TALL TOWER

Work was completed this week on a 512 foot tower west of Haskell for Stereo 95 in Haskell. The new station will be on the air within the next few weeks. The tower is located on the Jud Miller farm west of Haskell and is visible from Haskell and Rule.

Several advantages to living in a small town were emphasized this weekend on a typical Comedy outing.

After the now infamous coyote hunt last fall, I should have known better than to plan another in a long series of failures.

The newest 'adventure' was a fishing trip at Lake Stamford.

The guest of honor was Brian O'Keefe, a native of New York City who recently married my cousin. After growing up in New York City, Brian moved to Houston for several years.

If you overlook a few minor problems, the weekend was a complete success.

Some of the minor problems included things like sending my wife to town while Brian and I put out troutlines. About ten minutes after she left, I realized that she had all the troutlines in the pickup and we couldn't put the boat in the water until the pickup was back.

That night Brian and I went to Haskell and had a flat on his car.

With the flat came Brian's first view of hospitality Haskell style.

Burford Cox loaned us a pick-up to get an air tank which was supplied by Roy Trussell. Up to that point things were going pretty smooth.

The tire was off the rim and could not be aired up; the spare tire was the new temporary type and would not get the couple back home. (A minor problem at 10 p.m. when you're 15 miles from your bed without a vehicle).

Roy agreed to fix the flat the next day and Joseph Thippen furnished a vehicle to get back to the lake.

While I should have expected most of the problems as typical of a Comedy outing, Brian was awed by the cooperative and friendly attitude of the few Haskell people he met.

New York City may have some really fine people, but there's not one on every corner.

Sales Tax Receipts Up From 1980

State Comptroller Bob Bullock Wednesday said 960 Texas cities shared nearly $100 million in city sales tax rebates in February.

The City of Haskell received a check in the amount of $22,442.45 compared to a rebate of $12,350.03 last year.

Bullock said his office sent a total of $91.5 million to cities levying the optional one percent city sales tax.

He said the January-February payments to cities this year is more than $30 million higher than the same period last year. Quarterly sales tax filers—including holiday sales in the last quarter of 1980—generated the higher amounts of revenue to the cities, Bullock said.

Houston's check this month will be for $18 million, compared to a $7.3 million rebate for February last year.

Dallas received $10.5 million, a $5.9 million increase over the same period during 1980.

Fort Worth's check totaled $3.4 million this month, compared to $1.5 million last February.

The team includes such players as Drew Pearson, Danny White, Ed "Too Tall" Jones, Harvey Martin, Rafael Septien and other well known Cowboy stars.

Farm Leader Urges Group To Get Involved Now

"Get involved with AAM, or another farm group, but get involved now" was the message to area farmers, ranchers, and agribusiness people delivered by Alvin Jenkins Monday night at the Haskell Elementary Cafetorium. Jenkins, one of the five original founders of the American Agriculture Movement was in Haskell, from his home in Campo, Colorado, to deliver one of over 1,000 speeches he has made throughout the length and breadth of America.

Sponsored by the Haskell County AAM, the meeting was attended by some 250 interested people from throughout the state. Ken Lane of Haskell addressed the group, welcomed them, and introduced Darrell Fillingim of Hico, who in turn introduced Jenkins, a farmer and gas station operator. Speaking off hand, with no prepared notes, Jenkins held the audience spellbound for over an hour, with a short history of AAM, and the progress that had been made in the past few years. Short excerpts of his speech were:

"We in American Ag did what we set out to do, we set a goal, and worked toward that goal, not accomplishing as much as we had hoped, but did get some attention to some of the problems facing agricultural producers in America today. One of the main goals was to get agriculture on an even keel with the rest of the nation, with 100% parity. No other country in the world can feed itself except America, yet the American farmer has lost 75% of comparable return on investment in the last 50 years, when compared with business and industry."

"It seems that America and the government has become dedicated to doing away with the family farm, because of inadequate prices. It seems as if policies are being set to do just that, we have become so educated that we think that a few thousand farmers can feed this nation, when in fact many places in the world have tried that, and it has totally failed."

"Somebody must take the lead today, in whatever farm organization, to change the direction of America, and in so doing, may be branded as a militant or radical." Relating that many farmers were turned off by the tractorcade to Washington, he did add that many opportunities were gained by having the tractorcade in Washington, and that despite the sensationalism of the national press, many good contacts were made to gain an ear of the politicians to hear the cry of those involved in agriculture.

Continuing on the many problems of agriculture, he added a bright possibility with the thought "Agriculture is the only renewable resource in America, yet we are not using it to gain in the world marketplace as we should. We see seven small MidEastern countries trying to break the finances of the world, yet we do not use our one renewable resource, food, to combat this robbery."

"We should offer them the alternative, lower the price of oil, or we raise the price of our agricultural commodities to the same level. If you say you won't pay it, starve. If Russia decided to invade Poland, tell them the price of wheat is $35 a bushel, and if they don't want to pay it, starve." Jenkins spoke of the effect that the rumor of Russia invading Poland had on commodity prices. "When the rumor came out, the prices fell approximately $1 a bushel on every farm commodity, and has not gone back up. Considering that there are some 15 billion bushels produced yearly, and that each dollar turns over some 7 or more times, the rumor alone cost the American Economy some $105 billion dollars. It's no wonder the economy is in trouble, and Agriculture in particular."

In closing, Jenkins again urged all present to get involved, with whatever farm group they chose to help set a realistic policy on agriculture. He said, "We do not have a farm policy today, it is so outdated it is stupid, yet we producers can't agree on anything to help gain a fair shake, and if we do not get involved, we won't be around to have a farm to worry about."

Other AAM officials present were Keith Crawford of Hereford, State

Coordinator of AAM; James Stir of Plainview, delegate at large; Alden Ellis of Iradell, national editor of American Ag News, and many more from a wide area of the state.

