City Ordinance Prohibits Fireworks

Haskell Police Chief Tom Paul Barnett has reminded local residents of the city ordinance concerning fireworks.

The ordinance prohibits the discharge of fireworks within the city limits.

Chief Barnett has announced that the ordinance will be enforced.

The enactment of a windfall profit tax on oil wells has been hard for most residents in oil producing areas to understand.

It seems highly unlikely that a large tax will stimulate producers to seek new oil production so they can pay more taxes.

The origin of the following article is unknown. The article was brought to the Free Press by Curtis Jennings and the logic it presents is about as sensible as the windfall profits tax now being paid by oil producers and royalty owners.

It is suggested that controls be imposed on milk prices, to implement these controls. The government would, of course, have to set up a council. The council would in all probability establish the following price control rules:

1. Old Milk-any milk produced from a cow born on or before December 31, 1972. The milk can be sold at the May 1973 price adjusted for inflation.

2. New milk-Any milk produced from a cow born on or after January 1, 1973. This milk can sell for the September 1975 price adjusted for inflation.

3. Stripper milk-Any milk produced from a cow that makes less than 10 pints a day or alternately any milk produced by a group of cows that graze at a density of less than 10 per acre. This milk can sell at the 1979 uncontrolled price.

4. "New" New Milk-Any milk produced by a cow born after May 31, 1979, that grazes 2 1/2 miles from another cow or in a ravine a thousand feet deeper than the nearest cow. This milk can sell at the June 1, 1979, uncontrolled price adjusted for inflation.

2 years after the implementation of the above price control rules, a study of all milk producers shall be conducted (cost to government not to exceed 740 million) to determine if milk producers are showing profits in excess of 3%. If 10% or more are exceeding the 3% maximum, a windfall profit tax shall be imposed immediately to grab 60% of the gross income or 30% if the herd is comprised of 49 head or less. The proceeds of this tax shall be disbursed where ever it will buy the most votes for the incumbent politicians.

Register Now to vote in November.

Budget Workshops Held For 1980-81 School Year

The Haskell Independent School District Board of Education and administration have held two budget workshops during the last month developing a proposed school budget for the 1980-81 school year. They found they have to cope with the same dilemma as many other schools in this geographic area, inflationary costs and shrinking state revenues.

State revenues for the basic program are projected to be down approximately $14,000. These revenues are based on average daily attendance. Haskell ISD had a loss of 37.25 A.D.A. in 1979-80. This loss was due to a slowly declining school population. This decline is mostly in the elementary and junior high schools. The decline in school population has been projected statewide for several years and Haskell ISD has fit almost perfectly in this population curve. The decline in A.D.A. has not been in one area enough to allow the school district to cut personnel, i.e., the greatest cost factor to any significant degree. However, some cuts have been made in the past few years.

The tax dollars collected for use in the actual operation of the school have dropped in the past 5 years from $337,786 in 1975-76 to $299,611 in 1979-1980 despite the reappraisal of all properties in the district. This decline has been caused by falling oil values, the ag use factor and the homestead exemptions. The percent of collection has remained very consistent as 97% and 98%.

The board and administration have also studied the inflationary costs of the school operation. The state mandated teacher salaries have risen from $620,824 to $666,930 even though state participation is lower. Inflation has caused a dramatic rise in costs of materials and supplies used in the schools. The teaching staff and administration have been conservative in their purchase and use of these materials; however, inflation continues to run these costs up.

The board and administration studied a few major purchases including the purchase of a new bus, finishing the replacement of the wooden windows in the secondary school plant with metal and the purchase of a new school car.

The school had purchased a new bus each year for several years, but chose not to do so last year in order to cut costs. However, the wear and tear and additional mileage dictates the purchase of a new bus for the coming year. The projected cost is $20,000. The wooden windows in the secondary schools have slowly deteriorated over the years despite good maintenance. The majority of the windows have been replaced with only one segment left for replacement. The projected cost on this replacement is $19,000. The school car which is used for Driver Education and many professional and extra curricular trips has over 102,000 miles. The board and administration closely studied its replacement and deemed it necessary.

The proposed tax rate will be set at the regular July board meeting held on the 8th. The budget hearing will be on August 14th.

DPS Conducting Operation Motorcade

The Texas Department of Public Safety will conduct "Operation Motorcade" for the 1980, 4th of July. It will begin 6:00 P.M. July 3rd and end midnight July 6th, 1980.

The most tragic part of a National Holiday, such as the 4th of July, is the wasteful loss of human life upon our highways. The Department of Public Safety predicts 47 persons will die in fatal accidents during this period in Texas.

The two most dangerous things the driver can do is speed and drink. Each driver should be aware of both the condition of the road and vehicle, as well as his personal condition before he gets behind the wheel. Drive as if your life depends on it—because it does!

The Texas Department of Public Safety urges each and every driver to do his part this holiday period by "Driving Friendly" and practicing defensive driving to stay alive.

The park recreation program moved indoors this week of high temperatures but that didn't cool the fun of Haskell youths involved in the program. Friday morning, kids ages 7 to 14 enjoyed bombarding each other with balls across the junior high school gym with only an occasional break to rush the water cooler.

Were You There When They Counted?

Were you counted in the 1980 Census of Population and Housing?

