160 Strikes Keep Half Million Idle

New and continuing disputes snarled traffic along the nation's broad labor front Thursday, slowing the pace of the country's reconversion program.

The mounting strife over labor issues—most of them involving wages and hours—brought a new high in the number of idle this year. The more than 160 separate strikes, shutdowns and work stoppages kept more than a half million workers away from their jobs. Fresh stoppages threatened to greatly expand the strike lines.

Labor Department officials were confronted with serious trouble in Eastern coal fields.

Shipping in New York Harbor partially paralyzed by a port-wide strike of 60,000 workers, including 46,000 AFL longshoremen.

The shutdowns of soft coal mines jumped to nearly 400 and the idle to about 115,000 in four states as additional thousands of miners joined in the spreading walkout, which stemmed from a strike of supervisory employes.

Emergency coal rationing was in effect in Pittsburgh, where a survey showed less than 1,000 tons in retail yards. The dispute arose over collective bargaining recognition of the Supervisory Employers Union, an affiliate of the United Mine Workers.

In Detroit, General Motors Corporation was the first of the motor industry's Big Three to give the CIO United Automobile Workers Union a reply on its demand of a 30 per cent wage rate boost. The proposal was rejected as "unreasonable." The union said negotiations would be resumed Saturday.

There were no immediate indications of a strike vote of 250,000 independent union telephone operators would not be conducted as announced from 1 to 5 p. m. (CST) Friday.

The vote will disrupt local and long distance service and may affect radio broadcasts and teletype systems, but service on dial telephones will not be affected.

Yoakum, Runnels and Cochran Get Wildcat Projects

Locations for wildcats in Northeast Yoakum, Northeast Runnels, and in East-Central Cochran County were reported Thursday.

Herbert Oil Company, of Fort Worth, No. 1 Lee heirs, 650 feet from north and west lines of section 377, block D, John H. Gibson survey, is to be a 5,500-foot development in Northeast Yoakum, about one mile south of Hunt Oil Company No. 1 Graham, which has shown some oil, but has not yet been officially completed.

S. H. Davis, and associates, of Tulsa, have staked location for No. 1-P John W. Harris, as a 4,000-foot prospect, three miles southwest of Crews, in Northeast Runnels. It is 1,041 feet from south and 1,083 feet from west lines of block 16, J. V. Cabrea survey No. 514. It is to start drilling at once.

North Of Whiteface

Alex McCutchen, of Dallas, filed application with the Railroad Commission to drill No. 1 W. W. Hammett, as a 5,000-foot, rotary exploration in East-Central Cochran County, about one mile north of closest production in the Whiteface sector on the northwest side of the Stanton field.

It will be 490 feet from south and west lines of labor 24, league 63, Midland County School Land survey. Drilling will start immediately.

Big Flow Reported

Eltex, Ltd., has filed report with the Railroad Commission's San Angelo office on No. 1 E. L. Martin, wildcat discovery in South-Central Wilcoita County, showing that the well flowed 81 barrels of 44 gravity oil through a one-half inch choke on 2-inch tubing, through 50 perforations in 7-inch casing at 3,801-09 feet, in the Bend, basal Pennsylvania.

That gives the development a 24-hour potential of 648 barrels of oil. No water was reported. The perforated section had been treated with 500 gallons of acid. It is 330 feet out of northeast corner of Wm. Hughes survey No. 6, and is three and one-half miles northwest of closest gas well in the Eden gas field, where the gas comes from the Bend horizon.

In San Andres

The Texas Company No. 1 Callahan, North Yoakum County wildcat in Northwest corner of section 308, block D, John H. Gibson survey, was making hole under 4,765 feet. Top of San Andres lime was picked at 4,540 feet, on an elevation of 3,734 feet, according to unofficial

'I'm A Patriot'

Pierre Laval

Pierre Laval's Trial Opens Amid Tumult, Charges

PARIS—(P)—Pierre Laval was expelled from the courtroom Wednesday during the first hours of the trial for his life for treason and the presiding judge, Paul Magnaud, announced that the hearing would continue without the presence of the former chief of the Vichy government.

Laval's lawyers had walked out and the judge, jury and prosecutor shouted in unison at Laval's assertion at the tumultuous opening of his trial for treason that: "I am a patriot and I will prove it."

Though the white-tied Laval lost his first skirmishes, he fought back hard and bitterly and prepared to act as his own attorney after his lawyers quit the courtroom, contending they had not had sufficient time to prepare their case or even access to the records.

Scorching words flew back and forth and so great was the confusion that it required Presiding Judge Paul Magnaud two hours to get the trial started formally with the reading of the lengthy indictment.

"You are, all of you, under government orders," Laval shouted to the high court of justice, which only Wednesday condemned to death Joseph Darnand, who headed the Gestapo-like Vichy militia, Accused Prosecutor.

"Even you, Mr. Prosecutor!" he cried at bearded Andre Mornet, who demanded and got the death penalties for the spy Mata Hari in the first war, and for Marshal Petain a few weeks ago. General De Gaulle commuted to life imprisonment the death sentence of Petain, who was chief of state in the Vichy government, in which Laval was chief of government.

"Your lawyers have had more than two and a half months to prepare the case," the judge told Laval in denying his demand for a postponement. "I am convinced that they could present an adequate defense if they wanted to, and that you can defend yourself."

Magnaud expelled Laval after the defendant, in a heated argument, slammed his brief case on a table and shouted:

"Well, condemn me now. At least the situation will be clear then."

A son of Pierre Cathala, former Vichy minister of agriculture, was applauded Laval's statement and arrested amid cries of "lynch him!"

The judge at this point suspended the proceedings and mobile guardsmen, armed with tommyguns, hauled Laval and young Cathala, from the courtroom.

ALWAYS AND UNION OFFICIALS NEGOTIATE

NEW YORK—(P)—Conferences between Pan American World Airways and the Transport Workers Union went into its second day Thursday, as officials attempted to negotiate a dispute which arose when 500 employes at the Pan American Miami base were laid off.

Weather

Cloudy with showers Thursday afternoon and night. Overcast Friday, probably breaking up during the day. Warmer Friday.

LATE NEWS FLASHES

WASHINGTON—(AP)—President Truman Thursday delayed temporarily the issuance of orders for government seizure of oil properties affected by a 15-state strike of CIO oil workers.

BOMBAY—(AP)—The provincial government announced Thursday revival of the emergency whipping act of 1941, which provides for the flogging of persons convicted of rioting and other charges. As Hindu-Moslem disturbances persisted the death toll stood at 36 and the injured at 174, while close to 700 persons have been arrested.

MONTEVIDEO—(AP)—The U. S. cargo vessel Atlanta City radioed Thursday the 1,405-ton Argentine freighter Toro sank after the two vessels collided off Rio Grande Do Sul, Brazil, and that she had picked up all 25 members of the Toro's crew.

19 Nations May Join U. S. In Repudiating Argentina

WASHINGTON—(P)—Argentina's army-dominated government is back in the Pan American doghouse—only four months after it got out.

United States patience with the Buenos Aires brass hats ran out Wednesday. Thursday the 19 other American republics appeared about ready to join in hanging up the diplomatic "quarantine" sign along the Rio De La Plata, Argentina's northern boundary.

Specifically, the republics seem certain to go ahead drafting a Pan American defense treaty that would exclude Argentina.

While treaty discussions are going on, however, the United States will take the lead in discussions of what else—if anything—the Americas are ready to do about their perennial problem child.

The first official step in the new crackdown probably will come Friday. The State Department has asked the Pan American Union governors to meet then to "consider" postponing the inter-American conference scheduled to open October 20 in Brazil.

Actually, the host government already has called off the conference. This came after the United States told Brazil it would not sit down at a conference table with the present Argentine government to draft the hemisphere defense treaty.

The treaty had been the chief item on the conference agenda.

Meeting newsmen, Acting Secretary of State Dean Acheson said the Argentine regime had repudiated completely the hemisphere and United Nations obligations it assumed last spring.

Wants Peace Voice

Herbert V. Evatt, above, Australian foreign minister, has demanded that all nations who fought against the Axis, not merely the Big Five, be given a voice in final peace settlements in Europe and the Pacific.

He urged that Australia be given an equal voice with Russia in settling peace in the Pacific.

Striking Oil Workers Study Seizure Order

BEAUMONT—(P)—Striking oil workers scattered over sprawling Texas will hold meetings Thursday to determine return-to-work action following the government's plant seizure orders.

Twenty-five thousand employes of 25 strike-closed refineries and affiliated plants are involved.

Developments Thursday were mainly verbal.

