Irate Poles May Put Case Before World

By The Associated Press LONDON —(AP)—Indignant over Big Three plans for the future of Poland, members of the Polish government-in-exile were reported planning Thursday to place their case before the world, even as Moscow announced the arrival of Warsaw delegates for the conference whose aim will be to form a Polish government of national unity.

The London Poles apparently were clinging to the hope that the Moscow conference, opening Friday, would bog down over the difficult problems that lie ahead of the delegates. Among these problems is the matter of the Polish army, many of whose leaders profess loyalty to the exiled government.

Cabinet May Meet An emergency cabinet session of the London Polish government was expected Thursday.

One spokesman for the London group suggested that his exiled government had been deserted outright by Britain and the United States. In return for Russia's relaxation of her veto demands at San Francisco.

The London exiles steadfastly refused to recognize the authority of the Big Three powers to supervise the formation of a new provisional government.

The London group was outwardly indignant because it had not been consulted by the Big Three about plans for the conference.

SO&GC 1 Edwards Swabs And Flows Oil For 7 1/2 Hours

By JAMES C. WATSON Oil Editor

Stanford Oil & Gas Company No. 1 Edwards, Southwest Cochran County discovery for a new San Andres-Permian producing area, in section 13, block 1, ps1 survey, ten miles west of the Slaughter field, swabbed 66 barrels of oil in six hours with an average shakeout of two per cent basic sediment and no fresh or free water.

The well then kicked-off and flowed to pits for one and one-half hours and died. Amount of oil produced during the flow was not estimated.

At last report the project was shut in to pressure up and operator is expected to follow with another effort to make the well flow consistently. Plugged-back total depth is at 5,085.5 feet.

Hunt Oil Company No. 1 Foust, East Lamb County wildcat in section 43, block B-1, Thompson survey, 11 miles east of Littlefield, was making hole under 5,965 feet in brown dolomite.

The project reported slight oil stains in drilling samples from about 5,959 feet. The section is said by informed operators to probably be top zone of the horizon which is producing to the south in the two wells in the Anton field—that is generally classed as similar to the upper part of the Fullerton lower Clear Fork.

Sinclair Prairie Oil Company No. 1 Williamson, Northwest Ector County exploration in section 40, block 45, TP survey, T-1-S, three miles north and slightly west of the initial Devonian producer in the TXL field, was drilling below 8,037 feet in Devonian chert.

Only Slight Shows A one hour and 30-minute drill-stem test was taken at 7,935-8,029 feet. There was a steady blow of air throughout and recovery was 300 feet of drilling fluid. Unofficial sources reveal there were slight oil and gas signs in the mud.

Continental Oil Company No. 1-D Settles, South Howard County Pennsylvania exploration in section 133, block 29, W&NW survey, swabbed 16 hours and recovered 140 barrels of fluid. The returns were cut with an average of 20 per cent water and drilling mud. The zone being tested is at 8,910-9,140 feet, through perforations in 7-inch casing. Operator is continuing to swab to clean out and test.

G. E. Day No. 1 McBurnett, Schleicher County prospector in section 11, block L, GH&SA survey, is rigging up a cable tool unit to test for water.

Operator plans to set a bridging plug at about 5,250 feet and perforate casing above to determine if water which appeared in tests of three zones below that level is (Continued on page 6)

Germans Had Large Quantity Of Poison Gas

By GEORGE TUCKER WIESBADEN, GERMANY—(AP)—

Gen. Jacob L. Devers said that although the Germans had enormous quantities of a new type of poison gas known as "Green Ring III," there was no evidence to show they ever intended to use gas as an offensive weapon.

Devers, who commanded the Sixth Army Group on the Western Front, said that if Hitler ever had seriously contemplated use of gas, he was restrained by the German general staff.

"Even in Africa we carried thousands of tons of anti-gas protective equipment, but I finally stopped the boys from transporting it to Italy and told them to concentrate on H. E. (high explosives) and let the excess baggage go," Devers said. "I told them to get all the H. E. across they could. That's the thing. Poison gas is never decisive, and the German general staff knew it, even if Hitler didn't."

One chemical warfare expert said there were two occasions when the Germans could have used gas with devastating effect. One was on D-Day, when masses of men were concentrated on the Normandy beaches; the other at the Remagen bridgehead across the Rhine, when five full American Infantry Divisions were crammed into a single small area.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Secretary of War Stimson said Thursday the Third and Seventh Armies were selected as the American Army's occupation forces in Germany rather than the 15th Army.

He did not, however, disclose the names of the 15th Army, which until recently has been viewed as the probable occupation outfit.

Gen. George S. Patton Jr., commander of the Third, will return to his command in Europe.

Churchill Says Relations Among Big Three Improve

LONDON —(AP)— Prime Minister Churchill told Commons Thursday that relations among Great Britain, the United States and Russia had improved and that there was no real basis for misunderstanding with France over Syria.

British-Russian relations particularly have "undergone a marked improvement in the last week or so" with the breaking of the deadlock over Poland, Churchill said.

He said Gen. De Gaulle was sending former Premier Edouard Herriot to London to adjudicate differences between the countries.

'New Deal' Is Proposed For India

LONDON—(AP)—The British government, in a sweeping "new deal" for India, proposed Thursday a new executive council which would be almost entirely Indian and, in the words of Viceroy Lord Wavell, "represent a definite advance on the road to self-government."

At the same time that the Secretary of State for India, L. S. Amery, unfolded the statement of policy to Parliament, Lord Wavell announced in a radio broadcast from New Delhi that orders had been given for the release of members of the working committee of the Indian All-Congress Party still in detention.

Mohandas K. Gandhi, spiritual leader of the party, was released May 5, 1944, after 21 months' detention.

Task For Indian People The British government's white paper emphasized that its main position remained as it was—that the "working out of India's constitutional system is a task which can only be carried through by the Indian people themselves."

"But they (the British government) are willing to make possible some step forward during the interim period if the leaders of the principal Indian parties are prepared to agree to their suggestions and to cooperate in the successful conclusion of the war against Japan as well as the reconstruction of India which must follow the final victory."

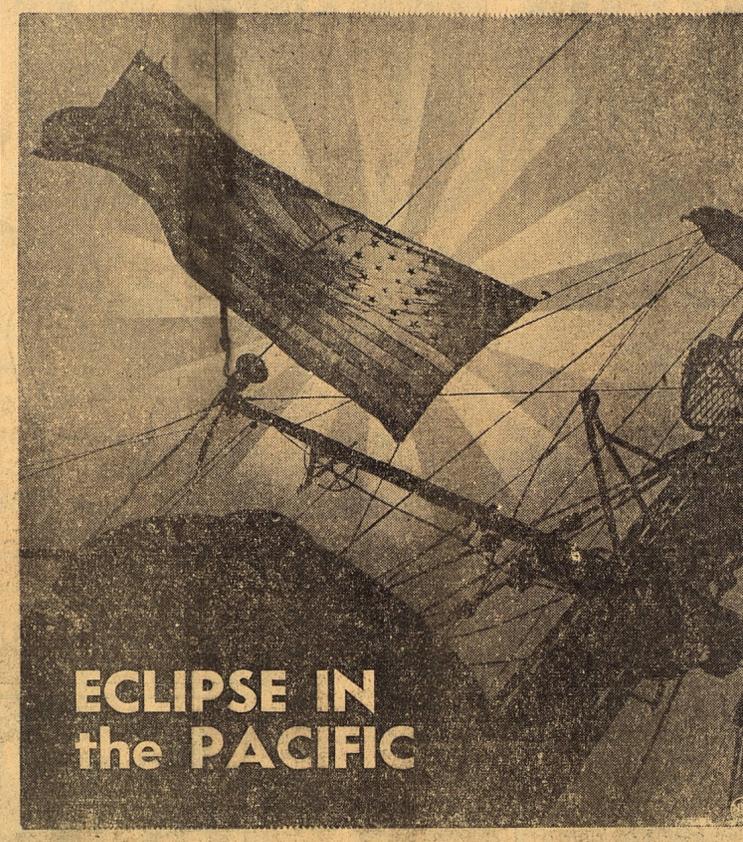

"This is not an attempt to impose a constitutional settlement," Wavell explained in his broadcast. "I propose with full support of His Majesty's government to invite the Indian leaders to take counsel with me with a view to formation of a new executive council more representative of organized political opinion."

