De la Garza said the hearings will be held April 20 at the Abilene Civic Center, 1100 North 6th Street, Abilene; April 21 in the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center, 1501 6th Street, Lubbock; and April 22 at the Villa Inn, 1-40 and Grand Street, Amarillo.

Anyone who wishes to testify at the hearings should notify:

For April 20, Elaine Talley in Rep. Stenholm's Abilene office at Box 1101, Abilene, Texas 79604, phone 915/673-7221.

I hope these hearings in Texas will help give the Committee a sharper view of the situation as our people see it at the grass roots."

Fertilizers Are Major Cause Of Agricultural Eye Injury

Spring time in Texas! It's time to plant and time to fertilize. It's also time-if you work with agricultural chemicals to protect your eyes. If you don't, warns the Texas Society to Prevent Blindness, you risk serious eye injury, even blindness.

"Reports from hospital emergency rooms over several years show that chemicals have been responsible for nearly two-thirds of all agricultural eye injuries," says Elvin J. Schofield, Society president. "Yet with eye protection and proper precautions, 90% of these eye injuries could have been prevented."

"Anhydrous ammonia is the most powerful and dangerous of these chemicals," he went on. "In the soil ammonia means abundant crops; in the eye, however, it can mean tragedy for within seconds of contact it begins to destroy the cells and tissues of sight."

"For this reason, the Society urges that all who work around such chemicals wear safety goggles," he went on. "The goggles should fit snugly around the eye area and have hooded vents that will keep out liquids. For maximum protection a face shield should also be worn over the goggles."

In addition to urging safety eyewear, the Society has other safety tips for those handling agricultural chemicals.

- Study the products' label for correct use and observe listed precautions.
- Thoroughly understand how to operate any equipment prior to use.
- Always store pesticides in their original containers, keeping them tightly closed.

• Always carry at least five gallons of plain water on tractors and other farm equipment. Then, if an accident should occur, flush the eyes with water instantly, continuing for at least 15 minutes, with the eyelids held open.

"Seek medical attention immediately," Schofield stressed. "Delay will only increase the chances of sight loss. Also, never put salves or ointments into chemically injured eyes; they tend to complicate first aid and later medical treatment."

The potentially blinding effect of anhydrous ammonia are graphically presented in a film called "For The Rest Of Your Life." The film is available for loan without charge from Prevent Blindness, 3211 West Dallas, Houston 77019. More information on farm eye safety may

New Beef Needs

Cattlemen must know the changing needs and attitudes that consumers have toward beef before they can hope for beef consumption to increase, says a food and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

High prices have forced consumers to cut back on beef purchases, substitute cheaper cuts, and buy poultry and fish rather than beef. Major changes in society have also affected food consumption, including more items in the grocery store, changes in living patterns, more older persons, health concerns and a growing number of vegetarians.

also be had in the Society's brochure, "Blinding Facts About Eye Safety on the Farm." For a free copy send a long, stamped self-addressed envelope to Prevent Blindness.

The Texas Society to Prevent Blindness is an affiliate of the National Society to Prevent Blindness, the oldest voluntary health agency nationally engaged in preventing blindness through community service programs, public and professional education and research.

Raines County Farmers Rejoin Texas Farmers Union

It was Sept. 2, 1902, when farmers, concerned over high interest rates, manipulated markets and low farm prices, packed a country school house near the tiny community in Rains County to form a farmer's union.

On March 21, members and leaders of the Farmers Union gathered there again, concerned over the same issues as they welcome Rains County back into the Texas Farmers Union and presented county leaders with a charter.

George W. Stone, President of the National Farmers Union, traveled from Denver, Colorado, where the national family farm group is now headquartered to participate in the ceremony.

"Newt Gresham the newspaper editor and farmer who founded the Farmers Union spoke out about the injustices suffered by agriculture. He went from farm to farm on the back of a mule to organize farmers so they could have an effective voice," Stone said.

"Gresham said farmers were hurting and were being manipulated by everybody. He said family farmers needed a voice and an organization to fight for their rights and survival. He pointed out that the founding of the Farmers Union was just the beginning. "As we present the charter to Rains County Farmers Union, I can say that this is just a beginning. The family farm system throughout America is threatened by unpredictable prices, by inflation, by high interest rates, and by lack of farmer power in the marketplace."