If you think you or your family might have been missed, fill out the Were You Counted? form being printed in newspapers as a public service. Cut it out and mail it to the address shown on the form. It will be checked against the master address list for your area so there is no chance of an individual or household being counted twice. Billy Yarbrough, Manager of the Abilene District Census Office, calls the "Were You Counted?" campaign "An extremely important phase of the 1980 census. It is conducted in an effort to insure that no one is overlooked. If a family is missed in the address checks and doesn't send in a "Were You Counted?" form, they'll be "missing persons" for 10 years until the next census."

"A final check is now underway to make sure that we have a completed questionnaire for every household," Mr. Yarbrough said. "Soon we will be able to turn over to local officials the population counts for their communities."

Purpose of the Local Review Program of the census is to give local government officials an opportunity to spot errors while census workers are still in the field. "Local Review" and the "Were You Counted?"

campaign," says Mr. Yarbrough, "should contribute significantly to the accuracy and success of the census. If you didn't get a questionnaire, be sure to send us the "Were You Counted?" form from the newspaper."

Western Spirit Still Alive At Fandangle

BY GINA JENNINGS
A solitary horse and rider stood motionless on a twilight hill. We were with him on the silent and endlessly rolling Texas prairie—suspended for a moment in a memory.
Suddenly, the memory came alive with the pulse of hoofbeats as the riders thundered from the hills around us. Forms from the past sprang before us with such grace and vitality that a dusty memory became a living, breathing part of the present.
Thursday night, the good folks of Shackelford County gave my poor, deprived, city-bred heart a thrill as I was treated to my first visit to the Albany Fandangle. And believe me, for a girl who spent the greater portion of her childhood scraping along metropolitan sidewalks on a stickhorse, rounding up imaginary cattle—seeing real, live cowboys rounding up real, live long horn steers before her very eyes is about the closest thing to heaven.

Despite my urban surroundings, as a child I lived by the Code of the West. I faithfully hitched my bicycle to the water trough after dismounting and was careful never to leave the barn...er, garage... door open at night. And to my delight, on Thursday night all the imaginings of childhood appeared again, colorful and alive.
However, the Albany Fandangle is no fantasy. It is real people telling the real story of the ragged and glorious beginnings of their home. And it is that very realism that makes the Fandangle so spectacular.
Since this polished but homespun show has been a part of life in Albany since 1938, the citizens of the area are able to introduce the flashy gamblers, wild indians and lonesome cowboys with a comfortable familiarity. I was enchanted with songs depicting ing the woes and follies of life in the old west.

The members of the cast did, in fact, make me feel so much at home, the urge to sing, dance and join in their fun was almost irresistible.
The pageantry was impressive and the preparations elaborate yet there was something else that set this show apart for me. For what attracted me to the sagas of the wild west even as a child was more than horses, (although at one time I would have traded my own mother for a pony) adventure, or excitement. It was the legendary spirit of the people there.
The Fandangle is not a nostalgia trip that leaves one with a lingering sadness for days gone by. True, the facts and settings are taken from history. The Beehive saloon is gone, of course, as are the rickety covered wagons; but that which captivates the hearts of audiences clustered on the hills outside Albany is still very much alive and well.
The spirit of gaily, of warm, happy fellowship and of gracious hospitality is as evident now as in the past.
The beautiful and stubborn pride in the land and its people that has vanished in many other places in our country stands strong here. They have not given up their heritage—they carry it with them today and share it with us each year.
The Fandangle gave me, personally, something special. It stirred in me a sense of gratitude in finally being part of this grand land of gnarled mesquites and blowing yellow grasses. And it rekindled the faith in the inhabitants of this land—good strong, energetic people.
Finally, as I left the play behind and started down the hill to the car, it was all I could do to keep from breaking into a spirited gallop like I used to do on my stickhorse...But an evil look from my husband restrained me...
A member of the cast we had met told us before we left Albany, "Ya'll come back and see us..." And you know what? I just believe I will.

Max Calk Completes Free Enterprise Study

Max Calk of Paint Creek was among 16 public school teachers from across the state who recently completed two courses of study on the American Free Enterprise System at Sul Ross State University.
According to William L. Beaty, director of the Free Enterprise Institute and instructor of the courses, "These courses represent a chance to study free enterprise as a positive alternative to the systems of mixed capitalism and socialism toward which many of the world's economies have been drifting for the past 50 years."
The Free Enterprise Institute at Sul Ross was founded in 1975 and this year's class represents the sixth group of public school teachers receiving training in the program.
"This year's class was one of the best I have taught," Beaty added. "I believe they will do an excellent job of providing general economic and free enterprise information to their students."

The Free Enterprise Institute at Sul Ross is one of 15 such bodies in the state. It receives financial support from the Texas Bureau for Economic Understanding, a private, nonprofit organization with headquarters in Arlington.
Around Town

Summer Housecleaning Saves Energy, Money

BY LOU GILLY
County Extension Agent
So you missed "Spring" cleaning this year—after all, rainy days aren't the best incentive.

Then do some "summer" housecleaning—and this year, make it "conservation cleaning" with energy savings in mind.

Clean 'Big Energy' Users
Pay lots of attention to your heaviest energy users—such as furnaces, air conditioners and major appliances. That includes the clothes washer and dryer and the refrigerator and freezer.

Energy-saving cleaning also means maintenance-like drivebelt tightening or lubrication to help your appliances work more efficiently and last longer.

