Fliers Find 1,556 Yank Prisoners

By The Associated Press
American naval fliers Tuesday discovered 1,556 more Allied prisoners of war in four remote camps in mountainous Hokkaido, and dropped supplies; while in China, Chinese forces under General Luhan entered Hanoi, French Indo-China. Chinese also reported arrival of their troops "in force" at Hankow Monday.

Admiral Nimitz meanwhile formally confirmed reports he will move from Guam to Pearl Harbor "in the near future", and said the move was designed to facilitate transportation of released naval personnel to America.

The supreme Allied commander earlier sought to quiet Korean demonstrations against continuance of Japanese administration under American control by assuring Koreans that their rights would be respected. The Japanese kept in office, he said, were "only working for the Americans."

MacArthur's headquarters abolished Japanese imperial (military) headquarters, effected censorship of Japanese radio and press, and directed occupation troops to spread their control of Japan to Iliang Sea naval bases and Osaka next month. The Sixth Army meanwhile sent units across Kyushu, southern-most home island.

Surrender At Hong Kong
Formal surrender of Japanese forces at Hong Kong was scheduled Tuesday near Victoria jail — in which a half-dozen Japanese already were held for war-crime trials, on Mindanao in the Philippines, 9,500 Nipponese surrendered Saturday, and others at Wewak, New Guinea, will surrender Thursday.

In Kobe, rescuers seeking 400 Allied prisoners found 4,000—and Lt. Col. Walter E. Kargin of the liberation force said they were in good condition, that the Japanese cheered their departure, and that the prisoners shook hands with their former guards before leaving.

Domei reported that Jose P. Laurel, former puppet president of the Philippines, would leave Japan for Manila soon "by request of the Philippines government," together with ex-speaker Benigno S. Aquino of the Philippine assembly. Both are expected to be tried as collaborators.

In Washington, legislation to give the Navy a peacetime strength of 1,079 ships was introduced. Previous strength was 272; current strength, 1,306.

10,000 In Java Camps
MELBOURNE—(P)—A small Allied party has landed in Java and found 10,000 women and children crowded in five Batavia internment camps, the Netherlands East Indies government, information office announced Tuesday.

Two thousand of those interned were said to be seriously ill. Allied medical officers are taking medicines and relief to the internees and war prisoners, the announcement added.

Houston Refinery Blaze Injures 26 Fire Fighters

HOUSTON—(P)—An oil fire that raged throughout the night, sending 26 firemen and refinery workers to hospitals, forcing an estimated 200 East Enders to evacuate their homes, and threatening at one time to engulf the whole Eastern States Refinery, was brought under control early Tuesday.

Flames continued to flicker fitfully among the collapsed ruins of a 55,000-barrel crude oil tank, however, and that portion of the fire "will just have to burn itself out", Fire Chief Homer Lyles announced.

Knutson Requests Britain Seek Aid Somewhere Else

WASHINGTON—(P)—Rep. Knutson (R-Minn.) declared Tuesday "The American people are being asked to finance the socialization of the United Kingdom through the forcible acquisition of business and industry."

The speech was timed with the meeting here of financial and commercial experts of the United States and Great Britain, at which financial aid to Britain will be discussed. "Seek Moscow Support"

"We should tell the government of the United Kingdom that if they wish to forcibly take over all major private activities they must themselves finance it and, failing in that, they should look to Moscow for such financing," Knutson's prepared address said.

"While the war was on, the American people in many instances bought War Bonds until it hurt but it is to be doubted that they will continue to buy government bonds, the proceeds of which are to be used to promote a program of governmental banditry, for that is precisely what it amounts to."

War Time May End Last Of September

Tojo Accepts Responsibility

By The Associated Press
A Domei broadcast from Tokyo Tuesday quoted former premier Hideki Tojo as saying after he shot himself:

"I am sorry for the peoples of Greater East Asia. I will shoulder the whole responsibility. I hope they will not go amiss in dealing with the situation. The war of Greater East Asia was a just war. With all our strength gone, we finally fell. I did not want to stand before the victor to be tried as the vanquished. This is my own case. I wanted to kill myself at one stroke. I first thought of using my sword to kill myself, but instead I used the revolver for fear I might fail and revive."

