

MORE RAIN...A downpour in Haskell Monday afternoon dumped over two inches of rain on the city. The total fell in about twenty minutes and during that time visibility was reduced to as little as 100 feet at times. Several portions of the county received rains of up to seven inches Sunday and Monday. Haskell's official weather observer, Sam Herren, has registered 13.86 inches of rain this year. That total is over two inches above the normal of 11.79.

Red Cross Anticipating Urgent Blood Need

The Red River Regional Red Cross Bloodmobile will be in Haskell, at the Haskell National Bank Community Building, Thursday, July 5, from 1 to 6 p.m.

Donors are urgently needed at this time according to Red Cross officials. Red Cross officials stated that during the summer months many persons have elective surgery and the demand for blood is greater. Other reasons that more blood is required are, that during the summer, many regular donors are on vacation when the mobile is in their area. This causes a decrease in the regular supply. These reasons, coupled with the July 4 Holiday, and an increased demand for blood for accident victims during holiday periods, indicate the importance of this drive.

Because of the holiday only one other mobile is scheduled next week and Bloodmobile personnel are requesting that all prospective donors make a special effort to donate at this time.

Sponsor for the mobile is Haskell County Extension Club. Mrs. Adell Thomas is chairman.

Goal for the drive is 80 units and donors are asked to contact Mrs. Thomas for an appointment to donate. The appointment is not required but should speed the process by evenly distributing donors throughout the afternoon. Persons who can not schedule an exact time are urged to attend the mobile at their convenience during the afternoon.

Fire Station Fund Donations Slowing

Donations to the Haskell Fire Department Building Fund have slowed and the total received this week was $707.00.

This week's donations bring the total pledged and received to date to $45,269.49.

The foundation for the new fire station should be poured within the next two weeks and erection of the building should begin by the end of July.

Persons who have made pledges to the building fund are asked to have their pledges paid by July 9, if at all possible.

The pledges can be taken to the fire station or deposited with any teller at Haskell National Bank.

Residents are invited to tour the existing fire station and view first hand the reason department members have undertaken the building project.

The existing station is extremely crowded and houses only four of the departments five vehicles. Present plans call for the city to purchase a new truck during the next year and if a modern truck is purchased, the department will own three cab-over trucks. The existing station is constructed in a manner that only two cab-over trucks can be housed in the station.

Department members agreed to undertake the building program and fund the project with donations about four months ago. At present the building fund is over two-thirds of the amount originally estimated. Original estimates of the entire project were approximately $60,000.00.

Donations this week included:
Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Hodgkin 20.00
Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Bledsoe 20.00
Mr. and Mrs. Speck Sorenson 35.00
David Lane 12.00
Mr. and Mrs. Garth Garrett 50.00

mobile is distributed to 40 regional hospitals surrounding the Wichita Falls area. Regular deliveries are made to these hospitals, and in addition, special deliveries are made when the need arises.

Because blood can only be stored for 21 days, donors are always needed to replace the supply. A donor may give blood every 56 days, if they are between the ages of 18 and 65, in good health and weigh at least 110 pounds. 17 year olds can give blood with written parental consent.

The actual process of giving blood only takes from seven to ten minutes but with time for registration, the medical history and refreshments, the donor should expect to spend about an hour at the bloodmobile. A brief medical examination including blood pressure, temperature, pulse and a hemoglobin blood test is given to every potential donor. These are some of the factors that determine if it is safe for the individual to be a blood donor and if the blood being donated is safe for a patient to receive.

DPS On Full Alert For July 4 Holiday

The Texas Department of Public Safety will be on full alert with all uniform services on roads and highways in the state of Texas to control traffic during the Fourth of July Operation Motorcade 1979. This alert period will begin at 6 p.m. July 3rd, and continue through midnight July 4, 1979. During this time, highway activities are expected to increase. With this anticipation, the Department of Public Safety has estimated that 13 persons will lose their lives in traffic accidents. Operation Motorcade will last 30 hours, and each motorist will be responsible for himself and all others on the Texas highways. This is a great responsibility placed on the individual driver at this time of highly congestive traffic.

