Cott on Prices Highest Of Season

Local cotton prices this week were the highest they have been all season, reports B. B. Manly of the USDA Cotton Classing Office in Abilene. Mixed quality lots brought 43.50 to 46.30 cents per pound.

ctically completed for what is believed to be the largest crop ever produced in the 27 counties served by the Abilene Classing Office. Around 870,000 bales have been ginned. The Abilene Office has classed 710,000, the sub-office at Munday classed 131,000, and around 30,000 bales were classed in Lamesa, Texas. In 1949 around 850,000 bales were grown in the same area. Records are incomplete for the 1932 crop, but it was similar to the production in 1949 and 1977. Prices paid for 1932 cotton ranged from 5 to 6 cents per pound. By contrast the smallest crop was in 1952, when only 89,000 samples were classed. The 1977 crop was produced from around 900,000 acres.

The quality of the 1977 crop was outstanding. Twentyeight percent was grade 31 or nighter, and 37 percent was classed in white grade categories. Forty percent was staple 32 or longer, and 90 percent mike in the desirable 3.5 to 4.9 range. The total value of the 1977 crop will exceed 225 million dollars, which is comparable in value to the 1976 crop of only 600,000 bales.

In 1949 the harvest lasted until planting time in 1950, as the larger portion was handconditions were very different. Machine strippers had the crop practically gathered by the end of November, and probably as much as 200,000 bales of seed cotton were stored in modules and ricks awaiting ginning. By December 31 the crop was, for practical purposes, ginned.

Good cotton crops almost always follow generous winter rain prior to planting. So far this winter the area is short in that category.

AG MEETING

Farmers from the Haskell area will speak this Thurs, at 7:30 p.m. in the Community Building of the Haskell National Bank. The public is invited to hear of recent developments in the American Agriculture Movement and a report of the recent Washington trip.

J. FIKE GODFREY, left, was in Haskell Tuesday and addressed the Haskell Lions Club. Godfrey was introduced at the Lions Club meeting by Dr. T. W. Williams. Godfrey is currently campaigning for the office of U.S. Congressman, 17th Dist. He served as Executive Vice President of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce for seven years and is known throughout the nation for his speeches and beliefs on Free Enterprise.

Rain......0.25 Farmers Report On Washington Trip

By JANICE BROWNING

Area farmers recently returning from Washington D. C., met Thursday afternoon, January 26, for a news conference in the Community Building of the Haskell National Bank. Reports were given concerning various meetings attended by the Haskell delegation.

The plight of the American farmer, which has become known in the past four months as the American Agriculture Movement has spread it's effects across the nation. Tractorcades have gotten public attention. Now the time has come for concerned farmers to take their story to the Nation's Capitol. During the past three years the producer has been investing more capital in his farming operations because of high equipment and operating costs, than he has been receiving for his products. The low prices received during an otherwise productive year have resulted in many farmers having to re-finance or use up their equity on land or equipment. Simply stated - farmers are going BROKE!! operating at a loss and the new farm bill does not offer much relief.

So seventy-five men and women from Haskell, Weinert, Munday, Knox City, Hamlin, and Iowa Park left Haskell January 17 by bus to join with twenty-six men from the Ackerly area in Dallas for the flight to Washington D. C. Approximately twenty other Haskell County farmers arrived in Washington from other areas and using other means of transportation.

One of the previously arranged meetings was on the morning after arrival with George Mahon, Senator from Lubbock and Congressman Omar Burleson of Anson. This meeting consisted of questions and answers on ways the farmers could get their story before the Congressmen.

A hearing had been scheduled with Harry Lamar, a staff member of the Ways and Means Committee who discussed beef imports and exports. Needless to say, farmers were questioning the legality of Mexican and Canadian imports of beef on the hoof. Macon Edwards, Washington's representative of the National Cotton Council, fielded questions from farmers concerning the council's part in the cotton support prices. These meetings allowed farmers to vent anger and distrust of the systems which were originally designed to help the farmer but have more recently catered to the non-producing area of agribusiness.