"If the family farm is to survive the 1980's, farmers are going to have to be organized and to work together. The organization of farmers in Rains County is an important step in that direction," Stone said.

Stone said the growth of the National Farmers Union in recent years is an indication of the growing concern about the fate of family agriculture.

Most Americans consume less milk and milk products than recommended. Milk and milk group foods, such as cheese and ice cream, are the leading calcium sources essential for strong bones and teeth. In addition, milk supplies the body with high-quality protein, riboflavin and Vitamin A, as well as many other nutrients.

Some milk is needed by everyone. When the food intake for a day contains 1 pint (16 ounces) of milk, the diet usually will supply enough calcium to fulfill the Recommended Daily Allowance.

Children require 2 to 3 cups daily; teenagers, 4 or more cups daily; pregnant women, 3 or more cups daily; nursing women, 4 or more cups daily; and adults, 2 or more cups daily.

Buying Tips

When buying milk, compare the prices of the different forms—fortified fluid skim milk, fortified fluid low fat (2%) milk, fortified buttermilk and canned, fortified evaporated milk. These forms usually are cheaper than fresh whole milk. Fortified nonfat dry milk is generally the least expensive and furnishes about the same nutrients as whole milk, but with only half the calories.

Another milk group food is soft cheese (whether natural or processed), hard cheese and cottage cheese. Cottage, Swiss and cheddar cheeses are often bargains for certain essential nutrients such as calcium, protein, riboflavin and vitamin A.

Purchase low-cost cottage cheese, which is a good source of riboflavin and protein. Each 1/2-cup serving of cottage cheese supplies as much protein as a 2-ounce serving of meat, fish or poultry. Swiss and cheddar cheeses generally are more economical sources of calcium, than is cottage cheese. Buy cheese in 2-pound or larger packages, slicing and shredding it at home.

Storage

Fresh milk should be stored in its original container in the refrigerator after rinsing the outside of the carton with cold water to remove dirt. Never expose milk to direct sunlight because it will develop an off-flavor and lose riboflavin.

Store dry milk packages tightly closed and place on the kitchen cabinet shelf. After reconstituting dry milk, cover and refrigerate immediately. Store canned milk on kitchen cabinet shelf until opened; but then cover and store in the refrigerator immediately.

Always keep cheese covered in its package, wrapped in wax paper, aluminum foil or transparent plastic, and store it in the refrigerator to keep it fresh.

Preparation

In reconstituting dry milk, mix equal amounts of fresh milk with dry milk to improve the flavor. Add nonfat dry milk solids to cottage cheese to increase the protein content. Artificial flavorings, such as chocolate syrup or strawberry flavoring add a delicious flavor to nonfat dry milk for those who find the flavor of the nonfat dry milk distasteful.

Use broken pieces of cheese in biscuits, casseroles and vegetables or in omelets.

Cottage cheese can accompany fruits, salads, gelatins or scrambled eggs.

Heat or cook milk and milk products at a low temperature. High temperature causes the protein in milk to curdle, forming a scum on top and coating the sides of the pan. High temperatures and long cooking can cause cheese to become tough and stringy. When preparing gravies, sauces and puddings, stir constantly during cooking to prevent lumping.

Mexican Relish

2 cups grated cheese
2 tablespoons margarine
1 chopped green pepper, optional
1 pimiento, chopped
1 can kidney beans
Salt, pepper, paprika, cayenne
Hot, buttered toast
Melt cheese in the margarine or butter, stirring constantly over low heat. Add the chopped green pepper, pimiento, kidney beans and catsup; mix well and season highly. Serve hot on buttered toast. Serves four.

dish in pan of hot water (1-inch deep), and bake 65 to 70 minutes, or until knife inserted halfway between edge and center comes out clean. Remove casserole from hot water. Serve pudding warm or cool. Serves six to eight.

