communities.

The GFWC has received a grant from the Justice Department, through the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration for the HANDS UP campaign. The project is noteworthy both in its nationwide scope and in its cooperative approach to fighting crime in local communities. The goals are to create a national awareness of the citizen's role in crime prevention and to set up a network of local recommendations on crime reduction.

According to Mrs. Gary Druesedow, HANDS UP chairman for the Haskell club, "We are not establishing a new program. Crime prevention has been in existence almost three years. We are only making citizens aware of how they may become involved in a program that is already in the hands of the law enforcement officers."

Girl Scout Week 6-12

Girl Scout Week will be observed March 6-March 12. This year is the 65th anniversary of the founding of Girl Scouting by Juliette Low in her home in Savannah, Georgia, March 12, 1912.

Traditionally there are seven Service Days. Girl Scout Day is Sunday, March 6th. Girls will attend the church of their choice and renew the Promise: "On my honor I will try to serve God, my country and mankind, to live by the Girl Scout Law."

Monday's emphasis is homemaking; Tuesday, citizenship; Wednesday, safety; Thursday, international friendship; Friday, arts; and Saturday, out-of-doors.

A 1977 goal for the West Texas Girl Scout Council is to have each troop contribute to the Juliette Low World Friendship Fund. 100% troop participation will make our council eligible to apply for the special Juliette Low 50th Anniversary Recognition medal. The Franklin mint is casting the bronze medals showing Juliette Low's head on the obverse side and the World Friendship logo on the reverse.

Letters To The Editor

(EDITORS NOTE: The Haskell Free Press will publish letters to the Editor dealing with any subject. All letters must be signed but names will be withheld by request. All letters are subject to editing for length and liability.)

Dear Editor,

I read the letter in last week's paper by Mrs. Gene Overton and I agree with her that Paint Creek is a very good school. I have attended Paint Creek for all of my education. I am a sophomore this year and our class is taking six subjects. The subjects I am taking this year are the following: Algebra II, Agriculture I, Home-making II, biology, English II, health, driver's education, and physical education. I feel that we are getting a better education here than we would at a large school.

We are small, but this makes us all work together and know each other better. Our teachers are good in giving us individual help when we need it.

It's true we are not large enough a school to have band or stage band but we all get to take part in sports, whereas in larger schools all students do not participate in sports. Many of us take private piano lessons each week and find time to take part in 4-H activities.

I noticed in the Abilene Reporter News that seniors in Abilene schools do not get the English they need for further education. We have four years of high school English including literature and grammar to prepare us for further education.

I am proud to be a part of the Paint Creek School and live in such a community. I just wish everyone felt the way I do about Paint Creek School.

Debra Wells.

Soil and Water Conservation Districts

Over 2000 conservation district officials and other conservationists participated in the 31st Annual Convention of the National Association of Conservation Districts. The annual convention, recently in session, held forth in Atlanta, Georgia.

"Conservation districts are the local entities of government that deal with problems of land and water use and management," said Sen. Herman Talmadge in his opening address at the convention. Talmadge, who is Chairman of the Senate Committee on Agriculture and Forestry, warned that districts must continue to demonstrate their capabilities and be prepared to change with the time.

The central purpose of the annual convention is the establishment of policies on key conservation issues. Acting on resolutions that originated in local conservation districts and state associations, the NACD took many major actions.

One of the highlights of the convention was the adoption of a new Declaration of District Principles. "The character of the nation and its institutions, the well being of its people, and its aspirations for the future depend in large measure on a continuing abundance of well-managed natural resources, together with a natural environment conducive to human dignity and quality of living under God. We believe this state can be achieved best through maximum acceptance of responsibility by individual citizens and by full recognition that America stands for the sovereignty of a self-governing people."

Another proposal affecting farmers and ranchers in the Great Plains of the United States was the adoption of a proposal to eliminate the 1981 termination date for the Great Plains Conservation Program and the $300 million total funding authorization—thus making the program permanent.

Local farmers and ranchers, cooperating with the California Creek and Wichita-Brazos Soil and Water Conservation Districts, should take a more active part in the operation of their respective districts.

The California Creek SWCD Board of Directors, meets on the fourth Monday, monthly, at 2:00 p.m., at the Stamford City Hall. The Wichita-Brazos SWCD Board of Directors, meets monthly on the fourth Fridays, at 9:30 a.m. at the District Building in Knox City. All parties interested in conservation, locally, are welcome to attend Board of Directors meetings. If you have problems, you are urged to attend, and air those problems with the Directors. J. C. INTRODUCING . . .