The responsible driver will be able to recognize the hazard, understand the defense, and act in time. This will entail recognition of the drinking driver, the tired driver, the speeding driver, and the wreckless driver. Understanding the defense will depend on such things as alertness, knowledge of the road rules, understanding of the physical forces that act upon moving vehicles, and capabilities of the motorist to handle 3000 pounds of moving metal under stress conditions. Acting in time will be reflected in skillful maneuvering actions by the defensive driver.

The National Safety Council says that accidents occur when one or more conditions are not working properly. The condition of the vehicle can play a definite part in preventing accidents. Bad Breaks, poorly adjusted headlights, and old worn tires certainly contributes to motor vehicle accidents. The condition of light can cause accidents to occur unexpectedly when the bright sunlight shines directly in the driver's eyes. Keep in mind that your Texas Highway Patrol investigates more fatal

Council Agrees To Cable TV Extension

Members of the Haskell City Council granted a 60 day extension to CenTex Cablevision to provide a CBS station to Haskell cable customers.

The Council had approved a rate increase to the cable company last December and included in the increase agreement, the cable company agreed to provide a CBS Station by August 1.

KTAB, Ch. 32, in Abilene, was expected to be on the air by August 1, at that time, but delays have currently placed the operational date of the new station at sometime in September.

Jerry Smith, manager of CenTex, also told members of the council that the company was putting into operation a satellite receiver in Haskell. He added that at this time the company does not know what stations will be added to the service because the FCC controls the company and has the final say in what stations are added. He also said that the new receiver would probably make Home Box Office (HBO) available. According to Smith the HBO station would probably cost about nine to ten dollars per month extra but would be optional. The additional two or three stations added after the installation of the new receiver would be added at no extra cost.

Smith had requested that the Council allow the cable company to increase rates by as much as 5% per year without council approval during the December meeting. During the Tuesday council meeting he again asked members of the council to consider the 5% increase adding that the company was aware of the possibility of pricing themselves out of business and had no intention of doing this.

In requesting the extension for the CBS Station, Smith read a letter from Bill Terry, president of KTAB, which stated that KTXS would be allowed to air selected CBS programs until the new station is in operation. Included in the programs which KTXS will air will be Dallas Cowboy football games.

In other council action, Mary Watson was appointed tax assessor-collector for the city and Mayor Royce Williams reported that the city had received a sales tax rebate in the amount of $18,796.58.

Several residents met with the council to discuss drainage of water from city streets and requests assistance. Council members informed the visitors that the City was working on the drainage problem and hoped to eventually provide drainage which would handle any normal rain.

Little League News

BY PAUNEE GRUPE
I would like to extend my apology to Joseph Perez for missing one of his homeruns - it was 6 not 5 for the season. A fantastic record!
Well, regular season for Haskell Little League is now over. The All Stars have been named and are getting ready to start practice for the "big" games. It has been a hectic season but an exciting one.
I want to take this opportunity to say thanks to everyone who helped make it a successful season - the officers, managers, coaches, umpires, scorekeepers and last but certainly not least the ladies in the concession stand. It takes a lot of hard work for which the wages are very low - but it is full of rewards. A special thanks for allowing me the privilege of being the reporter this year. I appreciate the cooperation of everyone in helping me put this article together.
Saturday's game between the Major League and Minor League Mothers was very close. Lots of excitement and laughter was in the air - in fact, Deborah Mitchell got so excited that she was removed from the field and handcuffed to the fence until she could calm down. Charles Reed, umpire for a short time, switched places with Sam Watson because he was being threatened by some of the Mothers. Oh yes, the Minor League Mothers won the game 14 to 11. If you missed this game you missed a good time.

Ne down to serious business, the Cubs, coached by Maurice Mahoney and Donnie Carroll, won first place by defeating the Rams Friday night and the Hawks Saturday night. The Rams and Hawks tied for second place. Congratulations Cubs - it was a close season but you came through beautifully.

Congratulations also goes to the Crows, Sammy Decker and Bill Swinney coaches, for coming out first in the minor league.

There were many triples and doubles hit this week. I sincerely hope that I do not miss any. In the minor league, Jim Lanier hit a triple, knocking in three runs, which won the game for the Red Horses on Monday night. They were behind 8 to 6 when Jim hit his triple. Paul Harvey, Bears, hit a triple on Tuesday night and again on Thursday night. Also during this game on Thursday Tommy Hairgrove, Bears, hit a double and James Rike, Bears, hit two doubles. James did a very good job pitching again.