Green Enchiladas

1 can cream of chicken soup
1 small can evaporated milk
1/2 pound soft process cheese
1 small can green chilies, chopped
1 small can pimientos, optional
1 dozen corn tortillas
1/2 pound Longhorn cheese, grated
1 cup onions, chopped
Heat soup, milk and processed cheese in top of double boiler until cheese is melted. Add chilies and pimientos. Combine Longhorn cheese and onions which have been cooked until clear. Fill each tortilla with cheese and onion mixture, roll tightly and place in long baking dish. Pour cheese sauce over tortillas. Bake with aluminum foil. Bake at 350°F for 30 minutes. Serves four to six.

This is the final article on the four food groups. I hope you are eating right as a result of these articles so you can enjoy your springtime activities.

Proclamation

"Texas Libraries--Check Us Out!"

With this as their theme, Texas libraries are issuing a special invitation to all Texans to visit their local libraries during Library Week in Texas on April 5 through April 11.

Public libraries and libraries in academic institutions from kindergartens through graduate schools offer a wide variety of materials for information, education, and recreation. Linked together by networks and systems, libraries of all sizes offer their users a wider variety of materials and services than ever before.

At a time when Texans need information more than ever, libraries are seeking to provide this information. And libraries make the search for information a pleasant experience. The materials that libraries provide stretch the imagination and inspire new ways of looking at old problems.

From the child who is just learning how to read to the experienced scholar, Texans of all ages, educational levels, and interests can enrich their lives by using the state's libraries.

THEREFORE, I, as Governor of Texas, do hereby designate the week of April 5-11, 1981 as LIBRARY WEEK in Texas, and urge all Texans to visit their libraries during that week.

In official recognition whereof, I hereby affix my signature this 10th day of February, 1981

Double Ring Ceremony Unites Petross, Liles

Connie Lu Liles of Abilene became the bride of Stanley M. Petross, also of Abilene, in a double ring ceremony Saturday, April 4th, at 4 p.m. in the First Baptist Church of Haskell. The Rev. Danny Woolridge of Baird officiated in the candlelight services.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Liles of Haskell. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. M.E. Petross of Bangs.

Upon entering the church, guests were greeted by Teresa Turner of Haskell who registered them at a round table covered with an apricot cloth, overdraped with white embroidered silk voile. A crystal vase holding apricot silk carnations with baby's breath along with a white plume pen, decorated the registry table.

Within the sanctuary, a large candle stand decked with greenery was highlighted by side spiral candelabras. In the center was an archway of white candles with an overlay of greenery accented with two white love birds. Beneath the archway was the Unity Candle. Two large gold baskets of live Apricot gladiolas and greenery sat on the outer sides of the spiral candelabras.

Central front pews were decorated with large apricot satin bows.

Lighting the white candles was Blake Liles of Haskell, a cousin of the bride. He wore a toast brown tuxedo with brown velvet trimming, a white ruffled shirt and brown bow tie. His boutonniere was an apricot silk carnation.

Randy Reeves of Sweetwater and Phillip Stocks of Haskell seated guests. They wore identical tuxedos of toast brown with brown velvet trimming, white ruffled shirts and brown bow ties. Boutonnieres were apricot silk carnations.

The organist was Mrs. Carl Bailey of Haskell who played the traditional wedding music before and during the ceremony.

Rosemary Brown of Haskell, soloist for the ceremony, sang "The Wedding Song," "The Lord's Prayer," and "The Twelfth of Never" accompanied by Mrs. Nelda Lane at the Organ.

Escorted and given by her father, the bride wore an all white gown of French organza and chantilly lace designed by Mari Lee of New York. It featured a Queen Ann neckline set in a chantilly princess bodice, delicately beaded. The all-lace bishop sleeves were enhanced by the lace cuffs with mushroom pleated ruffles at the wrist. The A-line organza skirt draped softly to a scalloped chantilly border over a wide accordin pleated ruffle. The skirt flowed gracefully to a chapel length train, topped by a keyhole on the bodice.

The bride chose for her headpiece a chantilly Juliet cap with a double layer of bridal illusion with a border of chantilly lace and a rolled edge. Her tiered, finger-tip veil also featured seed pearls.

The bridal bouquet was a cascade of live apricot roses and white carnations interspersed with baby's breath and greenery, streamed with apricot and frost satin peccore ribbons tied in love knots.