War At Sea Cost America 1,554 Merchant Ships

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The war at sea cost, this country, 1,554 merchant ships up to V-E Day and 5,579 crewmen dead or missing. The Army lost 3,804 soldiers drowned in troop movements against Italy and Germany.

Against these sobering figures, however, Americans were told Thursday that their shipbuilders sent more than seven tons of cargo shipping down the ways for every ton lost to the Axis.

And the Army's safety record for its men was described officially as nearly twice as good as that of the first World War.

The Maritime Commission said the 1,554 vessels lost flying the United States flag aggregated 6,277,077 deadweight tons. They fell prey to submarines, enemy mines or planes and wartime navigation hazards from Sept. 1, 1939, to last May 8.

Commission Chairman Emory S. Land did not minimize the severity of the Axis toll, saying the sinkings were accompanied by "heavy loss of life," he added that the casualty toll was raised to 6,066 May 1 by 487 seamen and officers listed as prisoners of war.

Simultaneously Wednesday night the Navy and the British Admiralty released figures showing that a total of 4,770 Allied and neutral merchant ships were lost by direct enemy action.

Small Nations Seek Right To Quit League

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER SAN FRANCISCO —(AP)—

The struggle of small nations to protect themselves against the big power control of a world league finally boiled down Thursday to one demand—the right to withdraw from the organization whenever they wish.

Indications are that this demand will be granted, although with some strings attached. The big powers, having triumphed on the veto issue, are agreeable provided they now get two other things they want:

1. A restriction that the charter being drawn up at the United Nations Conference cannot be amended except on complete agreement of the United States, Britain, Russia, France and China.

2. A punishment clause under which nations judged guilty of grave violations of the charter would be expelled from the organization.

Delay Adjournment These are the main, closely related problems for the closing days of the conference. Prolonged discussion of them appears to be one of the chief reasons why the conference leadership has once more delayed the adjournment goal, this time from June 20 to June 23.

Wednesday's 30-to-2 committee approval of the veto voting formula put the conference a long step ahead. The action assures the big powers of control of the security council of the world organization in trying to settle disputes either by peaceful means or by force.

Nips On Okinawa Are Written Off As Lost By Premier Suzuki

By LEONARD MILLIMAN Associated Press War Editor

Japan's cave-dwelling troops on Okinawa, squeezed into one shrinking 13-mile-square pocket, were written off as lost Thursday by Premier Kantaro Suzuki, who indicated military rulers of Nippon are concentrating on amassing an army of 2,500,000 to 5,000,000 to repel an invasion "several months" hence.

A banzai charge by 300 screaming Nipponese was annihilated by U. S. Seventh Infantrymen crumbling the eastern anchor of the enemy's suicide line, as Marines of the Sixth Marine Division completed the job of wiping out the Japanese Naha pocket.

Australians reconquering Borneo put one airfield into use, captured a second and drove toward a third. Two other columns pressed toward Brunel Town, capital of the invaded area.

In other principal ground engagements Chinese reached the outskirts of Liuchow, former U. S. air base in Southeast China, and U. S. 37th Division Infantrymen in the Philippines recaptured American tanks which fell into Japanese hands at Bataan.

Between 750,000 and 1,750,000 Japanese were estimated to have been killed in Superfort raids on Tokyo and Yokohama alone, underscoring Japanese worries over increasing U. S. air power.

Thirteen Jap Ships Wrecked Thirteen Japanese vessels were wrecked by Allied planes ranging from Malaya to Japan. Tokyo reported 40 Superforts planted mines in waters of Western Nippon at midnight. Destroyers of the British East Indies fleet sank two Nipponese vessels off Sumatra.

Tokyo radio again reported Yanks were preparing for a new invasion, but Tokyo couldn't make up its mind whether it would be Japan or the China coast. There appeared to be no doubt in the mind of Premier Suzuki, who said it would take several months for the Allies to prepare an invasion force of 500,000 and by that time Japan would (Continued on page 6)

'Miss Midland' To Be Selected At War Bond Show Midland did not make much progress Wednesday toward meeting its giant $600,000 Series E War Bond quota in the Mighty Seventh War Loan campaign with only $6,337.50 of Series E Bond sales reported for the day. Wednesday's sales brought the Series E total to $309,296.25, slightly past the half-way mark.

The over-all total stood at $1,287,300 Thursday morning, close to the $1,425,000 quota mark. War Bond workers pointed out that if Midland County met its Series E quota the over-all quota would be exceeded without additional sales of other types of War Bonds.

Entries Are Received Entries are still being accepted for the contest being sponsored by the Midland Junior Chamber of Commerce to select a "Miss Midland." The contest will be held in connection with the Yucca Theater War Bond show Wednesday. Girls between the ages of 18 and 28 years who have never been married are eligible to compete. Entries will be accepted at the Chamber of Commerce.

Sponsors of the event pointed out the contest is primarily a personality and talent contest and the winner will be sent to Beaumont to compete for the "Miss Texas" title with all expenses paid.

War Casualties Total 1,017,097

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Combat casualties of the Army and Navy during the war reached 1,017,097 Thursday, an increase of 5,048 in the last week.

The increase was one of the smallest weekly rises in months and apparently reflected the end of fighting in Europe.

Secretary of War Stimson reported that Army casualties in all theaters now total 899,952 on the basis of individual names received here through June 7 and reflecting fighting through the first half of May. The Navy added 117,145 to the Army's figure.

A breakdown on Army casualties is reported Thursday and corresponding figures for the preceding week follows:

Killed 127,360 and 133,670; wounded 558,611 and 556,844; missing 42,710 and 46,747; prisoners 111,262 and 106,573. Stimson pointed out that the prisoner total represented losses prior to the liberation of American soldiers taken by the Germans. He also reported that 324,819 of the wounded have returned to duty.

Similar tallies for the Navy: Killed 44,709 and 44,503; wounded 57,402 and 56,767; missing 10,736 and 10,705; prisoners 4,238 and 4,240.

Sea-And-Air Dilemma

A good many people seem to be indulging in the pleasant postwar dream of a combined sea and airborne vacation—a leisurely cruise with all the pleasures of shipboard life, and then several extra days in Havana or Honolulu or wherever, because they're going to wind up the vacation with a swift flight back home—all that would be mighty nice, and quite possible.

Presumably it wouldn't make any difference to the postwar vacationer whether the same company operated both ship and plane, beyond the convenience of buying all the tickets in one office. But it makes a considerable difference to eight American steamship lines who have sought permission of the Civil Aeronautics Board to use airplanes over their prewar routes.

The CAB apparently hasn't warmed up to the subject.
Its objection seems to be that it might be inviting a monopoly to grant the request, and that the ship lines might conspire to stifle the newer, faster means of travel.

The steamship companies, while contending that there is no law which forbids them to use steam and air—or steam and sail, if they want to—concede that there isn't much they can do if the CAB turns them down.

The companies' side of the case was recently presented by Almon E. Roth, president of the National Federation of American Shipping. Roth says the eight lines don't ask to buy out existing airlines, or to invade new territories or seek exclusive rights in their present areas.

He says they would purchase their own equipment and gladly enter into competition with foreign and domestic companies over their old routes.

