"HASKELL—A GOOD PLACE TO VISIT; A BETTER PLACE TO LIVE"

VOLUME NINETY-FOUR HASKELL, TEXAS, 79521, DECEMBER 4, 1980 NUMBER FORTY-NINE

After about two decades of deterioration, the Free Enterprise System is showing promise of recovery.

During the past two decades the federal government has been bailing-out failing businesses, cities and in some instances individuals.

At the same time the tax burden on businesses and individuals has increased tremendously.

In effect the government has adopted an attitude that through supports and penalties a Free Enterprise System can be improved on.

Government controls on wages, prices and exports and an ever increasing tax burden has placed a severe damper on the American Dream of hard work ending in prosperity.

Government interference in the Free Enterprise System has created massive inflation which now almost removes the once real possibility for a young married couple to own their

7 Represent Haskell At Food Show

Seven Haskell County youth represented Haskell County well last Saturday at the District 4-H Food Show in Wichita Falls.

The four junior exhibitors received blue ribbons for their efforts. These young ladies are: Stephanie Browning, Dalyn Gilly, and Holli High all of Haskell and Traci Fry of Rochester.

Stephanie and Holli were recognized as overall first place winners in their division. This means that these two 4-H'ers had the highest score in their division. Traci was recognized as overall second place winner because she had the second highest score in her division.

In the senior division Janette Holmes and Kim Jones of Rochester received red ribbons and Debbie Quade, also of Rochester, received a white ribbon.

Increases in productivity which at one time went to increasing the pay of workers and hiring additional employees now go to increasing interest payments and taxes.

During a series of government moves, many people in this country were convinced that profits of the part of businesses were 'obscene' and the term 'obscene profits' was used to create public support of such irresponsible legislation as the 'Windfall Profits Tax'.

The light on the horizon seems to be that the American public has realized most of this and has shown their displeasure by defeating many liberal politicians who advocated this system.

Much of Ronald Reagan's platform was based on less government control and interference and a tax cut to increase productivity.

Although any move to create significant changes will be painful in the near term, it is becoming more and more apparent to the majority of Americans that a return to the Free Enterprise System is the only long-range hope for prosperity in this country.

Christmas Promotion Plans Announced

BY JERRY JENNINGS

The Haskell Chamber of Commerce wishes to announce its 1980 Christmas Promotion. There have been some changes this year which we believe will make the program more successful than ever.

The traditional Christmas Ticket Drawings will be held at 2:00 p.m. on December 6, December 13 and December 20 on the southside of the Haskell Courthouse.

On each of these Saturdays, the names of nine persons will be drawn from the container with first prize of $100 to be awarded. The other eight names will be drawn for $50 each.

If the winners are not present at the drawing, they will receive one half of the amount. The other half will be held for an additional Jackpot Drawing on December 20 when the winner will receive at least $500.

Drawing tickets are available with purchases from any participating Haskell merchant. Customers may put their tickets in the container at the Chamber office or give them to any participating merchant prior to the drawings.

Santa will be present on the southside of the Haskell Courthouse from 1:00 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. on the Saturdays of the drawings to talk with children and give them candy.

Polaroid snapshots of children with Santa will be available. Since a case of film has been donated, there will be no charge for the first 600 pictures taken. There will be a limit of one free picture per family. Any additional pictures will cost $1.00 each.

A Christmas Treasure Hunt has been included this year to provide extra fun and savings for shoppers. Many Haskell merchants have provided gift certificates which can be found in participating stores.

When a customer makes a purchase of $15.00 or more in a participating store, the shopper will be given an envelope which may contain a gift certificate. The certificates may be redeemed at the

Freshness Is The Key To Observe Safety Rules For A Happy Holiday Season

Selecting Christmas Tree

Selecting your Christmas tree wisely and giving it proper care will help it last throughout the holiday season.

First, consider the tree species, says Dr. Michael Walterscheid, forestry specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. Common species grown in Michigan, Minnesota and Oregon and sold in Texas include Scotch pine and Douglas fir. There are also some spruce, noble fir and concolor fir. All make acceptable Christmas trees. They are cut in October, then stored and shipped south as Christmas approaches. Generally, these trees are in good condition when they arrive in Texas.

Recently, producers in southern states have started growing Virginia pines in plantations for Christmas trees. According to Walterscheid, Virginia pines make desirable Christmas trees because they have a pleasing fragrance, relatively short needles and can be pruned readily to a desirable shape. Texas growers, too, have established plantations of Virginia pines, but only limited supplies are available in certain areas. More Virginia pines will be available within two to three years and will have an advantage of freshness over trees shipped in from other states.

Buy your Christmas tree early so you can select the type of tree you want, advises the specialist. Check for signs of needle shedding and brittleness which indicate that the tree has become too dry. If a tree is too dry when purchased, it will continue to dry out even though it is set in water. Generally, trees available on retail lots in Texas are fresh and can be expected to remain usable in the home throughout the Christmas season.

When you get the tree home, cut one to two inches off its base on a slant. Stand the tree in water and store in a shaded area until you're ready to bring it inside. Keep water in the stand at all times and your tree will remain fresh.

In the home, place the tree away from all heat sources, such as a fireplace or heating unit, cautions Walterscheid. Check the water level often; a tree may use as much as a pint of water a day. Keep your lighting system in good order by inspecting and discarding wires with frayed insulation, broken sockets and loose connections. Use only lights and cords that carry the safety seal of Underwriters Laboratory.

As a final reminder, Walterscheid advises removing gift wrappings and packing materials from around the tree once you have opened Christmas packages.

By selecting a fresh tree and following a few safety rules, everyone can have a safe and happy holiday season.

Lights

Christmas tree lights and other decorations set the theme for the Christmas holidays. Here are some very important points to remember when using them.

- * Use only lights that have been tested for safety. Identify these by the UL Label from Underwriters Laboratories.

- * Check each set of lights for broken or cracked sockets, frayed or bare wires, loose connections. Discard any of this equipment that you deem unsafe.

- * Check labels of lights to be used outdoors to see that they are suitable for outdoor use. Never use indoor lights outside. Fasten outdoor lights securely to trees, walls, or other firm support to protect them from wind damage.

- * Overloading a circuit with too many lights could cause a fire. Read manufacturer's instructions carefully and do not use more than the recommended number of lights in one circuit.

- * Always turn off lights on trees and other decorations when you retire or leave your home. A short circuit in any of this equipment could cause a fire.

- * Never use electric lights on a metallic tree. Damaged insulation in lighting on a metallic tree could cause the entire tree to be charged with electricity. To avoid this danger, use colored spotlights above or beside a metal tree, never fastened onto it.

- * Keep children away from light sets and electrical decorations.

Paper

The opening of Christmas presents is always a special time during the holidays. Take special precautions when disposing of the wrappings.

- * Always dispose of wrappings immediately after opening.

- * Place trash in a metal container. Don't burn wrappings in the fireplace, they may ignite suddenly, and cause a flash fire.

Fires

Your fireplace is a source of warmth and heat. Before starting your fire, be sure to remove all paper decorations and boughs from the immediate area. Be sure the flue is open. Never set up your Christmas tree near the fireplace, this is a potential fire risk.

- * Use a screen to enclose the front of your fireplace to confine live embers and sparks to the fire box.

- * Use care with "fire salts" which produce colored flames when thrown on a wood fire. They contain heavy metals, and can cause intense gastrointestinal irritation or vomiting if eaten. Keep away from children.

Candles

Never use lighted candles on a tree or near other evergreens.

Always use non-flammable holders.

Keep candles where they cannot be knocked down or blown over.

Trimming

The trimming of your Christmas tree is a very important part of your holiday festivities. Keep the safety of your family in mind when selecting trimmings and decorating your tree.

When choosing the finishing touches for the tree, purchase tinsel or artificial icicles of a non-leaded material. Leaded materials may be hazardous if eaten by children or pets.

If youngsters are a part of your family, take special care to:

- * Avoid any decorations that tend to break easily, or have sharp edges.

- * Keep tree trimmings that are small or have removable parts out of the reach of your child. These pieces may be swallowed.

- * Don't purchase ornaments that resemble candy or foods. A small child may try to eat them.

Plan Ahead

An emergency could strike your home at any time. Here are a few simple rules to follow to help your family through a crisis.

- * Keep fire department, police, ambulance, doctor, and other emergency service numbers posted on or near your telephone.

- * Keep a UL Listed multi-purpose fire extinguisher in your kitchen and know how to use it.

- * Many fire departments are now offering first aid classes for their communities. At least one member of the family should be familiar with simple first aid procedures.

Some General Rules for Christmas Safety

- * Keep matches, lighters, candles out of the reach of children.