Jess J. Hichan, secretary of Local 367 of the Oil Workers International Union (CIO) at Houston, said "we have just got through losing a war" if the government can force workers back on their jobs.

"If the government can, in peacetime, order men back to work at the point of a bayonet, and make them work at the same terms and under the same conditions as before the strike was called, why, it means that we have just got through losing a war," he said.

Union meetings have been called in Houston to hear reports on the Washington conference of union and management with Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach.

Both the Humble Oil and Refining Company here and the Ingleside Refinery near Corpus Christi continued closing down gradually.

D. H. Byrd, president of the Independent Petroleum Association of Texas, said in a statement to the Fort Worth Star-Telegram from Washington that he believed the wage dispute was "just tossed in to confuse the issue" and that a close shop was the union's main objective.

Would Raise Gas Price

He said Texas oil workers already were receiving virtually the wages they were demanding. He added that if the government would allow oil companies to increase the base crude oil price 35 per cent, a 15 per cent wage increase could be given workers. He said it would mean an increase of one cent a gallon in the cost of gasoline, and proportionate increases in other products.

J. D. Ford, president of Local 23 at Port Arthur, Thursday denied he had said the union would resist government seizure of plants. He was quoted by a Beaumont Enterprise reporter as saying Wednesday night that "we take the position that this is an all-out battle and we are going to hold the line against industry and government, in that is necessary. We do not want to be manhandled by the capitalistic class of this country which is trying to bring on a depression."

Thursday, Ford said the interview was "entirely without foundation." He said the union has acted and will continue to act within the law.

"There is no law compelling anybody to work against his will, but this can not be interpreted as defiance of the U. S. government," he said Thursday.

Earlier, Yank troops had been reported isolated in two Kunning hills as central government and Yunnanese troops battled.

Word of Auran's announcement, which was confirmed by nighttime observations within Kunning itself, reached Chungking by military telephone.

Bitter Street Fighting

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's outer Wednesday of the war lord Lung, known as "the dragon," precipitated bitter street fighting between his troops and Chiang's army.

There still was no news on the whereabouts of Lung, who was reported ousted as director of the Chiang's Kunning headquarters and as vice-commander of supreme headquarters of the Chinese armies as well as governor.

A small central government force and Yunnanese fought a pitched battle Wednesday in rice fields opposite OSS (Office of Services and Supplies) headquarters compound.

Truman Replaces WPB With Civil Production Group

WASHINGTON—(P)—President Truman Thursday signed an executive order abolishing the War Production Board and replacing it with a Civilian Production Administration, effective November 3.

Press Secretary Charles G. Ross said that WPB Chairman J. A. Krug was resigning, effective Nov. 3, when the civilian production administration takes over under J. D. Small as administrator.

Small is now chief of staff for the WPB.

The President's order sets up the Civilian Production Administration in the Office for Emergency Management.

Tigers Win 4-1 To Even Series

BRIGGS STADIUM, DETROIT—(P)—The Detroit Tigers came riding back on Hank Greenberg's home run bat Thursday to whip the Chicago Cubs, 4 to 1, in the second game of the 1945 World Series and even the count at one win apiece.

The score:

Chicago..... 000 100 000—1 7 0

Detroit..... 000 040 000—4 7 0

Winning pitcher, Trucks; losing pitcher, Wyse.

Three Americans Wounded In China Forces Uprising

CHUNGKING—(P)—Maj. Gen. H. S. Auran, commander of U. S. Services of Supply units, Thursday announced complete cessation of fighting at Kunning between the Chinese central government troops and forces of deposed Yunnan governor, Lung Yun.

The situation is rapidly returning to normal after at least three Americans were reported wounded by the gunfire.

It was reported unofficially that two of the wounded Americans were hit when provincials surrounding the American Army Motor Pool in Kunning fired on GIs retreating from the place. The Americans had been ordered not to put up any resistance.

Earlier, Yank troops had been reported isolated in two Kunning hills as central government and Yunnanese troops battled.

Word of Auran's announcement, which was confirmed by nighttime observations within Kunning itself, reached Chungking by military telephone.

White House Fails To Disclose Extent Of Properties Involved

WASHINGTON—(P)—The White House said Thursday orders for government seizure of strikebound oil properties involved in a 15-state shutdown will be released Thursday.

Charles G. Ross, press secretary, told his news conference that the seizure orders were now being drawn for the President's signature, following collapse of government efforts to end a strike by 43,000 CIO oil workers.

He said the seizure orders would affect the struck oil properties but did not disclose whether entire companies or affected refineries will be taken over.

Neither did he say what federal agency would be authorized to seize the plants, involved in a wage dispute between the oil workers and 11 companies.

Officials of the Petroleum Administration for War, the agency which probably will be designated to carry out the refinery seizure, went to the White House Thursday morning.

Many Work Stoppages

PAW reported that 51 refineries are affected by the work stoppages. In addition, other plants are being picketed although employes are not on strike. Operations are curtailed in the picketed refineries.

Whether the picketed refineries, not directly involved in the dispute, will be seized along with plants tied up by strikes was a question to be determined at the White House conference.

A PAW official said the agency, which already had substantially reduced its staff preparatory to going out of business Jan. 1, faces a serious manpower problem if it handles the government seizure.

In some cases, seizure may be accomplished by sending a PAW representative to refineries to take control. In others, the companies may be instructed by telegram that the plants are to be operated on behalf of the government.

Seizure Last Resort

Seizure was a last resort to return the refineries to operation.

The labor secretary, weary from his day and night struggle to settle his first big "test" strike, recommended seizure of the refineries to assure delivery of fuel oil and gasoline to the Army and Navy and to essential civilian agencies.

Stanford Oil of Ohio, Cities Service, Shell Oil, Pure Oil, Tidewater, Union Oil, Pan-American, Socony-Vacuum, Texas, and Sinclair Companies. An eleven-firm, Stanolind Pipeline Company, was in on the wage conferences but has no strike.

Union President O. A. Knight called an emergency meeting of his executive board to decide whether to ask the 43,000 strikers to go back to work for the government.

Both sides in the controversy were aware of the significance of their decisions. The union was in the vanguard of the CIO's drive for 25 to 30 per cent higher wages for millions of members in auto, steel, rubber, electrical and maritime industries.

Business Men Are Cooperating In Rat Eradication Drive

With the treating of 17 buildings Wednesday in the Midland Junior Chamber's anti-rat campaign, the total number of buildings treated in three days is 44, Graham Smoot, sanitarian for the Midland County Health unit, reported.

Return visits were made Wednesday to 25 of the treated buildings and more than 60 per cent of the baits were found taken.

The business men of the city have cooperated 100 per cent in the campaign, Smoot said. Dr. J. A. Clean, director of the health unit, said the cooperation being shown will contribute much to the good health of the city.

A citizens committee will meet at the health unit at 1:30 p. m. Friday to start inspecting the alleys of the business district. The alleys will be scored as to cleanliness and sanitation.

Carl Peay, chairman of the Jay-Cees' public health committee, reminded citizens the rodent eradication campaign is costing about $50 and said citizens who wish to make a contribution toward the expense can do so by mailing a check to the Junior Chamber of Commerce, postoffice box 1908, or by leaving a contribution at the Chamber of Commerce.

SCIENTIST SAY BASES AGAINST BOMB NONSENSE

COPENHAGEN—(P)—Niels Bohr, Danish scientist who was closely associated with the atomic bomb research, told an assembly of technicians here Wednesday night he believed no defense against the bomb was possible, and thus "talk of military bases is nonsense."

The proposed action apparently is intended to protest the report (Continued on Page Five)

The Rebellious Annamites

It is a tragic misfortune that violence broke out again in East Asia where peace was restored so recently, and that lives were lost, including that of an American officer. But perhaps it would be wise to curb the impulse to condemn the rioting Annamites of Indo-China. For it may be that they are slightly confused by recent events.

Four years ago the Japs moved in to replace the French as overlords of Annam and the other Indo-Chinese colonies. This was done with the connivance of France which, being then a colony of Nazi Germany, had no choice in the matter.

Now France, having been rescued only recently from her degrading colonial status, has moved in to resume her former place as ruler of Indo-China.

Perhaps the Annamites had been so carried away by wartime talk of freedom and democracy and liberation that they forgot they are supposed to be an inferior people incapable of self-rule.

Perhaps they even remembered the words of two former heads of state who met in mid-ocean during the darkest days of Nazi tyranny and wrote such words as these:

"They (the heads of state) desire to see no territorial changes that do not accord with the freely expressed wishes of the peoples concerned. . . . They respect the right of all peoples to choose the form of government under which they will live; and they wish to see sovereign rights and self-government restored to those who have been forcibly deprived of them."

