puett starting gate, an electrical device which has eliminated the bugaboo of uneven starts and the usual treshome delays at the post, has come to America's race track to stay.

Introduced at Vancouver, B. C., and brought to the United States by operators of Bay Meadows track in California last month, the streamlined device has been tested here at Pimlico by A. G. Vanderbilt, and horsemen who have watched it in operation predict it will become a standard fixture at every major racing plant within two years.

The Puett gate was conceived by George W. Stratton, owner of the Circle S ranch, when one of his horses was mistreated by an assistant starter and finally sent away from the barrier with a bleeding mouth. Clyde Puett and several engineers designed it and perfected it.

Instead of open stalls, the gate is composed of a series of screened boxes. The doors to the boxes are controlled electrically and the release is operated by a modified bombing control adapted from military planes. It sends the fields away more quickly, eliminates jamming at the start, and almost always sends the horses away in perfect alignment.

At Bay Meadows the average starting time formerly was four minutes after the gate was introduced between 30 and 60 seconds. Similar results have been achieved at Pimlico, where the device has been used in only one or two races on each card.

Best for Juveniles
 The device is particularly helpful in two-year-old races. The juveniles usually are a fighting lot and run in large fields. Previously, a half dozen assistant starters were forced to hold the colts and fillies in line until the head starter rang the bell. Now each horse is placed in its stall and cannot delay the start.

The inside of the box-like apertures are padded to prevent injuries to fractious campaigners. Jockeys, owners and trainers all have approved it as an aid to quicker, cleaner breaks and an antidote against the ragged starts which often eliminate a horse before he has had a chance to run.