Start With Furnace
Start with the furnace. Since the average household furnace uses about half the total family energy consumption in a year, give it top priority.

You won't use the furnace until next fall, but now's the time to get it in shape. Make sure the filter is clean—and promise yourself you'll clean the filter or change it every two months when you're using the furnace. This can save much money.

Some filters just need a tapping and a good vacuuming for cleaning—or you can wash them with a hose or under a faucet. Most are disposable now.

Also, lubricate electric motors, fans and pumps according to the manufacturer's directions. Use oil sparingly once or twice a year.

Check all the drive belts for proper tension. If belts are properly adjusted, you should be able to press them together one-half to one inch. Replace cracked or frayed belts.

Clean Air Conditioner
Clean the air conditioner next.

Inspect the filter. Clean it or replace it every month during the cooling season.

Make sure the condenser is clean. If not, the unit will have to run longer to do the job. Regular lubrication is important, here, too, if required by the manufacturer.

Have a professional repairman check the air conditioner every other year.

Other Energy Savers
Here are some other energy-saving things you can do:

Keep the condenser coils on your refrigerator and freezer clean—to help them work their best during the hot summer months when demands on them are heaviest.

Think about repainting the walls with lighter colors to reflect more light and reduce lighting costs.

Keep all lighting equipment clean. Dust and soil reduce lighting efficiency.

Check lampshades for discoloration. White reflects more light. If the insides of your shades have darkened, clean the shades, relime them or replace them.

Draperies, kept closed, will go a long way toward keeping hot summer sun from heating your home—and they will reduce air-conditioning costs. In winter, they can help keep out cold air, and that reduces heating costs. Make sure your draperies are clean and in good condition for the greatest efficiency.

"Summer" cleaning means heavy laundry chores, too—bedspreads, curtains, blankets and other bedding. Be sure to use full washer loads to save energy.

For heavily soiled items, use hot water. For the rest, use warm or cool water to save energy, if possible.

Line drying is fashionable again, so cut even more energy costs by drying clothes outdoors in good weather.

During balmy days of late spring and early summer, save energy by opening windows more and using air conditioning less—but make sure your screens are clean to allow optimum air circulation.

Tips For Handling Clothing Complaints

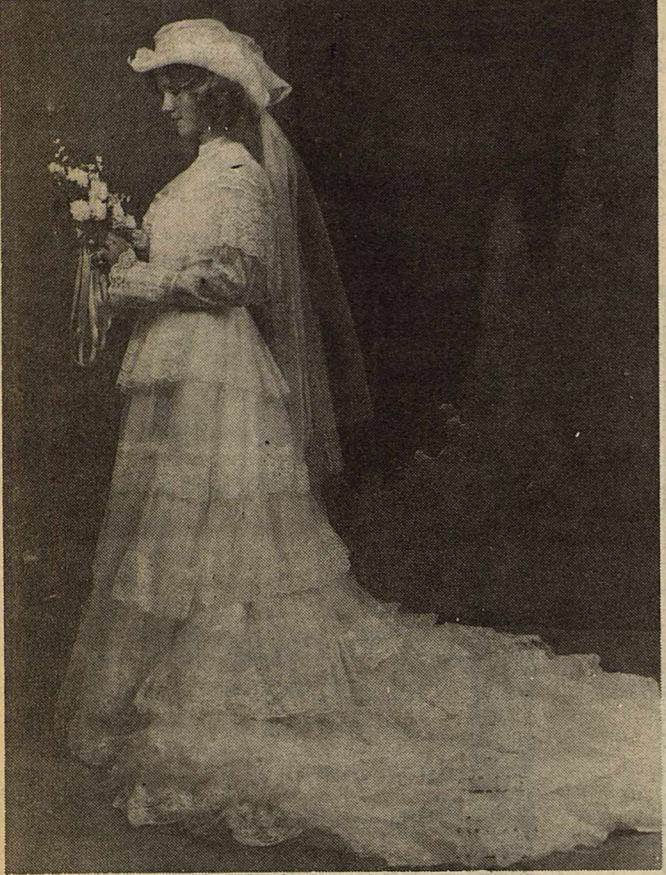

BY LOU GILLY
County Extension Agent Have you ever wondered what to do when dissatisfied with the wearability of a garment, or with laundry or drycleaning service? No matter what the problem, there are recommended procedures to follow. First of all, get the facts absolutely straight in your mind by writing them out.

Whether the situation involves the wearability of a garment or an unsatisfactory laundry or drycleaning job, try to verify the purchase date or date of service by means of a sales receipt, charge slip, cancelled check or laundry ticket. If the problem concerns a garment's serviceability, try to identify it by brand name, style number, lot number, etc. Contact the customer complaint department or manager of the store and explain your problem, stating what you would like done to remedy the situation (exchange, refund, etc.).

These steps will usually suffice, but if you are dissatisfied with the treatment or compensation received, you might do one of two things. If your complaint concerns a service, contact the local Better Business Bureau, the local or state consumer protection agency or the provincial Office of Consumer and Corporate Affairs. If a garment's serviceability is the issue, get the manufacturer's name and address from the store and write to the company, explaining your problem as clearly and succinctly as possible. If you still fail to obtain satisfaction and the garment was manufactured in the United States, write to the American Apparel Manufacturers Association, Inc. A purchaser of a Canadian-manufactured garment may obtain its registered identification number from any of the district or regional offices of Consumer and Corporate Affairs Canada, which are located across the country.