Haskell County AAM President Johnny Wheatley thanked all who came, and especially those who donated door prizes, including the Hayloft and Hale Farm Supply from Haskell.

New Ride Marks Six Flags Opening

The gates of Six Flags Over Texas will swing open for the 1981 season this Saturday, March 7.

That date also marks the public debut of the theme park's new ride Conquistador, the flying ship of Spain.

The half million dollar ride is the focal point of an extensive revamping of the park's Spanish section.

General Manager Ray Williams said the theming of the ride site is the most extensive decoration treatment ever given a single Six Flags attraction.

The 16,000 pound replica of a sailing ship swings like a pendulum in an arc which carries its passengers more than 50 feet into the air, creating the sensations of both weightlessness and freefall.

Six Flags will be open Saturdays and Sundays only during the spring, with the exception of the week of March 15, when the park will be open daily for the spring break period.

Ex-Student Association Sponsors Scholarships

The Jones-Haskell Chapter of the Ex-Student's Association of the University of Texas at Austin is offering a scholarship again this year to a qualifying high school Senior. To be eligible, the student must have applied for admission to the University of Texas at Austin and been accepted for the Fall, 1981, Freshman class.

The size of the scholarship is dependent on the number of new memberships obtained from the two counties. Membership in the Ex-Students Association (ESA) does not depend on attendance at or graduation from UT Austin. All ex-students and friends of UT Austin are eligible for membership.

The University ESA will match each new or lapsed membership dollar for dollar. Cost of membership is $20.00 yearly (single), $25.00 for husband and wife. Membership includes a year's subscription to the Ex's Magazine "Alcalde", season tickets priorities to all football games, 25% discount on UT Press and Business Research publications and eligibility for assistance from the new Texas Job Exchange.

Last year's recipient was Karla Berry of Anson who received a $300.00 scholarship. This year's recipient can receive up to $600.00 because of the matching funds from the UT Ex-Student's Association.

Local Woman Involved In 'SAC' Operation

Air Force 1st Lt. Nancy J. Barnett, whose husband, Lon, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A.W. Barnett of Route 2, Haskell, has participated in Global Shield 81, the Strategic Air Command's (SAC) response to a simulated attack on the United States.

The service member is among the more than 100,000 U.S. Air Force, Navy, Marine Corps and Canadian personnel faking part in SAC's largest, no-notice, 20-day training exercise.

During one portion of Global Shield, more than 500 B-52 and FB-111 bombers and KC-135 tankers took off from 70 different locations in the United States and Guam within minutes of notification. This exercise is not related in any way to real world situations, according to a SAC spokesman.

Global Shield 81 is designed to test the command's capability to carry out emergency war orders to support U.S. policy if deterrence fails. This exercise has been constructed to measure SAC's response to a set of preplanned events leading up to a simulated attack on the United States, the spokesman explained.

As part of Global Shield, some SAC aircraft deploy to civilian and military airfields selected specifically for the exercise. Additionally, B-52s and FB-111s fly low-level training routes approved by the Federal Aviation Administration. The routes were pre-selected to help measure the simulated bombing, navigation and electronic counter-measure skills of SAC aircrews.

Superintendent's Views

BY JAMES LANIER
Superintendent, Haskell ISD

I would like to use this method to thank you of the community for your participation in the open houses held last week. We estimated the attendance at the elementary school at 700 and the secondary attendance at 200. This is great!

One of our priority areas was to draw the school and community closer together. We feel these numbers and interest show progress toward success in this priority area.

Tax Exemptions
(I will continue the series on property taxes this week. Again, I will quote heavily from Ken Graeber, Executive Director of SPTB.)

State Property Tax Board (SPTB) officials indicated that the following categories of homestead exemptions are available:

General Homestead—Those persons qualifying for a residence homestead are entitled to a $5000 exemption off the market value of their homestead for school tax purposes. An additional $3600 county homestead exemption from assessed value is available against the portion of the county tax rate for farm-to-market roads or flood control.

Persons 65 or older—Elderly citizens are entitled to an additional $10,000 exemption off the market value of their residence homestead for school taxes. And, while an elderly citizen's property may increase in value through the years, the school taxes owed in any one year cannot be greater than the amount owed in 1979 or in the first year the property owner qualified for the exemption, whichever is later. An annual application to the school tax office is required.

By local option, school districts, cities, and counties may offer additional exemptions to elderly homeowners of not less than $3000 of the market value of the residence homestead.

Disability Exemption—Citizens who are totally disabled and qualify for the residence homestead exemption are entitled to an additional exemption of $10,000 off the market value of their residence homestead. This exemption applies to school taxes only. A property owner may not receive both this disability exemption and the $10,000 exemption for the elderly.

Disabled Veteran or Qualifying Survivor—Certain disabled veterans or their survivors may be entitled to an exemption ranging from $1500 to $3000 from the assessed value of any property they own. The amount depends on the percentage of service-connected disability.

This exemption may be applied against the value of any property owned on January 1 of the year which the application is made. The disabled veteran must be a Texas resident and complete an annual application at local tax offices. Only one property may receive the exemption and VA or armed forces documents verifying disability are required.

Land which is being utilized for agricultural purposes may be eligible for tax relief. Qualified landowners hold the option of having an agricultural or open-space land valuation applied to their property. Details on what types of land may be taxed on productivity rather than market value are available in local tax offices or in the "Remedies" pamphlet.

We will continue this series next week with some commonly asked questions about property taxation in Texas.

Railroad Museum Discussed

The Haskell County Historical Commission met Feb. 28, 1981 at the Haskell Railroad Museum.

The Haskell Railroad Museum is under the jurisdiction of the Historical Commission and the group took a tour of the building to see what condition it is in. The museum needs a lot of work done on it at this time. The interior needs refinishing and the contents need to be cataloged, rearranged and reorganized.