ATSC To Drop Flash Bombs In Experiment

The photographic laboratory division of the Air Transport Service Command will conduct a series of flight tests at Midland Army Air Field for a ten-day period beginning Sept. 21.

Life Of Pearl Harbor Instigator Depends On American Blood

TOKYO—(P)—Hideki Tojo, the bald, brown little Japanese warlord who ordered the treacherous attack on Pearl Harbor, attempted to commit suicide with a pistol Tuesday, and his life depended Tuesday night on American blood which was given unstintingly by the people he had sought to destroy in the world's greatest war.

Tojo shot himself near the heart as American counterintelligence officers accompanied by correspondents went to his suburban home to take him to General MacArthur's Headquarters for questioning.

Byrnes Says Italy Is First Topic For Foreign Ministers

LONDON—(P)—Secretary of State James F. Byrnes told a press conference Tuesday that Italy would be the first topic for the conference of foreign ministers of five Allied Nations meeting Tuesday afternoon and that the atomic bomb was next on the agenda.

The foreign secretaries of Russia, Great Britain, France and China are here with Byrnes, starting peace machinery provided by the Potsdam Conference.

Byrnes himself did not say so, but it was understood that the United States would ask that the bulk of Italy's colonies be left under Italian control as trusteeships, with United Nations supervision.

The British are expected to ask that a strip of Eastern Crete, Libya, be taken from Italy and placed either under international or Egyptian rule.

Byrnes said the future of Germany was not on the agenda for the meeting of foreign ministers, as drawn up at Potsdam.

Air-Conscious Texas Cities Study Post War Use Of Elaborate Airports

Cox Army Air Field near Paris is considered a definite asset as a commercial and private air field. But conversion will mean building hangars, a main building and other airport necessities.

Perrin Field, almost midway between Denison and Sherman, may be converted into a joint airfield. The field has three runways and two hangars on which the government spent about $10,000,000.

The Navy plans to keep all its air fields in the Corpus Christi Naval Air Training Bases area, at least for the time being.

English Field at Amarillo was leased from the city by the Army. The hangar facilities built by the Army are expected to be an aid to both commercial and private flying later. The city plans to extend, enlarge and improve the runways and other facilities soon.

Wainwright Gets Medal Of Honor

WASHINGTON—(P)—Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright is ready to tell the "pitiful story" of the last days of Corregidor and the prison horrors that followed.

He hasn't said just when his report will be given to the War Department. And there is no indication when it will be given to the nation.

The general's taking a rest Tuesday—A well-earned one. Monday he:

1. Saw his wife for the first time in four dreary years.
2. Made three speeches.
3. Got the Congressional Medal of Honor from President Truman.
4. Rode through miles of cheering spectators—in an open car in typical hot and humid Washington weather.
5. Held a news conference, at which he disclosed that Japanese jailers heaped "indignities" on high ranking American officers.

Congress Tackles Work On Discharges, Pearl Harbor, Women's Rights, Airports, Surplus Goods, Employment

WASHINGTON—(P)—Members of Congress roared louder Tuesday about getting people out of uniform. They also waded into their biggest day's work since the war ended.

Pearl Harbor ... airports ... government corporations ... equal rights for women ... surplus war goods ... five-star generals ... today's jobless ... tomorrow jobs.

Other Developments
And here is a fast look at other developments:
Pearl Harbor—The House Tuesday is expected to okay a Congressional investigation of the 1941 disaster. The Senate already has said yes. The House will argue about it for an hour or more and then take a roll-call vote.

bill in some form. The original proposal, backed by President Truman, was to increase and lengthen state benefits to the jobless by adding federal cash.

"Full employment"—Backers of the so-called Full Employment Bill offered a revised version stressing the role of private enterprise in creating jobs for all, but stating the government has a "responsibility" for bringing about full employment instead of just a policy. This measure is still being considered by the Senate Banking Committee.