For "something old" she wore a gold bracelet belonging to her great grandmother, Mrs. Jim Free of Haskell; for "something borrowed" earrings belonging to her grandmother, Mrs. Bill Liles of Haskell. Her "something new" was a diamond necklace belonging to her mother, Mrs. Wayne Liles. Connie had a blue garter for "something blue" and a sixpence in her shoe for luck given her by Mrs. W.A. Lyles of Haskell.

Margie Liles, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Lynn Bragg of Abilene and Tamala Drinnon of Lubbock. All wore identical gowns of Cocoa Lusterglo Knit and Chiffon, designed by Joytime. The one spaghetti strap formed a cold shoulder over a full circular skirt. A side draping chiffon capelet completed the formal look. Bridesmaids carried a long stemmed single apricot silk rose with satin apricot streamers. They wore a circlet of tiny white flowers with touches of the bride's other colors and apricot satin ribbon in their hair.

The groom, dressed in white formal tails with white ruffled shirt and white silk cornation boutonniere, choose as best man his brother, Doug Petross of Boerne. Groomsman were Steve Riffle of Little Rock, Ark., and Phillip Sheffield of Midland. All wore toast brown tuxedos with brown velvet trim, white ruffled shirts and brown bow ties. Boutonnieres were of apricot silk carnations.

Mrs. Wayne Liles, mother of the bride chose a muted floral long gown of green silk with spaghetti straps and a long sleeved ruffled jacket. Mrs. M.E. Petross, mother of the groom, wore a long soft pink gown with a muted floral capelet to match. Both mothers wore corsages of white silk carnations.

Immediately following the ceremony was the reception in the Chapel, hosted by the bride's parents. It was catered by Sue's Photography and Floral of Haskell.

Silk Lily of the Valley garlands and bridal lamps with white votive candles decorated the chapel. The reception table was covered with a floor length white Quiana Knit with white tulle overlay with each corner draped and tied with apricot and frost satin bows. The appointments were crystal and silver. A crystal cornucopia filled with an arrangement of silk apricot and frost flowers and holding two apricot candles was the table's centerpiece.

A large three-tiered white wedding cake decorated with soft apricot roses and a top of wedding bells and love birds was served with apricot colored punch. White chocolate mints and nuts were compliments to the cake and punch.

Betsy Langford and Lisa Teague, both of Haskell, cut and served the cake. Camin Pittman laddled the punch.

The bridegroom's parents hosted the rehearsal dinner at City Cafe in Haskell.

Nieces of the bridegroom handed out rice bags of white tied with apricot ribbon at the reception.

The bride is a graduate of Haskell High School and attended American Commercial College in Abilene.

The bridegroom is a Bangs

High School graduate and attended San Angelo University; U.T. of Austin; and S.W.T.U. of San Marcos. He is employed by Greyhound Bus Lines in Abilene.

Following a wedding trip to Colorado, the couple will reside at 2121 N. 6th 128A, Abilene.

Garden Series Offers Complete Tips

To many of us, gardening simply means growing tomatoes. A few tomato plants in the backyard garden can be a fascinating and rewarding adventure or they can be a disaster. Sickly tomato plants which produce few, if any fruit, certainly do not help the gardening spirit. Some simple advice might help those growing tomatoes for the first time and perhaps even increase yields and satisfaction for you experienced gardeners.

First, you should not attempt to grow tomatoes unless they can be placed in an area that receives sunlight at least six hours a day. They will grow with less light but simply will not produce much of a crop if placed between tall shrubs, beneath trees or between buildings.

Secondly, soil that has been well prepared and properly fertilized is essential for good growth and high yields. Poor soils can be improved with liberal amounts of organic matter and proper fertilization. A dark, heavy clay or even a fine sand can be improved by working 3 to 4 inches of organic matter and a small amount of fertilizer such as 10-20-10 or 12-24-12 into the area where your tomatoes are to be planted.

Variety selection is of utmost importance and is one of the keys to growing tomatoes successfully in Haskell County. Spring Giant, Big Set, Better Boy or Bonus or the small-fruited Small Fry are excellent for this area.

