20,000 Chinese Troops Open Drive Across Salween River

Enemy Hold On Vital Railway Line Cracked

WITH THE CHINESE EXPEDITIONARY FORCE ON THE SALWEEN FRONT (Delayed — AP) — More than 20,000 Chinese have crossed the Salween River at more than a dozen places on a 130-mile front and have opened China's first real offensive in a drive aimed at joining with the Allied Forces in Burma.

The Chinese achieved an extraordinary degree of surprise, meeting no initial opposition and later forcing the Japanese to deploy widely across difficult terrain to meet the many thrusts.

The turbulent Salween was crossed beginning the night of May 10-11 and ferrying of troops proceeded with great speed.

In later fighting, units of the battle-toughened Japanese 56th Division halted some of the thrusts along the mountain trails with counterattacks in force and with well-placed machineguns and artillery.

Severe, but so far small-scale fighting has developed near four places: The villages of Lunging, 24 miles southeast of Lunglei on the Burma Road, Hongmushu, 21 miles east of Tengchung, north of the Burma road, Tatung Teu, 29 miles northeast of Tengchung, and on the approaches of the 11,000-foot Kaoli Mountain barrier.

Amen Pass, 40 miles north of Tengchung, set in the most forbidding terrain of the sub-Himalayan range, stands seven or eight miles from the Salween.

Casualties on both sides were heavy, it was announced.

Major Gen. Claire L. Chennault's Sky Dragons heavily supported the new drive, two American communications reported. Mitchells attacked a bridge and warehouse area at Wampaha on the Burma-Thailand border Monday, causing numerous explosions and fires among fuel dumps. Fighter-bombers flew numerous sorties against Japanese installations.

The Chinese have cracked the Japanese hold on the Peiping-Hankow railway, retaking Sulping, 100 miles south of Chenghsien, but Japanese troops in northern Honan Province have broken into Lovang on the east-west Lanchow railroad at three points, the Chinese high command announced Sunday.

The counterattacking Chinese succeeded also in encircling the enemy at Chumaten, five miles south of Sulping, the announcement said.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Senate Naval Affairs Committee acted unanimously Monday in recommending Senate confirmation of James W. Forrestal's nomination as Secretary of the Navy, and afterwards accorded the former undersecretary an ovation when he appeared before the committee in response to a special invitation.

Applause greeted Forrestal's appearance and the entire committee arose in special tribute.

The committee acted on his nomination to succeed the late Frank Knox, a few minutes before his arrival, thus reversing the usual procedure under which a nominee appears to answer any questions prior to committee action.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The average defense worker has accumulated enough cash to tide him over three months of unemployment without having to redeem his War Bonds, Representative Harness (R-Ind.) said Monday he had found in a poll of workers in 50 plants.

Harness made the survey for use during forthcoming House Military Committee hearings on surplus property disposition.

One of the questions was: "Will you be obliged to sell your War Bonds, and how soon, if you become jobless?"

Ninety per cent of the employees, he said, replied that they would have to cash their bonds within from one week to two years, the average being three months.

American Bombers Hit Invasion Defenses In Pas De Calais Area, Blast Northern France

LONDON—(AP)—American Flying Fortresses and Liberators attacked German invasion defenses in the Pas De Calais area nearest Britain Monday in the 31st consecutive day of the great aerial offensive, after a night in which German bombers sharply attacked the British Coast.

No American bomber was lost Monday but one of the accompanying Mustangs was missing. It fell to anti-aircraft fire since the U. S. communicate said no German plane was sighted.

A maximum of 250 Fortresses and Liberators under protection of Eighth Air Force Mustangs pounded military installations in France, following up a night attack on Cologne by British Mosquito bombers, and a weekend of activity which saw the historic Brenner Pass, main supply line for the Nazis in Italy, virtually sealed up.

The Berlin radio asserted German raiders had made "fierce attacks" on the port of Bristol Sunday night and declared that "large quantities of high explosives and incendiaries" were dropped. A British announcement that at least 15 of the raiders were shot down indicated that the Nazis may have struck with as many as 300 planes.

The British said the raids had caused some damage and a small number of casualties "over wide areas of South and Southwest England," but noted that the weight of bombs dropped did not seem proportionate to the number of planes employed, suggesting that the main objective of the attack was to gain information about possible concentrations of invasion equipment along the coast.

The RAF stab at Cologne was carried out in conjunction with raids on unspecified objectives in France and the Low Countries and mine-laying. The operations were carried out without loss.

Marauders Active

In addition to the heavy bombers which participated in Monday's daylight operations, waves of American Marauder medium bombers also were observed heading for Northern France.

A Central German radio blackout suggested that the planes might be penetrating into the heart of the Reich.

The blow at the Brenner Pass, accomplished by Italy-based American Flying Fortresses Saturday, was followed up by a 1,000-plane assault Sunday on German-held airfields and rail yards in Northern Italy rounding out a solid month of round-the-clock attacks by Allied airmen who flew 90,000 offensive flights and dropped 130,000 tons of bombs on Fortress Europe.

The month of intensive air war in itself was one of the greatest battles of the war. It cost the lives of several thousand British and American airmen, and perhaps an equal or greater number were captured.

Losses from British bases alone were about 300 American heavy bombers, which carry a crew of 10. In 40 major attacks the RAF lost nearly as many more.

But these air battles cost the Germans some 700 planes.

French Units Push Seven Miles Into German Defenses

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, NAPLES—(AP)—French troops have advanced as much as seven miles from the take-off point on the Fifth Army right wing in the all-out Allied offensive and captured the important town of Ausonia, creating a "significant breach" in the Germans' Gustav Line in Southern Italy, Allied headquarters announced Monday.

The Americans have smashed the enemy out of Santa Maria Infante and San Pietro on the Lower Garigliano River front and taken vital mountain positions on both sides of the Ausente River.