Airports—The Senate is debating a bill to hand out $500,000,000 in federal cash for airport building over a five-year period. The money would have to be matched by local governments. The House has an (Continued on Page Six)

Reconversion And Congress

The several million workers facing at least temporary unemployment as the speedy aftermath of peace probably experienced varying degrees of reassurance as result of the statement of Senate majority leader Alben W. Barkley that "human elements" of reconversion will be the first order of business when Congress reconvened.

There is reassurance in the fact that Congress seems awake to the urgency of the "human element"—which, to the worker, means nothing more or less than a job. Less encouraging to those facing unemployment is their knowledge of the record of Congress for leisurely handling of practically all legislation that comes before it. Many persons doubtless fear—with justification—that they will be jobless a long time if they are forced to wait until Congress does something to relieve them.

In theory, and probably in fact, those likely to be affected doubtless are better equipped to cope with a period of unemployment than ever has been true of such a group in history. Most of them have War Bonds and other savings to tide them over the rainy day they knew would come with peace. But people with such reserves will be reluctant, on the whole, to draw upon them. And there can be no escaping the problem represented by the many thousands of persons who failed for various reasons to be prepared for the problems now confronting them. The fact that most such people may have themselves to blame for their immediate prospects does not remove nor lessen the problems with which they and the nation are confronted.

No matter where the blame may lie, and no matter how well prepared those affected may be, the joblessness of several million people for any extended period will be an unhealthy, and possibly dangerous, condition both for the unemployed and for the nation as a whole. The least such a condition can do is to breed the sort of discontent in which such things as Communism will flourish. Idle hands are dangerous both for the individual and for the nation.

The national welfare therefore demands that Congress follow the course promised by Senator Barkley. It is of an importance impossible to exaggerate that Congress make the "human elements" of reconversion its first order of business. It is even more important that action designed to relieve the situation be prompt.

Meanwhile, the outlook for the unemployed, and the prospectively unemployed, probably is as favorable as Congress can make it at this time. Congress seems awake to the importance and the urgency of the problem. This, of course, does not guarantee that curative legislative action may be as speedy as may be desired. But it does provide reason for hope that our national legislators will be diligent in providing whatever relief Congress can provide.

Victory Over Disease

One highly significant statement was that recently from Army Medical Corps sources to the effect that, for the first time in the history of war in Europe, more men were admitted to American theater hospitals for treatment of battle wounds than for diseases. The same fortunate situation seems to have existed in the Pacific as well.

The amazing record for the American forces doubtless has been due, in some degree, to the fact that Uncle Sam's fighting men, taken as a whole, were the healthiest ever to be sent into battle.

But, beyond any question, the most important factors were the safeguards taken to protect the health of our soldiers and sailors. Never in any war has any nation given such vigorous and intelligent attention to the prevention of diseases—particularly germ diseases of the type which have little or no respect for natural resistance. This was a protection provided through such expedients as destruction of vermin and the provision of opportunity for uncontaminated drinking water. No one knows how many men were saved from sickness or death through such measures, but certainly the number totaled in the many, many thousands.

And, if war can be productive of blessings, the experience gained in the prevention and treatment of diseases surely is one of them. It is a blessing which will be with us in peace, as well as in war. It undoubtedly will mean longer and healthier lives for people today and for all generations to come. It represents a victory no less important than any gained upon the fields of battle.

Many of us were all washed up on butter long before some of it was sold to soap makers.

Ten bathing suits were found in the bottom of a park swimming pool in Topeka, Kan.—and that's the naked truth.

Uncle Sam tells us there will be plenty of radios for Christmas gifts. We doubt, however, that the music will have charms to soothe the savage appetite.

possible curtailed operations will continue under the Air Transport Command.

However, Brownsville faces loss of the air field with confidence. The Brownsville airport has long been known as a gateway to the Latin Americas, and is serviced by Pan American Airways, Eastern Airlines and Braniff Airways.

Conroe, 50 miles north of Houston, is possessor of a million dollar airport inherited from the Navy.

Early in the war patriotic citizens of Montgomery County raised $75,000 and bought land needed to induce the Civil Aeronautics Administration to build an airport at Conroe for use in the Navy flight training program.