L.F.'s Summer Sale Hot as a July 4th Firecracker Starts Thursday, July 3rd. 1/4 to 1/2 off on Spring and Summer Merchandise Lane-Felker

Rice Springs News

I do believe that summer has finally arrived with a big bang. The days seem to be getting hotter each day. Even some of the residents that I thought would never complain of being warm, have begun to say that it is hot to them. It seems that no matter what type of weather it is, there is always some of us who are unhappy with it. It's a good thing that the Good Lord doesn't consult with humans about the weather or it would be in a bigger mess than what we think it is now.

We would like to welcome another new resident to Rice Springs. It is June Smith. We hope she likes living here.

Ethel Edwards has had to enter the Haskell hospital again. We hope that she is much better by the time this is read. Ida Phemister is back in the home after being discharged from the hospital.

The ladies of the Haskell Church of Christ came again on Thursday to hold the monthly birthday party. Beings we didn't have any residents to celebrate their birthday in June, they decided to call it an anniversary party in honor of Ruth Ann Klose, our administrator, who was celebrating her twenty-fifth on that day. The cake and punch was delicious and we thank them for coming.

We again thank all our volunteers for last week. Especially we thank the Haskell Independent Church who came all the Sunday mornings in June to hold the morning worship service. We will be looking forward to their coming again next year.

We also thank all our visitors for coming the past week. The out-of-county visitors were:

Visiting Maggie Martin were Opal and Ellen Howe of Clyde. Also visiting Maggie, Trudie Bush, and Charity Bradley were Ada Snyder, Agnes Bowman, of Seymour, and Shane Daniels of Wichita Falls.

Mrs. Willie D. Lehrmann and Scotty of Fort Worth visited Alvena Holle and Maggie Martin.

Grace and Sam West of Lubbock visited her brothers, Jim and Dutch Cross.

Coming to see Ora McCollough were Evelyn and Jack Green of Fort Worth and Mrs. Keller of O'Brien.

Visiting A.C. Boggs were Jeff, Clayton, Shelly, Sheryl, Corey, and Minnie Brasher of Seymour and Jonathan Merchant of Weatherford.

Nettie and Raleigh Brock visited her father, Bill Harrell, and his mother, Mae Brock. Also visiting Bill was Dwight Goode of Kingsville.

Mildred Jones of Plains visited with Beatrice Livenood.

Visiting Eunice Thornhill and Emma Humphrey were Mae Purker of Dallas and Nina Motsch of Fort Worth.

Visiting Texie Perdue and Ellie Cartwright were Inez Carver and Olean Williams of Imperial, California, Thelma Nance of Santa Anna, California, Daisy Hughes of O'Brien, Stella Carver of Knox City, Sharon Brown and Annette Perdue, both of Abilene. Inez Carver also visited with Joe Teague while she was here.

Mr. and Mrs. J.J. Williamson, Lucy Lynn Ferrell, and John David Ferrell, all of Plainview, came to visit their mothers and grandmothers, Ada Williamson and Nannie McCaul. Mrs. McCaul was also taken by them to Rule to spend the day with another one of her daughters.

Jay, Betty, and Jeff Pumphrey came to visit with Jonnye Pumphrey and Elizabeth Yakey.

Annie Howard enjoyed a visit from Shawna Bain of Amarillo.

John Earp was taken over to Weinert to spend the day with his son, Johnny Earp and his family. He said he really did have a good visit.

Visiting Mary Bradley and Charity Bradley were Mary's son, Bob Bradley of Bossier City, Louisiana, and their niece, Elsie Eastland and daughter, Jan, of Abilene.

Mr. and Mrs. B.G. Hemphill has been here from Simi Valley, California visiting his mother, Kate Hemphill.

Visiting Annie Smith was her son, Douglas Smith of Waco.

Visiting Alma Cole were her sister, Lois, and E.G. Post of Abilene and nephew, Ford and Donna Cole of Oklahoma.

May Terry Sammons and Ami Graves, both of Larose, La., came to see Mattie Sammons.

Visiting Luther and Mattie Hines were Elva, Elvin, and Earl Hines of Hamlin and Danny and Dale Waincott of Knox City.

Coming to spend the morning with Sam and Ethel Bradford were their children, G.A. Bradford and Fay Cox, and granddaughter, Brenda Bradford, all of Peacock.

Janell Morgan of Wichita Falls visited her mother, Ida Phemister.

Oleta Bevil of Stamford came to see her mother, Dovie Gregory.

Visiting Eunice Stewart were her daughter, Melba Stowe, and her sister, Mayme Burnett, both of Olney.

That's the news for another week. Until I get some more life histories of some more of the residents, I can't put our "Meet Our Residents" part of the column back in. So if any one out there could help me in this, I would sure appreciate it.

Bottle Rockets Cause Vast Property Damage

The facts, on paper, without explanation, would have made most of us fear the worst last year about this time--that earth was involuntarily entering a war of the worlds.

Here are the facts as they pertained to just two of several thousand similar incidents, all of which occurred the same day:

Fresno, California—Rockets landed on the roof of a motel. They destroyed the upper floor of one wing. Twelve second-story rooms were totally destroyed. Twelve others on the ground floor were damaged by water. One firefighter was injured. Investigators found additional rockets on both sides of the building after the fire.

