Our Stewardship Of The Atom

President Truman made a persuasive case for government control of the "business" of atomic power in his message to Congress. He logically set forth the urgent reasons why a domestic policy must precede and govern further domestic development in this field, and why international agreement to renounce the military use of atomic power must be reached before any international exchange of information is possible.

A comforting corollary to the President's message is the interesting background on the atom bomb's development which William L. Laurence has been permitted to make known. Laurence, a science writer for the New York Times, was chosen by the War Department to explain the bomb to the lay public. From 1939 on he was intimately associated with the experimental program. He witnessed the test explosion in New Mexico and the atomic bombing of Nagasaki. In short, he knows his subject.

And Laurence says that the "secret" of the atom bomb is not one secret, but thousands. The theoretical possibility of releasing atomic energy has been known for 40 years. But it was a longer road from theory to the atom bomb than from the Wright brothers' first plane to the B-29.

The "secret" was discovered, Laurence says, because the scientists working on it had recourse to America's great sources of natural power and her great industrial facilities.

Laurence emphasizes that the "secret" of unlocking atomic energy is no cook-book recipe. It involves thousands of new developments, and it has led to some revolutionary by-discoveries and by-products, including the creation by man of a new element in the universe, called plutonium.

It thus seems safe to assume that "giving away the secret of the atomic bomb" is not so simple as it has sounded. Laurence does not doubt that other countries can and will discover that secret. But he does not believe that any of them, judging from American experience, could do it in less than five years.

Few countries have our combination of power and industrial development. And, for another thing, the world supply of uranium is not accurately known.

Uranium is the only known source of releasable atomic energy. It yields, after a costly and complicated process, uranium 235, which was used in the atom bomb. But 1000 pounds of uranium produce only seven pounds of U-235. Before the atom bomb, uranium was a relatively unimportant metal. There are only three large deposits of high-grade ore known, says Laurence. These are in Canada, the Belgian Congo and Czechoslovakia, and the last was pretty thoroughly worked out by the Germans.

So other countries must have uranium and power and a tremendous industrial setup before they can catch up with this country in the atomic-energy field. Meanwhile it would seem that we may maintain our stewardship and develop our leadership without anxiety, toward the end that this awesome power may become the benefactor and not the destroyer of mankind.

U. S. Judge In Georgia Rules Negroes Can Vote

ATLANTA—(AP)—Two developments were noted Saturday concerning negroes voting in the South.

Federal Judge T. Hoyt Davis of the Middle Georgia District ruled Friday at Macon, Ga., that negroes were entitled to vote in the state's white Democratic primaries.

In neighboring Alabama, Judge C. B. Kennamer of the U. S. District Court at Montgomery dismissed a suit against two registrars charged with refusing to register a negro for voting. The decision in the Georgia case stemmed from a suit brought by Primus E. King of Columbus, Ga., against members of the Muscogee County (Columbus) Democratic Executive Committee.

Judge Davis ruled that King was not allowed to vote in the July 4 primary in 1944 because of his race and that this constituted a violation of the U. S. Constitution.

In the Alabama case, Judge Kennamer held that William P. Mitchell, Macon County negro, had not exhausted his administrative remedy in state court in his suit against two members of the Macon County Board of Registrars by whom, he charged, he was refused registration last July 5. Mitchell sought a permanent injunction against what he said was the board's policy of denying registration to members of the negro race. Arthur D. Shores, Mitchell's attorney, said he planned to take the case to the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Ex-GIs More Law-Abiding Than Before Service

By WES GALLAGHER
FRANKFURT, GERMANY—(AP)—American soldiers returning to civilian life will be just as law-abiding and, in many cases, more so, than before they joined the Army, declared Brig. Gen. E. C. Betts, judge advocate general in the European theater. He ridiculed "ill founded" reports that returning combat troops formed a possible crime potential.

During the last two years, Betts, a professional Army officer and close student of soldiers' reactions in this war and the last, headed the Judge Advocate General's Department, which checked behavior of some 4,000,000 troops. "Isolated incidents which received wide publicity have given the wrong impression," Betts said. "As a matter of fact, the crime rate of these 4,000,000 troops, despite unnatural conditions, has been so low that any city in America would be proud to boast a similar record."

"We had two peaks in crime — one after D-Day and one after crossing the Rhine," Betts explained. "In the first case the soldiers had been mentally geared for months to expect death on the landing beaches. Their nerves were near the snapping point. Then the attack came and some weeks later they found themselves deep in France. They had a normal letdown and relaxed."

"That relaxation was rough. This period ended as they became accustomed to their surroundings and became familiar with local inhabitants. "Another period of tension built up as we crossed the rivers leading to the Rhine. Soldiers expected each river crossing to be their last. Then came the Rhine—the last river—and when it was over the soldiers looked around, found they were still alive and once again in an unknown enemy country. So, they relaxed—with another crime peak resulting."

"Now what happens when a soldier goes home and is discharged. He goes back to the community where he is known by everyone, and society fits him back into the framework of his life through friends, church, college and a thousand other influences. All the factors which induced crime abroad are gone. In fact, the reverse is true."

ARMAGH, NORTHERN IRELAND—(AP)—Catholics throughout Ulster and Eire Saturday night mourned the death of Joseph Cardinal Macrory, archbishop of Armagh and primate of all Ireland, who died at his home here Saturday. The 84-year-old primate had been ill only four hours. Prime Minister Eamon De Valera will cross the border from Eire into Northern Ireland for the first time in 17 years to attend the Cardinal's funeral, scheduled for Wednesday.

Sweetwater High Mustangs Defeat Midland Bulldogs 19 To 6 Here

By CROM HOLMES

The stampede of Sweetwater's Mustangs was too much for the Midland High School Bulldogs to halt and the Nolan County aggregation won the District 3-AA game here Friday night, 19 to 6.

But the Midland team forced the Red and White club to come from behind to do the trick.