The French have reached the hills dominating San Giorgio, equally as important as Ausonia.

The American are pressing an attack on Spigno, showing they have driven at least four miles north and west of Minturno.

Ausonia is six and a half miles north of Minturno and San Giorgio seven miles southwest of Cassino and one mile south of the Liri River.

Further to the north, the big Allied offensive also gained, with the British and Indians deepening their Rapido River bridgehead to at least 2,000 yards—more than a mile—and sending over great numbers of tanks to exploit this attack into the Liri Valley—a direct road to Rome.

More than 2,000 prisoners already have streamed back into Allied cages and others were coming in constantly as the attacks progressed.

Very few casualties have been inflicted along the whole front and hard fighting continues everywhere up and down the line of attack, an Allied communique said.

The German 1st Division, which was entirely reconstructed after its original was wiped out at Stalingrad, bore the brunt of the Fifth Army attack and lost over 1,200 men in prisoners alone, including six battalion commanders.

Warplanes Slash At Communication Lines In Italy

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, NAPLES—(AP)—Striking both long and short range blows against slowly strengthening enemy resistance, Allied warplanes flew more than 2,500 sorties Sunday supporting the Fifth and Eighth Armies by an intense campaign to isolate the Gustav Line defenders.

More than 100 enemy aircraft were sighted during the day, of which 10 were shot down, the Mediterranean Army Air Force reported. Six Allied planes were reported missing, and one additional enemy plane was downed Saturday night, the report added.

Heavy bombers unleashed a barrage of blows at railroad yards in the Po Valley, seeking to force the enemy to get all of his reinforcements from Central Italy. Medium bombers, plus fighter bombers, simultaneously slashed railroad communications between Rome and Florence in an effort to render drawing of supplies from even that sector temporarily impossible.

Fighters roared down on enemy airfield throughout Italy, destroying parked planes and harassing all highway transport activity sighted along the roads leading to the Gustav and Hitler lines.

The heavy bombers hammered rail junctions at Padua, Ferrara, Vicenza, Treviso, Mestre, Mantua and Pieve di Sacca, and in addition plastered airfields at Piacenza and Reggio Emilia.

Trucks and bridges south of Florence and beyond Rome were targets of medium, light and fighter bombers. Several trucks were cut and spans destroyed.

Airfields at Aviano, Villa Orba and Rivolta were strafed by fighters, who destroyed an unreported number of enemy aircraft. The RAF took over the night tasks with both medium and heavy bombers, blasting railroad bridges at Lattisana, Casarsa and an oil refinery at Porto Magara.

Anti-Poll Tax Group Foresees Defeat On Cloture Move

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Aware that they cannot muster the two-thirds margin they need, advocates of a bill to outlaw state poll taxes in federal elections strove Monday to eke out at least a majority vote for a motion to limit debate on the controversial measure.

Senator Mead (D-NY) told a reporter that the success of future attempts to bring up the bill may depend in large measure on the number of votes its supporters can roll up behind a cloture petition which would confine further discussion to a maximum of 96 hours. Debate has been going on since last Tuesday.

Mead and others had little doubt that the cloture move would fail, since it must have the approval of two-thirds of those voting to become effective.

Five Killed, 11 Hurt In Truck-Train Crash

BOLIVAR, TENN.—(AP)—Five persons, including four Texans, were killed and 11 others, including nine Texans, were hurt as the result of a collision between the truck in which they were riding and a Gulf, Mobile & Ohio freight train six miles east of here.

Those in the truck were returning Sunday from a Bible training camp conducted by the Church of God at Cleveland, Tenn.

Hearing Set On New Airline Here

A hearing on the Wichita Falls Air Transport Company's application for an airline connecting Oklahoma City, Wichita Falls and Midland has been set for June 7 in Washington.

Fulcher Armstrong of Wichita Falls, manager of the company, was notified Saturday that his company's application will be the first to be considered with the opening of hearings next month. Shops and headquarters of the proposed airline would be in Wichita Falls. Stops are tentatively scheduled for mail and passengers at Oklahoma City, Chickasha, Okla., Lawton, Okla., Wichita Falls, Olney, Abilene, Sweetwater, Big Spring and Midland.

The line would connect with American Airline and Continental Air Lines at Midland, with Braniff in Wichita Falls, and with other air routes in Oklahoma City.

War Bullefin

LONDON—(AP)—The Germans, in their broadcasts speculating on Allied invasion moves, admitted Monday that their West Wall defenses might be penetrated after all when the blow comes.

STOCKHOLM—(AP)—Norwegian and Russian partisans have been landed in far northern Norway from Soviet submarines which slipped past German defenses through the fjord-dotted coastline, the Stockholm Tidningen said.

OTTAWA—(AP)—The Canadian frigate Valleyfield has been torpedoed and sunk while on escort duty in the North Atlantic, with five dead, 121 injured and 38 survivors, it was announced Monday.

CHUNGKING—(AP)—Field dispatches said Japanese troops, who broke into Lovang from the east, west and northwest, had been annihilated. The Chinese evidently were fighting hard to save the town from capture.

Blast the Nazis Felt

Explosions from mortars make a picture of spectacular brilliance in the Italian night as Canadian experts lay down a concentration of fire.

Russians Mass For Big Summer Drive

MOSCOW—(AP)—Russian armies are believed massing for a summer offensive surpassing any blow yet struck on the eastern front.

The spring lull which started in mid-April continued Monday and no fresh military dispatches were published from the front.

But there was multiplying signs of the coming push. Russian bombers, for instance, struck at the rail center of Brest Litovsk (in old Poland) starting 30 fires, and also attacked Nazi bases at Polotsk in White Russia and Narva in the Estonian republic.