Denton, Texas—Rockets caused severe damage when they landed on the roof of a home. The resulting fire destroyed 75 percent of the roof covering and damaged the attic area. The rest of the house and its contents were damaged by water. After the fire, several additional rockets were found around the house. Surprisingly, authorities were not concerned about invaders from outer space.

Here's why: The rockets that caused approximately $270,000 in property damage to the structures in these two July 4 incidents--and millions of dollars of property damage countrywide--were bottle rockets, the kinds used by overzealous Americans to celebrate the nation's independence.

Not surprisingly, authorities are concerned.

A bottle rocket is comprised of a cardboard tube filled with incendiary material, a wick, a long stick and a bottle. The wick is attached to the bottom of the tube, the tube is attached to the top of the stick and the bottom portion of the stick is placed in the bottle, which acts as a launching pad. Once the wick is ignited and it burns to the tube, there is a liftoff and, quite possibly, a resulting fire, depending on where the rocket lands.

We're especially concerned about bottle rockets where there is a predominance of homes with wood shingle roofs, ones that catch fire easily, says an Allstate Insurance Company Spokesperson.

The Allstate spokesperson says bottle rockets are commonly considered safe in states that allow public use of certain fireworks.

We have found that states that will prohibit explosive-type devices will allow bottle rockets, he says. But all anyone needs to do is look at the damage that can be done by a bottle rocket--for example, that motel fire in Fresno. How safe is that?

The Allstate spokesperson says that fireworks of any kind should be left to those people who are trained to work with them.

He adds that in areas where bottle rockets are legal, care should be taken to be sure that they are used in places away from homes, people and woodlands.

ing activities and growth of the 77,000-member statewide fraternal benefit society whose headquarters are in San Antonio.

EMERGENCY ROOM

Hey, Doc! Guess how hot it is outside!

First Federal Savings Announces New Name

First Federal Savings of Stamford, an 80+ million dollar savings and loan with divisions in Stamford, Haskell, Quanah and Abilene, has changed its name to Big Country Savings in conjunction with its official conversion to a state-chartered mutual savings and loan.

"The ever-changing events, trends and circumstances over the past months have challenged all of us to come up with new and more innovative ways of doing things to make life better," stated John W. Harrell, president of First Federal and now Big Country Savings. "This change gives us a much broader base of lending power and allows us to expand our current services to offer a wider range of loans, including better and more flexible home loans."

Harrell emphasized that the only changes at First Federal would be the name and the ability to serve the customers better than ever before. Savings will continue to be insured up to $100,000, and with the installation of an on-line computer system, every account can be serviced quickly and accurately from any of the four division offices.

First Federal was organized 46 years ago as Stamford Federal Savings and Loan and, in 1974, became First Federal Savings and Loan of Stamford.

Quanah Federal of Quanah was acquired in April, 1975 becoming the first federal merger in the state of Texas. The Haskell division was opened in December, 1974.

In February, 1980 First Federal opened its Abilene division in a temporary facility on its permanent site located at 3800 South Clack. Construction of the division office building is expected to begin within the next 30 to 60 days. Big Country Savings currently serves a 20-county area covering approximately 32,021 square miles.

President Harrell concluded, "We take great pride in serving the people of Big Country and appreciate the opportunity to do so. I personally invite everyone to come celebrate with us."

Big Country Savings is hosting an all-free celebration in Stamford Friday, July 11 from 10:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. Activities will include bouncing in a bubble, clown-face painting, helium-filled balloons, refreshments and a country western band. Special guests will include a real rodeo clown and gunslinger.

An open house is also planned for the entire week of July 7-11 from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. at all Big Country Savings locations. Refreshments, balloons and other items will be given away during the day.

First Federal is now Big Country Savings.

Big Country. This is a land of buffalo and coyote, of whitetail and cottontail. This is a land aged to perfection.

For almost half a century, First Federal Savings has been a part of Big Country. And we're still helping Big Country people grow bigger. By helping you find greener pastures, drill deeper wells, and put down stronger roots.

Because your future is our future.

First Federal Savings is Big Country. That's what we're known for. And that's how we want to be known.

Call us by our new name, Big Country Savings. Because the future, for all of us, is Big Country.

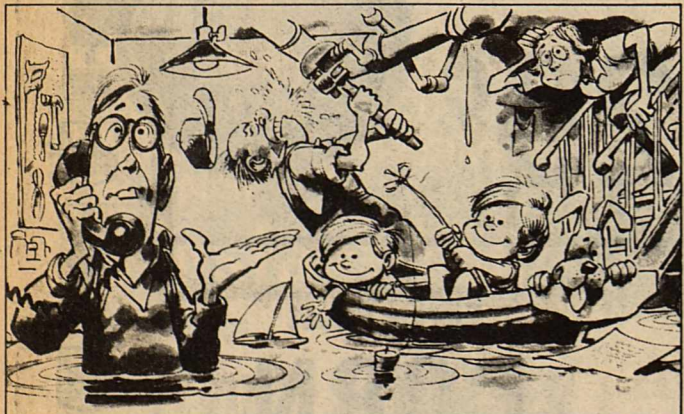

Welcome to Big Country.

When I insured my house, I was Mr. Mayes.
When I had a claim, I was Mr. 107-91243.