In the Major League we also saw several triples and doubles. The Hawks' Doug Starr and Julio Segura both hit triples on Thursday night. Julio Segura also hit a double and Ron Campbell of the Hawks hit three doubles. Felipe Arrendondo pitched all 6 innings in Tuesdays game and did a good job for the Cubs. It took a Mother, Jeanette Campbell, to hit the only homerun of this week. Congratulations Jeanette.

Scores for the games this week were:

MAJOR		MINOR
Eagles	7
Rams	22

Ever see a 15-million dollar cattle truck? It looks as though that's where things are headed with the announcement by major air carriers that 747's are going to be converted to livestock haulers for international markets. Officials say live cattle transportation to countries outside North America is already 80 percent by air with both the volume and the percentage expected to increase during the coming years. For the animals themselves it's all first class. Interiors are redesigned and structured to resemble a barn with separate pens or stalls. Special temperature control and ventilation systems are being designed and separate studies are underway to determine other ways to increase animal comfort. No one has yet decided whether to include in-flight movies but it sounds as if they may not be far away.

"It may be the best movie of its kind ever made."
For undiluted pleasure and excitement, it is, I think, the American movie of the year... a new classic.

Extension Office Has Low-Calorie Recipes

Dieters can now enjoy the luxury of a sweet-tasting jelly on their breakfast toast. The following recipe is completely sugarfree and very low in calories.

Proper spreading consistency is achieved through the use of a small amount of unflavored gelatin; calorie-free sweetness is provided by a non-caloric sweetener.

Since these jellies should be refrigerated, make a small amount at a time, as you need it. If you prefer to make a large batch, the jellies may be stored in the freezer.

Sugar-Free Grape Jelly
4 teaspoons unflavored gelatin

1/2 cup water
1 1/2 cups unsweetened grape juice
1 tablespoon non-caloric liquid sweetener

Wash and rinse 2 half-pint jars and lids. Cover with hot water; bring to a boil. Before making jelly, remove jars and lids and drain on towel.

To make jelly, soften gelatin in water. Bring grape juice to a boil, remove from heat. Add softened gelatin, stirring to a full rolling boil. Fill jars to within 1/2 inch of top. Place lids on jars and screw bands tight. Invert jars for 1 minute. Stand jars upright to cool. (If center of lid stays down, jars are properly sealed.) Refrigerate or freeze. Makes 2 half-pint jars. Each tablespoon contains 9 calories.

For more low-calorie and regular jelly, jam, and preserve recipes come by the County Extension Office or call 864-2546.

FAMILY DINNER

The Rule Recreation Club will have a family dinner, Sunday, July 1, following the morning services. Members are urged to attend. Coffee, Tea and bread will be furnished.

HSWCD Approves Conservation Plans

At their regular monthly meeting on June 20, 1979, the Board of Directors of the Haskell Soil and Water Conservation District approved Conservation Plans for Tony Burson of Haskell, Herbert Williams of Sagerton, E.H. Norwood of Rule, Willie Buerger of Haskell, Gary Druesedow of Haskell, and Jerry King of Weinert.

It is always a pleasure to welcome into the fellowship, new cooperators. The conservation district has a lot to offer district cooperators, and it is generally felt that each new cooperator helps to add a little fuel to the fire of conservation.

Assistance in planning and implementing conservation programs on privately owned land is available through the district to any and all regardless of race, creed, color, national origin, or sex. It is district policy to furnish this assistance to whomever wishes and calls at the district office for such help. The Board of Directors of the district invites all with conservation problems whether a cooperator or not, to call, write, or come by in person, at the Soil Conservation Service Office in Haskell. The Office is located at 102 North Ave. E (US 277) across the street from Pogues Grocery, and next door to the Haskell Chamber of Commerce.

Contact J.C. Yeary, District Conservationist; Jim Hudson, Soil Conservationist, Leslie Pressler, Soil Conservationist, or Harry Koehler, Soil Conservation Technician for assistance. If you can not find them in the office, contact your local district director, and they will pass the request on to the proper authorities.