The museum has a display of many valuable antiques from this area and the railroad and the commission is seeking help from citizens or organizations who would like to help in updating the building and contents. Anyone interested in helping contact chairman Dusty Garison or any member of the Historical Commission.

The next meeting will be March 21, 9:00 a.m., at the Railroad Museum.

The purpose of the program is not to improve the caliber of handwriting but the student's ability to express himself through his writing.

If the Haskell schools choose to participate in the program then selected teachers will be trained by the Education Service Center. These teachers will return and train other teachers in time to implement the program for the 1981-82 school year.

Fruits & Vegetables Essential For Good Nutrition

By Lou Gilly
County Extension Agent
Nutritional Value

All ages need four servings daily from the fruit and vegetable group which contributes minerals and Vitamins A and C. Vitamin A is needed for healthy gums and body tissues, for growth, for normal vision and other conditions of the skin and other body surfaces.

A source rich in Vitamin A, such as dark-green and deep-yellow vegetables and fruits should be eaten every other day. Vitamin C is needed every day for healthy gums and body tissues. A source high in Vitamin C such as citrus or dark-green leafy vegetables should be eaten daily.

Buying Tips
Compare costs for the different forms of fruits and vegetables which have about the same food value and the same use in meals. Consider the number of servings possible from a certain amount of the different foods and see which is the most economical; for example, dark-green leafy vegetables such as spinach and collards are much alike in food value and are good nutritional buys.

Some greens, however, cost less per serving. Usually, fresh produce is cheaper when in season. So buy frozen, dried or canned varieties when these are not in season or are cheaper to buy than fresh produce.

When buying frozen fruits and vegetables check the package to insure it has not been opened. Consider the grade or quality for the intended use, and buy no more than can be used at once or stored.

Less perfect varieties of frozen or canned fruits and vegetables, such as Grade B mixed vegetables and mixed fruits can be successfully used in casseroles or salad mixtures and are just as nutritious. Pie fruit, water packed or packed in syrup, works well for desserts or salads. Leftover vegetables can be frozen for use in soups or stews.

Storage
Wash, trim and store fresh vegetables and fruits in plastic bags in the hydrator of the refrigerator. Berries can be refrigerated without washing or handling until just before serving.

Store bananas at room temperature until ripened and flecked with brown. The usefulness of ripe bananas may be extended for several days by placing them in the refrigerator in plastic bags in the hydrator although skins may darken.

Store potatoes, onions, winter squash and pumpkins in cool, dark, dry ventilated places, but not in the refrigerator.

Store canned fruits and vegetables in dark, dry and cool places. After canned food is opened, store unused portions in the can in the refrigerator. Store frozen fruits and vegetables in the freezer or refrigerator freezing compartment at 0°F until used.

Preparation
Prepare fruits and vegetables to retain their nutritive value and appetite appeal. Cook vegetables for short periods of time until tender in a small amount of liquid to conserve nutrients. Trim leafy vegetables sparingly as the dark green outer leaves are rich in nutrients.

When using raw vegetables in salads, add salad dressing at the last minute unless the recipe calls for marinated vegetables.

Sliced fruits or vegetables should be covered in water to prevent oxidation of Vitamin C. Juices rich in Vitamin C, such as grapefruit, orange, tangerine, lemon and tomato, should be covered in the refrigerator to prevent Vitamin C losses. Exposure to heat and air destroys Vitamin C.

Marinated Carrots
5 cups sliced carrots
1 medium onion
1 can tomato soup
1 small green pepper, optional
¾ cup sugar
¾ cup salad oil
1 teaspoon salt
¾ cup vinegar
1 teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
Cook carrots until tender. Drain and cool. Cut onions and peppers in round slices. Mix with the carrots. Mix remaining ingredients well with fork, wire whip or in a blender. Cover carrots with mixture and marinate at least 1½ hours or overnight. Serves 10.

Wilted Spinach
1½ pounds fresh spinach
6 to 8 green onions, diced
6 radishes, diced
6 to 8 slices bacon, diced (optional)
3 to 4 eggs, hard-cooked, diced
Salt
¼ cup vinegar
¼ cup salad dressing
Wash and drain fresh spinach. Dice onions, radishes and eggs. Place spinach in mixing bowl and add salt, radishes and green onions. Pour vinegar over the vegetable mixture. Fry bacon until crisp. Pour grease over spinach, tossing continually. Add eggs and salad dressing. Mix well. Serves six.

Sauteed Squash
1 medium onion, chopped
¼ stick margarine
2 cups sliced squash, summer or zucchini
¼ teaspoon sweet basil
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ cup chopped pimiento (optional)
½ cup diced processed cheese
Saute onion and margarine until onion is clear yellow and soft. Add squash and saute until just tender. Season with basil, salt and pepper. Add cheese and cook until melted. Serves six to eight.

Baked Pears in Butter Sauce
6 fresh pear halves, unpeeled but cored
Butter Sauce:
3 cups boiling water
4 tablespoons flour
1 cup sugar
½ stick margarine
2 teaspoons vanilla
Arrange pears in baking dish, cut side up. Mix sugar and flour. Add boiling water gradually. Cook until clear. Add butter and vanilla. Pour over pears and bake in moderate oven until tender. Serves 12.

Safety Practices Can Prevent Child Poisoning

"Children Act Fast...So Do Poisons!" That's the theme for National Poison Prevention Week slated March 15-21.

"An overwhelming percentage of accidental poisonings happen to children under the age of five," points out Dr. Gary Nelson, safety engineer with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. "Much of this is due to the natural curiosity of youngsters and their tendency to put things into their mouths."

In the prevention of child poisonings, safety packaging or childproof containers have compiled an excellent record of success, contends Nelson. Introduced in 1972, safety packaging has helped reduce the number of certain product poisonings by 56 percent.