While some members of the Haskell group were in these meetings others gathered on the Capitol steps for a news conference. A report of 2,000 farmers was said to be in Washington; however, there were over that number of Texans jammed into the Caucus Room of the Cannon Building to hear Texas Congressmen speak. Representative Sam Hall from Marshall received a standing ovation when he said farmers had to "come to Washington to get a committment out of the Texas Congressional Delegation." Senator George Mahon, Lubbock, said that in his forty-three years in the Senate, this meeting was the most dynamic in that room that he had ever attended. Although the delegation spoke favorably for farmers and the need to help them with their problems, none committed themselves to 100% parity, which the AAM claims will stabilize the farm economy and family farmers in

Lack of news coverage led to more frustration as the farmers were told repeatedly to get their story before the consumers. How could they achieve this without the national networks and the wire services dispensing the news? The Haskell farmers' wives found a way. After learning that the National Convention of the Consumer Federation of America was being held in Washington, nine members of the Haskell County delegation attended, explaining their wishes to communicate with consumers concerning the farmer's problems. The group was invited to attend the three-day convention. After hearing Carol Foreman, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, talk on nutrition and Representative Tom Harkin of Iowa speak about the economic plight of the family farmer, the Haskell group knew the groundwork was being laid for the AAM acceptance and support. The men and women were understanding and sympathetic to the farmers' problems, realizing that the consumer would be in bigger trouble if corporate farms took control of the food and fiber production for this nation. The consumer group granted ten minutes of floor time to Rick Perry to speak for the American Agriculture Movement. They then passed a resolution, which was already in the making, to give their support to the family farmer seeking a fair price for his products, which insures that the CFA lobbying group will work on behalf of the AAM. This proved to the farmers that the consumers and the farmers can work together. The Haskell group is mailing out more information to the 225 member groups which encompass a 30 million membership.

Another mass rally was planned. Among farm tractors arriving in D. C. were several driven from Texline, Texas a distance of 1,750 miles one way. Also present were the Georgia tractors that received adverse publicity caused by police trying to stop them from driving on interstate highways. The rally began with a prayer and a pledge of allegiance to the flag, which did receive a comment in a Washington paper as being the first demonstration to begin in such a manner. The group marched from the Capitol down to the USDA building where the now desperate farmers demanded a meeting with Bob Bergland, Secretary of Agriculture. John White, an assistant to Bergland, met with the farmers who informed him with more facts than he cared to receive. However, on Friday Bergland did send word he would meet that afternoon with a farm delegation.

Meetings were being held all over the Hill, and among these was the meeting with Lynn Daft, first aide to Mr. Carter. This was less productive except for dissemination of information from verbal farmers who wanted recognition and a meeting with President Carter. Vague recognition did come during the State of Union Address when Mr. Carter mentioned seeing the farmers standing in the snow while he rode to the Capitol. Many of the Haskell County group were braving the cold and snow to shout 100% parity as the President went in to deliver his message.

Bergland and Senator Foley's meeting on Friday, January 20 was another non-productive meeting except for a speech made by Alvin Jenkins of Colorado. Jenkins captured Folev's attention and impressed him with the seriousness of the problem, with a very emotional and moving message about the way the farmer actually feels about losing his land and the opportunity to farm.

Farmers met with anyone they could arrange to corner or persuade to listen, converging on Senators, Representatives, USDA, ASC, and FHA offices. Their story was being told many times in varied ways to any person in Washington who would listen, including taxi drivers, security guards, and the general public who were more than receptive to the farmer's problems.

On Sunday many farmers worshiped in churches of their choices and spent the day sight-seeing. They were well received wherever they went. Viewing some of the historical places gave more value to what the farmer was there fighting so hard to preserve.

Refreshed, on Monday the lobbying efforts continued anew. Information was being exchanged on all fronts. Farmers were getting first-hand knowledge of being involved in government, and Congressmen were learning more about agriculture operations. AAM farmers who are also members of Farm Bureau visited their national office. There they expressed their displeasure with previous stands taken by this organization.

AFL-CIO officials meeting with AAM spokesmen and pledging support for the farmer stated, "If the farmer goes under, he will drag us with him". Unions are already feeling the pinch as inplement companies are having to cut back production.