Roth also points out that foreign competitors, such as Britain and Sweden, are planning combined ship and air operations. And he quotes the British White Paper on post-war aviation to show that the government considers its ship lines' foreign connections, organization and good will as assets in the development of British trade.

Most important, perhaps, is Roth's statement that American passenger lines will be at a considerable disadvantage in immediate postwar operations. This, he says, is because most of their liners were converted more dramatically for war use than were their competitors', and that reconversion will be a long and expensive process.

We shall come out of the war, Roth says, with "a surplus of 25 million tons of the wrong kind of shipping"— meaning the slow Liberty ship.

So perhaps the situation needs some good hard thinking by the CAB before the final yes or no.

Fatal Loquacity

It occurred to us, during the dying days of the Third Reich, that escape for many of the Nazi big shots might not have been too difficult. Not by elaborate hideaways or submarines to Japan, either. What, we thought, could be simpler than adding or subtracting whiskers and glasses, dyeing or shaving hair, putting on a Wehrmacht private's uniform or nondescript clothes, and joining the anonymous thousands of bedraggled, confused, homeless soldiers and civilians?

Well, Heinrich Himmler tried it. He almost got away with it, too. The fact that he didn't can be credited partly to British Army Intelligence and general alertness. But another reason was that Himmler suffered to the end from a notorious Nazi failing: he couldn't keep his mouth shut.

The fact that he was perhaps the most hated man in the world seems not to have occurred to him. He was a big shot, even though his bigness may lie in the fact that he seems destined to be mentioned from now on in the same breath with Attila the Hun. So he had to end his masquerade and proclaim to his captors, "I am Heinrich Himmler"
—as if it were actually something to be proud of.

All of the conflicting stories of Adolf Hitler's death by some of his associates lend credibility to the notion that he is still alive. Perhaps he made an escape similar to Himmler's.
But if he is still alive there will come a day when he cannot longer resist the temptation to shoot off his mouth. And then he'll be doomed, wherever he is.

Wrong Actor

Senator Ray Willis of Indiana was quoted the other day as saying that the OPA, instead of "holding the price line," is "shrinking the waistline."

That isn't a bad summing up of the congressional case against the price agency. In fact, it's a pretty neat example of the senatorial epigram, which occasionally is on the ponderous side. There's only one trouble, as we see it.
Senator Willis wasn't the right man to utter it.

The gentleman from Indiana is a poor advertisement of OPA's villainous ineptitude. He has one of the least shrunk-looking waistlines in the Senate. And while his accusation may be true, we fear that his solid presence robs it of some persuasiveness.

So we hope the next time Willis conceives a similar sally, he will seek out some senatorial Cassius with a lean and hungry look to deliver it. Capper of Kansas, for instance, could talk convincingly of shrinking waistlines. So could Ball of Minnesota. But Willis may have defeated his purpose by his performance. The script was good, but the casting was all wrong.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.
The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.
If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there's something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.
Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Don's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Don's Pills.

West Texans Honor Eaker At San Angelo

SAN ANGELO — (P) — Twelve thousand West Texans, including hundreds from his home town of Eden, gave a rousing "welcome home" here Thursday to Lt. Gen. Ira C. Eaker, Texas' No. 1 airman and now deputy commander of the Army Air Forces.

Hundreds of the Eighth, Twelfth and Fifteenth Air Forces men who served under General Eaker in the European Theater followed him in the parade through downtown San Angelo. Also in the march was the largest contingent of Filipino flight students in the nation, officers now training at Goodfellow Field here. And there were scores of mounted cowboys, too.

Y. Y. Eaker of Eden, father of the general, rode with his son as AAF planes swept overhead at the height of the celebration. The Eakers were honor guests at a typical West Texas barbecue at noon.

Meanwhile, both Concho County, including Eden, and Tom Green County went over the top in their Mighty Seventh War Loan drives. Both counties were over also on their E bond quotas to further their tribute to the returned West Texas air general.

Houston's Labor Scene Is Brighter

HOUSTON—(P)—Houston's labor scene was brighter Thursday than at any other time since June 4, when AFL pickets at a construction job started a series of events which Wednesday threatened to engulf 20 coastal cities and numerous war plants in strikes and shutdowns.

At noon Wednesday the situation took a sharp turn for the better, and during the afternoon the situation eased rapidly, with dissipation of a threat of a new strike vote by an independent welders union at the shipyard.

Pickets of the Houston Metal Trades Council were withdrawn from the shipyard. Two hours later the United Brotherhood of Welders, Cutters and Helpers of America, Local No. 5, received official notification from the National Labor Relations Board that it had been certified as bargaining agent for some 900 welders and burners at the shipyard and plans for the organization to conduct a strike vote next Tuesday appeared ready for cancellation. Shortly before 4 p. m. the drivers, who had walked out last Thursday at the Magnolia Airco plant here in support of the metal trades council's protest against crossing of picket lines at the shipyard, withdrew their pickets. At Airco and the company began resuming deliveries to all the plants.

O'Neill's Tigers May Be Team To Beat In American

By JACK HANB Associated Press Sports Writer If Capt. Hank Greenberg is headed toward the Detroit outfield and Rudy York is going to start hitting, it's time to rate Steve O'Neill's Tigers the team to beat in the American League.

Some already tab the Bengals as the class of the junior circuit but most fans have been reluctant to go all out for a club which leans so heavily on its slim pitching staff for success.

Although the Tigers lead the second-place New York Yankees by a full game Thursday, and have won seven of their last eight, their over-all record has been spotty.

The case of Greenberg is not clear although an Army spokesman at Fort Dix, N. J., said the former Tiger may be out of service by Friday night.

Greenberg, 34, has been in the Army since May 7, 1941, with the exception of an eight-week period in late 1941. His return would be the first test of a "big name" major leaguer attempting to pick up where he left off in his baseball career.

York showed encouraging signs of ending his season-long slump Wednesday with three hits for a perfect day against St. Louis, contributing a three-run homer, two singles and four runs-batted-in to the leaders' 6-4 victory.

Joe Orrell was the victor over Nelson Potter, but neither was around at the finish.

Chicago Beats The Tribe made seven hits count for a 5-3 decision over Cleveland, although the Tribe backed up Steve Gronck with a 14-blow attack on Joe Haynes and two successors.

The Yankees and Washington were not scheduled and a Boston at Philadelphia night game was washed out.

Brooklyn took another fall out of the New York Giants 3-2, going into a second place tie with Pittsburgh. Hal Gregg did a five-hit job on the leaders to outpoint Harry Harry Feldman, Pittsburgh and Chicago were idle.

Two streaks ended as the Phillies went 15 innings to a 5-4 decision that snapped their record-breaking losing streak at 16 and the Boston Braves' victory string at nine. Mort Cooper had copped his sixth in a row in the opener of the double-header with an 8-3 triumph for The Hub.

Veteran Joe Bowman continued to pitch like a champ for Cincinnati as he pitched the Boston Red Sox, notching his third successive decision for the Reds by a 2-1 margin over the St. Louis Cards who hoisted their World Series pennant.

Nomination fees have boosted the gross value of the $50,000-added Preakness to $83,170.

Reaching High

A big surprise in National League is Tommy Holmes, outfielder of Boston Braves, who still leads sluggers in both major circuits as race nears one-third mark. Tommy has stayed close to 400 mark all during early season.

He told the team Wednesday that the club's officers were "responsible for full protection to our players against unfair abuse" and he added "a public apology for any negligence on our part."

Rickey did not elaborate, but presumably he will be invited to leave the Brooklyn park.

Durocher, the Dodgers' loquacious manager, has been charged with felonious assault against John Christian, a fan, in an alleged altercation at Ebbets Field Saturday night. He is at liberty on bail pending a hearing next week.

Jeff Heath is Back With Indians

CHICAGO — (P) — John Geoffrey (Jeff) Heath is back with the Cleveland Indians hoping to make up for two months lost in a holdout campaign by hitting the American League batting crown from the brow of his boss, Manager Lou Boudreau.