The Bulldogs opened the scoring in the first period when Center Jimmy Edwards intercepted Halfback Doil Feagan's pass on the Midland 37-yard line and raced 49 yards before being brought down on Sweetwater's 14-yard line. Three plunges and a five-yard penalty against the Mustangs put the ball on the 1-yard line. A plunge by Quarterback Wilbur Yeager was stopped cold, but Yeager jumped through center on next play for a touchdown. End J. C. McNeal's kick was blocked.

Mustangs Make Comeback

That ended Midland's scoring and the Bulldogs spent the rest of the evening trying to halt Sweetwater spinners and ateral passes which produced three touchdowns and victory.

On receiving the kickoff following Midland's touchdown the Mustangs took the ball and drove 60 yards to score without losing the ball. The payoff play was a lateral from Fullback Don Lambert to Feagan who scampered 27 yards for the tying touchdown. Lambert's kick bounced off the crossbar and the score stood 6 to 6 at the end of the quarter.

In the second period Sweetwater made one serious scoring threat, but the Bulldog defensive brass and the ball went over to Midland on the 14-yard line. Midland drove 15 yards to the Midland 29-yard line as the half ended.

Lambert Plunges For Score

Sweetwater came back stronger in the third period. After kicking off and forcing the Bulldogs to punt, the Sweetwater club took the ball on Midland's 36-yard line and in five plays drove for a score. Lambert plunged through the middle of the line for the last six yards. Lambert's kick was no good.

The Mustangs' final touchdown was made in the fourth quarter after taking Bobby Cole's punt on Midland's 36-yard line. Lambert and Steve DeGaiish in a series of runs carried to the 6-yard line. Lambert tossed a short pass over the center of the line to Right End Troy Stone for the counter. Lambert's kick was good.

The Bulldogs made a drive in the fourth period which carried to the Sweetwater 23-yard line when a fumble halted the campaign. The drive featured 16-yard and 22-yard passes from Yeager to Bobby Goode. Sweetwater tried a series of downs, then punted 43 yards over the goal line. The Bulldog safety man, who had touched the ball before it crossed the goal line, ran it back to the 1-yard line as the game ended.

Odessa Bronchos Beat Abilene Eagles, 18-7

ABILENE—With Fullback J. V. Thompson doing most of the bronching, the Odessa Red Horse pitched the Abilene Eagles for a 18-to-7 loss and themselves in the favored spot to win the District 3-AA title here Friday night.

Thompson scored two of the Bronchos' touchdowns, one on a 65-yard gallop and the other on a pass from Quarterback Hyden Fry. Both were made in the third quarter after a pass from Fry to Halfback Sammy Holderman had given Odessa a 6-point lead in the first half.

Abilene's score resulted from a 60-yard drive which began in the third period and ended in the fourth period when Fullback Billy Murphey crashed the line for three yards.

Texas Rallies To Beat Oklahoma Sooners, 12-7

DALLAS —(P)—Texas swept 69 yards with five minutes to go Saturday to beat Oklahoma 12-7 in the thirty-ninth renewal of this colorful inter-sectional football game as little Byron Gillory teamed with huge Hubert Bechtel to turn back the best Sooner team that has played here in six seasons.

For the third straight year it was a 17-year-old who spelled Oklahoma defeat. In 1943 Bobby Coy Lee passed the Longhorns to victory, last year it was Bobby Layne. This time it was the 140-pound Gillory whose passing and running pulled the Longhorns over a big bump—a fighting Oklahoma team that outgained Texas and too often for comfort was knocking at the door to touchdowns.

The calf with a price on her head

YOU don't have to be a cattle man to know that the name of a good strain can mean a lot in a calf.

Take the name "Guernsey," for example. A calf that carries that name can command respect. For over the years, cattle men have come to know pretty well what a Guernsey's worth—and what to expect of one.

Good trademarks and trade names command respect for merchandise, too. For they tell you exactly who stands behind the product—and what you can expect from it.

That's why, over the years, folks have put a lot of stock in familiar names. Trusted names. Trade names. Names they know they can depend on.

You see it every day in stores. How much less "selling" it takes to sell you on a product that carries a well-known brand name... and how many times a good name brings you back for other branded items. So put your trust in trade names—they speak honestly for the product.

Rice Owls Knock Over Tulane Green Wave, 13-7

HOUSTON—(P)—Showing a surprising reversal of form, the Rice Owls battled their way to an upset victory over the Tulane Green Wave here Saturday afternoon, turning back the invaders 13 to 7, before a crowd of some 14,000 fans.

They were led by Don (Red) Anderson, hard-running fullback, who is a Naval trainee from Joliet, Ill. He was the offensive star of the game that saw the Owls almost chase the Green Wave off the field in the first half.

HARRISON WINS STATE GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP

SAN ANTONIO—(P)—Dick Harrison of San Antonio won the state senior golf championship Saturday, running home a 13-foot putt on the sixteenth green for a birdie four that defeated defending Champion R. H. "Bob" Nix of Dallas, 3 and 2, at the San Antonio Country Club golf course.

ATHENS WINS SELINA STAKES BY FIVE LENGTHS

LAUREL, MD. —(P)—Favored Athens led a field of nine home by five lengths Saturday to win easily in the 20th renewal of the Selina and a sixteenth Selina Stakes, richest race in the nation for two-year-old fillies, and bring owner E. Lasker a fat purse of $33,790 as the winner's share.

Baylor Bears Upset Arkansas 23 To 13

WACO—(P)—Baylor stayed in the Southwest Conference race here Saturday by upsetting a favored Arkansas 23-13 at Municipal Stadium before a shirt-sleeved crowd of 7,500.

The Bears were trailing 7-6 at the half but exploded like an atomic bomb in the third to score enough points in the one period to ice the game away. Touchdowns by Sammy Pierce and Joe Joiner, and two conversions and a field goal by substitute Louis Leal racked up 17 points.

