

Dist. Demos Organize

At the urging of the Texas State Democratic Executive Committee (SDEC), democrats of the 30th Senatorial District met this past weekend in Stamford to consider what they might do to improve grass-roots participation in party activities and to raise money to help the Democratic Party in the state meet expenses.

The result was the formation of an organization called 30th District Democrats.

In forming the new organization, the members elected Charles Stenholm of Stamford and Marguerite Snyder of Biard as co-chairpersons. Stenholm and Snyder are both members of the SDEC. The election of additional officers was postponed until a by-laws committee could meet and agree upon a set of by-laws to be submitted to the membership at a later date.

Also during the meeting, Marvin "Salty" Martin of Vernon was re-elected chairman of the 30th Senatorial District Executive Committee. Among those addressing the meeting was State Senator Ray Farabee of Wichita Falls who discussed several important items of legislation now being considered by the legislature. Farabee pointed out that one of the most controversial matters facing the legislature is the financing of education in Texas in addition to the subject of teacher pay raises. He said that Texas teachers almost certainly will not receive the 25 percent pay increase recommended by the Texas State Teacher Association; however, he added that he

of an organizational newsletter and other incidental expenses.

In commenting on the new organization, Stenholm indicated that one of its functions will be to improve communications between party workers and elected officials. He said that current plans call for the holding of quarterly meetings in different parts of the district so that members may be brought up to date on party activities and other

Chamber Warns Against Map Ads

The Chamber of Commerce office has received information that telephone salesmen are again busy attempting to sell ads to local merchants on a proposed map for Haskell County, which they stress in their sales pitch that it is much needed. This is far from the truth and all merchants, clubs & organizations are urged to use extreme caution in participating in these shady practices.

In 1976, two maps of the county were distributed as a result of telephone salesmen calling long distance. Both were very poor in quality, few in number, and featured an outdated map of Haskell County and the rates for advertising are extremely high.

One such company operating by this method in 1976 has a Boise, Idaho return address on their material. No representatives of the company made an appearance in Haskell and it is not difficult to realize that it is nothing but a gimmick to capitalize to a gradient by merely making a few long distance calls.

The publicity committee of the Chamber of Commerce is currently working with a highly reputable firm out of Education will distribute the county amounts to the school districts in accordance with Federal Regulations. Each school district is guaranteed no less than 85 percent of its fiscal year 1977 allocation.

Jerry Crisp of Condley and Company, an Abilene accounting firm, told directors Wednesday that 79 cents out of every one of the $1,920,342 which came into the Center last year benefited patients. Only 21 cents out of every dollar was used to raise and administer funds.

"And that's a really good record," Crisp said. "I heard over the radio the other day about an organization that spent only three percent of its funds for the reason they were raised. The rest went to pay off fund raising and administrative costs."

The total amount of rehab center fund raising and administrative costs, Crisp said, was $401,628. About 12 percent of that, he told directors, financed the actual fund raising, while the other 9 percent went to administration of the funds.

About $225,874 were added last year to the WTRC's Foundation program, Crisp said, which brings the total amount of the foundation principal up to $969,571. Interest from that principal, which provides a permanent source of revenue, is used for patient services. Dallas relative to publishing a colorful brochure which will include both a city and county map plus other pertinent information. Merchants purchasing ads for this brochure will receive an ample supply for their own use plus the Chamber of Commerce will have several thousand for distribution.

We are also being deluged at the present time by door to door salesmen who are calling on people in the residential cause with numerous things for sale, which is usually for some proposed worthy cause. Some can be classified as strictly a "con" game for personal gain of some company and the sales people. This working of the small towns is evidentally the result of the larger towns and cities having a Better Business Bureau which will readily curtail such practicies. The Abilene office is very active and a telephone call to them or the local Chamber of Commerce can in most cases advise you wheather it is a legitimate operation or worhty project.

Telephone salesmen are hired on the merits of having a good voice and manner with a persuasive line with which they attempt to "snow you under."