"Care should be taken, however, not to rely on safety packaging completely," cautions the engineer. "Since childproof containers must be reasonably easy for adults to open, some children will be able to open them as well.

Thus it's important to keep medications and other poisons, even if they are in safety type containers, out of reach of children."

Nelson suggests these practices in addition to safety packaging to prevent poisoning accidents:

1. Keep all household products and medicines out of reach of children. Lock these items up when not in use.
2. Never let toxic products out of your sight when children are near, even if you must carry them with you to answer the phone or the doorbell.

3. Store medicines separately from other household products.

Children's Song Festival Features Texas Favorites

The Children's Song Festival sponsored by the Progressive Study Club was a delightful evening featuring Texas and U.S.A. songs. Participants were entered by various organizations and prizes of $20, $15 and $10 were awarded to the winning groups.

The two kindergarten classes combined their talents to sing Texas songs, recite Texas brags and even included two cheers by "Dallas" cheerleaders.

A little man with a big voice, Marcus Flannery represented the first grades. Marcus and his family are newcomers to Haskell and bring with them unusual musical talents.

"Candy Man," a favorite of all American children was sung by a group of fourth graders. The "Battle Hymn of the Republic" was presented by the East Side Baptist Church Children's choir.

The final presentation was by a group of Texas Gals representing the sixth grades. These girls in their white shirts, blue jeans, and bandana handkerchiefs sang a medley of Texas songs and presented a twirling routine.

Winners were the kindergarten group with first place, the sixth grade girls with second, and third place was won by the East Side Baptist children's choir.

Safety Basics Important When Using Microwave

Microwave-oven owners can better ensure protection against radiation leakage when they know three "safety basics," says Bonnie Piernot, a family resource management specialist.

Mrs. Piernot is on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the Texas A&M University System.

Safety basics include new-oven testing, continual cleaning and door-damage prevention along with precautions for special situations.

Used Oven Leakage Tests
Special cases involve not-new ovens that have been moved, misused, not cleaned--or those that have suffered damage, especially door damage.

These ovens should be checked for radiation leakage by an appliance serviceman or by the consumer using an adequate detector.

Adequate Detector
Only detectors using diodes or thermistors--or an inexpensive detector that uses thin-film carbon resistors on a lighted crystal display(LCD)--work satisfactorily, the specialist cautions.

3) If your microwave has been moved, or if you buy a used model, ask for a radiation-leakage test by an appliance serviceman.

This will cost you a service charge, but the peace of mind and the safety may be worth it.

If you feel you cannot afford a serviceman's fee, you can invest in a leakage detector--but be sure to buy an adequate one.

Facts About Detectors
Detectors using diodes or thermistors will perform the most satisfactorily of any detectors on the market, but they're expensive and they MUST be calibrated regularly by a person familiar with the product, Mrs. Piernot says.

Inexpensive detectors on the market during the past few years have not been adequate, in spite of the advertising claims, the specialist cautions. There is one exception, though. One inexpensive detector that recently became available shows promise, she says. This product uses thin-film carbon resistors on a lighted crystal display (LCD).

Although it is still being tested, it has shown a consistency of response to radiation leakage that other inexpensive detectors have not shown, Mrs. Piernot says.

MORE WOMEN

At the end of the 1970's, about 14 percent of all households were headed by women--an increase over the 1960's of about 57 percent, reports Diane Welch, a family life education specialist.

Mrs. Welch is on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Three 'Safety Basics'
Detailing the three "Safety basics," Mrs. Piernot makes these recommendations:

- 1) In buying a new unit, request a radiation check when the microwave is delivered to the home. Consider this as part of the dealer preparation of the unit.
- 2) Continually clean the door-seal surface EVERY DAY or every week. Bread crumbs, drippings and other food particles can drop on the door seal easily, and this makes an escape route for radiation leaks.
- Keeping your microwave clean and preventing any door damage are the two best ways to assure microwave safety.

Brunch Honors Katie Wooten

Katie Wooten, bride-elect of Darrell Maxey, was honored with a morning brunch on Saturday, March 8, 1981 in the Haskell Bank Community Room.

Mrs. Ruby Wooten, Katie's mother, and her paternal grandmother, Mrs. Alma Collins, joined her in receiving guests. Katie chose an orchid crepe dress complimented by a corsage of orchid and white carnations and baby's breath. Like corsages were worn by her mother and grandmother.

Mrs. Kay Smith of Haskell registered guests. A deep wine colored coverlet over white, accented with a small vase of silk flowers and white plume pen, decorated the registry table. Mrs. Smith wore a soft plum colored blouse and plaid skirt.

A variety of fruits, breads, cookies, sandwiches, meats and nuts was served from two large tables.

Served from the central table was fruit punch, enhanced by an arrangement of silk flowers in the chosen colors of deep wine, orchid, purple and champagne. Two orchid candles stood above the flowers which were arranged in a cornucopia and candlesticks crystal piece.

The crystal centerpiece had been a gift to Mrs. Pat Weaver, maternal grandmother-in-law of Mrs. Kay Smith. Mrs. Smith's mother, Mrs. Gwen Campbell, created the arrangement and purple heart mints for the party table.

The crystal bowl holding the punch belonged to Mrs. Omitene Amonett. Lace cloths over deep wine and purple cloths spread the tables.

The central gift table was covered with deep wine colored fabric and brightly colored by a fresh, beautiful crystal bowl of jonquils from the garden and hand of Mrs. Mozelle Williams.

Hostesses who served and greeted those who attended the shower were: Faye Sheets, Pat Quattlebaum, Dwana Klose, Omitene Amonett, Durenda Brock, Martha Sampson, Flo Holder, Martha Toliver, Elizabeth Stewart, Joyce Davis, Jean Kemp, Kaye Croft, Ima Jean Aycock, Debra Bartley, Kay Smith, Gwen Campbell, Bonnie Jirck, Billie Cadenhead.