- * Avoid smoking near flammable decorations.

- * Make an emergency plan to use if a fire breaks out anywhere in your home. See that each family member knows at least two escape routes.

- * Avoid wearing loose flowing clothes—especially long, open sleeves—near the open flames of a fireplace, stove, or candle-lit table.

- * Never burn candles near evergreens on a mantelpiece or table. Burning evergreens in the fireplace can be hazardous. When dry, greens burn like tinder. Their flames can flare out of control, sending sparks flying about a room.

- * Plan for safety. Remember there is no substitute for common sense. Look for and eliminate potential danger spots near candles, fireplaces, trees, electrical connections.

Shortcuts Make Holiday Cooking Simple Fun

It's the season for impromptu invitations to "just stop by later in the day." Now is the time to collect simplified make-ahead desserts that are perfect with coffee and conversation.

You'll be glad you prepared a Pistachio Pecan Freeze that's stashed in the freezer just waiting to be served and enjoyed.

Simply combine ½ cup finely chopped pecans, 2 tablespoons sugar and 1 tablespoon butter or margarine in a saucepan. Cook and stir over medium heat until golden brown. Drain on absorbent paper; cool and break into small pieces.

Prepare 1 package (4-serving size) pistachio flavor instant pudding and pie filling with cold milk according to package directions. Fold in about half the nut mixture. Spoon into 4-ounce paper souffle cups, sprinkle with remaining nut mixture and freeze until firm. (Or, freeze the mixture in an 8X4-inch loaf pan.) This makes about 4 or 5 servings.

NEW SHIPMENT—JUST ARRIVED

Tot's Telephone Talk Tries Mother's Patience

BY GINA JENNINGS

I believe if Alexander Graham Bell had just once had to talk to a six year-old on the telephone, he would have scrapped his invention and started work on erasable ink for the quill pen.

Anyone who has ever had the opportunity to converse by phone with a child between the ages of four and seven knows the agony and embarrassment it can cause. (This excludes grandparents, of course, who live in a peculiarly distorted world where everything can be catalogued as either cute or adorable.)

I suppose of all the mistakes I have made in my life (6 or 8 of them at least) the biggest was when I told my children, "If you need me you can call me at work."

I will regret those words until my hair turns gray and falls out, which at the rate of two phone calls a day, gives me about six months.

They always seem to call when a customer or co-worker is near enough to overhear my end of the conversation. All the while trying to keep some semblance of professional dignity they will hear me say something like this:

"Yes, this is Mommy. I knew it was you because you're the only one who calls here and asks for Mommy."

"No dear, you don't need a snack."

"I really don't think you'll starve to death..."

"Well, then I'll put a flower on your grave. Mommy needs to get back to work now..."

"Stop crying. I was just kidding, you're not really going to die."

"Well, yes someday...no-body lives forever. But you won't die today anyway..."

"No, probably not tomorrow either. Trust me. Mommy needs to get back to work now."

"I said Mommy's got to get back to work now...I SAID... Why can't you hear me?"

"I don't care what Johnny Harvey said, you don't have secret eardrums under there."

"I SAID...just get the phone out of your armpit and put it back on your ear so you can hear me."

"Well, you can't believe everything Johnny Harvey says, he's a little sick in the head."

"What do you mean 'it's his chocolate milk?'"

"I wasn't talking about him throwing up in the lunchroom, I meant...oh, never mind."

"Well, mommy needs to get back to work now."

"Okay, I don't care. If you have the money you can go buy a milkshake."

"They cost 50 cents."

"What do you mean you only have a dollar? 50 cents is a half dollar."

"What are you doing?"

"Which half? No, don't tear it..."

"I said don't tear it! 'There's some Scotch tape in the top drawer there. Well, mommy's got to get back to work now."

"Bye, honey."

"No, I don't want to say goodbye to the kitty."

"I said I don't...Honey? Honey? Come back to the phone, Mama needs to hang up now...Honey?"

"Hello kitty...nice kitty..."

And so it goes day after day. Boy would I like to get my hands on Alexander Graham Bell.

Council Works On Improving Lunches

A new state requirement for improving school lunches has been activated in Haskell. Fourteen students and two adults were chosen to suggest menus, make posters and work to improve school lunches.

This advisory council met recently to provide suggestions for improvement of the school lunch operation. The council represents the entire student body.

The members of the council include Renee Kutsehmer, Michal Iley, Mary Lehrer, Wayne Geilhausen, George Watson, Mrs. Inez Gholson and Mrs. Golda Colbert. They were chosen by Bill Blakley, elementary principal; Clayton Neal, junior high principal and Miss Betty Sadberry, lunchroom supervisor.

According to Miss Sadberry, "Certain guidelines are set by the government as to how the school lunch program is to be handled. We try to utilize government commodities, keep cost to a minimum and serve a balanced lunch. We are limited to some extent because of equipment. We try to serve foods the students will like."

Elementary students who are studying nutrition were encouraged to submit menus they would like to have served in the cafeteria. The freshman homemaking classes have also submitted some menus that were served last week.

The advisory council will meet three times a year.

Big Words No Problem At UIL Spelling Meeting

Magniloquent, phantasmagoric and sesquicentennial were just a few of the words tossed around at the recent UIL spelling meeting held Nov. 25.

Thirteen students have begun working on the 1980-81 spelling list for competition in the early spring.

Mrs. Cathy Jones, sponsor, distributed contest materials to the students and the first meeting was held Nov. 25.

Students participating are Elaine Acosta, Melissa Brown, Paul Cox, Donna Hill, Kathy Kemp, Tina Morris, Rochie Reddell, Laurie Reynolds, Gena Sonnamaker, Freddie Villa, Janet Wallace, Julie John Wallace and Shelia Wester.

Students will meet weekly, on Tuesdays at 3:45 p.m.

This contest is not only a spelling contest, but also a plain writing contest.

Mrs. Lynda Burris will be the sponsor for the junior high spellers.

Mrs. Lynda Burris said she anticipates a lot of eager spellers in junior high but will not begin practicing until later in the year.

Christmas Seals Mark 76 Year Fight Against TB

The North Texas Lung Association is currently conducting its 76th Annual Christmas Seal Campaign. Traditionally, NTLA, an affiliate of the American Lung Association, conducts this annual campaign during the holiday season to raise funds to support the fight against lung disease and air pollution throughout a twenty-seven county area.

This year's Christmas Seals are designed by children-kindergarten through third grade from every state in the union plus the District of Columbia, Guam, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands. A sheet of Christmas Seals contains 54 delightful children's drawings, revealing the youngsters' hopes and fantasies about the holiday season.

The story of how Christmas Seals became an American holiday tradition is to a great degree a story of the power of the press. For it was a crusading newspaper, pulling out all the stops, which helped convert a tiny piece of gummer paper into a potent weapon in the battle against the most deadly attacker of the human lungs—Tuberculosis.

Seventy-six years ago tuberculosis was the nation's leading killer. Known also as "consumption" and the "White Plague," it was a world-wide scourge, outstripping wars and famines. But the tiny colored stamp, with the backing of a Philadelphia columnist, was to prove a major turning point in the fight against TB.

The world's first Christmas stamp campaign took place in Denmark in 1904. The idea spread to Norway and Sweden and to other countries, reaching the United States in 1907. Danish-American writer, Jacob Riis, saw one of the unusual stamps on a letter from his homeland. Keenly aware of the tragedy of TB, since six of his brothers had died of the disease, he wrote an enthusiastic article in "The Outlook" magazine, urging adoption of the Christmas stamp idea in this country.

At about that time two doctors who ran a tiny TB sanatorium on the banks of the Brandywine River in Delaware were afraid they would have to close down the sanatorium for lack of funds. One of the doctors, Joseph P. Wales, turned to his cousin, Emily Bissell, a public health worker experienced in raising money for good causes, for assistance. She remembered reading the Jacob Riis magazine article about the Danish Christmas stamp and felt that that was the answer to raising the $300.00 needed to save the eight-patient Brandywine sanatorium.

Miss Bissell, now renowned as the "Mother of the U.S. Christmas Seal," designed the first one herself—a wreath of holly with the simple greeting, "Merry Christ-about tuberculosis for the first time, and this helped to change the prevailing mood of hopelessness. They read about the benefits of bedrest, fresh air and good food, which were the chief weapons for treatment in the days before drug therapy dramatically altered the TB picture.

TB, which is on a much smaller scale today, is declining in the United States, but, because of a recent influx of refugees, the TB rate here is declining slower than it has in the past decade.

The persistent problems of TB are still a concern of the North Texas Lung Association, but the Christmas Seal drive is now geared to meet the needs of a program much more vast in scope than the Brandwine TB sanatorium and the first Christmas Seal Appeal.