Not when you deal with an Independent Insurance Agent.

When you buy insurance from an agent who works directly for one insurance company, he's probably not the person you talk to when you have a claim. Most one-company agents have nothing to do with the claims process. So if you have a claim, it's between you and the adjuster.

Your Independent Insurance Agent doesn't do business that way. He's right there ready to serve you when you have a claim... helping you reach a fair settlement as quickly as possible. And since your Independent Insurance Agent can offer you policies from several different companies, he can choose the policy that's just right for you. At the right price. Whether you need homeowners, auto, life or business insurance.

Area Crusade Set For August 3-6

BY BRIAN BURGESS

The Haskell Area Crusade is set for August 3-6, at 8:00 p.m. in Indian Stadium. The leader of the praise portion of the crusade in Marion Warren. Although Brother Warren and wife and four children live in Euless, he at least, is no stranger to our area. He was born in the Goree suburb, Bomarton, back in May, 1938. He graduated from Southwestern Seminary in 1967 and entered full-time evangelism a year later.

Randal Hatfield, the new pastor at Sweethome in Rule, is well acquainted with Brother Warren both as a dynamic speaker and musician, and tells me that we are all in for a real treat.

Marion, in addition to his travels here in the States with his own evangelistic association and with the Billy Graham Association, has been involved with crusades in Japan, Argentina, Bolivia, Germany, Australia, and Canada.

The exciting thing is that God is every bit as concerned about Haskell as he is with all those places. Both Brother Warren and Brother Jack Taylor, our evangelist, have expressed how deeply they feel with us that God stands ready to open the windows of heaven and pour out a blessing. We believe that recent events in Haskell have served to prepare us for this August outpouring. (Remember how hot and dry it was back in '78?) Many good things are already happening. Pray for the crusade. Pray for Haskell. Pray that you might be the recipient and the channel of God's grace. If the Lord leads, you may want to help with the pre-crusade expenses for material, postage and advertising. Just make your deposit in account number 22 7897 at Haskell National Bank. This is our "Haskell Area Crusade" account. Abe Turner is our treasurer.

One thing I believe you'll like is that neither Brother Taylor or Brother Warren have been promised any money at all. They are coming solely because they believe as we do that August 3-6 is God's time. They are content to be obedient to the leading of God's Spirit and to let the finances take care of themselves. They will receive an offering only after the expense of the crusade has been met. It is with great confidence that we on the Crusad committees and the Ministerial Alliance present these dedicated men of God to the Haskell area.

Exchange Service In Need Of Host Families

Rev. and Mrs. Don Jeffreys, pastor and wife of First Baptist Church, Roby, have recently been authorized by the Youth Exchange Service (YES) Board of Directors to serve as representatives in this area to handle all related business of the YES organization, based on the incorporation records, bylaws, and philosophy of YES. This exchange service, with international headquarters in San Clemente, California, has been designated by the United States Government to increase international understanding through the exchange student program.

The exchange service is currently in need of families all over America to provide a temporary home for students wanting to come to the United States on short cultural VISA's. Host families receive a high school exchange student for three to nine months starting in mid August. They are to be enrolled in local High Schools. Likes, dis-likes, hobbies, and personalities of the students will be fit as nearly as possible to the same qualities of the host families. The students bring their own spending money and are fully covered with medical insurance. "We do not want them to be guests in your home," the Jeffreys said, "but want them to become a part of your family. We want them to learn about middle income American family life."

If you would consider becoming good-will ambassadors of the United States and missionaries of your faith, please call (915) 776-2159 for more details and benefits. There are students waiting for placement now and unless we have a home by mid July, they must be told they'll have to wait. For some of them, this will be their last opportunity to be an exchange student in the U.S.A.

Among Cal Smith's hits are: "Country Bumpkin," "The Lord Knows I'm Drinking," "Jason's Farm," "It's Time To Pay The Fiddler," and "Drinking Champagne."

It was "Harper Valley PTA" which moved Jeannie C. Riley from Anson to the road of Nashville. Many recordings followed.

PORTRAIT UNVEILED

Local artist, Becky Richardson unveiled a portrait of Brooks Middleton Tuesday morning during an "informal ceremony" at The Drug Store. Although Mrs. Richardson has been painting for sometime, this is her first major effort in portrait art. Mr. Middleton however is a little more experienced as a subject for artwork. He was the model for the statue of a cowboy done for Hardin-Simmons University in 1937. Hopefully, this work of art will have an easier life than his statue since, according to a grinning Middleton, "they painted me every time they had a football game and nobody ever washed me off."

Tauniya White Attends 4-H Citizenship-Washington Focus

Tauniya White from Rule returned home Tuesday, June 24, from Washington, D.C., after completing Citizenship-Washington Focus—a week-long experience in citizenship and leadership training at the National 4-H Center. Tauniya was one of sixty-one 4-H members and six adult leaders from Texas and nine other states participating—Arkansas, Colorado, Florida, Iowa, Montana, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Tennessee, and Wyoming. The program is designed to help young people understand the structure and function of our system of government, the heritage of our country's development and prepare plans for active citizen involvement when they return home.

