Council Accepts Resignation Of Police Chief Jim Toland

Members of the Haskell City Council voted three for and one abstention in favor of accepting the resignation of Police Chief James E. Toland during their Regular meeting Tuesday night.

Chief Toland submitted a letter of resignation stating that he had enrolled in Hardin-Simmons University full time with a major in law enforcement and religion. Chief Toland told the Free Press Wednesday that he planned to enter the ministry full time and that it was not possible to fulfill the duties of Police Chief and attend school full time.

He said that after much consideration, he had decided to finish his education and that was the major reason for his resignation.

While talking about the accomplishments of the Police Department during his stay he said that there are some things that still need to be corrected to have an adequate police department in the city, some of which include: better benefits including health, death and retirement benefits; and an emergency dispatch 24 hours per day. He also stated that the pay for a city policeman had been raised from $400.00 to $500.00 during the past year but was still $150.00 below the average pay for policemen in cities of comparable size in the West Central Texas Council of Governments area.

In talking about the emergency dispatch he cited a recent example of two Stamford youths which were run-over and that he was finally notified by the extension police phone in his home. He stated that the reporting party did not know who to call and finally called the police department seeking aid. He added that on numerous occasions citizens had told him that they had been unable to contact police or sheriffs officers when they were needed and he said that a 24-hour dispatcher would eliminate this problem.

In offering other suggestions as to how the police department could become more proficient he stated that complete control of the department should be given to the police chief; and that consideration should be given to the present vehicle situation.

He stated that at present only one vehicle is adequate and that it is becoming more and more difficult to keep patrol cars on duty 24 hours per day.

Toland also said, "During my serving as Chief of Police, I have appreciated the cooperation given to me and my officers by the District Attorney's office, DPS, Justice of the Peace, and Texas Ranger Marshall Brown. It is unfortunate that the City and County have not cooperated fully and I feel to have a proficient and professional police force, the full cooperation of all members of all agencies in the area is required. I hope the sheriff will cooperate better with my replacement."

Chief Toland also said, "I appreciate the support of many citizens in the community in assisting to make Haskell a better place to live. I feel that many major accomplishments have been made and I hope the people of Haskell will give my replacement their full cooperation and demand a professional, full time police force."

Toland also said that he and his family would continue to live in Haskell.

In other Council business it was reported that a revenue sharing check in the amount of $9,930.00 had been received and that 73 blocks of seal coating were complete. Cost for the seal coating thus far has been $17,797.88.

Mayor pro-tem Loraine Johnson presided at the meeting, which was opened by prayer by Councilmen Guy Kennedy. Others attending the meeting were councilmen Earl Proctor, E.J. Stewart, Bob Philpot, Water Supt. Marvin Collins and City Sec. Desmond Dulaney.

COG Receives EMS Grant

The West Central Texas Emergency Medical Services System has just received word from the Texas Department of Health Resources in Austin that their grant from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare has been approved. The grant will go into effect July 1, 1977. This is the third year that the 19-county WCT EMS has received federal funds to upgrade their system.

The EMSS will receive a sizeable portion of the $300,000 grant. The rest of the grant will be used in Austin for the operation and support of the WCT area.

The goal of this EMSS grant is the progression of the Basic Life Support System in West Central Texas, to an Advanced Life Support System.

The first two grants have been used to form the foundation of this Advanced Life Support System.

West Central Texas EMSS will achieve this progression by nurse and paramedic training, by the improvement of hospital critical care capabilities and patient flow, by improvement of communications, and by the development of a Poison Information Center at Hendrick Medical Center.

Investigation Continues

District Attorney Joseph Thippen announced this week that the investigation in the death of Linda Alcaarez was continuing.

He also stated that preliminary information received from the pathologist who is conducting the autopsy indicated that the death was not a result of gunshot, knife or stab wounds, or beating.

He said that no other charges would be filed pending receipt of the autopsy report.

County Attorney Charles Chapman reported that Juvenile Proceedings were started against a 16 year old Haskell youth in connection with the investigation.

Bob Krueger Announces Campaign Plans

U.S. Congressman Bob Krueger of Texas, who announced July 4 that he will run for the United States Senate, has pledged to attempt to visit "every town in Texas" during his campaign.