Though Christmas Seals are seasonal they work year round to insure healthy lungs and a clean environment. Information concerning TB and other Lung Disease can be obtained by contacting the North Texas Lung Association—the Christmas Seal People.

No Waste Budget Savers Help In Economic Crunch

"Terrific tidbits" for "terrible budgets" are one answer to the economy "crunch," starting with this motto: "Use it up, wear it out, make it do, do without."

Start with some workable ideas from Bonnie Piernot, a family resource management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System—then add your own ideas.

Soap Saves

Make your soap save money. Melt leftover bar soap by heating it in a microwave oven—place it on wax paper and heat it until it's soft, remove it and carefully shape it into one large piece of soap. It will harden quickly.

Or make liquid hand cleaner by placing leftover pieces of bar soap in a jar with a small amount of water.

Salvage 'Retired' Clothing

If spots and stains have "retired" some of your clothing, try these salvage steps: Remove ballpoint ink by applying a generous amount of hair spray, then rub gently with a clean, dry cloth.

Remove grease on double knits by applying club soda to the spot.

To eliminate white hem lines on old blue jeans, mix permanent blue ink with water and apply it to the jeans with a

Take Inventory

Avoid the temptation to buy more appliances—take inventory of those you already own. Many probably will do lots of the same household tasks as new products.

Spend a few minutes reviewing instruction booklets that came with your own appliances. Re-reading the booklets will refresh basic information—and give you new ideas.

Don't buy products on impulse. First, ask yourself, "Can I do without it?"

Many impulse purchases turn out much less suitable than they seemed at first.

mas." Two friends loaned her $40.00 to make a start and a sympathetic printer extended credit and printed 50,000 stamps in bright red on white paper. Businessmen told Miss Bissell it would never work. Postal authorities drew the line against permitting the Seals to be sold at stamp windows (as in Denmark). But on December 9, 1907, the first American Christmas Seal went on sale at a penny apiece in the lobby of the Wilmington post office, with Miss Bissell making the first purchase.

Sales moved too slowly, however, and it seemed that saving the Brandywine Hospital shack might be a lost cause after all.

Miss Bissell was a woman of determination, however, and she boarded a train for Philadelphia to enlist the support of that city's leading newspaper, The North American. At first she was turned down. She decided that while she was there she would pay a call on the popular young writer of the "Optimist" column, Leigh Mitchell Hodges. Excited by her story and what he saw as a "way to wipe out tuberculosis," Hodges convinced the paper's editor to help. The Editor ordered the entire Christmas stamp printing and asked for more.

"You'll see what a big newspaper can do for a good cause," he told Miss Bissell, promising to help publicize the stamps. Through the newspaper stories, the general public learned some of the facts

Recipe Ideas Are Quick Help For Holiday Parties

Holidays bring out the visitor and party-giver in all of us and these parties are among the best of the year. It's a perfect time to open your house to friends and neighbors for a cup of Christmas cheer and some special holiday treats.

Hot hors d'oeuvres are always welcome. Along with cocktail franks wrapped in bacon, and hot shrimp, a platter of Stuffed Mushrooms is hearty and inviting. It adds a nifty touch to any open house get-together and is so easy to put together you'll use the idea over and over throughout the year.

Fill 18 large mushroom caps with prepared Stove Top chicken flavor stuffing mix made according to package directions. The stuffing is ready in minutes and the delicate blend of herbs and seasonings provides a wonderful flavor for the mushrooms.

Arrange the mushrooms in a shallow baking dish, drizzle with 3 tablespoons melted butter and place in preheated broiler for 5 minutes. Hot appetizers for a cold night!

When unexpected company descends and the leftover holiday turkey needs to be stretched, reach for colorful fresh vegetables and a package of Stove Top chicken flavor stuffing mix. A choice of three medium yellow squash, zucchini or green peppers is colorful and appropriate for the holidays.

Fill them with hearty, flavorful stuffing topped with shredded cheddar cheese, pine nuts or yogurt sprinkled with paprika—made to order for a last minute buffet item.

Parboil vegetables, which have been halved and seeded, in boiling water—about 3 to 4 minutes. Drain well and reserve 1 1/2 cups liquid. Place vegetables in greased shallow baking dish and proceed to prepare the stuffing which is ready in minutes.

In a large bowl place contents of the vegetable/seasoning packet with 1/2 stick (1/4 cup) of butter, cut in pieces. Add hot measured liquid, stir to blend and partially melt butter, then add the stuffing crumbs and let stand 5 minutes.

Spoon stuffing into vegetable cavities, add 2 tablespoons of topping and bake at 400° for 20 minutes. While the vegetables are baking, there's just time to heat the turkey in gravy or cream sauce and supper for six is ready.

Five Flavors Add Variety To Cake

2 sticks butter or margarine
1/2 cup vegetable shortening
3 cups sugar
5 eggs, well beaten
3 cups all-purpose flour
1/2 tsp. baking powder
1 cup milk
1 tsp. Coconut Flavor
1 tsp. Rum Extract
1 tsp. Butter Flavor
1 tsp. Lemon Extract
1 tsp. Vanilla Extract
Cream butter, shortening, and sugar until light and fluffy. Add eggs, which have been beaten until lemon colored. Combine flour and baking powder and add to creamed mixture alternately with milk. Stir in flavorings. Spoon mixture into prepared 10" tube pan (the Bundt pan must be 10" or hold 12 cups; an angel food pan may also be used) and bake at 325° for 1 1/2 hours or until cake tests done. Add glaze if desired. Cool in pan about 10 minutes before turning out.

GLAZE

1 cups sugar
1/2 cups water
1 tsp. each: Coconut, Rum, Butter, Lemon, Vanilla and Almond Extracts.
Combine ingredients in heavy saucepan. Bring to boil, stir until sugar is melted. Pour on one half of the glaze while cake is in Bundt pan, and the other half when removed.

Agonies Of Shopping By Mail May Outweigh Advantages

Mail-order business breathes new life today as gainfully employed women and high gasoline prices have "joined forces" to make it a "booming business."

However, mail-order agonies still overshadow any convenience or energy savings for the consumer who shops by mail, says Bonnie Piernot, a family resource management specialist.

Mrs. Piernot is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

If you choose to shop by mail, be at least as wise a shopper as you are in a store, the specialist advises.

And follow these smart-

shopper guidelines:

1) Order at least three to four weeks before the delivery date you have in mind.

2) Be explicit in your instructions. Be sure to include your name and any other information required.

3) Read the description of the article to check the size, dimensions, weight and contents. Do not rely on a picture of the item.

4) Check the conditions of the sale.

Are the products guaranteed to satisfy? What will the company do if you are not satisfied?

What must you do to get the satisfaction fulfilled—such as saving a copy of the receipt or the shipping label?

5) Inspect all mail-order packages immediately upon receipt to be sure no parts are missing—and to confirm the contents in general.

If you should encounter difficulties resolving a mail-order problem through the usual procedures, contact the new U.S. Postal Service Consumer Protection Specialist for the state of Texas: Inspector D.C. Swindle, Consumer Protection Specialist, P.O. Box 1230, Fort Worth, Tx. 76101—or write the Direct Mail Marketing Association, Consumer Service Director, 6 East 43rd St., New York, NY 10017.

Human Hair Found To Repel Deer

The list of unusual deer repellents just keeps growing. Now researchers report that human hair appears to be repugnant to deer.

Seligman & Latz, Inc., which operates a chain of beauty salons, is funding research by the N.Y. Botanical Gardens' Cary Arboretum. The scientists obtain hair clippings from salons and barber shops, wrap handfuls with nylon netting and tie them with string to trees and shrub branches. The arboretum says that the hair balls seem to repel deer at a distance of 1 meter.

The research will examine the effectiveness of various types of hair, the period of effectiveness of each hair ball and appropriate packaging and application methods for different kinds of trees and plants.)

Unlike most repellents now in use, human hair is inexpensive, fully biodegradable, easy to maintain, and now that short hair is coming back in style—very available.

Sales Advertisements Can Cause Consumer Confusion

Don't let "sales" advertisements cause confusion, says Claudia Kerbel, a consumer information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Know your rights and the store's rights, the specialist advises.

For example, the Texas Deceptive Trade Practices Act requires retailers to have a reasonable quantity of an advertised sale item to meet the expected public demand.

Stores can advertise that a limited quantity of the item is available at the reduced price, of course.

Therefore, consumers that try to buy at the end of a sale may just be out of luck if the reasonable quantity is sold out.

New Rule On Trial

UIL is trying a new experiment in basketball this year. It is called the free-throw violation. Players are allowed to step into the lane when the ball is released from the shooter's hand.