When the Army moves out of the Big Spring Municipal Airport, it will leave the city with one of the best airports in the country. Leased by the Army, the airport had an elaborate system of runways. Big Spring airport has been open to commercial operation during the war, despite lease of the field to the Army.

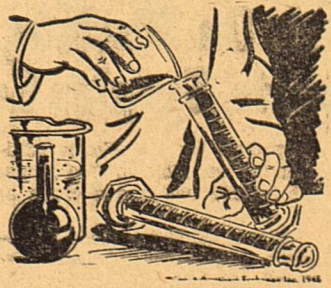

City officials are planning development of the field, and are studying plans for building an auxiliary airport for smaller planes. Midland Owns Airports

Midland has two large and well-improved Army Air Fields. One is ten miles west of Midland and is the home of the world's largest bombardier and navigation school. The Midland Municipal Airport is used jointly by the ATC Ferrying Command, the Navy and commercial interests. Both fields are owned by the city. During the war the government has spent more than eight million dollars at the bombardier school, and more than a million at the Ferrying Command Field.

Private interests already have applied for leases on the municipal field, but Mayor A. N. Hendrickson said the city planned to operate the field "open to all". The city has a contract with the Army whereby the government will restore both fields to their prewar conditions. Installations such as radio towers and buildings are to be sought by Midland.

The Galveston Municipal Airport on Galveston Island west of the city was leased to the government, which spent $10,000,000 on improvement. It was first used for training heavy bomber crews, is now used for fighter pilots.

Removal of the Fifth Ferrying Group Operations at Love Field, Dallas, appear unlikely for many months. It may continue as a permanent installation, some have indicated.

Dallas Has Big Hopes
Navy fliers also have been trained at Hensley Field near Dallas. Mayor Woodall Rodgers said Dallas would seek development of military facilities comparable to those at West Point, Annapolis, and Randolph Field. "We want permanent installations for both the Army and Navy flight programs here," he said.

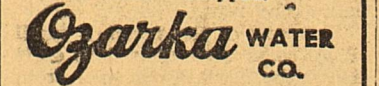

The city of Terrell, Texas, is seeking to purchase from the federal government buildings used by the now discontinued British Flying Schools there.

"Only Congress can answer the question of which bases will be permanent," Col. W. T. Knapp, deputy chief engineer of the Air Transport Command, Washington, said in Dallas last week.

to die rather than face trial as a war criminal—a trial which had not even been ordered.

Tojo planned his suicide elaborately, with two automatic pistols and a pair of hara kiri ceremonial knives wrapped in spotless cloth, but like his bid for world dominion, he botched the job.

Tojo evidently made up his mind to kill himself with more haste than ceremony after he saw American jeeps draw up before his home. The jeep was a vehicle in which he showed great interest when Correspondents Brines and Spencer visited him.

Speaking painfully, while he believed himself dying, Tojo said he felt sorry for the Asiatic people. He added that he believed he had fulfilled his duty to his country despite its surrender.

He told newsmen he didn't care what treatment his body received. He named a Japanese marquis to handle his family affairs.

CONTINENTAL AIR LINES

Reconversion keeps Long Distance busier than ever

Long distance lines, which rushed through messages for the army, navy, and war industries, now are loaded with calls important to the nation's reconversion.

Businessmen—as they switch from war to peacetime production—are making more calls than ever before. Individuals, too, are using long distance more often as they locate new jobs and new homes in other cities.

These important calls have added to the load on crowded telephone circuits, a load—believe it or not—unequaled even in the busiest days of the war.

And servicemen—even though the war is over—still need to make hundreds of long distance calls every day from army camps, debarkation points, separation centers, and hospitals. Their calls home are just as important as ever.

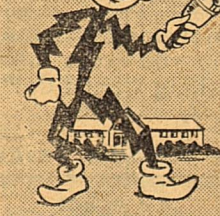

So if the operator says, "The circuits are busy," and your long distance call is delayed, we hope you'll understand.

Thanks for your patience.