Hostesses helping with the party but unable to attend were: Maxine Miller, Pearl Lusk, Kay Morris and Wanda Langford.

Children Of Divorce Have Special Needs

Children of divorce need to understand the arrangement of relationships in their lives--and have help in knowing how divorce will affect them, a family life education specialist says.

Like death, divorce has been treated as "an unpleasant subject to which children must adjust"--often without help, Diane Welch stresses.

Mrs. Welch is on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

It may not be easy for parents to provide the needed help, either, she admits.

Parents are trying to get through their own personal upheaval. Objectivity and patience may be lacking.

Children's Major Needs
Keeping the lines of communication open and honest is one key to helping children understand what is happening.

Parents should make a special effort to provide their children with generous doses of love and warm affection-- along with consistency in behavioral guidelines, routines, and expectations.

All of these are major needs of children. They cannot be overlooked during divorce.

Teens' Special Needs
Adolescents sometimes exhibit more obvious reaction to divorce than children of other ages.

Teenagers have a clearer understanding of what a family is and the mutual love and understanding it can provide for its members.

Divorce may shake the foundation of this belief.

Because adolescents are prone to pass judgement quickly, they may cut themselves off from their parents or side with one.

Sometimes loss of self-esteem and the emergence of self-blame are special problems the teen of divorce faces.

Parents must recognize these and other special problems and help their teens deal with them.

Support Groups Strengthen
Another worthwhile way of helping teens cope with their parents' divorce is outside help from a support group.

An experimental program sponsored by the Family Court of Allen County, Indiana, offered a workshop for children of divorcing parents.

Small group sessions were led by trained and responsive adults.

Children in the group learned about divorce through non-threatening films. They explored the effects of divorce in terms of emotional response, and they had time to discuss their thoughts with their peers.

Most of the youth were pleased with the workshop and said they felt it was helpful to them. Most said they would come again if they had it to do over.

People Helping People: Texas Style
In Texas, most communities have the resources to conduct such workshops for youth, Mrs. Welch says.

County Extension agents who coordinate educational programming based on county residents' major needs are available for group organization--as are church leaders and representatives of social-service agencies, she points out.

"If the need is there and groups are available, parents may wish to encourage participation--the benefits appear worthwhile," she concludes.

PUBLIC NOTICE OF TAX EXEMPTIONS AVAILABLE TO HOMEOWNERS

The Haskell Independent School District tax office is currently accepting applications for residence homestead exemptions. The deadline for filing is April 1, 1981. Applications should be filed as early as possible to avoid inconvenience to the homeowner.

Two types of homestead exemptions from school taxes are available to taxpayers who owned their residence homesteads in this school district on January 1 of this year. First, the general homestead exemption is available to all homeowners and exempts $5,000 from the market value of the homestead.

Second, any person who is 65 years of age or older or who is disabled can be exempted an additional $10,000 from the market value of the homestead. Proof of age or disability may be necessary.

"Disabled," in this case, refers to the definition found in the Federal Old-Age, Survivors, and Disability Insurance Act under the Social Security Administration. Disability is defined as inability to engage in any substantial gainful employment which exists in the national economy, or, in the case of someone who is 55 and blind, inability by reason of such blindness to engage in the employment in which he was previously engaged. The person claiming disability does not necessarily have to be drawing benefits from Social Security.

Homeowners age 65 or older who apply for their exemption will be granted a tax freeze. If application is not made, the tax freeze will be lost for this year.

Application forms were mailed earlier to all homeowners who qualified for a homestead exemption in 1980. If you did not receive an application, or if you have questions about qualifying for exemptions or filing application forms, contact the school tax office at 864-2602.

Application forms may also be picked up at the tax office at the School Tax Office, 605 North Avenue E.

Farmers Need Fair Treatment To Survive

Congressman Charles W. Stenholm told members of the House Agriculture Committee here today that the Free Enterprise System had been "redefined as it applies to agriculture," causing problems with both domestic and foreign marketing efforts.

Testifying before opening hearings on new farm legislation, Stenholm said, "When we face the situation squarely on, we must admit that past farm policy—and therefore the authors of that policy—have redefined the Free Enterprise System as it applied to agriculture. As a result, the American farmer faces the world market not only unaided by its own government, but restricted in its ability to compete against other farm exporting nations who are aggressively supported by their own government policies."

On the domestic side, Stenholm said the farmer has been consistently penalized "by a warped marketing system that forces him to accept an 'end of the year sale' price on his production before one bushel or bale of that crop has reached the elevator or gin.

"In both domestic and world market issues," he continued, "this committee must be willing to investigate the obstacles to the Free Enterprise System and to decide how best to meet the needs of American agriculture through that proven system."

Stenholm told committee members that the new farm bill would be judged "by the American farmer and the American taxpayer—not by how far we proceed from the starting gate, but how close we come to our final goal." That final goal, he continued, was "profitability for the American farmer from the market and an insured supply of fairly priced food and fiber for the American public.

He pointed out that estimated returns to equity for all industry in 1980 totaled 16.1 percent, compared to agriculture's 6.9 percent return. "That's an unfair balance that cannot continue if the American farmer is to stay in business," Stenholm said.

"I am convinced that the farmer, with fair treatment by this committee and other lawmakers, needs only a fair price from the market to survive," Stenholm added.

The committee hearings are the first step in the months-long process of formulating the 1981 Farm Bill, which Stenholm called "one of the most far-reaching pieces of legislation that will go before the House this Session."

