FATAL ACCIDENT... Robert Eugene Chapman, 35, of Wichita Falls, was pronounced dead at the scene of this accident by Justice of the Peace H.M. Bledsoe. The accident occurred at 6 a.m. Dec. 21, at the south city limits of Haskell on U.S. 277. Chapman was the driver of this 1977 Mack tractor-trailer, which belonged to Oil Transport Co. of Abilene. The vehicle apparently left the roadway on the right side and overturned. Rescuers worked for approximately 20 minutes before Chapman's body was removed from the vehicle. Trooper James Davis investigated the accident. Members of the Haskell Volunteer Fire Department were also called as a precaution because of a large oil spill from the tank which was ruptured during the accident. (Staff Photo)

Explorer Post Organization Scheduled

Young men and women who have completed the eighth grade or who are 15 years of age and in either case are not 21 may become registered members of the Explorer Post.

All young men and women in Haskell and surrounding communities, who are interested, are urged to attend a "New Member" meeting. The meeting will be Thursday, January 11, 7:30 p.m., at the Haskell National Bank Community Building. Special talents, sporting skills, community involvement, canoeing, public relations, "High Adventure", international trips, money-earning projects, career planning and physical training, are just a few topics which will be discussed.

The purpose of the Explorer Program is the same as that of the Boy Scouts of America: character development, citizenship training and mental and physical fitness.

Give yourself a chance and come see what it is all about.

Film Scheduled At Foursquare

SOUND OF THE TRUMPET, one of the most unusual and meaningful religious motion pictures ever produced, will be shown: Sunday, December 31, 1978 at 7:30 p.m. at the Haskell Foursquare Church 200 S. Ave. F.

The film story follows Aden Cosmol, a television network newscaster, who comes upon an unusual story lead. One of his crews, on a routine assignment, brings in footage from a Jesus Festival. So, Cosmol previews clips of young people who believe in the eminent return of Jesus Christ to Planet Earth.

Amused at first, the newscaster decides to spoof the story. An avalanche of mail responses, however, indicate a degree of interest and awareness previously unknown to him.

As a result, he plunges into a serious investigation of the subject, which takes him across the country and includes a survey in Israel. The result is that Cosmol, an avowed agnostic, finds himself confronted with spiritual realities he had never before considered viable.

Eighty-five minutes in length, released in color, SOUND OF THE TRUMPET is being shown by thousands of churches and organizations as a vital document of events in today's world. It was produced by Ken Anderson Films.

In addition to the film showing, the evening's program will include: For those who wish to stay, a watch night service until 12:00 with refreshments at 10:30 p.m.

The Consumer Alert

by John L. Hill
Attorney General

AUSTIN—One of the most important decisions facing many parents concerns what child care facility to select.

All too often, though, parents may approach the child care selection process more casually than, for example, the purchase of a house or car. Our attorneys, who represent the Department of Human Resources, say this may be due to the fact that few parents know the differences between types of care facilities for children or what to look for in evaluating them.

Experts in the Department of Human Resources, and our lawyers, suggest the first thing to determine when evaluating a facility is whether or not it is licensed by the Department. If it is, that means it meets certain minimum standards set by the State for the health and safety of the children who stay there.

Most parents will be looking for day care centers, which care for more than 12 children under 14 years of age for less than 24 hours; for a group day care home, which cares for 7 to 12 children under 14 for less than 24 hours; or for a registered family home, which regularly cares for not more than 6 children in the home, excluding the caregiver's own children, and cares after school for no more than 6 extra elementary school siblings of those children given care, providing the total without the caregiver's own children doesn't exceed 12.

After you determine that a child care facility is licensed, the next step is to visit several in order to make comparisons. Our attorneys stress that you should never place your child in a facility you have not visited.

—Look for a staff that's friendly, courteous, thoughtful, and experienced in providing loving care to children. Make sure they have time for all the children in their care, and that they will listen to you, the parent, and your ideas about your child's physical and mental health and well-being. Be sure, too, that you understand all the restrictions the facility places on a child.

—If you have a child with special needs, such as one with emotional problems or one who is retarded, be sure the facility is equipped to deal with those needs.

—Of course, you will want to look for a safe, sanitary facility, one with enough fire extinguishers and exits to get children out in a hurry. And be very sure the facility has first aid equipment and someone who knows what to do in an emergency.

—Are meals and snacks nutritious and appetizing? Are proper precautions taken to isolate children who are ill? Does the staff keep up-to-date records of immunizations (unless medical or religious reasons prohibit immunizations)? Do they know how to deal with special health or allergy problems?

—What about recreation facilities? Are toys safe and are there enough for the number of children? If there are swimming or wading pools, is there a trained lifeguard?