Coach Bobby Busby said that "the players are able to obtain better rebounding position, but there is more body contact and more fouls."

This rule is to the Maidens advantage because they are very aggressive," said Coach Busby.

Coach Jim (Stick) Raughton feels a little differently about the rule. "I think it's going to be a big mess under the basket. The referees are going to blow the whistle and pick a number."

But he also said that he really can't tell too much about it because he hasn't had a chance to see much of it yet.

Get Results "Go Classified"

On the other hand, if you go to a sale early and cannot buy the advertised item, then it is time to complain to the store manager, the specialist recommends.

Many stores, just as a goodwill measure, will offer

Holiday Sewing Requires Care

From County Extension Agent Lou Gilly

Holiday season is here and sparkle is the fashion.

Look for metallic and sequined fabrics everywhere.

When sewing with metallic or sequined fabric, select simple patterns without gathers or buttonholes. This fabric has a nap, so buy fabric accordingly.

When pinning fabric, insert pins under sequins, not through them. Use tailor tacks for marking.

Use shears that are well sharpened because these fabrics will definitely dull blades and may eventually ruin the shears.

Make all fitting alterations before stitching. Ripped seams will leave broken metallic disks or a permanent line of stitching holes. Use a fine needle and change often because of dulling.

As sequins break in a seam, pull off and attach new sequins.

For cleaning and pressing, read the recommendations on the end of the fabric bolt. Most fabrics must be dry-cleaned.

Press fabric on the wrong side with a dry iron at a low temperature setting.

To help prevent flattening, cover the ironing board with a terry towel.

Always test a scrap of fabric to make sure the steam will not discolor or melt the metallic disks.

"rain checks" or substitute another item for a sold-out sale item, but neither action is required.

Watch out for the salesman who uses "bait-and-switch" tactics. He will try to interest you in a higher priced item when a sales item is sold out, she cautions.

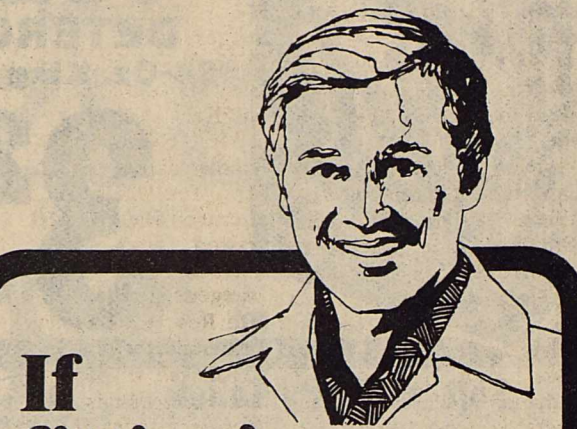

This sales tactic is illegal—report it to the Attorney General's Office.

The important point to remember in deciding whether advertising is fair or not is the retailer's intent.

If the retailer has not tried to mislead consumers and had a reasonable quantity available, then the retailer has met his obligation.

On the other hand, if the retailer intended to mislead and deceive, then this is a violation of the Texas Deceptive Trade Practices Act, Ms. Kerbel explains.

For more information about advertising, call the Consumer Protection Division of the Attorney General's Office. Their toll-free telephone number is 1-800-252-9236, or write to them at P.O. Box 12548, Austin, Texas 78711.

Fruit Jerky Is Simple, Tasty Christmas Gift Idea

Fruit leather or fruit jerky makes nutritious gifts for children at Christmas, says Rose Tindall Postel, a foods and nutrition specialist. They are simple and easy to prepare and make very tasty snacks, she says. Dr. Postel is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System. Prepare this natural-fruit product in the child's favorite flavor of apple, peach, pear apricot or fig.

Fruit Leather Or Fruit Jerky
Use: 8 ounces dried fruit (peaches, pears, apples, apricots or figs).
Cook fruit as directed on package, drain and cool. Puree in a blender or press through a sieve or colander. Cover a 15X10X1 inch pan with foil. Spread fruit pulp in a thin layer. Bake 25 minutes at 300 degrees F. Without opening the oven door, turn off the oven and let dry eight hours or overnight. Peel off foil, roll the fruit leather into a loose cylinder and wrap in plastic wrap to store in refrigerator until it's time to slice for the children.

Glen Jenkins Appears On "Today" Show

Several Haskell residents were up early and watching television Monday when the "Today" show featured students from Gordon High School in Gordon, Texas. Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Lackey were watching specifically for their grandson, Glen Jenkins, a senior at Gordon, who appeared briefly on the nationally televised show. Focusing on small town sports the show explored the differences between six and twelve man football and other facets of student life in the small town. Located in Palo Pinto County, Gordon has a population of approximately 400. According to Mrs. Cecil Lackey, "We had known about it for about three weeks and were real excited. He really just said about four words but to us he's a big star," she laughed. Born in Haskell, Glen is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Jenkins of Gordon who are former Haskell County residents.

UFO's Were Moths

Investigations by two scientists from the USDA have concluded that numerous UFO's sighted in Utah between 1965-68 were probably spruce-budworm moths that were migrating at night. The moths apparently become trapped in atmospheric electrical disturbances that caused them to glow in the sky.

Spike Buck Myth Hurts Deer Herds

The opening of deer hunting season in Texas always rekindles a number of myths and folklore about the elusive whitetail.

One long-standing myth is not only misleading but also detrimental to good deer management in the state, according to Texas Parks and Wildlife biologist Donnie Harmel.

"Many hunters and landowners have held to the opinion that a spike buck (a buck with single antlers protruding through the skin but without prongs or forks) is simply a young animal which will grow into a trophy-sized buck if given another year or two of growing time," Harmel said.

This long-standing tradition of over-protection of spikes is damaging, Harmel said, because recent studies at the Kerr Wildlife Management Area in Kerr County have conclusively shown that spikes are nutritionally and genetically inferior to bucks which have forked antlers in their first year.

This means that hunters have been protecting the bucks which will perpetuate the characteristic of small antlers and body size in the herd, Harmel said.

The Kerr study involved six years of controlled breeding programs which showed that spike bucks produce a high percentage of spike offspring through several generations, even with optimum nutrition.

"For a long time it was assumed that nutrition was the only factor in producing spike bucks," Harmel observed, "but now we can see that while nutrition is the underlying cause, genetics also play an important role in perpetuating the presence of oversized, spike-antlered bucks in a herd."

Even in the face of these findings, spike bucks still are protected by law in some Texas counties. Spikes are protected in counties not under the department's regulatory authority (game laws set by the Legislature), and in five counties whose commissioners' courts voted to disapprove department recommendations to remove deferential protection from spike bucks. They are Kerr, Kendall, Comal, Medina and Real.

Harmel said the continued protection of spike bucks can be compared to removing the best bulls from a herd of cattle, leaving the genetically inferior bulls to perpetuate the herd.

"I would advise hunters and landowners to harvest spike bucks in counties where they may legally be taken, especially in areas where healthy, trophy-type bucks are in short supply," Harmel said. "This would put some venison in the freezer, and also be beneficial to the deer herd."

Returning favor

AUSTIN, Texas (Spl.) — Those on the receiving end of good teaching at The University of Texas want to return the favor.

The student council of UT Austin's College of Liberal Arts has launched an effort to raise $100,000 to endow a professorship to be held by an outstanding classroom teacher. When fully funded, the professorship would be the first ever established at UT Austin through student initiative.

So far, the students have raised $13,000 selling liberal arts T-shirts and other items. They now are soliciting contributions directly from individuals and through mailings.

A Treeful of New Ornaments:

Would you like to give your tree a whole new look this year? But, you are stopped by the thought of the cost. Here's a way to make several dozen new ornaments for three dollars or less plus two or three hours of your time.

You'll need glue, flour, cornstarch, food coloring, cookie cutters and some colored cord or yarn. Measure equal parts of Elmer's Glue-All, flour and cornstarch in a bowl—one level cup of each to make two dozen or more ornaments. Mix and knead until well blended. If mixture is too dry, knead in a drop or two of glue; if too moist, sprinkle with flour and cornstarch, a little at a time.

Roll out a small amount of the dough at a time to about 1/4" thickness and cut into shapes with cookie cutters, jar lids or free-hand. While it's soft, be sure to twist holes with plastic straws, for hanging.

NOV/80
HOLLY BALL adds cheery accent to your tree.

Ornaments will take 12 to 24 hours to dry, depending on thickness and humidity. It is a good idea to turn them once. Then they can be decorated with Glue-Paint, a mixture of Elmer's Glue and food coloring, and allowed to dry thoroughly before spraying with a clear acrylic spray to give them a shiny finish.

NOV/80
LIGHTED TREE decoration is easy to make.

