Eleventh Annual Midland Rodeo June 7-8-9-10 To Provide Spills And Thrills

For the eleventh time, it is Rodeo Week in Midland, and the thousands upon thousands of rodeo fans in West Texas are looking forward to the five performances of the World Championship Rodeo Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday. The performances will start at 9 p.m., week days, and at 2:30 and 9:30 p.m. Sunday.

Water wagons will start running Monday morning getting the grounds in condition for the big show of West Texas, Roy Parks, president of Midland Fair, Inc. said Saturday. The grounds will be wet sufficiently so there will be very little dust at the performances.

A new feature is being added to the show this year. Wild Brahma calves will be used in the calf-roping events, John Dublin, a member of the rodeo committee, announced.

"Use of wild Brahma calves for the roping events here is something new," Dublin said. "The ropers will have to be more skillful than ever."

All stock for the show has arrived and more than 200 head have been unloaded, Dublin reported. The shipments include some of the worst outlaws of the entire United States and Canada.

Everett Colborn, owner of the stock, made a trip to Canada recently to purchase outlaw horses to add to his herd of rodeo animals. He also made a tour of South Texas ranches inspecting Brahma steers and selected the wildest he could find. The stock will be fresh for the Midland show and will give the rodeo performers a battle,

The bulldogging steers were obtained in Mexico. Colborn obtained the Mexican steers because Mexican ranchers breed herds for bullfighters and the steers are Colborn is scheduled to arrive in Midland Sunday to begin supervising details in connection with staging the five performances.

Tickets for the rodeo will be on sale at the Chamber of Commerce Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons. Days of the show they will be on sale in the lobby of the Scharbauer Hotel, and on sale at the grounds during the performances.

Hotel reservations indicate the performers will begin arriving in large numbers Sunday.

Members of the rodeo committee again urged all Midland citizens who possibly can spare a bedroom for one or more nights of the rodeo to list them with the Chamber of Commerce to take care of visitors.

The 1945 rodeo season will open officially at 5 p.m. Thursday when the parade of cowboys, cowgirls, members of the Midland Sheriff's Posse and other riders leave the Midland High School to ride through the business section, led by the Midland Army Air Field band, The band is taking part in the event to help the mighty Seventh War Loan campaign.

The social highlight of the week will be the dance for the cowgirl sponsors in the Crystal ballroom of the Scharbauer Hotel sponsored by the Midland Junior Chamber of Commerce.

End Of The Honeymoon?

There is some reason to fear that our ideological honeymoon with Russia may be over. now that the war in Europe is won. And the reason for that fear comes not directly from Moscow, but from a one-sided literary spat between parachuted to earth, has not been Jacques Duclos, editor of the French magazine Cahiers du identified. Communisme, and Earl Browder, head of the American Communist Political Association and editor of the Daily Chinese Smash

Duclos recently wrote a lengthy attack on Browder's policy of co-operation with this government, his wartime toleration of private enterprise, his condemnation of war-time strikes, espousal of national unity, and other back-Central China after smashing enetoleration of private enterprise, his condemnation of warslidings from Marxism which the Duclos article labeled my fortifications on the town's "false concepts" and "erroneous conclusions."

The New York World-Telegram published excernts from the article in translation and annarently forced the Daily Worker into printing the full Duclos text together NAVY FLIER KILLED with an introduction by Browder,

It was this introduction that was disturbing. Browder didn't even put on the gloves, let alone fight back. Rather when his training plane spun in and crashed on the runway of the he was meek as Moses.

He said the article demands "our respectful consideration." He spoke of formulating "a clear perspective for the coming period of new storms" along lines laid down by Duclos. He stated. "It has been clear at all times that the can Red Cross announced Saturday end of the war in Europe would require a fundamental re- it had been notified by the Army view of all problems of American Marxists.'

All of which seems rather ominous. It wouldn't seem so to care for sick and wounded soldiers if this were just a dispute between two non-Russian Communist leaders. But if past history is a criterion, Duclos' attack and Browder's swift retreat are part of a policy originating in Moscow.

We devoutly hope that this assumption is wrong. American-Soviet friendship is indenspensable to world peace. Overcoming Difficulties That Lead to Divorce

MARRIAGE is never finished. The lesson is never learned. The effort is never at an end. Marriage, like life, is a matter of solving the little things. The big ones generally take care of themselves. It is a matter of surrendering small personal prefer-

At luncheon, a friend of mine was speaking about his summer vacation.