Transplanting guidelines discussed earlier certainly apply for tomatoes. Something that you should do is use a starter solution when planting tomatoes to insure adequate fertility during early stages of growth. Starter solutions can be purchased at local garden centers or they can be made at home by mixing one or two level tablespoonfuls of a complete fertilizer in a gallon of water. Pour about a cup or so of the starter solution into the transplant hole prior to planting.

For best results set transplants in your garden on cloudy days or late in the afternoon. Space plants at least 3 feet apart in the row and 3 to 4 feet apart between rows. Protect plants from adverse conditions such as high wind and excessive heat for a week or so after transplanting.

Stake, trellis or cage all tomato varieties for best results. I highly recommend using cages to support plants. Cages are nothing more than cylinders of concrete reinforcing wire, hog wire or similar material used to support plants and keep fruit off the ground. Make the cylinders 18 to 20 inches in diameter and from 2½ to 5 feet tall. Concrete reinforcement wire is readily available and is generally considered best for tomato cages. It usually comes in 5-foot widths, and a 5½-foot length will make a tomato cage about 18 inches in diameter. The cage can be held together by bending or crimping the wire ends around one of the vertical wires.

Place cages over plants shortly after transplanting. One plant per cage is recommended. To provide support, cut off the bottom ring of the cage so the ends can be pushed into the ground. You may want to support cages with wooden or metal stakes to keep them from falling over later in the season. The great thing about caging is that plants are allowed to grow naturally within cages. No pruning or suckering of plants is necessary.

Another advantage of cages is that they can be used to protect plants from cold temperatures or high winds. If the weather looks bad, take a plastic trashbag and put it over the cage. For a greenhouse effect, use a light-colored bag. The top of the bag can be closed in case of a late cold snap. When good weather occurs, remove the bag.

You might also try using "pot method" of fertilizing your tomatoes. Bury a planting pot, coffee can or similar container between each plant. Make sure the lip of the pot or container is above ground and that it will drain well. This may mean punching holes in the bottom or side of the container. As soon as you can find the first small tomatoes, apply one level tablespoonful of garden fertilizer in each container and fill it with water. Allow the water to drain and fill with water again. Apply fertilizer about once every 7-10 days. This will supply the plant with sufficient fertility to maintain good fruit size and high yields throughout the harvest season. Since this is a method of fertilizing tomatoes and not watering them, you still need to water as required during the season.

This method of growing tomatoes also works well for peppers and eggplants. It may sound like a lot of trouble, but it is suggested you give it a try this spring. You may grow tomatoes like you've never grown them before.

Next time we'll talk about an ever-occurring problem—weeds—and what to do about them.

Stamford To Host Dallas Production

The Dallas Theater Center production of "To Kill A Mockingbird" will tour to Stamford on April 25. The stage adaptation of the Harper Lee novel will play at the High School Auditorium at 7:30 p.m.

"...Mockingbird," written in the early 1960's, is the powerful yet poignant story about bigotry in the small southern town of Maycomb, Alabama. It is set during the depression and focuses on a quiet, strong southern lawyer who defends a wrongly accused black man as the lawyer's young children observe.

Director Robyn Flatt and the Dallas Theater Center cast have adapted the story to the demands of the stage, retaining the primary qualities of the novel as much as possible.

Director Flatt commented: "It would be easy to create a theatrical monster out of the novel because there are many characters and many locations. Tons of scenery would bog down the show so much that the simple story would take hours to perform. The challenge is to translate the eloquent simplicity of the novel to the stage in such a way that the flow of the story and the focus of the characters are not lost.

"The actors speak directly to the audience, describing the situation, the location and the characters. They then assume the roles of these characters. Thornton Wilder's 'Our Town' is a familiar example of this type of theater.

The Dallas Theater Center tour is made possible in part through support of the Texas Commission on the Arts and the National Endowment for the Arts, a Federal Agency, Washington, D.C.

"To Kill A Mockingbird" is sponsored locally by Stamford Drama Department. Tickets priced at $3.00 for adults and $2.00 for students are available at the High School Principal's Office, phone # 773-2701, or the Superintendent's office, phone # 773-2705.

Hydrant Markers In Use By Fire Dept.

Haskell is using blue, reflective, highway markers to help locate fire hydrants, reducing the delay and confusion caused by darkness, fog, obstruction, or just plain unfamiliarity.