Perhaps the Annamites recalled that, in January of 1942, all governments then at war with the Axis had subscribed to this "common program of purposes and principles embodied in the joint declaration of the President of the United States and the prime minister of the United Kingdom . . . known as the Atlantic Charter."

The Annamites may have noticed that the heads of a good many civilized governments are full of repentance, loving kindness and political morality when confronted with disaster, but that they have a way of reverting to their old ways of thinking and doing once peril is past.

And the Annamites, being less sophisticated and self-deceiving than some of the world's tribes, may have decided that the only way to independence lay in strong action—even if that meant fighting a coalition of the French, the British, and the recent common enemy of all concerned, the Japanese.

More Vigor Needed

After reading reports of the Foreign Ministers' Council in London, it wasn't surprising to learn that John Foster Dulles, Republican adviser to the American delegation there, has called off his projected inspection tour of eastern Europe.

Dulles was to do some looking and reporting for Secretary of State Byrnes. But the conclusions he gained from the trip apparently were intended to guide American policy in future foreign ministerial meetings. And it would seem that after the rough, tough and acrimonious sessions in London, we don't have a great many policies left.

Britain's Bevin has been insistent. Russia's Molotov has been even more insistent. According to all reports, he has discarded the kid gloves of diplomacy and pursued his demands with bare knuckles. As a consequence the other ministers have been confused, and there has been a good deal of back-pedaling.

To American eyes Molotov's demands are imperialistic and dangerous. At the same time, it is hard not to be impressed by his vigorous battle for them. Perhaps now that Byrnes has come up against his method of attack, the secretary will be better able to devise an attack of his own.

There is little reason why the United States should not put forth its postwar diplomatic program with strength and confidence. We are a strong and powerful nation. We believe that our general program is just, humane and sensible. If there must be a showdown over it with Russia, let us have it now before the rift with our wartime ally grows wider.

Americans have a word for it

Bill Larkin's boy, who's back from overseas for good, was telling us about the funny customs and the different languages of European countries.

One thing he noticed is that in so many of those countries there is no word for "home." "House," yes . . . or "building." But no name that stands for what we mean when we say home.

"In spite of the fact," says Bill, "that it's the most important thing there is . . . a place where you can take your shoes off and let down your hair . . . enjoy a glass of beer before the fire and relax with folks you love!"

From where I sit, that may be an important difference between this country and some others. The conception of home as a place of tolerance and sacred loyalties—where differences of habit and opinion give way before love and understanding! Yes, we Americans have a name for it!

Marriage Of Miss Suzanne LaForce, W. H. Baber Jr. Solemnized Thursday

In a high noon wedding solemnized Thursday at the First Presbyterian Church, Miss Suzanne LaForce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Watson LaForce, became the bride of Lt. William H. Baber, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Baber, Sr., of Chico, Calif. The Rev. Hubert H. Hopper directed the vows for the double ring ceremony.

The back of the altar was banked with ivy with large baskets of white and yellow chrysanthemums in the foreground. On either side of the altar were tall candelabra containing white tapers which were lighted preceding the ceremony by W. Watson LaForce, Jr., brother of the bride.

Pre-nuptial music was by Miss Joyce Hays of Weatherford, Texas, classmate of the bride's at Stephens College in Columbia, Mo., who sang "Love Sends a Little Gift of Roses." She was accompanied at the organ by Sgt. Donald M. Gillett of Midland Army Air Field, who played the traditional wedding marches. As the vows were repeated by the bridal couple, Sergeant Gillett played "Clara de Lune."

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a wedding gown of white satin fashioned with a Chinese-designed neckline and long sleeves ending with pearl points over the wrist. The tight fitting skirt extended into a long train. She wore an heirloom lace and bridal illusion veil and carried a bouquet of gardenias and stephanotis.

Matron of Honor

Mrs. T. Hall Keyes, III, attended her sister as matron of honor. She was attractively attired in a chertreuse satin long cocktail suit. She wore a small matching hat and carried a bouquet of orchids and stephanotis.

Lieutenant Keyes served the bridegroom as best man. Attired in a blue crepe dress, Mrs. LaForce, mother of the bride, wore a small black tulle hat and a corsage of gardenias.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Watson home, 602 South Main. A bouquet of white gladioli was used in decorating the bride's table which was covered with a lace cloth. The three-tiered wedding cake was topped with a single white orchid and stephanotis.

Coffee and cake were served the reception guests by Mrs. Edward Oulbertson and Mrs. William Y. Penn.

After the reception Lt. and Mrs. Baber left for Chico, Calif., where they will make their home. Mrs. Baber chose for travel a black broadcloth suit with which she wore a white blouse and black accessories. Completing her attire was a white orchid corsage.

The bride is a graduate of Midland High School and Stephens College in Columbia, Mo. While attending Stephens, she was a member of Beta Sigma Beta sorority.

Before enlisting in the U. S. Army Air Forces four years ago, Lieutenant Baber was a student at the University of California in Berkeley. He received his commission and bombardier wings at Midland Army Air Field, where he returned for his OIS training after serving in the Central Pacific. He recently received his discharge from the armed forces and will be engaged in the ranching industry in Chico, Calif.

LOVE BRAVES AN ATOM BOMB

By OREN ARNOLD Copyright by NEA SERVICE, Inc.

PLANS FOR TWO
XVIII

BOB HALE suffered the tortures of the damned as he raced back down the old mine road. It was narrow, and winding, and so required 10 minutes at the best possible speed. He was sobbing in a sort of restrained hysteria. Neither he nor the man with him could speak. Bob had black visions of his village completely buried or at least laid in death and ruin. Specifically, he suffered in seeing Carolyn Tyler dead a thousand ways.

He swerved around the last curve, then, and instantly identified Carolyn herself.

He yelled at her. "CAROLYN! CAROLYN!"

It was a wild, frenzied cry which slipped into infinite gladness when he saw that she was actually running.

The village seemed intact, and other folk were stirring now, but he recognized Carolyn from afar partly because he so desperately wanted to and partly because he couldn't mistake the bright red shirt she still wore, the same one she had worn during the ride.

He stopped his car when he had to jump out and started running.

All at once he was holding her. Just clasping her tight, feeling her cry and trembling powerfully with her in sheer intensity of emotions.

It was she who murmured first. "Bob! ... Bob!"

"Little girl!" He kissed the top of her forehead, still squeezing her close. He shut his eyes tightly. There was a strange, sad, and yet sweet ecstasy between them.

THERE was no chance to relax for almost 24 hours. But late on that second day, amid the stir-us even there, but I couldn't know about you."

He held her very close. "You waited. For me! It seems to me that I have waited for you since time began, Carolyn! Waited and hungered for you. If it hadn't been for your Ken Palmer, I should have— Carolyn, I want you I don't intend to be a gentleman ever again! You had told me in the beginning that Ken loved you. I felt it only fair to—"

"But I didn't say I loved him!" She laughed again. "And all this, while I thought you indifferent!"

Arrested by order of General MacArthur, presumably to be held as a war criminal, is Jap Gen. Kenji Doihara, above, who was ordered into custody shortly after becoming commander of the enemy's First General Army. In that post he was responsible for disarming and demobilizing over 1,000,000 Japanese troops.

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

By WILLIAM E. McKENNEY
America's Card Authority

One of the most difficult lessons for players to learn is the simple one of counting tricks. They will try all kinds of complicated plays to make the contract, when the simple principle of counting is all that is involved. Today's hand is an example.

On the second club trick, declarer made the natural discard of a diamond, then led the ace and another diamond, ruffed with the seven in dummy, and East overruffed with the eight.

If South had counted his tricks, he would have known that he

Yank And Japs Killed As Barge Explodes

There was no immediate report of the cause of the blast.

Six Die In Collision Of Hospital Bus And Car

SAN ANTONIO—(AP)—Six persons were killed and another seriously injured and nine escaped with minor injuries in a head-on collision late Wednesday between a hospital bus and an auto at Seguin. W. Summers, driver of the bus, was the only victim identified early Thursday.

The bus, used for transferring of patients of the Riverview Hospital here, turned over and burned. Two women patients and the three male occupants of the other car were also killed.

Four Killed As Bus Collides With Car

DALLAS—(AP)—A Bowen bus, traveling from Fort Worth to Corsicana, collided head-on with an automobile four miles west of Ennis, Texas, Wednesday night, killing four residents of Ennis and injuring 10 others.

The dead, all occupants of the automobile, were: Martha Lou O'Bannick, Billy Ray Causey, George Wilkerson, and Marjorie Edrington.