And the big powerful Canadian may do just that, too, if he pounds the ball at the same clip he did last year. In 1944 he outhit Boudreau by four points—331 to 327.

Midland Rotarians at their meeting Thursday noon in Hotel Scharbauer, honored two former members of their Mustang Club who were killed in action—Pfc. Joe Tisdal, who died on Iwo Jima, and Marine Pfc. Thomas W. Green, who was killed on Okinawa.

Relatives of both men were guests of the club at the luncheon. Both were leaders in activities of the Mustang Club before entering the armed forces.

Roy McKee was in charge of the program, and Fred Wemple offered a memorial prayer.

Miss Wendover Speaks

Activities of the Midland County Child Welfare Unit were explained by Miss Betty Wendover, child welfare worker, who was introduced by McKee, treasurer of the unit. She called attention to the unit's annual meeting at 8:30 p. m. Friday in the First Presbyterian Church.

She explained the unit is financed by the federal, state, county and city governments and is administered by a board appointed by the county judge. She said the unit averages 18 new cases a month and now has 139 cases under supervision.

Miss Wendover urged Midland citizens to provide additional facilities and funds for their school system, better health facilities and a better place to detain juveniles who now are placed in city and county jails.

C. H. Shepard, club president, presided at the session and Dan H. Griffith was program chairman. Miss Marian Newton entertained with piano selections.

Branch Rickey Will Protect Dodgers

NEW YORK — (P) — As an outgrowth of the Leo Durocher case, Branch Rickey, president and general manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, was prepared Thursday to protect his players against what he called "unfair abuse from the stands."

He told the team Wednesday that the club's officers were "responsible for full protection to our players against unfair abuse" and he added "a public apology for any negligence on our part."

Rickey did not elaborate, but presumably he will be invited to leave the Brooklyn park.

She explained the unit is financed by the federal, state, county and city governments and is administered by a board appointed by the county judge. She said the unit averages 18 new cases a month and now has 139 cases under supervision.

Miss Wendover urged Midland citizens to provide additional facilities and funds for their school system, better health facilities and a better place to detain juveniles who now are placed in city and county jails.

C. H. Shepard, club president, presided at the session and Dan H. Griffith was program chairman. Miss Marian Newton entertained with piano selections.

Japan — (Continued from page 1) be ready to meet them with five to ten times as many men.

He indicated Japan is already under practical military rule. This week his cabinet received powers to rule by imperial decree, and he disclosed Thursday that the supreme military council, composed of army and navy heads, "functions virtually as a war cabinet."

His own career as premier, and member of the supreme military council, will not end with the fall of Okinawa, Suzuki said.

Yanks Battle On Okinawa

American forces cut a little deeper into the northern and eastern sides of the escarpment where Okinawa Japanese are making their last stand.

Ninety-Sixth Division infantrymen fought a 36-hour grenade duel in a jumble of rocks at the base of the main escarpment on the north, and drove a 70-yard wedge into the enemy's battle line.

SPORTS ★ ★ Roundup By Hugh S. Fullerton Jr. NEW YORK — (P) — You can always blame the umpire when you lose a ball game, but did you ever hear of the ump winning one? It happened not long ago in Brigham City, Utah. . . . The Brigham City Peaches were playing Camp Kearns and Hank Hansmann, 37-year-old Peaches' pitcher, was the plate umpire. . . . When his team was trailing 4-1 after five innings, Hank decided something out to be done, so he took over the mound from Mary Abrams and curve-balled the soldiers into submission. . . . That, plus some weird fielding by the Eagle game Brigham City team, so the umpire also was listed as winning pitcher.

GRUNT AND MANY GROANS Speaking of recruiting, this yarn comes from a source which must remain anonymous. . . . Seems a Southern college was entertaining a big kid who was regarded as about the best football prospect in the state. . . . Someone learned that the boy had ambitions to become a wrestler, so they arranged a "try-out" against the college champ. The gym was packed—in more ways than one—and as soon as the prospect won by a quick fall, the fans hoisted him to their shoulders and marched him around, telling him what a great guy he was. . . . It made quite an impression—but so did the fact that both the Army and Navy are after the same boy.

RIGHT ON THE SPUD In a recent Midget League game in Norfolk, Va., a runner was on third when the catcher received the ball and turned his back to the mound. . . . The catcher wheeled and made a wild peg toward third. As the "ball" sailed into left field, the runner dashed for home, only to be met by the catcher, ball in hand. . . . Investigation revealed that the kid had pulled a potato out of his pocket and heaved it over the third baseman's head. . . . Confusion reigned for a while, but, instead of calling the game, the umpire ruled out the play on the ground that "unsportsmanlike conduct" must cover the situation if no other rule did.

BLIND DATE Just 75 years ago Thursday baseball's longest winning streak came to an end because Harry Wright, captain of the Cincinnati Red Stockings, couldn't see anything but victory. . . . The Reds, after 108 straight triumphs, were tied 5-5 with the Athletics after nine innings. . . . Everybody thought it would be called a draw, but Wright insisted on playing to a finish, and Cincinnati went down, 8-7, in the eleventh.

It had encountered no oil stains. Informed sources reveal the project is likely in Ellenburger but no top has been picked by operator representatives.

WE FLEW Without GUNS

This is a true story of the men who fly the "hump"—carrying passengers and cargo over the high Himalayas between India and China. Pilots call it the toughest airline route in the world.

FLYING THE BURMA ROAD

IN the summer of 1942 the Japs invaded Burma, cutting off China's vital supply route, the Burma Road. The cutting of the road didn't, perhaps, mean much to most Americans, including myself, but it meant a great deal to people higher up and better informed than most of us then were. It meant, conceivably, the difference between keeping China in the war as an active and valuable ally in our struggle with Japan, and losing her, a starved and worn-out victim, to our common enemy.

China had endured a blockade of its western coast for years, but had been able to do so only because its back door was open. Guns, machinery, trucks, food and munitions had been flowing in a constant stream—up through Burma from Rangoon on the Bay of Bengal, along the tortuous route of the Burma Road, and thus into the interior of China.

Now, with the Japanese seizure of French Indo-China and the cutting off of the Burma Road at its uppermost point in Burma, that back door was virtually closed. It would have been completely so had it not been for Pan-American Airways and the far-seeing, indomitable Chinese leader, Chiang Kai-shek.

Between these two—Chiang on the one hand and William Bond, Pan-American's representative in Burma and China—the loss of the Burma Road was quickly minimized.

In Upper Assam, almost due north of Rangoon and within an even shorter distance of Calcutta, they had established the eastern base of Chiang Kai-shek's newly founded, personally owned, but Pan-American-operated, China National Airways Corporation. From Dinjan, in Assam, China National's air route led directly east over the most difficult flying terrain in the world, across Upper Burma and the Jap-held territory surrounding the captured Burma Road, and terminating 700 miles inside China at Kunming, in Yunnan Province.

The only problem facing Bond and Chiang Kai-shek after they had laid out that route was finding men who would be willing to fly it.

IN August, 1942, I decided to approach Pan-American Airways about a job. I knew they had been ferrying planes to England, Russia and China under contract with the government. So I went down to their New York office in the Chrysler Building and talked to Capt. Hal Sweet.

He was much impressed with the flying experience I had had, which included a year ferrying ships for the Air Transport Auxiliary of the R. A. F. in England, but he gloomily informed me that the Pan-American ferrying job was soon to be taken over by the Army.

"You'd probably get a good commission if you applied for one," he said. "The Army needs fellows like you who are already trained in this kind of work."

"You're probably right," I said, "but the Army and I parted company some time ago."