Nimitz

Nimitz warmly greeted his closest kin.

These were Capt. Otto Nimitz, USN, retired, his brother; Mrs. Dora Reagan, his sister; August Henke, uncle; Mrs. Ellen Peterson, his only niece; and numerous cousins.

Praises Math Teacher

Nimitz told the Kerrville people about the first boat ride he could remember. It was in a skiff he said he had "borrowed" from Louis Schreiner. He told them how much he owed to Miss Susan Moore, who "taught me all the mathematics I know." He became earnest and emphatic in speaking of the war.

"Sea power made possible the use of the atomic bomb," he said.

"There is no short cut, no cheap way to keep our freedom. We must be alert against a possible enemy, but also against our own complacency."

For the most part, he was jocular and reminiscent of the old days, and the crowd liked it.

"This is the most fun I have had since the Seabees put on a Texas rodeo and roundup at Honolulu two years ago," he said. "Everybody had six bottles of beer to start with, and you didn't have to bring back an empty to get another."

"When it was all over with, it looked worse than Tarawa."

Toland wouldn't tattle on Nimitz. "The reporters keep asking me if Chester Nimitz ever got into mischief," he said. "Maybe so, but I'm not telling."

Nimitz received a big wooden key to the city of Fredericksburg, where he was born and where his sea captain grandfather built a famed hotel including an observation deck on its roof, from Mary Margaret Tally. Her father, Lt. Col. Fred Tally, died in a Japanese prison camp.

Freak Play Wins For Lamesa Over Steers

BIG SPRING—A play which began as a run but wound up as a pass following a fumble gave Lamesa a 6-to-0 victory over the Big Spring Steers in a District 3-AA game here Friday night.

Orville Neiman of Lamesa started a run with the ball from the 8-yard line, fumbled, recovered, looked around and passed to Bryant Clark in the end zone for the winning counter.

The Lamesa team twice drove to the Big Spring 1-yard line, but the Steers held for downs.

'I Shall Never Surrender Or Retreat'

Famed 36th Division Didn't Have To Open Capsule Telling It To Fight On

By The Associated Press

The proud 36th Division soon to be inactivated, the fighting Texas division that spearheaded the bitterest invasions and fought in Europe's bloodiest battles, didn't have to open the tiny capsule Governor Stevenson inserted in a Texas flag he gave them back in 1942. The capsule was marked: "A message to Texans—to be opened and read if capture seems imminent."

The message was William B. Travis' defiant refusal to surrender at the Alamo, his deathless "I shall never surrender or retreat."

Commissioner Issues Warning Concerning Use Of DDT Spray

AUSTIN—(AP)—A warning against the careless use of DDT insecticide was issued by J. E. McDonald, state commissioner of agriculture. "Over 80 per cent of the DDT offered for sale does not come under the jurisdiction of any state regulatory agency," said McDonald, "since both household and poultry insecticides are exempt from provisions of the agricultural and livestock regulations."

Since these products are not registered the purchaser has no way of knowing the amount of DDT or other ingredients contained, said McDonald, and has no recourse if the product proves worthless or detrimental.

German Composer Of 'Lili Marlene' May Sing In America

BERLIN—(AP)—As a one-man tin-pan alley for the German propaganda ministry, the 34-year-old composer of "Lili Marlene" and "Bombs on England" had his troubles. For instance: He wrote a song called "Panzers are Rolling in Africa," which became so popular that Goebbels put in a rush order for two more pieces honoring Rommel. The composer quickly whipped out "Forward With Rommel" and another in the same vein.

Then something went wrong in Africa—Rommel started going backwards instead of forward, and the songs never were published. Later, the composer wrote an opera that was adjudged a smash-hit when it opened in Leipzig. Then along came Allied bombers, and the musical scores went up in smoke.

Joins Nazi Party
The song-writer, Norbert Schultze said in an interview that he joined the Nazi Party in 1940 in preference to going into the Wehrmacht, because he had four children to think about.

Since that time he has married again—to a singer—and has two more children. He plans to apply for a visa for his family to visit America at the first legal opportunity. He says he has been offered, through an American sergeant, a 10-year contract with a New York musical publisher and an American lieutenant has promised the second Frau Schultze a singing contract in a leading Manhattan hotel supper room.

The composer has played 30 shows for Russian troops and 42 for Americans. But he's never been invited to perform for the British, who still haven't forgotten "Bombs on England."

Actually, Schultze didn't write the words to that song—he merely set to music a verse by Wilhelm Stoeppler, former executive at Tobis Film Studio. Stoeppler now "probably" is under Soviet arrest, Schultze said.

Praise The Lord And Patch The Gas Tank

ATKINSON, NEB.—(AP)—Reconversion finally has got around to the Rev. W. C. Birmingham's automobile.

Since April, 1944, its gasoline tank has been patched with chewing gum, part of a corn cob and some baling wire.

Now the minister beamed, Sgt. Dale Stevens, former Army mechanic, has agreed "to give me a high enough priority to repair the tank."

JayCees Start Distribution Of Rat Poison For Citizens To Put Out

The rodent extermination campaign of the Midland Junior Chamber of Commerce already has been worth more than $15,000 to the city and will prove of even more value as it continues, Carl Jacobs, rodent exterminator expert with the Fish and Wild Life Service, declared Saturday.

Jacobs based his estimate on information gathered by the government which shows a rat causes loss of $20 annually in property damage and eats two dollars worth of food. More than 700 rats have been picked up in business buildings.

Owners and tenants of business buildings which might have been overlooked are urged to telephone 178 Monday as the extermination expert will leave soon.

Engineer Says Atomic Secrecy Means Oil Loss

TULSA, OKLA.—(AP)—Refusal by the Army to release information on certain radioactive substances of atomic bomb manufacture may result in the loss of millions of barrels of oil according to a Tulsa engineer, W. G. Green.