"For too long, persons seeking statewide office have concentrated their efforts in only the major metropolitan areas and have forgotten the people in the smaller cities and towns that make up so much of Texas

"As one who grew up in a small town (New Braunfels) and as one who has always been close to the land, I think it extremely important that persons in public office make every effort to not only visit rural America, but to understand that often it is in the nation's smaller cities where our values were set, where our heritage remains strongest."

Krueger, himself part of a ranching family, stressed the importance of agriculture dur-

Don McClatchy said, "We have been waiting for a good valid reason to get all of our friends, customers and employees together. The 50th anniversary provides us that opportunity. We want to say thanks for 50 good years."

We invite everyone to come, bring a sack lunch and something to sit on, and we'll provide the rest," he concluded.

ing his July 4 announcement speech:

"I pledge to work to strengthen one of the most powerful forces in our economy—agriculture—by enlarging opportunities for agricultural export."

Krueger, as member of the U.S. House of Representatives has co-sponsored legislation calling for additional agricultural exports.

Krueger said he will also work to attract light industry to rural Texas, "the kind of industry that will provide additional jobs but will not pollute the air, jam thoroughfares and result in housing shortages, but the calibre of industry that will make life better for people who live in areas outside of metropolitan centers."

"We also must recognize that agriculture, though not the massive employer it once was, remains a major industry for Texas and we must keep it that way with programs for farmers and ranchers to give them the incentive to want to continue as farmers and ranchers but to also provide their sons and daughters the

Hale, Money Repeat Vows

Tammy Lynn Hale and George Stephen Money were united in marriage July 9, 1977 in the East Side Baptist Church in Haskell with Rev. Jimmy Griffith, pastor, and K.E. Wooley, Benjamin, officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn W. Hale of Ft. Worth, and the groom is the son of Mrs. Ellen C. Lowrimore of Kerrville and Mr. George E. Money of South America.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal length gown of white silk organza over taffeta. The V neckline was finished with a lace ruffle and repeated on the long slender sleeves, dotted with scatterings of Venise lace motifs. The empire bodice covered with matching lace held the full skirt finished with a deep flounced ruffle, edged with lace, that flowed into a chapel train. Venise spray appliques and single flower edging circled the skirt above the flounce. Her lace-echoe held the chapel length mantilla of silk illusion edged in matching lace.

She carried a bouquet of white roses and baby's breath with English ivy.

For something old she had a dime in her shoe given to her mother by her father Albert Andress. Something new was a diamond necklace, a gift from the groom. Something borrowed was her father's wedding band and something blue was her blue garter.

Maid of Honor was Ruth Ann Russell of Ft. Worth. Bridesmaids were Bonnie Mustarde of Ft. Worth, and Sherrill Mansker of Angleton. They wore gowns of polyester chiffon in blue. The empire waist and low square neckline was outlined with Venise lace. The elbow length sleeves held a deep double handkerchief flounce. Skirts were full and flowing. They wore large white picture hats with long streamers of blue chiffon. They carried nosegays of white carnations and baby's breath.

Julie Gibbons of Ft. Worth, cousin of the bride was flower girl. She wore a floor length baby blue chiffon dress with a hat matching the bridesmaids.

Organist was Mrs. Kenneth Jarred.

Best man was Mike Money, brother of the groom, of Kerrville. Groomsman were Jay Seale of Fredricksburg and Bobby Livingston of Kerrville. Jimmy Hale, brother of the bride of Ft. Worth, was ringbearer. The groom wore an all white tuxedo with tails and his best man, groomsman and ringbearer, were dressed in baby blue tuxedos.

The mother of the bride wore a floor-length gown of mint green with a floral chiffon overlay. The groom's mother wore an Ivory chiffon floor-length dress with handkerchief hemmed skirt. They wore corsages of orchids.

The church was decorated with candles and white mums and greenery. The pews were marked with greenery and votive candles.

Lisa LeFevre of Palacios registered guests.

A reception was held in the Haskell Community Room. The bride's table was laid with a lace illusion over white satin. The four-tiered cake was white with blue roses, surrounded by the bridesmaids bouquets, and a silver candelabra with blue candles.

The groom's table was laid with blue satin and blue illusion. The spice cake was decorated with almond silvers and grapes clustered in English ivy. A silver coffee service and candelabra completed the table.

Serving at the bride's table was Mrs. Walter Tucker of Azle. Serving at the groom's table was Miss Kathy Money of El Paso, sister of the groom. Miss Penny Money of Irving, sister of the groom, served punch from a silver three tiered fountain.