Bill Restores Local Funds

BY Rep. W.S. "Bill" Heatley

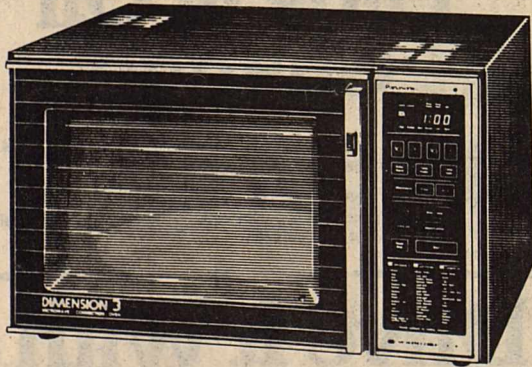

In the first month of this Session of the Legislature, I introduced House Bill 483 that re-establishes payment to the counties of Texas the amount that they heretofore received from the Lateral Road Fund. This money was appropriated in the last appropriation bill but was vetoed by the Governor after we adjourned in 1979. Senator Farabee introduced this same bill and Senate Bill 151 has now passed both the House and the Senate in excess of the two-thirds vote. It will go to the Governor for his signature, and I understand that he has committed himself to sign it, and then the counties can receive their proportionate part.

I am delighted that we were able to restore these funds, and the fifteen counties in District 101 will receive $793,691.10. I am sure this will be of interest to the Commissioners' Court and other citizens in my District.

Haskell County will receive $35,101.35 in October, 1981, and approximately $11,700.45 each year thereafter.

Collins Says Committees Too Big

In an unprecedented move, Congressman Jim Collins of Texas has outlined budget cut proposals for congressional committees' supplemental staff funding. This spending has grown seven times over in the past decade and Collins estimates his proposals, if adopted, would save the American taxpayers $17.4 million.

"Congress can set an example to the rest of the country by cutting its own overbudgeted and overstaffed committees. These funding resolutions will be the first major spending measures the House will vote on, and the question is: will the congressmen stand up for their country or will they stand up for their committees?" Collins said.

Every standing congressional committee is allotted 30 permanent staff members and funds for them. In addition to these permanent staff, Congress allows committee chairmen to hire supplemental staff and fund them through "investigations and inquiries" funding resolutions. It is these supplemental staff that Collins wants to cut.

"Most congressmen are hesitant to cut back the size of their own committees, but my committee—Energy and Commerce—is, frankly, vastly overstaffed. In 1974, 58 staff were employed by the Commerce Committee. The 1980 figures show that now there are 146 staff employed by this same committee. I would propose that 73 investigative staff be cut which would still leave 73 total staff. The saving—$2.4 million," Collins said.

Some of Collins' other recommended budget cuts:

District of Columbia: "The House D.C. Committee employed 41 staff in 1980. In the Senate, D.C. is handled by a subcommittee with only seven staff. Both chambers of Congress deal with the same legislation on D.C. affairs. We must also remember that D.C. now has home rule. I propose eliminating all 11 supplemental staff which would save $289,670, and still gives the House four times as many total staff as the Senate."

Education and Labor: "In 1980 they had a staff of 135; this should be cut by 84 which would save over $2 million. Armed Services operates on a total staff of 50 and there is no reason that Education and Labor should be bigger. After all, during the 96th Congress this committee reported fewer bills than Armed Services although it had almost triple the staff."

Merchant Marine and Fisheries: "Only Seven years ago this committee had just 22 total staff, in 1980 it had 88. This is 38 more than the Armed Services Committee employs. I propose that 55 supplemental staff be taken off congressional payrolls which would save 1.5 million in tax dollars.

Rules: "This committee is a prime target for budget trimming. In 1950, the Rules Committee had three staff members, by 1973 it employed seven. Now it employs 45. I propose cutting all its supplemental staff. This would still leave Rules 30 permanent staff positions, more than four times the 1973 staffing level. This cut would save the taxpayers $530,000."

"The support for cutting these supplemental and costly staff is building every day. This year I feel confident that we will reduce the overgrown funding levels for many of these committees," Collins said.

Student Benefits Vary With Income

Social Security beneficiaries who are drawing benefits because they are over age 18 and are full-time students, are responsible for promptly reporting events which can affect the payment of their benefits. The Social Security Administration should be notified by the student if the student marries, stops attending school, reduces school attendance below full-time, changes schools or is paid by an employer to attend school.

Student benefits may end if any of these events occur and the students is required to report each of these events even if he believes benefits should not end. The social security office will advise the student if additional evidence is needed and how the benefit may be affected. Failure to promptly report can result in an overpayment to the student and the student would then be held liable for repayment of the overpaid amount.

Earnings from work performed while receiving student benefits can also affect the amount of the payment. In 1980 a student may earn up to $3720 a year and still receive all social security benefits. In 1981 this annual earnings limit is being increased to $4080. If the student has earnings over the annual earnings limit, $1 in benefits may be withheld for each $2 of earnings over the allotted limit.

Immediate reporting is encouraged if a student thinks he will have yearly earnings greater than the allowed limit. Early reporting allows the Social Security Administration to adjust the benefits for the excess earnings and prevents overpayments from accruing on the student's record.

If you have any questions or wish to discuss any of these items, contact your local social security office.

AGRICULTURE HERITAGE

Ag Receipts Down For '80

Texas farmers and ranchers won't forget the summer of '80 for a while. The seemingly endless stretch of hot, dry weather took a heavy toll of crops and forced ranchers to market a lot of their stock at low prices, pushing net income down sharply. In spite of all this, total cash receipts from agricultural sales topped the $10 billion mark for the second year in a row.

"Our latest estimates of cash receipts from agricultural products for 1980 put us at just over $10.1 billion," points out Dr. Carl Anderson, marketing economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. "That's down about $280 million from 1979. Still, it means some $37 billion in economic activity generated in the state."

Sales from the livestock sector, including dairy and poultry, totaled almost $5.7 billion last year while crops contributed about $3.8 billion. Another $633 million came from such agriculturally related areas as timber, horses, fish farming and hunting leases.