John Tower and Jack Hightower e-affirmed their stand in support of the farmers and 100% parity. John Tower offered his legislative writing staff to help compile a new farm bill. The AAM is gaining more and more supporters. Some urban Congressmen were giving verbal support, while telling the farmers to get the full support of the Agriculture Committee, because they usually voted according to their recommendations on farm issues.

Bergland gave testimony to the Senate Agriculture Committee on January 24, still trying to convince the farmers to give the new bill a try. When questioned by Senator Dole, Bergland did say he favored 100% parity. Another mark was made for the farmer

The day the Haskell group was to return home AAM material was delivered via a secretary to Mrs. Carter along with a cotton boll corsage made by Fischer County farm wives in hopes that she can influence President Carter to understand the urgency and desperation of the American farmers and the need to take immediate action.

There is something favorable to be said for the disorganization of the movement. (Farmers are prohibited by law from organizning to strike, therefore AAM is not an organization with elected officials and dues-paying members.) Every individual was making as many contacts as possible. While some farmers were returning home other farmers were replacing them. No accurate account was made of the number originally in Washington for the movement, but according to Chamber of Commerce figures of rooms being rented to farmers, the total could range from 40,000 to 50,000 farmers. This figure does not include those who carried their own lodging.

This has been a total individual effort, whereby every person involved in the movement does what he thinks he can do, gives what is possible, and hopes his example will give hope and courage to his neighbor to do what is possible for him to help advance the farmer's position to preserve the economy of this nation. More has been done in the past four months and last two weeks for the farmer since the American Agriculture Movement began than any other time

The AAM hopes all farmers will abide by the decision to be made this week at meeting in Dallas on Texas recommendation concerning the 50% plow up and plant. Once the south Texas farmers put the recommendation into action all farmers, if possible, should comply with the decision state-wide. A few farmers should not carry the burden for all farmers when they too will benefit when the new parity prices are legislated.

Overall the farmers who went to Washington thought it was a very enlightening and productive trip. They were happy to be home but glad they had been a part of what they feel will become history. Already the farmers' 'revolt' is being praised as "orderly, responsible, and showing more respect for the govenment than any other demonstrations in Washington," says Congressman John Rhodes of Arizona on national TV Sunday night, January 29th. Joining him was Senator Baker, Tennessee, who said on the same program, "The farmers aren't rebel rousing, but deserving more that Bergland is giving." Reported this week, President Carter will meet with a delegation of the AAM. According to the Harris Poll, 80-13 percent, an overwhelming majority of Americans are in sympathy with the farmers. The public supports 5 to 1 the basic demand of the farmers, which is to raise the prices of the crops they sell so they are based on 100% parity, which will enable them to make ends meet.

A major change was the elimination of the standard deduction and the low income allowance. These two items have been replaced by a flat amount called "zero bracket Legislature takes action to amount." This amount depends on your filing status. 'The zero bracket amount Comptroller's Office is now the process of mailing annual franchise tax report forms to more than 128,000 corporations doing business in the State of Texas. And if the forms appear thicker this year, it's because they are.

As a result of a law passed by the Texas Legislature last year, corporations will be required for the first time to disclose the identity of other corporations with which they have financial ties.

In the past, corporations had only to identify their officers and directors. Now, they also must list the corporations they own 10 or more percent of, as well as those corporations owning 10 or more percent of them.

Letters To The Editor

(EDITORS NOTE: The Haskell Free Press will publish letters to the Editor dealing with any subject. All letters must be signed but names will be withheld by request. All letters are subject to editing for length and liability.)

Dear Editor,

I want to express my gratitude to the many farmers who made the agriculture movement trip to Washington D.C., to those who contributed to make it possible for some to go and to those who paid their own way and for the money given to keep the Strike Office open. A bounty of thanks goes to the wives and families who stayed home to take care of things, for without them, it would not have been possible for some to go.

There were two to three or more meetings a day, which were tiring, but I think everyone will agree, it was worth the time and effort involved. There was very little time for sightseeing, but thanks to Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Tankersley for getting a special bus tour one afternoon, touring a few of the important places. Changing of the Guard at Arlington National Cemetery was most impressive. Thanks to Mrs. Jack Tankersely for her son-in-law who took us on a tour of the Pentagon Building.