Bell: Cut bell shape with cookie cutter and dangling pieces with a canape cutter. Then cut out center triangle of bell with a sharp knife. Make holes in the top and bottom of bell and in each of the other shapes. Dry, decorate, and again let dry before connecting pieces with gold thread and making gold loop at top for hanging.

Lighted Tree: Cut tree with cookie cutter and twist out holes all over tree with straw (don't forget one at top for hanging cord.) Dry flat. Place dried shape on board covered tightly with plastic wrap. Drip Glue-Paint into holes to make "colored lights" and decorate tree. Dry and peel plastic wrap off back.

Holly Ball: Cut shape with biscuit or cookie cutter. Make hole in top for hanging. Cut inner circles out with smaller cutters or freehand. Dry and place on flat surface covered with plastic wrap. Mix red food coloring with glue and pour into holes, pushing out with a toothpick to be sure it touches all edges of cutouts. Don't move until dry. Peel off wrap and decorate rest of the ornament and spray. Attach gold loop.

Dough left over from cutting out shapes and from holes can be worked together with unused dough, just as you would cookie dough. Also, it can be kept for weeks in a tightly closed plastic bag.

NOV/80
BELL is made with cookie and canape cutter.

Cotton Classing

Cotton harvesting came to a halt this week, according to B.B. Manly, Jr. of the USDA Cotton Marketing Services Office in Abilene. Heavy snows covered the entire area, and cotton in all areas has been killed and will be ready for harvest when the fields dry out.

Around 17,000 samples were classed during the week, bringing the season total to 41,000.

Local prices show little change from last week. Grades below 42, staple 30 are not in strong demand and sell for 28 to 31 cents over CCC loan values. Grades 42 or higher, staple 31 and longer bring 35 to 37 cents above loan values, and the demand is moderate. Mixed lots bring 70 to 79 cents per pound. Quality 5229 with premium mike brings around 67 cents per pound, while 4232 would bring around 80 cents per pound.

Cottonseed prices range from $110 to $120 per ton paid to producers.

The quality of cotton classed during the week ending November 20 shows some changes. Grade 42 was predominant at 41 percent, followed by Grade 43 at 21 percent. Grades 52 and 41 accounted for 14 and 6 percent each. Fiber length showed little change with staple 31 predominant at 34 percent, followed by staple 30 at 25 percent, and staple 32 at 22 percent. Around 10 percent were reduced in grade because of bark or grass content. Micronaire readings continue good with 93 percent within the 35 to 49 range, and 6 percent above 49.

We decided it would be best from an economic basis to close the Monday Office until harvesting operations start again, and Mr. Waters, Officer in Charge, came back to Abilene. It will re-open when harvesting resumes.

SERVING THE BIG COUNTRY FOR 52 YEARS

Superintendent's Views

BY JAMES LANIER
Superintendent, Haskell ISD

I realize this column often seems to be used to pass out accolades for various groups or individuals. However, I feel accolades are in order again this week. Your Haskell County Chamber of Commerce directed their attention toward securing the Quanah-Rotan Bi-district football game for our community. The Chamber, through the leadership of Jerry Jennings and Bill Lane, secured volunteer ticket sales, ticket takers, chain gang, P.A. announcer, scoreboard operators, etc. They managed for the extra bleachers to be moved in on the visitors' side. Pat Hale and his crew handled this detail. The Chamber also hustled volunteer donations for the trophy and the game footballs. Bill Lane met with officials of the two schools to encourage them to come to Haskell for their contest. Bill Comedy provided the coffee and doughnuts for the pressbox. It was a joint effort of many people to make it such a success.

Indeed, it was a success. Numerous people from both towns went out of their way to thank us for our hospitality. The Chamber created a great deal of kind feelings for our community. One Quanah resident made the remark to me that Haskell must be a remarkable town because they are such gracious winners and kind hosts. I most definitely agree.

What does this gain for our community? In the way of concrete monetary returns, the Indian Booster Club sold programs for a neat profit. The Band Booster Club had the concession stand in which a good profit was made. Many fans from both towns ate at our cafes and filled their vehicles at our service stations. Our name was on all the wire services. Probably the most important thing we gained was the good will and reputation as a gracious host and progressive community. Keep up the good work, Chamber! Efforts such as this will surely secure growth for our community which in turn will help solve the school's problem of declining Average Daily Attendance.

Two other people who deserve recognition even though they are not in the Chamber are Coach Jim Baldwin and Elton Culberth. They plowed the snow off the playing field to make the turf a dry, fast surface for the Bi-district clash. Coach Baldwin and Johnny Pedroza lined the field.

The Haskell ISD Board of Education will meet at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, December 9th at the Administration Building. Among the items on the agenda are study of the 5 year improvement plan in reading under the accreditation program and the leaky roof at the elementary school.

Your prescription and you

By Sue Boe, Assistant Vice President, Consumer Affairs, Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association

Q. My doctor tells me there's a medicine that would help my condition, but it's only available in England. Why won't a U.S. company make it?

A. More than likely, it isn't allowed to. Before a medicine can be made available in the U.S., it must have been approved by the federal Food and Drug Administration (FDA), and the approval process takes seven to ten years. Of the 339 new drugs marketed worldwide between 1973 and 1977, 74 were discovered in the U.S.; yet only 18 were first introduced in our country. So the medicine you need that's available in England may actually have been developed by a U.S. firm that is still waiting for clearance here!

On the other hand, sometimes a company does decide not to provide a medicine in the U.S. If there are too few patients who would use it, a company may decide to limit its research and development efforts to a medicine that is more widely needed. Total development of a new drug costs on average $70 million and the seven-to-ten years approval delay is directly subtracted from patent life; so a company must choose research investments carefully or it may be unable to cover its costs. If proposals before Congress to restore lost patent life are accepted, there will be better chances for products with few users to be produced in our country.

For tips on purchasing medicines, write for our free booklet, "How to Buy Prescription Medicines." Send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to PMA, 1155 Fifteenth Street NW, Washington, DC 20005.

GOVERNOR'S REPORT

by William P. Clements Jr.

Early this year, with support of the Lieutenant Governor and the Speaker of the House of Representatives, I established by executive order a long-range planning project called Texas 2000.

Texas state government, oddly enough, has never had such a long range plan. It has reacted to crisis, rather than evaluate and prepare for those problems and challenges which lie ahead in a growing, dynamic state.

The aim of Texas 2000 is to bring into focus the issues of paramount importance confronting us as we move into the eventful last decades of the 20th Century.

Our staff for this study is made up of personnel from the Governor's Office and the Texas Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations. We are receiving cooperation from our great educational institutions, other state agencies and the private sector. Director of the project is Dr. Victor Arnold, an associate professor of the Lyndon B. Johnson School of Public Affairs at The University of Texas. Dr. Arnold managed a similar project in Minnesota.

To fulfill its purpose of providing basic services that permit our people and business to thrive, it is imperative that state government look to the future and map a wise course.

The dramatic population and economic growth which Texas has experienced is expected to continue throughout the Century. The more than 13 million people living in Texas today represent an increase of 3.8 million during the last 20 years. But by 2000, as many as 21 million may be living in our State. During the 1970's, 46 percent of the increase in Texas' population was attributed to people moving in from other states. Only nine percent moved here from other states in the 1960's.

Our state and local government expenditures in 1960 were 2.4 billion, but by 1977, state and local governmental spending had jumped to more than $13 billion. And state government alone this year will spend more than $10 billion.

The impact of such change must be carefully assessed if we are to continue providing the services our citizens expect and deserve, increase productivity, maintain a healthy state economy and encourage better use of state funds.

Our challenge is to preserve a climate that encourages growth and, at the same time, to prepare for those changes that inevitably accompany it. We must assure that our resources are used productively and carefully, that the services provided by government are essential and economical, and that the quality of life in Texas is preserved and improved.

Texas 2000, in helping us meet this challenge, will move through three phases.

Phase 1 consists of developing a body of reliable information about the state's population, economy, natural resources, public finances and other areas. This information covers the last three decades of our growth to the position of their most-populous state and one of the most industrial in the nation. A 250-page published version of this compiled data was released a few weeks ago.

Phase 2 will see the preparation of a series of research reports with the help of task forces of experts drawn from government, education and the private sector. The reports will highlight major issues Texas will face in the future and will form a basis for work of the Texas 2000 Commission which will provide a forum for discussion of critical issues and a mechanism for determining appropriate action.

Phase 3 will begin with my appointment of the Commission which will make its final report by the end of next summer. That report will point the directions Texas should follow during these next 20 years—to 2000.