The bride is a 1977 graduate of Arlington Heights High School and plans to attend Schreiner College this fall. The groom attended Haskell High School and Tivy High School in Kerrville.

After a wedding trip to Oklahoma the couple will reside in Kerrville. He is employed by the Circle K in Fredricksburg.

Conservation Viewpoints

USDA Soil Conservation Service
Assisting
California Creek and Wichita-Brazos
Soil and Water Conservation Districts

Nearly every farm or ranch has at least one 'gullied' or eroded area that has been an eyesore for years. Every rain washes more soil away. The 'head cut', or active upper portion of the gully, moves from a few inches to several feet during each rainstorm. This eroded area is considered by Soil Conservation Service technicians to be a "critical area".

The term "critical area" is used to describe a badly eroded, heavily damaged, possibly brush infested area that is unfit for any profitable use. It may be endangering other valuable land such as pastureland or cropland. Because it cannot be crossed with farm equipment, management is impossible.

Treatment of critical areas has run almost as rampant as the eroded areas themselves. Ton after ton of trash, tires and brush are dumped alongside old car bodies in an attempt to stop gullies. Sometimes they work. Most of the time the trash ends up miles downstream from the gully overfall.

Almost all critical areas can be controlled. In some cases, control can run as high as thousands of dollars per acre. Although considered unfeasible in today's economy, there may come a time when we will look back with regret at an irreversible process.

Some few weeks back, there appeared in this column, pictures, and details of such an area on Mrs. M.E. Overton's farm northwest of Rule. Work has started on the correction of this critical area. An earthen structure with corrugated metal draw-down tubes is being installed. This type of structure is commonly known as a grade stabilization structure. I am sure that anyone interested in watching the progress of this structure would be welcomed by Mr. and Mrs. Overton.

Other types of critical areas have been shaped and seeded on the M.W. Phemister Farm, just west of Weinert; on the John P. Perrin Farm, about 10 miles north of Haskell; and on the Kenneth Lane Farm, about 8 miles southeast of Haskell. All of the necessary shaping and establishing vegetative cover has been cost-shared by the Federal Government with these producers under the Great Plains Conservation Program.

Farmers and ranchers who have critically eroded areas are urged to call or come by the SCS Office for further information.

To Help You...

Your ENERGY Dollar$

Use your Refrigerator Wisely...

* Open and close the refrigerator and freezer doors only when necessary. Several items can be removed at once to reduce loss of cold air.

* Freezers and refrigerators operate most efficiently when filled to the correct capacity. Foods should be placed slightly apart on refrigerator shelves for correct circulation.

* Cover all liquids stored in the refrigerator (especially frost-free models). Moisture is drawn into the air from uncovered liquids making the refrigerator work harder.

* Be sure your appliance is standing level so that the door seals properly. By setting a glass of water on the top, you can see if it is level.

Washington "As It Looks"

From Here"
OMAR BURLISON
Congressman — 17th District

WASHINGTON, D.C.—
CLACK-CLACKITY-CLACK, the raucous, raspy sound came creeping into my dozing thoughts on a quiet July afternoon. After all my years in Washington, I recognized that sound immediately as the dependable, sturdy stapler.
THE STAPLER IS THAT INDISPENSIBLE GADGET used in every agency of the Federal Government to hold reams and reams of paper together. The bureaucracy would be absolutely helpless without the stapler and bureaucrats paralyzed in efforts to turn out reports, regulations and directives.
THERE MUST HAVE BEEN A PRIMITIVE VERSION of the stapler. The Fifteenth Century Flemish writer Belartus, the Beemus-ed, used this reference in one of his works: "Ah," he wrote, "That this curs'd and ferrous affixer might be, by happy fortune, deep-sixed." (Hope no one researches the correctness of this quote.)