Green, president of Well Surveys, Inc., told of the Army's rejection in what was probably the first announcement of industrial application of atomic power. Green said that his company requested the information for the purpose of employing it as an aid in the location of oil.

"We wish," said Green, "to prevent, if possible, the complete locking up of all this information and material and the complete restriction of any industrial uses of such knowledge of materials."

The plan is to lower into oil well casings small quantities of new radioactive substances to locate, through intact steel and cement, oil sands that were missed in the original drilling.

MackENZIE'S COLUMN

There are several highly important implications in Secretary of State Byrnes' announcement that the United States has called a meeting of the proposed Far Eastern Advisory Commission for October 23 in Washington.

Foremost among these is the clear indication that Uncle Sam has his chin up (but not out) and is standing on his prerogatives in the matter of Japan's reformation and rehabilitation. Along with this he is backing up his good and faithful servant, Supreme Commander MacArthur. Equally important is America's desire for advice from her Allies in working out the Japanese problem. And last but not least, there are great potentialities in the possibility that India may be invited to join the advisory commission.

Byrnes has given MacArthur a mighty fine vote of confidence. It would have come as a shock to the average citizen if the secretary had said other than that the government has no intention of altering MacArthur's status as supreme commander in Japan. It would have been surprising, too, if Byrnes hadn't confessed that he doesn't know of any complaints about the way the general has been doing his job.

MacArthur was assigned one of the most delicate and dangerous of the post-war tasks. If anybody could work faster than he has in disarming close to 3,000,000 Jap troops with a handful of Yanks, and gaining control of 80,000,000—even to making the mikado wait on him, hat 'n hand—it would be a privilege to meet him.

Byrnes' remarks about MacArthur came in connection with Russia's suggestion that the establishment of a control council for Japan should precede the creation of the advisory commission. He doesn't favor such a move, since it obviously would mean either replacing the general or lowering his status as supreme commander.

The idea of inviting India to join the advisory commission is of far-reaching importance. England has suggested that India be included.

The raising of India's name has place I believe we can take it as a double significance. In the first an especially friendly gesture towards this Great Britain possession by England's new Socialist government.

The Bomb That May Have Started War

The bomb explosion that may have meant the difference between war and peace for the United States on Dec. 7, 1941, is shown in the photo above. It pictures what is believed to have been the first bomb dropped by the Japs on Pearl Harbor. A Jap plane, circled, can be seen pulling out of a dive above American warships. Photo was found torn to pieces by Martin J. Shemanski of Plymouth, Pa., photographer's mate, second class, at Yokosuka Naval Base near Tokyo. He copied picture with Japanese camera on Jap photographic plates, turned original over to Naval Intelligence.

Reconversion From Military Planes To Helicopters Keeps Bell Plant Busy

By S. BURTON HEATH
NEA Staff Correspondent

NIAGARA FALLS — Lawrence D. Bell, who has become one of the big figures in the warplane industry, is staking his business future in large part upon the helicopter.

Bell gave the Allies in 1939, the deadly, tricky Airacobra and, in 1943, the even deadlier Kingcobra. Though his company was a parvenu in plane building, he was chosen in 1941 to build secretly the first American jet plane, and in 1942 was delegated to operate the big Marietta, Ga. government plant that made almost 700 Superforts before Japan was bombed into submission.

Since Larry Bell went into business he has worked on none but military planes. Even his wartime helicopter experimentation was with an eye upon possible military uses. He intends to stay in the military plane picture and to continue jet experiments. But for a living, he is going to make helicopters.

The day after the Japs caved in, Bell announced that he was seeking to buy from the Government the big home plant here. Within a week, his directors had authorized tooling up for substantial production of Bell's first helicopter model. It may take some time to get the necessary tools and get production actually under way.

Bell is cautious and realistic. "In from seven to 15 years the helicopter business may be bigger than the pre-war airplane business was," he says. "But we should be practical. Helicopters are not going to start in the low-priced automobile class.

"Some day helicopters can be available for any reasonable prosperous private flier. A $1500 machine is entirely within reason. Anybody who can fly a plane, drive a car in traffic, can equally well operate a helicopter. I am interested in selling to this big general market—but not now.

Seek General Market

"First, there are more immediately important uses for helicopters, where initial price and operating costs are secondary. As we gain experience in serving these commercial users, and bring production onto a larger scale, we can work toward the general market.

"The helicopter is not a rival to either automobile or airplane. Each can do what the others can not. The helicopter is a medium-range utility for distances too great for the motor car and too short for the airplane to serve advantageously.

"The helicopter makes air-line distances and knows no traffic lights. It can make an 80 or 100 mile trip from door to door quicker than the automobile, the train or the airplane. It needs no big, elaborate landing field. As a stunt, it could land on or take off from a water tower. I suppose, but a 200 foot square plot, on the ground or on the top of a building, is ideal.

"It can fly at almost zero visibility, skimming under the clouds at low level when no airport would give clearance to a plane. If it runs into trouble it can rise vertically, go sidewise, or just stop dead and look things over. It is smooth in turbulent air.

"Last January, a doctor, on the way to a farmhouse to treat our injured test pilot, was stalled in snowdrifts. Floyd Carlson, our test pilot, dropped down beside the doctor's car, picked him up and landed him in the farmyard.

Numerous Uses

"The uses for a machine of this versatility and reliability are numerous, even before the general market is tapped. There are forest fire control, crop dusting, pipeline control, coast guard and other rescue work, police spotting and control, disaster relief; there are suburban and rural ambulance service, commuter travel, airport-to-city haulage for passengers, mail and cargo.

"I believe that the experience gained and the production achieved in servicing these and similar uses should help us to evolve the low price, cheap-to-operate helicopter that the public is looking for."

Technically, Bell says he was misunderstood by those who thought he forecast a 600-mile-an-hour helicopter flight.