"Cash receipts from cattle and calves alone accounted for $4.4 billion or more than 43 percent of the state's total agricultural sales last year," points out Anderson.

Despite the serious effect of last year's drought on the Texas cotton crop, King Cotton still contributed $1.4 billion in cash receipts to lead all other crops. While virtually all crop yields were reduced by the drought, higher prices kept cash receipts at a respectable level and helped farmers survive an otherwise disastrous year.

"Due to last year's drop in agricultural receipts, Texas likely will fall back to third place among the leading agricultural states, behind California and Iowa, after grabbing the second spot in 1979," notes Anderson.

As far as 1981 is concerned, Anderson sees an increase in agricultural receipts due to an improved cattle market and stronger prices for most crops.

Each spring, gardeners begin inquiring about what's causing bean seedlings to die suddenly. This is a common problem in all areas of the county and is brought about by a group of soil-borne fungi.

These fungi are present in soil throughout the year but are especially damaging during a cool, wet spring. Once the condition begins to appear, there is little that can be done to correct the problem. However, there are several steps that should be taken to reduce losses from damping-off where this disease has become a problem.

"Rotation" is one of the most important steps to preventing losses from this disease. Never follow vegetables from one group with another vegetable from the same group. Vegetables from the same group have similar diseases which build up in the soil and increase losses each year.

Following is a grouping of plants based on their soil-borne diseases.

Group A
Watermelon
Cucumber
Squash
Cataloupe
Honey Dew Melon
Pumpkin

Group B
Cabbage
Cauliflower
Brussel Sprouts
Turnip
Mustard
Radish
Collards
Lettuce
Swiss chard
Spinach

Group C
Pepper
Tomato
Potato
Eggplant
Okra

Group D
Carrots
Sweet Potatoes
Beets

Group E
Sweet Corn
Onions
Garlic
Shallots

Group F
Beans
Peas
Cowpeas

"Planting on a bed" is a method of planting which will keep the root zone of developing seedlings in a drier, more aerified soil and thus reduce losses from damping-off. Soil saturated with water has a greater tendency to have damping-off problems than soil from which free water drains quickly after a rain.

"Know the soil temperature" at which the vegetable you are planting grows best and do not plant before the temperature is reached. Here are some optimum soil temperatures for seed germination.

Beans—86-95°F
Cucumbers—86-95°F
Lettuce—77-86°F
Okra—95+°F
Spinach—77°F

This is a partial list of vegetables and temperatures at which they germinate best. As a gardener, you should know at what temperature ranges seed will germinate and grow the most rapid. The less time spent as seedlings, the less plants will suffer from seedling disease.

As seedlings develop into more mature plants, they also develop a resistance to organisms involved in seedling disease.

"Seed quality" is important because high quality seeds will grow out of the seedling stage faster if all other factors favor seedling growth.

"Use of Vapam fungicide" will reduce losses due to seedling disease, but this practice is expensive and recommended only as a side benefit from nematode control. Captan is a fungicide that can be used on select vegetables. When using Captan refer to the label for vegetables on which it can be used and the rate per 100 feet of row.

Damping-off is a serious problem in vegetables in this area, but losses from it can be reduced significantly by following the above steps.

Nematodes and their control will be discussed next time.

Brucellosis Vaccine Approved For Texas

One of the biggest news items announced in 1980 by USDA and Texas Animal Health Commission in the new brucellosis program was approval of Reduced Dosage Strain 19 Vaccine. Two major advantages of reduced dosage are (1) the greatly reduced changes of interfering with blood tests and (2) the higher limits in calves, 4 to 12 months, for vaccination.

This is good news for Texas cattlemen. Under the revised Texas brucellosis regulations that went into effect in July, 1980 Reduced Dosage Strain 19 Vaccine is now available and eligible animals can be vaccinated between the ages of 4 to 12 months. Also, it is as effective as the higher dose used in the past. The vaccine is free to Texas cattlemen through local veterinarians.

Recently, a total of 676 accredited veterinarians throughout the state completed a two-day seminar in conjunction with Texas brucellosis program. The sessions were sponsored by the Texas Animal Health Commission, Texas Veterinary Medical Association, and the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Benefits of reduced dosage calfood vaccination are:

- (1) Your vaccinated calves are usually worth more
- (2) Defers the age at which heifers become test eligible
- (3) Opportunity for more freedom in cattle movement
- (4) Increased herd protection against brucellosis
- (5) Increased investment protection
- (6) A once-in-a-lifetime vaccination

Please contact your veterinarian for details of the reduced dose vaccination program. The vaccine is fragile and must be handled under controlled conditions by the approved personnel to establish good immunity. Official ear tags and tattoos must be applied and official records kept and reported by the veterinarian.

Always remember: A good prevention program is better than a whole herd of trouble.

FTA Meeting

Julie John Wallace and Rosa Martinez, members of the local Future Teachers Association and sponsor Cathy Jones represented the Haskell group at the Texas State Teachers Association Convention in San Antonio recently.

The convention, held Feb. 27 through March 1, included two general sessions and several workshops for those attending. Julie Wallace served as district representative to the House of Delegates who met and elected new state officers during the convention.

An awards ceremony was also on the agenda and the Haskell group had the opportunity to enjoy a sight-seeing tour of San Antonio. Local representatives joined with others from Abilene and Breckenridge on a chartered bus trip to and from the city.

Organized in November of last year, the Haskell Future Teacher Association is comprised of 16 high school students whose activities recently have included acting as teachers aides and observation of elementary school classes.

PROCLAMATION

Agriculture has always been one of the economic mainstays of this great state of ours. Before any mechanical, trade, or technological industries arrived here, agricultural roots were well-entrenched in this region as throughout the state.

Since its infancy as a basic means of survival for the early Texas pioneers, agriculture now represents a multi-billion dollar industry, providing jobs for thousands throughout the state and food and fiber for millions here and around the world.