Using the nation's capital as a "classroom," the program included a day on Capitol Hill to meet with members of Congress and see government in action. Tauniya's visit included a tour of the nation's capitol, a visit to each Senator's office, sitting in on a session of the Senate, a tour of the Library of Congress, and the Supreme Court building. A visit with the Honorable Charles W. Stenholm completed her day on Capitol Hill. Field trips to historical and cultural sites as well as to federal agencies and community organizations were among the most informative and exciting parts of the week, according to Tauniya. She toured the Federal Bureau of Investigation building, learning a lot about the workings of the FBI; a visit to the Bureau of Engraving and Printing proved to be most interesting, because she saw money being printed and cut.

In workshop sessions at the National 4-H Center, young people discussed contemporary issues and concerns, and ways in which skills and knowledge gained during the week could be applied to the 4-H program here in Haskell County. The most memorable sessions for Tauniya were the one in which she learned how to have a "Get to Know Others" session, the one in which she participated in an International Interdependence program where the participants learned about population distribution of the world, according to land area. The session with Dot Emerson proved to be the favorite among the 4-H'ers. Dot included the members in her program, instead of just preaching at them. "Silent Screen," "Statue Question and Answer," and "Off the Top of Your Head" were Tauniya's favorites. She hopes to use "Silent Screen" in her programs. One of the best parts of the experience was being able to share ideas with 4-H members across the country. The 4-H Idea Fair was the main source of sharing ideas and programs from across the nation. For example, Colorado had brochures on the state, and Florida had their Health program outlined.

Citizenship-Washington Focus is conducted by National 4-H Council in behalf of the

Cheerleaders Place Second At WTC

Members of the Haskell squad are Stephanie Browning, Tammy Randle, Belen Sanchez and Kelly Wallace.

Cooperative Extension Service of the State Land-Grant Universities and the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Tauniya was selected to attend on the basis of the application which she filled out. The trip was sponsored by private businesses which she contacted. These included: Haskell National Bank, Rule Co-op Gin, Farmers National Bank, Hartsfield Agency, Rule 4-H Club, Rule Chamber of Commerce, Rule Rotary Club, Haskell County Extension Homemakers, Ousley's of Rule, Doris Reeves, South Side Barber Shop, Lisle Gin, Sears Roebuck & Co., Allison's Farm Supply, Wood's Pharmacy, and Tanner's Grocery.

Slide programs will be available to groups after July 14, by contacting Tauniya at 997-2386, or the County Extension Office at 864-2658 or 864-2546. More information about the trip in 1981 can also be obtained through the Extension Office.

Cotton Effects Texas Economy

Cotton still reigns as "king" among crops in Texas and it impacts the state's economy to the tune of $7 billion a year.

Texas boasts more than half of the nation's cotton acreage, with some eight million acres planted this year. An average cotton year could result in 5.5 million bales and sales of $1.8 billion, assuming 60 cents a pound for lint and $120 a ton for cottonseed, points out Dr. Bob Metzger, cotton specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. This compares to a $1.5 billion crop in 1979.

However, few cotton farmers are getting rich due to skyrocketing production costs.

Cotton has a far-reaching effect on Texas' economy, with gins, oil mills, compresses-warehouses and machinery supplies being some of the industry's key ingredients, notes the specialist.

Texas boasts 783 active gins that generate about $150 million a year. And the 21 oil mills that process about two million tons of cottonseed annually generate another $274 million. Then there are the state's 29 compresses-warehouses, marketing associates, cottonseed delinting plants and the seed industry that bring in additional millions of dollars.

From the machinery standpoint, some 35,000 stripper harvesters and about 3,000 spindle pickers are used each year to harvest Texas' number one cash crop, says Metzger.

Of course, with a lot of Texas cotton going into export channels, the crop helps pay the bill for much of the foreign oil that comes into the U.S.

In a nutshell, Texas cotton means a lot to the state and nation, contends the specialist.

Congressional Comment

WASHINGTON, D.C.—The Congress recently approved legislation which includes meaningful changes in the farm disaster loan programs administered by both the Small Business Administration (SBA) and the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA).
I supported this measure because, in effect, it places the disaster loan programs for farm businesses under the jurisdiction of the more qualified FmHA.

A major provision of this bill is the "credit elsewhere test," which requires loan applicants to seek assistance from other sources before approaching the SBA. Accordingly, the FmHA disaster loan program has been modified to provide the same benefits now provided to victims under the SBA program, thus changing the FmHA law to coincide with the eligibility requirements of the SBA program.

Because farm businesses will now be eligible for loans under FmHA, those eligible will be required to first apply to FmHA for a loan where terms and rates are as favorable as SBA-administered business disaster loans. However, if FmHA denies to grant a loan or if FmHA changes their program so that the same benefits will not be available from FmHA as from SBA, the eligible applicants may seek assistance from the SBA-administered program. The FmHA disaster assistance will now be limited to $500,000 per disaster for net non-reimbursed loss, as in the SBA procedure.

The FmHA has the expertise necessary to effectively handle the disaster claims of farm businesses, and that agency has a sufficient staff to process the accompanying paperwork, unlike the SBA which has neither. Also, the Administration has agreed to hire 200 additional personnel to assist in administering the expanded load through the FmHA program, thereby allowing SBA to concentrate on non-agricultural disasters and other small business loans. Disaster loans are designed to aid businesses unable to obtain adequate credit elsewhere in emergency situations. Under the provisions of this legislation, these businesses will be able to borrow up to $500,000 at 5 percent whether qualified by SBA or FmHA. Businesses with a good credit rating will have the right to receive a loan from FmHA or SBA at a rate not exceeding 1 percent above the current cost of money to the government for amounts up to $500,000 (currently 10 percent). These will be subject to review after the first three years and every two years after that to determine whether the borrower can obtain a loan from non-federal sources at a similar rate and term. In the event that this is possible, the borrower will be required to accept such a loan.