Rotarians Are Urged To Support Youth For Christ Movement Here

Midland Rotarians were urged to support a Youth for Christ movement here by the Rev. Paul Cox, pastor of the Assembly of God Church. He addressed the club at its meeting Thursday noon in the Scharbauer Hotel.

He declared juvenile delinquency is apparent in Midland, and that parents' delinquency causes juvenile delinquency. "We are facing problems and we are going to have to solve them," he continued. "We must help our young people. Churches are working to meet the need and we must get down to business."

"Midland needs a Youth for Christ movement and one of these interdenominational rallies should be staged at least once a month. Ninety per cent of our young people don't participate in activities planned here for them. Suggests Canteen

"A Youth for Christ Canteen should be established in Midland and be operated Friday and Saturday nights for our high school students. Our young people need something to do." The club's directors were instructed to determine what it could do to aid.

Mr. Cox's sister-in-law, Mrs. Lois L. Cox of Springfield, Mo., discussed the activities of Assemblies of God in connection with servicemen and youth work. She told of Victory Centers which are operated by the church.

Vocal selections were presented by Cox, his wife and his sister-in-law. T. Paul Barron was program chairman. Delbert Downing told of the Ray-Cees rat extermination drive and J. L. Miller discussed the United Victory Chest campaign and urged Rotarians to contribute liberally and promptly.

Guy Breneman, club president, presided at the meeting.

Oil Regulatory Body Representatives Here

C. W. Strance, chief supervisor, and F. L. Piller, of the tender department of the oil and gas division of the Railroad Commission at Austin, are spending several days in the Midland office of the commission.

While in this area Strance is visiting several West Texas oil fields, in order to become better acquainted with the problems of the operators.

CAMP MAXEY AT PARIS DECLARED INACTIVATED

WASHINGTON - (AP) - The inactivation of the Infantry Replacement Center at Camp Maxey, Paris, Texas, has been announced by the War Department. The future status of the camp was not reported.

CEILING PRICES REMOVED FROM SHEETS THURSDAY

WASHINGTON - (AP) - The OPA raised retail ceilings on sheets and pillow cases Thursday. Wholesalers and retail stores already have absorbed two increases in manufacturing costs, OPA announced, and cannot be expected to stand another.

Gulf Oil Corporation No. 1 Hancock, Southwest Cochran County exploration in section 5, block L, psi survey, one and one-half miles east and one-half mile north of the discovery well for the Landon field (Stanolind Oil & Gas Company No. 1 Edwards), was to be plugged and abandoned on a total depth of 5,204 feet in the San Andres lime. Hancock Is D&A

In a drillstem test at 5,184-5,204 feet, for one and three-quarter hours, recovery was 1,100 feet of drilling mud, and 1,090 feet of sulphur water. No petroleum evidences were reported.

Union Oil company of California No. 1-A Williams, South Gaines County exploration in northwest corner of section 7, block C-44, psi survey, was at 5,510 feet, in lime, and was to take a drillstem test at 5,440-5,510 feet. A test for one hour at 5,440-56 feet, recovered 220 feet of drilling mud, with no shows of oil or gas.

Buchanan Will Perforate Fumble Oil & Refining Company No. 1 Buchanan, in Baldrige survey No. 32-692, in East Midland County, was to perforate and test at 10,500 feet.

Stanolind Oil & Gas Company and the Landreth Production Company No. 3-Q Scharbauer, in section 12, block A, psi survey, in Northwest Ector County, was drilling ahead after a core at 8,570-80 feet, recovered 8.5 feet of green and red shale sand. There was no porosity and no oil show. Some sources say the section might be the McKee zone of the Simpson. Slight oil stains appeared in samples above 8,570 feet, and that was the reason for the core.

More Purchases Stanolind Oil & Gas Company reported purchases of mineral rights on 987 acres in South Crane County, of the Barnsley lands for $50 per acre bonus, one dollar per year rental, and $200 per acre to be paid out of 1/16th of any oil produced.

Tracts involved are northwest quarter of section 26, south half of section

Waco-Highland Park Game No. 1 Of Week

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF Associated Press Sports Editor Waco's Tigers, who were rated No. 1 most of last season—that is, until they met Lufkin in the state quarter-finals—Friday night will test the team that's ranked at the top this year and it's the head attraction of an important week of Texas schoolboy football.

Bulldogs Practice In Rain For Expected Mud Battle With Plainview

The Midland High football team has resigned itself to the belief that its 1945 football season is going to be a series of rain and mud battles. Rain fell during the Bulldogs' first two games and rain is in prospect for the Midland-Plainview game in Plainview Friday night, and if not rain, at least mud.

Trucks To Hurl For Tigers And Wyse For Cubs In Second Game Of Series

By SID FEDER DETROIT—(AP)—If the Detroit Tigers show up Thursday, the Chicago Cubs take them on again in the second game of the 1945 World Series, but it will be a long piece before the folks forget the "ice water" Handy Andy Pakko must use for blood and the watermelon-sized heart Hank Borowy has tickling for him.

Midland-Odesa 'B' Team Game Postponed

The scheduled football game between the Midland and Odesa "B" teams Thursday night has been postponed until a later date. The decision was reached Thursday morning during a telephone conversation between Midland and Odesa school officials.

Two Overseas Vets Meet Again Here

Two men who were stationed here with the 69th coast artillery at the ball park in 1942 have returned to Midland and met again. Thomas Boyce Conford and John Moscardino left here and served overseas on different fronts.

G.I.'s stationed in England have been instructing inexperienced British girls in the art of making up their mouths, says Mrs. Marjorie Newson-Smith, director of the Dorothy Gray salon in London, in New York on a visit.

But don't let this news throw you. Use it as food for thought, and switch your point of view, if you think our boys aren't hep to tricks.

Returned G.I.'s who have been engaged in art work abroad with lipsticks and brushes are apt to be very critical of any had jobs they view at home. So check up if you've grown careless during their absence.

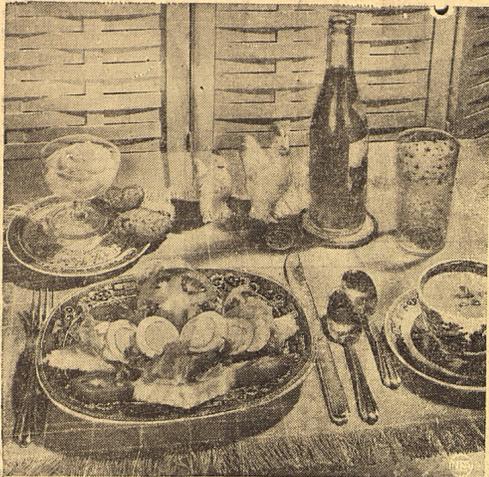

Fleety who aren't so hep to tricks as those we cite will still like to see make-up put on as they've dreamed American girls apply it—so perfectly that no one can tell that the lily is gilded.

To Reduce, Enjoy Eating Wise

Soup, egg and tomato salad, carbonated beverage, pudding and cookies for moderately active woman's luncheon.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Staff Writer

The moderately active woman can often reduce slowly and healthfully by eating well-balanced meals intelligently planned. Each meal should provide approximately one-third of her daily food requirements.

Here's a luncheon menu planned in accordance with recommendations of Committee on Nutrition of National Research Council. It provides one-third of moderately active woman's requirements for vitamins, minerals, protein and calories:

Quick Cream Of Pea Soup (Serves 4-6)

One (No. 2) can peas, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 2 teaspoons salt, 3 cups milk.

Remove peas from liquid and put through a sieve. Melt butter in top of double boiler over hot water. Add flour and salt; stir until smooth. Add milk gradually and cook five minutes, stirring constantly. Blend in drained peas. Continue cooking until thoroughly hot. For a thinner soup, the juice from the peas may be added.

Landing Spies And Agents On French Coast Was Routine Stuff For OSS

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
WASHINGTON—Landing Allied spies and agents on the coast of France when it was controlled by the Germans was routine stuff for the men of the Office of Strategic Services working with British Intelligence officers. But the stories of the deeds of these men constitute one of the thrilling chapters of World War II.

I. Michael Carroll, a Yale graduate from Chicago, had been doing this work for many months, operating off the coast of England. He was a Navy lieutenant with OSS. A month after D-Day he got his most important assignment.

The Normandy beachhead was stalled. Gen. Patton was ready to try to crash through to Avranches and Brest and knock the Germans out of Brittany, but it was essential to find out how many divisions of the German strategic reserves had been moved into that area. It was decided to send in three French spies to find out. Time was all-important. The situation was explained to Carroll and he was assigned to plan the landing of these men.