Pravda reported that a new Yak fighter plane was going into mass production. Other plane and arms plants are working top speed, building up supplies for the offensive.

Recent visitors to several sections of the front said they saw intense activity, indicating the drive was fairly imminent. Details could not be published, but preparations were described as immense.

The Germans, meanwhile, asserted that on the Lower Dniestra their troops, including units recently evacuated from the Crimea, launched a vigorous attack on the river bend at Cloubucu-Rascaeti and "overran enemy positions." The German communique said Nazi forces reached the western bank of the river "in time to prevent all enemy counterattacks, and Soviet troops on the eastern bank were snatched by combined artillery fire and bombing."

The Dniestr action was dismissed by the Russians with the statement that "Hitlerites in all sectors were prevented from reaching our forward defense lines." About a battalion of Germans was declared slain, a supplementary Moscow communique said.

The Germans asserted also that through "an extraordinary operation" last remnants of the beaten Nazi and Romanian forces had been removed from the Crimea to the mainland.

Flow Of 40 BOPH Made By Texaco Discovery In Lea

By JAMES C. WATSON

The Texas Company No. 1 Baskin, Central Lea County, New Mexico, wildcat which is indicating discovery of a new field, has been flowing oil at the rate of 40 barrels per hour, while the operator has been attempting to kill it so pipe could be run to test the pay section now bottomed at 3,568 feet in sandy dolomite.

Several loads of water have been pumped in, but the well continued to kick out oil, and Monday morning it was indicated that likely the hole would have to be loaded with mud to get it under control so casing could be run and cemented.

Phillips Petroleum Company has filed application with the Railroad Commission to drill No. 1 Elnor, 25 miles south of Fort Stockton, in South-Central Pecos County, to 10,000 feet, starting at once.

Deep Test For Pecos

Location of the prospector is 2,095 feet from the west and 445 feet from the south lines of section 53, block D, G&S&P survey, and in the same section in which Stanley Thompson drilled a test to around 8,000 feet several years ago which had some oil shows.

Phillips No. 1 Pecos, Southeast Pecos County, is waiting for cement to set on a string of 5 1/2-inch casing set on bottom with 1,000 sacks. An unofficial report indicates that 15,278 feet of casing was run. Bottom of hole had previously been reported by the operator at 15,270 feet.

Outpost To Hobbs Discovery

Atlantic Refining Company No. 1 T. A. R. Company-Cordova (Tract 2), is to be one location slightly northeast of The Texas Company No. 1 Hobbs, new Devonian discovery in Southeast Crane County.

The Atlantic exploration will be 660 feet from the southwest and northwest lines of section 47, block 35, H&C survey. Drilling to 7,500 feet with rotary, it is scheduled to start at once. It is just over the Crane County line in Upton County.

Texaco No. 1 Hobbs, which is producing from perforations in the casing at 5,300-50 feet, was flowed 24 hours and made 204 barrels of oil, cut two-tenths of one per cent basic sediment. Testing was continuing.

Magnolia Petroleum Company No. 1 Butler, South Crane County, low-reef Ordovician exploration, had reached 4,822 feet in lime and was drilling ahead.

Magnolia No. 1-A Lamar, North-Central Pecos try for Ellenburger production, had progressed to 4,621 feet and was coring in lime. Some slight shale shows had been found (Continued on Page 6)

Toward Simpler Taxation

What the politicians fondly refer to as the voice of the people was very audible in that 358-to-0 vote for the simplified tax bill in the House the other day. It was the first unanimous vote on a tax measure in the oldest inhabitant's memory. Everybody from the rockbound coast of the United League Club to the sunny slopes of Hogan's Alley wanted simplification. They howled for it, and they got it.

So now everybody ought to be happy, with the possible exception of the editorial writers and cartoonists, who will have to find some other subject for comment and caricature in the week preceding March 15, 1945.

By that date, if the bill passes the Senate in its present form, the harried tax computer will have departed, to the number of some 30 millions. The maze of assorted nets and grosses, the skipping down to figure the Victory tax and flipping back to the surtax table—all this brain-racking business will be a memory. The Treasury will be doing the arithmetic for most of us.

There are one or two clouds in this rosy picture, however. The reason is that the tax laws remain fundamentally unchanged. The basis of previous complications is still there: the complications have simply been waived. Whether they are permanently eliminated will probably have to wait upon the results of the new standard-deduction feature.

This feature gives most taxpayers an average deduction of 10 per cent (but not over $500) for contributions, taxes, interest, and other deductions allowed at present. It seems unlikely that a majority of taxpayers with incomes subject to withholding could claim that much deduction under the current law. But they will all take credit under the new one.

If a person actually faces a loss under this standard-deduction setup, he has the option of filling out a form, listing his deductions and claiming up to 15 per cent of his adjusted gross income, which is generally gross income less business expenses. Most citizens would doubtless choose to fill out a return rather than pay money for the sake of simplicity.

All this may cost the Treasury a considerable sum of money. And if it does, we may be filling out tax forms again.

What might be simpler and fairer would be a lower tax rate with all but business-expense deductions eliminated. But in the meantime, let us be thankful for the not inconsiderable favor of the present simplifications. And let's hope it lasts.

Speaking Of Taxes

We are intrigued by the story of the man in New York whose return showed that he owed no tax, and who sent the state income tax bureau a money order for $00.00. Trying to fathom his reasoning, we have discarded timidity, practical joking and relief, and have concluded that here is a man of patriotism and impeccable civic conscience trying to express his regret that, in this year of decision, he has but one life to give to his country and $00.00 to his state treasury.

Possible Dilemma

The British government may be facing another dilemma, similar to the Anglo-Russian disagreement on Polish recognition, in the newly formed Hungarian Council headed by Count Michael Karolyi. Except for the council of German officers in Moscow, this is the only organized group of Axis or Axis-satellite nationals working for the Allied cause in an Allied capital.