By placing disaster loan programs for farm businesses under the auspices of the FmHA, I feel that the procedure will be in more logical hands. The FmHA's experience and knowledge in these matters makes them the best choice to handle the large volume of disaster loan applications received. Because the FmHA is much better staffed, this bill will eliminate many of the problems that farm businesses have had in their dealings with the federal government through the SBA-administered disaster loan program.

I am confident that this measure will increase the efficiency of our government in regard to disaster relief loans for all types of small business and eliminate much of the opposition and controversy surrounding the SBA.

CAPITOL UPDATE

John Tower
U.S. SENATOR for TEXAS
 142 RUSSELL OFFICE BUILDING
 WASHINGTON, D.C. 20510

For months, economists and government officials sounded like latter-day Paul Reveres with their constant cry of, "The Recession is Coming." Now they all seem to agree that it's here. It doesn't take an expert to tell our economy isn't doing well; but what makes a recession?

There are a number of telltale signs which economists watch to determine how the economy is doing. Mostly these signs are measures of certain statistics which historically go up when the economy is doing well and decline when things get worse. The latest news from these indicators is uniformly bad, and reflects poorly on administration policies and congressional leadership.

The most startling statistic is one known as the Index of Leading Indicators. This index, which measures such items as the number of layoffs, stock prices and building permits, fell by 4.8% in April. That is the largest decline since that index was started 32 years ago, and compares with a previous record decline of 3%. The sharp decline brought the index to its lowest point since April 1976.

This information worries me since the Index of Leading Indicators typically moves in the direction in which the economy is about to move, "leading" the economy.

Add to this the fact that the Index of Coincident Indicators — a series of statistics which tend to move with the economy — fell by 1.2% in March and another 1.9% in April, and it is clear that recession is upon us.

There is simply no escaping the fact that this recession is the result of ill-advised attempts to fight the inflation brought on by years of excessive deficit government spending.

Individuals and businesses frequently act on the basis of what they think the economy will do, so indecisiveness and waffling by the Administration or Congress simply make matters worse. Let's look at what's been happening with the budget for fiscal year 1981. First the Administration submitted a deficit budget. Then the President announced that he would balance the budget — mostly by raising more revenue. The House rejected a theoretically balanced budget before accepting one with slight revisions. But the budget is balanced only if additional revenue-raising measures are passed, and the economy doesn't go into a deep recession. I am at a loss to see any reason for anyone to have confidence in the ability of his government to cope with problems in the economy.

Undoubtedly, pressure for even more government spending will increase as the unemployment rate rises. But that will simply make the problem worse, because high deficit spending is one of the key causes of high inflation rates — which, in turn, helps drive the economy into recession. The reason is simple. The classic definition of inflation is "too many dollars chasing too few goods." When the government spends substantially more than it has — especially money that goes directly to individuals or goes to buy items from the private sector that you or I might also buy — it means creating more money or making the competition for available goods more intense. Either way increases the rate of inflation.

We must not be lured into the simplistic, but politically tempting, situation of trying to provide short-term relief for the recession by taking action which in the long run will make our problems much, much worse.

Suggestions For Preserving Vegetables

To hold down food costs, more and more people are turning to home preservation as a means to either save extra food when it's cheapest to buy or to store the surplus of a home garden.

Is it best to freeze, can, or dehydrate? There is a decided difference in energy cost and

Softball Tournament Date Change

Those interested in joining in the softball tournament to be sponsored by the Haskell Girls Athletic Association will want to change the date on their calendars for that tournament.

product quality, according to Dr. Ki Soon Rhee, food scientist at Texas A&M University, who made a comparative study of food preservative methods for the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.

Carrots, zucchini and summer squash were processed by canning, freezing and dehydration according to methods commonly used in the home.

Energy use was measured and the cost preservation was calculated, with the packaging and amortized equipment cost included. Palatability and vitamin content, of the processed products, important measures of quality, were carefully checked.

Freezing required the shortest processing time and resulted in products with the best eating quality with highest retention of carotene and ascorbic acid (assuming canned liquid not used).

Although more electric energy is required to process and store vegetables by freezing than by canning or dehydration, the overall cost (including packaging cost and amortized cost for equipment) for freezing preservation can be kept as low as or lower than the cost for other preservation methods, providing that the freezer is kept as full as possible.

With the freezer kept only half full, Rhee says, freezing would cost more than canning or dehydration for long-term storage (more than 6 months).

When canning is compared with dehydration, canning uses much less electric energy and may be slightly cheaper in overall preservation cost.

An added advantage is that canned products retain much more ascorbic acid and carotene than do the dehydrated products. A vegetable should not be dehydrated if it is expected to supply ascorbic acid in the diet since most of the vitamin is lost during the dehydration process.

Freezing resulted in products with the highest sensory quality, with ratings well above minimum acceptability. They were tops in texture, smell, flavor and appearance.

The canned and dehydrated products were rated low in sensory quality, with ratings mostly below minimum acceptability.