A Race With The Moon

Phase of the moon was one of the most important factors in the landing operation. When the moon was bright it was impossible. He had three days before the moon would come out. The first two days a storm raged over the channel. Afternoon of the third day it began to abate but the water was still very rough. It was decided to make the attempt anyway. It would be weeks before they could try again.

The three French spies and their equipment were towed beneath the deck of the British Motor Torpedo Boat. It was an unwritten rule that in all such operations the men to be landed remained below deck and never communicated with any member of the landing crew.

Although the storm had lessened, it was raining and very windy. About mid-channel complete darkness had fallen. Speed was cut to 20 knots. The motor made less noise at this speed. As they got closer they traveled slower. Since the invasion the Germans had become doubly alert along the coast they still controlled. They were afraid of a second invasion. Planes could be heard approaching but none of them spotted the boat in the murky night.

As they came close to a rocky island about 20 miles from the coast, a lighthouse suddenly flashed its beam. A German convoy was close by. This was bad. It meant Sure enough. Though the rain could be seen three large ships. The motors on the MTB were cut to idling and the boat drifted. The crew was tense. They just had to sweat it out until the convoy passed, hoping they wouldn't be seen.

Four 45 minutes the dark shapes moved slowly past. The last ship seemed headed straight for their boat. If they tried to move to get out of the way they surely would have been detected. It was a dangerous moment. But the ship suddenly turned and passed within 100 yards of the small British craft. When it was out of sight the beacon went out and they resumed their slow course to the coast.

Peril From The Sky

Finally they inched to within a quarter of a mile of the shore. They anchored behind a rock for protection. The situation was bad. Waiting for the convoy had upset the schedule. The tide was coming out fast and the surf was running high. The wind was howling. With difficulty they lowered two dinghies. Just as the three Frenchmen were getting in the rear of a plane sailing at them was heard. It came straight towards them like thunder. The spit of a machine gun could be seen. Everyone in the small boat stood frozen in their position. About 50 slugs hit the boat but nobody was struck. It passed and didn't return. They didn't know whether it was an American or German plane. The pilot was probably guessing at his target.

Fifteen minutes after the two dinghies pushed off the single word, "touchdown," came over the walkie talkie. This meant they were safely ashore. Ten minutes later the terse words, "coming back" were spoken. This was the maximum communication they could use without attracting attention. Fifteen minutes later the dinghies should have been back. Ten more minutes passed. The crew was getting tense. The whole thing could fall if they were caught now. Finally they arrived and a few minutes later were able to start their slow journey out of the danger zone.

Germans Are Foiled

Gradually speeding up to 10 knots they were getting close to mid-channel when out of the darkness a light signal flashed at them. It blinked "KX," German code for "halt." The MTB flashed back immediately. "KT," German code for "hold up a minute." They had learned this from other agents.

The whole mission could still be ruined. Their capture would mean the Germans knew spies had been landed and the resulting intensive search might locate them. Flashing "KT" frantically the MTB increased its speed. All they had to do was bluff their way out of gun range and open up to full speed. The crew of the small boat rushed to battle stations in case a fight developed.

In a few moments, however, the motors roared into full throttle. They were out of range and soon the light was out of sight. They had done the job. Later they heard that the three Frenchmen had been successful in their mission. Patton broke through, as history tells.

Lieut. Carroll received the Bronze Star Medal for his work.

THE WAR TODAY

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

You'd think that the Big Five Council of Foreign Ministers in London would have been able to reach some sort of workable accord, what with the Second World War still casting its monstrous shadow over us, and the entire Eastern Hemisphere, from Europe clear through Asia, facing a desperate period of hunger and politico-economic chaos.

Time is precious in these perilous days. It would be absurd, of course, to suppose that peace treaties and other far-reaching agreements can be reached in a few hours but it's a terrible mistake to underestimate the dangers of slowness in getting the war-torn countries—enemy as well as Allied—back on their feet as fast as possible. Before the coming winter is through we are going to see situations in the late war theaters where delay of even a week in distribution of food will cost many lives from starvation.

This isn't to say that the present foreign ministers' conference has been directly concerned with such problems as the feeding of Europe. The main item on its agenda has been the framing of peace treaties for Bulgaria, Hungary, Romania and Finland. Still, this task has a very direct relation to the rehabilitation question.

Big Three May Meet

Back in the dark days of the war, when the Allies had great problems to solve, there was a meeting of the big three chiefs of state. Those three men, accompanied by their experts and advisers, ironed out the mutual problems and laid plans for conduct of the war. Probably they had their differences of opinion at times, but because they were only three and were clothed with vast authority, they always reached an accord.

So it's good to hear talk of another possible meeting of the Big Three heads of state to take up the situations which are plaguing rehabilitation now. If President Truman, Generalissimo Stalin and Prime Minister Attlee could get together in the immediate future, it might make all the difference to the Allied progress in reconstruction.

Unfortunately, power politics also have entered into the picture. These things have given rise to suspicions among the Allies. Probably the best way to tackle this highly dangerous matter of suspensions is to dump them onto a table before the Big Three chiefs. There such problems as the atomic bomb could be thrashed out—and don't let anybody think that the bomb hasn't created a terrific international question. A meeting of these three statesmen would be calculated to set the peace wheels turning fast.

Freshly harvested potatoes offer more vitamin C than those coming on winter markets from storage.

CAMP WALTERS RETURNED TO ACTIVE STATUS

WASHINGTON—(P)—Camp Walters at Mineral Wells, Texas, got a new lease on life Wednesday when the War Department agreed to return it to the active list of military establishments.

Rep. Russell (D-Texas), who announced the action, said Army officials told him the camp would remain active for at least six months.

FOR SWEET BREATH
KEEP TEETH CLEAN

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

Many a breath owes its fragrance to its owner's habit of using dental floss between teeth that crowd together.

Dislodging food, which so quickly becomes decomposed, is a good practice for still another reason. Gums are sometimes irritated by these lodgers.

But since yanking with a piece of floss also can wreak havoc with gums, you should for safety's sake ask your dentist on your next visit to show you how to use it.

Now, that we're on this subject of mouths, maybe this is a good time to mention another practice that will assure you a sweet breath. That's the simple business of uncoating a tongue.

Combine Vegetables With Meat

Stuffed peppers as a meat-vegetable combination.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Staff Writer

No matter how much more meat you are getting, serve plenty of vegetables every day. Combine meat and vegetables for luncheon main dishes. Stuffed green peppers make an ideal combination.

Stuffed Peppers
(Serves 6)

Six green peppers, 1 egg, 1 1/2 teaspoons salt, 1/8 teaspoon pepper, 3 tablespoons minced onion, 1 cup cooked tomatoes, 3/4 cup bran, 3/4 pound ground beef.

Cut stem ends from peppers, remove seeds. Parboil about 5 minutes in boiling salted water. Beat egg slightly; add salt, pepper, onion, tomatoes and bran. Let soak until most of moisture is taken up. Add ground beef and mix well. Fill green peppers with meat mixture. Arrange in greased baking dish, stuffed side up. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) about 40 minutes.

Barbecued Hamburgers

One and one-half pounds ground beef, 1/2 cup dry bread crumbs, 3/4 cup milk, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon black pepper, 2 tablespoons shortening, 1/2 teaspoon tabasco sauce, 2 tablespoons vinegar, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1/2 cup tomato puree, 1/4 cup chopped onion, 1/4 cup chopped celery.

Combine meat, bread crumbs, milk, salt and pepper. Form into patties. Brown on both sides in hot shortening in a picnic skillet over glowing coals. Combine remaining ingredients and pour over patties. Cook, turning occasionally, for about 20 minutes.

GI Carried Key To France On D-Day And Back To Amarillo Job

By JACK RUTLEDGE
Associated Press Staff

When Johnny comes marching home—

Tommy E. Pangle of Amarillo stepped out of uniform and into his dream job.

Tommy was born in Amarillo, early learned to love the movies, worked as an usher.

When the Paramount was opened in 1932 Tommy bought the very first ticket sold by the house. Later he went to work for the movie and when the war broke out he was treasurer.

Amarillo Theater Manager Jack King told him his job would be waiting, gave him a key to the front door. King said he might get back home late at night and want to get in.

Tommy carried the key to England, to France on D-Day, and back home again. Three years to the day he left home, he stepped off the bus, wanted to go to work that night. King made him rest a while. But he's back on the job now—as manager of Paramount.

Another Amarillo veteran who came home to a nice thing was Herman Sloss.

Sloss doffs his hat to the women. He operates the Trading Post, left it in charge of his wife and their partner, Miss Hannah Singer. They not only kept it going profitably, but converted from war to peace smoothly, added numerous improvements, and Sloss found it in better shape than ever.

Sloss says American women did a nice job keeping business running while their men were away.