Texas 2000 will establish a comprehensive data bank for the state—an information system which can be updated annually and used for both public and private planning purposes. That kind of solid common data base will greatly enhance our ability to project and plan for the future, for five years, 10 years, 20 years.

I am confident of its worth. It may well be one of the most-powerful accomplishments of my administration. It will serve our state well through planning now to enable Texas to fulfill the rich promise of the future.

Best Holiday Gifts Pay for Selves

During economic periods when every dollar has to pull its weight, holiday gift shopping takes a turn toward items that can save more than they cost.

Examples are home shop tools, auto maintenance products, sewing machines, pressure cookers for canning and outdoor power equipment.

Good examples of "saving" products are power chain saws. Popular models ranging from about $95 to $200 or more can earn their keep during the first few weeks of use.

By performing his own simple pruning and debris clearing, a chain saw owner can save costs ranging from $20 to $35 an hour, depending on the area and the kind of service required.

Firewood is a stellar example of making a profit on a chain saw investment. A purchased cord of wood can cost between $60 and $150, depending on the area of the country, the type of wood and service options such as delivery and stacking.

With the rise in fuel oil prices, wood fuel has dramatically gained in popularity through many areas of the Northern U.S. Depending on its burning characteristics, a cord of firewood can replace 100 to 150 gallons of fuel oil.

The time and effort saved with a chain saw over hand sawing is substantial. The quarter cord that can take a full day to saw by hand can be handled in about an hour with a chain saw.

The range in chain saw prices reflect variations in cutting capacity, engine power and special convenience features. A typical under-$100 saw will have a two-cubic-inch engine and a 10-inch bar and chain and will be adequate for weekend firewood cutting and most pruning jobs.

Serious firewood cutters may prefer a more powerful saw, such as McCulloch's Pro Mac 610, which has a 3.7-cubic-inch engine, professional features such as electronic ignition and anti-vibration system and offers a choice of 16 or 20-inch bar and chain. Suggested retail price of the 16-inch version is $259.99.

Safety is an area where no compromise is necessary. Every McCulloch saw, for instance, includes a complete safety package as standard equipment. Included are chain brake/handguards that help reduce kickback hazards, muffler shields to prevent the operator or clothing from contacting the hot muffler, throttle latches for safe starting and safety triggers to prevent accidental acceleration.

Whatever model chain saw winds up under the Christmas tree, it's a cinch it will have paid for itself before spring.†

GED Tests Set December 6

The General Educational Development Test will be given in the official testing center, the Haskell Junior High Library, on Saturday, Dec. 6, beginning at 9:00 a.m.

The fee for the battery of five tests is $20.00. An applicant is advised to bring his Social Security Number and driver's license for proper identification.

The multiple choice test battery has 5 parts: Writing Skills, Social Studies, Science, Reading Skills, and Mathematics. Three of the tests have an hour's time limit, while two (Social Studies and Science) have a limitation of one and one half hours. Therefore, most examinees take six hours to complete the test battery.

Persons eligible for the testing must:

- be a resident of Texas or a member of the Armed Forces stationed in Texas;
- be at least 17 years of age and officially withdrawn from school for one calendar year. Applicants who have attained their 17th birthday and will enter the Armed Forces may test immediately after withdrawing from school.

To receive a certificate of high school equivalency, the examinee must:

- complete the examination with a minimum standard score of 40 on each of the five tests OR an average standard score of 45 on all five tests.
- have attained at least their 17th birthday prior to date of testing and be out of school for one calendar year.

The GED Program provides a means for determining the educational level of adults who have not completed a formal high school education.

A certificate of high school equivalency will be issued to adults who successfully complete the GED examination. This verifies that the holder has demonstrated a level of competence on the examination which is equivalent to that of a high school senior.

The Consumer Alert

AUSTIN—To many Texans, fall and winter mean hunting; in these days, a large percentage of hunters are city dwellers who usually have to depend on a hunting lease to give them a place to shoot. There are four kinds of basic hunting lease agreements: "Year round", which include hunting privileges on all species; "Limited duration", which may be for a whole season or just a single week in the season; "Day hunting", in which hunting privileges are purchased daily; and "Guided hunts", which generally are limited to the large commercial hunting ranches and often involve exotic game.

In many cases, a hunting lease is arranged by a "gentlemen's agreement" and a shake of the hand. Sometimes this works satisfactorily, but other times it results in misunderstanding and friction between landowner and the hunter, since neither knows for sure what rights are included with the lease.

For example, a hunter may think he has purchased year round hunting rights, when the land owner thinks the lease is only for the deer season.

A hunter may clear brush, bringing a chain saw in and cutting down mesquite and cedar trees, in order to have a clear view around his deer stand, thinking he had the right to do so. The land owner may think otherwise.

Some land owners complained that hunters drive through pasture land on the way to and from hunting spots. They say it doesn't take long before a road is cut and erosion and destruction of the pasture land begins.

Some hunters complain that they paid their lease fees and didn't get a promised deer. In most cases, however, no guarantee is given by the land owner that a hunter will get his limit. Guaranteed takes are usually limited to large commercial hunting ranches where a hunter may pay only a token fee if he fails to get a deer.

Our attorneys recommend that all hunting lease agreements be written down to avoid possible confusion about what is included. Such an agreement should contain the following: What is leased; name of parties; description of the tract; size, and boundaries; terms of lease; payment amount and when due; duration of lease; what hunters are authorized; what game, fish, birds, and varmints may be taken; what services or facilities are included by the land owner; and who is to provide blinds, cabins, utilities and doe permits.

Our attorneys say the agreement should then be notarized and filed with the County Clerk of the County in which the land is located. A properly drawn lease will be binding on the two parties involved, or on their heirs or their representatives of their estates if one should die. If the land is sold during the term of the lease, the lease rights on the land itself will be binding on the new owners; however, rights to special services may not be. If the lease agreement is lengthy, if a great deal of money is involved, if uncommon goods or services are to be provided, or if the parties want all terms of the lease to be binding on future owners, it would be wise to have a private attorney look over the agreement or draw one up.

Ed Harris Elected Vice President Of American Student Dental Ass'n.

University of Texas Dental Branch Senior, J. Edward ("Ed") Harris, has been elected 1st Vice-President of the American Student Dental Association (ASDA) by Delegates from all 60 U.S. Dental Schools, meeting in their 10th Annual Session in Chicago in mid-October.

Mr. Harris was elected after serving three years as an ASDA Delegate from the University of Texas and one year as Regional Coordinator for student representatives from Texas, Colorado, Oklahoma and Louisiana.

He also has been a member of ASDA's national Legislative Task Force and a contributor to ASDA's official national journal, "The New Dentist."

Harris ran on a platform stressing the need to promote strong, active, local chapters at U.S. Dental Schools by improving local service programs, increasing membership benefits and strengthening national and regional leadership.

As 1st Vice-President of ASDA, Harris is a member of the Executive Committee and Board of Directors of the Chicago-based national dental student organization, whose nearly 18,000 members include more than 80 percent of the nation's dental students. ASDA is a direct membership organization, with chapters at each of the 60 U.S. Dental Schools.