"That wouldn't be helicopter," he explains. "It would be a convertible. It would rise like a helicopter. Then the big rotor would be depressed, fore or aft, into an enormous puller or pusher propeller with which, theoretically, high speeds would be possible. When it came time to land, the propeller would once more become a rotor."

RUBBERY

"Rubber Rancho," the U. S. government's synthetic rubber plant near Fort Arthur, Texas, produces 120,000 tons of rubber a year, or as much as could be obtained annually by 120,000 coolies tapping 30,000,000 rubber trees.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Unlimber those shotguns boys.

The Navy is releasing 14,000,000 rounds of shotgun shells, Rep. Robertson (D-Va.) said Saturday. This with the 6,000,000 the Army recently told Robertson were being released will be a real start toward a peacetime hunting season, the Virginian said.

Navy said the ammunition was being declared surplus as a result of examination of stock levels on 12-gauge ammunition used for training purposes.

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

By WILLIAM E. McKENNEY
America's Card Authority

There is a difference in the play of the cards in duplicate and rubber bridge. A duplicate player might easily lose today's hand, because he would figure on making the maximum in order to win a good score. He would look at the hand and say, "If either the spade or heart suit breaks, I can make 13 tricks." And it is not unreasonable to think that one of the two suits should break.

The hand was played in a duplicate game at the Mayfair Bridge

Club in New York against our good friend Harry Fishbein. South, the declarer, was a very fine rubber bridge player who did not quite realize that, although his contract was six, it was important to make seven in duplicate. When he won the first trick with the ace of diamonds, he simply led the deuce of spades. Fishbein won with the jack and knocked out the king of diamonds, but South cashed the ten of spades and claimed the balance of the tricks for top score—at both rubber bridge and duplicate.

Man Runs Into Elephant In Big Spring—And He Hadn't Been Drinking

By JACK RUTLEDGE
Associated Press Staff

Animal crackers:
Charles Robertson of Colorado City hopes that old crack about an elephant never forgetting isn't true.

Robertson had the unique experience of running into an elephant on a main street in Big Spring. The impact bent his bumper and the grillwork on his car.

The elephant belonged to the Cole Brothers Circus.

Over in Waco residents thought they had been somehow transported back to the days of the wild and woolly west.

A Brahma steer ran wild through the residential district, chased by cowboys who finally rounded it up, herded it back to the rodeo from which it had escaped.

Lt. Robert T. Goodrich of Fort Worth was awarded the Navy Cross for scoring a direct hit on the Jap battleship Yamato but he gets more fun out of telling how he sank a whale.

He was looking for submarines when he spotted a big shadow under the water. He dived, released a bomb, and scored a direct hit on a huge sperm whale.

He said it caused a lot of trouble. The whale gave out such a stench the base had to send out barges to tow it away.

A dog belonging to Mrs. William Jacoby of McAllen probably causes an occasional convivial soul to decide he's put off going on the wagon just a li-i-i-tle too long.

The dog is navy blue from bow to stern. It had ticks and Mrs. Jacoby tried out a new remedy. The result was, to put it mildly, unconventional.

Return Of Famed Strasbourg Bells Heralds Liberation Of Stolen Art

By ROSETTE HARGROVE
NEA Staff Correspondent

PARIS — The famed bells of Strasbourg are cheerfully heralding the liberation of French art.

The first official act of restitution of art masterpieces stolen by the Germans was the return of the bells to the lace-like, Gothic tower of Strasbourg. Both Strasbourg and the historic city of Metz are celebrating the restoration of the treasures stolen from their cathedrals.

In addition to the priceless bells, world-famous stained glass windows are being returned. The people of Metz will see the official restoration of all their cathedral's treasure, stolen in 1939 by the Nazis from its hiding place in the center of France.

The Nazis boasted of their systematic pillage of the art of France. The Rosenberg committee, entrusted with seizure of French masterpieces, was set up in Paris by the Germans. An extensive record was made by this committee of every private collection in France, large and small.

These records were destroyed by the Nazis as they left, and the Allies had to begin the search for the priceless objects through erratic channels of information. They sent out orders to all Germans to turn in written declarations of all foreign-owned treasures which had passed through their hands.

France will recover most of her art masterpieces from the German pillagers. Nine-tenths of the treasure is reported to be in the American zone of occupation. The balance is in the Russian zone.

Loot seized by the Nazis was sent to special storehouses in and around Paris. Here the best pieces were sorted out and centralized in the Musee de Jeu de Paume in the Tuileries. Private exhibitions were held periodically. Goering would attend the exhibits to make selections for his own private collection and for Hitler's galleries.

After the liberation, Allied services entrusted with the recovery of works of art moved into the Rosenberg offices. Most of the records had disappeared, but 90 per cent of the missing art treasures have already been traced.

An inventory of Hermann Goering's fabulous art collection, found at Berchtesgaden, is now in the hands of the Allies. It lists an incredible jodge-podge of schools and styles, including a great number of atrociously bad "pot boilers" as well as fine masterpieces.

GET READY FOR WINTER

Better go over your house from roof to basement—and take stock of what has to be done to make it able to face the rigors of cold and wet weather without discomfort to your family—and without deterioration of your structure. Now is the time to see about leaky roof repair, weather stripping, insulation, and fitting of storm windows and doors. Don't delay this important planning for the welfare of your family and the protection of your property. You will be surprised at the difference it will make in your gas bill this winter too.

Storm doors are insurance for your house, and keep draughty blasts of cold air out.

Storm windows are desirable cold wind breakers and help reduce heat losses.

Of course, you will not overlook making sure your gas heating equipment is in proper working condition. Clean dust and lint from gas heaters, floor furnaces, etc. If repairs are needed, make them at once. Get your equipment in working order so you will be ready for winter when it comes.