I told him about going to Randolph Field and being washed out as a "dangerous flyer." Before going to Randolph, I told him, I had spent several thousand dollars over a period of years giving myself the training that would make me a top-rank pilot. Later, when I put in some time with Lockheed in California and with Brewster Aircraft in New York, I had spent most of my earnings on lessons in instrument flying and navigation. Before I left Sweet asked me to call him again in a few days; Pan-American was adding some more planes to the airline it operated for Gen. Chiang Kai-shek between India and China and they were going to need pilots.

"You mean for that trans-Himalaya run?" I asked.

"That's the one," Sweet replied. "It's the toughest air route in the world, but flying it pays real dough."

THEY were prepared to pay pilots from $1000 to $1500 per month, requiring them to work only three weeks out of every four, but pilots still were not swarming in.

No doubt that is why, when Gingiss, Al Privensal, Skippy Lane and I were being interviewed in New York, we heard more about the beautiful Chinese girls who clustered around American flyers in droves, pleading to share their affections, than we did about the hazards of flying freight and personnel across the snow-capped Himalaya mountains.

There were a lot of factors that entered into my decision to fly for C. N. A. C., but I can't deny that the rosy picture painted by Hal Sweet had considerable to do with the outcome. On the other hand, the hazards of the route didn't seem too serious, because I was confident now of my instrument flying; the work was an important contribution to the Allied war effort; it paid better than any other flying job in the world; and it would be far more interesting and provide much more valuable experience than flying in the States.

If I could combine all the things I liked—instrument flying, difficult flying, playing an important part in the war, and making money—if I could do all that and have beautiful Chinese girls fighting for my affections at the same time—hell, I had no alternative!

America's Card Authority

Remember, I gave you a couple of hands played by "501"? Now that V-E Day is past, we can identify "501" as Arnfinn Brodersen of Norway. He wrote his experiences for a California paper under the pen name of Fritjof Jensen. He is with the Active Service Canteen in Toronto, and I like today's hand, even though he did make a very peculiar bid in bidding and re-bidding hearts on a three-card suit. However, I like the way he made his contract and the way he expressed it to me in his letter.

After trumping the opening lead, he went over to the dummy with a club, and led the six of hearts, finessing the ten. Now, he knew that his only chance, he said, was to bluff East, so he trumped a small diamond in dummy and led the queen of hearts and East made the mistake of covering an honor with a honor. Brodersen won the king with a singleton ace, and had clear sailing from then on.

Sofia Presents Problem For San Francisco

By KENNETH L. DIXON
IN OCCUPIED GERMANY—(P)—Perhaps nobody is even interested but some of the boys around camp were wondering out loud whether those folks out in San Francisco might figure out something to do about Sofia.

Nobody involved in the discussion was carrying any particular political torches. They were former combat soldiers talking, and regardless of what anyone tries to tell you, few doughboys in the frontlines have been developing any particular political opinions. They have been busy staying alive.

But everyone was agreed that something should be done so that Sofia could—or would—go home.

Now she can't—or won't. Sofia is a little Polish girl of 17, and right now she is waiting on tables at this particular camp. Waiting tables, sweeping rooms and carrying out refuse—doing any odd job that will earn her keep.

Happy Now
She is very happy about the situation.

When Sofia was 14 the Germans came to her little Polish town. They kicked people around, killed a few here and there and set up garrisons.

One night, Sofia—14 years old, remember—was yanked from her family and shipped to Germany. She didn't know where she was going or why because questioners got the business end of a black boot in their teeth.

So with childlike wisdom, quickly and bitterly acquired, Sofia kept her counsel until she was dumped in the middle of Germany—a slave laborer.

What followed is not a new story. For three years Sofia did other peoples bidding—and she learned to do it quickly, without expecting more than a cessation of blows, without hoping for more than a continuation of life.

A lot more details difficult to stomach could be added here but they would only continue to demonstrate one point: that Sofia learned to hate the Germans with a terrific passion.

Did Not Unite Them
You would think that such hatred would unite her and her people with all those who also hate Germans. But it didn't.

Today Sofia could go home. By "could" I mean that Allied processes for "displaced personnel," such as she, are now sufficiently

Iwo Jima Is Ugliest Ash Pile In World

By ELMONT WAITE IWO JIMA—(AP)—There are lots of reasons why people ought to want to leave Iwo Jima. All you need to do is to climb out of a plane, take a quick look around—and instantly you're ready to go away again.

It's the ugliest little black ash pile in the world and its stinks of sulphur and Japanese, many of whom chose to do their dying in spots inaccessible to our burial squads.

Getting out is gone about as follows:

Ask an MP how you get your orders endorsed so you can hop a plane quick.

He tells you to go to the personnel office of the adjutant general. You do, but since the sun has set the tent is empty.

You try the tent of the headquarters commandant. It's empty.

You make two quick trips around the whole island Command Area, hunting for the headquarters commandant or his assistant. You don't find either.

It's getting quite dark. You get your flashlight.

You find a colonel, who turns out to be the adjutant general. He says you need a medical certificate, saying you have no communicable disease (first time in the Pacific we've run into that one) and two more copies of a clearance certificate signed by the headquarters commandant—who lives in that always-empty tent up there!

Finally you get the forms signed. You find a colonel, who turns out to be the adjutant general. Ordinarily, the driveways at the Roberson station are crowded with cars and trucks as Roberson and his helpers fill gasoline tanks, check batteries, tires, and the radiators, and perform many other little services which make trading with the Roberson station a pleasure.

The good service at the station is no accident. Eleven years of filling station work has taught Roberson many things as to what motorists like in the way of service.

"We are here to give our friends the kind of service they want," Roberson declared. "We also are here to give them the products they want. That is the reason we feature Sinclair products."

Roberson said one of the reasons he carried Sinclair products at his station is because so many fleet owners who keep accurate cost records prefer Sinclair products.

"That fact convinced me I would be selling my customers the best when I sold them Sinclair products," Roberson asserted.

Since Roberson always is trying to discover more ways he can serve his customers, he recently obtained a 30-minute battery charger.

"I heard so many motorists remark concerning the convenience of quick battery charging that I decided to obtain one," Roberson said.

Roberson also offers his customers a service which is comparatively rare these days, road service. Car lubrication is another specialty of the concern.

"We do not do ordinary car greasing, but do perform expert lubrication work," the station owner said. "In properly lubricating a car it is highly important to know the correct weight of lubricant to use for a given job."

Roberson extended an invitation for car and truck owners, who have not done so before, to visit his station, and promised they would receive the best service.

Jap Counterfire Easy To Spot By This Pair

By MARINE PFC. STANLEY R. LEPPARD

OKINAWA—(AP)—A Texas Marine and his buddy turned in one of the best shell-by-shell accounts of Jap counterfire seen on Okinawa.

The secret of their accuracy was simple. They were the target. Pfc. Frank E. Morrissey, Lawville, N. Y., and Pvt. Walter J. Rand of Prairieville, Texas, were the pair subjected to the unusual experience.

Morrissey and Rand were in telephone communication with their fire control center when Morrissey reported that a Jap shell "just landed about 200 yards to the left and a little behind us."

Seconds later he commented that another had hit "just right for depth and 150 yards to our right."

"Just about on us," the men reported. The next one should be right in.

The listeners were almost deafened by the next explosive roar over the earphones.

"It was," Morrissey reported. "Got me. Let me check on Rand. Yep, got him, too. Just scratches, though, on both of us."

A few minutes later the Jap gun was silenced by the Americans.

Yellow Cab Company Is Asset To City Without Street Bus Lines

As Midland has no bus system, citizens are particularly glad the Yellow Cab Company is here. Citizens have found that if they telephone 555 transportation soon is available for them to go anywhere they like in the city.

The concern has its office at 107 North Colorado, and H. O. Watson, the owner, generally can be seen there helping to see that customers receive the promptest service possible.