SCHOOL DAYS are EYESTRAIN DAYS

BE SURE TO USE ENOUGH LIGHT

Now that students are starting another year at school, see that they have a good light to safeguard eyesight and to make studying easier.

Fill all empty sockets in your home, for lamp bulbs are plentiful and cheap. Buy a carton the next time you shop.

Most reading and study lamps are designed to use 100-watt or 150-watt bulbs. Tri-lite lamps are designed to use a 300-watt bulb. Be sure to use bulbs large enough to provide the amount of light needed for easy seeing.

 "AFTER all, Brock does have something to say," Moya countered coolly.
 "Which Brock?" asked Thayer tersely.
 "Thayer..." Brock said.
 "Let me finish," Thayer stated flatly. Her dark eyes were clear and burning upon Moya. "I do not want you here," she said. "I want you to leave this house now and not come in it again while I am here."
 "You take a great deal upon yourself, Thayer," Mrs. Kittridge came through the door, her mouth set, her cheeks red with anger.
 "I take nothing upon myself that is not my right," said Thayer fiercely.
 "This is my house, Thayer."
 "At your insistence I am living in it, Mrs. Kittridge. As Brock's wife I have certain rights in the house; one of them is to forbid the coming here of the girl who frankly admits she wants my husband."
 "Very dramatic!" said Mrs. Kittridge scathingly. "You are the intruder here."
 "Not within the law, I think," Thayer answered. She looked unflinchingly into the eyes of her mother-in-law. "I wouldn't hesitate to call on it."
 "Moya, I'm sorry you've been drawn into this—this..."
 "Was brawling the word you wanted, Thayer?" asked Moya, being a Kittridge only by marriage. "I have no pride about covering up what might better be brought into the open."
 "Look here, Thayer," Brock interrupted, his face flushing darkly. "Oh..." cried Moya snatching up her purse. "Brock, will you or will you not take me home?"
 "She handles a car admirably," said Thayer, "but you'd better take her home, Brock. And now, because I really am capable of losing my temper."

heid happiness until you came," she said with dignity and turning walked indoors.
 THAYER found herself by her car, struggling for breath as if she had been running. She got in, began automatically to drive. It was force of habit that led her to Drumhead Hill. She came out here often after work to stand where she and Brock had once stood.
 She stumbled from the car now and made her way to the spot where she always came. But found nothing of comfort. She felt sick all over and strangely weak. She sank down on the dried grass, then suddenly she flung herself face down, hands clenched into futile fists, crying tearlessly with great hurting sobs. She hardly noticed that it grew dark and the stars came out, remote and pale. But after a long time she began to be afraid, and still more afraid to admit that fear.
 It was then Thayer thought of Hildreth. Though she had been unable today to confide what lay in her heart, yet now—"her extremity Hildreth stood forth as a very tower of strength."
 Her teeth were chattering as she made her way down to the car; she was shaking all over. She kept saying aloud, as if the very words were a panacea, "I'll go to Aunt Hildreth—Aunt Hildreth!"
 She was not driving well. She did not see the car ahead stopping and had to set her brakes with terrific force to avoid a collision. But the car behind, having no warning, crashed into her, and she was thrown against the wheel and badly shaken. Dumpers being sturdy, actual damage was slight and something in her face halted the tirade of the indignant drivers of the cars involved. One of them asked in a curious voice, "Lady, you ain't hurt, are you? You— you look sick."
 "No—I'm all right..."
 She got away somehow. She must drive slowly, carefully. She kept blinking to dispel the fog that seemed to envelop approaching cars. Slowly—that was it. To Hildreth's...

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

 Today's hand in my opinion is the most interesting of the recent national tournament. It came up in the finals of the Masters team-of-four, in which the team of Oswald Jacoby, Howard Schenken, T. A. Lightner, Sam Fry, Jr., and Edward Hymes, Jr., defeated Waldemar von Zedtwitz, Lee Hazen, Cpl. Alvin Roth and Harry J. Fishbein by the narrow margin of 390 points. The bidding shown occurred at the table at which Schenken and Hymes played. Schenken's bid of four no trump requested his partner to select a suit. After South's double, Hymes' pass said, "Partner, you select the suit." Schenken then bid his longest suit, which was promptly doubled.