TO SERVE YOU BETTER

L. C. Johnson, Sr. plays a very important role in keeping Haskell National Bank's doors open for business. He began his employment with Haskell National Bank in February of 1973, in charge of the building's maintenance. That, is no small task, when the territory that must be covered each day is taken under consideration. The building includes eight thousand feet of actual floor space on the ground floor level, and two very large storerooms, and the Directors' Board Room upstairs. The ground floor includes a double vestibule, containing the Night Depository access and supplies, then opening into the lobby area. The spacious lobby is flanked by five large, glass enclosed offices, and a large area for the secretaries and receptionist's desks. Four teller's windows, installment loan teller's station, and the statement window, encircle the other end of the lobby area. Immediately to the left of the teller's section is a large, comfortable room for customers use, then the big steel vault that contains Safety Deposit Boxes, and the inner, steel cash vault and time safe. The huge bookkeeping department, and bookkeeper's steel vault is located behind the teller's section. The Drive-In Window, and another store room is just to the rear of the bookkeeping department. The back portion of the building contains the kitchen area, lounges, and the large section devoted primarily to agricultural loans. This portion is made up of three large, glass enclosed offices, comfortable seating area, and a secretary's desk. So, from front to back, and top to bottom, the Haskell National Bank building is an imposing structure. To present itself each day with its "company look", entails much, much "after hours" work for L. C.

L. C. was born in Waco, Texas, and attended schools in Waco and Hillsboro. He came to Haskell in 1945, and is married to the former Alice Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Major Lewis, Sr. of Haskell. Alice and L. C. have five boys: Otis T., Robert Earl, L. C. Jr., Johnny Lee, and Ollie, who attended Haskell schools. Ollie was one of Haskell's outstanding "Indians" before his graduation in 1975.

L. C. starts his day at the bank by 7:30 each morning, getting the scene set for the day's business activities. Upon completion of his morning tasks there, he reports for work at the Haskell County Warehouse Company, where he is also employed. He returns to the bank building around five o'clock in the afternoon, and Alice assists him with getting things shined up, and supplies replenished for the next day.

The Johnsons live at 1517 North Avenue A, in Haskell, and are faithful members of the Independent Baptist Church, here.

FB Conference Held In Austin

A total of 327 persons from 117 counties attended the Texas Farm Bureau Legislative-Membership Conference Feb. 15-16 in Austin. Representing the Haskell County Farm Bureau were Glenn Dudensing of Stamford, Dale Carroll of Weinert, Carl Bailey and the local Farm Bureau President J. W. Aycock of Haskell.

Carroll Chaloupka of Dalhart President of the 195,571 member Texas Farm Bureau recommended that agricultural land be assessed for taxation at its productive value. He also outlined TFB's legislative recommendations on school financing, state inheritance taxes, farm-to-market roads, taxation and regulation of underground water, and funding agricultural research and education.

A dinner highlighting a two day session was held with Governor Dolph Briscoe giving the "response" to TFB President Chaloupka's presentation of Farm Bureau's legislative program at last month's Austin conference, and he did so with the simple declaration that he agrees with "every word of it." Briscoe expressed pride in the fact that he is "a Farm Bureau member in Uvalde County" and said he will be working with other Farm Bureau members to implement the organizations program.

Part of the conference program was scrapped in order for the group to go to the capitol and observe the debate on H.B.22, the bill that provides for taxing of agricultural land according to its productivity. The measure passed the House.

A blood clot the size of this dot can cause a heart attack.

Or a stroke.

Every year, thousands die because of a blood clot. Thousands more become disabled, some permanently.

What's being done to stop it?

Plenty.

We're the American Heart Association. We're giving scientists the chance to find out more about blood clots.

How to detect them. How to treat them. How to keep them from happening. We're fighting hard. With new drugs. New kinds of treatment. Better ways to help heart attack and stroke victims return to a normal life.

And it's only a part of the total war we're waging against the number one cause of death in this country: cardiovascular diseases.

But we can't fight without your money. When an American Heart Association volunteer asks for your dollars, be generous.

The blood clot is small, the problem is enormous.