Although the vast majority of Texans live in urban areas, the significant contributions made by those in the agricultural sector have ensured a plentiful and wholesome food supply for all of us. Our farmers and ranchers produce enough to feed themselves, forty other persons in the country and twenty-eight others abroad. We are also blessed in this country with the distinction of spending the lowest percentage of our disposable income on food than anywhere else in the world.

American agriculture is the most efficient among producing nations and Texas agriculture has been and will continue to be an integral part of this spirited achievement. The state's farmers and ranchers continue to strive for increased crop and livestock yields, making Texas a leader, now the second most productive state in the U.S.A.

The U.S. Congress and Texas Governor William P. Clements have proclaimed March 19, 1981, as Agricultural Day to promote a better understanding of the effect of agriculture on our lives and an awareness of our own personal stake in an abundant food and fiber supply.

Therefore, I do hereby designate March 19, 1981, in Haskell County as AGRICULTURE DAY, in honor of the farmers and ranchers in this region, and urge all citizens to participate in special observances of this Day in appreciation of the agricultural industry which strives to feed and clothe our world.

In official recognition whereof, I hereby affix my signature this 19th day of March, 1981.

COUNTY JUDGE

Stamford To Host Quarterhorse Classic

"Opportunity" will be the watchword during the 1981 Rehab Quarterhorse Classic to be held on June 30th in Stamford. This Halter and performance horse sale will kick-off the 1981 version of the Texas Cowboy Reunion scheduled for July 1st-4th.

This sale is being designed to aid quarter horse breeders in their marketing programs. It is open to all registered quarter horses regardless of age and specialty event. However, emphasis of this sale is being placed in performance entries. Quality performance (roping, reining, cutting, barrels) and breeding stock will be given preference.

In order to assure sellers a stable market and buyers a quality offering the Rehab Classic is being limited to 100 entries. Early consignments will receive sales order and catalog preference; so, anyone interested in consigning to this sale will want to make their entries as early as possible. Entry deadline is May 30th.

The 1981 Rehab Quarter Horse Classic will allow breeders a golden opportunity to exhibit and merchandise their breeding programs. But, more importantly it will allow quarter horse men an opportunity to support the West Texas Rehabilitation Center in Abilene. This sale is being sponsored and promoted by Burns-Hutson Auctioneers of Sweetwater as a charitable fund raising activity for the Rehab Center.

From the day WTRC opened in 1953 in Abilene, until the present, tax deductible contributions have enabled the facilities to offer a full range of services to handicapped individuals. Each year thousands of handicapped children and adults are treated at the three Rehab campuses without the added handicap of treatment cost. However, the current inflation spiral has pushed these costs to astronomical levels, which requires even greater financial support today. So, the 1981 Rehab Quarter Horse Classic will permit quarter horse men throughout the southwest an opportunity to support his worthwhile project.

Burns-Hutson will require a $125 per head consignment fee for each entry accepted to this sale. This entry fee will be used to offset the advertising, cataloging and promotion expense of the sale. An additional sales commission of 6% of the final bid will be charged. The sales commission will go to support the

College News

Three Haskell students attending McMurry College have been named to the Dean's List at the college for the 1980 fall semester, according to Dr. Paul Jungmeyer, academic dean of the college.

Haskell students on the list include: Betsy Langford, elementary education major, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M.E. Opitz; Debra Wells, business major, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Wells; and Scharlyn Ann Hudson, elementary education major, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Richey of Goldsboro.

The Dean's List is the academic honor roll made up each semester of those students who have carried a minimum of twelve semester hours and have achieved a grade point average of 3.5 or above for that semester.

McMurry College is a four-year liberal arts institution located in Abilene. It is jointly owned by the Northwest Texas and New Mexico Conferences of the United Methodist Church.

Texas Growing By Leaps And Bounds

Preliminary 1980 census figures point out what most Texans already know—the state is growing by leaps and bounds.

Texas' population is now pegged at 14,150,575, a gain of almost 3 million people, or an increase of 26.38 percent, since 1970.

The new census figures also show Harris County with the largest population in the state at 2,395,365 persons, followed by Dallas County with 1,551,032.

In contrast, Loving County in Far West Texas has the distinction of being the most sparsely populated with only 91 persons, points out Jack Jones, community development specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Counties with the greatest percentage growth from 1970 to 1980 were Hood County, 164.9 percent; Montgomery County, 158 percent; Fort Bend County, 149.4 percent; Collin County, 114.8 percent; and Rockwall County, 104.8 percent.

A further look at census figures shows that of the state's 254 counties, 42 have more than 50,000 people while 50 have populations of 5,000 people.

But, while a number of counties were showing rapid population gains, there were also those that lost people during the 10-year period, notes Jones. Forty-eight counties fall into this category, and 42 of them lie west of a line from Wichita Falls to Laredo.

Final 1980 census figures to be released later this year may vary widely from these early counts, cautions Jones. But the fact that the state is having growing pains is one thing that will not change.

All this means more pressures on cities and communities to provide needed services for their expanding populations, says Jones. The Texas Agricultural Extension Service and its community development programs stand ready to lend a helping hand to community officials and leaders who need assistance in studying problems and formulating solutions.

Funny or Unfunny

BUSINESS AS USUAL. Despite a general 26-percent slash in U.S. Foreign aid funds, Israel has been informed that its $2.2-billion aid package for the coming year will not be touched, officials in Washington have announced. The Israeli aid—the largest single U.S. assistance program—includes $1 billion in military assistance, half in loans and half in grants, plus $785 million in economic assistance. It also includes $400 million in credits for purchase of U.S. weapons. But is Uncle Sam going to be as generous to U.S. territories? Apparently not. The people who live in these regions, which include Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, Guam and American Samoa, may be U.S. citizens but that doesn't seem to count.