And around Temple, the old World War I song "How You Gonna Keep 'Em Down on the Farm, After They've Seen Parade?" is very out-moded.

Returning veterans sing a different tune, according to H. C. Hill of the Blackland Experiment Station. He says they want to come back to the farm, has at least 40 GIs to back up his statement.

After the hell of Bataan and Okinawa and Anzio, peace on the farm is like heaven to the boys. And this war's veterans, says Hill, are smart enough to know it and are flocking back to the soil they left.

Canadian Town Struck It Rich And Thousands Try Luck As Prospectors

By ROSELLEN CALLAHAN
NEA Staff Correspondent

VAL D'OR, QUE.—You can walk along the main street of this gold mine boomtown and meet a dozen millionaires before you've gone three blocks.

Ten years ago Val D'Or—or Valley of Gold—was impenetrable bush. Its population was five prospectors who had nothing more to their names than pick-axes and 30-pound packs of grub and equipment. Then the Sisko gold mine was discovered, and the rush was on.

Today Val D'Or is an orderly town of 7500 that knows exactly where it's going. It has five rich producing mines, a thousand more prospective mines, and the promise of becoming one of the big metropolises of the north.

Stakes Claim

Rags-to-riches is an old story up here. Stocky, quiet-spoken Mike Mitto is a typical Horatio Alger character. Mike, who went to school with Stalin in his native Georgia, came to Canada with little more than ambition and physical fortitude so necessary in this north country. The first man into Val D'Or, he pushed his way through the bush in a tractor to stake his claims. Today he is one of the Dominion's richest men, has hundreds of acres of mining property both here and at Yellowknife in western Canada, to which he commutes by plane.

Everyone has the gambling spirit in this town. They'll put their last penny into mining. No matter where you go or whom you meet, the conversation always turns to gold.

Steak 65 Cents

The proprietor of the Chinese restaurant will spend 15 minutes bemoaning how close he came to making a killing on a stock that jumped from 15 cents to a dollar and a half overnight, before taking your dinner order. But when dinner does come it's really something. You can get a juicy, tender two-pound sirloin steak with all the trimmings for 65 cents.

That's not typical of prices in Val D'Or however. Property prices, for instance, have skyrocketed. A business lot that once sold for $200 is worth $15,000—if you can buy it. Rents are whatever you're lucky enough to cut them down to, if you should ever be fortunate to find a house or apartment.

To attract thousands more men to this mining community, Andy Robertson, another pioneer who came to Val D'Or by dog team ten years ago and is now manager of the Golden Manitou Mine, is planning to build a model town. "We want to make mining really attractive so that people will want to bring their families here and

AVOID PLATFORM SHOES IF PETITE

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

Platform shoes are an adjunct of dress which too many petite-size women rely upon to stretch their height. What advantages are added inches if the means for stretching stature give the illusion of foreshortened feet and figure?

Sometimes a high heel on a less bulky shoe will do much better by a petite-size who desperately wants to look taller.

Paradoxically enough, the platform shoe is a better footwear friend of the tall gal. It gives her the good, medium height of heel she needs, and makes a much better choice for her than the too-flat shoe, which is such an obvious device for cutting off inches.

Auto Workers Union Waives Seniority Rights In Favor Of Militant Veterans

By BURTON HEATH
NEA Staff Correspondent
DETROIT—The nation's biggest labor union, the United Automobile Workers, doesn't hesitate about talking to the big motor car manufacturers, who themselves are no weaklings. But there is one minority group with which the UAW is sedulously avoiding any showdown. That is the veterans of World War II.

With Wayne County's more than 250,000 servicemen returning in ever-increasing numbers, the motor car manufacturers are anxious to take on as many as possible. Many of these GIs have job rights under the Selective Service Act.

But nobody knows what those rights are. Congress avoids clarifying the law though it knows that various executive agencies are applying it with sword's point differences. The companies are caught in the middle. Whatever they do is illegal. They're squeezed by varying interpretations of the law and by their contracts with UAW.

Nevertheless, they have succeeded in getting some veterans back on the payrolls—and often, thereafter, they have had to lay the GIs off again in accord with the seniority provisions of union contracts.

Unions Back Down
Whenever a GI thus ousted has become militant—so far as I can learn without exception—the unions have backed water and waived their alleged contract rights in his favor.

At the Lincoln plant, for instance, returned GIs were laid off, thereafter, others in strict compliance with seniority lists. They picketed the plant, protesting that under federal law they must be given work for at least a year. That is not the UAW's interpretation of the law, but the union made great haste to see that the GIs were reinstated on their jobs.

At the River Rouge plant a veteran was laid off in accordance with contractual seniority requirements. Several women employes offered to give up their jobs in his favor. The union hastened to see that he went back to work.

At Ford's Highland Park plant, after a layoff, veterans picketed with signs demanding, in one form or another: "Is this what we fought for?" The UAW decided that it was not, and the men went back to work.

Because the automobile industry so completely dominates the Detroit area, and because the seniority system in that industry is so almost inconceivably complicated, this city feels that it has a peculiarly difficult veteran employment problem ahead.

Little Trouble So Far
Up to now there has been a minimum of trouble. Through August, 34,568 servicemen had been discharged. The USES says that about half applied to it for jobs and 16,832 had been placed. The rest are assumed to have found places for themselves.

But there still are more than 200,000 to come home. Half of them presumably have rights, of a sort, under the Selective Service Act. The other half, according to Eugene E. Busha, chief of field operations for the War Manpower Commission here, never had regular jobs.

Most of them have taken it for granted that they would work in the automobile industry. But not one can be hired, under union contracts, until the war-bloated seniority lists have been completely exhausted.

There are, to be sure, plenty of jobs for all the men who will be demobilized for some time. In theory, that is—by the kind of arithmetic that says: "10,000 unemployed, 10,000 applications for workers—no unemployment."

Few Skilled Mechanics
The USES is besieged with requests for highly skilled mechanics—but few GIs qualify. The USES has applications for 1200 automobile mechanics who can make up to $150 a week; but they must be skilled, they must work six and seven days a week, and they must depend upon commissions.

There are some 2000 openings for building trades mechanics at as high as $160 and $175 an hour, with plenty of overtime at double pay. But first comes a four-year apprenticeship starting at 65 cents an hour, with academic studies required in spare time. After a few years in the Army, the veteran wants to get to work.

Out of 700 men queried about their willingness to take a four-year apprenticeship to qualify for the big journeyman rates, exactly 14 accepted.

The demobilized enlisted man, out here at any rate, is eager to train for a trade. But he wants quickie training—no college, no four-year apprenticeships. Then he wants to get to work, preferably in his home city's favorite industry, automobile manufacture.

Then he runs up against the enormous number of civilians whose seniority rights block his way.

FINGERTIP CONTROL MEANS SAFETY RECORD

HARRIMAN, TENN.—Driving 90,000 miles in two years without an accident is a pretty good safety record for any car owner, but Chester Hamby did it without the use of either leg.

A former member of the Tennessee State Highway Patrol, Hamby suffered a broken back in a collision in 1939 and was paralyzed from the tips down.

But Hamby equipped his car with a finger-control airbrake and a hand throttle on the steering column. With the special equipment he passed the regular driver's license tests.

Nips Forward the Bad News

Within a few hours of American occupation of Yokohama, Army Signal Forces had complete communications facilities set up, using Jap equipment and Jap personnel to send news of the occupation to San Francisco. Teletype operators, like those above, can neither read nor write English, but work in international Morse code.

EX-POW GOT HOME IN TIME TO WALK FLOOR
TACOMA, WASH.—(AP)—Finally back home after three years and nine months in a Jap prison camp, Clark H. Eldridge didn't get much sleep the first night.

The former state highway department engineer and Mrs. Eldridge spent most of it walking the corridors of a hospital, where a baby boy was born to their daughter, Mrs. Renwick W. Taylor.

FOOT NOTE FROM HOME
EFFINGHAM, ILL.—(AP)—Pvt. Joseph G. Began wrote his parents here that he had bought a pair of wooden sandals for souvenirs in Manila. He didn't send them home, he added, because he found the name of the manufacturer stamped on the soles—a wood products company in Effingham.

HOW TO GET DIVORCE IN ONE EASY LESSON
LOS ANGELES—(AP)—When actress Rena Saunders testified in her divorce suit that her husband, William T. Caldwell, II, tossed a fully decorated Christmas tree out of their second story window last Yuletide season, Judge Arthur Crum was unimpressed.

But when Miss Saunders, who charged cruelly, testified further that Caldwell, a film casting director, smashed "quite a few bottles" of bourbon, the court's ears picked up.