It is likely that the Hungarian Council may be able to aid Britain with its program for overthrowing the present puppet government and encouraging the underground in local resistance, sabotage and co-operation with Marshal Tito's Partisans and other anti-Nazi forces near Hungary. But the council will need Britain's help. And in giving the help Britain will doubtless be strengthening the ties of Central Europe with Russia which the British government is balking in Poland's case and only belatedly recognized in Yugoslavia.

Count Karolyi was the first president of the Hungarian republic in 1919. A member of a famous, wealthy family, he early espoused Karl Marx's doctrines, fought capitalism; in the last war he also sought to break with Germany, negotiate a separate peace; some years later he was expelled from Italy for circulating Communist propaganda.

New Tune

The War Labor Board has disrupted James Caesar Petrillo's made-work-as-usual program by ordering striking members of his American Federation of Musicians back to work at their radio jobs in Chicago and Minneapolis.

It must be something new in Petrillo's musical experience to have someone else calling the tune. He's accustomed to doing that, putting on a great number of pipers to play it, and then taking a cut of the pipers' pay.

Barstow Bombardier Killed In Action

BARSTOW—The former Mildred Echols of Barstow has received word that her husband, Second Lt. Arthur R. Stover Jr., was killed in action April 21, in England.

Stover, known to friends as "Smookey," entered the Army Oct. 31, 1939, at which time he was attending the University of Nebraska, but being a member of the Nebraska National Guard he was called into the Army. After being in the infantry one year, he transferred to the Army Air Corps, taking his mechanic training at Chanute Field, Ill. He was then transferred to Leemore, Calif., where he received his sergeant rating. From Leemore he was transferred to the Pecos Army Air Field with the first group to arrive at Pecos. While at Pecos he received staff sergeant rating and was an instructor in the mechanic school.

He was then transferred to the cadets. During this time he had been awarded the American Defense Medal and Good Conduct Medal. He left Pecos for Santa Anna, Calif., where he took his pre-flight training. At Roswell Army Air Base at Roswell, N. M., he received his bombardier wings and his commission. He refused to be an instructor at Victorville, Calif., and chose combat duty, being assigned to a replacement training unit. He received his first phase of training at Mountain Home, Idaho.

During the delay enroute from Mountain Home, Idaho, to Casper, Wyo., he was married to Mildred Echols of Barstow, in Dallas, Texas. He left for combat Feb. 5, 1944, from Topeka, Kan.

Cotton Acreage May Be Cut; Farmers Fear Labor Shortage

The farm labor shortage in Midland County will be the cause of a reduction in the acreage planted to cotton this year, County Agent I. O. Sturkie predicted Monday.

If experienced agricultural workmen were available Sturkie said he could place from 25 to 50 year-around laborers on Midland County farms and ranches.

Farmers have said if it were necessary to reduce their plantings they would reduce cotton plantings rather than feed, as the feed situation in the county is becoming acute, the county agent said. Sturkie also said that unless some show-ers fell between now and July 1 the feed crop in the county would be extremely light.

Aircraft Carrier Attack On Truk Packed With All Elements Of Drama

By WILLIAM L. WORDEN
ABOARD A U. S. AIRCRAFT CARRIER IN THE CAROLINES—(Delayed)—(AP)—In the pre-dawn dark, with flurries of rain against the faces of men cursing the planes and pushing them, this carrier's arm struck at Truk, Japanese base in the Carolines.
Wind moaned around the cables of the ship as she lay with others of the task force within sight of the islands while they sent thousands of sorties over primary targets of shore installations.
There was fire—Blue and red and white flames from the exhausts.
There was hurry—Men running, dodging, whirling propellers that spin in the dark and slice through flesh like sharp knives.
There was, above all, noise—It rose like thunder in the cool night.
There was suspense—The moment when a guiding hand swings down and the bomber lurches forward, hangs over the edge of the deck and is air-borne.
There was beauty—A whirling pattern of aircraft lights circling in the dawn around columns of rain clouds, over black tops of waves.
There was doubt—Who will come back? Who won't?
There was revenge—"Remember, Joe went down last time. Drop one for him."
There was envy, too. "Those other carrier fighters say they got three of the first 15 planes."
Success?—There wasn't a thing left at all. Not a thing standing.
*** Dudley hit the reservoir and blew it too hell. *** That little island looks like it was all trees but there's a big fire going in the middle of it. You can see ammunition exploding in the flames. ***

The AA (anti-aircraft fire) is less and there isn't a decent sized ship left in the harbor. *** Airplanes on the ground are wrecked. They say there's still some in the air but they can't come in. *** The radio station went up in pieces. *** I couldn't find anything else so I strafed the town. ***
There was misfortune, too. "Somebody down. You can see him standing up in his rubber boat and waving." But relief came this time; a seaplane picked him up.

Kansas City Finds Governmental Reform Doesn't Need Dictator

By S. BURTON HEATH
NEA Staff Correspondent
KANSAS CITY, MO.—This city, which until recently had an unenviable reputation as one of the worst governed communities in the United States, is demonstrating that civic reform can be preserved without even a benevolent dictatorship.

Mayor John B. Gage, who took office in 1940, when the notorious Pendergast machine finally succumbed to the cancer of graft, has just begun his third term. With him was installed a new city council of eight members and, for the second successive term, that council has only one representative of the remains of the Pendergast organization.

In any objective quarter that you care to inquire, you will be told that the Gage or "reform" administration is doing a splendid job of honest, efficient government. Moreover, that administration is not centered upon one flamboyant leader as is, for example, the La Guardia reform administration in New York.