"While prompt service is desirable, the safety of our passengers is our first consideration here," Watson declared.

All cabs are checked constantly for any mechanical defects and any needed repairs are made promptly. Brakes are kept properly adjusted. Regular inspections are made of tires on the cabs to catch any defects which might result in a blow-out.

Drivers must qualify. Drivers are carefully chosen at the Yellow Cab Company. They must meet strict driving qualifications and show they know how to handle a car and are able to drive in the heaviest traffic safely.

"Our drivers all realize they have a heavy responsibility when they are carrying passengers and always are concerned for the safety of their passengers," Watson said.

Since the Office of Defense Transportation limits the company as to the number of cabs it can operate, Watson cannot operate as many cabs as he would like.

"We realize during the busier times of the day we cannot answer calls as promptly as our customers would like, but as soon as we are permitted to add more cabs we will do so," Watson said.

As matters stand now the cabs are on the run constantly, except when they are being checked or repaired. Calls are routed so as to make the most calls in the least possible time.

Last week during the rodeo many visitors and Midland citizens without cars depended upon Yellow Cabs to transport them to and from the rodeo, and the concern met the demand.

"We appreciate very much the patience and cooperation shown us by our customers while we are short of cabs, and promise them the time will come when they can call for a Yellow Cab and it will be there promptly," Watson declared.

Jap Propagandists Keep Nips Jittery With 'Invasion' Talk

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Japanese propagandists have been threatening their people with an imminent American invasion, although they know that we are not yet set for climactic action.

They intend to use the next few months to prepare in every way which our bombers will permit. They make much of forming a civilian defense army. But they say nothing of the two or three classes of men in reserve and in war plants that now face active duty.

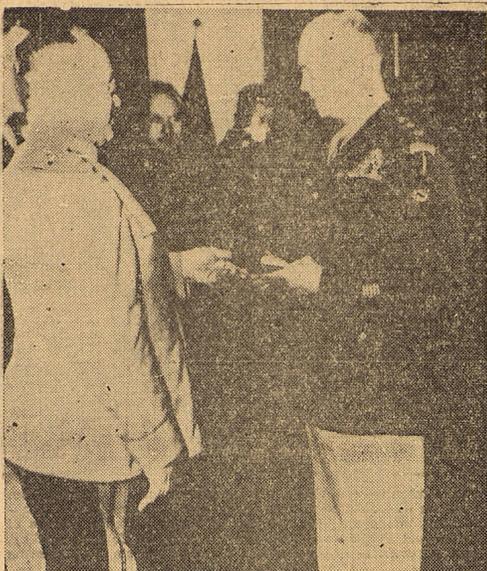

With the end of the Okinawa campaign and the arrival of the monsoons in Southeast Asia, we probably are entering a period of great preparation rather than great deeds.

Japs Have Large Force
The Japanese have important forces—some say 250,000 men—in Malaya, Indo-China and Thailand. The British can be expected to continue and enlarge their Burma campaign in this direction.

Knowing, then, that the Japanese people will be unable to see the massing of Allied millions about them, the enemy propagandists are trying to make it appear that General Buckner and his 10th Army will stride directly from the smoking battlefields of Okinawa to the main islands. His failure to do so will be portrayed as a great victory for the Japanese navy and air force; the people will be too frightened to grumble over a ration situation which obviously is becoming serious; politicians will rest more securely in their jobs (although after Okinawa's fall it is likely this will apply more to Suzuki's successor); and some progress will be made on a Japanese "volksstrum" which won't be armed entirely with sharpened bamboo.

And, behind the scenes, without benefit of propaganda, real armies and real defenses will be strengthened.

Bragging Texans No Longer Have Slightest Chance

By JACK RUTLEDGE
Associated Press Staff

Move over, Texas! Neighboring New Mexico is beginning to crowd, Fed up with Texas boastfulness, a character named S. Omar (Rattlesnake Robert) Barker from Teocotes, New Mexico, gets a few things off his chest.

"New Mexico," he says flatly, "beats Texas hollow."
He goes on from there. First, he says (and from here on we quote Mr. Barker) Texas is no larger than New Mexico—it only appears bigger because it's spread out thinner. He says the average mean thickness of New Mexico from sunshine to sea level is 5600 feet.

The higher you go the meaner it gets. And if you level it off to the average Texas thickness, New Mexico would cover an area—well, Sunshine State.

New Mexico is the sunshine state. Its scenic beauty is so great Old Sol can't let a day pass without taking a good look at it.

And compared with New Mexico, Texas is a newcomer. Tex Columbus discovered America in 1492, but a million years before that an early settler named Folsom Man was practicing point rationing in New Mexico. He used arrow heads for red points. No points, no buffalo meat.

The New Mexico climate is so good all Texans who have tires drive over there each summer to cool off and brag about the Texas climate. So Flat —

New Mexico's plains are so flat the highway department has to put up signs of tell water which way to flow.

There is plenty of game, too. If all the deer horns in the state were clustered together in one giant hat-rack, it would make a good place for all Texans to hang their hats when they're not talking through them.

And oil! All one has to do to start a filling station is to stick a garden hose down a gopher hole and whistle at the OPA for coupons.

New Mexico furnished most of the manpower at Bataan, thus saving Texas from invasion. He concludes by saying New Mexico provides 50 per cent of the Grade A sand in the average Texan's crawl.

All of which gives one the uneasy feeling Texas should hire Mr. Barker.

Rio Record Library Keeps 'Em Listening

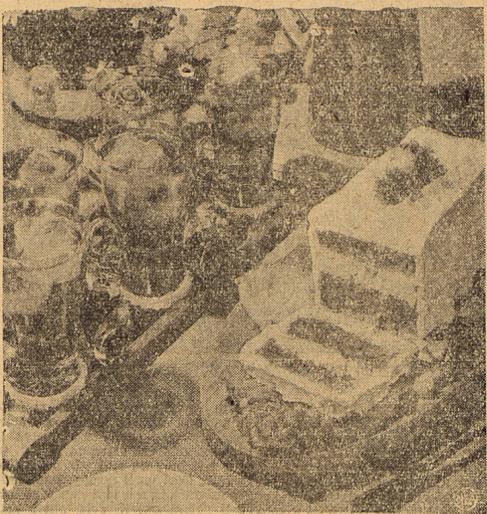

RIO DE JANEIRO —(P)— Ever long to hear a certain melody of symphony? Rio's citizens have the answer in their municipal "discooteca"—an establishment where they may go at any hour of the day to listen to any music they want.

Maintained by the municipal government's department of cultural advancement, the discooteca is for records (disco) what the "biblioteca" (library) is for books and periodicals. The Rio citizen (called Carioca, here) simply writes his choices on a card as he does in any public library, the attendant brings the selected records, and he enters a listening booth.

Since the discooteca was established in 1941 its patrons have increased steadily. Last year some 15,000 Cariocas played more than 60,000 of their favorites. Men heavily outnumbered women as music lovers in the discooteca, the files show, and favorite masters are Beethoven, Strauss, Chopin, Verdi, Tschaiakovsky.

Rhubarb was brought to America approximately 150 years ago from Europe.

Soft-Drink Punch, Sandwiches

Carbonated beverages with rosebud ice cubes and feed sandwich last!

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Staff Writer

On hot summer afternoons serve your guests a soft-drink punch. For a decorative, though unnecessary touch, freeze a small rose in each ice cube served in the glasses. The beverage itself may be just a favorite soft drink, or a combination of flavors that do not require sugar.

Sparkling Pink Lady
(Makes 8 full glasses)
Six small bottles lemon-lime soda, 2 small bottles gingerale, 1/2 cup maraschino cherry juice, 1 tablespoon lime juice.

Chill carbonated beverages thoroughly. Pour maraschino cherry and lime juice in pitcher. Add beverages and serve at once.