 Schenken doubled finessed the clubs and lost only a heart and a diamond trick. The interesting point of the hand is that North and South can make five spades, even though West opens a spade and leads another when he gets in with a heart. It can be made either by establishing the fifth diamond or by end-playing West after stripping his hand of spades and hearts.

 Paul Nelson of the Midland Independent School District Board, said contracts would be let soon for the two new elementary school buildings which will cost a total of more than $300,000.
 R. L. Miller discussed industrial and business expansion projects and urged that business areas be properly outlined and described for the benefit of persons seeking locations here.
 Dr. John B. Thomas, president of the Midland Memorial Foundation, said architects are drafting plans for its proposed 75-bed hospital.
 Mayor A. N. Hendrickson discussed the airport situation.

Conn Returns To U. S. Eager To Meet Louis

By SID FEDER NEW YORK—(AP)—Sporting a 91-point service record and a pair of corporal's stripes, Billy Conn came home from 15 months overseas Tuesday in a great big hurry to see (a) his family, (b) a restaurant and (c) Joe Louis in a ring.

The restaurant was easy. And Billy, who never has been accused of backing away from groceries, treated the knife and fork in a manner to which they haven't been accustomed since he departed on a tour of 325 exhibition bouts for a million GIs in Italy, France, England, Ireland, Austria, Germany and way stations.

He had to be satisfied with "seeing" the family by telephone, since Mary Louise, three-year-old David and eight-month-old Billy Jr., to whom he still needs a formal introduction—are in Pittsburgh.

As for Louis—Uncle Mike Jacobs immediately began cooking with the prospects of a gate that figures to go into seven figures in a cake-walk, unless the Pittsburgh pretty boy or the Bomber switch from busting beaks to writing poetry.

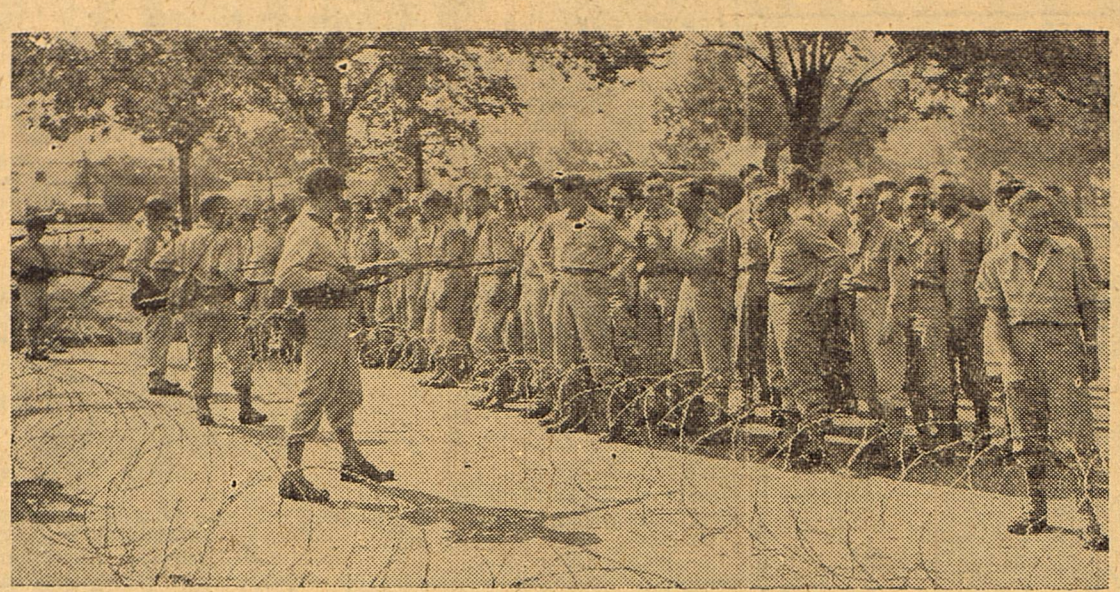

Although both he and Joe are still taking orders from Uncle Sam, the Jacobs beach beachcombers figured their return match as a cinch for next June.