The rains came, and the "kids" came, and Haskell National Bank personnel loved and appreciated both! Several weeks ago, Elementary students from Paint Creek School came and toured the bank, and watched the machines, (and employees) working. For several days now, Haskell Elementary students have been making the "grand tour." Weinert pupils are due to come before school is out for summer

Haskell National Bank thought that children would be interested in all the "behind the scenes" activities, and complicated machinery used in the daily processing of the bank's business. The visits were planned as a "learning process" for the students, but bank personnel have probably learned more than anyone. Daily routines, that have become so "hum-drum", suddenly became much more interesting, and fun, when viewed from a child's perspective. H.N.B. personnel learned that there is nothing more delightful, than intelligent, inquisitive, well mannered children, which these students have proven to be. A totally unexpected dividend received from these visits was the "thank you" letters written as a class room project, when they returned to their respective classes. These were written individually by the students, expressing in their own words and their very own spelling, their conception of what they had observed, and been told about the bank. Everyone at H.N.B. has thoroughly enjoyed the visits, and especially enjoyed the letters. From these, many things were learned. Probably the most popular attraction for the students was the coin wrapping machine, (and "wrapping" was spelled many interesting ways). Running a close second, seemed to be the proof machine. All the students were fascinated with the way the different items "flew" into the separate compartments at the touch of a button, (or key). Another very big attraction was the telephone switchboard operated by the receptionist. All were interested in the teller's money carts, the big vault, and safety deposit boxes. (One little girl wrote that it was a safe place to keep your "jelry" because "know one" but you could get in the box.) They liked the "Drive-In Window", the computers, and were very interested in the postage machine, and picture making machine and viewer, and the night depository. Employees were really surprised at their interest in the copying maching, and the paper shredder. All personnel tried to explain their particular jobs, and how each machine is operated, as they were doing their regular work.

The students' comments and questions were very enlightning and entertaining. One little boy said, "there's the captain," upon seeing Bob Herren seated in his office, one figured that he was a policeman. As coloring books and candy were being dispensed, just before each group's departure, one little boy stated that Bob looked like Jerry Clowers.

The visits have been a rewarding experience for Haskell National Bank, and it is hoped that students and teachers enjoyed it all as much as bank personnel, and the letters will provide "chuckles" for a long time to come.

Three-fourths of the residential customers on Lone Star Gas Company's system have a need for conservation steps that could reduce their homes' energy needs. This fact was revealed in a just-completed survey done for Lone Star by Louis, Bowles and Grove, Inc., according to Neal Hall, vice president of Lone Star's Community Relations Division.

The survey was done in preparation for a planned aunching of a new consumer conservation program by Lone Star. Hall said

Among other results, the survey showed that a majority of the residential homes in Lone Star's service area still have inadequate insulation and other energy conservation deficiencies. Only 17 percent of North Texas residents have added attic insulation, and most did it themselves.

Although a majority of homeowners in all income brackets are willing to invest money in conservation steps, relatively few have done so,

The Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service notes that farm and livestock prices decreased less than 1 per cent during the past month.

The price of wheat continues to be an excellent example of the farm price situation as it affects producers. Wheat in Texas averaged $2.38 as of the middle of March, a month ago it was $2.42, a year ago it was $3.68 per bushel.

Cotton showed a slight increase; hogs were down about $2.40. Beef cattle were up slightly as were calf prices.

Wheat production in Texas is now projected to be eight per cent below a year ago and almost 30 per cent

LET'S VISIT...

If God was as permissive as some say, he doubtless would have given Israel the tablets of stone bearing the Ten Suggestions.

Some modern religionists have a difficult time saying such words as: "commandment" or "obedience" or "work". They shouldn't have difficulty because the Bible uses these words in both the old and new testaments.

God does expect His people to comply with His directives. After all, He is still God. Is your religious and moral life based upon God's will as it is revealed through the Bible?