"You mean he broke up f-u-l-l bottles!" exclaimed the judge. "Yes, he did," she replied. "Divorce granted."

DDT Kills Bugs But It's Not Wonder Preparation It's Cracked Up To Be

By NEA Service
WASHINGTON — DDT—the magic insecticide discovery of World War II—is not the wonder-preparation it's cracked up to be, Department of Agriculture research has revealed.

Here are some of the things a disillusioned public is finding out about DDT since its recent appearance on the market:
1. It is not a good all-purpose insect spray. DDT is very fussy stuff. For use against each bug or insect it requires a different, sometimes complicated application. A person almost has to be an expert to use it properly. For one kind of bug you have to mix it with water. For another you have to mix it with oil. For still another purpose, it must be dusted. Government experts admit that for general use around the home it is not much better than some of the popular insecticides sold before the war. One of the reasons for the Army's success with DDT is that only experts used it.

2. It cannot kill the larvae of clothes moths, and it is the larvae which eat the holes in your overcoat. Properly applied, DDT does kill adult moths in a clothes closet, but not before they would have time to lay the eggs, which become larvae.

3. DDT acts much slower than most other commercial sprays. It takes up to an hour, sometimes, before the insect dies after contact. You can't spray a room-full of mosquitoes and kill them immediately, as you can with most commercial insecticides. DDT spray has to dry on the walls, screens or furniture. The insect must come in contact with it, and then some 45 minutes or so later it will die.

4. DDT is harmful to honeybees and other beneficial insects. It is highly toxic to fish and certain other cold-blooded animals.

5. Against the screwworm, the heel fly or cattle grub, the chigger, and the poultry mite, DDT offers no protection.

6. Only some species of ants are affected by DDT. At best most of those can only be controlled for a few weeks with a time-consuming application. For cockroaches DDT is not quite as good as sodium fluoride, which has been used for many years.

7. If used in a water spray, DDT leaves an undesirable white dust on furniture and walls. If used with kerosene or other oil it can soil clothing and furniture and is dangerous as a fire hazard and to persons and animals if it touches the skin.

First reports of DDT's most successful peacetime use is from dairy farmers. Sprayed around barns it has been very effective in killing flies which are carried in on the cows.

Experiments with DDT as a spray for fruits and vegetables are still in preliminary stage. Already they show that DDT in soil at the rate of 25 pounds per acre retards the growth of most kinds of beans, onions, spinach, tomatoes, strawberry plants and rye. In a few years of spraying, the land could accumulate injurious amounts of the chemical and make it unfit for use. Some injury to squash and other cucurbits has resulted from light applications of the material.

Little is known about the toxic effect of DDT on humans. So far there has only been one reported death—in England—and there was no official investigation made of it. Persons who have worked with it and have had most opportunity to assimilate it in small amounts report mild cases of the jitters and nervousness.

It is not yet known how effective DDT will be against mice and other rodents.

Much confusion has resulted over the popular sale of DDT recently. Most users will have to learn what form or with what solution they want to buy it. There's a very specialized form of DDT for each use. Some dealers are reported selling very weak solutions and making exaggerated claims for it. To protect themselves purchasers are advised to read the labels carefully and acquaint themselves with the potency needed for the job to be done.

Daring OSS Agent Captured Italian City From Germans Without A Fight

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON —When Navy Radioman 1/c Arthur Jibilian stepped out of a plane over Yugoslavia and pulled the rip-cord on his parachute, he thought he was going to rescue 40 American airmen. Before his mission was finished, he had led more than 600 stranded fliers to safety.

Jibilian had volunteered for duty with the Office of Strategic Services, following his training as a parachutist. He had already qualified as an expert tactician.

His first assignment was with Tito's Partisan forces in Yugoslavia. He spent many months there maintaining radio communication between Tito and the Allies. Early in July, 1944, he was taken out to rest in an Army hospital in Italy.

At the end of the month he was informed he was to go back to Yugoslavia; this time to aid the rescue of 40 American airmen. They were with a band of Mikhailovitch's Chetniks. An Army lieutenant and sergeant would accompany him.

The night of August 2 was a perfectly clear moonlight night. They were supposed to be dropped in a prepared clearing, but Jibilian missed it and landed in a cornfield. A peasant helped him to his feet and led him to the clearing. The chute on one of his radios had failed to open. This worried him because it left him with no spare.

When he reached the clearing he was astonished. Instead of 40 fliers, there were 200 waiting to be evacuated. Some were wounded and in pretty bad shape. Jibilian set up his radio equipment, contacted headquarters and explained the situation.

For six days the peasants and Chetniks worked furiously to prepare the clearing so that C-47s could land. They used ox-carts to haul dirt and trees. There was the constant danger of German patrols stumbling onto their work. One afternoon several German Junkers planes, used for dropping paratroopers, flew over the clearing. This gave them all a bad scare, but the work continued.

Steal Nazi Fuel
Jibilian was having trouble with his battery. The charger wasn't working well and fuel for it was almost gone. Two days before the clearing was finished the fuel was spent. Without radio connection with headquarters the whole project was threatened. He was desperate. A peasant was sent to steal some fuel from the Germans, and to Jibilian's intense relief, he succeeded. He was in a cold sweat as he filled the small tank and started the motor. It sputtered into action. The nervous men who had gathered around shouted with joy. Jibilian tapped out this message:

"We suggest day evac, starting night, with fighter cover."
He got his reply: "Expect six C-47s night of August 9th. Evac to continue through 10th. First plane at seven."

The fliers were organized into groups of 12. The wounded were to get out first. They were told to stay away from the field if they were scheduled to leave the next day, but they all jammed the edge of the clearing hours before the first plane was to land. They were keyed to a high pitch of excitement. It got worse when the planes failed to appear.

An hour and 45 minutes after the appointed time for arrival, the unmistakable sound of C-47 engines were heard. The field was small and crude at best. Jibilian exchanged light signals with the ship as it circled once and nosed down to land. Visibility was perfect.

As it came closer, the landing lights disappeared beneath the bushes at the end of the field. A groan went up. Jibilian was sure it had crashed. The men held their breath until the plane appeared above the clearing and rolled in for a perfect landing. The wounded were carried out and in five minutes the plane took off again. Three more landed that night and each took off within five minutes. Most of the wounded were out.

Early next morning the C-47s came again. The third one got stuck in a soft spot in the field. For 15 minutes they worked frantically to get it loose. Germans might fly over at any time. Other C-47s were circling. Finally, with a desperate effort and with the aid of 100 hastily recruited Chetniks, the plane was put on firm ground. It got into the air and the other craft landed for their human cargo.

Shortly before the last plane left, a messenger from Mikhailovitch told Jibilian that the Chetnik chief wanted him to stay. He said he had heard about more airmen in the area who needed assistance. Jibilian stayed, and during the next months aided in getting 400 more American fliers to safety. Jibilian was one of the few OSS men who worked with both Tito and Mikhailovitch.

Jibilian, who lives in Toledo, O., received the Silver Star decoration for his exploit.

Basque Bodices Give Wee-Waisted Look

By EPSIE KINARD
NEA Staff Writer

NEW YORK—Giving you the same wee-waisted look which heavy stays, a bed post and an obliging knee gave to grandma are smart bodice dresses, lightly boned to achieve that effect—painlessly! Basque-styled with dirndl-skirted fullness released well below the waist, such dresses rate attention this fall because they not only make midriffs look taut and tiny but they keep a girl's hip-measurements her well-guarded secret.

Simple for Daytime
In all-black, two-piece outfits these boned bodice dresses are kept shrewdly simple for daytime wear. To the top of black skirts go light-colored wool bodices for cocktail and informal dinner wear. When these dresses go gala, black bodices often stem from bright taffeta skirts that flicker with giant-sized polka dots of jet sequins. Typical combinations of light-colored tops and black skirts—

Drivers Can Get 30 Per Cent More Mileage With Care

By S. BURTON HEATH
NEA Staff Correspondent

DETROIT—How would you like to save 30 percent of the gasoline that you ordinarily use in your automobile—if you could do it without buying so much as a 10-cent store gadget, or dopping your fuel, or adjusting a single nut, bolt or screw? I am prepared to tell you how. I have just learned from an acquaintance who has been with the automobile manufacturing industry for more than 15 years. He and many of his associates regularly got 28 miles to the gallon, throughout the era of gas rationing, from stock model Chevrolets. As a stunt on one occasion, this man drove his car 39 miles on a gallon in normal traffic.

Perhaps you remember the phenomenal mileages that professional drivers used to get from stock cars, under careful supervision, under very difficult conditions, in the pre-war annual Gilmore economy contests out in California.