"Where did you go?" I asked. "To the shore, as usual."

"But I thought you hated the "I do," he admitted, "but my wife loves it. All winter long she does the things I want to do, goes to the places I like, sees the people I prefer. It seems only fair that I should give up something for her in the summer." It is a curious paradox that today, in some ways, wide social developments are being formulated, outstripping progress in personal development. We are learning step by step (taking the lessons of the Depression and of the Second World War to heart) that individual rights must yield place at times to group rights, and that the result is not an end to freedom, it is merely a wider aplication of the term.

The same thing holds true of narriage. A tenacious holding onto individual rights leads to separation; a judicious yielding of personal rights and tastes and references leads to union.

Many divorces, I am convinced, ome about because people decide o go their own way—not because hey are not fond of one another, out because they are so eager for freedom. "I'll go my way and you go yours." It sounds like a practical idea. But it will not work. People grow together only by learning to fuse their interests. they keep their interests far apart, they are bound to grow far apart and to find. at length, that they have nothing in common at

So many times, the life—and her husband—for granted. She becomes sloppy, uninterested. and uninteresting. Her husband, meanwhile, either forges ahead or falls behind. He cannot stay in the same place. If he is going ahead, he is developing, competing with other men, his interests are keen and varied. At his side are women working in business, alert. well-groomed. and making him feel that he is impor-

To go badly dressed, careless, not caring what he has been doing, not trying to understand, gives the other woman all the breaks.

The woman, of course always the one at fault. The husband, too, begins to take things for granted. He who was so eager to appear at his best before the girl he wanted to marry, forgets to ask her to go places. After all, he has given her a home, hasn't he? He forgets to pay her little compliments, to notice how she looks. Small wonder if she loses interest in her appearance.

It is not easy, in the intimacy of daily life, to keep attractive. Many marriages flounder into sordid routine because no effort is made to keep one's less a tractive aspects hidden. A watern who flaunts a cold-creamed face, hair curlers, and a chin strap may look attractive in public, but she has destroyed romance in her own home, where it is more important. This is one reason why each individual should be able to have privacy in his own home.

Spiritual privacy, by the way, is as essential as physical privacy. Divorce is a problem which cannot be evaded in any discussion of marriage, but divorce itself can often be evaded—as I have learned in many years of work-ing out these matters with unhappy couples-by a clear understanding of the difficulties and mutual good will in attempting to overcome them.

Court Martial Powers May Be Curbed

WASHINGTON-(P)-A move to cut deeply into the Army's courtpowers over peacetime trainees, conscripted under pro-posed universal military training egislation, is being pushed by Representative Kilday (D-Texas). Just how far he proposed to go in curbing the military's powers in taking punitive action against its wn personnel, Kilday was uncertain when he gave his views at committee meeting.

But he indicated that he favored removal of courtmartial powers in peacetime except in cases involving minor infractions of regulations.

Farm Workers Face Draft Unless They Supply Information

Draft registrants of the ages 18 through 33 years who have been deferred as essential workers in agriculture, will be reclassified unless they furnish the Selective Service Board with required information,

A copy of the regulations and a form for the registrant to fill out has been mailed each registrant, officials said, but most registrants ar not returning the completed forms. Many of the forms are returned incomplete. Registrants who are in doubt as to how to complete th forms can obtain help at the office of the county agricultural agent.

Registrants affected who did not receive copies of the regulations and the forms can obtain them at the office of the Selective Service Board. Officials emphasized the information must be given the Selective Service Board immediately if registrants are not to be reclassified.

Band Instruction Will Start Monday

The summer band school will ge underway at 8 a.m. Monday at the high school, with F. C. Gambill as instructor. Citizens who desire to learn to play a band instrument, but have been unable to purchase one may use some instruments owned by the High School. The instruments include two BBb bass horns, one bassoon, one Bb tenor saxophone, one oboe, six drums and a baritone.