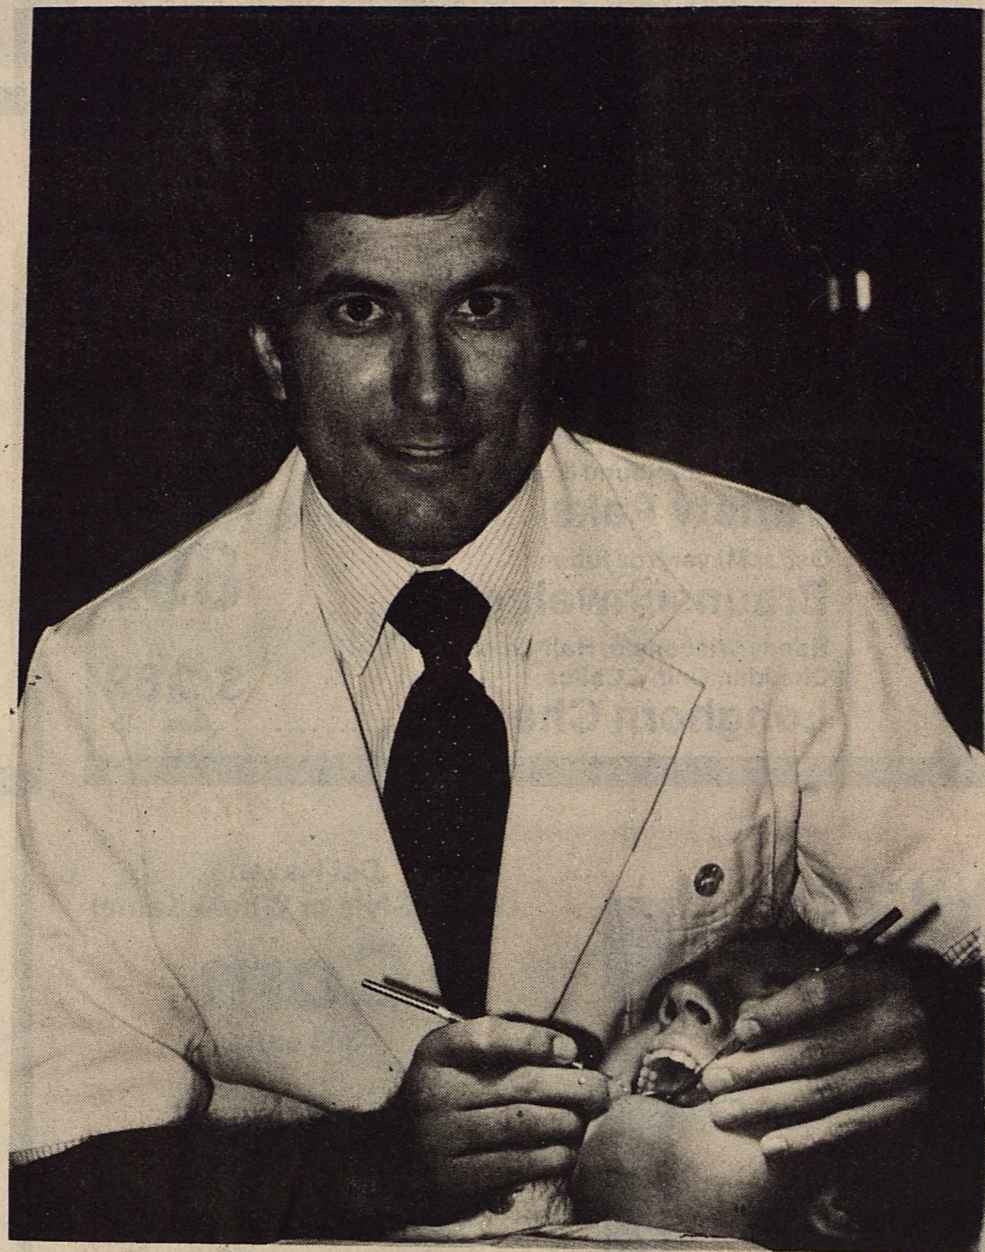

Harris will serve as chairman of ASDA's finance committee, and will play a major role in re-shaping the association's budget process to facilitate long-range planning.

Harris is a native of Haskell where he graduated from Haskell High School in 1971. He completed his undergraduate degree in zoology at Texas Tech, graduating in 1975, where he was active in Sigma Phi Epsilon, serving as President in 1974. As an undergraduate, Ed Harris was

Vice-President of the Interfraternity Council at Texas Tech, and active in intramural sports. He was listed in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities in 1975, and named to Phi Eta Sigma and Omicron Delta Kappa honorary fraternities, and earned the J.E. Zollinger Outstanding Senior Award from Sigma Phi Epsilon in 1975.

As a University of Texas dental student, Harris has served as a Student Council Representative (1978-79) and as a member of the Student Affairs Committee (1979-80). After graduation in 1981, Harris plans a Texas practice.

Community Development Is Stressed By Extension Service

"Dissemination of information related to community development requires Extension educators to keep abreast of what's going on," points out Dr. James I. Mallett, state community development leader with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

"For example," Mallett explains, "Extension community development specialists are continually participating in conferences, workshops, seminars, formal classes and research in their efforts to help people help themselves."

Among recent events in which community development specialists participated were the Southern Regional Community Development Training Meeting, Texas Heritage Conference, National Extension Workshop on Rural Crime Prevention, and the American Community Development Society Meeting.

Specialists attending these activities share information with other Extension staff members, adapt materials for Texas situations, and make them available to community leaders and officials throughout the state, explains Mallett.

"Extension community development programs are aimed at increasing the level and improving the quality of living, particularly in rural areas," points out Mallett.

Meeting changing needs for county facilities and services is a major problem for community leaders and officials, notes the leader. More rural communities have gained than lost in population since 1974. Some communities have experienced "boom town" conditions due to energy development from lignite, oil, gas and uranium as well as industrial and economic growth and an influx of retired people.

"The Extension Service is charged with helping Texans and Texas communities," emphasizes Mallett. "The local county Extension agent is the first line of contact for community leaders and officials who seek assistance in solving various problems."

CAPITOL UPDATE

John Tower

U.S. SENATOR for TEXAS
142 RUSSELL OFFICE BUILDING
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20510

One of the first challenges of the new Administration and the new Congress will be to try to bring the economy under control.

The most obvious problems are renewed accelerations of the inflation rate and interest rates. It is essential that action to address these problems be swift and decisive. Further, I believe that controlling inflation is the key to curing most of our economic ills.

To a very large degree, for instance, our unemployment problems stem from inflation in past years. The recession which caused the high unemployment levels to have experienced this year resulted from misguided attempts to control inflation.

The idea behind this method for controlling inflation is that if people are thrown out of work, their loss of income reduces the demand for goods and services, and thus lessens upward pressure on prices. This approach is very expensive, both in terms of its effect on the economy, and in terms of human suffering.

An approach which shows promise of working, and benefitting all, is one called "supply-side economics." The basic idea is to encourage business to invest in new plants and equipment — creating jobs and more goods and services — and to encourage people to save. Savings provide a pool of funds for businesses to borrow when they decide to invest. The bigger the pool, the more likely interest rates are to go down.

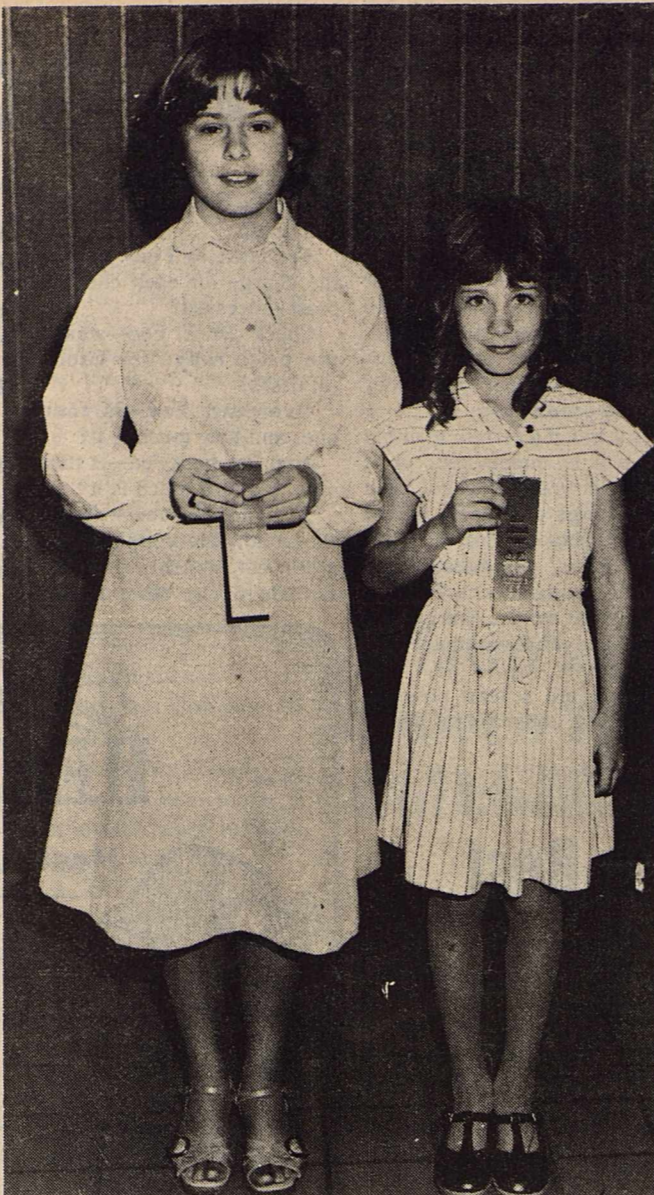

When inflation rates are high, people are reluctant to save because their saved money is worth less and less. In fact, it is rational for people to borrow rather than save, because loans will be repaid in dollars which are worth less than those borrowed.

But when people fail to save because of this inflation psychology, there is less money available for business and government to borrow. This means greater competition for available money, and rising interest rates. Government deficits create still more pressure on interest rates because heavy government borrowing takes more and more from the available amount.

Continuing the vicious cycle, when interest rates are high, business is discouraged from borrowing money to invest in expansion. Ill-conceived environmental and safety regulations raise the cost of expansion still more. So business doesn't invest, and factories get older and more inefficient, sending the cost of goods produced higher.