Those chaps would pull out of Los Angeles, climb over a 5,000-foot mountain range, drop down to below sea level, climb up again to about 3,000 feet—much of the way over sandy roads—in 300 miles. Out of a Willlys they would get 43 to 44 miles from one gallon of standard motor fuel. A Chevrolet or Plymouth would give as much as 35 miles, and even a big Cadillac would give 25 miles.

Well—here's how they did it. There are some warnings that will follow. If you ignore them, don't blame me for any trouble you may get into but first, here's how:

When you start, accelerate in low gear for five or 10 miles an hour, and then shift directly into high without passing through second.

Open Throttle
Open your throttle not less than one-half or more than two-thirds. Hold it there, unless some hazard prevents until you are up to about 35 miles an hour or within coasting distance of a stop light or stop street crossing.

Declutch and shut off your ignition with the key.
If there is a traffic stop ahead, try to brake or time your coast so that you arrive just as the light turns, and can continue on without stopping.

If the road is clear, coast until your speed has dropped to about 25 miles an hour. (For greater economy, coast to a speed of 15 miles an hour, but even at 25 miles you will save a lot of gas.) Then turn on the ignition and "double-clutch" your motor back on. That is, let the clutch pedal out until the gears begin to engage, hesitate, and then release the clutch pedal the rest of the way. (This is for smoothness.)

Again open the throttle not less than half or more than two-thirds, accelerate to about 35, shut off the ignition and repeat the whole process. Keep this up until your trip is ended.

That's all these is to it. If you follow these directions, you should be able to get 27 miles per gallon. How does it work? The explanations is simple.

At moderate speeds the throttle is not open wide enough to give efficient fuel combustion. At 30 miles an hour, two-thirds of the friction being overcome by the motor is inside the motor itself. A car coasting with the engine engaged uses almost as much gasoline as though it were being driven at 30 miles an hour.

So you accelerate, with the throttle open wide enough to give efficient use of the gasoline and then shut off the motor and use no gasoline at all.

Now For The Warnings:
Don't try this stunt in the winter or for driving 100 miles or more at night, and don't use your radio. With the motor running less than half of the time, you won't generate enough current to keep your battery up for the radio or for using headlights more than two or three hours.

Always restart your car before you stop coasting (preferably before you get under five miles an hour) by engaging the clutch. The starter takes lots of juice, and would drain the battery very quickly if you used it in this kind of driving.

Always "free wheel" by pushing out the clutch. Don't throw the car out of gear with the gearshift. In many states that is illegal, and you have better control when you use the clutch pedal.

The method will not work with that small percentage of cars that have fluid clutch devices or automatic gearshifts. It will work with automatic starters but it would run your battery down fast and should not be used with them.

Watch These Points
If your engine tends to run irregularly for a few seconds when the ignition is turned on after starting, give up the experiment. Probably your carburetor needle valve is leaking, and you are not saving fuel. You won't save gas on a bumpy road, either, because this will make your carburetor splash over.

If you live in the area where gasoline strikes are closing filling stations and restoring unofficial rationing; if you like to experiment with stunts that won't do any harm and may do some good; if you like to boast how many miles your jalopy will give to the gallon; or if you're merely economical, try saving gas the way the professionals do.

I've never done it. But I have ridden with Andrew Court, who told and showed me how he and his friends saved precious fuel throughout gasoline rationing. It works swell, looks easy and rides amazingly smoothly.

Detroit Strike Wave Causes Colossal Headache As Every State Is Affected

By S. BURTON HEATH
NEA Staff Correspondent

DETROIT—At least 128,933 persons received unemployment compensation checks in the Detroit area during the week ending September 15. If the United Automobile Workers should strike one or all of the big automobile plants, that figure will skyrocket tragically.

From where you sit in some city far from Detroit, employment statistics may seem dry and impersonal. But unfortunately, this headache isn't just Detroit's. It is the entire nation's. That is so because:

1. Unions all over are watching the UAW's effort to preserve wartime take-home pay for peacetime hours.

2. Diminished buying power in any large city affects every community that exports raw materials or consumer goods to the sick city.

3. If a single one of the big automobile manufacturers here is shut down, jobs will begin to evaporate by tens of thousands in every state of the union.

Hits 48 States
A big automobile plant is not a self-sufficient manufacturing entity. Not only does it buy raw materials in vast quantities, but it buys parts from everywhere. Because General Motors is scheduled for the first strike, if one comes, let us consider how a shutdown in General Motors might affect you, far away.

Into every Chevrolet car goes 3,005.97 pounds of steel, made in or near Pittsburgh from ore mined in Minnesota or Wisconsin and smelted with West Virginia coal and Pennsylvania limestone.

Into each car go 24.11 pounds of copper from Arizona; 27 pounds of lead from Missouri; 18.45 pounds of zinc from Idaho; 15.68 pounds of black carbon from Texas; 15 pounds of paint thinned and 8.3 pounds of lacquer from Delaware; 55.46 pounds of cotton from Mississippi; 13.38 pounds of wool from Nebraska; 110 pounds of rubber fabricated in Ohio from synthetic rubber made in Louisiana from butadiene made in Texas out of Oklahoma petroleum, 44 pounds of wood from Oregon and Washington and Minnesota; 53 pounds of glass made in Illinois from New York sand and California soda.

This list merely skims the surface, and mentions raw material sources selected to illustrate the nation-wide ramifications of an automobile's conception. Each material mentioned is acquired by GM from the state mentioned, and also from others. There is not one state, of the 48, that does not provide at least one material to GM.

But that is not all. Before the shift to war production General Motors had its own plants in two cities in California, two in Connecticut, one in Georgia, two in Illinois, seven (besides Detroit) in Michigan, two in Missouri, five in New Jersey, six in New York, seven in Ohio, one in Tennessee, one in Wisconsin.

And there were 18,000 manufacturers and dealers from whom General Motors purchased materials, parts and supplies. Carter in St. Louis made carburetors; Bendix, with plants in Indiana and elsewhere, made carburetors and brakes; Smith in Milwaukee made frames; rubber companies in Ohio provided tires; Trico in Buffalo, made windshield wipers; Packard, in Warren, O., made electrical wiring. These were only some of the major suppliers. Windows, upholstery material, sealed beam units for headlight, clocks, lock cylinders, carpeting and paint also were purchased.

General Motors had 300,000 men and women on its payrolls when the conversion to war production took place. President G. E. Wilson has announced hopes of employing 400,000 after reconversion. But this is small in comparison to the indirect employment given to miners, lumbermen, farmers, transportation workers, and factory workers who make the parts and incidentals mentioned above.

Moreover, there are the salesmen and servicemen, the oil workers and filling station attendants who would be busier if new cars were coming out.

On a smaller scale, and with variations in some items, the same is true of the other big companies that are due to follow General Motors if there is a strike.

The wide-spread ramifications of automobile manufacture—the employment it gives indirectly, and shuts off automatically when manufacture ceases—are not cited for or against either party to the wage controversy now under way here. They have no bearing on whether the workers deserve a raise, or whether the company can afford to give it.

What they do demonstrate is that directly or indirectly, the weekly pay envelopes of scores of thousands of families who never saw Detroit will be cut off, unless some formula is found by which this wage controversy can be settled without a major strike.

EASE THE PINCH OF FALL FOOTWEAR

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

Ever hear of anybody who put perfume on the feet?

Diogenes, the Greek philosopher famed for his wisdom, did. He claimed that vapors rising from the feet perfumed the whole body; that those rising from the head—where we're all most apt to dab ourselves with scent—went up into the air and were wasted.

That's a tip, which you can use for whatever it's worth. A girl who perfumed her feet would be obliged to notice whether they were as nicely kept as they should be to justify such a ritual. That, of course, would mean not only better looking, but more comfortable feet.

Now that you're going back into dressy shoes, which will fit more snugly than the thonged sandals of summer, any crumbs of comfort tossed to your feet will help to ease the pinch, and induce the underdog to give you more cheerful support.

NIGHTLY CLEANSING MEANS GOOD SKIN

Did you know that the pores of the skin tend to open slightly while you sleep? Not to stagger you with your knowledge is this nugget of information given, but to impress upon you why skin should be cleaned, even before you take an afternoon nap. Any foreign matter left on your skin will seize this opportunity to move in.

Imagine, then, the risk a careless girl takes who allows herself to fall asleep at night before she whisks off her make-up!

No matter how late the hour, or how tired you are, haul out the jar of cleansing cream or, if you are a soap-and-water girl, the sudsy cloth. You don't want a nice complexion to be marred by enlarged pores, blackheads, embedded dirt or annoying blemishes, do you?

When you have creamed vegetables left over use them to thicken soup.