The Stimsonite Fire-Lite hydrant spotters, manufactured by the Signal Products Division of Amerace Corporation, are placed in the middle of the road in line with the hydrant, so the apparatus drivers can see the hydrant location far in advance. The raised marker reflects the oncoming headlights and can be spotted at least one-quarter of a mile away.

Easy to install on roadways by firemen, the marker has a self-adhesive pad. Before installation, a special primer is applied to make the strongest bond possible. This makes the markers very difficult to remove either by vandals or straying vehicles.

Knowing exactly where the fire hydrant is enables the driver to maintain proper speed, allowing the hoseman to dismount and make an immediate hook-up while the driver continues into position to battle the fire. The result is the goal of every firefighter: to get water on the blaze in the shortest possible time.

The system is designed after the pavement marking method recognized and used by the Federal Highway Administration and many state highway departments.

The only difference is color. While crystal, amber and red are the standard highway colors, the hydrant markers are a distinct brilliant blue.

The success of the hydrant spotters in California communities has kindled interest in other cities and fire departments throughout the country.

INSTALLING HYDRANT MARKERS

Superintendent's Views

BY JAMES LANIER
Superintendent, Haskell ISD

(This column concludes the series on the property tax. I hope the series has been informative to you, the taxpayer.)

Q: Doesn't the new Property Tax Code provide a form of initiative and referendum?

A: Yes. Beginning in 1982, if the tax rate adopted by a particular local government exceeds the maximum tax rate calculated under the truth-in-taxation law by more than five percent, the voter may, by petition, call an election to roll back the tax rate to a five percent increase.

The tax rate calculated for truth-in-taxation purposes, in essence, is a rate which would produce the same amount of operating revenue that the particular jurisdiction levied in the prior year. Any increase in values due to revaluation or change in the assessment ration automatically triggers a proportional change downward in the tax rate for truth-in-taxation purposes.

To give an illustration, if a school district were to revalue all property with a resulting average increase in value of 100 percent, the tax rate could be cut in half and the same total revenue as last year still be produced.

Q: I was told that my house must this year be assessed at 100 percent of its value because of the new Property Tax Code. Won't this cause an increase in my taxes?

A: For many years, after jurisdiction determined the full value of all property, many then elected to tax that property on a percentage of its value. The problem with so-called fractional assessment, however, was that many taxpayers did not know the true value on which their property was being assessed. For example, if a jurisdiction formerly had a 50 percent assessment ration and a tax rate of $1, the total taxes on a $50,000 home would have been $250. With elimination of assessment ratios in 1981, the jurisdiction could cut its tax rate to 50c per $100 valuation and the total tax on the $50,000 home, used in our example would still be $250. Elimination of the assessment ration will result in no local tax increase if jurisdictions which formerly used a ration adjust their tax rate downward to the extent that the assessment ration increased to reach 100 percent.

Q: Where can I turn for additional information on my property taxes?

A: You may contact your local tax assessors; or, if you are a resident of one of approximately 30 counties which implemented their countywide appraisal districts in 1981 under local inter-governmental contract, you may also contact the district's

Funny or Unfunny

Because the federal government has an apparently never-ending source of money from taxes, and borrowing, or printing, it seems no more concerned over defaulted debts owed the U.S.

According to the Office of Management and Budget, a staggering $175 billion is owed the government, of which $47 billion is currently due, and $25 billion is long overdue. A recent OMB report estimates debt losses as high as $9 billion. The losses from defaulted loans would pay all the operating costs of the Justice and State departments, the Congress, and still leave $500 million left over.

Bike Safety Saves Lives

The Texas Department of Public Safety has learned that times are changing. No one will contest the fact that heavy traffic clogs streets and sometimes bloodies highways. Last year over 4,000 died on Texas highways.

There was a time when a boy could ride a bicycle backwards down the middle of almost any main street in Texas without worrying about being run over. Many people are alive today who did this or saw it in their childhood.

Today it's not safe for a youngster to ride frontwards down any of Texas suburban or rural streets. Due to the great increase in traffic, bicycles have almost become a hazard to themselves. The very qualities that make them ideal for short distance transportation, such as their lightness and maneuverability add to the hazard.