Your local conservation district directors are: R.V. Earles of Paint Creek; Marvin Phemister of Weinert; Dan Wadzeck of Rochester; Johnny Wheatley of Haskell, and Alvin Ulmer of Sagerton.

The 49th annual Texas Cowboy Reunion at Stamford, will be held on July 2, 3 and 4 this year, according to Eugene Swenson, President of the organization.

Many rodeo events have had their origin at the Stamford show, such as wild cow milking, barrel racing and cutting horse contests, these in addition to the regular events of bull riding, calf roping, saddle and bareback bronc riding.

Other officers of the organization besides Mr. Swenson are Gary Mathis, Vice President, Mrs. Lee Walker, secretary and Ray Kinney, treasurer.

Ticket sales chairman is James H. West. There will be a night show each evening at 8:00 p.m., and a matinee at 2:00 p.m. on the afternoon of the 4th. The opening day parade will be at 4:00 p.m. on Monday, July 2.

TDA Program Will Honor Early Farm, Ranch Owners

AUSTIN—Registration for the Family Land Heritage Program, sponsored annually by the Texas Department of Agriculture, (TDA) will extend through August 15, according to Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown.

The program honors those families who have maintained agricultural production on the same land for 100 years or more, Brown said.

"We especially want to concentrate this year on the Central and South Texas counties. Many settlements developed in the late 1800's in those areas and we hope to record at least 100 farms and ranches that are a century old in 1979."

So far there have been

1,245 properties registered in the program, Brown said. The honorees are presented a certificate in state ceremonies in the fall and receive a copy of the Family Land Heritage Registry, which contains a brief history of all properties qualifying each year.

Applications may be obtained from three sources, the county judge, the chairman of the county historical society or TDA, P. O. Box 12847, Austin, Texas 78711.

Applicants must provide supporting documents on ownership of the land, both to the county judge for his certification and to TDA. The final decision on the farm or ranch's eligibility is determined by TDA.

Conservation Viewpoints

USDA Soil Conservation Service
 Assisting
 California Creek and Wichita-Brazos
 Soil and Water Conservation Districts

As we enter the 1980's, it is imperative that the United States have a public supported action-oriented natural resources agenda. Not since the days of the Dust Bowl have people been so concerned about the extent and severity of resource depletion. Soil erosion from cropland is accelerating at an alarming rate, in spite of conservation programs. Agricultural technology and economics have pushed farmers into using the land much more intensively than before, without a corresponding increase in conservation management. Millions of acres of prime farmland have been converted to other uses, pushing agriculture toward more marginal lands that take more energy and cost more to farm. Grasslands in our area as well as prime farmland have been lost. The number of resource problems facing the Nation is staggering, and none of them are simple to resolve. Public concern about the use and care of resources is high and appears to be rising. But so is the level of public cynicism about the government's ability to deal effectively with troublesome issues. During the 1970's, concern for environmental quality dominated much of our thinking. General agreement that the environment was being degraded by human activities brought on new legislation, followed by endless litigation. Many new agencies were created as government sought to control pollution. That effort continues. It has heightened public awareness of the need to consider the environmental impact of most private and public actions and has produced improvements in air and water quality. The new environmental agencies, with their volumes of complex regulations, have been created at considerable cost to taxpayers. Voluntary private efforts have been costly as well. As this year draws to a close, America's commitment to a quality environment remains strong, but there is a growing demand to trim unnecessary regulations, reduce costs and delays wherever possible, and minimize the adverse effects of governmental efforts that stimulate inflation and unemployment. The Haskell Soil and Water Conservation District along with the National Association of Conservation Districts believes the major thrust of the 80's should be implementation - getting things done. The 70's featured a heavy emphasis on planning and programs that helped people organize and decide what was needed to maintain and conserve resources. It is now time to shift the impetus to helping people organize their time, energy, and money to accomplish their goals. Conservation districts and the agencies and organizations with whom they work must address this task. It is time to shift from planning to action. The technical answers are not all known. Far from it. But much technical know-how is not being applied. The concept of the local conservation district is based on the belief that natural resources must be used for the long-term benefit of the people. Wise resource use embodying conservation, preservation, protection, development and utilization, requires that we constantly re-think our values and re-define our ethical relationship to the natural resources around us. We, your elected conservation district officials, by law, are responsible for providing this leadership. To assist us in our technical phase of implementation is the local field office of the Soil Conservation Service. Call upon us. We still need lots of planning, but we need to put into practical use the plans that have been developed in the past. Board of Directors Haskell Soil and Water Conservation District R.V. Earles, Chairman; M.W. Phemister, Vice-Chairman; F.A. Ulmer, Secretary; Johnny Wheatley, Member; and Dan Wadzeck, Member. Congressional Comment