Fame? Goering Really Ate It Up

By LOUIS LOCHNER AP Newsfeatures BERLIN—The way to rotund Hermann Goering's heart appears to have been through his considerable stomach, judging by letters which chanced to fall into my hands. When anyone remembered Goering the Gourmet with good things to eat, letters of thanks were written by his underlings, "except," says a memo dated June 25, 1941, "in cases of prominent foreigners or statesmen." The memo delegated the sending of other appreciation notes to a "Fraulein Limburger," of his secretariat. But Goering personally sent notes to such donors as Romanian Dictator Ion Antonescu. "Your Excellency," he wrote on June 24, 1941, "I thank you most honestly for the caviar you sent me on the occasion of your Munich visit. This special mark of attention by Your Excellency afforded me great joy. With heartiest compliments."

More Caviar Col. Asschenbrenner, of the German embassy in Moscow, and Johannes F. Bernhardt, director of the Sociedad Financiera Industrial of South America, in Madrid, also sent gifts of caviar, but received their thank-you notes from Fraulein Limburger, since they were Germans. Another foreigner who rated a personal note from Goering was Italian Undersecretary of State Col. Gen. Pricolo, who sent "some wonderful fruit" from Rome. On one occasion 75 cases of oranges were sent by some admirers. Goering diverted 73 of them to Field Marshal Erhard Milch, apparently in payment of some debt of gratitude.

Salmon apparently was another of Hermann's favorite delicacies. When Luftwaffe Col. Gen. Stumpf was on duty in Norway he sent salmon by air courier and received a grateful note. The Works Aviation Gen. Christianson, military governor of the Netherlands, apparently had a keen understanding of his master's palate. On Nov. 19, 1940, he sent Goering 24 tins of nescafe, six of regular coffee, six tins each of pineapple, peaches, oranges, and tins of each of six sizes of chocolate, four tins of tongue, two of biscuits and two boxes of cigars.

Franz Buesgen, a Hamburg cigar manufacturer, sent this letter, with a gift of cigars, to Goering June 9, 1941: "I am gratefully enthused over the successes of the luftwaffe as created by you, successes which in recent times, in fights over Crete, took our breath away. I would like to try to bring you a little joy by sending you herewith 100 Florian Geyer Brazil cigars which were especially selected for you in the hope that the cigars may fulfill their purpose. I am with special regards and Hell Hitler, your obedient servant, Franz Buesgen."

Colombia Growing BOGOTA, COLOMBIA.—(P)—Colombia's population nearly doubled in the 20-year period between 1918-1938. There were 5,855,077 inhabitants in 1918, and 8,701,806 in 1938. The official data for 1945 show a population of 10,015,841.

JAIL AINT GOING TO BE SO NICE ANY MORE CLAYTON, N. M.—(P)—The Union County jail is on a cold lunch basis now. Sheriff Fred Spradlin asked local papers to print a notice that the jailer-cook is out of town and that those who are put in the calaboose will get a restricted diet, because neither he nor the deputy sheriff can cook. "And," he said, "we don't intend to learn."

IT WAS ROUGH TOO WHEN DRIVER WAS ARRESTED SAN FRANCISCO.—(P)—James J. Dolan, 31, recently discharged New York soldier, became lost while driving his auto around this city. But he knew Market Street was the main stem so when he reached a point on it where a tunnel opened under twin peaks he drove right in. Two miles inside, at Forest Hills Station, he told startled officers sent to intercept him: "My home town has lots of tunnels, but none of them as rough as this one." He was arrested on a little-used ordinance prohibiting autos in street railway tunnels.

Mature Models With Young Ideas

By EPSIE KINARD NEA Service Writer NEW YORK—Appearing on the fashion stage by popular request of mature women who know what they want in clothes—are dresses with the look of a soft suit.

Also trooping out by request are black dresses highlighted by color. "If the dress must be black," say women who are tired of being inked out of the dress-picture for the sake of chic, "kill gloominess somewhere on it with color."

So obliging designers have highlighted black dresses where it's most needed to banish gloom—near the face. Case in point is the one-piece black crepe dress, shown center, which is colorfied by a deep yoke of sheer tuchsia, edged with filigreed rows of tiny gold bead embroidery.

Example of dresses with a soft-suit look in wearable winter colors are two new brown numbers. They're proof that even brighter garb benefits from contrasts of color or fabric, if it's placed near the face to make the most of high-lights.

On the two-piece dress, left, of satin-back celanese crepe, the satin side of the fabric is used for face-framing high-lights. The lustrous bandings, edged with gold nailheads, accent broad shoulders and define a side-slanted jacket that winds up in a controlled hip flare.

On the brown crepe, two-piece dress, right—another version of the soft-suit style featured in New York collections—bands of rose and turquoise outline armhole bands of the jacket top to provide color contrast.

Mrs. I. A. Searles and Mrs. William P. Blackman of Midland were among the Girl Scout leaders from West Texas area to enroll at Camp Luis Parr in Mertzon, Texas, Friday for a training course in troop camping.

All flowers received by these chaplains will be placed on Naval vessels, and following appropriate all-faith ceremonies at the respective dockside, a ship will proceed to sea from each port and when the vessel reaches a point beyond the sight of land the flowers will be scattered on the waters.

Continental Lines Seek Houston Route

DENVER—A new air route linking San Antonio with Houston via Austin was proposed by Continental Air Lines in an application filed late Saturday with the Civil Aeronautics Board in Washington, Robert F. Six, president of Continental, announced.
 The application is for an extension of the Denver-San Antonio route now operated by Continental. Six said the proposed route extension is designed to provide one-carrier service between Houston, one of the oil capitals of the world, and the rich oil-producing region to the northwest in which are located Big Spring, Midland, Odessa, Hobbs, Carlsbad and Roswell. The service would also provide a one-carrier link between all of these cities and Austin, the capital of Texas, as well as furnishing one-carrier service for the first time from Houston and Austin to El Paso and Albuquerque.
 In addition to providing greatly-improved local service to these communities from Austin and Houston, the new route would furnish a much more direct air route between Austin, Houston and the West Coast via connections at Albuquerque and El Paso.
 The route extension would add 222 miles to the Continental system, the certified route mileage of which now totals 3132.
 At the same time that the application was filed for the San Antonio-Austin-Houston route, Continental Air Lines filed a petition to have made permanent the temporary certificate under which the airline has been operating the Hobbs-San Antonio portion of its El Paso-San Antonio route.