—It's important, too, to realize that the Child Care Licensing Act specifies that "...the freedom of religion of all citizens shall be inviolate. Nothing in this Act shall give any governmental agency jurisdiction or authority to regulate, control, supervise, or in any way be involved in the form, manner, or content of any religious instruction or the curriculum of a school sponsored by a church or religious organization."

If you have a question or a complaint to register about a child care facility, contact the local office of the Department of Human Resources. Remember, though, that when the State licenses a facility, that means only that it meets certain minimum health and safety standards, and those may not be as high as you would wish. For that reason, it's critical that you make a thorough inspection of several facilities and then trust your own good judgment as a parent about what sort of care you want for your child.

Cord Only Reliable Way To Measure Wood

AUSTIN—Consumers who purchase firewood by the pile or pickup load instead of by the cord may risk losing a stack of money, notes the Texas Department of Agriculture.

"Without a reliable standard to go by, it is very difficult to accurately measure how much wood you are getting and what is its true cost," Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown said. "Although the majority of wood vendors are honest, often it is not enough to rely only on their word or on guessing, especially with the current price of firewood."

Brown stated that Texas law requires all firewood offered for sale be advertised and sold by the cord, and not in arbitrary amounts such as truckloads. A cord is a reasonably tight stack of wood with dimensions totaling 128 cubic feet, he pointed out. The normal measurement is four feet wide, four feet high and eight feet long.

"On several occasions we have had reports of consumers who were shorted by as much as $75 worth of wood because they allowed the seller to simply dump the wood in a pile instead of stacking it," Brown noted. "In one recent case a pile of wood which a man had purchased turned out to contain only a half-cord instead of the two cords he paid for."

Brown pointed out that some dishonest dealers convince the buyer to allow them to pile the wood by claiming it is damp and that it will not dry properly if stacked, or that they do not have the time to stack the load. Others offer to reduce the purchase price if they can pile the wood.

Some of the ways consumers can assure themselves of fair treatment are:

1. Measure off the dimensions of a cord in a specific location, such as against a fence, and insist that all deliveries be stacked in that spot.

2. Always purchase firewood by the cord or portion of a cord.

3. Have wood delivered only while at home, and always check the dimensions of the delivery.

Brown noted that consumers who have followed these precautions but still feel they have received a short measure of wood may call the nearest TDA district office or the Texas Department of Agriculture Weights and Measures Section at (512) 475-6577.

Eating rare ground meat is risky because the grinding process results in many surfaces on which bacteria may grow, warns a foods and nutrition specialist.

Frequent handling during preparation causes active bacteria growth if proper sanitation is not practiced, says Marilyn Haggard with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Rockhounds pluck gemstones on ranch

BY GORDON M. QUARNSTROM

ALPINE, Tx.—Near this West Texas community is one of the unusual ranches of the Southwest. Owned by Frank Woodward Jr., the spread has the expected cattle, but it has a veritable bonanza of gemstones, as well.

Woodward is a former consulting geologist turned cattle rancher and lapidary. His ranch has produced more than 70 varieties of stones prized by rockhounds, with cuttings which have wound up in expensive jewelry and in museum exhibits.

On the Woodward ranch are all kind of agates, including the gorgeous red plume and pompon types, unique to this area; three kinds of opal, with and without "fire"; the diamond-like labradorite; amethysts; banded and red carnelians; bloodstones; jaspers; wonderstones and others.

Woodward's ranch is visited by thousands of rockhounds annually, for here they can select their stones and weigh them in at 35 cents per pound. Woodward even will inspect your rocks when you return from a scouting trip and will charge you only for those of real value.

"You can keep the others," he says. "I'm glad to have them off the ranch."

Woodward's ranch is on a volcanic lava flow. Over the centuries groundwater seeped into underground cavities and carried dissolved silica and minerals from the surface. These hardened and crystallized into nodules. When cut open, they show the colorful designs which distinguish the Woodward agates and opals.

Winter Dove Season Set In Texas
Texas hunters will have another chance to bag mourning doves during the winter dove season set for Jan. 6-14 in North Texas and Jan. 6-21 in South Texas.
Wintering populations of the fast-flying doves can be found in many areas of the state particularly in wooded or brushy regions with available food such as grain, weed seed, or remnants of sunflower crops.
Shooting hours will be from 30 minutes before sunrise to sunset and a daily bag limit of 10 doves with a possession limit of 20 doves will be in affect in both zones.
Most upland hunters harvest winter doves while hunting quail. These sportsmen must have their shotguns plugged to a three shell capacity if they hunt dove. The plug is not required for quail hunters in Texas.
Additional information is available on the mourning dove hunting leaflet on display at license vendors and Texas Parks and Wildlife Department offices.

How To Be A Better Driver

detecting potentially dangerous situations are often more difficult. To be a really good driver, you must master both physical and mental skills, according to a Driving Skills book published by Shell.

Overall, you should remember the three C's of driving: cooperation, communication and concentration.