WASHINGTON, D.C. — American foreign policy in Africa has often contained misconceptions and misunderstandings. Western civilization does not fully comprehend the tribal culture that pervades African society. Europeans colonized and exploited this continent during the 19th and early part of the 20th centuries. After World War II a wave of nationalism swept Africa and forced many European countries to abandon their former colonies. The move toward independence was sometimes rapid and when the colonists moved out, the permanent inhabitants were left with few leaders able to run a national economy. Rival factions in some countries clashed for power and violence erupted in several places. In 1961 a civil war in the Congo nearly forced a Soviet-American confrontation. Too often in Africa there has not been a peaceful transition to majority rule. Human rights and fundamental liberties in many areas have proved an elusive concept.

We are now faced with one of the most sensitive issues confronting U.S.-African relations — whether or not to lift the economic sanctions against the country of Zimbabwe-Rhodesia. These sanctions were imposed internationally after the United Nations Security Council designated the government there illegally formed. However on April 22, 1979, nearly two million Rhodesians (64% of the eligible voters) cast ballots for a new government. Based upon the information I have received and studied, I feel that the recent elections held in Zimbabwe-Rhodesia and the subsequent government, now installed, constitutes an adequate transition to the majority rule we all favor. In these elections, the balloting was secret, there was genuine competition, and no political parties were barred from participation in the elections.

Though the present situation in Rhodesia may seem to remain somewhat "unfair," I feel that supporting this transition to democracy by lifting the sanctions is a better direction to take than to demand the continuation of sanctions until the proclaimed Marxist forces, called the Patriotic Front, have an equal role in a new government. They refused to participate in the recent elections and seem to prefer the use of force to accomplish their goals.

Rhodesia is capable of economic self-sufficiency, but we must lift sanctions so that trade can flourish. Economic strength will do much to promote political stability. This country supplies 90% of the world's lithium which is used in space ships. They also mine copper, nickel, asbestos, and large amounts of chromium — all of these are important to an industrialized society. Economic self-sufficiency will be to the advantage of all Rhodesians — both blacks and whites.

The newly elected Prime Minister of Rhodesia, Bishop Muzorewa, expressed the situation well when he stated "Why on Earth would the British and Americans not recognize a government that has been set up by honest people who have tried to do it on a democratic basis?" It is my belief they should have our support.

Try walking tour to see Philadelphia

BY GORDON M. QUARNSTROM

CHERRY HILL, N.J.—I am back across the state boundary, 10 minutes from the city, after a wonderful walking tour of Philadelphia that a bit tired but most impressed.

As I rest a little and make my plans for an evening examination of metropolitan area nightlife opportunities, I shall be thinking back about the truly fine day I have had in the City of Brotherly Love.

My stay at Cherry Hill's restful Hyatt House resort came about because of its proximity to the New Jersey Turnpike and also because it is away from the hustle and crowding of the downtown city and yet so easily reached.

A walking tour of the center city came on the recommendation of the Philadelphia Convention & Visitors Bureau, which will be pleased to help any tourist. It has a world of information available from its offices at 1525 JFK Blvd.

My tour began at Center

Square at the axis of the two widest streets, Broad and Market. City Hall, one of the city's landmarks, stands here. It was begun in 1872 and finished in 1901 and has the richest sculptural decorations of any building in America. By tradition, it is the tallest structure in Philadelphia at 548 feet. The observation tower is open to the public, and there are tours of the building Monday through Friday.

Nearby is the Romanesque Masonic Temple, which dates back to 1868. Next to it is the Arch Street United Methodist Church, also built in the 1860s.

Penn Center is the name given to the development area which was the first step in Philadelphia's urban renewal program. The complex of office buildings and banks also includes a below street concourse, bus terminal and hotel facilities.