The rider is too vulnerable. A small pebble can throw a child off balance and into the path of an automobile. In the hands of a child who doesn't understand the danger of the situation tragedy could occur at any instant.

Children should be made aware that there are certain rules they must obey. A child should form behavior patterns while riding a bike that will be he will graduate to a responsible motorist.

Today traffic laws apply to bicycles as well as cars and trucks. This is a fatal fact that is often forgotten by young cyclists. It may behoove parents to set safety standards in their own driving habits, because what adults do really makes a strong impression on a child.

The Texas Department of Public Safety urges both motorists and cyclists to begin this 1981 Spring by driving defensively. That is the only way we can live with the law.

We're proud to give you more!

Letters To The Editor

Dear editor:

As one who knew him and the good works he did, I regret the passing of Stanley Furr. He was truly a rock when I needed encouragement, a true friend. He served faithfully on the board of directors all the time I have worked for the Federal Housing Authority. His advice was wise, his support appreciated and his encouragement an absolute necessity to me. There are many other facets of him that I don't know--but in those areas I do know Stanley served well. He'll be missed, and with deep sorrow I note how he'll be missed by his dear wife who he was devoted to. If someone would aspire to be a civic servant they would do well to "walk where he walked and do what he did." A truly good person, and friend.

Jo Iva Long
Administrator:
Haskell Housing Authority

Dear editor:

With a great deal of regret and sorrow we noted the passing from this life of Rex Felker. We would like all of his survivors and friends to know that Rex was highly regarded as a friend of Haskell and its commerce. A gifted writer, he wrote of the country and city he loved in his book on Haskell County. For many years he served faithfully as director of the Haskell Chamber of Commerce. The results of his work can be seen by the absence of empty buildings in the city during his tenure, the establishment of industry, the growth of established business and industry alike. He loved the rodeo excitement, he loved to see people having fun. There are so many areas where he will be missed, and we surely do already. To others, we proudly say, "You go and do what he did and you'll do well." Haskell has lost a friend, and we regret the loss.

Window Blinds Save Energy

A new window blind may save up to 75 percent of the energy required to heat a home during an average heating season, Jane Berry, a housing and home furnishings specialist, reports.

Development of a Reflective Insulating Blind (RIB) by researchers at Oak Ridge National Laboratory has the potential for converting sunlight into a plentiful and practical source of home heat, she adds.

Dr. Berry is on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the Texas A&M University System.

Researchers, working with support from the Department of Energy, say they believe the RIB could save up to 75 percent of the energy required during an average heating season.

The unit, mounted on the inside of a south-facing window just behind the window glass--and operating much like the traditional venetian blind, serves as a solar reflector and insulator, Dr. Berry says.

In other words, it brings heat into the home by acting as solar reflector inward, and it stores that heat inside the home by acting as an insulator, the specialist explains.

Of the projected maximum savings, about two-thirds result from the space-heating effect of incoming sunlight. The other one-third is from reduced nighttime heat losses through large south-facing windows--the insulating part of the blind's job.

A RIB unit has 3 1/2-inch slats which completely cover the window area.

On winter days, sunlight strikes the reflective surface of the curved slats, they divert it to the ceiling, and energy from the warmed ceiling surface radiates downward to heat the room.

In addition to the heating gain, ceiling illumination also reduces the need for artificial lighting, and RIB provides a less-obstructed outside visibility than conventional venetian blinds.

Curvature of RIB slats allows almost day-long solar heat collections without frequent changes in the slant, too.

During winter nights, the slats in closed position form an insulating shutter which greatly decreases heat loss through the window, Dr. Berry continues.

In the summertime, RIB slats will position to reflect sunlight to the outside--resulting in a cooler room and reduced air-conditioning loads.

Until recently, the value of "passive solar residential design"--particularly large south-facing windows to capture and make use of the sun's energy--had not been put to use because other forms of energy have been easy-to-get and low-cost.

Also, entry of sunlight through south-facing windows resulted in glare, fading and deterioration of textile furnishings and wood finishes--along with overheating. Other problems were nighttime heat losses and increased cooling loads for air-conditioning during summer months.