Works With Council
It is the traditional history of reform that its successes depend upon the appearance of a leader, who along with honesty, courage and efficiency, possesses a strong crowd appeal by which—if reform is to continue—the leader can pull his assistants into office on his coat tails.

The Gage administration has carefully avoided such a policy. Instead of subordinating the council, the mayor has worked with it. Instead of imposing his beneficent will upon the city, he has sought to improve constantly the machinery by which the people can express their own democratic will.

Some of his supporters worried about that, and, thinking to fight fire with fire, began a cautious attempt to build up a reform machine. First important signs of this appeared in the parks department. It was squelched quickly when Auditor Thomas J. Fadden investigated two or three persons found themselves out of jobs, and the council—whose members had started the movement—was induced to adopt a "Little Hatch Act" that put all city employees out of politics for good.

City Now Solvent
The merit system was a complete dead letter in Kansas City when Tom Pendergast started for the federal penitentiary. Now between 85 and 99 per cent of city employees are in the classified civil service. The city was, in fact, if not technically bankrupt, now its bonds are rated by financial houses as entitled to "a high grade classification."

Real estate assessments for tax purposes, which had been used to reward the faithful and to punish the politically uncautious, have been reduced by $29,500,000, or more than five per cent overall. Under the Pendergast regime the city raised the constitutional maximum of taxes—10 mills on the dollar to pay for operations—plus the cost of debt service. This rate, levied on the inflated valuations, was not enough. Regularly, as the end of the year approached, the city would find itself short of money and would cut salaries and even refrain from paying some employees. More than $6,000,000 of back salary claims were involved in suits still in process of adjudication.

Now, taxing only nine mills on the dollar (plus debt service needs) and levying on a smaller base, the city pays its bills on time and provides for the debt services.
Meanwhile, it has been necessary to raise wages in the poorer paid classifications because of the war. But this has been offset, and more, by a large reduction in personnel.

The Gage administration in its first six months got rid of about half of the 4100 persons it found on the payrolls, and replaced only enough to bring the total back to around 3200.

In telling about what has been done it is refreshing to one who has listened to many reformers to hear Mayor Gage say "I did this" and "we did that" and "the council did so and so," instead of "I did it" and "I did it" and "I made the council do it."

Old "Boss" Paroled
Jim Pendergast, nephew of the ex-boss, still is trying to revive the old machine. In Jackson County, where elections are held on the partisan basis, he has managed to retain some lucrative patronage posts. But in the city itself, where elections are non-partisan—candidates run with no party tags on their names—he can't seem to make a dent.

Tom Pendergast, the old boss, is back in town, on a parole that forbids him to mingle in politics in any way. Some time ago he asked to have those terms lifted. His petition to the court contained many good names—the presidents of two of the largest banks, the presidents of two major utilities, one of the most prominent real estate men in the city, several important bankers from "outside."

Veritas, the British military commentator, concludes that the manpower situation "clearly, indicates the inevitability of Germany's eventual collapse in the field." However, he believes the Nazis will make a supreme effort to throw back the invading Allies, "or at least to effect a stalemate in the west before the Russians get at their vitals on the other side."

THE WAR TODAY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

As we await the break of D-Day it's natural that one of the burning questions should be how long it will take the Allied war machine, after it has hit top speed, to grind out this final phase of the European war and administer the coup de grace to Hitler.

We are facing a terrific struggle. We should be foolish not to recognize that.

Having acknowledged this, it's legitimate to note that many observers incline to the theory that once the invading forces have overcome the terrible initial hazards and have established themselves, the Hitlerites will be about ready to accept the inevitable and surrender. This idea is based on the belief that the Nazis will quit short of allowing the fight to be carried onto German territory.

Speculation over the prospects of Nazi surrender would be dangerous if we didn't at the same time recognize the certainty that the invasion of Western Europe is going to produce one of the bloodiest battles of history. The only thing which will force a collapse of the enemy will be conviction that there's absolutely no hope of gaining more favorable terms by hanging on.

The Prussian militarists know that they're already beaten. They're making a long-shot gamble that by protracting the conflict they can weaken Allied determination and thereby secure better terms.

The Hitlerites are going to fight invasion with everything they have—and that represents tremendous striking power, although it's far from what it once was. And we shouldn't treat lightly the German claim that they have devastating secret weapons, for they may have.

Isn't Strong Enough
Hitler's army is generally figured to total about 3,000,000, which is a formidable force. However, the fact remains that the German reichswehr, big as it is, just isn't strong enough to cope with the Allied armies.

Despite Hitler's great strength, he no longer is able to defend adequately the entire perimeter of his European fortresses.

Veritas, the British military commentator, concludes that the manpower situation "clearly, indicates the inevitability of Germany's eventual collapse in the field." However, he believes the Nazis will make a supreme effort to throw back the invading Allies, "or at least to effect a stalemate in the west before the Russians get at their vitals on the other side."

New Style Pin-Up

You girls who've been worried by the hold glamor queens have taken on the men in uniform can cheer up. Six sergeants of a bomber crew in Italy have revolted against the traditional pin-ups and have adorned their tent with the picture of a girl who works to help them fight, one who, in their own words, is "a clean-cut American girl, helping the war effort." She is Marjorie Carling, a signalgraph tester on bank and climb gyro-pilots for bombers, manufactured at the Electric Auto-Lite Company in Toledo.

Her selection by the six airmen dates from the day when, lying in the muck at the front, they saw her photograph in a Toledo newspaper.

Stanton Flying Fort Pilot Awarded DFC

AN EIGHTH AAF BOMBER STATION, ENGLAND—Capt. Pat N. Howard, 25, pilot of the Eighth AAF Flying Fortress "Jerry Boy," has recently been decorated with the Distinguished Flying Cross for "extraordinary achievement" while participating in numerous bombing attacks on Nazi war-making targets in Germany and German-held territory.