Feed Sandwich Loaf
Trim the crusts on all sides from an unsliced loaf of enriched white bread and a loaf of whole wheat.

Slice the loaves lengthwise, put together with sandwich fillings, alternating a slice of dark and a slice of white bread until the loaf is about 4 or 5 inches high. (Save remaining bread and crusts for toast or bread pudding.) Wrap tightly in waxed paper and chill in refrigerator for several hours. When ready to serve, "ice" with 3 packages of cream cheese softened with 1/4 cup milk. Garnish with lettuce leaves and radish roses.

Sandwich Fillings Suggestions
1st layer: 1/4 cup chopped cucumber and 1 tablespoon chopped onion blended with cream cheese.

2nd layer: 1/4 cup cooked or canned fish creamed with 2 tablespoons mayonnaise.

3rd layer: 1/4 cup chopped parsley or raw spinach blended with 2 tablespoons mayonnaise.

4th layer: 1/4 cup chopped maraschino cherries, blended with cream cheese.

5th layer: spread with favorite jelly.

6th layer: 1/4 cup chopped nuts, combined with cream cheese.

Elliot Paul Wouldn't Know Paris As He Last Saw Proud City

By GEORGE TUCKER

PARIS—(P)—Elliot Paul wouldn't like the changes in Rue de la Huchette, the funny little French street he wrote about in his book "The Last Time I Saw Paris."

Most people who lived there when he did are dead or scattered and the few who remain are dragging around as though it hardly mattered much whether they get wherever they are going.

Even the dumpy, pint-sized Hotel du Caveau where he lived off and on for the greater part of 20 years before the war is abandoned. Its doors sag. Its proprietor is dead. Its only tenants are a half-dozen stray cats.

As Paul told the story it seemed such a vital little community—the sweet fresh strawberries in the grocer stalls, the sunlight splashing across Notre Dame, the girl called Hyacinth who listened to Chopin as no one else in all France listened to him, the doctor, the husband who drank away his daughter's dowry.

But now along the shabby length of the street apparently only two people remain who knew Paul when he lived there.

They are Monsieur Laroche, who tends the ancient newsstand next door to the hotel, and his wife.

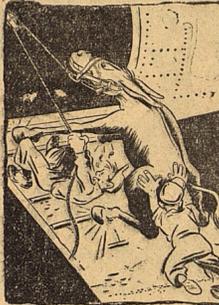

They know about Paul's book because many hundreds of American soldiers have inquired about it.

Last winter when I first visited the street a newcomer to the neighborhood, Madame Colette Raffalli, who runs the Hotel du Mont Blanc, said she was being besieged by GIs asking about Paul.

"Elliot Paul is an American journalist—the man who made Rue de la Huchette famous," explained a correspondent who was with me at the time.

Madame Raffalli tossed her head. "Rue de la Huchette was famous long before Monsieur Paul was born," she said. "The Three Musketeers used to live in that hotel right across the street and Maria Antoinette had her love affairs here."

Flyers Find Turpentine

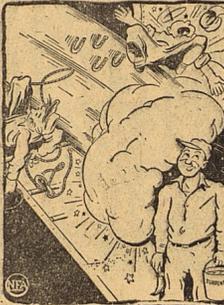

By NEA Service
Obstinate mules ride in Curtiss C-46 Commandos over the Hump—and like it!

It takes a little "persuasion" to get them in sometimes, but there's nothing that can stump an Army Air Forces man. You can take that from Lt. J. P. Connell, Air Transport Command pilot, back after 712 combat hours in the China-Burma-India theater.

The gentle art of loading mules onto the Commandos came about when the transports were flying British troops and their supplies from the Arakan front to the Imphal-Kohima front to attack Jap supply lines during the Nips' push into India.

In the 12 Commandos went the men, supplies and the mules. But the mules balked. That is they balked until the ATC men hit upon a method that made it possible for the mules to see their way clear to going aboard.

The men fixed up some storage batteries with wires, touched the mules' rears with the live wires. That worked well, Connell said, until the batteries ran down.

Then they tried swatting them with rags soaked in turpentine. So successfully did that work that finally the mules had only to smell the turpentine and they'd climb aboard the plane docilely.

There's more than one way to make a mule take a ride in a C-46.

Submarines Aid In Rescuing Airmen In Pacific War Area

By RUSSELL BRINES

CLARK FIELD, LUZON — (P)— The B-25 Mitchell bomber skinned low over Bias Bay, north of Hong-kong harbor. At 20 feet it opened its guns on the shipping which the Japanese had concentrated there to avoid the greater danger from air strikes in the main Hong Kong anchorages.

As the plane swung upward again, a machine gun snarled from a camouflaged position ashore. Bullets tore through the left wing. Flames leaped menacingly.

Lt. Irving Charno, the pilot, whirled the bomber upward and tried to shake out the fire. It was no use. Flames spread toward the cockpit, so he and the crew "ditched" their plane in the sea.

Besides the pilot, two men got out. They were Lt. Harold W. Sturm, co-pilot, and Sgt. Robert Tukel, radioman. The three other members of the crew went down with the wreck.

Raft Is Dropped
Another B-25 in this flight of the 71st Tactical Reconnaissance Group dropped a raft. Others lowered overhead for an hour, calling for help by wireless, while P-38 Lightning fighters took up the aerial vigil to protect the drifting airmen from Japanese fire.

Two hours later a pair of small, dirty Chinese junk boats drew alongside and took the exhausted men aboard. The planes overhead sent this news even while the shaven-headed evil-looking boatmen were robbing the survivors of their wrist watches and other valuables.

Sub Arrives
Charno, bleeding from a gash on the head, lay on the filthy deck in the sun and pondered. Fifteen minutes later the sun-burned waters parted alongside the junks as the snout of a submarine broke the surface. She was a large American prowler, summoned to the spot by radio messages for help.

That is part of the job of the Fifth Emergency Rescue Group, maintained by the Fifth Air Force. Submarines, on the job, never talk; they only listen. The men who send the calls for help never know if they have been heard. They can only hope.

The airmen were taken aboard.

The northern island of Novaya Zemlya, off the coast of Russia, is entirely germless and fresh juicy meat can be left exposed for months and is as fresh as when originally exposed.

American Major Had Long Search For Missing Daughter In Modern Cinderella Story — She Was Found

By DANIEL DE LUCE
DUESSELDORF, GERMANY—(AP)—An American officer who hunted through the bombed wastes of German cities for his long lost daughter told a stranger than fiction story of the "Cinderella of Leipzig."

prosaic as your next-door neighbor, came overseas to fight Germany for a second time, and this time to save his only child.

Melodrama Will Provide Laughs For Theater Patrons

By JEANIE YOUNT
We took it seriously back in the old days—we'd sit on the edges of our chairs with anticipation when the hero was about to rescue our Nell, and we'd honestly shake with fear when the horrid, mean villain came upon the stage.

"I was assistant G4 for the division and my job was concerned with supply and transport—not combat—but General Maloney knew that I had not seen my daughter, Elaine Marilyn, since 1928, when she was three years old, and my first wife had taken her back to her maternal grandparents in Trier. He granted my request."

The 94th, dubbed "Roosevelt's Butchers" by the enemy radio's female commentator, "Axis Sally," made quick work of Trier.

But nowadays, when Little Evras and Simon Legrees are not taken so seriously, we occasionally revive a good old melodrama, just to laugh at what we used to cry over.

"I searched Trier, which had been pretty badly hit," Samuels said, "and by emotions were an unpleasant mixture of fear and hope for what I might find. But the suspense didn't end. Some of the townspeople said they thought the grandparents had moved to Leipzig with my daughter several years before. I simply had to wait while the battle of Germany dragged on."

As the 94th neared the end of its Ruhr task, Leipzig fell. General Maloney issued a seven-day leave—"illegal as hell but very kind," according to Major Samuels—for the latter to visit the big city in Saxony.