Cooperation
 Competition driving's great on the race track. It has no place on the freeway.

again. If you get frustrated and start following too close, you're only increasing your chances for a rear-end collision. Keep a level head. Be calm. Never let emotion get the best of you.

Communication
 Don't isolate yourself. Let other drivers know what you plan to do. Use your signals.

Concentration
 Drive defensively. Be alert. Keep your mind on driving. Remember that driving's a task.

Another idea: stay alert by sitting up straight. Use the rearview mirror often. Keep your eyes moving.

Hold the steering wheel at the 9 o'clock and 3 o'clock positions. You'll have good control and your arms will be less likely to tire.

Ever see a 15-million dollar cattle truck? It looks as though that's where things are headed with the announcement by major air carriers that 747's are going to be converted to livestock haulers for international markets. Officials say live cattle transportation to countries outside North America is already 80 percent by air with both the volume and the percentage expected to increase during the coming years. For the animals themselves it's all first class. Interiors are redesigned and structured to resemble a barn with separate pens or stalls. Special temperature control and ventilation systems are being designed and separate studies are underway to determine other ways to increase animal comfort. No one has yet decided whether to include in-flight movies but it sounds as if they may not be far away.

Many veterans of the Armed Forces of the United States recently became eligible to receive an additional amount of disability compensation for their legal dependents. According to C.H. Herren, Veterans Service Officer for Haskell County, such veterans must apply to the Veterans Administration for the additional amounts to which they might be entitled.

Public Law 95-479, enacted by the Congress and signed into law by the President on October 18, 1978, provided for the increased compensation for dependents if a veteran has service-connected disabilities which are rated 30% or more by the VA. Prior to the passage of this new law, a veteran was required to have disabilities of 50% or more to be paid for his dependent wife, minor children and parents.

The VA has announced that each veteran with a service-connected disability rating of 30% or more should receive a computer-generated letter advising him of his entitlement. The reverse side of the VA letter can be used by a veteran to claim the increased compensation. Along with the completed form, the veteran must furnish copies of the documents to prove his dependents. If a veteran is eligible and submits his claim for the increased amounts to the VA prior to October 1, 1979, the additional compensation will be paid from October 1, 1978, the effective date of Public Law 95-479.

A veteran who fails to receive the VA form letter, or loses it after receiving it may file claim by completing VA form 21-686c, which may be obtained from the local Veterans Service Officer.

Texas Famous For Its Year Round Cabbage Crop

AUSTIN—Fall and winter are cabbage time in the Lower Rio Grande Valley, although this leafy, nutritious crop is grown in a wide enough area of the state to be marketed 12 months out of the year, according to the Texas Department of Agriculture.

By early November more than 100 truckloads had moved out of the Valley this year. Harvest was also under way in the Winter Garden area of South Texas. Agriculture Commissioner Cotton, Sorghum Production Drop Is Predicted AUSTIN—Texas cotton and sorghum production will fall sharply in 1978 from last year's levels, Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown has announced.

Across the state, cotton production has been slashed 34 per cent from last year's harvest, with the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service predicting a 3.6 million bale crop this year.

State corn production is expected to decline 18 per cent this year, according to Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown, with the harvest expected to total 132.3 million bushels. Grain sorghum production is also expected to decline sharply, off 10 per cent this year to 115.9 million cwt.

"This reduction in grains should not have a detrimental effect on our cattle feeding industry," Brown commented, "since carryover supplies are adequate."

Brown said prices had been "holding their own," with strengthened cotton prices being reported.

Among other crops in Texas, peanut producers "are harvesting one of their finest crops in several years in many counties," Brown said. Production is up 11 per cent in the state to 436.4 million pounds.

The latest crop report shows soybean production down 11 per cent from a year ago, at 18 million bushels and rice production up 11 per cent, to 25.9 million cwt.

Reagan V. Brown reported that quality was "extremely high but no higher than in seasons past. We just grow good cabbage in Texas."

The Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service had estimated 6,700 acres for harvest this fall in the Valley, South Texas, the High Plains and Trans-Pecos. Harvest will continue in the Valley until May 10.

Hidalgo County, the biggest vegetable-producing county in Texas, is also the biggest cabbage producer. In 1977 Hidalgo accounted for 7,350 harvested acres, bringing the Valley's total to 9,350 and the statewide total to around 14,500. This figure actually was a drop from previous seasons, pushing Texas out of customary first place into number two behind California. Nevertheless, the statewide harvest accounted for $48 million that year.

A crucifer dating back to 2500 B.C., cabbage has been a staple through the ages on the tables of poor men and kings. According to Brown, Texas cabbage "will compete with those grown anywhere." Between 30 and 40 domestic hybrid varieties are grown in the state, but between eight and 10 of these are preferred by most growers. Production also includes red and crinkly Savoy cabbage.