ANYWAY, WHETHER THE FLEMISH SCHOLAR REALLY KNEW ABOUT the stapler, it would serve good purpose for the President and Congressmen who vote for more and bigger programs. To have Belartus' words engraved and placed on their desks. The stapler explains much about the infestation of Federal functionaries in the daily affairs of Government.
IT DOES NOT REQUIRE TOWERING INTELLECT to develop this thesis. Staples have an obvious single purpose—to hold multiple sheets of paper together. A sophisticated stapler can securely bind dozens of papers, until full-grown.
THIS IS THE WAY IT USUALLY WORKS: A middle level official would rather miss lunch than to pass along a file on anything without appending three or six or a dozen more pages to it. The process, then, becomes one of geometric accumulation until the executive on whose desk the document finally comes to rest, must be stricken with visions of a small cabin on a little lake deep in the mesquite in Jones County.
THE THICKER THE COMPILATION OF STAPLED ENTRIES on a Government matter, less is the inclination of the higher bureaucrat to slog his way, page by page, through all details. This is the time when he may appoint a study committee to deal with the matter in the bulging file. (The Congress often does the same thing but for different reasons—usually to put something off to another day.)
THE STUDY COMMITTEE

TO CARRY OUT ITS MISSION, recruits a staff and months later, issues a report. The stapled sheaves of paper have now given birth to thick volumes, recommending further study and a larger staff.
MANY MEMBERS OF CONGRESS LAMENT AND CRITICIZE big Government—controls and regulation—but continue to help churn out legislation which increases bureaucracy and paperwork. The President, who promises reduction in red tape and bigger Government, proposes more of the same. Let it be said in fairness then that it is not just the bureaucrats who create all the red tape which is engulfing the Country. To carry out what the President proposes and the Congress disposes, somebody has to push the button and turn the crank.
THAT SOUND COULD NOT BE A STAPLER. Out here in the country where stillness crashes on the ears—no telephone or television, only an occasional plane overhead or the distant roar of a diesel truck on the Anson-Stamford Highway—all is quite. Scores of doves, mockingbirds, red-winged blackbirds, scissor-tails and quail are taking one another's location. At about nine-thirty in the evening and four A.M., coyotes seem to be arguing about something across the pasture. A clacking road-runner came by—which gave the idea of the clinking stapler going steadily in Washington.

Texas Medical Association
1801 North Lamar Austin Texas 78701

Bees, wasps and spiders send many people running. But a small percent of the population should run for their lives, the Texas Medical Association says.
Estimates show about 2% or 3% of the population is hypersensitive to insect stings and bites. These hypersensitive reactions are more serious than the usual pain, itching and swelling around a bite site. Check with a physician if a victim has any reactions other than localized programs. Or if there is a severe local reaction on the face and neck, some doctors recommend administering drugs to prevent more serious reactions.
Hypersensitive reactions to insect bites can include headache, vomiting, diarrhea, a feeling of heat throughout the body, itching all over the body, breathing difficulty and anaphylactic shock. This last condition can occur in the very small percentage of people super-sensitive to insect venom. It may be fatal. Anaphylactic shock symptoms can include weakness, faintness and pale, cold, clammy skin.
Many severe reactions occur within 20 minutes to an hour after a bite. But a few severe reactions may not occur until about two weeks after a sting. Sometimes hypersensitive reactions hit people who never have had major problems with insect bites previously.
Most reactions to insect bites are caused by ants, bees, wasps, hornets and spiders. However, some people have hypersensitive reactions to lice, flies, bed bugs and other insects. Bees seem to be the most common offender. Bees also have the distinction of being one of the few insects to leave the stinger in the victim. Attached to the stinger is a venom sac that can keep pumping venom into a victim for awhile. The best way to remove the stinger is to gently scrape across it with a fingernail or knife edge or carefully pull it out with tweezers so more venom will not be injected.
Treatment for bee and other insect stings also may include applying cold compresses to slow venom absorption and reduce swelling. Calamine lotion often can relieve itching. Other lotions may be used but victims need to be careful not to apply anything that will further irritate the skin.
The majority of insect bites and stings can be taken care of with such simple treatment but it is important to remember more serious reactions could be a life and death situation if a person does not get immediate medical attention.