The captain, whose home is Stanton, Texas, where his wife, the former Miss Elizabeth Rayford, also of Stanton, and 4-year old boy, Jerry, are now residing, has also been awarded the Air Medal with three Oak Leaf Clusters. He has been flying as squadron lead pilot and been selected for deputy group leader on a few bombing assaults.

Some of the targets that the captain has piloted his crew to are Berlin's ball bearing works, and also the electrical plant, the aircraft assembly plants at Augsburg, Brunswick and Bostock, and the industrial areas of Bremen, Munster and Emden.

WASHINGTON—Post-war outlook for the housefly is not good. These pests will die by the billions, the Department of Agriculture says, when the new DDT insecticide gets into the hands of farmers and housekeepers. So far, it all goes for military uses. Tests have shown that the new insecticide kills flies as long as 150 days after being sprayed on walls or ceilings.

THE SITUATION: You go to visit where there is a small child—and you wish to take him a present.

WRONG WAY: Walk in and hand the child some candy or a sack of cookies.

RIGHT WAY: Take the child a toy you are sure he cannot get hurt on—or if you take candy, ask his mother first—and not in front of the child—if he may have it. (It would be perfectly all right for the mother to say, "It was nice of you to bring it, and I'll just put it away and give it to him after his dinner"—if she doesn't want him to have it just then.)

Three Tricks To Alter Sagging Skirt

By EPSIE KINARD
NEA Staff Writer

If your new straight-line skirt buckles in and exposes a too-curved view, there's a simple lifting trick which will ease it past the bulge and make it set better on your figure. There is, in fact, a choice of three tricks, says Virginia Carter, director of R. H. Macy's Dressmaking Center. Any one will lift your skirt without affecting the hem-line.

First (and simplest), she says, is to take a tuck across the back of your skirt, put in parallel with the belt band and as close to it as you can sew. Make the tuck deepest in the center, and taper it out to nothing at each end. A second tuck, put in parallel to the first, is also a good trick, if your skirt needs more of a lift.

Second: Scoop out the back of your skirt in the shallowest kind of V. To do that, rip off belt band. Cut a straight vertical slit about three-fourths inch deep in the center back of skirt. Using the lowest point of the slash as the beginning point of your V, cut so as to slant the line out to the side seams of your skirt. When you put your belt back on, the size of your waistband won't be altered one bit but the back of your skirt will be lifted and eased past the curve just the degree that's needed.

Third (and best for a high-top skirt): Make a cross-dart—two diagonal darts, each about five inches long—which cross lengthwise at the strategic spot between waistband and hips where it's needed at the back of your skirt. This will take

TAKE AWAY THE LADY

FEAR XIX

"I WONDER what became of Azaraski," Link said in what was not very subtle evasion.

"He went to the shrine," said Courtright. "There is a little Japanese shrine in the woods near here. He told me he was going to walk over there while we were sight-seeing around the inn."

Link was feeling helpless, he realized. If he found Azaraski, what would he do? Break him in parts? He had been in a mood to do something like that when he first rushed out of the inn, and of course it would gain nothing.

"Guess I better not see him now," he muttered.

"Link!"

"Uh?"

"Quit evading. I was watching your face back there in the inn. Something hit you like a ton of bricks. You looked as if a buzzard had flown past."

Link asked, "You think Norma noticed I was upset?"

"She certainly did. How could anybody help seeing."

"Oh Lord," Link muttered. "As an actor, I am about as subtle as the law of gravity."

"Norma thought you were just sorry for her because she hadn't heard from her brother since he went to Singapore. So if you are stewing over that, you can stop it. But you had better tell me what hit you."

Link felt acutely conscious of Tilda Courtright's curiosity. It was a thing you couldn't ignore, that curiosity. He'd better tell her.

"Courtright, how well did you know Norma's brother?" he asked.

"RELIEF relaxed some of the tight muscles in her homely face as she saw he was going to tell her. "Kip," she said. "I saw Kip the same day his father saw him for the first time."

"Nice guy?"

"A lovely boy. A little older than you—how old are you?"

"Twenty-eight."

"About your age then," Courtright said. "He took after his father in a nice way. I mean, he didn't have some of the old man's devil. Big, about your height and heavier, very dark hair and snapping black eyes, but rather homely."

"He didn't resemble Norma, then?"

Courtright shook her head. "Oh no, not the slightest. Norma takes after her mother. And all I can say about that is that it was darn lucky for her. If she looked like her father, she would be six feet tall, homely as a hippopotamus, and below at people."

Link, without half trying, was as acutely aware of Norma's slight loveliness as if she had been there. It gave him a sensation he could feel to his toes.

"That's what threw me, he confessed. "No family resemblance."

Suddenly Tilda Courtright was gripping Link's arm. "Link, do you know something about her brother Kip?"

"Did Kip call Norma by the nickname of 'Syantha'?"

"Syantha is Norma's middle name. Kip always called her that because she never tells anyone herself that is her middle name. Link! You knew Kip Greer?"

FEELING most uncomfortable, Link plucked a blade of grass and started to grip it between his thumbs and make it whistle by blowing. He remembered how he'd almost done the same thing when telling Norma how Kip, his pilot, had died in his arms after their bomber had been shot down. He dropped the grass-blade, shocked.

"I feel so stupid, Courtright," he said. "I didn't know Kip was Norma's brother. In the army, it's this way: You know a fellow by what you hear him called. No one hardly ever called Kip anything but Kip. I knew his name was Kipman James Greer, but it was completely in the back of my mind."

He glanced at Courtright and saw that she was staring at him worldlessly, and his uncomfortable feeling increased.

"Names are nothing to me, anyway. It's poor business for a doctor. I hear names and forget them, and I never think of people in the terms of names. No one ever called Kip anything but Kip. And he called her Syantha, which misled me, too."