I strolled on the Ben Franklin Parkway, a diagonal street designed to resemble the Champs Elysee of Paris. It is a mile in length, lined with shade trees and flanked with attractive buildings. The John F. Kennedy Plaza, with fountain and reflecting pool, is at the foot of the parkway. Nearby is the tourist center.

My tour included so much I can't relate all details here. But let me recommend the Academy of Natural Sciences, founded in 1812; the Franklin Institute, whose fascinating "do-it-yourself" exhibits reminded me of my visit to the Chicago Museum of Science and Industry; the fine Eels Planetarium; the exciting Rodin Museum; and the Philadelphia Museum of Art.

My tour concluded with return visits to the Betsy Ross Home and Independence Hall.

The day has been a rewarding one, indeed. And now I shall take advantage of the pool and other fine facilities of the Cherry Hill Hyatt House to prepare myself for a study of what tourists can do here in the evening hours. I am told there are exciting possibilities.

A cherished shrine of liberty, Independence Hall in Philadelphia saw the adoption of the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution.

Six Flags Has Laser Show

A spectacular laser show produced exclusively for Six Flags Over Texas will be presented nightly in the theme park's Music Mill concert theater through July 17.

"Laser Worlds" is, according to its producers, the first show to combine lasers with 35 mm film and slide presentations.

Using two laser guns, computer controls and a maze of projection and special effects equipment, the show takes place over the heads of the Six Flags audience and on a 16 by 36 foot screen. It is set to music which runs the gamut from rock to classical to disco.

The half-hour presentation will be seen each night except for those evenings when name entertainers are booked into the Music Mill.

The producers, Laser Media of Los Angeles, have put together laser presentations which have toured with such rock groups as Electric Light Orchestra, Steve Miller Band, Kansas and Ringo Starr. The firm produced laser spectacles for the Las Vegas appearance of Ann-Margaret, Lynda Carter and Diana Ross.

"Laser Worlds" is the company's biggest production to date. Audiences will meet an electronic character named "Quark." The talking ball of light leads the way through a program which includes the symphonic arrangement of "Close Encounters," Boston's "Don't Look Back," "Sail Away" by Styx and John Williams' music for "Star Wars."

The show's spectacular finale includes film of a space rocket blastoff, surging "Star Wars" music, pyrotechnics and, of course, lasers.

"Laser Worlds" shows will be presented nightly at 9, 10 and 11 through mid-July.

Oscar Wilde noted that "Men of thought should have nothing to do with action."

The Schroder family unveiled their alcohol still June 16 at Campo, Colorado. The still will produce 25 gallons per hour of 190 proof ethanol. It is fully operational, but the Schroders, Gene, Billy and Darryl, are now fine-tuning it.

Gene said he was so disgusted after AAM left Washington emptyhanded that he started thinking about producing alcohol as another way to get better prices.

Gene went to work learning about the process. Within 3 months, the Schroders were making alcohol from milo.

They applied for an experimental permit, but could find nobody to give them a bond. Finally they sent in $500 for a bond and proceeded full steam ahead. The permit still has not been granted.

Gene says he is glad to give out information on his still and show the process, but, he challenges every farmer who sees it to go home and build his own. With a lot of people building them, a lot of better ideas will evolve and the volume of practical knowledge will grow by leaps and bounds. Also, thousands of farm stills would mean higher grain prices and would discourage the government from passing laws prohibiting farm fuel manufacture.

In 1956 the budget for the Department of Health, Education and Welfare was $2.1 billion. For Fiscal 1980, HEW's budget will be $199.4 billion. While the population increased by a little over one-fourth in this 25 year period, income redistribution through HEW increased 95 times.

The national debt in 1970 was $383 billion; it is estimated it will reach $839 billion by the end of 1979. In these ten years it has increased an average of $45.6 billion per year. Almost 10 percent of your taxes is required to pay the interest on the debt.

"Through taxation, the government owns 48 percent of every corporation in the United States. We talk about ourselves as a free-enterprise society. Yet in terms of the fundamental question of who owns the means of production, in the corporate sector we are 48 percent socialistic. When I was in Yugoslavia some years ago, I calculated that the Yugoslav government took 66 percent of the profits of every corporation. So the difference in the degree of socialism in the United States and in Yugoslavia was 18 percentage points." - Dr. Milton Friedman.