Sam Baugh And Luckman Meet In Game Tuesday CHICAGO—(AP)—The Chicago Bears, hoping to regain the power they wielded so many years in the National Football League, will get their first test Tuesday night when they meet the Washington Redskins in an international exhibition game at Soldier Field.

The game may evolve into a passing duel between Luckman, recently discharged from the Merchant Marine, and Washington's Sammy Baugh. Both Baugh and Luckman, who is starting his seventh season with the Bears, hold numerous league passing records.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Neilson "Net" Poe won't be coaching the scrub football squad at Princeton this year — which doesn't necessarily mean that Charley Caldwell will have a po' team.

It means that the family that was as much a part of Princeton tradition as Nassau Hall, Prospect Street or the duckboards on the campus walks in winter won't be represented for the first season in some 55 years.

Tigers Keep Lead As Chi Sox Down Sins In Moonlight

By JACK HAND Associated Press Sports Writer Detroit remains out in front in the American League scramble Tuesday because Washington ran into a dose of its own night ball medicine in Earl Caldwell, a mid-night specialist from Chicago whose fast one dips and darts in the moonlight.

Six victories adorn Caldwell's 1945 record and every one has been earned under the beguiling influence of Mr. Edison's arclights. But the big one came Monday night when he stopped the Senators just when they had a chance to catch the Tigers.

After routing the White Sox, 10-4, in the first of a two-night double-header by the simple method of scoring seven times in the first inning, Clark Griffith's moonlight savior boys ran into Mr. Caldwell's magic and succumbed, 9-4.

A win would have boosted the Nats into a virtual tie with the Bengals, although they still would have trailed by a couple of skinny percentage points, but the split left them a full game back.

All is not lost in the Nation's capital, because Detroit, heads that party this weekend but a golden opportunity had been missed. The Senators have only 14 more games to play to the Tigers' 18, five against Washington.

Detroit opened the most important week of its pennant drive without the services of Hank Greenberg who had a sprained ankle and Eddie Mayo who was suffering from a bruised hip.

Steve O'Neill had to be satisfied with an even split in Boston Monday and had to scramble to get that. After bowing to Dave Ferriss who notched his twenty-first triumph in the 9-2 opener, the Tigers just did shadow Emmett O'Neill on a first major league hit by Eddie Mierkovic, a rookie just recalled from Buffalo.

The Yankees proved they aren't as bad as their recent actions would indicate when they stopped Cleveland's Al Smith, 5-1, on Charley Keller's grand slam homer in the seventh. Ernie Bonham's five-hitter did the trick. In addition to snapping a five-game losing streak New York took over third place by percentage point over St. Louis when the Browns bowed to the Athletics, 3-2, after taking the first game, 3-2, on Vern Stephens twenty-first homer.

Billy Southworth's persistent Cardinals continued to hang on Chicago's coat tails, knocking over New York, 2-1, at night after rookie Ed Wright of Boston had shut out the Cubs, 2-0, in the afternoon. The combination of events sliced the Bruins' margin to 2-1-2, which can easily become an even 2 if Brooklyn can hold a 10-4 lead for one inning Saturday when they finish off their suspended game with the Bruins.

Five more games between the Cards and Cubs in the final weeks of the season, probably will decide the issue. So far St. Louis has won 13 of 17 from Chicago.

Harry Brecheen did the job on the Giants, a six-hitter, for his twelfth victory. The crafty left-hander has shown remarkable form since he shook the miseries out of his arm in mid-July, sweeping nine out of 10 and dropping only a 2-1 game to Boston.

Brooklyn squeezed past Cincinnati, 3-2, with the help of rain that forced the game to be called in the eighth and resulted in postponement of the second tilt. Les Webber was the victor over Ed Heusser.

Nick Strincevich tossed Pittsburgh to a 9-5 decision over the Phillies cut to seven innings by rain. A scheduled second game was put over until Tuesday.