He braced himself to finish it up. "Kip is dead. Died in my arms. He was the pilot of the bombing plane in which I was red-tailed."

Not looking at Tilda Courtright, he steeled himself for some outburst of emotion from her. He wished that he had not told her. He wished that he had a handkerchief, for her tears, but he had none. The Japs did not let their prisoners have such things as handkerchiefs.

At last he lifted his eyes to Courtright's face. And he was shocked at what he saw. Grief was on the old woman's face. But there was more. Fear. Fear in the drawn wideness of her eyes and in the pulled shape of her mouth.

Surely news of Kip Greer's death alone would not make her look that way. There must be more. Something else.

Before he could ask her what it was, she spoke. "You are in an awful predicament. You and Norma both," she said. "Don't tell anybody about this, Link."

She whirled. She walked away rapidly.

He stared after her, extremely puzzled, and very uneasy.

COLORADO SPRINGS, COLO.—(AP)—A tall man in navy blue with shining buttons and a glittering insignia on his cap came walking around the corner. The WAC private from Camp Carson swiftly saluted. The uniformed man was a city policeman.

Public Service

GREENSBORO, N. C.—(AP)—When a soldier and his wife climbed into the parked police cruiser and he said, "Bus terminal, please," the cop at the wheel entered into the spirit of the occasion and drove them there.

As they got out the woman noticed the lettering on the side of the car and exploded to her spouse. "You dumb numbskull! Can't you tell a police car from a taxicab?"

Allied Newsman Finds Large Areas Of Yugoslavia Free Of Germans

(Editors Note: The following story concerning Marshal Josip Broz, Yugoslav Partisan leader, are the result of a Cairo military headquarters arrangement where-by Stoyan Prichichevich, American correspondent of Time and Life magazines, and John Talbot of the British news agency Reuters, were chosen by lot to make a trip into Yugoslavia. Chief Petty Officer G. E. Fowler of the U. S. Navy, formerly a Los Angeles cameraman, and Sgt. Max Slade of the British Army film photographic unit, also made the trip as photographers. An interview with Tito obtained by The Associated Press, which submitted written questions and received his personally-written replies, has been blocked by censors of Gen. Sir Henry Maitland Wilson's Allied Mediterranean command since its submission on April 30. This decision was made despite Wilson's assurance last January, when he took over that command, that he did not intend to impose political censorship.)

By STOYAN PRIBICHEVICH
Representing the Combined American and British Press
SOMEWHERE IN YUGOSLAVIA —(Delayed)—A few weeks ago a large Allied official in the Mediterranean zone expressed doubts as to whether certain territories of Yugoslavia could be called "liberated" in the strictest sense of the word. Well, I entered the Partisan territory safely 10 miles behind the fighting line. I traveled 25 miles on a Partisan railroad. I passed Partisan patrols along the road. I watched a procession of two dozen of German Ustachi and Chetnik prisoners and I visited the last session of the anti-Fascist Youth Congress. All in Three Hours
All this in three hours. This was liberated enough for me. Upon my arrival in Yugoslavia on a vast mountain field under a starry sky I met Maj. Randolph Churchill (son of the British Prime Minister), a number of Partisan officers and soldiers and groups of peasant men and women with ox carts to carry my luggage. A captured German "people's car" then took me and my British colleague, John Talbot, and Gen. Svetozar Zujewich, the black, a member of Tito's (Marshal Josip Broz) supreme staff, for a ride through the night. Behind us a town had been bombed the previous morning. The automobile soon surged uphill along a fantastic serpentine route through the wild Bosnian countryside where a unit of the Prince Eugen elite guards had been annihilated by the Partisans a little over a year. Soldiers Salute
For 12 years I hadn't seen my old country and now I inhaled lungful of its air, watching the breath-taking scenery. Peasants held the oxen of their carts by the horns until we passed and patrols of Partisan soldiers in grey-green uniforms and with sub-machine guns on their backs saluted and shouted "Zdravo" (hello). All traffic in the Partisan country is by night to elude the German planes. Patches of snow and burned peasant huts showed on clearings and in a savagely broken piece of landscape I spied a locomotive puffing and dragging a blacked-out train. Girl Guards Prisoners
In the moonlight track of a forest we overtook a procession of gloomy, bedraggled men in various foreign uniforms, unshaved and unarmed. They were Germans, Ustashi and Chetnik prisoners with Partisan guards in front. In the rear a partisan girl, a rifle across her shoulders, walked with the guards and sang in the chilly night. The automobile descended into a town and stopped short before a blacked-out building. Talbot and I entered an illuminated huge hall decorated with a Partisan, British, American and Russian flags and packed with over 800 uniformed young men and girls. Tremendous applause burst forth, mingled with the shout of "Savez! Savez! Savez! (Alliance! Alliance! Alliance!)"

Shook Tito's Hand
We proceeded to the front row facing the speaker of the Second Anti-Fascist Youth Congress of Yugoslavia. From a chair in the middle covered with a colorful Bosnian rug arose Marshal Tito and shook hands with us in a storm of applause and shouting. Only the golden laurel on his lapels and cuffs indicated the supreme commander of the National Liberation Army of Yugoslavia. Talbot sat on the left and I on the right of Tito to watch the proceedings. The more than 800 delegates, almost half of them fighting young men and women, represented a youth organization of over 500,000 registered members. This is the spine of Tito's army, 75 per cent of it no more than 25 years old. Speeches Are Long
There were long speeches and longer resolutions but all the faces were serious. They took an oath to Tito pledging their lives and their honor in the struggle for liberation and they meant it. Many of the delegates were veteran fighters. Many had traveled for weeks on foot to attend the congress. Some had forded the rivers and fought their way through enemy lines. Some had left dead comrades behind. They sang and they applauded the names of Churchill, Roosevelt and Stalin, they shouted against "the traitors," not mentioning any names, and they cried there would be no return to the old state of things.