400 Scientists Who Developed Atom Power Want Secret Released

LOS ALAMOS, N. M. — (AP) — Forging atomic bombs "thousands of times more powerful" than those dropped on Japan, 400 scientists who developed the weapon at the government's laboratory asserted in a statement Saturday that to try to keep it from the rest of the world "will lead to an unending war more savage than the last."
 Released by Dr. Robert R. Wilson, member of the executive council, on behalf of the Association of Los Alamos Scientists, the statement said:
 "It is certain that nations other than the United States, Great Britain and Canada by research can produce atomic power.
 "This nation's highly concentrated industrial centers make it particularly vulnerable to such a weapon.
 "Counter-measures would be 'extremely difficult and uncertain' because of 'the concentrated form of destructive energy' and 'the large number of possible methods of delivery.'
 "Advantage would lie with the aggressor. 'A single heavy attack, lasting a matter of minutes, might destroy the ability of a nation to defend itself further.'
 "Challenge To Civilization
 "The bomb is 'a deadly challenge to civilization itself.'
 "The use of atomic energy must be controlled by a world authority."
 The statement disapproved suggestions that the United States, Britain and Canada assume unilateral control over atomic power development.
 "Such a policy will lead to an unending war more savage than the last," the scientists said.
 "It is certain that other countries before many years may also be manufacturing bombs — bombs which may be tens, hundreds or even thousands of times more powerful than those which caused such devastation at Hiroshima and Nagasaki."
 Expressing the belief that international control is technically feasible, the scientists said "abolition of secrecy in national and international relations may be necessary," providing free access to "all laboratories, industries and military installations."

Bulldogs Travel To Big Spring This Weekend

The Bulldogs journey to Big Spring Friday for their second district game of the season. The Midlanders have played the Steers every year since 1939. Midland will be trying for its third win in as many years.

The Bulldogs probably rate slight edge over the Steers as Big Spring has lost to all teams of any standing by large scores. On succeeding weekends they were defeated 0-12 by Cisco, 0-27 by Lubbock, and 0-52 by Odessa. There is no direct comparison, however, as the Bulldogs have played none of the Steers' opponents this year.

Scores for past Midland-Big Spring contests include:
1939—Steers 13, Bulldogs 21.
1940—Steers 6, Bulldogs 0.
1941—Steers 38, Bulldogs 0.
1942—Steers 19, Bulldogs 14.
1943—Steers 0, Bulldogs 18.
1944—Steers 8, Bulldogs 25.

One D + One C = One Beating, Solitary Confinement
No, no, please don't hit me, master. I'm too young to die! Do these screams come from your family woodshed regularly every six weeks?

I just can't see why that ole so-and-so gave me a D. Why I had a perfect notebook except for the last three pages and the scratched out places on pages two and three, and she even counted off for misspelled words and punctuation on the test and... Sound like you? Excuses just don't seem to pierce your mom and pop's armor. Must be they were young once and are wise to excuses having been proficient at them themselves.

Maybe its us though. After all, studying once in a while might help. For instance, take a look at that notebook. It could have been a little neater but we didn't have time, did we? Too many football games, pep rallies, slumber parties and movies. If I hadn't had to cram for six weeks exams I could have copied it over.

Taking a book home every night certainly won't do any good unless you look at it ever-so-often. But life's too short to spend with half of it in school books. Is this your theory? Tough! It's not your mom's I'll bet! So let's make a resolution to do better next time and try to make it stick. Just remember, the ball and chain get pretty heavy every night in the lonely cellar.

Who's Who - Joan

Joan Chapman, blond haired, blue-eyed senior, will serve as editor of the '45-'46 Bulldog. This is quite fitting for Joan's ambition to be a "pretty good reporter on a pretty good paper." Although her major at Texas Tech next year is undecided, she favors journalism.

Joan was born in Fort Worth on November 26, 1928, later moved to Wink, and then to Midland in 1939. Her schedule this year includes English, dramatics, journalism, clothing and A Cappella Choir.

Last year Joan played the part of Gladys in the Junior Play and was a school girl in "Song of Bernadette." In her sophomore year she played a cookie vendor in a Spanish play presented for assembly.

This year Joan is taking an active part in the D. V. V., Junior Music and Dramatic Clubs. You'll find Joan happiest when she is wearing a skirt and sweater, especially if they are green. Just loafing or going on trips is Joan's favorite pastime and collecting Varga girls is her hobby. She likes to watch a basketball game. When playing a game of badminton, she wields a mean racket. Heading the list of her favorite foods are fried chicken and avocados. Van Johnson and Bette Davis rate tops in the movies, and she prefers Bob Hope for radio entertainment.

Skirt's too short and fur coats with slacks are Joan's pet peeves. On her list of records, Spike Jones' "Chico" is "best yet."

Stuart To Direct School Red Cross

The assembly Tuesday morning, which will be under the direction of Miss Margaret Stuart, Midland County chairman of the Junior Red Cross, is for the purpose of explaining to students the aims of the Junior Red Cross. Gifts of money are to be filled this year for school children overseas. The boxes are to contain school supplies, toys, and other gifts.

High School is to fill 160 boxes, Junior High School 160 boxes, North Ward 110 boxes, South Ward 50 boxes, Latin America 10 boxes and Carver 10 boxes. Enrollment for the Junior Red Cross will be November 1-15. Enrollment fees are on a group basis. For information on the Junior Red Cross a copy of the Junior Red Cross Journal will be placed in the library.