"I was very shaky as we drove to Leipzig," Samuels said. "I didn't know whether I might find Elaine Marilyn dead or horribly maimed. I had heard a lot about Nazi practices for German girls. The prospect was terrifying. I prayed a lot on the way to Leipzig."

Reported To AMG
Within the ruins of Leipzig, Major Samuels found an American military government office and reported. He waited there while Lt. Anton Viditz-Ward, who accompanied Samuels, went alone to find if anything remained of an address on Steinstrasse, last known residence of the girl's grandparents.

"Then Anton came back," Samuels said. "He had been gone only 45 minutes. With him was the sweetest young girl I had ever seen in my life. She took one look at me and was in my arms. I guess I was stunned with happiness."

Lt. Viditz-Ward explained that the Schroeder house was the only one still standing in the neighborhood. The grandparents and their grandchildren had escaped injury in seven heavy air raids.

On the door of the house was a name plate: "Elaine Samuels—American."

"Well," said Samuels, "the next thing was to have Elaine Marilyn examined by our counter-intelligence. I wanted that as much as anyone, for her sake. The report showed the grandparents had carefully guarded her from contact with the Nazi system. They had always insisted that she was an American girl."

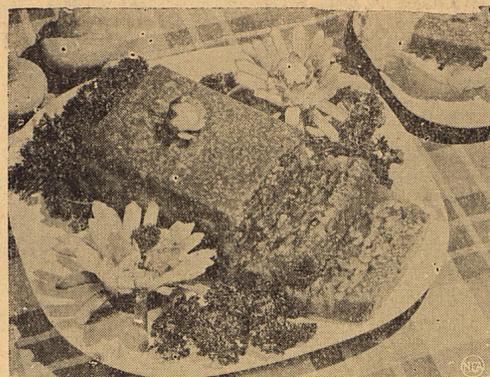

Visited Grandparents
Samuels said that he visited briefly with the grandparents and thanked them for the care of his daughter. He told them of his first wife, from whom he has long been divorced and who resides in a penthouse in New York. They explained they hadn't seen Gerda since a visit in 1935, when her anti-Nazi remarks made it difficult to obtain another German visa.

The interview was interrupted by the appearance of a lissome, dark-haired, brown-eyed girl of 19 in a flowered silk dress.

"My daughter," Samuels said proudly. "It was a sort of Cinderella story, finding her among the ashes of Leipzig, but now it's as if everybody in the 94th Division considered himself to be her father. We have a family suite in the divisional hotel. At our mess she was served the first eggs and oranges she had eaten in four years, and the first chocolate candy she'd had in six years."

"Sometimes," Samuels said, "I think it's all a dream and someone will stick a pin in me and I'll have to wake up. I only found Elaine Marilyn on April 25, but I'm going to have a tough time accustoming myself to the military in the Army again when she goes home to the States, and I go pattering off to the C-B-I or somewhere else."

Stuffed Beef Loaf An Economy

One-half pound round steak in molded loaf that serves 10.

NEA Staff Writer
With only one-half pound ground round steak, you can give "meat flavor" a substance to a gelatin loaf that serves 8 to 10 persons. Served with hot creamed potatoes, or stuffed baked potatoes, or baked macaroni, this loaf furnishes a substantial "meat" course in these meat scarce days.

Stuffed Beef Loaf (Serves 8-10)

Part 1: One envelope plain unflavored gelatin, 4 tablespoons cold tomato juice or water, 1/2 pound ground round steak, 2 tablespoons minced onion, 1/2 teaspoon poultry seasoning, 1/4 teaspoon garlic, 2 cups tomato juice or water.

Part 2: One envelope plain unflavored gelatin, 1/4 cup cold water, 1 cup cooked carrots, 1 cup cooked whole green beans, 1/2 cup cooked minced celery, 1 1/2 cups liquid from vegetables or water, 3 tablespoons mild vinegar, 1 tablespoon finely minced green pepper, salt and pepper to taste.

Soften one envelope gelatin in cold tomato juice or water. Combine round steak, onion, seasonings, and tomato juice or water. Simmer very slowly until meat is tender. Add the softened gelatin to the hot mixture and stir until dissolved. Cool until syrupy. Pour half of mixture into a loaf pan that has been rinsed out in cold water and chill.

Soften second envelope gelatin in cold water. Cut carrots in Julienne strips and cook. Cook whole beans and celery, saving liquid from cooking. Dissolve gelatin in hot liquid from vegetables. Add vinegar, salt, pepper, and cool. When mixture begins to thicken, fold in cooked vegetables and green pepper. Spread vegetable mixture over top of meat layer in loaf pan, and when almost set, top with remaining meat mixture. Chill until firm.

'Subway Art' Proves Popular

AP Newsfeatures
NEW YORK—More than 125,000 "subway prints" of art masterpieces, advertised in New York subway posters and sold by the Metropolitan Museum of Art for 10 or 15 cents, have been bought in the three years since the scheme was inaugurated.

Printed in color, they are of a size to fit on 11 by 22-inch posters. The museum has just made frames available for those wishing them, at $7.50 or $8.

Purchasers are more apt to be women than men. They want the prints mostly for themselves, but sometimes as gifts. Some issues have been used to decorate military camp recreation halls.

Among the most popular selections, made monthly in connection with museum exhibitions or on the basis of general appeal, are Sassetta's "Journey of the Magi," Renoir's "By the Seashore," Monet's "Sunflowers," Homer's "Northeast and Inness" "Peace and Plenty." There are now 19 paintings in the series.

By JAMES HUTCHESON
WITH THE 38TH DIVISION ON LUZON—(AP)—One of Gen. Walter Krueger's strong aversions is against the common misuse of the term "shrapnel" for shell or bomb fragments.

As he stopped at a medical clearing station on a visit to this "Avenue of Bataan" Division, the four-star general of the Sixth Army asked a young soldier how he hurt his wrist.

"I got hit with a piece of shrapnel, Sir," replied Pfc. Casimir Kryston of Newark, N. J.

"You mean a shell fragment, don't you?"

"No, Sir; this was a piece of shrapnel."

"Did you see it? Was it a jagged piece of metal?"

"Yes, Sir," the doughboy replied. "Then it was a shell fragment," the general insisted. "They haven't used shrapnel in 20 years."

"They didn't. Shrapnel are small round pieces of metal. They haven't been used since the First World War. Now what was it that hit you?"

With serious expression, and yielding only under protest, Kryston answered: "A shell fragment, Sir; but it sure felt like shrapnel."

The word "tariff" is derived from the Arabic "tarifa," which means a modification or inventory.

Found Horror Film Funny

The German woman, above, was laughing when she emerged from a theater where Allied military authorities forced civilians of Burgsteinfurt to see the film, "Village of Hate," depicting horrors of Belsen and Buchenwald, Nazi prison camps. So Capt. A. Stirling, assistant district provost marshal, wiped off her smile by ordering her in to see the film again.

Social Situations

THE SITUATION: After a dinner party the guests roll back the rugs and dance, and a married man wonders with whom he should dance.

WRONG WAY: Dance with other guests but not his hostess or his wife.

RIGHT WAY: Dance with his hostess and his wife and anyone else he wants to dance with or sees without a partner.

Actors Are Needed

There are still several parts to be taken in "The Drunkard." For instance, there's the part of the heroine's mother, a frail, ailing widow who strives to keep from her daughter the cru-u-uel ways of the world.

Another good part is William, brother of the hero, who, much to his discomfort, is being pursued by a crochety old maid.

There are also the parts of a bartender, a millionaire, and a farmer. Interested persons are urged to contact Mrs. John Hill at 280-W.

Meanwhile, work is going forward on the stage scenery. A large drop curtain, after the manner of all old drama productions, with hand-lettered advertisements around the edge, will be used.