Ben Moffett's Right Around Home

If you study the satellite photos on your TV weather, you might have noticed that a pretty fair sized cloud always seems to linger over southern New Mexico.
What the satellite's weather camera is picking up is not a cloud formation, but the sprawling white sands, the world's largest above ground gypsum deposit.
Some 230 square miles of the sands are within White Sands National Monument, a favorite area in the far flung National Park System to many kids.
Here's a park where a little boy can scratch his name on the side of a dune and the wind will obliterate it in short order. Here's a spot where he can run barefoot through the dunes and climb on a sand scoreboard for a trip down the biggest one in sight.
A 16-mile round trip scenic drive begins at the visitor center on U.S. 70 and winds into the heart of the dunes. Before going into the dune area where the action is, most visitors, including kids, like to bone up on how the dunes were formed. They can at the visitor center museum.
During the summer, a unique talk starts at 8:45 on Fridays until Sept. 5. This is a "star trekking program," a "walk through the heavens" according to the park staff. The talk is held in the dunes picnic area.
Perhaps the best time to visit the monument during the summer is on full moon nights when the dunes are open until midnight. Here's an opportunity to enjoy the dunes in the cool of the evening. It gets very hot at White Sands in the afternoon.
The full moon nights, July 29-30-31 and August 28-29-30 this summer, include interpretive programs featuring guest speakers at 8:45.
Other programs at the monument until Sept. 5 include:
—a one hour morning walk Tuesday and Thursday at 9, leaving from the visitor center.
—a 30-minute siesta time talk daily at 1 on the visitor center patio.
—a one hour walk in the dunes at sunset daily except Tuesday and Thursday. Starting time is 7.
—Evening naturalist programs on Monday, Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday at 8:45 in the picnic area.
There is no campground at the monument, but there is a variety of accommodations at Alamogordo, 15 miles away.
If you are planning to visit a park on your next vacation, write the National Park Service, P.O. Box 728, Room N-3, Santa Fe, N.M. 87501 for a free SUPER 77 trip planner which lists NPS areas within an easy drive of your home and charts the facilities and services at these areas.

Employee of the Month

Mildred Berry, Medical Records Librarian at Haskell Memorial Hospital was chosen "Employee of the Month" for the month of July by a popular vote of her fellow employees. Mildred is very efficient in her job and has a smile and a "few words" for everyone she meets. She works from 7:00 A.M. to 4:00 P.M. and is on call, so she pops in and out of the hospital at all hours. Quotes from some of the ballots "friendly and happy all time, takes job seriously, cooperative, besides she talks a lot". Mildred became a member of the Haskell Memorial Hospital staff in 1965. She has two daughters, Sherry Schlittler of Duncan, Oklahoma and Connie Strickland of Brownfield, Texas. She is the proud grandmother of five grandchildren. The hospital is very fortunate to have a loyal employee like Mildred and congratulations on being chosen "Employee of the Month" for July.

Sagerton News

We got some nice little showers last weekend, amounting to from just a trace, to one-half inch, and some reported about two inches in all. Every bit helps and we are grateful.

The L.O.C. H.D. Club met in the home of Mrs. Bill Hertel last week and an interesting program on "The People and Places in Texas" was given by Mrs. J.B. Toney and Mrs. Leland Thane.

There will be no regular meeting in August, but the ladies voted to entertain their husbands and families and will have a picnic at the Stamford Lake on August 1, with everyone bringing a picnic lunch and homemade ice cream.

Jeff Thane, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leland Thane, is in Fayetteville, Arkansas this week at the Methodist Youth Camp there, as one of the youth officers from this district.

Signaling the start of changed payment procedures for GI Bill students, Veterans Administration computers authorized only 26,000 education checks for payment on June 1 - the lowest total in the 33 year history of the GI Bill programs.

June 1 was the effective date of a change in law that decrees GI Bill payments from now on will be paid after each month of training has been completed instead of at the start of each training period.

Max Cleland, VA Administrator, said the agency computers will resume the normal processing of between 900,000 and 1.2 million GI Bill accounts on July 1. He pointed out that since students now in training had already been paid on May 1 for the full month of May, their next checks - for the month of June - will not be received until July 1.

The new law, he explained, is designed to reduce VA overpayments, which occurred when VA paid in advance for training that in many cases was never taken by the veteran.

The 26,000 checks authorized for payment June 1 went primarily to trainees in programs where the prepayment of allowances is not involved. These programs include flight correspondence, on-the-job and apprenticeship training.

In addition to ending the prepayment of monthly allowances, the new law provided advance payments - at the start of a school term - only if a veteran applies for such payments, and the school agrees to handle the advances. Formerly, VA made these advance payments automatically to all veterans in training.

The VA Administrator said VA was doing everything possible to notify veterans now in training and veterans who plan to start training this fall of the changed method of payment so they can plan their finances accordingly.

VA plans to make maximum use of its work-study and educational loan programs to assist veterans in making the one-time transition to the new payment procedures.