Honor Society Election To Be Held This Week

A meeting of the National Honor Society will be held next week. Members are Doris Denton, Joan Barnett, Stella Shattuck, Joan Chapman, Wilbur Yeager, and Jean Ann McLaughlin, who has moved to Lincoln, Nebraska. Election of officers which is to be held by drawing lots is scheduled for next week.

Following the first six weeks, Miss Theresa Klapproth, sponsor, will begin to total six weeks and examination grades. Grades from two previous semesters and this six weeks will be considered. After the grades are totaled they are averaged. To be eligible a student must have an average of 85. In scoring, A is 3, B is 2, C is 1, D is 0, and an F is minus 3. After grades are averaged the names of those having an 85 or above are presented to the faculty. The faculty scores upon character, leadership, and service. Elections are held and the upper 5 per cent of the senior class will be members.

The society, affiliated with headquarters in Washington, has no regular meetings or regular program. The membership of the society will contain the upper 15 per cent of the senior class and the upper 5 per cent of the junior class at the end of the school year.

Coffee Is Given By Foods Girls

Third year foods girls entertained with a coffee Friday from 10 to 11 in the dining room of the foods laboratory.

Members of the class prepared and served refreshments of sandwiches, cinnamon rolls, and hot cocoa. Each girl of the class invited as her guest someone from study hall. The serving table was decorated with fall flowers. Wilma Smith acted as hostess for the occasion. Members of the class are: Mary Louise Baze, Billye Jean Callaway, Jean Gunter, Louise Harless, Sylvia Holiman, Jill Parrott, Dorothy Rotan, Erlene Selby, Wilma Smith, Rosa Dee Spears, Margaret Vaughn, and Clela Worley.

Small Talk

Monday—This is certainly one of those traditional "blue" Mondays judging from the expressions on all these "studious" faces.

A few students began worrying enough about six-weeks exams to start studying for them. It's about time. It is rumored that a petition was almost started to have the Homemaker girls serve portions of "5 minute" Cream of Wheat to all students taking exams—that is if it would affect their mummies as it does "Lil' Abner's muscles!"

Tuesday—Rain! Rain! Rain! There are some "cute" boys who delight in jumping in mud puddles at the noon hour and splashing mud on the girl's legs. Can these be high school boys?

Anyone hear about the Little Moron, who having been stranded in Midland during the rainy siege, commented that the atomic bomb surely had far reaching effects as he had started out for the desert and wound up on the "Gulf Coast"?

On the blackboard in study hall were drawn some curvaceous bathing beauties. A question written above the drawings said, "Are these the girls of our school?" Below this was the answer, "Yes". One boy with bad eyesight, no doubt, after carefully studying the blackboard wrote this answer to the question, "If they are, let's see them!"

Wednesday—Sunshine! Students began shedding their wraps and smiling. Some even went so far as to say that the weather might stay this way!

Six weeks' tests began and some of the usual remarks: "I've never taken a harder test." "I studied for three hours and then the test was on nothing I had studied!" and "I failed that test." Tough luck, kids. Better luck next time.

In one class students did not want to discuss their lesson so they took plenty of time to perform some experiments in order to make the time pass quickly. When half the period was gone, their teacher if they did not do their work faster if they did not do their work faster they would have to stay during the noon hour to finish it. This brought the sudden realization to the students that it was about lunch time and at frequent intervals from then on, some student was heard to say, "I'm hungry."

The teacher in another class read her students a story about "hooks and crooks" and kiddies, they were not the kind of hooks and crooks that you would imagine.

Thursday—Tests are over and some students are "over" those mid-week illnesses. No connection, I'm sure!

The pessimistic students who were prepared for the usual Fire Prevention speech in assembly were very much surprised to hear tales and jokes about themselves. P.S. A two-minute talk on Fire Prevention followed.

Friday—Our favorite school day is here again. Shortened period, pep rally, and tonight our Bulldogs play the Mustangs. Is there any doubt as to who will win? Bye, till next week and report cards!

Claude Crane Speaks On Fire Prevention

Claude Crane, insurance agent, spoke in assembly, Thursday, in observance of Fire Prevention Week. He explained that this was a yearly occurrence for him to speak in assembly. Crane made a humorous speech telling jokes on both students and faculty, and insisted on being serenaded by Billye Jean Jones, Doris Denton, and Barbara Brown, who sang "Lindy Lou."

Beards A Jinx?

If you have been wondering why Jimmy Edwards and Howard Mickey shaved off those "rugged" looking beards—here's why. It seems that they felt the beards might be a jinx against winning the football games! The theory was tried out in the Sweetwater game Friday night.

GIs On Troop Train Protest Change In Camp Destination

OMAHA—(AP)—A troop trainload of Nebraska and Kansas soldiers returning home from Europe Saturday wired the Omaha World-Herald complaining the train was without sleeping or washing facilities and that last-minute change in destination should be revoked. The telegram, filed from Newburg, Mo., by two officers, two enlisted men, and "400 others," said they left Camp Killmer, N. J. Thursday and had been traveling since on "slow routes."

Traffic Violations Bring Many Fines

City court was a busy place Saturday morning as 22 motorists paid fines for running stop signs, speeding or for making right hand turns on a red light without first coming to a full stop. Police Chief Jack Ellington said he now had a sufficient number of men on his force so a closer check can be made on traffic violations and the number who pay fines for traffic violations probably will increase unless there is a drastic decrease in the violations.

Asylum Short Handed; Nazi Staff Had To Bury As Well As Kill People!

WIESBADEN, GERMANY—(AP)—A defendant at the "murder factory" trials testified Saturday the staff of the Hadamar Asylum was so short handed that he had both to kill patients and carry their bodies to the cemetery. Fifteen thousand German mental patients were killed as incurables at the institution, before it was used to do away with Poles and Russians. Karl Willig, elderly nurse at the institute, said that the dual job was distasteful to him, but added: "I assumed that, if the German doctors had examined the patients, it was true they were incurably ill."