Some Gift Packages Are Declared Illegal

A ruling of the Office of Price Administration Monday said the sale of gift packages, combining scarce or badly wanted items with unwanted items, forcing a customer to purchase the unwanted items to get the wanted item, is a violation of the law. The ruling was received by Addison Wadley, chairman of the price panel of the Midland County War Price and Rationing Board. He explained that a combination of items for gift packages is legal if each item in the combination also offered for sale individually and there is no extra charge made for combining the items.

PHILADELPHIA.—(AP)—A new welded stainless steel cargo plane, the Conestoga, is in full production at the Edward G. Budd Manufacturing Company plant, the Navy announced Monday.

The two-engine, 68-foot aircraft with an upswep after-body giving it the appearance of a flying whale, is the first plane in which welded stainless steel has been used to a large extent, the Navy said.

Doors on opposite sides of the fuselage permit launching of paratroops and supplies simultaneously from both sides in contrast to conventional one-door transports.

Huge Cargo Space The cargo compartment, 25 feet long, eight feet wide and eight feet high, is made possible by a unique manner of attaching the wing to the fuselage without passing the wing through the fuselage in the customary fashion.

The ship is capable of carrying 10,400 pounds over a range of 600 miles, but its maximum range can be increased to 3,500 miles with auxiliary fuel tanks.

Two 710-horsepower engines give it a cruising speed of 165 miles per hour. Total weight, fully loaded is 33,000 pounds.

The Conestoga can be converted to troop transport or ambulance use, and an ambulance and jeep both can be carried inside.

Bucky Walters Faces Only 28 Men In Winning One-Hit Ball Game

By TED MEIER Bucky Walters, star righthander for the Cincinnati Reds, Sunday just missed becoming the first pitcher in 22 years to hurl a perfect game in the major leagues. He pitched to only 28 batters.

Working the first game of a twin bill against the Boston Braves at Crosley Field, Walters retired the first 23 men to face him. Then, fifth two out in the eighth, Conny Ryan, Braves second sacker, singled over third base. He was the only Boston player to get on base.

It was the nearest to a perfect game in the majors since Charley Robertson, of the Chicago White Sox, turned the trick against Detroit on April 30, 1922.

Walters won his one-hitter, 4 to 0, for his fifth straight win, but it was the nearest to a perfect game in the majors since Charley Robertson, of the Chicago White Sox, turned the trick against Detroit on April 30, 1922.

Sheep Shearing In County Running Ahead Of Schedule Sheep shearing in the county is running ahead of schedule this year, County Agent I. O. Sturkie said Monday.

Many ranchmen are shearing earlier than usual this year because of fear that if they wait they would not be able to secure labor, Sturkie said.

The wool crop is lighter this year than normal in the county, Sturkie attributed this condition to the dry season of last year, which caused the sheep to winter hard; the high, dry winds in the spring, and early shearing.

Ranchmen are paying from 21 to 26 cents a head for shearing.

Eye-Pipers

By CARL HUBBELL Famous Pitcher

Baseball has given me many thrills, of course — striking out Ruth, Gehrig, Foxx, Simmons and Cronin in a row in the All-Star game of 1934, for example — but starting a double play to clinch a no-hit game first quickened my pulse in sports.

It took place May 8, 1929, my first full season with the Giants. The game was played at the Polo Grounds, the score was 11-0 in our favor as the Pirates went to bat in the ninth.

Harry Riconda, pinch-hitting for Ray Kremer, whaled a drive at Chick Fullis in left field. Fullis got both hands on the ball, but dropped it. Sparky Adams dribbled a grounder at shortstop Travis Jackson, who fumbled in his eagerness to start a double play.

Two errors, two on and nobody coming up by the Waner brothers, Little Poison bit for a third strike. Then came the play.

Big Poison sizzled a grass-cutter between the box and first base. I scooped up the ball, whirled, shot it to Stony Jackson, covering second, and he riled it to Bill Terry for the double killing—and I had pitched a no-hit game.

Asphalt Pouring On Airport Road Delayed Pouring of asphalt on the new road leading to Midland Airport No. 2 has been delayed because a burning truck damaged the distributor needed to put down the asphalt, S. C. Dougherty, senior resident engineer for the State Highway Department, said Monday.

The delay is only temporary and work is expected to begin on putting down the asphalt sometime this week, the engineer said.

Meanwhile, motorists are asked not to use the new road as traffic will damage the base. Those who must travel over the road are asked to drive on the shoulders and use only the designated crossings.

Suspended Priest Fails To Appear At Four Masses

SPRINGFIELD, MASS.—(AP)—The Rev. Stanislaus Orlemanski, for 22 years pastor of Our Lady of the Rosary Church, remained in seclusion Monday, apparently reconciled to the bishop's suspension which greeted him on his return home from a flying "mission to Moscow."

Indication he had accepted the suspension order imposed by Bishop Thomas M. O'Leary came Sunday when the 54-year-old Polish-American priest failed to appear at four masses.

Bishop O'Leary imposed the canonical penalties after Father Orlemanski failed to obtain permission to leave his church for the trip to Moscow and a conference with Russian Premier Josef Stalin. He was ordered to go to a monastery for an indefinite period and was stripped of his priestly privileges for the interim.

The Rev. George A. Shea, chancellor of the Roman Catholic diocese of Springfield, disclosed that Bishop O'Leary had received a personal letter from Father Orlemanski and added:

"It would be fair to assume that he said that Father Orlemanski acquiesces to the bishop's orders."

Mr. Shea said the terms of the punishment forbade the Polish-American pastor to say mass, administer any of the sacraments or to take part in any of the public functions of the church.