Cooking Tips In Microwave Oven

Now that you—and eight million other people in the world—are the proud owners of a microwave oven, maybe you're wondering how to use a conventional cookbook for this new, fast "miracle" cookery. Mrs. Barbara Elliott, County Extension Agent, says, "Microwave ovens are more popular due to changing lifestyles, the energy crisis, public educational and awareness, she said.

Manufacturers continually are improving the microwave oven so it will perform a greater variety of jobs.

"Time" is the major factor in adjusting to microwave cooking, but there are several other techniques that will make the "change" easier.

Microwaves are produced in the magnetron of the oven. They are directed into the oven cavity by a stirrer, rotating blade or fan.

It's difficult to distribute the microwaves evenly into all parts of the oven, so the cook must do one of two things: place the food in a round container rather than a square one, because the food cooks from the outside toward the center and foods cooked in square dishes tend to become overdone at the corners. Or, the cook can use the "rotation technique"—in which the dish is rotated one-fourth turn about halfway through the cooking time.

Another adaptation is necessary because microwaves cause carryover cooking to occur. That means after the food is cooked in the oven, and removed from it, it continues to cook.

LET'S VISIT...

The most important question is: "What must I do to be saved?" The book of Acts in the New Testament answers this question by showing us what action people of the first century took to obey the Lord. What saved them will save us because God's will has not changed.

Here's what they did:

- Believed gospel message (Acts 16:31-33)
- Repented of their sins (Acts 2:38)
- Confessed Jesus (Acts 8:37; Rom. 10:9, 10)
- Were immersed in water for remission of sins (in every case of New Testament conversion—1 Pet. 3:20, 21)

Write us for more detailed information or study for yourself the Acts of the Apostles.

This week the National Park System is celebrating its 105th birthday. So is Yellowstone National Park. Yellowstone is the world's oldest national park, the grandparent of more than 1200 parks or equivalent preserves worldwide and of almost 300 within the United States.

Thanks to Yellowstone and the beginning of the National Park System concept, superlative, one-of-a-kind natural, historical, recreational and cultural areas have been set aside all across the country, including the likes of Lyndon B. Johnson National Historic Site, Big Bend National Park, Amistad National Recreation Area and Carlsbad Caverns National Park in this immediate vicinity.

The act establishing Yellowstone was signed by President Ulysses S. Grant on March 1, 1872. It set aside an enormous

If LACIE is the answer, then what is the question? Well... it might end up as the answer to "How can the government spend a lot of money?", or it could be the answer to "How can we accurately predict crop results without on-sight inspection?". Scientists are hoping it answers the second question since, if so, planning for U.S. farmers could be greatly simplified. LACIE is the fast way of saying Large Area Crop Inventory Experiment. Purpose of the experiment is to determine better ways of obtaining information on growing crops by satellite surveillance. Specifically, the tests involve a special kind of "photography"... using instruments which measure the amounts and intensities of heat or light reflected from the land. Researchers say there is a good chance the new devices can become sophisticated enough to accurately report crop conditions not only in the United States, but from any place in the world.

tract of two million acres "as a public park or pleasuring ground for the benefit and enjoyment of all the people."

The Yellowstone Act barred the land from commercial use and established for the first time the policy of national ownership of superlative resources for the common good.

William C. Everhart, in his book, The National Park Service, said that, considering the fact that to reach the borders of the new park would require a couple of weeks tough travel by horseback from the nearest rail line, the possibility that many people would ever reach Yellowstone seemed extremely remote in 1872—particularly after the untimely death of a couple of early park visitors at the hands of Nez Perce warriors under Chief Joseph.

Today, the whole idea of setting aside Yellowstone as the world's first national park seems to have been a wise move indeed. It was primarily the work of a handful of idealists—members of several Yellowstone explorations who believed the scenic wonders should be shared by all and by a few men of vision in Congress.

By 1900 a few more national parks had been created including Yosemite, General Grant (later included in Kings Canyon), Mt. Ranier and Sequoia.

Today, no matter where you live, you can find one or more of these one-of-a-kind wonders within an easy drive of your home.

If you are planning to visit one of these areas Right Around Home, write the National Park Service, P. O. Box 728, Room N-3, Santa Fe, N.M. 87501 for a trip planning guide to those parks within an easy drive of your home.

And have a SUPER trip. That is, Safely, Use, Preserve and Enjoy these Resources. Even with nearly 300 parks nationwide, these resources are extremely limited due to an ever increasing number of visitors.