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Browning and Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Dunnam were privileged and fortunate in having their own personal guide all Sunday, January 22. He was Medley's son, Everett Kenneth W. Medley, Editor of the Magazine, "Nations Busi-

I want to say thank-you again for everyone who is donating his time as well as his money in keeping the agriculture office open.

I do believe something good will come from all of this, for the plight of the farmer is now before the public, and we hope they realize, that the farmer does not want a handout but 100% of parity which is a fair Plastic food has come one step closer with the successful marketing of a new human food protein called "Torutein." This latest step away from natural protein is a derivative of petroleum grown as a yeast from a culture of ethyl alcohol. Most of the buyers will be food processors trying to enhance the flavor of simulated foods now on the market and running into consumer resistance because of taste. Another major market will be bakery products where the oily invader has the extra advantage of a nutritive complement in addition to protein its only high amino acid, lysine, is desirable in most bakery products). A Safety Letter is sometimes boring, long, or contains very little of value, or sometimes a combination of all.

But one serious thought dealing with safety: "From every crisis we usually learn something... Between each crisis we forget it." If you live, work or play, or have moving parts, then you are a propective victim for an accident. Did you ever know anyone that was considered 'an accident looking for someplace to happen?" A good example has twice the value of good advice. We all came equipped with five human senses: Seeing, Hearing, Feeling, Smelling, and Tasting. These safety features that nature rigged us with are vital to our welfare. They help spot trouble before it comes.

Seeing: Be on the lookout for accidents in the making.

Hearing: Listen for off beat sounds in equipment, traffic, and to the voice of experience. Feeling: Warns by vibrations, heating, distance and conscience.

Smelling: Detects danger that cannot be seen, heard or

Tasting: Another safety check for quality of food and

TIONAL COMMENTS, it might excite some people to simply say that there is no such thing as a "Social Security trust fund." As a matter of fact, there isn't, but as long as the United States Government has good credit and taxing power, Social FUND as being billions of dollars in a big box in the even a box, much less filled with cash. What is there are IOU's to be redeemed by Government's general revenues at a time when the annual income from Social Security taxes falls below paid-out benefits.

THE TRUTH IS THERE IS REALLY NO MONEY AT ALL in this "trust fund" and never has been.

FUND" is a huge heap of Government IOU's -- Government bonds and other securities. The Congress and the Administration have kept a lot of senior citizens worried over statement that the "fund" is going to run out of money in 1980, 1983 or 1985.

THE WAY THE GOVERNredemption at a later time. It's way it works and since back in with the account carried on the

THE SO-CALLED "TRUST

MENT GETS MONEY out of the "trust fund" is by borrowing and replacing the cash with bonds or IOU's. These are held by the so-called "trust fund" for a crazy system but that's the the Roosevelt-New Deal days. At that time, Social Security funds were borrowed for general revenue purposes books of the Treasury. It is the like in the year it is received. Any excess of income over outgo is borrowed and kept in the general fund. The Treasury gives the Social Security Administration another pile of IOU's for the money.

IT IS WORTH REPEATING that, as long as the Government can borrow money and has the power to tax, Social Security benefits will be paid. The shame of it is that millions will have to pay a great deal more in Social Security taxes, before they can collect, to help finance future benefits.

THERE MAY COME A TIME WHEN THE LAW MAY BE CHANGED to pay a part or all Social Security benefits out of general revenues. In terms of cost, it would make little difference except it would not likely be long until all Social Security revenues were derived from income taxes -- taxes paid by everyone who has a taxable income, whether they had a prospect of qualifying for benefits or not.

WHAT CONGRESS FEARS IS NOT THAT SOCIAL SEC-URTIY will run out of money. What concerns many is that when the last IOU's are gone from the Social Security closet, there will no longer be a way to hide the real costs of the program. This is the reason for the big increase in the taxable base and rate voted by the Congress in the last Session. It is supposed to vaults of the Treasury Depa- make the "fund" sound in the rtment. Actually, there is not early '80s at a time when the IOU's run out. Already more than half our people are paying more in Social Security taxes than in income taxes and there's more to come.