The schedule opens each day with a class for cornet beginners at 8 The first rehearsal of the Midland

Fred Barrett Buys Another Big Ranch

SAN ANGELO -(P)- Fred Barrett of Del Rio, with extensive ranching interests in West Texas and New Mexico, added 101,000 acres to his holdings Saturday when he purchased D Ranch in Culberson County from Joe Sanger and 52,000 acres of the T-P lease. Barrett also operates ranches at Comstock, Marathon and in Val Verde County, and a 60-section place at Carizozo, N. M. He also purchased 600 three-yearold whiteface cows with 85 per cent of the calf crop from Sanger and the Neals, and 140 four, five and six-year-old Hereford cows with calves at their side from Jack Canning of Eden.

Hotel Asked For Baths-Not Rooms

A. C. Hefner, manager of the Scharbauer Hotel, began receiving requests for unusual reservations Saturday nigh.t

"We notice you advertise 250 rooms with 250 baths," the callersin said. "We don't care about the rooms. All we want are the baths."
"Surely," Hefner said, "But bring your own water," he added.

The calls followed a break in the main water line leading to the city

Helpful Hint In Home Canning

A helpful hint in home canning of fruits was offered by Mrs. Net-tie B. Messick, county home demonstration agent, when she suggested the use of vitamin C to cut down discoloration of the fruits.

Fruits such as peaches, pears pineapple and plums retain their natural color and flavor when tablets of vitamin C (ascorbic acid) are used in canning, Mrs. Messick

Home canned fruits often darken Unite Into One Group in the top of the jar and sometimes the darkness extends down several inches. The ascorbine acid tablet acts against oxygen to prevent the discoloration, as well as loss of flavor when the fruit comes in contact with air.

Ascorbine acid tablets are easy to use, Mrs. Messick explains. They are put into the jar before it is filled with fruit. One and onefourth tablets of 100 millograms potency is recommended for each pint of fruit. More or less tablets may be used according to the pot-

Three Migrations Going On Inside Conquered Germany

By HAL BOYLE WITH AMERICAN TROOPS EN ROUTE BACK TO PARIS -(AP)-Normal life behind what was the front bears the appearance of complete unreality to troops and Allied prisoners returning from combat

There are at least three separate migrations going on inside Germany. Troops are being reshuffled to meet a new situation. Released French, Dutch and Belgian prisoners are trekking alone down the readways, going home under their own footpower. But by far the largest number of highway pilgrims are Germans themselves—German men, women and children who survived the war and who are looking for some quiet harbor in which to try to survive the fresh economic ordeals of peace. Some are returning to homes they fled when American troops sped eastward from the Rhine. Others-strangers in their own land -are fleeing from homes broken by a giant surge of Russian forces

It gives you a strange and indefinable feeling to see those long columns of German refugees. There no sense of exhultation or victory in watching women, children and old people—homeless, helpless and frightened — pushing decrepit Bus For Persons On carts and baby buggies along dusty

Austin Mexican Has Trouble Getting Citizenship Papers

By JACK RUTLEDGE
Associated Press Staff
A Mexican living in Austin is having trouble getting his citizenship papers. But he's a good American. Genaro H. Galarza says he works hard and has applied twice for his papers but failed each time because "they say theengs . . . I cannot say them back." He hasn't learned to speak very good English.

He and his wife operate a small grocery store and the walls are plastered with war bonds. It's a small store, and reevnue can't be great But the bonds total close to $2,000. Also, they proudly sent two sons to service—Cpl. Genaro H. Galarza Jr., a radio mechanic in France, and Asuncion Galarza, fireman firs class, somewhere in the Pacific. Their pictures appeared in the

Austin American tatesman. The paper said:
"They may not be able to sing the Star Spangled Banner in English-but it is engraved in their hearts.

Good Will Agent
A good will agent is Mr. Luis L Duplan, wife of the counsul of Mexico. She's a cultry Carmen with flashing black eyes and a rose in her hair.

And she's a Texas gal from Amarillo! Although she's a colorful Latin type, and a big help to her popular consul husband, she candidly says she grew up in small and middle-sized Texas towns, finally got a job as pianist in a dancing school in Houston, there met 'he Honorable Luis L. Duplan.

Mrs. Duplan says their marriage is a practical experiment in the good neighbor policy and is succeeding. She says both make adjustments, concession and compromises when their outlooks differ.

Duplan has lived in the U.S. 15 years, understands Texans. Mrs. Duplan is quickly learning Mexican customs, is taking out Mexican citizenshin