The key to breaking this spiral is to make savings by individuals — and investing by business — the rational thing to do. This end can be accomplished by making changes in the tax and regulatory environment. These changes must, however, be accompanied by genuine reductions in the level of federal deficits and levels of government spending.

The first effect of these reductions would be to ease inflationary pressures. But equally important is the clear signal these changes would be to the American people that the government is determined to live within its means and combat inflation. This should act to reduce expectations of future inflation, and thereby encourage savings.

Ft. Worth Rodeo Tickets On Sale

The ticket office for the 1981 Fort Worth Stock Show Rodeo will open at 9 a.m. Saturday, Dec. 6, in the west lobby of Will Rogers Coliseum, reports W.R. Watt, Jr., show president-manager. Hours will be from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m. daily, including Saturdays and Sundays.

The rodeo will be presented in 22 performances during the 85th annual Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show, Jan. 28 through Feb. 8. "Rodeo fans are urged to get their tickets early," Watt said. Tickets are priced at $6 for all night and weekend performances, and $5 for 2 p.m. Monday through Friday, Feb. 2-6. Rodeo tickets include grounds admission.

Watt said mail orders are being accepted at the Stock Show office, P.O. Box 150, Fort Worth, Texas 76101. "Mail orders should state the performance desired and include $1 extra for the entire order to cover return postage and handling," he added. Special entertainment for the rodeo has been tied to this country's western heritage and will be presented in authentic western style, Watt said. The program theme is "Flat-Out Rodeo," and will include a singing rodeo cowboy, a world-renowned trainer of Andalusian horses, and the world champion trick roper.

Wayne Vold, a past Canadian rodeo champion, successful rodeo producer, television and country music entertainer, will be appearing at each rodeo performance. Miss Dianne Olds will present her outstanding Andalusians in a "Ballet on Four Legs." Native Texan Gene McLaughlin, a former rodeo champion and movie cowboy, first appeared at the Stock Show in 1944 as a child trick roper.

Neal Gay of Mesquite will again serve as general rodeo stock contractor. He will have several other outstanding rodeo producers working with him to provide the best stock available for the contest here. This year's purse will exceed $185,000.

"We are offering a western heritage package which will be enjoyed by the entire family, and should prove to be the best ever presented in Fort Worth," Watt said.

Livestock show exhibitors are reminded that Dec. 10 is the deadline for entering cattle, sheep, swine, horses, donkeys and mules. Poultry, rabbit and pigeon exhibitors have until Dec. 15 to enter. The show office has entry information.

These Pioneer® brand cotton varieties do well in our area. To be sure you're getting genetically pure seed, buy only certified LX571 from Pioneer. Cotton growers in our area have come to know this variety for its dependability and excellent yield record. It produces fairly long, very uniform fiber with good strength and very good micronaire. And since it's a certified variety from a well-respected source like Pioneer, you can be sure the seed is pure and true-to-variety. No cockle problems. No worrying about low germination or other problems associated with select or caught seed. Certified PR75* — This outstanding newcomer will be in short supply, so don't wait and expect to get some later. PR75 is slightly less determinant and earlier maturing than LX571. And its performance record tells us it'll out-yield the old stand-by varieties in our area. It showed good seedling disease resistance and drought tolerance with outstanding resistance to bacterial blight. We're excited about this one!

Look Before Leaping Into NOW Accounts

Consumers soon will face new economic decisions about banking.

Be prepared for an onslaught of aggressive advertising by financial institutions competing for your checking and savings-account business—and study the ads before making a move, Nancy Granovsky, a home economist cautions consumers.

Mrs. Granovsky is a family resource management specialist on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

There's a reason for all this: starting Jan. 1, 1981, financial institutions will be able to offer interest-bearing NOW (negotiable orders of withdrawal) accounts.

In short, banks will be able to pay interest on checking accounts, AND savings-and-loan associations and credit unions will be able to offer checking-account privileges on savings accounts, Mrs. Granovsky explains.

Credit unions will call their "share-draft" accounts.

A Closer Look
From all reports, institutions are gearing up for this major change in banking services by trying to determine the terms and conditions under which the new accounts will be offered—or, indeed, if they will offer them at all.

Financial institutions are looking closely at the costs and benefits of offering the accounts—and so should consumers.

Consumers should read advertisements and literature from financial institutions carefully, Mrs. Granovsky advises.

But because this is a new type of account, don't expect that answers to all of your questions will appear in the ads.

A telephone call or personal visit will probably be necessary to get the facts you need.

Battle Fires Kindling
Economic crystal-ball gazers say the battle fires will blaze as institutions fight for the consumer's checking and savings-account dollars.

Competition for business will be aggressive, especially in urban areas, they say.

Some experts predict a regular "price war" among competing financial institutions in order to attract new customers and retain old ones.

Consumers Don Armor
How can consumers decide what to do with their "checking-account money" as they don their sales-pitch-resistant armor?

Ask plenty of questions—and compare, compare, compare the terms and conditions offered by financial institutions in your area, Mrs. Granovsky suggests.

Questions Will Save The Dollar
If questions are the "answer" to saving the day's dollar against this battery of ads, then there ought to be specific questions to ask.

Indeed, Mrs. Granovsky says.

First, ask about costs. How Much Does It Cost?

Ask these questions about cost—and remember to compare, compare the answers:

1) What is the minimum amount required to open an account?

2) What is the amount of the monthly balance that must be maintained to keep the account open?

3) How is the monthly balance determined?

Is it the lowest balance in the account, or the highest balance, or the average of daily balances, or is it the closing balance in the account?

4) Is the service free under certain conditions?

Is it free if a certain monthly balance is maintained, or if other services are used, such as savings accounts, credit cards, personal loans, mortgage loans, automated teller or bill-paying services?

5) What service charges are assessed and what are the amounts?

There are several possibilities—ask about them. These include:

Flat Monthly Fee—does the fee vary according to monthly balance or is it the same for all accounts?

Transaction Fee—what is the charge for each check or draft processed?

Check (Draft) Fee—what is the price range for checks (drafts)?

Overdraft Fee—is there one, and how much is it?

Stop-Payment Fee—is there one, and how much is it?

Additional Fees—what is the penalty for dropping below a certain monthly balance? Are there any other fees or charges?

6) Are cancelled checks (drafts) returned with the monthly statement?

If not, what is the charge for obtaining a copy of the cancelled checks?

7) Is postage-paid banking by mail available?

What Are The Benefits?

Next, ask about the benefits.

Ask what the annual percentage rate is.

Ask what the annual percentage yield is.

Ask how often earnings will be compounded: continuously, daily, monthly, or quarterly.

Finally, ask how earnings will be computed: on the closing balance, the lowest balance, each day's balance, the average monthly balance, or on a specific amount only.

Keep On Checkin', Saving?

If the answers don't meet your needs, there will probably be the choice of doing nothing—and just continuing to bank as you always have with your same traditional checking and savings accounts, Mrs. Granovsky says.

Breast Feeding Best For Healthy Infants

An individual grows faster during the first year of life than during any other time. Birth weight usually triples in a year. This growth is made possible by adequate amounts of calories and nutrients.

Breast-feeding is recommended for most infants, says a pamphlet from the American Medical Association. During the early months of life, human milk is the preferred source of nutrients, and it may provide the infant with other health advantages. Nutritionally complete infant formulas are available for use when it is not possible for the mother to breast feed. If vitamin or mineral supplements are needed, the doctor will prescribe them.

Between ages 4 to 6 months, most infants are ready to begin eating very small amounts of semisolid foods. After 6 months of age, a milk diet cannot satisfy all of the infant's needs. Iron-enriched cereals are added, followed gradually by pureed vegetables, fruits, and meats. Milk, however, will continue to be the most important food until the infant is 1 year old.

If breast feeding is discontinued before 6 months of age, it is best for the infant to have an iron-fortified formula. Infants are vulnerable to iron deficiency once they have used the stored iron that they have at birth. Their diets should include good sources of iron: egg yolk, green vegetables, meats, and iron-enriched products.

By 1 year of age, most infants are eating a variety of chopped solid foods and drinking fresh cow's milk. Their appetites and enthusiasm about foods may fluctuate, but many new foods, introduced one at a time and in small amounts, are usually well accepted.

Children need three good meals a day plus snacks, especially if they are very active. Snacks should be small servings of the same nutritious foods needed at mealtime, such as fruits, juices, milk, crackers with peanut butter or cheese, small sandwiches, raw vegetables, nuts, or cereals.

Poor appetites are fairly common among preschool children. The refusal to eat period is a difficult time for parents, but there is usually no cause for concern unless the problem persists.
